Gonzalez ends feud, quits

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Henry Gonzalez submitted his resignation as chairman of the House Assassinations Committee today in a feud with chief counsel Richard A. Sprague, whom he called an "unconscionable scoun-

The Texas Democrat wrote Speaker homas P. O'Neill he had no choice cumstances, but O'Neill's aides said the Speaker will not decide whether to accept the resignation until he talks to Gonzalez accused House leaders in the letter of being unwilling to support his efforts to fire Sprague.

The committee was established to investigate the killing of President John F. Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. It has weeks by the dispute between Gonzalez and Sprague, which emerged from the reluctance of House members to approve a $6.5-million-ayear budget Sprague requested.

"Yet, I cannot bring myself to sign pay vouchers for an unscrupulous individual, an unconscionable scoundrel, and no power on earth can compel me to do so," Gonzalez wrote.

Under the circumstances that

Gonzalez' move caught the committee staff by surprise, and Sprague had no immediate comment.

The committee has been embroiled 'in controversy since Congress convened in January and has been virtually deadlocked since Feb. 10 when Gonzalez fired Sprague for refusing to

Social Security tax hike nixed

WASHINGTON (AP) - At the rging of the Carter administration, he Senate Finance Committee abruptly reversed itself today and yoted against raising Social Security taxes this year.

"We have no business assuming we are going to raise Social Security taxes if the administration is advocating against it," Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Finance Committee, told his colleagues. He asked the committee to rescind action taken Tuesday that indicated support for higher payroll taxes. The committee agreed unanimously.

Long said Joseph Califano, secretary of health, education and welfare, had called earlier today expressing concern that higher Social Security taxes would thwart the economics stimulus purposes of the income tax cut proposed by Carter and apparently supported by a majority of Congress.

There is growing concern that the Social Security system will go bankrupt within a few years unless it can resume collecting in taxes more than it pays out in benefits.

The action taken by the Finance Committee on Tuesday was in the direction of higher Social Security taxes, effective next January, along with some increase in benefits. Long said the administration did not ask the panel to reverse its decision to hike benefits.

The panel, writing a report Tuesday on its fiscal 1978 spending and tax plans, agreed the budget should recognize the possibility of the tax increase and the likelihood of a $500million boost in benefits.

The committee endorsed phasing out the "earnings test," which costs a recipient $1 in benefits for each $2 of income above $3,000 a year. The panel recommended $500 million to finance a start in the phaseout and other benefit increases.

Court ruling allows benign discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Constitution forbids the drawing of political boundaries that discriminate against minority voters, but it contains no such ban on discriminating in favor of minorities, the Supreme Court says. Such "benign discrimination" - intentionally treating blacks and other minorities better than whites to make up for past inequities - is allowed when states are attempting to comply with the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the court ruled on Tuesday.

In a 7-1 decision, the court said the New York legislature did not violate the Constitution when it redrew certain districts in 1974 following Justice Department guidelines to give black and Puerto Rican voters in New York City greater representation.

The redistricting plan established some legislative districts with 65 per cent nonwhite majorities in an attempt to ensure the election of nonwhite political candidates.

The plan was challenged as reverse racial discrimination by Hasidic Jews in Brooklyn who claimed their voting strength was diluted by the "af-firmative action gerrymandering."

"This case presents a clear, undisputed instance of purposeful discrimination," attorneys for the orthodox Jews had told the court. They called the legislature's action "a purposeful racial slur."

The court's majority disagreed. An written by Justice Byron R. White said state governments can use racial quotas and make race the primary consideration in carrying out provisions of the Voting Rights Act. Parts of White's lengthy opinion were not endorsed by all the court's majori-

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dissented, calling racial quotas an impermissible form of discrimination.

"The use of a mathematical formula tends to sustain the existence of ghettos by promoting the notion that political clout is to be gained or maintained by marshaling particular racial, ethnic or religious groups in enclaves," said Burger. He called the court's decision a "retreat from the ideal of the American melting pot." Justice Thurgood Marshall disqualified himself from the case and took no part in the decision.

In another case, the court ruled unanimously that a Newport, Ky., theater and its operators could not be prosecuted for obscenity on standards the Supreme Court set in 1973 after the theater was cited for showing "Deep Throat" and another X-rated

The court reversed a conviction and sent the case back for a new trial on the less strict standards that prevailed before June 1973.

New York City needs aid

By LEE MITGANG

NEW YORK (AP) - New York City faces its worst threat of bankruptcy since its financial emergency began 15 months ago. And as happened several times before, city banks, the unions and now President Carter are locked in a contest to see who blinks

The city's current troubles stem from a $1 billion lawsuit it lost last November. That amount of notes which were placed in a three-year moratorium at the height of the crisis in 1975 now must be paid off under the state court ruling.

the city's billion-dollar cash crisis has made sharply conflicting demands.

The city banks demand tight outside budget controls before they will lend the city money. The unions have called for an end to outside controls and demand that both the banks and the federal government commit money before further union pension funds are committed.

And President Carter on Tuesday stated that the city and other local authorities "will have to deal with the long-range financial picture first and without federal participation." His other remarks, later clarified by White House press aides, seemed to point toward extended long-range federal loans to the city, but this helping hand did not necessarily include pulling the city through its immediate cash crisis.

Last Friday New York applied to the federal government for a $255 million cash loan to see it through March. The first possible default could occur on March 7 unless aid is HOUSTON (AP) - On a cool Wednesday morning in late February, Clinton R. Hackney Jr. was shot twice as he walked to his car parked in front of the family home.

One bullet struck him in the cheek, a second in the mouth. Those were the sixth and seventh slugs to crash into Hackney's body during the past 31/2 months.

Hackney, owner of one Houston music store and vicechairman of another, was reported in good condition

Detective Jim Sprague of the Friendswood Police Department, a Houston suburban area, said, "We can't see any relationship among any of the shootings. It is just a coincidence that he has been shot four different times.

Members of the Hackney family refuse to discuss the shootings.

Sprague explained, "They are somewhat frightened, as anyone would be. They don't want to talk about it. They are afraid they may say the wrong things. I will handle the questions." The detective said the investigation to find the men who did the shootings is still under way "and we have made some

WASHINGTON - A company cannot own a newspaper and a broadcasting station in the same town unless such a joint ownership is "clearly ... in the public interest," the U.S. Court of Appeals has ruled.

The ruling, which lawyers said is certain to be appealed, would affect 79 joint newspaper-broadcast ownerships in cities across the nation.

The appeals court decision, written by U.S. Circuit Chief Judge David L. Bazelon, did not directly order the newspapers to divest themselves of their broadcast stations. Instead, it ordered the Federal Communications Commission to adopt rules under which such divestitures would take

By a 9-3 vote the committee refused Tuesday to take the bill out of a subcommittee for an immediate vote on sending it to the floor for debate.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby told reporters Monday he thought the House-passed bill, labeled "emergency" by Briscoe, should be delayed and considered along with other spending needs.

The bill passed the House Feb. 9 and has been in the subcommittee since

Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, a member of the subcommittee, complained that the subcommittee has never had a meeting. "It is inherently unfair for this committee to sit on his bill," Moore said. "I think we should discharge the subcommittee and vote this bill up or down right here and now. Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and of the subcommittee, defended the "I have no intention of this committee sitting on this bill," he said. "All along we have insisted on knowing how much money is in a fect. Dressed in rubber exposure suit, Ens. Brian

Durham, center, holds red and silver hake as Ens. Aikin noted that when the bill sped through the House it was estimated to produce $516 million, mostly by dedicating to highways three-fourths of the motor vehicle sales tax and all revenue from sales taxes on n lubricating and motor oils, auto parts, tires and accessories. "Now it is closer to $800 million," he said, "and it will probably keep going up. This is all the more reason for us to continue working on this bill."

"That is the sole purpose in my making this motion," Moore said. "I want to get in line, I want to get in line ahead of the school teachers (whose school financing and pay raise bill is handled by Aikin).

Comptroller Bob Bullock increased his general revenue estimate for the next two years Monday, included a $69.4 million jump in auto sales taxes which would channel another $45 million into highway building.

His top security man went home to nurse a cold. And the National Security Council staff in the White House west wing debated — was this the Carter administration's first crisis, or wasn't it? There were shrugs. It was decided to consider the matter "a situation of concern."

The concern was about Uganda's refusal to let 240 Americans leave.

Uganda's intransigence seemed to have seeds in President Carter's press conference last Wednesday. It blossomed early Friday, when President Idi Amin ordered the Americans to stay in his East African nation until he met with them Monday. It faded over the weekend when Amin postponed the meeting. And it all but died Tuesday when a young American tourist stepped across the Uganda border into

This was no Cuban missile crisis, no Mayaguez. There was no meeting of the National Security Council. There were no Marine landings. There wasn't even a military alert.

This was a crisis that didn't happen. Wednesday, Feb. 24. A breezy day in the 50s, blue sky flecked with a few clouds.

Jimmy Carter stood behind a podium in the auditorium of the roccoco Old Executive Office Building next door to the White House, holding his second nationally televised news conference as President. A reporter asked: "What, if anything, do you plan to try to do to help victims of political repression in countries (other than the Soviet

Carter's target was President-For-Life Field Marshall Dr. Idi "Big Daddy" Amin. Just seven days earlier, Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum and two of Amin's cabinet ministers had died. Amin said if was an automobile accident; others suspected murder. Some said Amin himself had killed the three men. He denied it.

They weren't the first remarkable deaths in Uganda

Before the day of Jimmy Carter's news conference was out, "Big Daddy" Amin accused the United States of plotting his overthrow in collaboration with Tanzania, Israel and Britain.

Thursday, Feb. 24. A stormy day in Washington. On the far side of Africa, the nuclear carrier Enterprise cruised in the Indian Ocean off East African shores after long-scheduled visit to Mombassa. It was tended by two cruisers, a submarine and 200 Marines - with too few helicopters to invade

In Washington, Uganda's charge d'affaires, Paul C. Chepkurui, who visited the State Department four times in 21/2 years, met with Richard Post, head of East African Affairs. Post was worried that Amin's allegations of U.S., Israeli and British involvement in a plot might endanger the Americans in Uganda. Friday, Feb. 25. Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security adviser, drove to work at the White House.

It was 7 a.m. Thursday's storms had passed. In his office - the old Henry Kissinger office in the northwest corner of the west wing — Brzezinski found, as usual, a CIA summary of world intelligence on his desk. But there was something unusual: news service reports about something the CIA summary didn't mention.

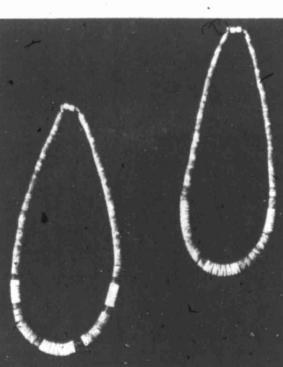

The news reports said Amin had sealed Americans inside Uganda until he could meet with them Monday. Amin had ordered lists of Americans and their property, "including chickens, goats, pigs.

As Brzezinski read the news reports, telephone calls went out to National Security Council staff members and William E. Schaufele Jr., assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

The prevailing view in both places and at the treat a cold.

Sunday, Feb. 27. Amin postponed his meeting with Pentagon was that any military alert, even a precautionary one, might trigger an irrational response by Amin against the Americans.

Regardless, a sense of urgency seemed to grow. At the State Department, spokesman Frederick Z. Brown told reporters at 1 p.m. that the safety of the Americans was a matter of the "strongest concern." At the same time, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell told reporters: "It is safe to assume the President will do what is both necessary and proper to protect American lives anywhere."

Even as Powell spoke, Idi Amin was sending the White House a message. And as the National Security Council staff read it, the administration's sense of urgency faded.

Amin said he wanted to thank the Americans "for the excellent work they have been doing in Uganda." He likened the meeting to others he had with the British, the Kenyans and others.

But the President wasn't alerted. Brzezinski didn't The National Security Council staff knew the think the reports were grave enough for that. In fact, guests at those meetings had not been harmed. Business went on as usual. At 2:30 p.m., Carter contributed to a White House drive for blood

Americans stay after ban lifted

The Los Angeles Times

NAIROBI - Free for the first time in five days to leave the country or continue their lives in President Idi Amin's fiefdom, the 200 or more Americans living in Uganda apparently decided unanimously Tuesday to stay.

"None of the Americans we've talked to plan to leave," a West German diplomat in Kampala, whose embassy represents U.S. interests in Uganda, said by telephone. "They all want to continue their work here and I don't think any of them intended to leave in the first place, unless they were ordered out."

After Amin indefinitely postponed a meeting at Entebbe Airport to which he had summoned the Americans, the State Department in Washington confirmed reports that it had canceled contingency plans to evacuate Americans on Swiss charter aircraft had they been ordered to leave.

Spokesman Frederick Brown said that "our concern has eased," and Secretary of State Cyrus B. Vance, relaying Amin's decision to a congressional committee at which he was testifying, said, "We're very pleased to hear that. We'll continue to follow the situation, but I think this is a very positive step.

Brown refused to say whether the Carter Administration considers the Ugandan incident closed, but said. We view the announcements as a further reassurance by President Amin as to the welfare of Americans in Uganda."

Amin last Friday banned all Americans from leaving Uganda until he met with them as a group. The meeting first was scheduled for Monday, then postponed until Wednesday and finally put off indefinitely.

Wednesday has instead been declared a national holiday marking the 1,407th anniversary of the prophet Mohammed's birth.

Amin had come under diplomatic pressure from four countries, three of them African, the latter reportedly acting at the suggestion of Washington, before his abrupt turnabout decision. Radio Uganda later quoted Amin as saying that some African leaders had become "telephone operators and messengers of America.

Julien Schon, managing director of the Caltex oil marketing operation in Uganda, was perhaps type al of other Americans when he said in a telephone interview: "Relieved? No. wouldn't really say, 'I'm relieved because I wasn't ever worried. I'm staying; In fact, I don't know of any Americans who are leaving.'

Four American missionaries did leave Kampala by car Tuesday, headed for a vacation in Kenya. They carried a photostat, given them by the West German Embassy, of the Ugandan government order lifting the travel ban in case there was difficulty crossing the border. None was reported

He said Ugandan security and immigration officials did question Americans seen traveling and asked if they were tourists or residents. All those he saw were tourists and were treated courteously and allowed to move without restriction, he said.

Shinn said he entered Uganda last Saturday, crossing the border "without the slightest problem." He said he first heard of trouble when two Ugandans "got uptight when they learned I was carrying an American passport. They told me, 'You can't leave the country."

He said he noticed that Ugandans themselves "were a little more uptight, a little tenser and shops and restaurants were closed a little earlier than usual" than from his previous visit to Kampala a few weeks earlier, so he decided to "lay low over the weekend" and on Monday visited the West German Embassy.

"I have been in Uganda before, love the people very much and had a fine time," Shinn said. "I was a happy man when I stepped across the border into Kenya this morning.'

The drama apparently was touched off originally by Amin's anger at President Carter for saying the recent suspicious death of the Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum and two governments ministers had 'disgusted the entire civilized world." Amin claimed the three were killed in a car crash.

Amin's closest civilian adviser, Robert Astles, a naturalized Ugandan of British origin, meanwhile told The Los Angeles Times that the Americans' decision to remain in Uganda ought to show the world that "we're not a bunch of people with horns sticking out of our heads."

Dr. Walter Dowdle, director of the CDC's Bureau of Laboratories virology division, said the center has begun a "vigorous investigation" of both deaths and to determine if other employes are similarly afflicted.

He admitted that the CDC is "uneasy" about potential danger to other employes. "We have

Hang onto your hat if you opt to wear it

Thursday most likely won't be a good day to wear a hat, the weatherman projects.

High wind warnings will continue through early tonight, with winds from the southwest 30 to 40 mph and gusts to 50 mph. The wind late tonight and Thursday is scheduled to be from the west at 20 to 30 mph and gusty.

In addition to continued wind, cooler weather is expected tonight and Thursday. The low tonight should be near 40 and the high Thursday in the lower 60s.

The winds already had started to blow this morning in Andrews, Lamesa, Rankin, Big Lake, Crane and Big Spring, but Stanton and Odessa had a reprieve on the wind early this morning.

Special wind warnings were in force for western areas into tonight, particularly in the mountain passes where gusts topping 60 miles per hour were threatened. Velocities hit 20 to 30 mph nearly everywhere else, going to 40 mph in Northwest Texas.

Fierce south winds battered other parts of Texas today, whipping clouds of dust into the sky, as a new Pacific swept across the west part of the state, the Associated Press said.

Clouds covered all sections except the extreme west and temperatures were springlike - unusually warm for late winter.

Official observers looked for blowing dust to become widespread over the South Plains and the far west sections.

The frontal system was due to finish shoving across West Texas by evening and to span the rest of the state

Scattered and sometimes severe thunderstorms were due to lead the way across West and Central Texas and hit East Texas tonight, while widely scattered rain or snow showers were promised in the Texas Panhandle tonight.

There already was drizzle this morning in South Texas around San Antonio and Del Rio.

Except for West Texas mountain readings in the middle 20s, early morning temperatures were almost balmy at many points. They ranged from 67 degrees at Brownsville and 65 at Corpus Christi in the south down to 40 at Dalhart in the Panhandle. High marks Tuesday were topped by 81 at Presidio in the Big Bend country.

The mercury was expected to dip as low overnight as th low 30s in the Panhandle, around 40 in parts of West Texas and the 60s in South Texas.

Hughes files for position

Kingdon R. Hughes, a Midland independent oil operator, became the first challenger to file for a position on the school board ballot Tuesday af-

Hughes, 47, is running for position 2. currently held by board president Joe Dominey who is seeking re-election.

Hughes said he is seeking the position because of his "strong concern for the direction education appears to be taking in the Midland schools.

He said "projections indicate" students now in the middle grades will show "only average performance when they reach the high school . . Historically Midland schools have graduated adequately trained students. There is no reason to accept a decline in achievement."

Hughes has lived in Midland since 1955. In addition to being an independent oil operator, he owns The Subsurface Library.

WEST COVINA, Calif. (AP) — A policeman first hailed as a hero for shooting his way out of an abduction was held today on suspicion of kidnaping and murdering his alleged captor.

Authorities said Tuesday it appeared that 19-yearold David Dominguez was taken into custody and then shot by San Gabriel police officer Billy Joe

McIlvain, 32, told officers Monday afternoon when he emerged from his home, in which he supposedly was being held hostage, that he had overcome his

But West Covina police discounted his story, and a few hours later he was jailed for investigation of kidnap and murder.

"'Things he was saying just didn't look true to us." said West Covina Deputy Police Chief Craig

In his version, McIlvain told police that two gang members, Dominguez and another youth, forced his car to the side of the road and forced him at gunpoint to drive home.

McIlvain said the youths apparently were seeking revenge for a fellow gang member whom McIlvain had helped send to jail.

When police surrounded McIlvain's house, they were greeted by gunfire. They tried to negotiate with McIlvain's alleged captor, but McIlvain repeatedly got on the phone and said the youth refused to talk to

After more gunfire, McIlvain left the house, saying he had caught Dominguez off guard, pulled a handgun hidden in his boot and pumped five bullets into Another supercarrier?

Congress, in its wisdom, would do well to consider carefully the recommendation by the Defense Department not to build any more nuclear supercarriers.

These huge ships are the most expensive in the fleet. They are also potentially vulnerable to satellite surveillance and missile attack, especially in confined waters like the Mediterranean

Such big superships tend to become the pride of any navy, like the Japanese superbattleship Yamato, the biggest battleship with the biggest guns when it was built, 1937-1941. Yamato steamed out of the Inland Sea in the last year of World War II without air cover and was sunk in less than three hours after she came under air attack by U.S. carrier planes the next day. She never got a chance to fire her big guns at the U.S. invasion fleet off Okinawa.

It is impossible to predict what the state of missile technology will be by 1990 but there are already signs that the U.S. Navy is vulnerable to the Soviet antiship cruise missile threat. And cruise missile technology has reached a stage of explosive development.

Under these circumstances, it may be advisable to avoid the cost of additional large-deck carriers in the future and to reduce the vulnerability of U.S. air assets by basing them widely throughout the fleet.

That is the conclusion of a recent National Security Council study which drove the Ford administration last year to reconsider its request for funds for a fifth Nimitz-class supercarrier and ask instead for money to build the first of a new class of VSTOL (vertical and short takeoff and landing) carriers, which will not be so costly.

President Carter is likely to let that budget recommendation stand, but it is sure to meet opposition in the Congress. The decision should not, however, be made by politicians on political grounds. It should be made by the best brains in our military establishment on the basis of our maritime strategy and naval force requirements.

...Insult to injury

There's nothing new about a doctor telling us we're our own worst enemies - fron eating too much of the wrong kind of food, from smoking or drinking habits, or from otherwise neglecting our health and safety.

But Dr. Kerr White of the Institute for Health Care Studies isn't content with dispensing good

He thinks people should be subject to a "health tax." The more they jeopardize their health, the higher it would be.

This is his solution to the rising cost of health care as part of public budgets. People who become a burden to the health care system would have paid their way in advance by the tax on their bad habits.

Dr. White has a good sense of justice, but the tax collector has enough to do already without auditing our refrigerator or ash

We sympathize with people who seem determined to eat, drink or smoke themselves to death, but they shouldn't have to pay the government for the privilege.

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE:

Larry Flynt calls himself a dissident

By BENJAMIN SHORE Copley News Service

WASHINGTON - The large black letters leaped off the full page of newspaper advertising, not just because of their graphic boldness, but because of their simplistic power rooted in irony:

"Larry Flynt:, American Dissident.

Flynt, as anyone who reads newspapers knows by now, is the publisher of a magazine that a Cincinnati court judged to be obscene. He got seven to 25 years and an $11,000

But dissident? Americans have become conditioned to think of dissidents as the intelligentsia, armed only with words, challenging the establishment in such totalitarian lands as the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia.

In the United States, the 1st Amendment generally is thought to preclude the need for such a politically charged word as "dissident," which is why Flynt chose to describe one who expresses disagreement, but common usage lately has applied it to a special brand of embattled writers, poets and artists in Communist societies.

It is to this small band of ideological critics that President Carter signaled his support by writing an unprecedented personal letter to the titular leader of Soviet dissidents, Andrei Sakharov, urging that the "human rights" provisions of the Helsinki accords be upheld by all signatories.

Thus, it is ironic that publisher Flynt feels compelled to send a loud message to newspaper readers in New York and Washington drawing attention to what he characterizes as government suppression of his right to free speech.

Whether the Soviets, who are extremely irritated with Mr. Carter's highly publicized letter to Sakharov, will amplify Flynt's anguished cry remains to be seen.

There is another domestic U.S. issue even more clear cut for the Kremlin to seize as a propaganda weapon in the growing battle over the meaning of human rights.

And that is the continued application of the McCarran Act, that McCarthy-era law forbidding entry into the United States by foreign Communists.

The McCarran Act is construed in many quarters as directly contradicting the Helsinki provisions calling for "freer movements and contacts" among nations.

While Moscow never was expected to suddenly drop its high and arbitrary obstacles to immigration and foreign travel, it comes as a surprise to many Americans to learn that a law like the McCarran Act still is on the books and occasionally used to deny visas.

Mr. Carter's foreign policy advisers are studying whether to recommend repeal. The President likely would find it difficult to explain his aggressive support of the human rights provisions and reticence in calling for repeal of the McCarran

Congress would have to do the repealing, and Mr. Carter will find conservatives of both parties joined by the George Meany center of organized labor in fierce opposition.

Thus publisher Flynt's case comes at an interesting time in the escalating propaganda battle between Washington and Moscow over adherence to the Helsinki accords

To the best of our knowledge, Mr. Carter has yet to write a personal note to Flynt.

WASHINGTON - The federal pay raise, which went into effect Tuesday, will push salaries up among staff members at the White House and on Capitol Hill. Up to 14 members of President Carter's staff, by law, will be entitled to $57,500 a year, the same salary that senators and House members will receive now. For the three top elected officers of the House the clerk, the sergeant at arms and the doorkeeper the new raise will put them at $52,500. Coming on top of another little-noticed pay increase voted for these three House officers last month, their salaries would be $12,900 above what they were receiving less than six months ago.

Also eligible by law to receive $52,500 a year are 11 House leadership aides and 5 employes of the legislative counsel's office. It is not yet certain whether all those entitled to the top salary will get it. On the Senate side, its two elected officers - the secretary of the Senate and sergeant at arms - and the legislative counsel will get $52,500. Senate leadership aides and other top officers will be in the $49,000 to $51,937-a-year range.

Though the $12,900 raise given senators and House members has drawn publicity and criticism, top Capitol Hill staff workers have kept pace financially by an intricate and less visible series of legislative and political maneuvers.

A major justification given for the House officers' two-step leap in pay has been to keep their salaries equal to those earned by the secretary of the Senate and that body's sergeant at arms.

"It was an embarrassment to the (House) clerk to be paid less than his opposite number in the Senate," one House aide knowledgeable in the recent salary maneuvering said last week. Three other House employes benefit directly from WASHINGTON - President Carter said Tuesday that he has no intention "at present" of seeking a reinstitution of the military draft but will not hesitate to do so if necessary to maintain the nation's military manpower strength.

Speaking to hundreds of military and civilian employes at the Defense Department, the President said he is

Diamond earns no higher mark

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) - They weren't handing out grades during the El Dorado High School field trip, so Lee Pepper missed out on the chance for an "A."

However, he did come away with a two-carat diamond.

Pepper, 16, was out with the school's rock and mineral club at the Crater of Diamonds State Park near

The site was once a diamond mine, and tourists are permitted to keep any gems they come across. The record find is a 16.37 carat diamond.

Pepper's wasn't nearly that big, but was big enough for club sponsor R.V. Hanley to know it was valuable.

military recruiting, particularly for reserve forces.

Carter also said he is concerned with the cost of the military retirement system, particularly with "excessive retirement benefits to those who retire (from the military) and then draw a full salary working for the government."

After applause the comment generated subsided, he continued: "By the end of the century, our ability to defend the nation might be sapped away by personnel costs."

The President said that a "blue ribbon commission" will be established to study all phases of the military pay, benefits and retirement systems and that Secretary of Defense Harold Brown is now reassessing the nation's military manpower needs.

Defense Department officials said later that the commission Carter spoke of is only in its formative stages. In its proposed revisions to the 1978 fiscal year budget, the administration said such a commission would be established to review the findings of a quadrennial study of military compensation and make independent recommendations to the President.

The Defense officials also said that while the all-volunteer military force, which numbers about 2 million, is near full strength, a major problem has developed in the past 18 months in recruiting volunteers for the reserves. Last November, the reserves were short 53,500 men even after Congress had lowered the authorized strength of reserve forces, the officials said.

Asked about the draft, Carter said that if he sought to reinstitute it because of manpower shortages his "inclination" would be to make the draft "more comprehensive" than it was in the past. He mentioned specifically not allowing draft deferments for students.

The President's visit to the Pentagon was one in the series of appearances he has been making before federal employes in the major executive department agencies. In answer to other questions, Carter:

-Said he opposes the unionization of military personnel and is unaware of any "strong movement" toward that goal. He said he has no plans to introduce legislation that would prohibit military personnel from joining a union.

-Defended his pardon of Vietnam War draft evaders, comparing it with the "sense of forgiveness" that occurred in the U.S. following the Civil War. "I made it clear during the campaign," he said. "I didn't mislead anyone ... I don't have any apology to make about it."

-Refused an invitation from a questioner to criticize Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis), a leading critic of the Pentagon. Instead, the President said the nation's involvement in an "unpopular" war in Vietnam led to a deterioration of respect for the military that he feels a responsibility to help restore.

The court did not issue an opinion on a major question of law raised by Bell and supported in six "friend of the court" briefs, including those filed by Lone Star Gas. General Telephone and Dallas Power & Light.

Meyers had ruled he could try Bell's appeal only on the question of whether the commission acted properly, based on the evidence brought month of hearings.

It is most distasteful when one must feel the obligation to take issues with others, whether it be on the theme of religion, or politics, or some other matter. The citizens of our good city have been exposed to an issue which has created somewhat of an uproar on the part of some of the people. That issue is the "VALUES CLARIFICATION PROGRAM" instituted by the State Board Of Education. This writer has spoken out against such a program believing that the course does not serve to curtail crime and drugs as we have been told was the design of such a program in our schools. I have insisted that the situations given to the young people with their multiple choices, does not always give them an opportunity to select the truth in the answers. Hence, his "right" answer is determined by human wisdom and when you human wisdom, and when you come to moral issues, you CANNOT follow human standards.

In connection with this context. I stated that if this program is adopted and taught in general, that some teachers would be teaching the program who are atheists, and such people have NO standard that determines right from wrong since they reject the Bible as man's sole rule of faith and practice.

It is sad that some of the people who are pushing for this program will not take issue and battle over the program. Instead, they have taken what I said as a personal attack on them. THINKING people, and that is all that I ask to read my articles each week, know that I could not possibly believe that ALL school teachers are infidels. Airman charged in woman's death

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - A Carswell Air Force Base airman was in the Tarrant County jail here today after being charged in the strangulation and before it in more than a mutilation slaying of a go-go girl from Arkansas.

Rafael George Macias, 20, of South Bend, Ind., grim faced and unshaven, was arraigned Tuesday before Justice of the Peace W.W. Matthews, who set bond at $100,000.

Macias, a dark-skinned, bespectacled figure dressed in a military type overcoat, was led from the courtroom following the arraignment.

The body of Julie Ann Adams, 20, of Texarkana, Ark., was found Sunday when two men found a crate at a dump ground on the west side of Fort Worth, took it home and opened it. The body had been cut in two and an autopsy revealed that the victim had first Tarrant County Medical Examiner Feliks Gwozdz said the body had also apparently been washed before it was placed in the crate.

Investigators at first were unable to identify the body for several hours and did so only with the help of a missing persons report filed Saturday night by

"He gave us the key," said Lt. L. O. Fowler of the Fort Worth Police Department, "If he hadn't done that (file the missing persons report) we still n't know who she was.

In a statement given police, officers said Macias told them the slaying took place Thursday night following an argument.

During the argument, police said, the airman strangled the girl and then dumped her body in a closet. Police quoted the statement as saying that, on Friday, the airman placed the woman's body in a bath tub and cut her in half using a hacksaw. He then allegedly placed the two pieces in an Air Force packing crate which he had been using as a footlocker and lined the crate with a South Bend, Ind., newspaper. On Saturday, the airman contacted police and filed a missing person report on the young woman and listed his Indiana hometown. Miss Adams had been working as a go-go danger at a Fort Worth nightclub, police said and she has used several names in the past. She had been in Fort Worth for about a month and had been living with the airman.

He was also absentminded about his will, which explains the controversy that has now developed among his would-be heirs. According to the secret papers, there was confusion over which of two wills was the authentic version.

In one memo, Hughes was informed that his former faithful secretary, Nadine Henley, "believes the will she has is the true will and she must have been given instructions in the past by you to keep it secure. If the handwritten will is the real will, it could be that you had it updated later to the one (she) has."

Midland Altrusans view film showing critical energy choices

"Energy: Critical Choices Ahead" was the title of Pioneer Natural Gas Company's film shown at a meeting of Altrusa Club of Midland, Inc., in Rodeway

The film depicted demands of energy during the past decade, noting the accelerating demand; sources available to provide the energy during that period and alternatives for future supplies. It presented a statitician's projected energy needs to the year 2000 and showed how it could be obtained from each facet of energy-producing raw materials, including solar. The film concluded by showing numerous ways of using the dwindling supply, not only to conserve it, but to cut down on the in-

Janice Rabenaldt, consumer information specialist with Pioneer, presented the film, commenting on different phases of it and conducting a question and answer period. She was introduced by Mrs. Betty McMullan, chairman of community services committee, who was in charge of the program for the luncheon session.

Committee reports were heard from community service's crime check program. Mrs. McMullan announced that two more block parties had been held and three more are planned for early March. She urged members to plan these parties for their area in order to get people acquainted with the club's program for crime check and to get their neighborhoods involved.

Mrs. Connie Stirman, president, announced the deadline was approaching for nominees for the Lucy Mashburn Woman of the Year award. She urged clubs to return their nominee forms as soon as possible. "There seems to be some misunderstanding about the qualifications for this award," she noted. "A person doesn't have to have done great, expensive things, made large contributions or such. It is the little daily, humanitarian, altrusan deeds that truly qualify people for the Lucy Mashburn award. That was the kind of person Lucy was.'

Mrs. Loleta Guffey, chairman of international relations committee, announced the annual international program will be at 7 p.m. March 24 in Ranchland Hill Country Club and urged members to bring guests. Mrs. Suzanne Johnson, member of the planning committee, announced that Clarke Straughan, corporation development manager for Adobe Oil Co., will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Caroline Keisling, member of Altrusa information committee, announced an initiation and orientation program for new members to be held beginning at 7:45 p.m. March 7 in her home, 1905 Garfield St. She noted that it is imperative for all new members to be present and older members also are urged to attend and participate.

Mrs. Stirman urged members to be in attendance at the March 10 luncheon meeting in Rodeway Inn, at which time a slate of officers for the ensuing year will be presented and other club business conducted. Mrs. Stirman also welcomed a new member, Mrs.

DEAR ABBY

Father too busy for own son finds second chance in "Big Brothers"

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old married man, who is fairly successful. My wife and I raised a son and a daughter-both of whom are now married. I never qualified as the world's best father - or even close to it. In fact, I was always too busy to be the kind of father I should have been to my son. We never had a really good father-son relationship, but luckily he turned out all right.

Six months ago, I saw an ad for "Big Brothers"--an organization of men who volunteer to take a fatherless boy to a sports event, lunch, supper, or are kosher. (Ha Ha!)—IDEA MAN IN N.Y. just let him hang around on a Sunday afternoon.

Impulsively, I volunteered my services and lined up an 11-year-old boy from a broken home. I picked 12,000 licensed female hams in the U.S.A him up and brought him to my home, and we spent the afternoon getting acquainted. He was very quiet and shy at first, but later on he opened up. He's a OKLAHOMA CITY wonderful, sensitive kid who never had the breaks, and he appreciates my attention.

I've spent practically no money on him, but the time I've spent has already paid big dividends. Hisgrades have come up amazingly, and he's changed a lot of his ideas. I think I've helped.

I wish other dads my age who were too busy for their own sons would look into "Big Brothers." It's given me a second chance at being a father. Spread the word, Abby —FEELING GREAT

Crime prevention group outlines objectives, goals

By PATSY GORDON

The citizens crime prevention committee of Midland was informed if the group's objectives and goals at meeting of the group in the Western Boom of Western State Bank.

Also at the meeting an advisory ommittee was appointed by Mrs. tichard Story and representatives of be committee reported on what their roup had done to further crime

The objectives of the committee are sany. They include strengthening apport between citizens and police hrough knowledge, service and inderstanding, establishing a per-nament, enduring program that provides a vehicle for citizen input and involvement, disseminating information on crime prevention techniques, expanding the base of currently existing crime prevention experts, reaching of more citizens on a face-to-face level with relevant crime prevention information. developing personal relationships and positive social attitudes toward law enforcement agencies and affecting a tangible reduction in crime throughout the community by focusing on prevention tactics that can be utilized by the general citizenry.

The goals for 1977 include the reduction in CB burglaries, a drug release program for juvenile offenders, the encouragement of citizens to be involved in individual and community self-help efforts that reduce crime and swift prosecution of offenders.

Those reporting on their progress were Sgt. Fred Johnson of the Midland Police Department's Crime Prevention Unit, Mrs. Caroline Keisling, Altrusa Club of Midland, Inc.; Kenneth Ray and George Overton, CB React; Scott Shelton, attorney representing Junior Bar Association of Midland; Sheriff Dallas Smith; Bertha Starkes, teacher at Alamo Junior High School and coordinator for the Law Focused Education and Crime Prevention-Drug Education; Chuck Redger, West Texas Teen Challenge; Bonny Jackson of the Junior Woman's Club; Mrs. Clara Mims, Twentieth-Century Study Club, and Marsha Nickell of the Junior League of Midland, Inc.

Appointed to the advisory committee by Mrs. Story were Sgt. Johnson, Mrs. Keisling, Shelton, Mrs. Starkes and Mrs. Patsy Gordon, The Midland Reporter-Telegram.

The Twentieth Century Study Club, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, was the first Tall City organization to initiate the forming of this local action group, with the purpose of attempting to involve the entire community in crime prevention.

This group was formed in November 1976 after the national organization, the National Federation of Women's Clubs, adopted the "Hands Up" volunteer effort to halt crime, and Mrs. Robert Tipps, TFWC president, made the project a required program. Three Midland federated clubs and 14 other civic groups are participating so far.

The need for such a project as "Hands Up" in Midland was based on the fact there was an 11 percent increase in home burglaries during 1976, 240 more CB's were stolen, more juveniles were involved in crime and 700 criminal cases were pending on one judge's docket.

Citizen involvement is the key factor that can make or break an effort to reduce crime. Public awareness goes hand-in-hand with citizen involvement in crime reduction.

The Twentieth-Century Study Club began its campaign with the November workshop. Fred Stansbury of San Marcos, director, Crime Prevention Institute, Southwest Texas State University, and Sgt. Johnson, head of the Midland PD's crime prevention unit, were on hand to advise the club members.

Sgt. Johnson has said that crime in America and our city of Midland continues to rise and "how it points to the future of our liberties and freedom is frightening." Attention toward the youth in the community will be focused on creating a desire in the youth to respect the law and law enforcement agencies' cooperating with schools in teaching basic values, helping create a drug release program and en-couraging family life discipline and love in family circles.

"The potential problems are that, as power is taken from independent regulatory agencies and placed in the hands of the executive branch, it becomes more subject to political pressure and short-term expediency responding to immediate voter fears rather than the exigencies of rational policy," Krueger said.

Krueger pointed out that one positive result which is immediately apparent, is that the taxpayers will save some money through its implementation. "This results from the fact there will be a reduction in the number of federal employes required to administer our energy programs.'

New department plan greeted by optimism

WASHINGTON - President Carter Tuesday asked an apparently willing Congress to create a new Department of Energy which he said would bring "immediate order" to the nation's "fragmented system" of energy

In draft legislation that carried out a campaign pledge, Carter proposed that the new Cabinet-rank department incorporate functions now dispersed among nine departments and agencies. Folded into the new department would be the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) with its responsibilities for policy analysis and oil price regulation and the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA). The Federal Power Commission (FPC) would be abolished and new machinery created to control natural gas prices. Also merged would be the energyrelated activities of four departments - Defense, Interior, Commerce, and Housing and Urban Development and two regulatory bodies, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Securities and Exchange Com-

Along with the transferred functions, the new Energy Department would acquire the employes and budget outlays that have been used to carry them out - a starting staff of 19,700 workers and allocations of $10.6 billion in the still-pending budget for fiscal 1978. Calling the legislation "a major step in my administration's program for a comprehensive reorganization of the Executive Branch," Carter said in a message accompanying the draft bill that no area was more in need of reorganization than energy policy.

"All but two of the Executive Branch's Cabinet departments now have some responsibility for energy policy," the President said, "but no agency, anywhere in the federal government has the broad authority needed to deal with our energy problems in a comprehensive way.'

The complex measure appeared tailored to avoid problems on Capitol Hill, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass.) said the session produced unanimous support for the concept of an energy department. Sen. Henry M Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said later he thought the Senate would authorize creation of the new department this would be established before Congress is asked to deal with the potentially more controversial energy program the President has promised to submit before April 20.

One item rumored to be under consideration for that program is a stiff increase in the federal gasoline tax - on the order of 25 cents a gallon. Introducing James R. Schlesinger, his energy adviser and choice to head the new department, at the news briefing, Carter was asked if he was considering a 25-cent increase in the "Twenty-five cents? No, ma'am," The President replied, without saying whether a tax boost was under consideration. Later, when the same question was put to Schlesinger, the energy adviser said the "array of options" to be considered for the April message has yet to be determined. The President and his advisers "are not excluding anything," Schlesinger said, but "have not addressed that problem as

While the legislation would give the

Energy Department control over many aspects of economic regulation in the energy field, it would leave in the Interior Department some of its historic authority over leasing energy resources under Federal control.

"We are leaving those functions in Interior because we believe that the responsibility for multiple use of public lands, and their environmental protection, belongs in one department — Interior — that can reflect a broad spectrum of concern," Carter said in

At the same time, however; the legislation would empower the Energy Department to set long-term production goals for federally owned resources and to draft regulations on the economic aspects of bids for leases to work federally owned properties. It would create a liaison committee to advise the Energy secretary on the leasing process and authorize the Energy secretary in dispute with the Interior secretary to go to the President for a final deci-

Cullen Davis trial jury Chances running out selection continues arguing with Judge Cave on the extent he could question the man about for 8 trapped miners FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - A

Fort Worth woman was to return to the witness stand today for further questioning as prosecution and defense lawyers continue their tedious quest for jurors to hear the capital murder trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

Despite her statement that she doesn't want to serve on a jury that may be sequestered for as long as two months, the woman remained on the stand for two hours Tuesday. She was still being questioned when District Judge Tom Cave recessed court for the night.

"I've never been on a jury, and I certainly don't want to be on this one," the woman told Asst. Dist. Atty. Joe Shannon Jr. as he inquired about her views on capital punishment, probation for convicted murderers and prejudice for or against Davis subjects which have disqualified most of the persons questioned in the last five days of jury selection.

But the woman had not disqualified herself on legal grounds by the time Shannon finished his questioning.

Defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes of Houston questioned her at length before the court session ended.

The woman told Haynes she might have a bias in the case involving the death of someone's daughter - Davis is charged with the Aug. 3 murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn - because she is "very wrapped up in the life" of her 17-yearold girl.

But if Haynes does not push for her legal disqualification on those grounds it would take a peremptory 'strike" from either defense counsel or prosecutors to eliminate the woman from the jury.

Haynes used the first of his 15 strikes - dismissals without a legal cause - to eliminate a man prosecutors had accepted for the panel. Haynes took that step after his views on capital punishment.

If convicted of capital murder, Davis, 43, could be sentenced to death in the electric chair or he could receive anywhere from 99 years in prison to probation if the jury decides he is guilty of the lesser charge of

Priest's body found

GWELO, Rhodesia (AP) - The battered and mutilated body of a Spanish-born Roman Catholic missionary nas been found near a mission school in southeastern Rhodesia, a church spokesman said today.

He was the 11th missionary to die in the past three months in remote areas of Rhodesia where guerrillas are battling the white Bill Allen, who served as board minority government.

In Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, an unprecedented revolt by right-wing members of parliament meanwhile threatened to torpedo Prime Minister Ian Smith's plans for dismantling some racist laws as a prelude to black majority rule in two years.

A church spokeman in the midlands town of Gwelo said Father Jose Manuel Rubio Diaz, 58, who had lived in and 20. Rhodesia for 28 years, was apparently killed by black nationalist guerrillas.

Father Rubio was reported missing from the remote Bangala mission in the southeast of the territory Monday. His car, its front windscreen shattered, was discovered the same day and the priest's body was found by a local official Tuesday.

The spokesman said Father Rubio's body had been mutilated and that he apparently had been battered to death.

Black guerrillas were reported in the area where the Spaniard's body was found, 170 miles south of Salisbury and 70 miles east of Mozambique - launching pad for most offensives by insurgents. In the parliamentary hassle, nine of the 50 ruling Rhodesian Front members of parliament in the 66-member legislature walked out of a closed session of the policy-making caucus in protest against Smith's proposed changes. The walkout followed persistent reports of a split within the front caucus over Smith's proposals to amend the socalled Land Tenure Act - sweeping legislation passed in 1969 legitimizing the-color bar in hotels, bars and restaurants and banning blacks from reserved white farmlands, industrial sites and commercial areas.

TAX CUT - Rejected, 148 for and 258 against, an amendment to replace President Carter's plan for one-shot individual tax rebates with a permanent across-the-board tax cut. This Republican-backed amendment was proposed to H.Con.Res.110 (see above

Rep. John Rousselot (R-Calif.), the sponsor, said: "The purpose of a permanent tax rate reduction is to reduce the tax bias against work, saving and investment . . . to increase the reward to work, save and invest and to make it more desireable for people to invest and to hire unemployed and produce more real long-term jobs. Rep. Jim Wright (D-Tex.) said Rousselot's amendment "would give four times the benefits as a percentage of income back to the family earning $100,000 as it would to the family earning $100,000 as it would to the family earning $10,000. Violence erupts as Warriors whip Celts

By The Associated Press Larry O'Brien is not getting his message across. Or maybe it just takes a while to sink in.

Just one day after the National Basketball Association commissioner issued a ringing edict to coaches and players against outbreaks of violence on the court, Sidney Wicks of the Boston Celtics knocked down Golden State's Rick Barry with a looping right and players from both benches joined in the fracas at the Hartford, Conn. Civic Center, where the Warriors beat Boston 101-94 Tuesday

The fight broke out with 3:54 to go in the fourth period of the intensely played game.

previous two times down the floor and we couldn't get a call," said Barry. "When he did it again, I pushed him away with my arm and evidently my elbow caught him in the face. Then he started swinging."
A subdued Wicks did not dispute that account. "He caught me in the face with his elbow and I went after him, that's all," he said. "It was just one of those flash things. Both men were ejected from the game, and they may well be hearing

Barry scored 22 points before his enforced exit. His final two points from the commissioner's office came on free throws after a foul was called on Wicks just prior to the fight. Barry raised his right arm with a clenched fist after the shot, and the crowd of 11,273 booed.

Blazers 108, 76ers 107

Philadelphia rallied from an 18point deficit to go ahead 107-106 on Henry Bibby's basket with 1:18 remaining, but missed a chance to clinch the victory when Caldwell Jones blew two free throws with 18

Nuggets 110, Pistons 94 David Thompson scored 13 points when Denver reeled off 20 in a row late in the fourth quarter. The victory gave the Nuggets a five-game lead over Detroit in the Midwest Division. It also gave Coach Larry Brown of the Nuggets the season's series over his brother Herb, the Detroit coach, 2-1.

Kings 126, Jazz 104 Brian Taylor, Ron Boone and Bill Robinzine combined for 71 points as Kansas City moved to the .500 mark and one-half game ahead of Seattle in their scramble for the final playoff berth in the Western Conference. Pete Maravich of the Jazz, who scored 68 points Friday night and 40 Sunday, had just eight, hitting three of 18 from

Bulls 102, Pacers 95 Rookie Scott May scored a careerhigh 25 points and Wilbur Holland had 22 as the Bulls posted their fourth its fourth straight loss. Chicago led 53-36 at halftime. Indiana, despite 36 points by Billy Knight, could come no closer than nine points in the second

Spurs 132, Knicks 127 Larry Kenon scored 30 points and George Gervin 28 as San Antonio posted its seventh victory in the last nine games, pouring in 77 points in the second half. Bob McAdoo had 35 for the Knicks and Earl sonroe and Spencer Haywood-returning after a 22-game absence because of a leg injury-22 each. And Walt Frazier set an alltime Knicks record by ap-pearing in his 741st game with the Cazzie Russell's basket with 26 seconds to play put Los Angeles in front of Atlanta 91-90, then Lucius Allen's free throw accounted for the final margin. A 25-footer by John Drew of Atlanta at the buzzer bounced off the rim. Kareém Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 24 points.

Nets 104, Braves 95 The forwards did the damage for the Nets at Buffalo. Mel Davis scored 22 points, his high since joining the Nets a month ago, Mike Bantom had 21 points and Tim Bassett 18. The Nets broke open the game with 10 straight points in the third period for a 70-53 lead and never were threatened.

Lee Rebs knock off Hobbs, 6-2

HOBBS, N.M. — The Robert E. Lee Rebels, led by Robby Roberson and Richard Josephy, took a 6-2 victory over the Hobbs Eagles Tuesday in a baseball opener.

The game was called off in the sixth inning due to darkness. The lights were not working so the two teams agreed to halt the contest with Lee on top 6-2.

Craig Van Horn started for Lee and Craig gave up two first inning home runs to Frank Ragadale and Ken Venable, but he went on to scatter four hits over five innings to pick up the mound victory.

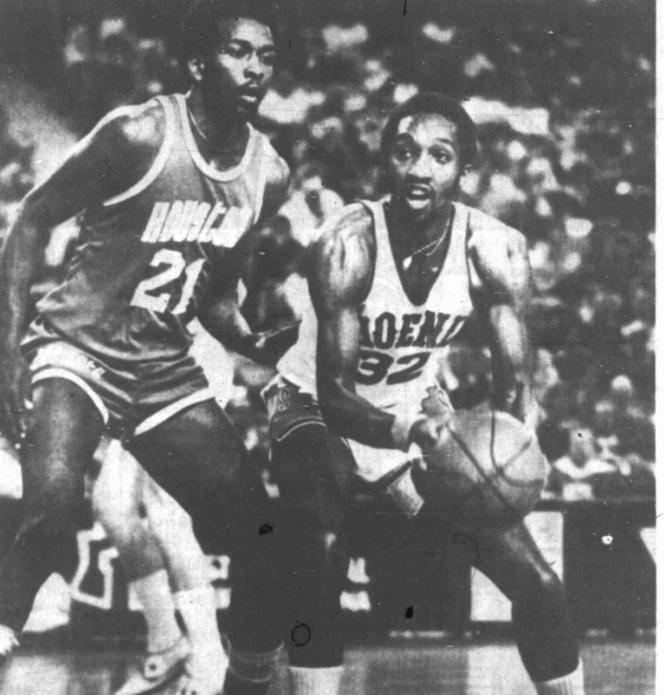

Roberson slammed a double and triple and knocked in a pair of runs while Josephy slammed a home run in the second inning over the fence in right-center.

Coach Ernie Johnson was pleased with his team's defense which played errorless ball. "We got a late start and it was already dark when we started the game and their lights weren't working so we came home early, "said Johnson.

Lee returns to the Rebel diamond Friday afternoon to play a return match with the Eagles at 4 p.m. and then goes to Lubbock Saturday for a double header with the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs at 1 p.m.

Loyola upsets Detroit, 79-71

By Associated Press

Although Detroit stubbed its toe on the final hurdle, Coach Dick Vitale still is hoping for a telephone call from the National Collegiate Athletic Association and a post-season basket-

"I pray the selection committee will judge us on 27 games, not on one night," Vitale said Tuesday after his 19th-ranked Titans were upset by Loyola of Chicago 79-71.

The loss was only Detroit's third against 24 victories. And Vitale has an easy explanation for the defeat. "They shot it and we didn't," he Houston Lloyd paced Loyola with 23 points, while Andre Wakefield scored 20. High for Detroit was Terry Tyler with 25 points-19 in the first half.

"I feel confident that they (the NCAA selection committee) will evaluate us in a fair way," Vitale said about his team's chances for a postseason bid

In the only other game involving an Associated Press Top 20 team, fifth-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, playing at home, crushed Hawaii 124-84. Eddie Owens had 25 points as six players for the victorious Rebels scored in double figures. Hawaii has not won a road game in two years.

Anthony Roberts, the nation's second leading scorer from Oral Roberts, tallied 50 points in a losing effort. Senior guard Carlton Byrd scored 30 points in his final home game, leading Florida State past Oral Roberts 91-87. Harry Davis and David Thompson had 24 and 21 points, respectively, for the victorious

Howsam pleas to fans

CINCINNATI (AP) - Cincinnati Reds President Bob Howsam has released an open letter to "our fans and all people interested in baseball," urging a balance be established that takes in the needs of players, ownership and the fans.

We will continue to pay our players excellent salaries, as befits their talent and success," Howsam said in the letter released Tuesday. "But our ability to keep baseball as the prime family sports entertainment bargain depends on operating the club with fiscal responsibility.

"WE WILL not sacrifice this responsibility or our beliefs about the proper way to operate the ballclub." Howsam said he was concerned about how current trends in baseball would affect the fans and said that players must show some responsibility in this area.

"We do not believe that spending huge sums of money to sign players who play out their option is the way to success in baseball in the future," Howsam continued. "We have taken a public stand against this. We have already seen some of the jealousies and problems that have surfaced on other teams that were involved in the wild bidding for major league free

Midland College faces Cooke in Region V opener

The first impulse is to sigh in relief. Midland College draws Cooke County College in the opening round of the Region V Junior College basketball tournament at McMurry College Thursday and the Chaparrals have already beaten the Cardinals twice this year.

Then the memory drifts back to 1960 when Midland High drew Borger in the second round of the state AAAA playoffs. It looked like an even easier assignment.

The Bulldogs had reeled off 30 straight wins, and not only had beaten Borger twice, but annihilated the and 80-54 at Midland.

But as the Purple Pack sadly learned, winning three in a row over. an opponent can be a hazardous undertaking.

IN THIS instance, playing at Borger, the home team won in double overtime to knock the Purple Pack from the state jousting.

Midland's two victories over Cooke weren't that emphatic. In the season's first game, MC won 93-74 at Denison, but in January at Midland the margin was only 89-83 with the Cardinals showing vast improvement. Coach Delnor Poss of the Chaps has to wonder how much they have improved since January.

MC and Cooke tip off at 4 p.m. Thursday, one of four opening round tournament games. In the same bracket, McLennan, the North Texas Conference winner and defending Region V champion, plays Clarendon, which finished fourth in the Western Junior College Conference at 2 p.m.

IF MIDLAND wins Thursday, it will play the McLennan-Clarendon winner at 9 p.m. Friday. In the other bracket, Hill College meets Howard at 7 p.m. Thursday while Western Texas College, the WJCC champion, goes against Ranger at 9 p.m. The winners clash at 7 p.m. Friday.

The championship game is 8 p.m. Saturday.

Western Texas College, ranked No. 4 nationally, is regarded as the pretournament favorite.

Midland finished second in the WJCC with a 12-6 league record and the Chaps compiled a 21-8 record over GRAYSON COLLEGE wound up third in the North Texas Conference with an 8-6 record and was 15-14 for the season after a slow start.

"I know how tough it can be to win three in a row over a team, but I just hope MC won't be too tough on us,' says Coach J. C. Shipley, in his first season at Grayson.

"Going into a tournament like this, you can forget about everything that has happened before. This is a whole new season," he noted.

"We are a physical team and so is Midland. They shoot well from outside, especially that guard, Tommy

Parks, and underneath those big guys (6-7 Ricky Hudgins, 6-6 Clifford Taylor and 6-5 Jackson Pace) are so rough I don't know why they weren't drafted by the NFL," Shipley said. SPORTS

BATTLE SCENE MC, Cooke both apprehensive

BY TED BATTLES

After meeting twice already this season, you wouldn't think there would be any boudoir secrets left between Midland College and Cooke County College, opening round adversaries in the Region V Tournament at Abilene Thursday.

"Oh, no, the last time we played Midland, Delnor Poss, who is coaching them now, was wearing a striped shirt and blowing a whisle on the floor," protests Cooke Coach J. C.

"I don't know what kind of changes he has made since he took over as coach, but I do know Midland has a lot of talent."

IT'S A two-way street, however. Admittedly, Poss has seen Cooke in action once, but his viewpoint as an official didn't help him much as a

Even Shipley will confess, Cooke has undergone drastic changes since opening the season with a 21-point loss to Midland at Denison.

Shipley took over as head coach the day before school opened for the fall semester. He had been a successful coach at Missouri Southern, a fouryear college, for several years, but became disenchanted with the lack of facilities and the administration's hesitancy to upgrade the program. For a while it seemed as though he would sit out this season, but then the Cooke job opened up and Shipley grabbed it. "WE WERE going through quite a transitional period during the early days of the season. Four of the players came to Cooke the same time I did, so we didn't exactly have the pick of the crop.'

In compiling a 15-14 record, Shipley describes the Cardinals' play as from 'respectable to so-so."

"We got a big lift at mid season when 6-7 Earl Warren and 6-6 Andy Rhodes became eligible. That was evident in January in the rematch won by Midland in the Tall Odessa College. Warren scored 14 points and Rhodes 10. "IF WE play as a team, we do all right. If we play as individuals, we're not real good," Shipley says. "As a result we don't have anyone averaging a lot of points. Three of our top four scorers are those who came its Region V title. "Like Midland with Tommy Parks, McLennan has an outstanding guard in Vinnie Johnson. Actually, Coach (Johnny) Carter feels his team is stronger now than it was at this time

"One reason is because of stronger play at guards and he also feels his inside people can do more things under the basket than they could a year ago.'

Four more M-Cubs ink 77 contracts

With the opening of spring camp looming March 17 in Scottsdale, Ariz., the Midland Cubs have signed four more players contracts in the fold. bringing to 18 of the 24 Winter roster players to have returned contracts.

The latest addition to the Texas League club are lefthander Larry Groover, catcher Duane Gustavson, second baseman Keith Drumright and outfielder Joe Hernandez.

Groover spent the entire season at Midland last year and compiled a 2-0 won-lost record with a 5.03 earnedrun-average. The other three players joined the Cubs during the season.

Hernandez, off the Pan American University campus, was promoted to the Cubs from Pompano Beach and displayed good speed and batted .274.

DRUMRIGHT JOINED the Cubs off the University of Oklahoma campus and after a hesitant start batted .324 in 145 at bats. Gustavson, from the University of Wisconsin, batted .261 at a catcher-first baseman for Pompano and joined Midland at the tailend of the season. Other recent signees include pitcher Ron Davis (8-8, 3.76 at Pompano Beach), pitcher David Wood, who played for Clinton of the Midwest League; catcher Greg Keatley (.215, six homers and 30 rbi at Pompano Beach) and infielder Keven Drury (.242 at Pompano Beach).

Bulldogs open baseball season with 7-3 victory

When those knifing March winds start blowing through West Texas, the weather seems a lot more appropriate for ice fishing or even igloo building. rather than baseball. But if you've got to suffer through the interminable pain of playing in it, you might as well go out and win. It makes double pneumonia that much easier to take.

The Midland High baseball team blue fingers, chapped lips and all did just that Tuesday afternoon on their home ice, err, I mean field, whipping Monahans 7-3, in the Pack's 1977 nondistrict inaugural.

Kevin Widner and Steve Cole spearheaded Midland's nine-hit attack, as the Pack presented rookie Coach Larry Peel with quite a nice housewarming present. The pair each blasted out three safeties against Lobo pitching, and Widner picked up the mound victory, going 5 innings before giving way to reliever Bud Brigham.

Widner limited the Loboes to just six hits all singles, and Brigham retired all four men he faced to preserve the win.

Monahans drew first blood in the contest, taking advantage of early control problems by Widner, and pushed across a run in the second inning. The blond right hander walked Lobo left fielder Gary Cave and shortstop Johnny Grimes to start out the frame, and after striking out the next two batters, he was nicked by a run scoring single through the right side by first baseman Jay Jernigan.

The Pack put the game out of reach in the fourth, striking for five runs. Midland outfielder James Zachry led off with a single, and James Allen made it 3-1 moments later, when he deposited a high Balderez breaking ball that didn't break over the left field fence.

The Monahans hurler managed to get Kevin Pearce to sky out to center. but then walked Roger Copeland, and gave up a triple to Cole. The Loboe shortstop mishandled the relay throw from the outfield, and Cole rambled easily across homeplate to put the Pack up, 5-1.

With still only one out, Balderez worked Widner to a full count before losing him, and the hook came from the bench, as Tracy Lisman moved fron right field to the pitching mound. He walked Ed Shipman, and David Johnston hit into a fielder's choice to put men on first and third with two tagged out. But not before Widner came home with the sixth Midland run of the game.

Monahans put together a pair of timely base hits by Balderez, who had stayed in the game in right field, and Arnold Nall to score a pair in the fifth, and threatened again an inning later, when Widner came up with control complications.

He gave up a base hit to pinch hitter Chuck Oscha, and with two out, walked two more Loboes to load the bases.

This ime, I went to his bullpen. Brigham entered and took just three pitches to get Balderez to ground to second baseman Cole for the last out of the inning, and end the brief scare.

Midland added another run in the sixth on singles by Pearce, Cole and Widner, who moved to third base, and Brigham put the finishing touches on a cold, but successful afternoon for the Pack by retiring Monahans in order in the seventh.

"I was pleased with the way we played today," explained Peel after the win. "We made quite a few mental errors, but that's only natural this early in the season.'

Free to choose, Americans pick Uganda—still

The Los Angeles Times

NAIROBI - Free for the first time in five days to leave the country or continue their lives in President Idi Amin's fiefdom, the 200 or more Americans living in Uganda apparently decided unanimously Tuesday to stay.

"None of the Americans we've talked to plan to leave," a West German diplomat in Kampala, whose embassy represents U.S. interests in Uganda, said by telephone. "They all want to continue their work here and I don't think any of them intended to leave in the first place, unless they were ordered out."

After Amin indefinitely postponed a meeting at Entebbe Airport to which he had summoned the Americans, the State Department in Washington confirmed reports that it had canceled contingency plans to evacuate Americans on Swiss charter aircraft had they been ordered to leave.

Spokesman Frederick Brown said that "our concern has eased," and Secretary of State Cyrus B. Vance, relaying Amin's decision to a congressional committee at which he was testifying, said, "We're very pleased to hear that. We'll continue to follow the situation, but I think this is a very positive step.'

Brown refused to say whether the Carter Administration considers the Ugandan incident closed, but said,

'We view the announcements as a further reassurance by President Amin as to the welfare of Americans

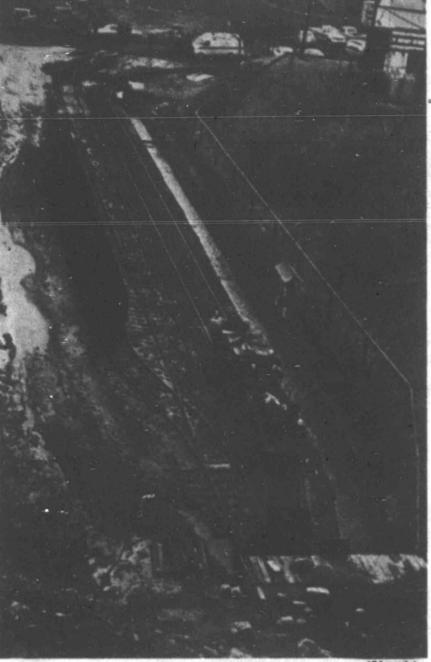

Amin last Friday banned all Americans from leaving Uganda until he met with them as a group. The meeting first was scheduled for Monday, then postponed until Wednesday and finally put off indefinitely.

Wednesday has instead been declared a national holiday marking the 1,407th anniversary of the prophet Mohammed's birth.

Amin had come under diplomatic pressure from four countries, three of them African, the latter reportedly acting at the suggestion of Washington, before his abrupt turnabout decision. Radio Uganda later quoted Amin as saying that some African leaders had become 'telephone operators and messengers of America.'

Julien Schon, managing director of the Caltex oil marketing operation in Uganda, was perhaps typical of other Americans when he said in a telephone interview: "Relieved? No, I wouldn't really say, 'I'm relieved because I wasn't ever worried. I'm staying; In fact, I don't know of any Americans who are leaving."

Court ruling allows benign discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Constitution forbids the drawing of political boundaries that discriminate against minority voters, but it contains no such ban on discriminating in favor of minorities, the Supreme

Such "benign discrimination" - intentionally treating blacks and other minorities better than whites to make up for past inequities — is allowed when states are attempting to comply with the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the court ruled on Tuesday.

In a 7-1 decision, the court said the New York legislature did not violate the Constitution when it redrew certain districts in 1974 following Justice Department guidelines to give black and Puerto Rican voters in New York City greater representation.

The redistricting plan established some legislative districts with 65 per cent nonwhite majorities in an attempt to ensure the election of nonwhite political candidates.

The plan was challenged as reverse racial discrimination by Hasidic Jews in Brooklyn who claimed their voting strength was diluted by the "affirmative action gerrymandering."

"This case presents a clear, undisputed instance of purposeful discrimination," attorneys for the or-thodox Jews had told the court. They called the legislature's action "a purposeful racial slur."

The court's majority disagreed. An opinion written by Justice Byron R. White said state governments can use racial quotas and make race the primary consideration in carrying out provisions of the Voting Rights Act. Parts of White's lengthy opinion were not endorsed by all the court's majori-

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger dissented, calling racial quotas an impermissible form of discrimination.

The use of a mathematical formula tends to sustain the existence of ghettos by promoting the notion that political clout is to be gained or maintained by marshaling particular racial, ethnic or religious groups in enclaves," said Burger. He called the court's decision a "retreat from the ideal of the American melting pot."

Justice Thurgood Marshall disqualified himself from the case and took no part in the decision.

In another case, the court ruled unanimously that a Newport, Ky., theater and its operators could not be prosecuted for obscenity on standards the Supreme Court set in 1973 after the theater was cited for showing "Deep Throat" and another X-rated

The court reversed a conviction and sent the case back for a new trial on the less strict standards that prevailed before June 1973.

Family grocery costs up

President Ford asked Congress in 1976 to raise Social Security taxes. The idea was rejected on both sides of Capitol Hill as unwise in an election year. But there was a general recognition that Social Security taxes would have to be raised soon or regular tax revenues would have to be diverted into the pension system.

Pension experts say the system should have enough money on hand to finance nine months of benefits. By Oct. 1, Finance Committee specialists say, Social Security will have only enough funds for five months.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz also let hungry senators know Tuesday that he would try to talk to death a bill to raise the gross weight limits for ready-mix concrete trucks from 48,000 to 64,000 pounds. He called the trucks 'monsters."

"You've ruined my appetite," joked Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, after Schwartz's stalling tactics kept senators in session until 12:30 p.m., when they voted to quit until today.

The end came with a touch of comedy as Sen. Gene Jones. D-Houston, subbing as presiding officer for Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, asked if there were any objections to a motion to adjourn.

"Yeah, we've got objections," muttered a couple of senators. "There are no objections - bang it

(the gavel)," yelled Schwartz, and Jones finally did, to the laughter of the Senate. House members concentrated

Tuesday on committee hearings on abolishing the death penalty and raising benefits in the billion-dollar teacher retirement system.

The Senate adopted a bill that cosponsor John Traeger, D-Seguin, predicted would become a model for pension plans. The optional plan was designed for Texas' 35,000 volunteer firefighters, and it increases benefits but reduces the amount members would contribute.

"It will not face the problems of pension plans like those in the city of New York because it is not a giveaway," said the other co-sponsor, Sen. Don Adams, D-Japser.

Under the plan the employer - or governmental unit - would make a monthly contribution of at least $12 per firefighter, with the firefighter paying nothing. The plan would cost the state an estimated $441,808 in 1977-

It would guarantee $250 a month to a disabled firefighter, and beneficiaries of a firefighter who died in the line of duty would be guaranteed at least $5,000. Other features include a retirement benefit of at least $36 per month, with the benefit going up 7 per cent, compounded annually, for each year over 15 that the firefighter stays in the Senators also sent to the House on voice vote Sen. Walter Mengden's bill to exempt hypodermic needles and syringes used by diabetics from the sales tax. The Legislative Budget

Board estimated it would cost the state $282,873 in lost revenue over the next two years. In other action, the Senate voted to: -Require mobile home owners to produce statements that they had paid their property taxes or leave a forwarding address so they could be held accountable for them. Dealers and manufacturers would be exempt, as well as mobile homes moving in interstate commerce and what Clower described as "recreation" vehicles with motors in them." -Remove the requirement that the superintendents of state mental institutions must be men and that they must live on the grounds.

on sending it to the floor for debate.

Aikin noted that when the bill sped through the House it was estimated to produce $516 million, mostly by dedicating to highways three-fourths of the motor vehicle sales tax and all revenue from sales taxes on lubricating and motor oils, auto parts, tires and accessories. "Now it is closer to $800 million," he said, "and it will probably keep going up. This is all the more reason for us to continue working on this bill."

"That is the sole purpose in my making this motion," Moore said. "I want to get in line, I want to get in line ahead of the school teachers (whose school financing and pay raise bill is handled by Aikin)."

Comptroller Bob Bullock increased his general revenue estimate for the next two years Monday, included a $69.4 million jump in auto sales taxes which would channel another $45 million into highway building.

Carter's target was President-For-Life Field Marshall Dr. Idi "Big Daddy" Amin. Just seven days earlier, Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum and two of Amin's cabinet ministers had died. Amin said it was an automobile accident; others suspected murder. Some said Amin himself had killed the three men. He denied it.

They weren't the first remarkable deaths in

In Washington, Uganda's charge d'affaires, Paul C. Chepkurui, who visited the State Department four times in 21/2 years, met with Richard Post, head of East African Affairs. Post was worried that Amin's allegations of U.S., Israeli and British involvement in a plot might endanger the Americans in Uganda. Friday, Feb. 25. Zbigniew Brzezinski, the President's national security adviser, drove to work

It was 7 a.m. Thursday's storms had passed. In his office - the old Henry Kissinger office in the northwest corner of the west wing - Brzezinski found, as usual, a CIA summary of world intelligence on his desk. But there was something unusual: news service reports about something the CIA summary didn't mention.

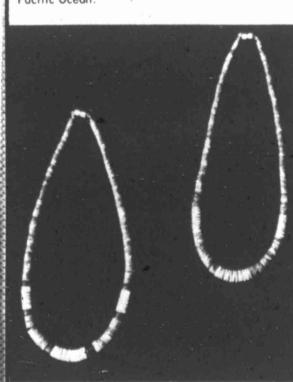

The news reports said Amin had sealed Americans inside Uganda until he could meet with them Monday. Amin had ordered lists of Americans and their property, "including chickens, goats, pigs ...

As Brzezinski read the news reports, telephone calls went out to National Security Council staff members and William E. Schaufele Jr., assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

At the same time, White House Press Secretary Jody Powell told reporters: "It is safe to assume the President will do what is both necessary and proper to protect American lives anywhere."

Even as Powell spoke, Idi Amin was sending the White House a message. And as the National Security Council staff read it, the administration's sense of urgency faded.

Americans stay after ban lifted

carried a photostat, given them by the West German Embassy, of the Ugandan government order lifting the travel ban in case there was difficulty crossing the border. None was reported

An American tourist, Robert Shinn, 25, of Spring Lake Heights, N.J., arrived in Nairobi Tuesday on a bus from Kampala, sporting a T-shirt emblazoned, "Tourism in Uganda." He said Ugandan security and immigration officials did question Americans seen traveling and asked if they were tourists or residents. All those he saw were tourists and were treated courteously and allowed to move without restriction, he said.

Shinn said he entered Uganda last Saturday, crossing the border "without the slightest problem." He said he first heard of trouble when two Ugandans "got uptight when they learned I was carrying an American passport. They told me, 'You can't leave the country."

He said he noticed that Ugandans themselves "were a little more uptight, a little tenser and shops and restaurants were closed a little earlier than usual" than from his previous visit to Kampala a few weeks earlier, so he decided to "lay low over the weekend" and on Monday visited the West German Embassy

"I have been in Uganda before, love the people very much and had a fine time." Shinn said. "I was a happy man when I stepped across the border into Kenya this morning.

The drama apparently was touched off originally by Amin's anger at President Carter for saying the recent suspicious death of the Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum and two governments ministers had "disgusted the entire civilized world." Amin claimed the three were killed in a car crash.

Amin's closest civilian adviser. Robert Astles, a naturalized Ugandan of British origin, meanwhile told The Los Angeles Times that the Americans' decision to remain in Uganda ought to show the world that "we're not a bunch of people with horns sticking out of our heads.

'As far as diplomatic pressure goes, I'd say no, none was involved in President Amin's decision to postpone the meeting," he said. "The president doesn't allow anyone to pres-He does what he thinks is right. One thing certain, you're never going to get my boss to stop speaking his

But diplomatic sources, both Western and African, noted that emissaries in Nairobi from Zaire, Rwanda, the Sudan and Saudi Arabia called on Amin Monday to question his unexplained detention of the American community, a move that has few peacetime precedents.

Although the embassies were acting with the concurrence of Washington, it was not clear here what leverage they used to influence Amin's decision to postpone the meeting indefinitely and lift all restrictions on the Americans.

Radio Uganda said late Tuesday night that Amin had taken a tough anti-American line with the delegations. It said he had told the Rwanda envoys: "The Americans are afraid of me because I speak the language which Americans un-derstand."

Amin also used the broadcast to again display his phobia about a foreign attack. After a day of conciliatory remarks about the Americans, he said that Uganda's 20,000-man army was prepared to crush any American invasion "even with their nuclear weapons."

Amin had claimed from the beginning that he only wanted to speak to the Americans as a group to thank them for their work in Uganda an explanation that seemed unlikely. Most of the Americans are missionaires, about 15 are employes of Uganda Airlines, a handful are teachers and only one, Schon, is a businessman.

Western intelligence sources say Amin apparently was convinced that the nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier, the Enterprise was off the East African coast as part of an effort to rescue the Americans. These sources suggest Amin postponed the meeting after receiving assurances from Washington that the Enterprise was moving seaward.

Recall drive under way in Odessa

ODESSA - A group of Odessans has begun a drive to collect 7,500 signatures to recall City Councilman Bob Bryant

The group Tuesday filed an affidavit for the recall of Bryant, who was appointed to the city council last fall after the resignation of Willie Hammond.

Bryant does not represent any minority group in South Odessa, the area he represents. The group also maintains that the city council rejected community input it requested.

The dissatisfied citizens have 30 days in which to gather the required signatures.

Thursday most likely won't be a good day to wear a hat, the weatherman projects.

High wind warnings will continue through early tonight, with winds from the southwest 30 to 40 mph and gusts to 50 mph. The wind late tonight and Thursday is scheduled to be from the west at 20 to 30 mph and gusty.

In addition to continued wind cooler weather is expected tonight and Thursday. The low tonight should be near 40 and the high Thursday in the lower 60s.

The winds already had started to blow this morning in Andrews, Lamesa, Rankin, Big Lake, Crane and Big Spring, but Stanton and Odessa had a reprieve on the wind early this morning.

Special wind warnings were in force for western areas into tonight, particularly in the mountain passes where gusts topping 60 miles per hour were threatened. Velocities hit 20 to 30

Schools reveal spring quarter activities for desegregation

Midland elementary school students during the spring quarter will participate in a number of activites scheduled in preparation for school desegregation next year.

The activities were included in the desegregation settlement approved in September by U.S. District Judge D. The plan called for formation of six clusters for full desegregation of fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Each cluster will have a different activity schedule for the spring quarter. The desegregative activities began during the last quarter.

Following is a schedule of activities for the spring quarter for each cluster. Listed for each grade are the activity, date, location and length of time the activity will take.

ANSWER: Pass. Avoid counting a singleton jack as 1 point for a high card and also 2 points for a singleton. It just isn't worth that much, and this hand is not quite worth an opening bid. If you changed the jack of hearts to the king, the hand would be worth an opening bid on one heart.

Washington staff members profit from pay raise, too

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The federal pay raise, which went into effect Tuesday, will push salaries up among staff members at the White House and on

Up to 14 members of President Carter's staff, by law, will be entitled to $57,500 a year, the same salary that senators and House members will receive now. For the three top elected officers of the House - the clerk, the sergeant at arms and the doorkeeper the new raise will put them at $52,500. Coming on top of another little-noticed pay increase voted for these three House officers last month, their salaries would be $12,900 above what they were receiving less than six months ago.

Also eligible by law to receive $52,500 a year are 11 House leadership aides and 5 employes of the legislative counsel's office. It is not yet certain whether all those entitled to the pop salary will get it. On the Senate side, its two elected officers - the secretary of the Senate and sergeant at arms - and the legislative counsel will get $52,500. Senate leadership aides and other top officers will be in the $49,000 to $51,937-a-year range.

Though the $12,900 raise given senators and House members has drawn publicity and criticism, top Capitol Hill staff workers have kept pace financially by an intricate and less visible series of legislative and political maneuvers.

A major justification given for the House officers' two-step leap in pay has been to keep their salaries equal to those earned by the secretary of the Senate and that body's sergeant at arms.

"It was an embarrassment to the (House) clerk to be paid less than his opposite number in the Senate," one House aide knowledgeable in the recent salary maneuvering said last week. Three other House employes benefit directly from the House officers' pay increases. Under an archaic political tradeoff system, the House majority Democrats allow the GOP minority to pay what is called "a shadow government" three employes who hold the titles of minority clerk, minority sergeant at arms and minority doorkeeper.

"They don't share the responsibility," an aide to House Minority Leader John J. Rhodes (R-Ariz.), said. "Thus they are at one pay level below their majority counterparts who have official respon-government" are paid $41,800 a year. They work for Rhodes on the House floor, manning an information computer, informing members on votes and helping in the cloakroom and whip operations.

The three members of the minority "shadow

According to a Democratic House aide, a majority employe doing the same job earns $30,000 a year or

Ironically, when the pay of the other House officers goes to $52,500 the House postmaster, who is also elected, will remain at $31,500. His salary has been frozen at that level since 1969, when House members, piqued at the then-incumbent, adopted a resolution setting his salary and eliminating any cost-of-living

A new postmaster was elected in 1972, but he has yet to get a raise. Last month, when the clerk and other officers were voted an increase, the postmaster was left out. Rhodes, however, gave an ncrease to the "shadow" Republican postmaster, who now makes more than the man who actually does the job.

Eleven other Democratic and Republican leadership employes will also be eligible for the $52,500 top salary March 1.

These include three staffers for Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, two each working for the majority and minority leaders' offices, one each in the majority and minority work offices and the top staff members of the Democratic Steering and Republican Policy Committees.

One of the aides involved said last week the top salary level he and his colleagues will receive is "only recognition that these are senior government positions — they ought to be paid at a high rate." He added that top staffers work long hours, have heavy responsibilities and "have very risky jobs."

"One mistake," he said, "and out we go. There is no Civil Service to protect us."

Whatever the justification for the high pay, the leadership aides' salaries are established by a strange mechanism. By House resolution adopted two years ago, the leadership staff pay is pegged at a level one step above the highest salary paid House committee aides.

So when House Democrats last December voted in caucus to raise the salary of the top two committee staff members (one majority, on minority), that same action automatically raised the allowable pay of the aides to the House leadership.

Texan pushing primary' choice

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —State Rep. Tom Schieffer may be crosswise with the will of the 1976 National Democratic Convention, but he thinks Texas political parties should have a choice of presidential primary

He introduced a bill Tuesday giving them an option between proportional delegations based on a statewide vote and a winner-take-all primary chosen by congssional and senatorial districts.

Schieffer, D-Fort Worth contended the winnertake-all option did not conflict with a policy issued by the 1976 National Democratic Convention, but several reporters who were there said it did.

"I think the legislature ought to decide what the law ought to be in Texas and let the political parties carry on their business," Schieffer told a news

His bill would mandate presidential primaries but give the state party executive committees a choice between methods that would allocate delegates according to:

-Which presidential candidate gets the most votes in each of the state senatorial or congressional districts, just as in the 1976 primary, or -The proportion of votes that each candidate receives statewide. Open House concerned with the "weakness" in military recruiting, particularly for reserve forces.

Capter also said he is concerned with the cost of the military retirement system, particularly with "excessive retirement benefits to those who retire (from the military) and then draw a full salary working for the government." After applause the comment generated subsided, he continued: "By the end of the century, our ability to defend the nation might be sapped

away by personnel costs."

The President said that a "blue ribbon commission" will be established to study all phases of the military pay, benefits and retirement reassessing the nation's military manpower needs.

Defense Department officials said later that the commission Carter spoke of is only in its formative stages. In its proposed revisions to the 1978 fiscal year budget, the administration said such a commission would be established to review the findings of a quadrennial study of military compensation and make independent recommendations to the President. The Defense officials also said that while the all-volunteer military force. which numbers about 2 million, is near full strength, a major problem has developed in the past 18 months in recruiting volunteers for the reserves. Last November, the reserves were short 53,500 men even after Congress had lowered the authorized strength of reserve forces, the officials said.

Asked about the draft, Carter said that if he sought to reinstitute it because of manpower shortages his 'inclination" would be to make the draft "more comprehensive" than it was in the past. He mentioned specifically not allowing draft deferments for students.

The President's visit to the Pentagon was one in the series of appearances he has been making before federal employes in the major executive department agencies. In answer to other questions, Carter:

-Said he opposes the unionization of military personnel and is unaware of any "strong movement" toward that goal. He said he has no plans to introduce legislation that would prohibit military personnel from joining a union.

-Defended his pardon of Vietnam War draft evaders, comparing it with the "sense of forgiveness" that occurred in the U.S. following the Civil War. "I made it clear during the campaign," he said. "I didn't mislead anyone ... I don't have any apology to make about it."

-Refused an invitation from a questioner to criticize Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis), a leading critic of the Pentagon. Instead, the President said the nation's involvement in an "unpopular" war in Vietnam led to a deterioration of respect for the military that he feels a responsibility to help restore.

As he has in other appearances, Carter, who campaigned as an anti-bureaucracy Washington outsider, praised the Pentagon employes.

It is most distasteful when one must feel the obligation to take issues with others, whether it be on the theme of religion, or politics, or some other matter. The citizens of our good city have been exposed to an issue which has created somewhat of an uproar on the part of some of the people. That issue is the "VALUES CLARIFICATION PROGRAM" instituted by the State Board Of Education. This writer has spoken out against such a program believing that the course does not serve to curtail crime and drugs as we have been told was the design of such a drugs as we have been told was the design of such a program in our schools. I have insisted that the situations given to the young people with their multiple choices, does not always give them an opportunity to select the truth in the answers. Hence, his "right" answer is determined by human wisdom, and when you come to moral issues, you CANNOT follow human standards.

In connection with this context, I stated that if this program is edopted and taught in general, that some teachers would be teaching the program who are atheists, and such people have NO standard that determines right from wrong since they reject the Bible as man's sole rule of faith and practice.

It is sad that some of the people who are pushing for this program will not take issue and battle over the program. Instead, they have taken what I said as a personal attack on them. THINKING people, and that is all that I ask to read my articles each week, know that I could not possibly believe that ALL school teachers are infidels. We have had a good number of school teachers everywhere I have preached for these past thirty-two years, and they have been, for the most part, fine godly saints. However, I do know for a FACT that there are athiests in the public schools of learning who are teaching our sons and schools of learning who are teaching our sons and daughters, and it is this group that I addressed, or intended to address, in a previous article.

I think Mrs. Ann Page, one of our fine School Board mem-bers, expressed it well when she said that she had always

The objections to such a program is that it calls on young people to make decisions that adults cannot make. It calls on them to reveal some of the problems of the home. It makes the non-participating child a "square" in the eyes of his contemporaries. This is enough objections as a mere starter. Why not discuss the ISSUE if we are determined to discuss it at all?

Chairman Henry A. Gonzalez' office confirmed consultations complications from flu. were held Tuesday and an aide said the Texas Democrat "stands on his statement that he has sufficient, substantive reasons" for firing chief investigator Richard A. Sprague

Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., confirming the new discussions, said no agreement may be possible if Gonzalez keeps to his earlier position.

House Democratic Texas said Friday he had proposed a compromise in which Gonzalez would not fire Sprague and Sprague would carry out the chairman's orders to Preyer said he sent a letter to the chairman's office notifying committee members of intentions to schedule a meeting because he understood Gonzalez may face a lengthy absence from Washington.

But he said he later learned Gonzalez expects to be back by Monday, so he dropped his plan.

He said the meeting would have dealt only with committee rules and finances and not with the dispute between the absent chairman and

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - President Carter Tuesday asked an apparently willing Congress to create a new Department of Energy which he said would bring "immediate order" to the nation's "fragmented system" of energy policy development.

In draft legislation that carried out a campaign pledge, Carter proposed that the new Cabinet-rank department incorporate functions now dispersed among nine departments and agencies.

Folded into the new department would be the Federal Energy Administration (FEA) with its responsibilities for policy analysis and oil price regulation and the Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA). The Federal Power Commission (FPC) would be abolished and new machinery created to control natural gas prices. Also merged would be the energyrelated activities of four departments - Defense, Interior, Commerce, and Housing and Urban Development and two regulatory bodies, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission

Along with the transferred functions, the new Energy Department would acquire the employes and budget outlays that have been used to carry them out - a starting staff of 19,700 workers and allocations of $10.6 billion in the still-pending budget for

Calling the legislation "a major step in my administration's program for a comprehensive reorganization of the Executive Branch," Carter said in a message accompanying the draft bill that no area was more in need of reorganization than energy policy.

"All but two of the Executive
Branch's Cabinet departments now have some responsibility for energy policy," the President said, "but no agency, anywhere in the federal government has the broad authority needed to deal with our energy problems in a comprehensive way.

The complex measure appeared tailored to avoid problems on Capitol Hill, and Carter took pains to clear the way for it at a Tuesday briefing at the White House for members of Congress interested in energy mat-

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass.) said the session produced unanimous support for the concept of an energy department. Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee, said later he thought the Senate would authorize creation of the new department this

While the legislation would give the

Energy Department control over many aspects of economic regulation in the energy field, it would leave in the Interior Department some of its historic authority over leasing energy resources under Federal control.

"We are leaving those functions in Interior because we believe that the responsibility for multiple use of public lands, and their environmental protection, belongs in one department
— Interior — that can reflect a broad spectrum of concern," Carter said in his message.

At the same time, however, the legislation would empower the Energy Department to set long-term production goals for federally owned resources and to draft regulations on the economic aspects of bids for leases to work federally owned properties. It would create a liaison committee to advise the Energy secretary on the leasing process and authorize the Energy secretary in dispute with the Interior secretary to go to the President for a final deci-

Holding that "health, safety and environmental regulation relating to energy" should not be the business of the new department, Carter proposed to insulate it from the politically ticklish question of nuclear power regulation.

The 1976 Tax Reform Act as adopted by Congress has established December 31, 1976 as a very important date. No longer can an heir receive marketable securities from an estate on a 'stepped-up' cost basis (i.e., the value used to compute the estate tax) but must adopt their fair market value as of 12/31/76 for future income tax purpose. Shearson would like to offer you a valuable service in this regard. We will price at no cost to you any list of securities you may send us to conform with the terms of the '76 Act. FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) - A Fort Worth woman was to return to the witness stand today for further questioning as prosecution and defense lawyers continue their tedious quest for jurors to hear the capital murder trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

Despite her statement that she doesn't want to serve on a jury that may be sequestered for as long as two months, the woman remained on the stand for two hours Tuesday. She was still being questioned when District Judge Tom Cave recessed court for

"I've never been on a jury, and I certainly don't want to be on this one," the woman told Asst. Dist. Atty. Joe Shannon Jr. as he inquired about her views on capital punishment probation for convicted murderers and prejudice for or against Davis subjects which have disqualified most of the persons questioned in the last five days of jury selection.

But the woman had not disqualified herself on legal grounds by the time Shannon finished his questioning.

Defense lawyer Richard "Racehorse" Haynes of Houston questioned her at length before the court session ended

The woman told Haynes she might have a bias in the case involving the death of someone's daughter - Davis is charged with the Aug. 3 murder of his 12-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn - because she is "very wrapped up in the life" of her 17-year-

But if Haynes does not push for her legal disqualification on those grounds it would take a peremptory 'strike" from either defense counsel or prosecutors to eliminate the woman from the jury. Haynes used the first of his 15 strikes - dismissais without a legal cause - to eliminate a man prosecutors had accepted for the panel. Haynes took that step after arguing with Judge Cave on the extent he could question the man about his views on capital punishment.

If convicted of capital murder, Davis, 43, could be sentenced to death in the electric chair or he could receive anywhere from 99 years in prison to probation if the jury decides he is guilty of the lesser charge of

Men sentenced on drug charge

Two men received probationary sentences Tuesday morning in 142nd District Court after pleading guilty to charges of possession of marijuana.

James Everett Watson, 26, was sentenced to eight years of probation and was fined $750 by Judge Perry D.

Doni Lee Wagnon, 23, will have a four-year probationary period and will have to pay a $500 fine. Both men are from Arkansas.

Police checking trailer theft

A 16-foot car trailer was reported stolen from a building at Midland Downs, North Fairground Road.

H. M. Maroney told Midland County Sheriff's Department that his trailer worth an estimated $1,000 was taken sometime between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m.

Priest's body found

GWELO, Rhodesia (AP) - The battered and mutilated body of a Spanish-born Roman Catholic missionary priest has been found near a mission school in southeastern Rhodesia, a church spokesman said today.

He was the 11th missionary to die in the past three months in remote areas of Rhodesia where guerrillas are battling the white minority government.

In Salisbury, the Rhodesian capital, an unprecedented revolt by right-wing members of parliament meanwhile threatened to torpedo Prime Minister Ian Smith's plans for dismantling some racist laws as a prelude to black majority rule in two years.

A church spokeman in the midlands town of Gwelo said Father Jose Manuel Rubio Diaz, 58, who had lived in Rhodesia for 28 years, was apparently killed by black nationalist guerrillas.

Father Rubio was reported missing from the remote Bangala mission in the southeast of the territory Monday. His car, its front windscreen shattered, was discovered the same day and the priest's body was found by a local official

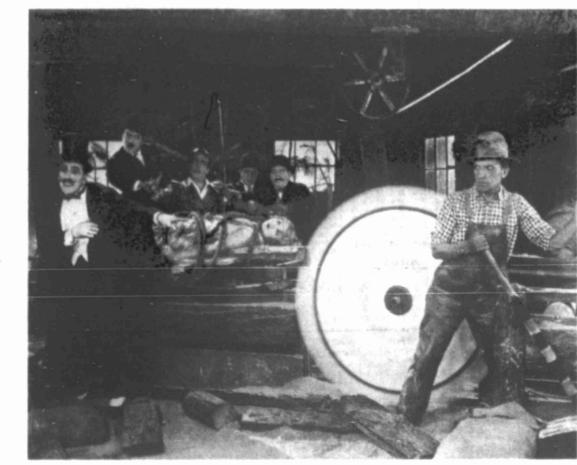

Tuesday. The spokesman said Father Rubio's body had been mutilated and that he apparently had been battered to death.

Black guerrillas were reported in the area where the Spaniard's body was found, 170 miles south of Salisbury and 70 miles east of Mozambique - launching pad for most offensives by insurgents.

In the parliamentary hassle, nine of the 50 ruling Rhodesian Front members of parliament in the 66-member legislature walked out of a closed session of the policy-making caucus in protest against Smith's proposed changes.

The walkout followed persistent reports of a split within the front caucus over Smith's proposals to amend the socalled Land Tenure Act - sweeping legislation passed in 1969 legitimizing the color bar in hotels, bars and restaurants and banning blacks from reserved white farmlands, industrial sites and commercial areas.

BATTLE SCENE MC, Cooke both apprehensive

After meeting twice already this season, you wouldn't think there vould be any boudoir secrets left between Midland College and Cooke County College, opening round adversaries in the Region V Tournament at Abilene Thursday.

"Oh, no, the last time we played Midland, Delnor Poss, who is coaching them now, was wearing a striped shirt and blowing a whisle on the floor," protests Cooke Coach J. C.

"I don't know what kind of changes he has made since he took over as coach, but I do know Midland has a lot of talent.

IT'S A two-way street, however. admittedly, Poss has seen Cooke in ection once, but his viewpoint as an official didn't help him much as a coach.

Even Shipley will confess, Cooke has undergone drastic changes since ppening the season with a 21-point loss o Midland at Denison.

Shipley took over as head coach the ay before school opened for the fall semester. He had been a successful coach at Missouri Southern, a fouryear college, for several years, but became disenchanted with the lack of facilities and the administration's esitancy to upgrade the program.

For a while it seemed as though he ould sit out this season, but then the Cooke job opened up and Shipley grabbed it.

"WE WERE going through quite a transitional period during the early days of the season. Four of the players came to Cooke the same time I did, so we didn't exactly have the pick of the crop."

In compiling a 15-14 record, Shipley describes the Cardinals' play as from respectable to so-so.' "We got a big lift at mid season when 6-7 Earl Warren and 6-6 Andy Rhodes became eligible." That was evident in January in the rematch won by Midland in the Tall City, 89-83, a night after Cooke beat Odessa College. Warren scored 14 points and Rhodes 10.

"IF WE play as a team, we do all right. If we play as individuals, we're not real good," Shipley says. "As a result we don't have anyone averaging a lot of points. Three of our top four scorers are those who came in with me the day before school started.'

Although Shipley hasn't seen Western Texas, the pretourney favorite, he believes McLennan is capable of making a strong defense of its Region V title. "Like Midland with Tommy Parks, McLennan has an outstanding guard in Vinnie Johnson. Actually, Coach (Johnny) Carter feels his team is stronger now than it was at this time

'One reason is because of stronger play at guards and he also feels his inside people can do more things under the basket than they could a year ago."

Cage tourney enters round 2

Teams completed first round play n the St. Ann's Seventh Annual Cityide Invitational Basketball Tournament Tuesday night.

Results in the Fifth grade division ncluded: St. Ann's 28, Anson Jones 7; Long-West-Lamar 25, Fannin 15; ease-Dezavela-Crockett 22, Henerson 7; Odessa Carver 33, Ben Milam 2: Washington 48, Odessa Hayes 17; San Houston 25, Bonham 8. Sixth grade results were: Odessa Hayes 51, Pease 28; Houston Bowie 21. Odessa Carver 20; Dezavala-Crockett 38, Henderson-Burnett 30; Rusk 49, Odessa Burleson 34; Odessa Ross 33, Washington 24.

In Tuesday's action, which completed first round action, St. Ann's defeated Bonham, 57-24, and Ben Milam down Emerson I, 34-21, in sixth grade competition.

Anson Jones beat Fannin, 29-20 in fifth grade consolation action, and Ben Milum bounced back to whip Henderson, 34-6.

Four more M-Cubs ink 77 contracts

With the opening of spring camp looming March 17 in Scottsdale, Ariz., the Midland Cubs have signed four more players contracts in the fold. bringing to 18 of the 24 Winter roster players to have returned contracts.

The latest addition to the Texas League club are lefthander Larry Groover, catcher Duane Gustavson, second baseman Keith Drumright and outfielder Joe Hernandez.

Groover spent the entire season at Midland last year and compiled a 2-0 won-lost record with a 5.03 earnedrun-average. The other three players joined the Cubs during the season.

Hernandez, off the Pan American University campus, was promoted to the Cubs from Pompano Beach and displayed good speed and batted .274.

DRUMRIGHT JOINED the Cubs off the University of Oklahoma campus and after a hesitant start batted .324 in 145 at bats. Gustavson, from the University of Wisconsin, batted .261 at a catcher-first baseman for Pompano and joined Midland at the tailend of the season.

Other recent signees include pitcher Ron Davis (8-8, 3.76 at Pompano Beach), pitcher David Wood, who played for Clinton of the Midwest League; catcher Greg Keatley (.215, six homers and 30 rbi at Pompano Beach) and infielder Keven Drury (.242 at Pompano Beach)

Bulldogs open baseball season with 7-3 victory

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

When those knifing March winds start blowing through West Texas, the weather seems a lot more appropriate for ice fishing or even igloo building. rather than baseball. But if you've got to suffer through the interminable pain of playing in it, you might as well go out and win. It makes double pneumonia that much easier to take.

The Midland High baseball team blue fingers, chapped lips and all did just that Tuesday afternoon on their home ice, err, I mean field, whipping Monahans 7-3, in the Pack's 1.977 nondistrict inaugural.

Kevin Widner and Steve Cole spearheaded Midland's nine-hit attack, as the Pack presented rookie Coach Larry Peel with quite a nice hou sewarming present. The pair each blasted out three safeties against Lobe) pitching, and Widner picked up the mound victory, going 5 innings before giving way to reliever Bud

· Widner limited the Loboes to just six hits all singles, and Brigham retired all four men he faced to preserve the win.

Monahans drew first blood in the contest, taking advantage of early control problems by Widner, and pushed across a run in the second inning.

The blond right hander walked Lobo left fielder. Gary Cave and shortstop Johnny Grimes to start out the frame, and after striking out the next two batters, he was nicked by a run scoring single through the right side by first baseman Jay Jernigan.

The Pack put the game out of reach in the fourth, striking for five runs. Midland outfielder James Zachry led off with a single, and James Allen made it 3-1 moments later, when he deposited a high Balderez breaking ball that didn't break over the left

With still only one out, Balderez worked Widner to a full count before losing him, and the hook came from the bench, as Tracy Lisman moved fron right field to the pitching mound. He walked Ed Shipman, and David Johnston hit into a fielder's choice to put men on first and third with two

Looking for an insurance run, Peel ordered Johnston into a rundown tagged out. But not before Widner came home with the sixth Midland
