City Receives Check For February Rebate

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said this week that Texas cities will receive more than $36 million in February in rebates from the optional one-percent city sales tax.

Bullock said the February allocation is about $11 million more than cities received during the same period last year.

He said more efficient deposit procedures in his agency have resulted in larger rebate checks to cities during the past few months.

Muleshoe's share of the rebate is $9,235.65, down slightly from the $10,713.18 for the same time last year, but an overall one percent increase for the year. Payments to date for 1980 total $15,746.51, compared to $15,552.28 during the same period last year.

Morton also had an 81 percent increase for the year to date. They received a check for $5,043.25 compared to $2,344.20 for the same period a year ago. Their payments for the year total $6,463.72, compared to $3,552.39 during the same period a year ago.

Rebates for Littlefield dropped by four percent for the year with a rebate check of $13,968.36, compared to $16,688.33 for a year ago. Their payments to date are $21,128.77, compared to the $22,171.76 during this time last year.

From Friona, the rebate check was $6,341.96, as compared to the $5,179.43 received during this time last year. This is a 23 percent increase for the year with payments to date of $9,573.12, as compared to the $7,777.61 for this period in 1979.

Dallas will get a check for $4.6 million, bringing that city's total for 1980 to about $7.3 million.

Houston's rebate for this month will be $7.3 million, compared to $5.4 million during the same period last year. Houston's 1980 rebates total more than $12.4 million.

San Antonio will receive a February check for $1.8 million, raising that city's 1980 payments to date to $3.2 million.

Fort Worth's check will be $1.5 million, bringing that city's 1980 payments to date to $2.4 million. The city sales tax is

Disco Set Saturday At Coliseum

Right on the heels of the successful Valentine Disco, another disco is scheduled for Saturday night, 8 p.m.-midnight at the Bailey County Exhibition Center and Coliseum.

YAC vice president Wayne Holmes said the disco will again feature Bear Enterprises from Portales, who are proving to be highly recommended by the youth who are attending the local discos.

Tickets will be $2 for singles and $3 for couples. "It was a real ball," was the general consensus following the Valentine Disco.

Several special prizes were given during the evening, including a box of candy to Suzette Rojas; K.K. Flowers, dinner for two at the Corral Restaurant; and free passes to Michael Lopez, Cathy Lopez, Cathy Lopez, Sean Shipman, Ray Vinson, Kevin Manasco and Jeff Vinson.

WPMC Nurses

Staff Offer

To Give Prizes

At this time, the staff at West Plains Medical Center is selling tickets at $1 each on an Afghan donated by Louise Roark and an 18x24 oil painting contributed by Mattie Hicks.

Funds were to be used for a microwave oven for the nurses' station lounge and a Doptone for the OB area. A Doptone is an instrument used to monitor fetal heart tones.

Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Galyon contributed a microwave oven to the nurses at the Nursing Home, so the funds which had been earmarked for that microwave oven will be used for other needed equipment.

The drawing is scheduled for 10 a.m. on Friday, February 29.

Students Ready For Read-A-Thon At Mary DeShazo

The Multiple Sclerosis READ-A-Thon, a nationwide program where elementary school children read books to help find the cure for MS, will be held again in Muleshoe on February 22 to March 21. Xi Omicron Xi, Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, is sponsoring the event.

An assembly program for children enrolled at Mary DeShazo Elementary School, will be held tomorrow, Friday, February 22. The READ-A-Thon will be explained to the students by Mrs. Nancy Hamrin, executive director of the South Plains Chapter of MS in Lubbock. READ-A-Thon kits will be distributed at that time to the students.

Multiple Sclerosis is a mysterious crippling of young adults, according to a Xi Omicron Xi speaker. She added, "By children joining the READ-A-Thon, they become Mystery Sleuths and read for the need of others."

"In this way, they help themselves by reading lots of books and at the same time, help find a cure for Multiple Sclerosis by collecting pledges by sponsors."

"This money helps provide wheelchairs, walkers, crutches, and other patient services for patients here in the South Plains of Texas. Money goes to the MS Clinic at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock as well as supporting research."

The MS READ-A-Thon has the support of the International Reading Association and the U.S. Office of Education's Right to Read program.

"Please encourage your child to become a Mystery Sleuth and read for the need of others," concluded the Xi Omicron Xi member.

Speaker Is Honored At Monday Dinner

Bill Clayton, who has served in the House of Representatives since 1962, and as Speaker of the House since 1975, was honored by citizens of Bailey and Parmer Counties in Friona Monday night.

For the past 12 days, the representative has been under a cloud, after the Federal Bureau of Investigations reported Clayton had been checked in a 'Brillab' operation and had been accused of taking a $5,000 bribe.

During the Monday night meeting, the representative from Springlake was introduced by District Attorney Jack Young, who commented, "I am introducing a man who needs no introduction. He is a good, close, personal friend."

Speaker Clayton quickly exhibited a keen sense of humor before getting down to serious and patriotic discussion. He acknowledged all the news media in the audience which included representatives from three Amarillo television stations and at least one major daily newspaper, along with representatives from small weekly and bi-weekly newspapers and radio stations.

He commented, "I see we have local television stations represented from Friona, Bovina and Muleshoe and believe Farwell, Clay's Corner, and Hub were to be represented, but I believe the snow must have kept them away."

Then he gave his itinerary for the rest of the week, which included a busy week of speaking engagements. He said he was giving his itinerary for the benefit of the news media so they could keep up with him easier.

In his own words, Clayton then reflected back over the last number of years that he has served as representative. "I look at things that have happened that we have been a part of, the good we have seen, and the changes we have seen in this part of the state. I believe we have accomplished a lot during the year. Looking back to 1962 and at the progress that has been made, I can say it has been good."

Clayton swung into a patriotic speech, and talked about some things he said was tearing down the moral fiber of the state and nation.

"It is time we all rose together," he said, "and stand shoulder to shoulder, hand in hand to protect our freedoms."

While speaking to the crowd of nearly 200 persons in the Friona High

Sporty Looks Big For 80's

For example, more cosmetics will be dual purpose -- good for skin care and appearance.

Sporty looks will be big for the 80's.

People involved in keeping fit will make active sportswear important throughout the decade, and the sporty look will influence fashion in general along the way.

TIME* RULES FACTORS

Time management and government regulations will make their mark on the 80's fashions, too.

Technology will promote faster, easier ways to anything -- even use home computers to scan wardrobe needs, program the laundry or order merchandise.

Government rules will keep an eye on safety and health, and that will make prices rise -- to pay for enforced testing and environmental control.

More products will be recalled, such as cosmetic ingredients and fabric finishes.

'CHANGE' GUARANTEED

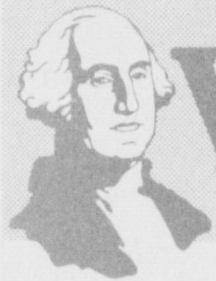

All in all, the only guarantee for 1980's fashion trends is "change," as the next decade sees the world searching for the "individual," for more energy and for improved economic conditions.

Southwestern Foods Indian Heritage

COLLEGE STATION Southwestern foods trace much of their heritage to the Indians, says Dr. Rose Tindall Postel, a foods and nutrition specialist.

Blended with spicy touches added by the Spanish, the foods became the multitude of flavorful and hearty dishes typical of Southwestern cooking today, she adds.

Dr. Postel is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Southwestern predominantly farmers who raised large crops of maize, squash, beans, melons and pumpkins.

Unlike other agricultural tribes from the various regions of the United States, the men, rather than the women, of the Southwest tribes did the farm labor.

Hunting for wild game was for sport, and most meat was obtained by trading with tribes who hunted buffalo on the Great Plains.

Thus, meats were used sparingly - most were buffalo, rabbit and some wild turkey.

Corn was hand-ground between rough stones, and the bread was baked in outdoor dome-shaped ovens typical of the pueblos, or Southwestern Indian villages.

In addition to these farm-grown products, the Indians used fruits and seeds of plants native to the region.

Fruit of the prickly pear cactus, beans of the wild mesquite and nuts from the pinon pine were some.

Mesquite beans were pounded into flour, mixed with water to form a dough, shaped into tiny, thin cakes and sun baked. Pinon cakes were made by the same method.

Pinole was made from dried maize, mesquite beans, parched corn and water. On some occasions meat jerky was pounded into bits and added to the mixture to make stew.

These foods may seem dull and bland, but add the influence of the Spanish, who brought garlic, onions, peppers, tomatoes, highly seasoned sausage, citrus fruits and spices, and you have today's exciting Southwestern cuisine.

Family Violence Can Be Contagious

Family violence is worse than a world war. War casualties never ran 100 percent. But in some families the venom of violence spills onto everyone. As one example Dad would beat Mom or would thrash the kids who in later years would abuse Dad. Or in some cases everyone attacks simultaneously. Such battles often come and go for years.

Increasing concern about battered wives and abused children has led to formation of some governmental and private programs to help them. But in aiding these victims of violence, researchers and social workers found that women and children often were just the most obvious casualties in a society that has more than 12 million husbands attacked by wives and one out of five parents either physically or psychologically abused by children, according to 1977-78 estimates from researchers. Add these figures to a 1977 estimate of one million cases of child abuse and a large number of abused wives and you have a full-scale war that is fought in many small battles with tactics ranging from neglect to murder. No one is sure about actual statistics because many cases of abuse are never reported. But confirmed statistics from the Federal Bureau of Investigation show that 25 percent of all murders are committed between family members. Figures such as these hint of the extent of the problems between family members.

Not everyone is an attacker in some violent families. But some passive victims later abuse parents or children. About half of adult children who abuse elderly parents were themselves victims of abuse by parents.

Learned behavior is not the only reason for abuse by a family member. Financial problems, unresolved arguments and alcohol misuse are just a few of the reasons that help trigger violence.

Victims of violence, especially abused parents and battered husbands, may be ashamed or afraid to report the problem. They are hidden from help even more than battered wives and children. Wives and children may also be hesitant to report abuse but women and children increasingly have resources to turn to and sometimes their injuries are too serious to hide.

In a conference on family violence held at a recent American Medical Association meeting in San Antonio, doctors were told that they need to be willing to help patients if violence in a family is suspected. Victims of violence, which can range from incest to verbal torment, need to know that help is available. Conference leaders urged physicians to tell victims that they should not feel guilty or ashamed about abuse but that they should seek help because the violence rarely stops and usually gets worse.

Sources of help include the state's Child Abuse Hotline which has a toll-free number, 1-800-292-5400. The hotline makes referrals to many groups including child and family service outreach centers which provide many types of assistance. Another resource is battered women's centers in about 17 cities. These centers often give counseling and shelter to battered women and some centers help women from surrounding areas also. Parents Anonymous has about 11 groups in the state. To contact this group, which offers help for parents who abuse children, check the phone book or call their toll-free national number, 1-800-421-0353. The Department of Human Resources has offices in many towns and can offer help and referrals for many types of problems. Call information or look in the phone book under "State of Texas" offices. Many areas have telephone counseling and referral services that also can help.

School cafeteria, Clayton only touched briefly on the scheduled appearance before a federal grand jury next month. He said his attorney had told him now to speak out on the contention by the FBI that he has accepted a bribe.

However, he did comment, "I have had a million dollars worth of publicity during the last two weeks, but I didn't ask for it, and didn't want it."

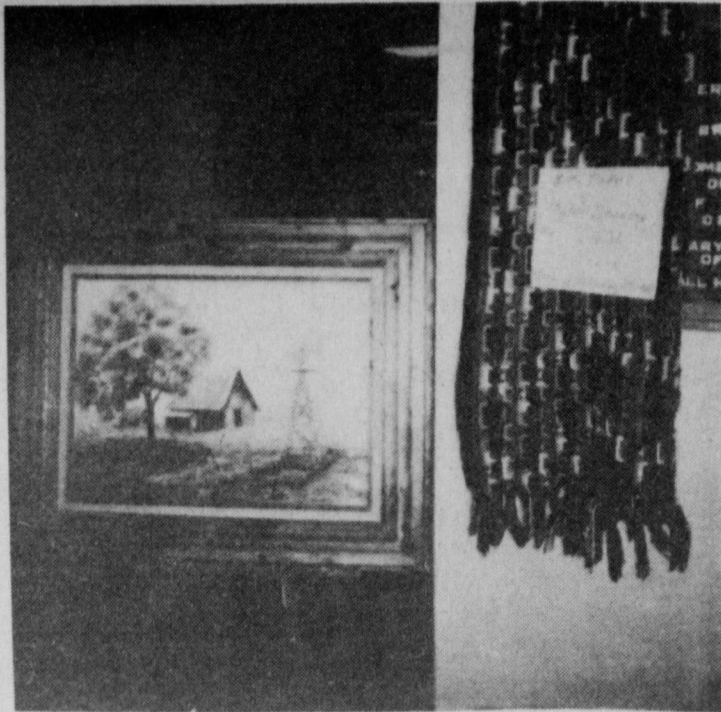

He added, "They've run into an old country boy, and I'll fight them right to the last. As long as you're with us, as long as the good Lord is with us, we're going to win. We're going to keep on plugging."

Co-chairman of the Bill Clayton Appreciation Dinner were Nelda Merriott, District Court Clerk and Bill Ellis, Publisher of the Friona Star and Bovina Blade.

Elected officials from both the counties attended the dinner, along with a large number of private citizens.

The FBI has alleged that an undercover agent, accompanied by a Houston labor leader had left $5,000 with Bill Clayton during a meeting in Clayton's office on November 8. It was alleged further that the money was a 'down payment' of some $600,000 promised to Clayton if he should run for governor of the state.

Although Clayton said he did not return the $5,000 during the meeting to avoid embarrassing a friend, he did have the money locked in a safe to return to the friend, L. G. Moore. Moore accompanied an undercover FBI agent, Joseph Hauser, who allegedly left the cash with Clayton. An envelope with $5,000 in $100 bills has since been turned over to the Justice Department. According to the Justice Department, who made the investigation, the $600,000 was to be used to influence Clayton 'and others' to obtain a state insurance contract for state employees.

Clayton contends he did not return the money during the meeting but did plan to return it at a later time. According to Justice Department officials, the meeting between Clayton, the labor official and the FBI agent, had been recorded.

Coenzyme Q and the heart

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Increasing the heart's ability to pump blood — and thereby sustain energy — is one of the findings University of Texas researchers have made about coenzyme Q, a vitamin-like substance which exists naturally in the human body.

The UT study also has found that coenzyme Q protects the hearts of cancer patients against the cardiotoxicity of a cancer drug (adriamycin) without lessening the drug's ability to fight tumors.

The coenzyme Q study has been made by UT Austin's Institute for Biomedical Research and the UT Health Center at Tyler.

Interest Growing In Fuel Alcohol

Dr. Steven R. Beck of Texas Tech University's chemical engineering faculty, told Texas Senators Tuesday (Feb. 5) that farm production of alcohol can increase agricultural income. But the ultimate economy will be in adapting both gasoline and diesel driven engines to run entirely on alcohol.

Beck testified before the Texas Senate Committee on Gasohol meeting in Lubbock.

He said the goal of Texas Tech researchers is to develop a process to produce fuel ethanol at less than $150 per gallon and preferably at $1.10 to $1.20 per gallon.

"A farmer cooperative venture could easily operate a one million gallon per year distillery and produce 200 proof ethanol," he said. Although on the High Plains the real potential for alcohol production lies in crop residue, Beck said, the proposed cooperative was evaluated using grain sorghum as the feedstock.

It was assumed that sorghum would cost $4 per hundredweight. The distillers' grain would have a value of $110 per ton and the carbon dioxide produced in the process could be sold to oil companies for recovery of additional crude at $40 per ton.

"If 100 percent equity financing was used," Beck said, "anhydrous ethanol would have to be sold at $1.49 per gallon to yield a 15 percent rate of return on the investment. The current selling price in Illinois is $1.72 per gallon."

He said that farmers could be in for disappointment in gasohol production because, to sell ethanol for blending with gasoline, it must be water-free. This requires complex processing that the individual cannot accomplish easily. Most farm stills, Beck said, produce 140 to 190 proof ethanol, often at less than $1 per gallon. "Construction of farm stills to produce 25 to 500 gallons per day of 140 to 190 proof ethanol should be encouraged," Beck told the committee. "These can be operated by existing farm labor at low cost, and the ethanol from these small stills could be dried at a central dehydrating facility."

He pointed out that construction and operation of dehydrating facilities creates an opportunity for entrepreneurs that has not been filled at this time but, without such facilities, many farmers could be highly disappointed.

He said a second solution would be to eliminate the dehydration step by discovering methods for using 140-190 proof ethanol as fuel.

Beck said the Texas Tech research team is studying two approaches for this. One is to find a suitable chemical that would prevent water separation when 190 proof ethanol is blended with hydrocarbons. The second approach, "and perhaps the better one," is to adapt an engine to use only alcohol.

"In the case of spark-ignited engines, this should be relatively easy to accomplish," he said. "In diesel engines a lubricant, such as vegetable oil, will be required."

Beck urged research funding for more study and said "the federal and state governments have a responsibility to encourage power ethanol production."

Committee Named To Choose Books

Neal B. Dillman, superintendent of Muleshoe Schools, announces the selection of the local textbook committee, approved by the Muleshoe School Board. This committee will evaluate and recommend books to be adopted for use in the schools for 1980-81 school year.

Samples of these books are in the Curriculum Office and in the high school principal's office, so that interested citizens may evaluate these books before the final selections are made. The subject areas for which textbooks will be selected are Typewriting, Health Education, Computer Math, Civil Government and V.I.E. Automotive Trades, all high school level.

Members of the committee are Lucy Faye Smith, Johanna Wrinkle, Tom Smith, Nick Landers, Jean Allison, Bob Graves, Steve Taylor, Brenda Black, Wayland Ethridge, Fred Mardis, Bill Taylor, Milton Oyler, Elizabeth Watson and Neal B. Dillman.

Several members of the committee attended a Textbook Examination and Hearing Saturday, January 19, at Smylie Wilson Junior High in Lubbock. Publishers of the textbooks previewed the contents of the texts and made teachers aware of all supplementary materials that accompany the basal texts.

All teachers in high school are involved in making these selections and are encouraged to study and evaluate the books thoroughly.

The local textbook committee will meet Wednesday, February 27, at 4:00 p.m. in the curriculum office to make the final selection for Board approval.

7th Grade Lost Out To Morton

The 7th grade Mules basketball team ended their season in Morton Monday with 32 to 41 loss. The loss dropped the Mules team record to 4-8. Mark Moten was the high pointer man with 11 points and Hector Flores lead the team in rebounds with 8.

Coach Alan Cornelius commented,

"This years team has really been a team of ups and downs. We have shown signs of potentially being a fine team in the future. What seems to be lacking in this team is consistency in shooting and ball handling. The bright spot here is that both of these areas can be vastly improved upon with practice and dedication.

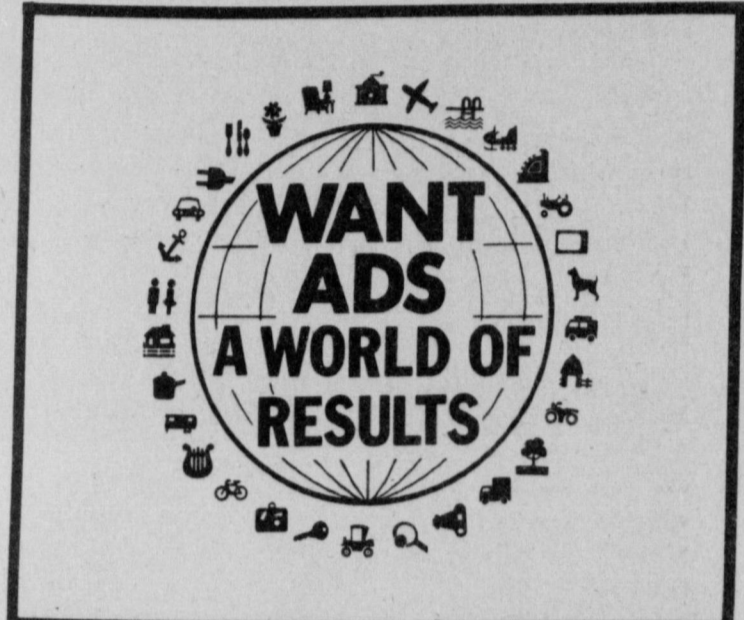

All of the team members contribute in some form this year and they should be recognized for their team unity and spirit. The team members include Mark Moten, Hector Flores, John Isaac, Joey Chancy, Ray Vinson, Chad Roberson, Michael Del Toro, Alan Finney, David Reid, Franky Sayago, Rob Donaldson, Eddie Perez, Terry Graves, Preston Scoggin, Chris Hopkins, Jeff Richards, Jerry Gleason Todd Jones, and James Whitecotton."

Crawfish crops are a good investment

COLLEGE STATION — Jambalaya and crawfish pie will be common dishes in Texas kitchens and restaurants once producers get into gear and a few more Lone Star palates sample this cross between lobster and shrimp, says Dr. Jim Davis.

Davis, an extension fisheries specialist at Texas A&M University, believes Texas will be the next great producer of crawfish in the United States, second only to the crustacean's native stomping grounds, Louisiana.

Centered in the southeastern part of Texas are some of the world's best breeding grounds for crawfish farming, Davis says. The reason, converted rice fields are magnificent places to farm crawfish.

This hybrid's record for consistency has made it one of the most popular hybrids on the High Plains. In 77 comparisons over the last four years against competitive hybrids, 3184 has shown an average yield of 183.7 bu./A. with a yield advantage of 14.3 bu./A. over competitors. Bred with outstanding drought tolerance, 3184 can adjust ear size and kernel depth to match growing conditions. And strong stalks keep 3184 standing straight for speedy harvest. It's just what High Plains farmers need in a dependable, high-yielding corn hybrid. And its maturity makes it a good companion for 3183.

Push this one for highest yields! In 43 comparisons on the High Plains in 1979, this hybrid averaged 192.1 bu./A. A sampling of yields from 1979 includes 216 bu./A. for Sheldon Rapp at Hooker, Oklahoma ... 210.4 bu./A. for Larry Kemp of Muleshoe ... and 196.7 bu./A. for Doyle Underwood at Dimmitt, Texas. 3183 has demonstrated very good standability and ear retention in this area. Excellent drought tolerance helps 3183 maintain outstanding consistency year after year. And it has been especially impressive on gray soils. Plant 3183 along with 3184. Spread genetic risks and get top performance, too.

Now is the time to book your corn seed for the coming year. With the High energy cost a farmer can't take a chance with the numbers game on which hybrid he will plant.

There are several things to consider when buying seed. A farmer wants a hybrid that is dependable year after year. Next, you want a hybrid that has a high germination and quality that is second to none.

Farmers should consider the local Results in his area before buying seed. Compare the price of seed and local results to see what hybrid will put the most money in your pocket. Sometimes you can't afford to plant the cheapest.

Politics, Foreign Policy

George Kennan, perhaps the most respected foreign policy expert in America, has warned that the current preoccupation with the Soviet military threat to the Persian Gulf tends to prevent recognition of the two greatest threats to U.S. security in the Middle East. They are, Kennan says, our self-created dependence on Arab oil and a wholly unstable Israeli-Arab relationship, resulting to some degree from U.S. foreign policy.

Kennan believes the Soviet military threat to the Persian oil fields is yet to be proven. It's possible Moscow moved against Afghanistan primarily because of the threat of a fanatic Moslem takeover there, similar to that in Iran.

Is the U.S., then, over-reacting? In election years, when political hay can be made by running against Russia, this has, in the past, occurred. No one can be certain of that at the moment. Certainly the Carter Administration didn't over react in the Iranian crisis. But it's prudent to keep in mind the possibility politics is involved. And surely the nation should at last face the two primary dangers Kennan points out.

Kennedy--1980 & 1984

The recent "restarting" of his presidential campaign by Senator Ted Kennedy at a Washington Catholic college (Georgetown) is of more political significance than meets the eye.

Kennedy had until then been soft-pedaling the far left philosophy he has been voting in the Senate for fifteen years. With the trend in the nation away from the big spending social programs of the LBJ days, and Democratic administrations in general, that had been deemed the wise course politically. After all, Kennedy had launched his nomination campaign when already far ahead in the polls. It was thought he would appeal to the middle-spectrum vote, and later stress the more liberal appeal.

But Iowa, Iran, campaign misstatements, and a lack of speaking charisma quickly dashed Kennedy optimism. Money suddenly became short and many began to desert the sinking ship. In that circumstance, Kennedy obviously had to gamble. He chose to come out strong as the far left liberal, even though the tide of public opinion is now running in the other direction. He had nothing more to lose in this race--and perhaps something to gain in 1984.

It's probably wrong to say, as some do, that Kennedy's Georgetown speech was the opening gun in a 1984 campaign, an admission of defeat in 1980. But it would be accurate to say that this is, at least, part of the long-term scenario, that even Kennedy's closest backers know that chances of winning in 1980 with a leftwing, liberal, big-spending approach are slight indeed.

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

New Hampshire-- Kennedy's Waterloo? Browns Out Of It-- Mrs. Carter's Staff.

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- The New Hampshire primary on the 26th may be Senator Ted Kennedy's last chance to remain a realistic candidate for the 1980 nomination. Beaten in Maine, after a major change of strategy and an all-out effort, where the governor supported him, the Senator is now in a must-win posture in New Hampshire.

He might continue his campaign if he loses in New Hampshire for one of two reasons--with an eye on 1984, or in the hope that President Carter will stumble badly between now and the summer. But a loss in New Hampshire will solidly stamp Kennedy a 1980 loser--and his entourage knows that, despite defiant words.

California Governor Edmund Brown Jr., whom none took seriously in the first place, is apparently out of it. The nation obviously isn't ready to elect a kook to the White House; thus his nomination would insure a Republican victory in November; as did George McGovern's in 1972.

Brown failed to get fifteen percent of the vote in Maine, which would have won him some delegates to the national convention. Yet he, too, claimed a great victory. Carter unquestionably won that great victory, by beating Kennedy in his own back yard.

Mrs. Carter now employs 21 staffers, at a cost to the taxpayer of $650,000 a year. Her staff director earns $56,000 a year.

The information was obtained by Republicans after Mrs. Carter's office refused to release it to reporters. It was said to be personal.

There are objections to the size of Mrs. Carter's staff because she was elected to no office. And the Carters, in the 1976 campaign, talked much about reducing the bureaucracy. In the three years since 1976, however, the size of the federal bureaucracy has been greatly expanded, and salaries--including those of the White House--have been raised four or five times.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
143 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Soviet tanks rolling into Afghanistan in December awakened our nation to the woeful state of our defense preparedness and brought forth renewal of our national resolve.

The Soviet presence in Afghanistan, and the accompanying danger to other non-aligned nations in Southwest Asia, still pose a serious threat to our national security -- but not the only one. Already we are beginning to hear the siren song to crawl back into our cocoon.

Some politicians now are telling us the Persian Gulf really isn't that vital to our interests after all. One presidential candidate has even suggested that the simple expediency of gas rationing would cancel our need to defend that area of the world.

The President finally -- and reluctantly -- asked Congress to delay the SALT II treaty in light of Russian adventurism. But it is the Administration's stated policy to act as though the treaty had been ratified.

After making much noise about a February deadline for declaring an Olympic boycott if Russian troops were still in Afghanistan, the Administration has said it may delay a decision until May.

Failure of our government to stick to its guns and mean what it has said in the past is a major cause of our current troubles in the world. Neither our allies nor our adversaries have believed we could be counted on to follow through on our commitments. A weakening of our resolve now would be the greatest threat to world peace I can imagine.

Unless the Soviet Union is convinced we will follow through on our announced intention to stop the Soviet land grab at the Afghan border, it may well decide to call our bluff. If our allies aren't convinced of our willingness to do what we say we will, how can we expect them to commit themselves to our course?

Soviet officials have become practiced in following their aggression with soft talk of peace and detente. Already, there are indications they will conduct a "peace offensive" to try to convince the U.S. and her allies that more military preparedness would be a mistake. And why shouldn't they? It's worked in the past.

But this time, the American people won't be fooled. The vast majority of our citizens realize now that we cannot maintain peace from a position of weakness, and we cannot count on the Soviet Union to act honorably. Now, we must make our voices heard, not only in Moscow, but also in Washington.

The Congress soon will begin working on the defense budget for next year. The President has recommended a 5 percent increase in real dollars. That is a start, but only a start. An initial assessment of our needs indicates we probably will need twice that increase.

At Muleshoe Junior High

MJHS Coaches Comments

Muleshoe 8th grade Mules finished the 1979-80 basketball season by falling to the Morton Indians 44-42, Monday night. It was the best effort of the season for Muleshoe in the hard fought contest. Morton won the 8th grade district in an undefeated season and had not been played within 10 points in either the 7th or 8th grade. The Mules won two trophies during the season, 2nd place at the Muleshoe tournament, and 3rd place at the Bovina tournament, and their overall season mark stood at 7 wins and 9 losses. Improvement became apparent late in the season and despite losing several close games, the possibility of a good basketball team for the future exists with the team. The potential is there, and how good this unit can be will be determined by the amount of dedication and off-season work each team member is willing to participate in.

Ronnie Jones Coach Brenda Scott commented, "The game against Morton is perhaps our best game of the season. We had several girls really hustling to get the ball down court for a shot. Lori did a real good job of driving in for lay-ups and drawing a foul nearly every time. Our free shots hurt us a lot in this game. We hit 4 out of 22 for 18 percent. If we could have made more freeshots, the score at the end would have been a lot different.

The game against Dimmitt was a very important victory for us. Dimmitt had not been beaten, but by one other team this year. Everyone did a very good job playing defense and this was one of our best games this year. Over all the entire game was good except for all the fouls committed. Dee Kinard played her best game for us against Dimmitt and scored 11 points as well as getting several rebounds and steals.

We still have a lot to work on to get ready for next year. Hopefully we will gain some confidence in ourselves, this by itself will be a big asset to our team.

We ended the season very well against Morton with a 42-20 victory. We cut down on our fouls and ran our press very well which helped to keep the ball on our end! We also did a good job hitting free shots.

Kelly Hamblen was high pointer for us with 15 points and she was very aggressive on the boards.

The only regrets I have in this being the last game. We have been continually improving and I wish we had several more games. The girls have done very well and they did not lose a game the second half of the district play. I have been very pleased and proud of the way they have worked together and I will be expecting them to do even better in the years to come for us in High School.

Students, Teachers Discuss Draft

The Jr. High Journalism staff made interviews throughout Jr. High concerning the reinstatement of the draft and having women drafted. Here are the 8th grade statistics:

Reinstatement of the draft: for 38 percent
against 62 percent
Women in the draft: for 33 percent
against 67 percent

Also they asked people to comment. Here are some of the comments: Mrs. Marr "I think we need the draft reinstated. Since the fight over the ERA, I think women have the responsibility to serve their country, although I don't think they should do the actual fighting." Candy Long, 8th: "I'm for the draft because we need it. The Soviet Union over powers us three times in military and man power. If we do go to war with the Soviets, we'll need all the people, men and women, to join in the fight against communism."

John Isaac, 7th: "I think women being drafted is terrific. Women wanted equal rights, so they got it."

Franky Sayago, 7th: "I think the draft is good. We will have alot more protection against other countries. We are going to show them who's the best."

Trent Hysinger, 8th: "I think that the draft is what the U.S. needs, but I don't think that they should draft women. They aren't strong enough as men. The draft is good because if we are on the verge of war with the Soviets, we are going to need all the protection we can get."

Mr. Mardis: "I think we should have the draft. I'm not in favor of drafting women, neither am I in favor of them participating in combat."

Sheri Bessire, 8th: "I don't think women should be drafted. I know the women's lib wanted equal rights, but it's gone to far!"

Mercedes Sayago, 8th: "If we are on the verge of war we should start preparing now."
