Apology to Chile called inappropriate

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter today termed inappropriate the apology ventured by a U.S. diplomat for alleged American involvement in the overthrow of a leftwing Chilean government, and at the same time announced the end of the ban on American travel to four Communist nations.

In repudiating the statement on Chile by United Nations envoy Brady Tyson, Carter acknowledged that the United States "has been at fault in some instances" for infringing on human rights accords. But he did not put the 1973 overthrow of Chilean President Salvador Allende in that

He said, instead, that the American travel ban was such an instance, and that it will be lifted effective March 18. That will permit U.S. citizens to travel to Cuba, Vietnam, North Korea and Cambodia.

Tyson said in Geneva that he exceeded his instructions but did not act contrary to them in apologizing for what he said was American involvement in the ouster of Allende.

"I think the remarks made by the delegate concerning our past involvement in Chilean internal affairs were inappropriate," he told his third White House news conference. Carter said a Senate committee has not found any proof that the United States was involved in Allende's overthrow but only in financial aid to some political groups in Chile.

"The statement made by our delegate was made on his own and does not represent the view of our

He linked that episode with the broader question of human rights under the Helsinki agreement, saying that the administration remains concerned about that issue. Carter noted that administration officials will go to Belgrade later this year to join in assessment of the human rights ac-

During the presidential campaign, Carter himself had said the United States was involved in the Allende overthrow. On Oct. 6, in campaign debate, he said the Republican administration "overthrew an elected military dictatorship.

Carter began the news conference with his announcement about travel to the four Communist nations.

He warned that Americans who want to visit those nations should take precautions because the United States has no diplomatic relations there and the establishment of such ties is "a doubtful prospect at this point."

Council sells $6.5 million in bonds

By LARRY SUTHERLAND

Midland City Council Tuesday sold $6.5 million in bonds to a combined purchaser made up of Cullen Center Bank Trust Co. of Houston, Bank of Oklahoma, Tulsa, Okla., and the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith Inc.

The three submitted a low bid of 4.9468 per cent average annual interest rate, with a net interest cost to the city of $3,496,162. The bonds have an 18-year maturity date.

Other bidders were Underwood Neuhaus Inc. of Houston, 4.9718 per cent; First City National Bank of Houston, 4.9771 per cent; The First National Bank of Midland, 4.955 per ent with a $267 premium a Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., 4.9977 per cent, and Republic National Bank of Dallas, 4.9914 per cent.

The bonds provide $4 million for renovations and improvements to Midland Regional Air Terminal, $1 million for the city's street improvement program and $1.5 million for the downtown exhibition center and adjacent park area.

The Midland City Council Tuesday formally called an April 2 bond election for the voters to consider four issues that would finance improvements in the parks and recreation system and build a new

One issue would appropriate $1.2 million for a recreation center, a second would allocate $900,000 for nine additional holes at Hogan Park Golf Course and a clubhouse, a third would appropriate $1.9 million for existing park improvements and new parks, and the fourth would provide $3.25 million for constructing a new

Jonathan Garcia was pronounced dead at the pool near Tall City Apartments, 1506 Garden City Highway, by Justice of the Peace Robert H. Pine about 1:30 p.m.

The child apparently had wandered into the two to three feet of water that had accumulated in the pool to retrieve some items floating in the water, police said. The child's father found the body, police said.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Garcia who reside in apartment 67.

Rebate plan due fight

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fights over plans for a $50-per-person rebate and a new business tax break are likely to continue during Senate action on the House-approved version of President Carter's program to stimulate the

The tax reduction bill, worth $43.1 billion during the next 31 months, was passed Tuesday by the House, 282 to 131, after battles over features giving 200 million Americans up to $50 each this spring and summer and creating a new job-stimulating tax cut mainly for smaller businesses.

A key vote on the rebates came when the House, by 219 to 194, rejected a Republican backed attempt to substitute an across-theboard tax cut in place of the rebates.

Top state law enforcement officials joined with Midland civic leaders Tuesday night to honor former Sheriff Ed Darnell and his wife Juanita at an appreciation barbecue dinner.

More than 1,500 persons swelled the Midland County Exhibit Building paying tribute to Darnell and his 36 years' service to Midland County longer than any Texas sheriff in a county as large as Midland.

The banquet was staged by old friends of the former sheriff with the help of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Darnell relinquished the office Jan. 1 this year, having first won office in 1941.

Tuesday had been proclaimed "Ed Darnell Day" by Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., and a copy of that proclamation was presented to Darnell by Mrs. Angelo.

Midland school trustees approve 19 new textbooks for classrooms

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

School trustees Tuesday adopted recommended textbooks in 19 subject

The texts were recommended by a committee of teachers and the schools superintendent. The books were selected from among those books approved by the Texas Education Agency and will be used at least the next five years, schools superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey said.

With the exception of cosmotology and supplementry bilingual reading books, all the adoptions were for one text per subject, so that each student will have a textbook for his own use. Mailey said.

Areas for which textbooks were adopted include biology, marine science, chemistry, geology, aviationaerospace fundamentals, business, cosmetology, bilingual education, geometry, fundamentals of mathematics, trigonometry, consumer mathematics, algebra, journalism, world history, physics, French, spelling and dictionaries.

Mailey said the usual adoption period is five years but the state can extend that period. Adopted books are supplied to the school district at no charge but the school district can purchase other books from local funds if it wishes to, he said. Also at Tuesday's meeting, Trustee Joe Dominey and his opponent Kingdon R. Hughes drew places for the April 2 election ballot. Dominey will be listed first on the ballot. Trustee James Ramsoure is seeking relection without opposition.

Trustees also met in executive session with real estate agent C. E. Hogue to discuss acquisition of land for expansion of Midland High School. Dominey said he is "encouraged by the progress" Hogue reported. Dominey said the board is considering expansion of both high schools which would cost approximately $2.5 million, with large portion" of that amount going to Midland High improvements and expansion.

The board postponed action on a proposal by The First National Bank of Midland to sponsor educational tours of Washington, D.C., for secondary school students.

The tours, which would be scheduled for next fall, would each last two days and cost $229, with the cost to be borne by the student, said Harry Clark, senior vice president of the bank.

The trustees expressed concern about the number of students who could not afford the cost of the trip. Clark said some "scholarship" trips are built into the cost structure and the bank would help find sponsors for other students.

Trustee Don Sparks said he is concerned about the cost for the number of hours actually spent seeing Washington. "I question just how much they'll get out of this sort of thing," he said.

The board voted unanimously to table a motion to approve school cosponsorship of the tours in order to study the matter further.

Trustee David Grimes requested a report from the administration on the policy for overnight school-sponsored

Also at the Tuesday meeting, Em Carnett, superintendent of recreation for the City of Midland Parks and Recreation Department, requested the trustees allow courtesy rules for use of tennis courts to be posted yearround

Carnett said the courts are being abused by people who monopolize them or improperly use them.

The trustees agreed to have administration representatives meet with city officials and representatives of Midland tennis associations to discuss the rules.

They also approved a request for use of Austin Freshman School and seven elementary schools for the city's summer recreation program. The elementary schools are Rusk, Burnet, Crockett, Pease, Fannin, Emerson and Bowie.

The city will pay a $700 rental fee for Austin and $100 for each of the elementary school playgrounds at the end of the summer program. In other business, the board voted to commend teachers and administrators for the way they handled school evacuations during a recent grass fire.

Grimes requested a report on vocational education be presented to the board. He also said he wants the school board to examine the crossing guard situation in light of a proposal for the city to reduce the number of crossing guards.

In other action, the trustees accepted bids and awarded contracts for several items.

Jim Eagle Inc. of Fort Worth was awarded a contract for fertilizer for $9,979. Wilson Heidelberg, supervisor of purchasing for the school district, said the district saved from 10 to 12 per cent on the purchase by combining its bid with that of the city and

Other bidders were Goldwaite of Fort Worth, at $10,500; Goldwaite of San Antonio, at $11,060; Chem and Turf Specialty, at $13,104; J. B. Mill, at $13,440 and Goldwaite of Houston at $11,340.

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) -Hope faded for trapped earthquake victims today as rescuers and trained dogs pressed a round-the-clock search through the rubble of collapsed apartment buildings.

"Last night the dogs found a family still alive over there," said a sergeant at the ruins of the Scala cafe and apartment house, "but when we got to them this morning, they were all dead -father, mother and daughter."

The official toll in Romania is still 1,034 dead, 810 of them in Bucharest, and 6,185 injured. But dead bodies are still being found in the rubble and have not been added to the total.

The Scala was one of 32 apartment buildings that collapsed in the Romania capital during the quake last Friday night. Three men and three dogs from the Swiss Catastrophe Dog Association searched at the ruins.

Aneta Balausan, 20, was found alive late Tuesday after being trapped for nearly 100 hours without food or water. She was taken to a military hospital where doctors said her crushed leg would have to be amputated below the knee. Her family was killed.

Temperatures that had been as high as 50 degrees dropped to near freezing Tuesday night, increasing the risk to trapped survivors of death from exposure. But except for a brief shower Monday, rescue workers have been helped by clear weather. The workers said it would be days before they had cleared all the debris and recovered all bodies. Meanwhile, Yugoslav officials said light tremors shook the area around Krusevac, about 95 miles south of Belgrade, Tuesday night and early today, but no damage or injuries were

Warnke due confirmation today

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is winding up a four-day debate and preparing to vote on the controversial nomination of Paul C. Warnke to be President Carter's chief arms limitation negotiator with the Soviet Union.

Separate votes were set for late today, first on Warnke's appointment to head the U.S. delegation to the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT), and then as director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament

Senate confirmation was not in doubt, only the size of the margin.

Senate Democratic leaders forecast that Warnke would receive 58 to 65 affirmative votes for the SALT ambassadorship and more for ACDA

Republican leaders said the opposition will muster more than one-third of the Senate. That is significant since a twothirds Senate majority will be needed to ratify any new treaties emerging from SALT negotiations.

Opponents have pictured Warnke as a potentially weak negotiator due to his past opposition to major new U.S. nuclear weapons systems, advocacy of desense budget cuts, and suggestions of unilateral arms restraints by the United States to see if the Soviet Union would reciprocate.

Credibility became an issue in the debate Tuesday with such senators as Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., accusing Warnke of "doctoring" prior statements on the significance of nuclear numerical superiority, and then blaming misplaced commas and word deletions on typographical errors.

'The issue is credibility and integrity," Jackson said. "Are you going to believe this man?"

Defending Warnke, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., replied: "You're trying to take a nit off a gnat and make an alligator out of it."

Warnke, 57, a Washington lawyer and former assistant secretary of defense in the Johnson and Kennedy administrations, was recommended for confirmatin to both posts by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee by votes of 15 to 1 and 14 to 2. The Senate Armed Services Committee, which lacked jurisdiction, conducted a three-day separate hearing but took no vote. Sen. William L Scott, R-Va., said his personal count indicated that 13 of the 18 armed services panel members opposed Warnke. Scott was among the opponents.

Gonzalez raps House leadership for vote

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — U.S. Rep. Henry Gonzalez has blasted house leadership saying he was forced to resign as chairman of the House Assassination Committee because the leaders would not support him.

The full House voted 296 to 100 to accept his resignation Tuesday.

Gonzalez singled out House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill and House Democratic majority leader Jim Wright as adversaries.

Commenting on his lack of support, Gonzalez said Tuesday that, "There was not much I could do. I was not going to act like a stooge like the rest of them.'

Referring to fellow-Texan Wright. Gonzalez said, "One reason for the oil shortage is that half of it is in his

Taking both on at once, Gonzalez said, "Even if they were born again, I wouldn't touch them with a 15-foot pole because they sold me down the river."

Gonzalez said he was sandbagged as a chairman, saying that O'Neill was a close friend of the Kennedy family and never wanted a probe into the assassination of former President John F. Kennedy re-opened.

"I've been sandbagged to appear as that damn Mexican who, if he can't pitch, won't play ball," he said.

Gonzalez resigned last week after a showdown in which he tried to fire the committee's chief counsel, Richard Sprague. The committee members refused to allow Gonzalez to fire Sprague.

Last weekend, Gonzalez said that the assassination of former President John F. Kennedy "will never really be

HEMISPHERE REPORT:

Treaty agreement eludes U.S., Panama

President Jimmy Carter now knows that it is easier to talk about a new Panama Canal treaty than to get one.

He sent his own Latin American adviser, Sol Linowitz, to Panama to take part in the latest round of treaty talks there.

But Linowitz and Ambassador Elisworth Bunker, who has handled the negotiations since 1973, returned to Washington after nine days in the isthmian republic without having resolved any of the principal

The biggest obstacle at the moment seems to be the United States' concern over security and neutrality of the 50-mile-long interoceanic waterway well into the next century. Panama wants a treaty under which the year 2000 would be set as the deadline for the elimination of the U.S. presence there - both its military presence and its administration of the canal. As things stand now, neither country can back down gracefully.

Panamanian dictator Gen. Omar Torrijos has based his career the last eight years on bold, even insulting talk about and to the United States.

Were he to switch tactics now and agree to the stationing of U.S. armed forces in Panama for defense of the canal after 2000, he would lose face in the eyes of the radicals at home in

WILLIAM GIANDONI

Panama and elsewhere in Latin America and the world.

By the same token, Mr. Carter would lose prestige in the unlikely event that his handpicked envoy were to agree to a draft treaty that did not provide for the defense of the canal that the United States built under terms of the Hay-Bunau Varilla pact

Presumably no such document could ever go into effect. A treaty submitted to the Congress that did not appear to guarantee U.S. interests would not be ratified.

Panamanians are well aware of the depth of the feelings in the United States on the canal question.

But the dictatorship's hopes are kept alive by the belief that Panama has influential friends in the U.S. Senate. For example, former Foreign Minister Aquilino Boyd said in February that, although U.S. treaty negotiators have never officially accepted the year 2000 as the deadline for Panamanian control of the canal. Sen. Hubert Humphrey had said it was very reasonable. He also said that Sen. Mike Gravel advised him to 'stand your ground because this is a winning position."

Boyd is out of the picture, for the time being, at least.

A few days before the latest round of treaty talks started, he resigned, saying that he was in disagreement with Torrijos over "methodology. Torrijos, in accepting the resignation, made it sound as if he felt Boyd had been trying to upstage him.

To judge by press reports on the talks, which were closed to the communications media, there was no sense of urgency about them, although Mr. Carter said in January that the Panama Canal treaty was a matter of highest priority, and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance said that the new U.S. policy toward Latin America should begin by setting a good example in the Panama Canal

At one point during the sessions, it was announced that Torrijos himself had taken charge of negotiations and that the talks would be held right through the long Carnival weekend Yet the next day Torrijos flew off to Barranquilla, in neighboring Colombia. There he met with President Alfonso Lopez Michelsen for one of their frequent private conferences and joined in local Carnival festivities. As Linowitz and Bunker left Panama, they issued a statement to the effect that during the recently completed negotiations we were able to make some progress, but the principal problems remain without being resolved.

At that rate, it seems unlikely that Mr. Carter's administration will achieve its goal of a new canal treaty by mid-1977

Memorabilia damaged on train

By JACK ANDERSON and LES

WASHINGTON - Several priceless historical documents, including Benjamin Franklin's copy of the Articles of Confederation and the original manuscript of the Battle Hymn of the Republic, were damaged aboard the Freedom Train.

The 12-car special completed a 26,000-mile bicentennial journey in 1975-76, bringing a display of American memorabilia to 48 states. through the train to inspect the precious exhibits. Before the train hit the rails, the Smithsonian Institution provided strict instructions on the care and keeping of historical documents. For example, the temperature was supposed to be kept around 70 degrees, the humidity level at 50 per

Peter Spurney, president of the Freedom Train Foundation, explained how difficult it was to create a museum environment on board a train, "It was the difference between the Smithsonian and a circus," he told our reporter, Gilda Le Patner.

At least the train was better insulated, he said, than the original Freedom Train, which controlled the heat by piling ice on the roof. At the end of the journey, the bicentennial special delivered back to the owners a number of torn documents, cracked trophies and chipped sculpture. Aside from the wrinkling of Ben Franklin's 1775 copy of the Articles of Confederation and rips in three corners of the original Battle Hymn of the Republic manuscript, here are a few more of

The leatherbound cover of the late Rev. Martin Luther King's Bible had corroded; shrinking and expanding damaged the Delaware Ratification; a rip was lengthened in Jim Thorpe's Olympic scroll; an original Edison phonograph record melted inside its sealed case; one page in 1756 edition of Poor Richard's Almanac reportedly began to curl; a Navajo Yei blanket and cachina doll were damaged.

A few items also disappeared, including two bicentennial coin sets, two World Series baseball pennants and a set of baseball cards.

Repairs have been made and ruffled feelings soothed. But as one of the train's curators put it: "Once damage occurs it cannot be undone. An item can be repaired, but this is devaluing to the item."

HEARST AND HUGHES: Howard R. Hughes and his aides turned down a request to help finance the ransom of Patty Hearst according to the late billionaire's private papers, because they feared Hughes might be kidnapped in retaliation by the gun-crazy Symbionese Liberation Army.

The relationship between Hughes and the Hearsts is revealed in the cache of papers, which the Mexican authorities seized at our instigation after the dying billionaire was flown from Acapulco to Houston last year.

Hughes had always admired William Randolph Hearst Sr., founder of the Hearst newspaper empire and builder of the fabulous San Simeon eastle. It is likely that the late publisher may have inspired some of Hughes' early dash.

Hearst's son, William Randolph Jr., turned to Hughes in 1966 to save his struggling New York newspaper, the World Journal Tribune. Although Hughes dearly wanted a newspaper outlet in a major city, he dilly dallied as the paper piled up loses.

Hearst finally heard from Hughes the same day he was forced to close down the paper. Recalling it all a decade later, Hearst said that Hughes probably would have kept on dawdling. "I liked him," said Hearst, "but he was tight as a sausage skin."

Again in 1974, the Hearsts appealed to Hughes for part of the $4 million ransom for Patty Hearst. The recluse's attorney, Chester Davis, reported that he and aide William Gay "both feel very strongly that it would be highly inadvisable for you to become involved.

Hughes, therefore, rejected the request, but left open the option "if at the last minute it appears that (the Hearsts) need immediate cash."

Still later in 1974, the Hearst corporation was buying back its stock from the foundations that held it.

Bill limiting gas contracts passing

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Representatives take a final vote today on a bill limiting take-or-pay gas contracts, which tend to increase the price consumers pay for natural gas.

The measure won tentative approval in the House on Tuesday, 102-

A bill-killing amendment came close to adoption, however, and the measure was saved only by the flipflops of 12 members who changed sides in mid-debate.

House members were told take-orpay contracts require pipeline companies to pay producers for specified amounts of gas, even if demand declines and they cannot use it all. Such situations occur, for instance, in warm winters.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth, would prohibit contracts requiring the buyer to take more than 80 per cent of the seller's deliverable gas.

As written, it also gave buyers two years in which to make up shortfalls in their purchases under such con-

Representatives changed that to three years, however, on a 74-63 vote. Also added was a provision requiring producers to share with landowners the revenue they obtain under take-or-pay contracts for gas not actually sold

Schieffer said gas prices to consumers rise when pipeline companies must pay producers for gas they don't receive

Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. has contended that take-or-pay has added more than a dime per 1,000 cubic feet (mcf) of gas during some months.

Rep. John Wilson, D-LaGrange, said the take-or-pay problem was solved by the railroad commission's Dec. 13 order tying gas production allowables to pipeline company estimates of their monthly needs.

"If the legislature votes for 80 per cent take-or-pay, I guarantee the oil industry will tell the railroad commission the legislature has mandated

He offered an amendment dropping the permissible take-or-pay requirement to 10 per cent of a producer's deliverable gas. A motion to table it failed, 60-79.

"I'll be very candid with you, my amendment kills HB873," Wilson

But after long minutes of further debate, the amendment itself failed,

Switching sides were Reps. Bennie Bock, D-New Braunfels; Phil Cates, D-Pampa: Forest Green, D-Corsicans; T. H. McDonald, Mesquite; Walt Parker, D-Denton; Clay Smothers, D-Dallas; Bill Sullivant, D-Gainesville, Kenneth Vaughan, D-Garland; Tim Von Dohlen, D-Goliad; Ralph Wallace, D-Houston; Emmett Whitehead, D-Rusk; and Ron Wilson, D-Houston

Bills passed by the Senate Tuesday and sent to the House would:

-Provide at least a partial refund of tuition fees to college students who drop courses within the first 20 days of the spring or fall semesters or before the seventh day of summer sessions.

-Raise the maximum fee for renewal of an optometrist license from $60 to $75.

-Create a state program to help pay for treatment for persons suffering from hemophilia. The estimated cost over the next two years is $5 million. Treatment for the blood disorder is such an "awesome burden that it cannot be sustained even by persons with great subsaid the bill sponsor, Sen. stance. Gene Jones, D-Houston.

-Set up a committee of state employes to screen those who may solicit charitable contributions from state workers. The bill, by Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, prohibits attempts to force employes to contribute, but they could have a specified amount deducted from their paycheck each month.

Confession bill backed

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Texas is the only state in the union that disqualifies police officers as witnesses, a Dallas prosecutor has told the House Criminal Jurisprudence Com-

Asst. Dist. Atty. James Russell Ormesher testified Tuesday for a bill that would permit the introduction of oral confessions at trials.

Sponsored by Rep. G.R. Close, R-Perryton, the bill is part of Gov. Dolph Briscoe and House Speaker Bill Clayton's 10-bill anticrime package. It was referred to a subcommittee.

Under the measure, oral confessions made to and sworn to by at least two police officers would be admissible in court. Under present law, oral admissions a defendant makes while under arrest cannot be admitted unless it leads to corroborating

seems torn by broadly conflicting arguments on future U.S. policy toward white-ruled African countries.

The go-slow advocates have British backing, which emerged last month when officials of the two nations conferred here on Rhodesia and on the overall South African situation. Sources say the Carter administration officials urging strong action against white minority regimes in Africa have been arguing that African and Asian nations expect no less than Carter's uncompromising opposition to South Africa's discriminatory practices.

South African blacks have no political franchise, their movements are subject to control and many live below the subsistence level.

These administration authorities argue that Carter will look hypocritical to the nonwhite peoples of the world if, with his stated commitment to human rights, he demonstrates no displeasure with the South African apartheid policy.

But sources say the other side has countered by warning Carter that the United States would be sucked into a bottomless pit of trouble if it tries to interfere. They say a withdrawal of U.S. investments from South Africa would create domestic and international difficulties without necessarily helping African blacks.

They advise Carter that it would be questionable if even friendly nations would back up the U.S. position and they warn that a Cuba-like boycott could turn into a political boomerang because other nations would take advantage of U.S. economic withdrawal.

TEC seeks new jobs for Dotty Dan workers

LAMESA - Texas Employment Commission (TEC) employes in Lamesa and Midland are preparing to help place Lamesa workers who may be displaced if Dotty Dan Manufacturing Co. closes here later this month

Magnatex Industries, the Midland-based holding company which owns the plant, announced its decision to close the plant last week.

ROACHES SILVERTISH 2000

FIVE ROOM HOUSE

"The ball is already rolling" to help accommodate the workers, said Dorothy Foster, supervisor interviewer at the Midland TEC office. One Midland employer has expressed a need for the skills of the plant workers, she said. The workers would need to move to Midland, however, she said. Meanwhile, both offices are trying to place the workers in Lamesa jobs. "We don't have anything new and big on the horizon to offer these people," said Cecil James Stewart, assistant manager of the Lamesa TEC office. The office would be able to provide the regular unemployment claim service and registration and placement service, "where and when we can," he Stewart said his office was doing what it could to place people in jobs in Lamesa.

Only "a trickle" of persons from the plant had been for job interviews, Stewart said, rather than the flood of persons they had expected.

The Midland office has made preliminary contacts with certain Midland employers who might need the skills of the workers. The office has a job bank with job listings in Big Spring, San Angelo, Midland, Odessa, Pecos and Lamesa, Mrs. Foster said. The Lamesa workers can check with the job bank in the Lamesa office and make arrangements for interview appointments through the office, Mrs. Foster said.

Employes at Dotty Dan were notified last week they would continue working until the spring and summer line of garments was completed. The plant will close by the end of March unless another investor can be found to lease or buy the plant.

Magnatex president Charles Priddy said Tuesday that Magnatex had made one proposal to Lamesa investors in order to give them a chance to buy the plant, but that the investors had refused the offer. Magnatex is continuing to search for an investor, Priddy said.

Vehicle sign-up slow

Last minute lines at the tax office for vehicle registration promise to be even longer this year than in years past.

At the end of the fifth week after registration began, only 26,151 Midland County residents had registered their vehicles, tax office chief deputy Frances Shuffield said Tuesday.

The figure represents 661 fewer persons than had registered by this time last year, she said.

The number of registrants expected in 1977 is not known yet, but Mrs. Shuffield said she expects at least 72,600 to have registered for 1976 by the time all the figures for that year are totaled.

Mrs. Shuffield said

may register just as they have done in previous years by bringing in the title to their vehicle and their registration receipt from 1976.

'This will help a great deal," she said. Mrs. Shuffield urged Midland County residents avoid last-minute lines at the tax office. The tax east end of the Midland County Courthouse basement.

An Andrews man filed a $750,000 lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Midland alleging negligence in the manufacturing of a diesel truck involved in an accident which seriously disabled him March 3, Manuel Gonzales of Andrews named the White Motor Corp., along with Freightliner Corp., a subsidiary of Consolidated Freightways, Inc., General Motors Corp., and Eaton Corp. as defendants in the lawsuit.

The filing contends that while loading fertilizer at the Phillips Fertilizer Plant at Hurlwood he 'rigged up the horses in order to load the tank on the truck."

The truck was in neutral gear with the 'power takeoff'' operating in order to run the pump which would transfer the liquid fertilizer from the tanks.

'Suddenly the truck began to move foward slowly," the filing contends. Gonzales repeatedly hit the kill switch on the dashboard of the truck in order to stop the diesel. The truck struck a utility pole and Gonzales was crushed, the filing contends.

The plaintiff charges the defendants failed to use the proper materials reasonably suited for the manufacture of the system to stop the operation of the diesel

Andrews attorney Dan Sullivan filed the lawsuit on behalf of Gonzales.

Garnish, like his father before him, is supervisor of the Krohn Conservatory here. His waiting room is more jammed than ever now because of the recent interest in indoor plants.

They can be found in most department stores and are often on sale at the local supermarket. What was once a search for a little touch of greenery has developed into an obsession for the plant world, a realm in which Garnish has worked most of his life.

"Lots of times people call to tell us they've got a sick plant, but it's like talking to a doctor on a phone. You can't tell what's wrong with a plant from someone describing the symptoms," said Garnish, whose knowledge comes from experience rather than Garnish says the problem often is that people go too far too fast in selecting their first plants. b They wander through the conservatory and become enamored of an exotic orchid or delicate palm.

"They see a plant that looks pretty and they immediately want one just like it," Garnish said. "And if they don't lose interest in it, it often just can't be grown in the average household.

"The truth is that 50 per cent of the plants that you buy will probably die." The two leading

Criminology professor moonlights as officer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - "Police, freeze!" bellowed the parttime cop and full-time professor, aiming his .38-caliber revolver at a youth who was jimmying an apartment window.

The youth whirled around, dropped to the ground and jammed his hands into the pockets of his windbreaker. George Kirkham's heart hammered and his finger tightened on the trigger, but he did not fire his gun.

It turns out that he was just living with this girl and she locked him out. Kirkham said. "It was just a lover's quarrel. The guy was drunk, and I told him: 'You came very close to getting shot today.'

"You've got to make these split-second decisions," added the associate professor of criminology at Florida State University, who moonlights as a police officer.

In the summer of 1973, Kirkham left FSU for five months to work full-time as a Jacksonville city policeman. He patrolled a tough district.

He said his worst experience came when a mob of 150 angry blacks surrounded him and a partner, freed a prisoner, stoned their car and grabbed for their revolvers. Kirkham, leveling his shotgun, fended off the mob until help arrived.

"And I used to think that policemen had no business carrying shotguns in their cars," said the criminologist.

Stamp show slated

LUBBOCK — One of the oldest and largest stamp shows in the Southwest, SOPLEX-HIPLEX '77, will be held Saturday and Sunday in the banquet hall of Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Approximately 15 stamp dealers from Texas, New Mexico, Colorado and Oklahoma will offer stamps and other philatelic items for sale. Almost every category of stamp collections will be exhibited in more than 1,000 pages of stamps, show officials said.

The show is sponsored by the South Plains Stamp Club, made up of stamp collectors in the South Plains of Texas, and the High Plains Regional Philatelic Association, comprised of New Mexico and West Texas stamp collectors.

The show is from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Water totals decline

BIG SPRING — Water deliveries to customers of the Colorado River Municipal Water District fell 5 per cent last month, compared to February 1976, CRMWD reported.

The district said cool weather reduced water demands by one of the sharpest declines in several months.

Also, total deliveries for the first two months of this year are off about 2 per cent from January and February of 1976.

Municipal deliveries were down 7.75 per cent last month, with 735,811,000 gallons delivered. Oil and industrial users were off 1.43 per cent, with 586,674,686 gallons delivered in February.

On the other hand, mining users used 2.57 per cent more water for the first two months of this year compared to the same period in 1976.

Dorothy Hicks found guilty

BIG SPRING — Dorothy Lynn Hicks was found guilty of murder without malice in the March 25, 1972 shooting death of Joe Willis Winters. She was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary in a murder trial in 118th District Court Tuesday. During the trial, which began Monday, Mrs. Hicks testified that she wanted to scare Winters, so she stopped in front of his house and called him out.

She said it was the first time she had ever tried to fire a gun and that she didn't mean to soot him.

Bill seeks exception to state gambling law

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Rep. Douglas McLeod, D-Galveston, wants Texas legislators to allow luxury cruise ships to bring gambling equipment into Texas ports - as long it's locked up and local authorities know it's on board.

The House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee referred McLeod's measure to a subcommittee Tuesday after a Galveston tourism official told them that Texas ports need the law to keep from losing a growing luxury craft business.

The proposal was prompted by last summer's incident in which Galveston officials impounded gambling paraphenalia aboard the cruise ship Vera Cruz. Under present Texas law, it is illegal to possess any type of gambling equipment in Texas waters. "We need this bill since we're in competition with Louisiana and other ports that allow these ships to dock with their gambling equipment," said Peter Brink of the Galveston Historical Foundation.

"We're in no way attacking the policy of the state of Texas against gambling." Brian Williams, a Galveston at-torney representing Sun Lines Inc., a cruise ship company owned by the Marriott Corp., said his firm is willing to do whatever is necessary to avoid the burden of having to unload gambling equipment whenever they dock in Texas ports.

He indicated that unless the bill is passed, the cruise ship industry, which finds the location of Texas ports very attractive, might have shift to Gulf ports in other states.

"This bill has nothing to do with gambling in the state of Texas," said Williams. "The good companies shouldn't be penalized."

Senate's code beats House's

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The proposed new Senate code of official conduct, being drafted by a special committee, will bar members and top staffers from also working for pay as lawyers, insurance or real estate agents, physicians, architects and other "profes-

The curb on professional income began originally nembers and staffers who are lawyers earning $25,000 or more from practicing in addition to their senate business. It was subsequently expanded to include other professions and goes beyond any provision in the House ethics

The complete Senate ethics package has been subjected to some tinkering over the past few days by a special committee to bring it into closer line with the House ethics code approved last week.

The draft code, which had been tentatively agreed to by the committee earlier, is expected to be made public Friday and debated on the floor, possibly as early as next Tuesday.

Like the House code, the Senate draft code provides a limit of 15 per cent of a member's salary to any additional earned income, such as honoraria, he will be permitted to receive. Also in line with the House, the Senate draft permits unlimited unearned income to be received by a member from investments

As does the House code, the senate proposal calls for extensive public disclosure of all permitted income, investment holdings and gifts.

The Senate drafters, however, put into their package a series of rules not contained in the House

-Former senators are barred for one year from lobbying their former colleagues or Senate staffers on behalf of a client. The same one-year lobbying prohibition applies to committee staffers and Senate

-The income disclosure provisions, applicable to senators, are made enforceable on individuals who announce themselves as candidates for a Senate seat. Under the code, such an individual would have to make public his income for the prior year at the time he announces for the Senate.

-The outside income limitation of 15 per cent is applied to Senate staffers earning $35,000 per year or more. Such an individual is permitted to accept speaking honoraria of up to $3000 per speech and a total of $1,500 per year.

Actress detained by Rome police

ROME (AP) - Customs police held actress Sophia Loren overnight for questioning about her husband's finances, then let her fly to their home in Paris today.

The 42-year-old star was detained for nine hours at Rome's international airport. Police sources said she was interrogated in connection with an investigation into tax and currency activities of her husband, movie producer Carlo Ponti.

Last month police searched Ponti's office in Rome and the couple's villa in the hills south of Rome and seized some papers.

"The whole matter concerns explanations on routine customs matters," Miss Loren's chief attorney, Emmanuele Golino, said. "The questioning may also be connected with the financial status of Mr. Ponti and recent investigations begun by financial authorities."

Miss Loren was reported in tears during her long stay in the airport customs office. When she emerged just before boarding a 5:05 a.m. flight to Paris, she refused to answer reporters' questions but managed to smile for photographers. Ponti met Miss Loren at the airport in Paris, but neither would discuss her interrogation. "I'm tired because I haven't slept," she said. "I don't want to talk now," said Ponti. "I just want

No relief in sight for drought-suffering West

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - In spite of late-February storms that brought new hope to the rain-starved West. March is tiptoeing at its gentlest over an area suffering through one of the driest years in history.

An Associated Press survey of drought-affected Western states shows that an increasingly grim picture has not been brightened by sporadic precipitation breaking through a coastal high pressure system that has held off storms for most of the winter.

Ski resorts from California to Utah. for example, experienced a brief mini-boom in business from only the first or second good snowfall this year. But the snow soon melted.

At a few resorts, it was already too late. Hoping for better times next year, they have shut down lifts, laid off standby employes and boarded up

In water-rationed Marin County. across the bay from San Francisco. residents who set out dishpans and buckets to catch rain got only 11/2 inches of water after four days of onand-off rainfall.

East of Colorado, another storm system has settled in, but without bringing rain or snow, just wind to pick up the dusty topsoil.

Scattered along with the soil was an undetermined amount of the unsprouted winter wheat seed normally protected by a snow blanket at this time of year.

In Washington, there is a slight chance of a wetter-than-usual spring but federal officials said that because the first part of the winter was so dry, it would take 285 per cent of normal precipitation before summer to bring conditions back to normal.

In Oregon, long-range snowpack and precipitation forecasts are the worst in 100 years.

In Sacramento, Calif., hydrologists at the National Weather Service's River Forecast Office each week cut their estimates of how much water will run off into California's river and reservoir system.

At the start of February, they predicted only about a third more runoff this summer than in 1924, until now the driest year on record.

But by the beginning of March, chief hydrologist Robert Burnash said the center was predicting - at best just 86 per cent as much water as in 1924, making this the worst drought in California's history.

A report issued Tuesday by California's Department of Water Resources said there was little chance of major rainfall in the immediate future since that off-shore high pressure area has shown no sign of dissipating.

A California economist warned on Tuesday that, under the worst of three possible scenarios, more than 250,000 jobs and $6 billion could be lost in California because of the drought.

Even under the best scenario, David Auslam, senior economist with the state Department of Water Resources, told the Governor's Drought Conference in Los Angeles, California will lose about $2.9 billion in income and about 57,000 jobs.

Klaus Klatt of Chevy Chase, Md., is an architect by profession, a builder by necessity and an inventor by inclination. He is not one to leave well enough alone. He likes (you can hear the capital letters in his slight German accent) to Prepare Against Eventualities, Do Things Better, and currently, Conserve Energy.

Margy Klatt is a good wife. When her husband designed and built their house, Margy learned how to lay tile and pound nails. Now that he has invented a rigid fiberglass removable swimming pool dome, she goes swimming in November (though under protest and against her better

The swimming pool cover is something Klatt, a hardy outdoortype from Flintsburg, Germany, which is close to Denmark, really wanted. He feels the need of exercise year-round, and he hates to think of the pool being wasted in cold weather. He had a blow-up bubble for a few years, but that wore out. And he thought of various things he could do, but nothing seemed just right. Finally, he invented his Fiberglass

It is a series of curved sections, tongue-and-grooved like the sections of a Quonset hut, so they lap over each other at the edges. The ends bolt in for rigidity. There's a funny little door at one end, which you stoop to enter. There isn't much room on the sides and headroom is low, but it's enough, four feet at the apex.

Each section weighs 30 pounds, and the whole thing can be put together by two people (if the two are Klaus and Margy Klatt). It can be totally dismantled in the spring and the parts stacked neatly, one on top of the other, in a small part of the garden. Klatt thinks he could have it duplicated - if anyone else wants one -for about $3,000 for a similar-sized

The sections, of course, can be added in any multiple of length. Klatt claims the Fiberglass top has already saved him on heating the pool. From the inside, the translucent topping gives you the feeling of swimming in a frosted glass punchbowl, but the air seems warm and moist like a steam bath. Klatt keeps the pool water at 67-68 degrees -Margy Klatt thinks that's too cold. From the outside, the covering is no more offensive than a vinyl bubble or one of those awful blue pool covers.

It is not that Klatt, like some other people you could name, has just discovered the price of energy. In 1967, Klatt was thinking about saving energy when they built their 5,200square-foot brown-shingled house on a quiet Chevy Chase street of modest homes. The house is unassuming from the outside; only the rather architectural post with the number marks it as an architect's house.

From the street, you notice two points: there is no grass in the front, it's all planted with no-mow materials, and the roof is flat. What you can't see (without climbing a ladder to the roof) is that Klatt built a parapet so the roof would hold water. at least two inches or so. There's even a water source up there, in case of the house much cooler in summer," Klatt said, "And the parapet holds the snow in the winter, to add a blanket of free insulation.'

"The water, by evaporating, keeps

Currently atop the roof are two parabolic solar collectors. They are supposed to supply free heat for the swimming pool on sunny days, but they've needed a good bit of fiddling with. Still, Klatt has faith and plans one of these days (when flat solar collectors are cheaper) to add enough to the top to heat the water supply, at Klatt saves energy in still another way: One side of the lower floor of the house is burrowed into the steep hillside. The other is mostly sliding glass, opening onto the swimming pool and the back garden. The rear level landscape was made by Klatt with what he dug out for the house. They built, by themselves, a splendid brick wall (they call it the Wall of China) to act both as a fence and a retaining wall.

The lower floor is the Klatts' private apartment. The big living room has a wood ceiling, a slate floor and a stone fireplace (volcanic rock, light, so it could be nailed on). The neat kitchen (with its standard cabinets raised on legs because Mrs. Klatt is tall and likes to be able to clean under them) opens onto the dining area. Their bedroom has a tiled sunken tub. In a cavelike room sunk into the hill are the furnace and the auxiliary gasoline generator, in case of power failure (it is big enough to run the furnace switch and the freezer). The Klatt wine cellar is under the stairs, with hexagonal tiles set into the foundation. Upstairs there are rooms for their son and daughter and Klatt's architectural studio (with its heatgenerating prefab fireplace-stove).

It took them only four months to build the house - surely a record for

Beautifying bathroom can be endless

By ERICA WILSON

The bathroom is probably the last room in the house you'd think of when it comes to stitchery, but really, there are endless possibilities, and I'd be willing to bet that just about every bathroom in America could use a touch of stitchery to improve it.

In case you're short on ideas, I had a pupil once who had me design wallto-wall needlework for her bathroom-from rugs and curtains to a matching toilet seat cover and waste basket-right down to a tissue box cover!

transparent white stitching on sheer fabric, can be a magnificent addition to a bathroom—the sun glimmers through it and the embroidery becomes almost iridescent. (See diagram) You could translate a similar, delicate motif to the shower curtain, with crewel or applique, on a medium weight linen fabric (be sure to put a clear, plastic curtain behind it for practical purposes). I suppose if you really wanted to, you could decorate a plastic shower curtain

Heat up a knitting needle and pierce holes into the plastic where the stit-ches are to be. Simple satin stitches will be most effective, but be sure to end off carefully and invisibly. Use white rug wool if you want to stay with an all-white bathroom, or experiment with color, if that's what your bathroom is crying out for.

Big, bold flowers would look beautiful on a shower curtain, in different shapes and sizes and scattered to look as though they are falling. Group them closer at the bottom and then smaller and further apart as they go up the curtain, finally vanishing entirely. You could take the design and carry it over onto a latch hook rug in front of the wash basin or repeat the color scheme on matching hand towels.

A tissue box cover nn plaeastic canvas is simple to do-- just make a top with a slit in it for the tissue, and four sides. Make it large enough so it just slips over the tissue box with that very tailored look that only plastic canvas can give you

You don't have to limit yourself to regular needlepoint stitches; you could do free form flowers with loops of turkey work and buttonhole stitches on top of the canvas.

But don't get too carried away with the creative urge, or your tissue won't be able to pop up and present itself dutifully to someone about to sneeze.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - Bachel Mabe has become the first woman in Virginia to become a special deputy U.S. Marshal.

A wastebasket's another simple project. Instead of making it round, make it six-sided-you'll find it much easier to assemble into a perfect shape during the finishing steps.

Work the six sides out on graph paper first, then cut out the plastic canvas, stitch it, sew the six sides together with the joining stitch, and there you have it: a piece of handiwork for undoubtedly the most neglected room in the house, as far as needlework is concerned.

TO ACCOMPANY ILLUSTRATION

1. On the reverse side of the design, work a row of herringbone stitches. Take one stitch from right to left (A to B) on the lower outline of the design, and repeat it at the upper edge, going right into same hole formed by the previous stitch.

2. Reverse side. When worked on sheer material, the effect on the right side is an opaque band bordered by a row of back stitches, above and below. The closer the stitches, the more opaque and distinct this band will be

3. Right side. The effect is best if the stitches are taken very close together, as shown here

There are some high-quality wines at about $4 which may be reaching the unaffordable level for many wine drinkers. The best, though one of the hardest to find, is the 1975 Chalone from the Soledad area of California. It shows signs of wood aging and has a rich balance of fruit, acid and dryness. In wider distribution is the 1975 Sterling Vineyards Chenin Blanc from the Napa Valley, which is slightly lighter in color and wood aroma than the Chalone but has a very pronounced varietal aroma and good body on the palate. The Chalone is $4.50 and the Sterling

DEAR ABBY

Single businesswoman has 'touchy' problem

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old woman who is taking over a prosperous family business started by my grandfather. This is a small town, and my grandfather formed some valuable business relationships with men who are still very important to the success of our business.

The problem is that these "gentlemen" find me quite attractive. So much, in fact, that I have found myself backed up against the wall, hugged, squeezed and generally mauled by these kindly old buzzards, while they keep reminding me that they've been good customers for over four decades.

If these men were my age, I could handle them, but they're all over 65. and trying singlehandedly (and sometimes doublehandedly) to close the generation gap.

Is there a way to keep this business (and myself) on our feet?—EDGY

DEAR EDGY: If you're a good businesswoman, you'll keep the business on its feet without tolerating passes from lecherous grandfather types. It may take the technique of an O.J. Simpson or a Tony Dorsett on broken-field running, but that, plus a good straight-arm (and, if necessary. some straight talk) is all you need.

DEAR ABBY: When a guy asks me to dance, how can I turn him down without hurting his feelings? I'm 16, if that makes any difference. Thank you.-CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: Say, "Thanks, but I think you'd be more interesting to talk to. Shall we sit it out?" (P.S. Then you'd better have something to talk about, even if it's only a string of questions to keep the conversation moving.)

DEAR ABBY: Right now I am so upset I want to get this off my chest to relieve my own anxiety, and if you print it in your column it will be a big favor to many women.

I am in my eighth month with my first child, and today I had a checkup. Coming home on the bus, I sat next to a motherly-looking woman who struck up a conversation with me. She talked about nothing but the horrors of childbirth!

She had had six and lost two. Her sister had a child who was born deaf and blind, and her daughter's first child was retarded because of the long and complicated labor she had endured. Then her neighbor's baby strangled on the umbilical cord during the birth process. Abby, by the time I got off that bus I was shaking Please tell well-meaning (?)

Carter's 'no woman' wins point

By DONNA LANDRY The Washington Post

DURHAM, N.C. - Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps speaks so softly that it seems as if other people have been shouting all their lives. In airports, on planes, in her highceilinged living room on the other side of the railroad tracks from her old campus office at Duke, words issue care-ful-ly and de-li-ber-ately from the spacious, flat planes of her face.

But her silences are deafening. Perfectly ladylike (as if time were of no importance) and perfectly tailored in understated variations on the theme of brown, when she's thinking something over, she drops her head into one hand and curls immaculate fingers against the bridge of her nose. She wasted no time in establishing herself as Carter's "No woman" on the eve of her appointment on national TV, when she reminded him and everyone else that "it would be hard to defend the proposition that there are not a great many qualified women" for Cabinet posts and that we have to do a better job of looking." Carter smiled, swallowed, and said, "I think she said she disagrees with me." She won her point, and the media praised her spirit with glee. already speculating that she might be on her way to "effective leadership." "I really have the best of both worlds," Kreps says to characterize her unusual stance, poised somewhere between the public niche she's carved for herself in academic, economics, business and government and her retiring domestic life in a rather glamorless, small southern city. When as ded how she manages to keep pace with her jet-setting career and a family, too, she answers without hesitation "badly," and laughs. She has a certain liking for neatly-turned phrases.

Those who know her story dispute and modest protests of inadequacy, even mock ones. She doesn't much like to talk about her childhood in the coalmining towns of Harlan County, Ky., except to say that her father operated a mine, that they weren't a close family - her parents were divorced when she was four, and she hasn't seen her sister in Tampa in three or four years - and that, "Everyone was having economic problems, and we weren't any worse off than anyone else." At 12, she went off to "a little Presbyterian boarding school" and then to Berea College, in Berea, Ky., a pioneer institution in work-study programs.

Her first class in economics left her knowing what field to pursue. "I was always interested in social problems, and there was massive unemployment," she says. "If you read the newspapers and had a sense of where the world was, you couldn't help being concerned. I thought economics would give me more insight into what was going on.'

After graduating from Berea in 1942, she went on to graduate school at Duke, where she met and married fellow economist and southerner Clifton H. Kreps Jr., now Wachovia professor of Banking at the University of North Carolina in nearby Chapel Hill. She juggled rearing three children with part-time teaching, and has been juggling responsibilities ever since, as professor, university administrator, author of 10 books and dozens of articles and member of half a dozen corporate boards - including J.C. Penney and the New York Stock Exchange - and numerous advisorycouncils and commissions.

Since her appearance on the political scene as Carter's appointee for the Commerce post, and the announcement that she would be selling her $100,000 portfolio of stocks and bonds and taking an annual pay cut of more than $35,000 to serve as secretary (with a salary of $63,000 a year), some people have wondered how this exemplar of the Protestant work ethic came to be called Juanita.

"My mother (Larcenia Morris) liked the name, and she claimed she might have some Spanish ancestry. But with my mother, you could never be sure whether she was leveling with you or not," Kreps says. "Her maiden name was Blair, which is about as Scotch-Irish as you can get. I never liked 'Juanita' — I would have prefer-red to be called Anne or Mary, something classic.

And so, she named her own daughters Sarah, 25, and Laura, 22, and her son Clifton III, 21.

People who have met her at Washington parties, where she has expressed dismayed surprise at the cattle-drive crush, have wondered whether she is "tough" enough for the

"When the occasion calls for it, she can be super tough," a secretary who worked in her office at Duke says.

Christie testified against a bill by the committee chairman, Rep. Bob Davis, R-Dallas, that would permit insurance firms to set their own rates on casualty and car insurance, subject to rollback if the board finds the rates are excessive or discriminatory.

The bill has no provision for refund of premiums the board orders reduced.

"The insurance lobbyists are asking you members of the committee to trade a proven system, which has consistently denied the full rate increases sought by the insurance companies, for a system which promises nothing," Christie system which gives the public a voice in rate making for a system which leaves rate making to the whims of the insurance companies," he said. The insurance industry may argue that flexible rates will permit greater competition and drive down premiums, Christie said, but all one has to do is look at what has happened with county mutual insurance companies, which by law are allowed to set their rates on car insurance.

Comprehensive coverage runs 107 to 171 per cent higher than the board's rates, he said. Liability coverage averages 6 to 50 per cent higher, and collision coverage averages 21 to 119 per cent higher, he said.

'We believe our record shows public's voice in insurance rate making is being heard. That is what the insurance companies mean when they complain that the present system allows 'political pressures' to enter in the rate making process. "If the companies don't know that

'political pressures' is what make democracy work, they have a lot to learn about our form of government,' Christie said.

Don Cavness, an Austin insurance agent, spoke for the bill. A former legislator who specialized in insurance law, Cavness noted that life insurance, hospitalization insurance, accident and health insurance and other kinds of insurance were not similarly regulated.

"Is fire and car insurance such a dire necessity for Texans that they must be regulated?" Cavness said.

"Then why don't we set the rates oh washing machines, or dryers, or houses? Let casualty insurance companies fight it out like everybody else, in the market place."

"The only purpose of insurance companies is to write insurance, fulfill a need and make a bare profit," Cavness said.

Davis said the bill would be referred to a subcommittee.

John Drew knows a good thing when he sees one. And he is not bashful when it comes to telling the world

"I think I made a great shot," said the brash young forward of the Atlanta Hawks, whose 30-foot jumper at the buzzer beat the Philadelphia 76ers 99-98 Tuesday night.

Jones makes debut, works three innings

By The Associated Press

Randy Jones is back and now it is the hitters who can start worrying about the National League's 1976 Cy Young Award winner.

"I can't tell you how happy I am. Now I know I don't have to worry about my arm," Jones said Tuesday after pitching three innings in the San Diego Padres' 7-6 exhibition baseball victory over the California Angels.

It was Jones' first game since undergoing arm surgery to repair nerve damage to his valuable left arm last October after compiling a 22-14 record and 2.74 earned run average for the fifth-place Padres. The game also was the first of the spring between major league clubs any time finding out about their star hurler. Jones allowed two runs-both in the third inning- and four hits and bailed himself out of two james with double play balls.

'I felt just like a kid out of college.' Jones confessed. "I was nervous and my knees were shaking so much that I needed knee pads. But I felt good. Now I know I can get on with spring training the way I normally would.'

SINCE JONES threw only 19 pitches in his first two innings, he went an additional inning. In that one, California's Mike Easler and Jerry Remy hammered extra-base hits over the head of centerfielder George Hendrick and Dave Chalk singled home the second run.

"I felt like I could have gone two more innings, but no more than that,"

Jones said. "I still have to rebuild my stamina, but I'm farther along than I expected to be this early in the spring. I didn't try to throw any curves, but I threw eight or nine sliders and the rest sinkers and fast balls. "I have a lot of work to do to get my control where I want it, but I'm very encouraged about things. Sunday threw for 45 minutes and I was terrible-every pitch I threw was straight; my release point was off. Today it was right much of the time.

'I made bad pitches to the two lefthanded hitters (Easler and Remy), but to get the ball low and outside to either one of them would have meant turning the ball over and extending my arm farther than I felt like I should this early."

ANOTHER SORE-ARMED pitcher, Atlanta's Buzz Capra, worked two scoreless innings in a Braves' intrasquad game and showed no ill effects from the shoulder ailment that sidelined him most of the 1975 and 1976 seasons.

In the contract department, veteran pitcher Luis Tiant and the Boston Red Sox appeared to be nearing agreement, but little progress was reported in negotiations between the world champion Cincinnati Reds and third baseman Pete Rose.

"There is very definite progress, but no agreement has been reached, Bob Woolf, Tiant's attorney, said after meeting with Red Sox General Manager Dick O'Connell. The 36year-old Tiant is seeking an extension, not renegotiation, of his $180,000 per year contract, plus a no-cut

"I talked with Mr. O'Connell and he presented what I consider a very in-teresting proposal," Woolf said. "I studied it and gave him a counter-proposal. Now I'm trying to reach Luis and see what he thinks."

HAYWOOD SULLIVAN, the club's director of player personnel, said, "Sometimes you've got to bend a little and we have bent. Meanwhile, Reuven Katz, Rose's attorney, met with Dick Wagner, general manager of the Reds, and reported: "We did not make much progress, but I'm a optimist and believe they will give Pete what he deserves."

Said Wagner, also an optimist: "It was a good meeting and I'm hopeful. I'm always hopeful. Rose again said he would not back down from his demands. "I gave them a fair figure a month ago and I will give them the same figure two months from now. I don't think they want me here any more. I mean management, not the fans or the other players. "I just can't understand it. The only thing I don't do is hit home runs, Maybe they want a leadoff man who hits homers. If so, they have to go out and get one because I'm not going to alter my stroke. CONTRACT SIGNINGS included: Cleveland Indians-Ray Fosse, Rico Carty; Minnesota Twins- Roy Smalley, Glenn Borgmann, Bobby Randall, Willie Norwood; Seattle Mariners-Dave Collins; Chicago Cubs-Joe Wallis; Philadelphia

Phillies-Gene Garber. Contract renewals: Baltimore Orioles-Ken Singleton, Rudy May, Elliott Maddox, Mike Flanagan, Randy Stein, Mike Dimmel; Boston Red Sox-Rick Miller, Jim Willoughby; Seattle Mariners—Stan Thomas.

In addition, negotiations between the Chicago White Sox and shortstop Bucky Dent broke down and the club said it would renew Dent's $50,000 contract today.

"We just think Bucky ought to be paid in the category of the best shortstops in the major leagues," said Dent's agent, Nick Buoniconti, the football player. "They think not. It seems they have financial problems and simply can't afford him.

Illinois State a berth in the NIT quarter-finals at New York next week. Smithson, whose team's 22-6 record includes a victory over fifthranked Nevada-Los Vegas, gives his club a good chance in the tournament.

"We can play with anybody in the country," Smithson said. "We've proved that. We didn't play a real good game tonight. The layoff hurt us. We weren't sharp.'

Illinois turned the ball over 13 times in the first half and missed 25 field goal attempts on the way to a frigid 32 per cent shooting average and a deficit of 32-28.

But Creighton was hampered when 6-foot-8 center Rick Apke, its leading scorer, got into early foul trouble Illinois State mounted a second-half surge when Apke drew his fourth foul shortly after intermission.

Although Creighton pulled within one point on the strength of a 10-point streak by John Johnson, the surge ended, when Apke fouled out at 5:57 with the score 53-52. The game ended with a rash of fouls as Creighton tried to break an Illinois State slowdown.

Illinois State was led by 7-foot center Jeff Wilkins, who dominated Johnson had with a game-high 22 points, and Apke, who brought a 20.2point average into the game, had Creighton, which edged into the

With the perfect day at the plate, Josefy, a slender 5-11, 145-pound junior, brings his season batting average up to a robust .706. He has 12 hits in 17 times at bat for the unbeaten Rebels who stand 6-0, going into this weekend's Tourney of Champions at Cubs Stadium.

Rebel coach Ernie Johnson twoplatooned, starting two different lineups in the games and it paid off in getting everybody into action.

Tuesday's sweep was a lot better brand of ball than that displayed in Lubbock Saturday when Lee bombed the Ponies, 28-4.

In the first game, lefthander Jeff Hatfield set the Mustangs down with four hits. The junior southpaw had a 4-0 lead going into the fifth inning when the Ponies came alive to score three runs, but a big play at the plate turned away Coronado's bid to tie the con-

the year with three of those losses to Josefy got things started for Lee in the bottom of the first inning off starter Lee Brock with a single. He stole second and scored on Craig Van Horn's single for a 1-0 lead. In the second, Josefy was safe on an infield hit, went to second on a wild pitch, stole third and came home on a single by Robby Roberson for a 2-0 advanatge. Coronado cut the lead to 2-1 in the fourth inning. Kenny Bunch singled, stoled second and scored on a base hit by Chuck Johnson.

Josefy walked to start the fifth inning and stole second. He scored moments later on a single by Clements for a 3-1 lead and then the Rebs added an insurance run in the sixth inning.

Craig Young walked and pinchrunner Vest came in and scored after being sacrificed to second by David Gillette Josefy singled him in with the final run of the game.

DIAMOND DUST: Roberson made a Major League play for the Rebels in the top of the seventh inning when he gloved a hard grounder at the bag at third off the bat of Coronado's Jim Wells and then fired to first for the putout... Tommy Inzer, who hit .386 for Odessa Permian last year, was playing third and shortstop for the Mustangs and stood out defensively...Both teams played superb ball on defense in the two games.

Monterey downs Midland, 11-8

Trailing 6-3, the Plainsmen jumped The Plainsmen were running the ases well in stealing seven bases on out it was the 10 hits by Monterey that was the difference in three runs each for the winners. Derek Hatfield, who beat Midland, 10-3, last Tuesday in the Tall City, started for Monterey, but had to be relieved by Ron Reeves in the fourth and Reeves picked up the mound victory to give him a 2-0 record.

The Plainsmen are now 3-1 going nto the Tourney of Champions meet in Midland Friday and Saturday.

MIDLAND TOOK a 1-0 lead off Hatfield in the first inning and then scored twice in the third and added three more in the fourth. The Bulldogs scored two runs in the top of the eventh inning to make things ineresting.

With the loss, coach Larry Peel's eam is 2-3 and they will also be in the Tourney of Champions, joining Monterey, Midland Lee, Moore, Okla. and defending Class AAAA state

Johnson, Benson head All-America

NEW YORK (AP) - Marques Johnson and Kent Benson, two of the most dependable and dynamic front-court players in the country, were among those named to the 1977 Associated Press All-America team on Tuesday.

Johnson, the UCLA forward who was selected The AP's Player of the Year earlier in the week, and Benson, the top-flight Indiana center, were joined in the blue ribbon group by guard Rickey Green of Michigan, guard Phil Ford of North Carolina and forward Bernard King of Ten-

Johnson scored the highest point total among the top five in the nationwide voting by sports writers and broadcasters. Johnson pulled down 824 points on the basis of five for the first team and three for second.

Green was the second leading pointgetter with 521. Ford collected 480, Benson 423 and King 389.

Benson was the only repeater from last year's first team. Ford was a second-team All-America in 1976 and King was on the third team. King barely nosed out teammate Ernie Grunfeld for first-team honors.

On the second team along with Grunfeld, a forward who drew 381 points, were San Francisco center Bill Cartwright, Houston guard Otis Birdsong, Minnesota center Mike Thompson and Marquette guard Butch Lee.

The third team included Rod Griffin of Wake Forest, Wayne "Tree" Rollins of Clemson, Phil Hubbard of Michigan, Bo Ellis of Marquette and Freeman Williams of Portland State. Johnson, at 6-foot-7 and 218 pounds.

is the master of the slam-dunk shot and has provided some of the most spectacular moves around the basket seen in college basketball this season. "If there's a more dominant player than Marques in the college game, I can't imagine it," says UCLA Coach Gene Bartow. Johnson, among UCLA's career leaders in points and rebounds, had his best season this year with the Bruins, averaging about 21.5 points and 11 rebounds a game. He has made close to 60 per cent of his field goal attempts this season, one of the highest in the country.

The 6-11 Benson, long a tower of strength for Bobby Knight's Indiana teams, led the Hoosiers in scoring with 20 points a game but missed the last part of the season with a back injury. But it was his inside strength as a rebounder (10 a game) and intimidator that really kept Indiana's defending national champions from completely falling apart this year.

Green, who averaged about 21 points and four assists, without a doubt was the best player for Michigan, one of the country's Top 10 teams all year. He has quick hands and terrific jumping ability for a player 6-2, but his biggest asset is his

"If there's a faster or better guard in the country, Pd like to see him," says Michigan Coach Johnny Orr. "It's whoosh-and Rickey's gone."

Dean Smith thinks he might have Green's equal in Ford, called by some the best backcourt man ever to play in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Smith, the North Carolina coach who applauded Ford in the Olympic Games at Montreal last summer, watched him lead the Tar Heels to the ACC's regular-season championship this year. Smith states flatly that Ford is the best guard in the country, collegiate or professonal.

Ford, one of the best ballhandlers and passers in the nation, averaged 19 points a game with the help of 55 per cent shooting from the field.

The ultimate team player, Ford has downplayed his accomplishments.

There are no prima donnas on this team and that's the way I like it,' says the 6-2 guard.

The 6-7 King is the leading scorer and rebounder in the Southeastern Conference with more than 25 points and 14 rebounds a game. He's completed 58 per cent of his field goal tries for one of the nation's highestpowered teams.

King's dominating presence kept Tennessee at or near the top of the SEC race all year.

Cougars facing Indiana State in NIT tonight

HOUSTON (AP) - The "birds" performing in Hoffleinz Pavilion tonight when Houston meets Indiana State in a first round match of the National Invitation Tournament (NIT) will be of no interest to the Audubon Society.

Bird-watching enthusiasts would also have to be basketball fans to enjoy the sights and sounds of Houston's Otis Birdsong and Indiana State's Larry Bird, a sophomore from French Lick, Ind., is the nation's No. 3 scorer with a 32.4 average and Birdsong, a senior from Winter Haven, Fla., ranks fourth nationally with a 30.5 average.

The game is one of eight regional contests serving as the first round of the 40th annual NIT, oldest post season basketball tournament in the U.S. First round winners will advance to the quarter-finals in New York's Madison Square Garden March 14-15.

Tournament semifinals are March 17 and the championship game is March 20.

Indiana State comes into the game with a 25-2 record, which ties Nevada-Las Vegas' for the best record in the nation for a major independent.

Bird, who also ranks ninth nationally in rebounding with a 13.4 average, already has caught the eye of pro scouts-and Cougar coach Guy Lewis.

"They say he's one of the best players in the country," Lewis said. "He not only can shoot but he dribbles well and gets the ball to the open man. And what scares me is they tell me the kid playing next to him is an even better shooter.'

Lewis referred to junior Harry Morgan, who is averaging 17 points per game. Indiana State also has 6-11 center DeCarsta Webster, who averages 10 rebounds per game The Cougars hope to counter with a balanced scoring attack that is ranked No. 2 in the nation behind Nevada-Las Vegas. The Cougars, who are 26-7, are averaging 95.2 points per game. Houston was beaten by Southwest Conference champion Arkansas Saturday in the finals of the SWC tournament here and then was shunned by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) tournament committee. 'We're just glad to still be playing somewhere," Lewis said. "This team wasn't ready to stop playing basketball. Some years when you finish that last

Gonzalez has new bat grip

COCOA, Fla. (AP) - Houston Astros infielder Julio Gonzalez has a new batting grip and new hope for making the Astros' major league roster this season.

The testing for Gonzalez, obtained in an off-season trade that sent Greg Gross to the Chicago Cubs, starts with the spring training season Thursday.

"I have not seen as much of Gonzalez . . .but what I've seen I like,' Astros' manager Bill Virdon said. 'He has good hands, a good arm and he makes good contact with the ball."

Gonzalez said he played on the same Puerto Rican winter league team with Felix Millan of the New York Mets, who chokes up on his bat. Gonzalez tried it and hit .337,the highest he's ever hit in winter league.

Gonzalez' chances of making the Astros' roster revolve around either beating out starting second baseman Rob Andrews or backup Larry Milbourne or if injury should befall shortstop Roger Metzger.

"Felix told me to play relaxed,"
Gonzalez said. "If I stay, I stay. If I go

Hogan Park may increase tees

Increases in the fees at Hogan Park Golf Course were brought informally before the Midland City Council Tuesday, and at least two of the councilmen indicated they will support the increases.

A committee of the Midland Parks and Recreation Commission presented the proposed increases. which will be voted on at Tuesday's commission meeting. If approved, the golf fee increases will be presented as an emergency ordinance and possibly given formal approval at the March 22 city council meeting. The quick action will be needed if the fees are to take effect this season.

The committee is seeking the increases to assure an economical operation of the golf course and bring the fees in line with those charges by municipal golf courses in other cities. Councilmen Martin Neill and Mark

Martin said they saw a need for an increase. Neill said the increases for senior citizens might be dropped,

San Francisco coach honored

who led the San Francisco Dons to their best basketball season since the Bill Russell years of the mid-1950s, was named The Associated Press College Coach of the Year today.

Gaillard, a low-key coach who encourages informality, won the award as easily as his team won games this season, more than doubling the score of his nearest Balloting from sports writers and broadcasters around the country supplied Gaillard with 120 votes while runnerup Eddie Owens of Arkansas collected 52. Carl Tacy of Wake Forest was third in the voting with a score of 30, while UCLA's Gene Bartow had 20 and Kentucky's Joe Hall 15 to round out the top five.

Gaillard's team is considered unusual because of the modish, young leader's approach to coaching. There is no curfew on any occasion and Gaillard himself brags about the Dons being a "very virile, girl-loving team." He voices no concern if a player keeps late hours.

Explaining his unique philosophy, Gaillard says: "My obligation is to make the guys reach their potential, be competitive and have fun Guard Chubby Cox says the lack of curfew "allows us to be our own men. When you're given the opportunity to be your own man, you have more go, more self-pride. No one takes advantage of it. Gaillard likes to contrast himself with coaches on the other end of the spectrum, the kind he calls "Marine sergeants."

"I can't stand that kind of coaching." reflects Gaillard. "My goals are to have fun. I don't think a San Francisco-Notre Dame game equals the U.S. Marines at Guadalcanal. Those kind of coaches couldn't coach my team for three minutes.

"I'm as, or more, competitive than any of those guys. I just don't have to prove it. A lot of coaches live their competitiveness through their team. I don't."

Sophomore Winford Boynes, one of the stars on the Dons' West Coast Athletic Conference champions, said he almost signed with Denny Crum at Louisville. But Gaillard won him over with a simple hand slap, the kind that is popular among players today.

"I couldn't give Coach Crum five," Boynes said. "I could to Coach
Gaillard."

Gaillard's easy manner has obviously worked wonders at San Francisco. He became head basketball coach on Dec. 16, 1970, taking over an 0-4 team, and finished at 10-16. However, subsequent records have all been glamorous-20-8, 23-5, 19-9, 19-7, 22-8 and this year's gorgeous 29-1 at the end of the regular

Their easy conquest of the WCAC this season gave the Dons a berth in the NCAA playoffs and the possibility pionship to the small Jesuit school in northern California.

Of course the last time this happened was in 1955 and 1956, when Russell led San Francisco to two straight national titles and helped the Dons forge a momumental winning streak of 60 games.

U.S. women arrive early

The United States women's Olympic volleyball team will arrive in Midland a day early for their March 17 exhibition date with Canada's Olympic squad.

Canada and the United States will square off at 8 p.m. Thursday March 17 in the Lee gym, but the U.S. squad will arrive at Midland Air Terminal Wednesday March 16 at 9:25 a.m. The U.S. squad, coached by Arie Selinger from Israel, will hold a workout March 16 at 3:30 p.m. at the Midland High gym. The workout will be open to the public. The squad will be treated to a steak dinner that night.

Tickets for the March 17 exhibition match are on sale now at $3 for adults and $2 for students. Tickets are on sale at Gibson's Discount Center and Skaggs Albertson's. Reservations may also be made by calling 694-8936 or 683-2433.

If enough interest is shown in the March 17 exhibition match, the two squads will play again March 18 in the Tire failure. If the tire fails apparently due to a defect in material or workmanship after 25% of the tread is worn, and for the remaining 75% of the original usable tread. Sears will replace the tire or give you a refund, charging you only the proportion of the current price plus Federal Excise Tax that represents the portion of the usable tread used.

Tread wearout, if the tread wears out (2/32" or less remaining) before you receive the miles specified. Sears will, at its option, either replace the tire or give a refund, charging in either case the proportion of the current price plus Federal Excise Tax that represents the ratio of miles of usage actually received to the miles specified. This does not apply to wearout caused by improper inflation, misalignment, or failure to use and maintain the tire as recommended. To obtain warranty service, simply return the tire to the hearest Sears store throughout the United States.

29 strikes complete

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Sixteen wildcat oil wells and 13 wildcat gas wells were drilled in Texas during the last half of February, the railroad commission reported Tuesday.

The oil discoveries included five in southeast Texas, four in South Texas, two each in the San Antonio and North Texas areas and one each near Refugio, San Angelo and Midland. One hundred wildcat oil wells were drilled in the first two months, 15 more than in January-February of last year.

The gas wildcats included five near Refugio, four in southeast Texas, three in South Texas and one near Midland.

A total of 111 gas wildcats were drilled through February, 52 fewer than in the first two months of 1976. The commission also reported that 1,200 oil wells have been completed this year, 17 fewer than in January and February of last year. A total of 618 gas wells have been completed.

anything until he comes out with his plan," said Longview oilman Henry Gossett at the close of a three-day

Gossett, regional vice president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, was one of about 65 businessmen who talked with senators and congressmen about national affairs.

"It's a friendship type of thing, a chance to visit with our congressmen when we don't want anything in particular," Gossett said. The group had a breakfast briefing early in the week from Democratic Reps. Jim Wright and Sam Hall. They invited the entire state delegation to a dinner Tuesday night.

Gossett said the group did find a chance to talk about a subject dear to the hearts of most of them: natural gas price deregulation. 'We're concerned about the energy situation, particularly as it applies to the South and the North. The North seems not to understand that we can get gas because we're paying high prices for it and that's an incentive to drill. We've been accused of holding back gas, but we feel their refusal to permit drilling is a form of holding

"We don't want to feud with them, though. We want to work together.' Unfortunately, Gossett said, the visit was too short to allow any exchange of views with northern legislators.

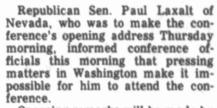

He said Rep. Ray Roberts was one of several Texas legislators who said little could or would be done until after the Carter plan comes out. It is due on April 20. «

Discovery in Howard heads Basin activity

A Spraberry oil discovery has been completed in Howard County, field extenders have been finaled in Ector and Pecos Counties, Sterling County has gained a project and a Midland well has been reclassified.

Great Western Drilling Co. No. 1 Grantham is the Spraberry opener in Howard.

It finaled for a daily pumping potential of 6.21 barrels of oil, plus 13.8 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,827 to 7,031 feet. The pay had been acidized and fractured. A reentry project, No. 1 Grantham originally was completed as the opener of the Knott, West (Pennsylvanian) field in 1974. Location is 467 feet from south and west lines of section 8, block 33, T-2-N, T&P survey. Site is two miles northeast of Knott. ELSINORE WELL

Texas Pacific Oil Co. No. 9 Montgomery-Fulk, 11/2 miles south and slightly west of the Elsinore (multipay) field of Pecos County, has been completed. Operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 10.525,000 cubic feet of gas per day, following a 55,000-gallon fracture treatment, through perforations from 1,896 to 1,997 feet.

Hole is bottomed at 13,475 feet and plugged back to 13,389 feet. Five and one-half-inch casing is cemented on

Location is 24 miles south of Fort Stockton, 1,320 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 9. block 170, TTRR survey. ECTOR WELL

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-B Roy Parks Estate, former Ellenburger well in the Headlee field of Ector County, has been re-completed as a Strawn producer.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 426 barrels of oil, plus two barrels of water, through a 24/64-inch choke and perforations from 9,968 to 9,976 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 1,787-1, and the gravity of the oil is 54.2 degrees.

Location is 660 feet from south and ,980 feet from west lines of section 16, block 41, T-2-S, T&P survey. Wellsite is 31/2 miles east of Odessa.

Marshall R. Young Oil Co. No. 1-A Chester Parke has been completed as the second well in the BMH (Canyon) field of Pecos County. Operator reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 15 barrels of oil, plus nine barrels of water, through perforations from 7,816 to 7,820 feet. Bottomed at 8,550 feet, it is plugged back to 7,936 feet. Four and one-half-inch casing is set at 7,936 feet. It is 2,835 feet from south and 486 feet from west lines of section 2, block 206, Mary Simmonds Grantee survey. Location is six miles southeast of Bakersfield.

The well originally was completed as a gas well. It has been reclassified as an oil and gas producer.

Texaco Inc. No. 9-E Sterling fee is to be drilled as a northeast offset to production in the Big Salute (Canyon-Leonard) field of Sterling County. Slated for an 8,150-foot bottom, it is 892 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 13, block 31, T-5-S, T&P survey and 12 miles southwest of Sterling City.

MIDLAND WELL

Jake L. Hamon No. 1 Carl Leonard has been completed in the Azalea (Devonian) field of Midland County. Formerly a Strawn producer, the well finaled for a daily flow of 8.78 barrels of oil, plus one barrel of water, through a 1/2-inch choke. Gasoil ratio was 26,895-1. Gravity is 55 Bottomed at 11,598 feet, the project has five-inch casing set at 11,592 feet. Completion was through perforations from 11,514 to 11,570 feet after a 10,000-gallon fracture treatment.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 1, block 38, T-1-S, T&P survey and six miles east of

Alaska people seek to cope with oil boom

NOME, Alaska (AP) — This tiny town sits at the end of a lonely trail carved by man's greed, margin among New York hunkered down on the Bering Sea coast only 120 Stock Exchange-listed miles east of Siberia, perched on the edge of prosperity and starvation. Its chamber of commerce promotes the present through the legends of its gold mining past. Its city fathers view with pleasure and trepidation the prespect of another bonanza — the prediction that big quantities of oil and natural gas lie offshore under the continental shelf.

The town has endured prosperity before, but it can't help wondering: If prosperity comes, can greed be far behind?

THERE ARE PROBLEMS already, but these

Nome can handle. About 85 per cent of Nome's population of 2,500 is Eskimo. They trace their heritage back 10,000 years and are caught between the old village ways and the technocracy of the 1970s.

A dormitory at the Nome-Belze High School, one of the best in the state, stands empty, a monument to changing times. It once housed hundreds of natives who had to leave their villages for nine months a year if they wanted a high school education. But taking young Eskimos out of their villages and putting them in boarding school was, many say, a disaster.

"In most families these kids are the parents' right arm - they help hunt and babysit the younger ones, one official said. "They want them to get an educastitutional followers was evident in two block trades and get involved in another culture that will keep Tuesday totalling 200,000 them away."

THE ISSUE LED to a class action suit and a court ruling that requires the state to provide village secondary schools, and a $59.2 million bond issue to Nome's whites are newcomers involved in a past-present tug of war of their own. They left postwar cities and hard-time farms, or they are the offspring of those who came here with picks and shovels to dig up a golden dream.

Some are suburban misfits who fled to the bush to escape a commuting life. Others created businesses for themselves and stayed because they can set their own pace. If oil growth comes, these small-town entrepreneurs worry about marching to someone else's drum, even if the cadence means more money in the town's only bank.

BY NATURE'S LAW, Nome should not exist in the reeless, frozen desert where its three roads end nowhere and rainbow-hued sundogs dance on the horizon like mirages in the Sahara.

Its three months of summer feel like a Minnesota fall. Its winter days have a sameness marked only by the coming and going of a stinging cold no fire can warm

'Wouldn't live anywhere else," says Albro Gregory, publisher of the Nome Nugget, the state's oldest newspaper now housed in a Front Street building which lists to the East on the sagging per-

Stroking his lush steel-wool beard and waving at each passing auto, Gregory steered his four-wheeldrive vehicle through the ruts of the main drag and surveyed the nearby red tundra hills with satisfac-

"It sure is a pretty place, isn't it?" he said. He didn't expect an answer. Gregory has been in Alaska nearly 30 years.

NOME'S SUICIDE RATE is 25 times the national average. More than 40 per cent of its population has an alcohol problem. About 40 per cent of its people live on welfare. They augment their income by hunting but face tightened restrictions to save dwindling species.

The cost of living is 50 per cent higher than Anchorage, which is 50 per cent higher than Seattle.

Nome is accessible by sea only during the brief summer respite. Year-round air service is expensive and at the mercy of capricious weather spawned by the polar ice pack. "But our biggest problem is not the weather, it's trying to explain to our customers in the bush that we don't control the weather," said Dick Galleher, owner of Munz Northern Airlines, the smallest certified air carrier in the United States. Munz and two other charter firms form a vital lifeline which keeps the northwest area functioning. bringing in everything from people to mail, diapers to snow-machines. "The thought of leaving Nome is a frightening thing to me," said Galleher, who settled here 20 years ago. "There is a freedom here ... You can't go hungry because somebody will feed you. You can't go broke because somebody will lend you money. Up here it would be foreign to people's nature to let anything bad happen to you. ALTHOUGH THERE ARE nine churches, most of the town's organized social life revolves around the nine bars. Police say 99 per cent of Nome's crime involves booze. Every night the ancient hospital, condemned two years ago as a fire hazard, has at least two or three drunks in its emergency room, which is staffed by three doctors. There is one psychologist, no dentist, no veterinarian, no barber. Gasoline is more than $1 per gallon at the single service station. Heating oil for an average-size house costs up to $250 a month in the sub-zero winter. During the off-season, when tourists retreat to warmer climes, only one nine-stool diner and two fancier restaurants stay open.

In the brief summer when the midnight sun encircles the horizon with flame, stubborn tufts of grass and a few hearty flowers appear. But mostly it is dust, and more dust, swirling through the cracks and crannies of the weathered houses decorated with crumbling gingerbread trim, a faint reminder of grander days when 20,000 prospectors swarmed the beaches before World War I.

SINCE WASHINGTON announced plans to hold the Bering Sea oil lease sale this year, the town has approved a $1.3 million bond issue to upgrade water and sewer services. New buildings are going up. The library is being enlarged. There is a fledgling teen center and plans for a swimming pool. There are two radio stations, four hotels, a new federal building, a new electric generating plant and the jet airport's terminal is being remodeled. But there are no stop lights and only one parking meter.

Bering Straits Native Corp., one of 13 profitoriented corporations created by the 1971 Native Claims Settlement Act, maintains headquarters in Nome and administers that area's share of the nearly $1 billion and 40 million acres awarded by Congress to Alaska's Eskimos, Aleuts, Athabascans and Tlingits in payment for their ancestral lands.

In a push to make money for its Eskimo RIEITIS stockholders. Bering Straits has branched into con-3/9/77 struction projects, shipping and airline service.

Miss Newton-John can be forgiven her early ignorance of one of America's most popular art forms: her credentials as a country singer aren't exactly sterling.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - For years, independent TV stations have griped they can't afford top-quality new shows with which to compete effectively at night against costly, glossy network wares.

And network affiliates occasionally moan they get stomped in the ratings on a given night because their network gave them a dog of a first-run show or, yes, another rerun.

But in early May, the first step of an effort to solve both gripes starts when at least 75 stations begin airing a costly, star-studded mini-series in a new venture called "Operation Prime The six-hour opus is "Testimony of

Two Men," based on Taylor Caldwell's novel. It features such folk as Theodore Bikel, Steve "S.W.A.T." Forrest, and Barbara Parkins, late of "Peyton Place." It's being made at an estimated cost of nearly $3.6 million by MCA-TV, the syndication arm of Universal Studios. And there may be more like it if "Testimony" ratings testify to big local audiences.

That's the word from Richard H. Frank, head of independent station KCOP here and a prime mover in the 'Operation Prime Time'' project. He said it began a year ago when he and officials from independents KTVU-San Francisco, WGN-Chicago, WPIX-New York and KTSW-Seattle sat down after an industry convention to ponder the lack of good, first-run shows for local stations facing the network goodies at night.

They decided to sound out MCA-TV on the idea of the independent stations financing their own series as a group,

"Our goal was to see if we could get the stations to be able to generate enough money to produce first-run quality programs that, if put opposite network shows, would get com-parable ratings," he added

MCA said yes to the idea, provided Frank's group paid for the cost of see- Southwest College here ing if enough stations would buy the has been renamed the plan. Enough did.

Belen, whose tools include not only paint and brushes but also a magnifying glass, prefers watercolors to oil paint because he delights in detail. "I go for detail in a big way. I don't think a picture is any good

HOUSTON (AP) - It was an accident they way it started, but the piano in the restroom at Moie Hamburger's store in Houston has become so popular that friends and customers drop in all day to plunk out a melody a piano in a restroom was all that unusual "A lot of people use the restroom to catch up on their reading, so why not on their piano playing?", he asked. He said he visits the restroom every morning and plays "Hatikvah", the national anthem of Israel. "It's the only song I can play all the way through," he explained.

The story began when Hamburger was brousing around the Salvation Army store and found an old upright piano. He purchased it for $25.

When he got it to the office, Hamburger discovered a roller was missing and the piano had to be propped against a wall to make it stand straight. The only wall in the office available was in the restroom. So there it went. A few weeks ago Hamburger gave the piano to a musician friend. "But," he said, "my piano-in-the-

Drop in at Hamburger's firm anytime of the day and you probably will hear good music, bad music, just plain old banging on the keys coming from the restroom, which, by the way, is used by both women and men.

Hamburger said for some reason some persons are embarrassed about making any noise in a restroom. "This way," he said, "they can entertain all of us with a piano rendition." Knowing Hamburger, a piano in the restroom isn't any real shock.

Grass use said not up Report where penalties cut

By JACK NELSON The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The movement to repeal criminal laws prohibiting use of marijuana will get a significant boost from a federally funded study which indicates there has been no increase in use of the drug in states where it has been decriminalized.

The soon-to-be-released study notes that there had been considerable concern that usage would increase in the eight states which have decriminalized marijuana use and that these states "would encounter an influx of users from non-decriminalized

'Neither of these patterns has occurred or is occurring," the study concluded.

The study, funded by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and conducted by a Washington firm for the National Governors Conference, has added significance because of President Carter's campaign statement advocating decriminalization for small smounts of marijuana on a state by state approach.

Although the full report of the study has not been released, a copy of a 10-page summary was obtained by The Los Angeles Times.

A spokesman for the National Governors Conference said the full report of some 400 pages will be released in about two weeks. He called it a comprehensive, objective study that makes no recommendations, but leaves conclusions to state officials and others who are expected to use it in deliberations on marijuana laws.

The report noted that Carter's position reflected a "growing national concern that criminal fines and incarceration for private possession and use of small amounts of the drug may be inappropriate."

Since 1973, when Oregon passed the first decriminalization law, seven other states have followed suit and another, Texas, has eliminated incarceration as a penalty for private possession of small amounts of marijuana.

In addition, the report states that many governors and state legislatures have debated the possibility of change in existing state laws.

The report relied on "the subjective judgment of key knowledgeable officials" in concluding that decriminalization had caused no substantial increase in marijuana use.

Data from Oregon since its decriminalization showed no increase in use during the first two years. Although a third-year study showed an increase, it was not at a level of use above the average level in other West Coast states.

"This raises the possibility that, although changes in the law may not have an immediate effect." the report says, "such changes may result in, as well as symbolize, a gradual long-term change in public perceptions regarding the moral, social and medical propriety of marijuana use. These perceptual changes may in turn affect usage patterns.

On Oct. 5, 1973, Oregon became the first state to decriminalize the use of marijuana. It was followed by Colorado and Ohio in 1975; California, Alaska, Minnesota and Maine in 1976, and by South Dakota

Although the legal consequences and potential penalties differ substantially in the remaining 42 states, private use, regardless of the amount involved, is uniformly classified as a criminal offense involving potential incarceration, permanent criminal records, and substantial fines.

"Many of these 42 states," the report states, "have seriously considered the marijuana decriminalization issue, either in policy level reviews within the executive departments or in open debate in legislative committees and on the floor of the legislatures.

"Undoubtedly, the issue will be seriously debated in the coming years. The new administration's position may add momentum created by recent expressed only surprise revisions in the laws of the eight states."

Dr. Peter Bourne, a presidential assistant who public Tuesday, which helped prepare the report, told The Times, "Five revealed Army tests years ago marijuana was one of the most polarizing conducted in highway issues in the country with people at each other's and subway tunnels, throat. Now it's almost a non-issue, people don't give stockyards, on military a damn."

Bourne, referred to recently by Carter as numerous populated "probably the world's foremost expert on heroin, areas. cocaine and marijuana," served on a five-member advisory panel for the report and prepared a medical-health analytical summary for it.

The report states that an analysis of available literature "indicates that the preponderance of to have as much evidence evidence shows that marijuana is not physically available as possible,' addictive, and in infrequent or moderate use probably does not pose an immediate substantial health hazard to the individual."

"The effects of long-term heavy use by youthful individuals are unknown and are the subject of ongoing research. Information regarding secondary effects, such as dangerous driving, is not well documented and also requires further research."

The report also notes that decriminalization legislation was introduced, but failed to pass, in the legislatures of Iowa, Louisiana and New Jersey.

It cited several common factors found to exist in cases where states deliberated whether to pass decriminalizing legislation:

Army admits germ testing

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - The Army disclosed Tuesday that it secretly conducted 239 germ warfare tests in the open air between 1949 and 1969, releasing live but supposedly harmless microscopic "bugs" at Washington's Greyhound bus terminal and National Airport as part of the experiment. The idea, according to a two-volume report the Army gave to the Senate health subcommittee Tuesday was to learn how to wage biological warfare and defend against it The Washington tests started in 1949 at an undisclosed location and were conducted again in May 1965, at the bus terminal and airport. Washington was one of five cities where the Army released simulated lethal germs in the open air. Other cities where the public served as unknowing guinea pigs were New York, San Francisco, Key West and Panama City. All told, the Army listed 27 times that it tested simulated toxins in the open air on public property, including releasing spores in two tunnels on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

In addition to those experiments in public places, the Army secretly used military personnel and their families for open air experiments by spraying the simulated germs into the air at a number of bases, including Fort Detrick, Md.; Fort Belvoir, Va., and the Marine training school at Quantico, Va.

The Army said in its report that the tests were "essential" to "substantiate theories and fill knowledge gaps and to determine vulnerability to attack." The live bacteria the Army employed were deemed harmless at the time, the rpeort said.

But Sen. Richard S. Schweiker (R-Pa.) told Army witnesses at the Senate subcommittee hearing Tuesday that "it is very risky indeed to assume that any living organism, reduced to germ warfare size and released in a populated area, is ever

In the 1950 San Francisco tests, the bacteria Seriatta Marcescens was used. Medical researchers suspect it may have caused 11 cases of pneumonia in the Bay area, including

The Army report acknowledges that the service recognized in 1969 that the germ should not be used in experiments because large doses of it could produce disease.

Besides the suspicions of illnesses caused by experiments outside Army laboratories, the Army listed Tuesday the casualties among those who worked directly with the microorganisms. The Army said three laboratory workers at Fort Detrick died from diseases contracted in the 1950s and 1960s, as had been reported previously.

Another 504 workers connected with biological warfare activities at Ft. Detrick, Dugway Proving Ground and the Desert Test Center in Utah and the Pine Bluff Arsenal in Arkansas suffered infections, according to the Army's count. The Army released its censored report, believed the most complete official verson of this nation's biological warfare effort, as Chairman Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) of the Senate health subcommittee convened a hearing on the subject. Kennedy released a summary of a separate CIA report which showed that the Office of Strategic Services. predecessor of the CIA, used germ warfare against the head of Nazi Germany's Reichbank ring World War II to prevent him from attending an economic meeting. In what is believed the first official acknowledgement that the United States engaged in germ warare, OSS agents managed to give Hjalmar Schact, Nazi Germany's leading banker, food poisoning to incapacitate him. The CIA summary did not supply the date or how the poison was administered.

The Army, in its two-volume report, traced the history of the U.S. biological warfare program from 1942 when President Roosevelt started it to 1969 when President Nixon renounced the use of biological weapons. The military's effort since then, according to the Army, has been confined to studying defensive measures against biological warfare. The Army report said testing of biological warfare agents rose sharply after May 1961, when then Defense Secretary Robert S. Mc-Namara ordered the Joint Chiefs of Staff to "evaluate the potentialities".

her husband's grand Oval Office, Mrs. Carter cupped her chin in her hands and talked for some 40 minutes about both foreign policy and personal concerns. Mrs. Carter, who has an interest in mental health programs, said no one in her immediate family has had psychiatric care, but if one of her children needed it, "I'd seek it for them. Of course, I would." As for 9-year-old Amy's sex education: "I hope we can talk to her at home. I hope she'll get it at school. I

She added that the Carters pay for their clothes and such items as dry cleaning, but said she has no idea how much the family spends a week for food. She still hasn't received her food bill for February. "We eat things like ham and turkey casserole."
