Byrd raps no-bail release; murder trials could result

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd on Saturday criticized the release without bail of the leader of the Hanafi gunmen charged in connection with the Moslem sect's capital siege.

"It's abhorrent in our society that individuals can commit these atrocious crimes and then be out on their own recognizance," the Senate leader said.

Hanafi leader Hamaas Abdul Khaalis, 54, and three others were released without bail Friday after they surrendered to police, freed 134 hostages and ended a 38-hour siege of three Washington buildings. Eight other Hanafis were held on bonds ranging from $50,000 to $70,000.

All 12 were charged with armed kidnaping, and prosecutors said they would seek felony murder indictments against them.

Under District of Columbia law, anyone who participates in a felony during which a murder is committed can be charged with felony murder.

In the Hanafi siege, a radio newsman was killed during the Wednesday attack on city hall.

Khaalis was freed as part of a deal with police officials. He agreed to release the hostages in return for the police agreement to allow him to go free without bail. The other three were released under the liberal D.C. bail law. That requires judges to free suspects if the suspects have no criminal records but have employment and ties to the community and are considered likely to show up in court for trial.

Meanwhile, a Baltimore attorney said Saturday he had acted as the court-appointed lawyer for Khaalis in 1968 after Khaalis was arrested for allegedly trying to extort money from a suburban Washington bank.

The lawyer, Joseph S. Kaufman, said the charges against Khaalis were later dismissed for unexplained reasons at the request of federal prosecutors.

Khaalis had allegedly threatened an official of a suburban Washington branch of the Maryland National Bank with violence unless money was delivered to a phone booth in Washington, according to Kaufman. He said Khaalis was later arrested in the phone booth by FBI agents.

More details were becoming known of the ordeal of the hostages held for 38 hours by the gunmen at city hall, two blocks from the White House; the headquarters of the Jewish service organization B'nai B'rith, and the Islamic Center, a mosque on Embassy Row.

The hostages rarely resisted. Many were trussed hand and foot with telephone cords, tape, or their own neckties. Some were beaten with fists and pistols. Dr. Sidney Clearfield of B'nai B'rith said Khaalis kept punching him in the stomach — "he said he didn't like the way I was looking at him."

A few hostages had chances to escape, but they declined freedom, fearing reprisals against those they left behind. And when it was over, none said they support the theory that a hostage eventually sympathizes with his captors.

Khaalis was described as incoherent at times. His prisoners said he strutted, he spouted anti-Semitism. He lectured on urine. And to suit him, male hostages had to sit down on the toilet when they urinated.

At city hall, one Hanafi found a ceremonial Ethiopian scimitar in the office of Council President Sterling Tucker. Khaalis had talked frequently of beheading men and women, and the Hanafi spent much of his time swishing the scimitar through the air.

Thanks a million! . . .

The Reporter-Telegram sincerely thanks its readers for an unexpectedly large response to the opinion survey included in its Sunday, February 6, edition. Returns still are coming in, with the last count at 3,776. This is a much higher percentage than is usual in a voluntary response survey, yielding nearly one million total survey items.

We are aware that you are eager to have information on the opinions expressed and our staff has been working strenuously to complete tallying operations which must be done in preparation for the computer processing which will be under the direction of Dr. Charles Wakefield, chairman of the division of technology studies at Midland College.

We feel, too, that you would like to know the magnitude of work which must be done in connection with your replies and probably you will be surprised by the figures involved. The majority of respondents supplied complete answers, for which The Reporter-Telegram is grateful. The survey reveals a strong interest in your newspaper.

The questionnaire form contains 61 multiple choice questions, with a total of 238 parts. This produces a survey total of 868,688 items to be checked. In addition, you provided us with answers to a total of 52,864 preference choices and replies to 18,880 opinion areas. The grand total of items to be handled is 970,432, which is close enough to one million for us to say "Thanks a million, to our readers!"

Before these data can be put into computer processing, they must be tallied by manual operations and this must be done with absolute accuracy to assure valid survey results. We explain this so you will understand why the undertaking requires time, and to let you know what a great response you provided.

As soon as The Reporter-Telegram receives certified results from Dr. Wakefield on the entire survey, the information will be made available to you through our pages.

City housing future brighter

By LARRY SUTHERLAND

New single-family houses are often hard to find in Midland, and with the arrival of Texas Instruments on the Midland employment scene, house-hunting will become even more difficult.

But two Midland savings and loan associations have entered the picture and their efforts may ease the tight housing situation.

Citizens Savings and Loan Association recently took its first venture into land development by purchasing 113 lots along the southeast corner of Wadley Avenue and Midland Drive for building of single-family residences.

"This purchase was prompted by the existence of a present shortage of building lots in the city and the continued demand for new housing," said Citizens Savings and Loan President Ray Moudy.

The land was purchased earlier this year from Abbott Building Co., which although it put in utilities for the lots is not going to actually build homes there, said Mike Nance, assistant vice president of the association.

No purchase price was revealed for the lots.

"Every builder in town I believe has voiced an interest in the land" for building homes, said Nance.

Clyde C. White Construction, T. J. Melton III and Associates and Casa Bella Inc. are a few builders to express a strong interest in building the houses, he added.

Helping the development is the City of Midland. It is putting in sewer lines and will pave Wadley Avenue from Godfrey Street to Midland Drive, a spokesman for the association said.

The spokesman said it expects builders to start construction within 90 days.

The area for the new homes is in one of the fastest growing sections of Midland. Three apartment complexes will be built near the lots Citizens owns, including a $1.6 million apartment complex at 2700 N. Midland Drive being built by Ramco, an Odessa builder.

Nance said Citizens Savings and Loan, which has $46 million in total assets, expects to do more land development in the future.

Girls gain athletic spotlight

By LINDA SCHAFFRINA

Girls athletics, often treated as an afterthought to boys programs in the past, is getting a lot more attention lately.

Increased interest by students and the community and federal regulations against discrimination have led to expanding programs throughout the nation — including in Midland.

The biggest problem Midland schools face in providing girls with an athletic program equivalent to boys is finding other schools for girls competition.

Athletic Director Sam Cox said that lack of competition keeps existing girls programs from being equal to the boys and is a stumbling block to developing new programs such as softball.

Midland always has been a pioneer in establishing girls programs, Cox said.

Track was added last year and varsity basketball will be added next year to the existing golf, swimming, tennis, volleyball and gymnastics programs for girls.

All of the district schools are adding track and basketball.

Swimming for girls was begun in 1958, at the same time the pool at Midland High School was constructed and the boys program was started. Volleyball was discontinued in the 1950s because of lack of competition and resumed in the early 1960s, Cox said.

Tennis and golf are other long-established programs, although girls have had University Interscholastic League (UIL) competition in golf only five years, he said.

Coaching has not always been equal for the girls and boys programs, though. Shirley Stephenson, basketball and golf coach at Lee High School, has been in the Midland School system 15 years.

"We didn't really have any girl coaches at first. We were just hired as chaperones," she said. "The men were getting paid to coach both and we were getting paid as chaperones. But coaching the boys was a full time job," so the "chaperones" took over the girls coaching duties, she said.

"No one really understood what the duties were. . . Nobody really paid attention to what was happening. We were just glad to have girls athletics," Mrs. Stephenson said.

Salaries for men and women coaches are still not equal, but Cox said they are equivalent on the basis of "experience, demands of the program, the pressures."

Salaries for women coaches were increased this year, he said, and the basketball coach's salary will increase next year when varsity duties are added, but it will not be as high as

HBO no miracle cure, but it can help with many illnesses

By JUDY JOHNSTON

More than four centuries after Juan Ponce DeLeon explored Florida in a futile search for the fountain of youth, many persons, including two Midland residents, travel to Florida for treatments which many compare to the legendary fountain.

The treatments are hyperbaric oxygenation (HBO).

The use of hyperbaric (high pressure) oxygen has been around since the 1940s. In the United States, it has been used mainly by the military against such problems as gas gangrene and CO2 poisoning, and to help heal burns and skin grafts.

One Midlander who visits an HBO center in Lauderdale by the Sea, Fla., suffered a stroke in December 1975 which left his right arm and the right side of his face paralyzed.

Although the HBO therapy for strokes is recommended within the first 72 hours after the incident, the man did not start treatments until nearly a year later.

Doctors at the center told the Midland man that they did not expect the treatment to work after so long a time, but after only 10 or 12 treatments the man's eyesight began to return.

"He could see ships out on the ocean," a friend of the man said. The man had not been able to see more than two feet in front of him after the stroke, the friend said.

After 30 treatments, the Midland man's paralysis was gone and he was able to hold a pen. The treatments also had a beneficial cosmetic effect and made the man's skin look like a baby's, the friend said. The man is 54 years old.

Another Midland man, 53, said he took five treatments just to see what they would do for him although he had no acute problems such as a stroke.

Before the treatments the man had suffered a leg ache daily because he had had circulation after his left leg had been broken three times.

"I looked for something to happen after the treatments. I did not notice for days that my leg didn't ache," he said.

The man also said he had severe headaches at least once a week before the treatments, but that he had not had one in the three months since his treatments with HBO.

"It is amazing what it (HBO) did for my memory. I used to have to hold a finger on a phone book to make a call," he said, adding that now he has no trouble remembering telephone numbers or even a series of numbers for bookkeeping.

Hyperbaric oxygenation works according to several physical laws governing the behaviour of gases. Stated simply, it forces a greater amount of oxygen into the solution in the blood by increased atmospheric pressure. Whereas the red blood cells already carry 97 to 98 per cent of their capacity of oxygen, most of the in-

2 Midland teenagers die in wreck

Two Midland youths were killed late Saturday night after a dune buggy they were riding in was struck by a pickup truck.

William M. Parker, of Midland, approximately 16, was dead on arrival at Midland Memorial Hospital. Gary Kidd, of Midland, also approximately 16, was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Robert Pine.

The accident occurred about a half-mile west of Midkiff Road on the south frontage road of Interstate 20 in Midland at approximately 10 p.m.

According to investigating officers, the two youths were stopped in the road and were talking to passengers in another vehicle when the accident happened. The dune buggy was pushed about 150 feet by the truck.

The driver of the truck was not injured.

Old Tower Theatre tumbles

Buildings may crumble, but memories linger on.

And the 4,000-pound wrecking ball dangling from the 80-foot boom banged and banged against the old building to help the crumbling along.

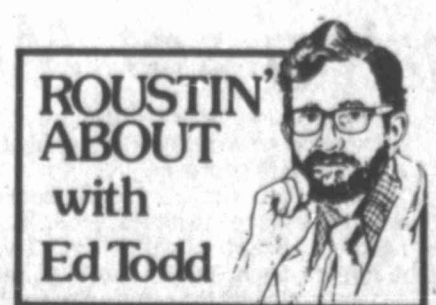

The memories stayed behind.

"That old building was put up there pretty solid," said James Raines, who should know.

He's the guy who was sitting in the cab of the 30-ton crane and was tugging at levers and stepping on pedals to swing that two-ton ball into the old, abandoned Tower Theatre in downtown Midland.

"There's a lot of steel beams" behind all that red brick, he said when he was taking a break from his destructive chore. "That's why it's so hard to knock it down. They don't build building like that no more."

Nor do they make movies like they used to. The whole complexion, in both movie-making and construction, has changed.

Some are worse than before, and some are better, or so "they" say.

Raines kept the diesel engine on the rig running, while he and his rigger, Richard Hatchell, walked inside the battered building.

It had not yet fallen. But it would. A brick-and-steel building, no matter how sturdy, can take only so much pounding.

Raines and Hatchell surveyed the rubble. The back of the old theater was already knocked out, and the stubborn facade was beginning to crumble.

"I'll tell you what," Hatchell said, as if echoing Raines. "It was put up solid."

He talked about tearing things down, about how much easier it is, comparatively speaking, to wreck a newer building than it is to lay waste one of those older buildings.

They don't make 'em like they used to. Sure don't.

Some folks in town, Hatchell said, might be upset, in a sentimental sort of way, to see the old Tower get banged down, to get beaten into the earth — or onto the concrete.

The old building "probably holds a lot of memories for them," he said. Likely so.

And some of the passersby who

HBO no miracle cure, but sometimes helps

Under triple pressure, the amount of oxygen in the hyperbaric patient's blood thus is increased to 10 to 15 times normal. The amount of pressure prescribed varies according to the patient's needs, according to the HBO center literature.

"We make no claims. This is a modality we recommend to doctors after other things have failed," said Dr. R. A. Neubaer of the Ocean HBO Center in a telephone interview with The Reporter-Telegram.

Doctors at the center have found better results in the treatment of stroke victims if HBO is used in conjunction with other usual kinds of therapy for the patient, Neubaer said, adding that the earlier the treatment is used, the better the results.

HBO treatment has been popular in Europe for years. "We're just far behind," Neubaer said. There are some 20 diseases or injuries that have been treated successfully with HBO and written about in medical journals over the last decade.

Other uses are against sickle cell anemia, diver's bends, air embolisms (air bubbles in the blood system) and osteomyelitis (bone marrow infection). HBO therapy has been used widely throughout Europe and in Japan, and to a lesser degree in the United States since the 1940s, why is so little known about it?

Although the patient cost of the treatments is between $50 and $70 per treatment, many of the HBO uses are covered by Medicare and some insurance companies, he said. "If the doctors would use it, there are enough interested people (in Midland) to purchase it and donate it to the hospital. But the patients won't go in unless the doctors refer them," the man said.

The two Midland residents who had taken the treatments asked that their names be withheld to protect their privacy. "It amazes me why we don't have one... for nothing else, for old people," he said.

Pancake Jamboree scheduled Saturday

Garland Chapman, general chairman of the Midland Downtown Lions Club's 21st annual Pancake Jamboree, said Saturday that all committees are completing work on their assignments for the big event which will be held next Saturday in the Dellwood Plaza Mall.

The event is scheduled from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., with all the mixing, cooking, serving and cleanup chores being handled by Lions Club members, aided by members of the Lion Tamers and Leo clubs.

The public is invited to attend, eating pancakes and sausage and enjoying the special musical entertainment which will be presented throughout the day.

"Come on out Saturday and eat all the pancakes you want," Horace Robb, Lions Club president, said.

Glen Ford and Abb Ellis, service; Chuck Logue, Frank Mariow and Jeff George, ticket sales; Bill Reid, publicity, and Bill Sherman and "Sonny" Williams, afterglow.

Each of the club's more than 300 members are selling tickets in advance. They are organized into teams, working under the following named captains:

Absentee voting begins Monday

Absentee voting for the April 2 school board election begins Monday. Persons who cannot vote at the regular polling places April 2 because they plan to be out of the district may vote in person at the school administration offices during business hours Monday through March 29.

Applications for absentee ballots will be mailed on request to those who due to illness or disability are unable to go to the administration offices to vote. Completed ballots must be mailed to the business office, postmarked by midnight April 1 and received no later than 1 p.m. April 2.

More information about eligibility for absentee voting may be obtained by contacting the school district business office.

Two positions are to be filled in the April 2 election. Board president Joe Dominey is running for re-election against challenger Kingdon R. Hughes. Trustee James Ramsoure is running for re-election unopposed.

development investment is Midland Savings Association. Jerry Cox, vice president of Midland Savings, said his firm is now in its third year of developing land investments.

It started by developing land for 73 single-family houses in one of the northernmost sections of the city near Goddard Junior High. In late 1975, Midland Savings purchased 64 lots for construction of single-family houses in Emerson Heights, located in north Midland, and is currently developing an adjacent area for construction of more than 80 townhouse and regular single family houses, said Cox.

Although the houses Midland Savings has built tend to be high priced, Cox said "so far we're not having any problem" in selling the houses.

Cox is not so optimistic about the future for homeowners. "I do see a problem in the future in monthly payments because of taxes" and other inflationary house payment costs, said Cox.

With an average property tax of more than $100 a month for many houses in Emerson Heights, Cox said he sees an eventual demand for "plainer looking homes" that will have to be less expensive.

Although the costs of owning a house in Midland may seem high, Cox said the costs of constructing houses here is still relatively low compared to the larger Texas cities.

Area county officials set meeting here

Between 350 and 400 persons are expected to attend the West Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association convention later this week in Midland.

This is the first time the association has met in Midland, County Judge Barbara Culver said.

Registration will be held Wednesday at the Midland Hilton Hotel.

Sessions Thursday and Friday at the Midland Hilton will include addresses by U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson and Texas Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland.

Activities have been planned for association member spouses.

School trustees meeting Monday

BIG LAKE — Final payment for the elementary school addition will be one of the topics on the agenda when Reagan County school trustees meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the administration building.

Also to be discussed are locks for high school lockers, accreditation and insurance for the old middle school. The trustees are to hear a report on school crossings and discuss faculty for the 1977-78 school year.

MCAA hearing set March 25

Midland County Commissioners Court, the Midland City Council and the Midland school board will conduct a public hearing on the Midland Community Action Agency at 9 a.m. March 25 in the Midland Hilton Hotel ballroom.

Inquiries at the hearing will include the purpose, success, failures and prospects of the agency; whether other local organizations are rendering or could render the same services to low income residents, and the necessity for the responsibility of local governmental bodies in the operation of the agency.

In operation since 1966, the agency was designed to coordinate services for poor residents of Midland County. The agency has come under fire since August, 1976, when the agency's executive director was dismissed in connection with using agency funds without board approval.

Since that time, several board members have resigned from the agency's board of directors. Two members appointed by the city and one appointed by the county resigned, charging that the agency does not serve the purpose for which it was created.

Complaints listed in the resignations, of Ed Harris, Fran Henderson and Win Brown included the following: board policies have been ignored, meetings are not conducted according to Roberts Rules of Order as set forth in agency by-laws; reports furnished to the board are incomplete and inaccurate; and decisions are made arbitrarily and without board approval. In addition, the agency's bookkeeping records have not been audited since 1975 and three independent prospective certified public accountant auditors have said the books are inauditable. The Community Services Administration has said it would discontinue funding the Midland Community Action Agency if an acceptable audit is not received by March 31.

MCAA board chairman Charlie Weich has said an audit of the agency's books is under way and will be completed before March 31. The public is invited to the hearing. Federal and state officials, as well as agency personnel, have been invited to make comments.

Others who paused to gawk or to merely look over the destruction and rubble "really get fascinated" by the two tons of steel tearing into the helpless walls, Hatchell said.

Both Raines and Hatchell, as well as wrecking-crew foreman George Geric, seemed impressed by the stamina of the staunch building they were demolishing.

"They don't build 'em like they used to," Raines, again, said. Moments after welder Junior Powell had severed a beam, Raines climbed backed into the cab, revved up the engine, and again started his swinging act with the heavy weight "headache ball."

Once the old theater is total rubble, the debris will be bulldozed into the sloping ground of what was the theater's floor.

And, pretty soon, cars will be parking where movie-goers used to sit, munch on popcorn, and watch the silver screen.

"I suspect it was quite a theater in its day," Raines had said before he starting swinging that steel ball again. More parking spaces, fewer theater seats. That's progress.

Film director faces forcible rape charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Roman Polanski, the movie director famous for showing evil triumphant in such films as "Rosemary's Baby" and "Chinatown," could face up to 50 years in prison if convicted on a charge of forcibly raping a 13-year-old girl, authorities said.

Roman Polanski

Polanski was arrested Friday at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel. He was later freed on $2,500 bond and was to be arraigned sometime this week in Municipal Court in connection with the alleged rape Thursday night at the home of actor Jack Nicholson.

Authorities said a conviction of forcible rape carries a prison sentence ranging from one to 50 years. Police said the 43-year-old director picked up the girl, who was not identified, at her home and told her he was taking her to a photographic session. The girl's mother later filed a complaint, saying her daughter told her that Polanski gave her a tranquilizer and then attacked her sexually.

Nicholson, a friend of Polanski's and one of the stars of "Chinatown," was reportedly not home at the time.

But authorities searching the residence for evidence on Friday arrested his longtime companion Anjelica Huston on a charge of possessing cocaine.

Miss Huston, daughter of movie director John Huston, was released on $1,500 bail.

Born in Paris, Polanski grew up in Poland, where he made his first films, the award-winning "Two Men and a Wardrobe" and "Knife in the Water."

After leaving Poland in 1962, he made a series of movies exploring violence, the occult and sexual pathology. Those included "Cul-de-Sac," an unusually gory version of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and a comic takeoff, "The Fearless Vampire Killers, or Pardon Me, But Your Teeth Are in My Neck."

Indians to decide Gandhi fate

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The world's largest electorate decides this week the fate of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and her Congress party, which faces its severest challenge since it came to power with independence 30 years ago.

For four days, beginning Wednesday, voting will take place for a new 542-member Parliament in the country's first national elections in six years.

An estimated 318 million persons will be eligible to vote, and a little more than half will exercise their franchise if the pattern from India's five previous general elections is followed. The voters represent all men and women over age 21. About 70 per cent are illiterate.

This year's election campaign has been particularly significant because it has marked the revival of political activity after 20 months of emergency rule, imposed at Mrs. Gandhi's request.

During this period, the government had suspended civil liberties, censored the press and imprisoned thousands of opposition politicians as well as some dissidents in the Congress party. Nearly all have been released, and the press has been allowed to report opposition statements during the campaign.

Mrs. Gandhi's decision on the state of emergency in June 1975, two weeks after she was found guilty of winning her Parliament seat in the last election through corrupt practices, has been one of the main campaign issues.

The 59-year-old prime minister has been frequently heckled at campaign rallies at which she declared the emergency saved the country from chaos, spurred economic growth and established unprecedented internal stability.

The opposition, which has drawn unexpectedly large and enthusiastic crowds, has countered that the emergency destroyed, at least temporarily, India's democratic institutions and paved a way for authoritarian rule.

The opposition also has capitalized on widespread discontent over the emergency's intensified family planning program, which stressed sterilizations.

Less than two months ago, when Mrs. Gandhi announced the emergency would be relaxed and elections held, it was anticipated the Congress Party would win an easy victory.

The opposition was splintered and, it was felt, without adequate funds, manpower or time to mount an effective challenge.

Now, in the closing days of the campaign, it is the opposition that appears more united than ever following the merger of four important non-Communist political groups into a new Janata (Peoples) party.

It is headed by former Deputy Prime Minister Morarji Desai, 81, who left the government in 1969 after Mrs. Gandhi dismissed him as finance minister.

Significantly, the Janata is supported by Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, the prime minister's 76-year-old aunt who has become one of the most active campaigners.

Change in ban law eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina congressman wants to change the law under which the artificial sweetener saccharin is being ordered off the market.

Rep. Jim Martin, R-N.C., a former professor of organic chemistry, told a news conference Friday saccharin is "absolutely safe in normal doses."

He said he will try to amend a section of the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act that prohibits marketing a food additive known to cause cancer in either humans or animals.

"Tests have shown that many harmless, everyday foodstuffs produce tumors" if fed to animals in large enough quantities, Martin said.

The government's decision to ban the substance is drawing objections from diabetics, who can't eat sugar and claim the tests aren't conclusive and a decision to ban the only sweetener they can use is unfair.

Webb chair set

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas at Austin President Lorene Rogers said Saturday that a Walter Prescott Webb chair in history has been established at the university.

The chair, named for the nationally-known UT history professor who died in 1963, was endowed by C.B. Smith, an Austin businessman.

Additional funding to bring the endowment to $1 million will be sought prior to Sept. 1, when the chair will be in operation, UT officials said.

Zaire mounts attack

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — A battalion of government troops was advancing Saturday toward three towns held by an invasion force from neighboring Angola, Zairean officials said.

The Zairean government has identified the invaders only as an "army of mercenaries in the pay of Angola." But informed sources said the attack was mounted by several thousand Angola-based Zairean rebels, including former separatists from the invaded province of Shaba, once known as Katanga.

Angola has not commented on the invasion. State Department and United Methodist Church spokesmen said seven American missionaries and a Peace Corps volunteer were under house arrest in one of the occupied towns, Kapanga, but were unharmed. Another eight Americans in the area of the unoccupied town of Sandoa have asked to be evacuated, the State Department said.

A total of 22 Americans were in the general invasion area, it said.

Zairean officials said Friday that army reinforcements had recaptured the towns of Divuma, site of a Roman Catholic mission, and Kasaji, a commercial center on a railroad line.

The officials said a regular Zairean army battalion was advancing on the occupied towns of Kapanga, Dilolo and Kisengi in Shaba, the southernmost province in this West African nation.

The government said the towns were seized earlier this week when the invaders poured across the border from Angola.

The three are part of a group of students who will go to Austin to watch the legislature in session.

Trinity pupils Austin-bound

Seven Trinity School students will get to see government in action Monday when they visit the legislature in session in Austin.

While there, the students will meet Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Texas Rep. Tom Craddick and Texas Sen. W. E. "Pete" Snellson. They will attend a session of the legislature to watch their representatives at work, Coombes said.

The trip was arranged by Texas Assistant Attorney General Steve Bickerstaff, formerly of Midland.

Callaghan exits U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Prime Minister James Callaghan flew to Canada Saturday, ending a 64-hour visit here in which he conferred with President Carter on global political and economic issues.

The Callaghans' British Airways Concorde took off from nearby Dulles Airport at 10:07 a.m. a few minutes behind schedule.

During his visit Callaghan predicted that the political stability of the Western nations could be threatened by poor living standards.

"I do believe that 1978 could turn out not to be a good year except in the United States," he told the National Press Club.

He said "the overriding problem" facing Western leaders is continued high unemployment and poor living standards.

Emphasizing that the pessimistic forecast is only his opinion, Callaghan said that with "present policies there is likely to be slow growth in the output in the Western world, little improvement in living standards, continuing high unemployment in a number of countries and major problems for the less-developed non-oil countries."

'Mormon will' goes back to court

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — There are no fingerprints on the so-called "Forsythe" envelope and a new trial date has been set to determine the validity of the "Mormon will," which was allegedly composed by the late Howard Hughes.

Friday in the court controversy over the three-page document, which some have attributed to Hughes.

Clark County District Court Judge Keith Hayes set a jury trial for July 6, to determine whether Hughes penned the will, or whether some pretender forged it.

And a fingerprint expert from Los Angeles chemically tested an envelope in which Hughes allegedly delivered the will to Levene Forsythe.

Forsythe, 53, an Anchorage, Alaska, contractor, claims that he's the mysterious man who delivered the purported will to a service station in Willard, Utah, which was operated by Melvin Dummar.

Dummar, now living in Ogden, Utah, has admitted delivering the will to the Mormon Church headquarters last April 27.

Hughes died April 5. Dummar, named as a beneficiary to the tune of one-sixteenth of the Hughes estate, claims he had nothing to do with the composition of the will.

The FBI is now testing the will for the fingerprints of Hughes, Dummar and Forsythe.

Airborne raiders said white men

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Most of the airborne raiders who attacked the main city of the West African nation of Benin in January were white mercenaries hired by exiles trying to topple the Beninese government, a U.N. investigative mission has reported.

The mission's 43-page report to the U.N. Security Council was circulated here Friday.

It said the mercenaries were assembled from France, Senegal and the Ivory Coast, were trained in Morocco and were flown to Gabon, across the Gulf of Guinea from Benin, just before the attack.

Italian students protest

ROME (AP) — Thousands of students marched in Italian cities from Milan to Palermo on Saturday to protest the killing of a leftist student leader in Communist-run Bologna. A police officer was slain in Turin earlier in the day in apparent retaliation for the student's death.

The marches, part of a two-week wave of student unrest, were prompted by the shooting death Friday of Pierfrancesco Lorusso, 25, a medical student and leader of the ultra-leftist "Lotta Continua." — The Fight Goes On.

Lorusso was shot during a clash between police and some 1,000 students, who had thrown up barricades around the University of Bologna to protest the sentencing of a leftist youth in the killing of a Greek rightist two years ago.

Dozens of persons, including some police, were injured and 46 students arrested in the Friday night rioting.

Some Communist officials have denounced student extremists as "new Fascists."

New York City off hook with federal loan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is coming to New York City's rescue again with a $255 million loan, but Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal warns, "It's not going to be a free lunch."

City officials must reciprocate with sound financial practices, Blumenthal said Friday as he announced the loan.

The loan assures New York City that it can pay its bills through the end of June, including more than $125 million due early next week.

He also disclosed that the Carter administration will propose some form of federal banking mechanism to help cities meet special needs, but with "some strings attached" to assure that cities don't overspend.

With the latest emergency loan, New York City owes the federal government $2.1 billion by June 30. The first installment is $500 million due April 15, Treasury Department officials said.

"We'll get our money back by June," said Blumenthal. The city is counting on a heavy flow of tax receipts in June to repay the debt. Blumenthal said he was confident because of the plan the city adopted Wednesday to repay $983 million due to its note holders.

Last November the courts declared the city's moratorium on paying off its notes unconstitutional.

New York Mayor Abraham D. Beame said the loan "lifts a major financial burden from the shoulders of the city." He promised continued austerity without sacrificing essential services.

President Carter had assured Beame earlier that the administration would not permit bankruptcy. But the government withheld approval of a new loan until the city resolved the $983 million debt.

The latest loan was made under a plan worked out in 1975 by the Ford administration to permit New York to borrow up to $2.3 billion a year in federal money. Treasury officials said they do not expect New York to borrow more money unless there are new threats of insolvency.

Blumenthal said he expects that negotiations between the city, labor unions and banks might lead to some form of outside control over New York's purse strings.

New York City's plan for repaying its $983 million in debts was worked out without the banks. They had insisted on an outside agency monitoring city spending on grounds it was necessary to restore investor confidence in the city's bonds.

Communists likely to gain in France

By JOHN VINOUCUR

PARIS (AP) — France votes in nationwide municipal elections today that are expected to bring extensive gains for the left wing and give the Communist party its deepest penetration into public life here since the end of World War II.

The Socialist party newspaper L'Unité in its weekend edition predicted victory for joint Socialist-Communist slates in 36 cities with populations over 30,000 now controlled by parties allied to the parliamentary majority of President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing.

An informant close to the Gaullist party, however, said the party could lose 50 cities over the two-stage voting procedure, involving runoff elections March 20 in places where there is no majority on the first round. Among them is Paris, where a mayor is being elected for the first time in 105 years.

Through their alliance with the Socialists, the Communists are expected to become part of municipal government in about 2,600 towns where they have never had an elected role. Since the first French governments after World War II, the party has not shared power on the national level, maintaining roughly 20 per cent of the popular vote in major elections.

Until now a poor weathervane for judging national political trends in France, the municipal elections this year are highly politicized and widely regarded as a significant factor in shaping opinion and tactics for next year's legislative elections, which polls indicate the left coalition could win.

There are 33.3 million eligible voters for the first municipal elections in six years. They will pick about 475,000 city council members in 36,575 communities. Computer projections on the outcome are expected shortly after the polls close at 8 p.m. (2 p.m. EST).

Among the big cities that could move to the left are Toulouse, Rennes, Montpellier, Le Mans, Toulon, Brest, Nantes and Nancy. At present, the left runs about 115 of 221 cities with populations over 30,000, but the figure is imprecise because some municipal governments and leaders reject party labels.

If the swing to the left develops as expected, according to a Socialist source, the Socialists should take control of the mayor's offices in about two-thirds of the 36 key cities moving left, with the Communists getting one-third.

But the Socialists appeared to give more than they got from the Communists in agreeing to set up joint tickets with them for the first time. In cities where they were already in power, notably Lille and Grenoble, they have given the Communists 263 "safe" municipal council seats. The Communists, who control the city of Le Havre and many municipalities in the Paris suburbs, are turning over only 78 seats from their strongholds to the Socialists.

Chile chief calls 'state of siege'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Augusto Pinochet's military government banned all political parties Saturday in a further crackdown on critics of the four-man junta which has ruled Chile since 1973.

The ban came the day after the junta broadened and extended for another six months the "state of siege" which empowers it to hold prisoners without charge or court order.

The "state of siege" has been renewed every six months since the military overthrew the Marxist government of the late Salvador Allende. Marxist parties had already been outlawed when the junta took over and other parties declared to be "in recess."

The new ban prohibits "the existence, organization, activities and propaganda" of the various non-Marxist parties and says anyone who violates the ban can be fined, imprisoned or exiled.

The latest "state of siege" provides for censorship of mail and a variety of new work and press restrictions, including a ban on unauthorized printing of news magazines or newspapers and the importing of foreign publications.

Santiago newspapers published Saturday the texts of what the government said were plans for political change drafted by Christian Democrat leaders Andres Zaldívar and Tomas Reyes.

Reyes was quoted as expressing a "need for a fundamental change in the regime, or even its substitution, to permit democratic recuperation."

"This is called subversion in any country," said Gen. Herman Bejares, government secretary-general. "The political recess has been violated in the most absolute way." Both plans criticized the junta and called for a peaceful, gradual transition to democracy. Although neither called for an open alliance with the Marxists, Reyes urged cooperation of all political forces.

No government action was announced against either of the two Christian Democrats. Zaldívar is a former finance minister and Reyes a former chairman of the Senate.

Mahmoud Riad, the Arab League secretary-general, said the financial shortfall might keep the league from granting Lebanon's request that the peacekeepers' mandate be extended for another six months, the Beirut newspaper Al Amal reported.

The request is scheduled to be debated at a league council meeting in Cairo next Friday.

The league-sponsored 30,000-man force, largely Syrian, brought an end to most of the fighting in Lebanon last November after 19 months of civil war between right-wing Christians and an alliance of leftist Muslims and Palestinians.

At Amal, a right-wing Christian paper, said Riad had sent a note to Arab governments saying that in the first four months of the cease-fire only $25 million of the peacekeepers' six-month $80-million budget has been paid.

Community leaders

Martin Allday, attorney, retired Friday as president of the Industrial Foundation of Midland, Inc., after having served three years, longer than anyone else, as head of the foundation which has done and is doing so much in the Tall City's industrial development.

He has served faithfully and well during his terms as president — a period during which the foundation and its attractive, well-planned Midland Industrial Park have come into their own. He has provided outstanding leadership in this particular area of community development, just as he has in other civic organizations, including the Midland Chamber of Commerce, of which he has served as president.

The community and its residents owe him a sincere vote of appreciation for his far-reaching community leadership.

At the same time, another community leader merits a round of applause and a vote of thanks from his fellow citizens for his effective leadership role in Midland and vicinity.

He is C. Winston Barclay, Western Division manager, Texas Electric Service Co., who succeeds Allday as president of the Industrial Foundation.

This is great, but what makes it even more significant is the fact that it is the second time around for Barclay. He served as president of the foundation in 1969 and 1970, taking over the reins as president in the early years of the foundation's existence. He also played a leading role in its organization and has worked closely with it ever since.

Barclay also is a past president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, as well as other civic and service organizations.

Allday and Barclay really are "Top Midlanders," and their volunteer services through the years are much appreciated by all concerned.

The foundation, itself, has been most successful from the beginning, due primarily to the dedicated efforts of these men and others like them who have served and are serving as officers and directors, and to excellent community support.

Other officers, in addition to Barclay, are Howard D. "Rocky" Ford, E.E. Runyan and Tony A. Martin, vice presidents; Wilbur Yeager Jr., treasurer; W.H. "Bill" Collins, secretary, and Jim Alsop, Frederick B. Tyler and Douglas Henson, assistant secretaries.

Congratulations also are in order for each of them.

Camp Fire Girls

The annual observance of Camp Fire Girls Birthday Week opens today in Midland and elsewhere across the land.

The observance has been proclaimed locally by Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., and it is hoped that Tall City residents will join with the mayor in recognizing Camp Fire Girls and their leaders, while at the same time encouraging them to continue their noble efforts in bettering the community and the world in which we live.

The organization will be 67 years old Wednesday, and the celebration of Founders Day will be a special highlight of the week-long observance.

Camp Fire's traditional program focuses on the development of the individual — the learning of skills in leadership, citizenship, interpersonal relationships, the creative arts, outdoor living and community service.

There is no doubt that members of the organization add to the quality of life in Midland in numerous ways, adding joy and spirit through special events and recognition of national holidays. Members in the Tall City especially are known for their involvement in Meals on Wheels, Christmas in April, Foster Parents and other projects.

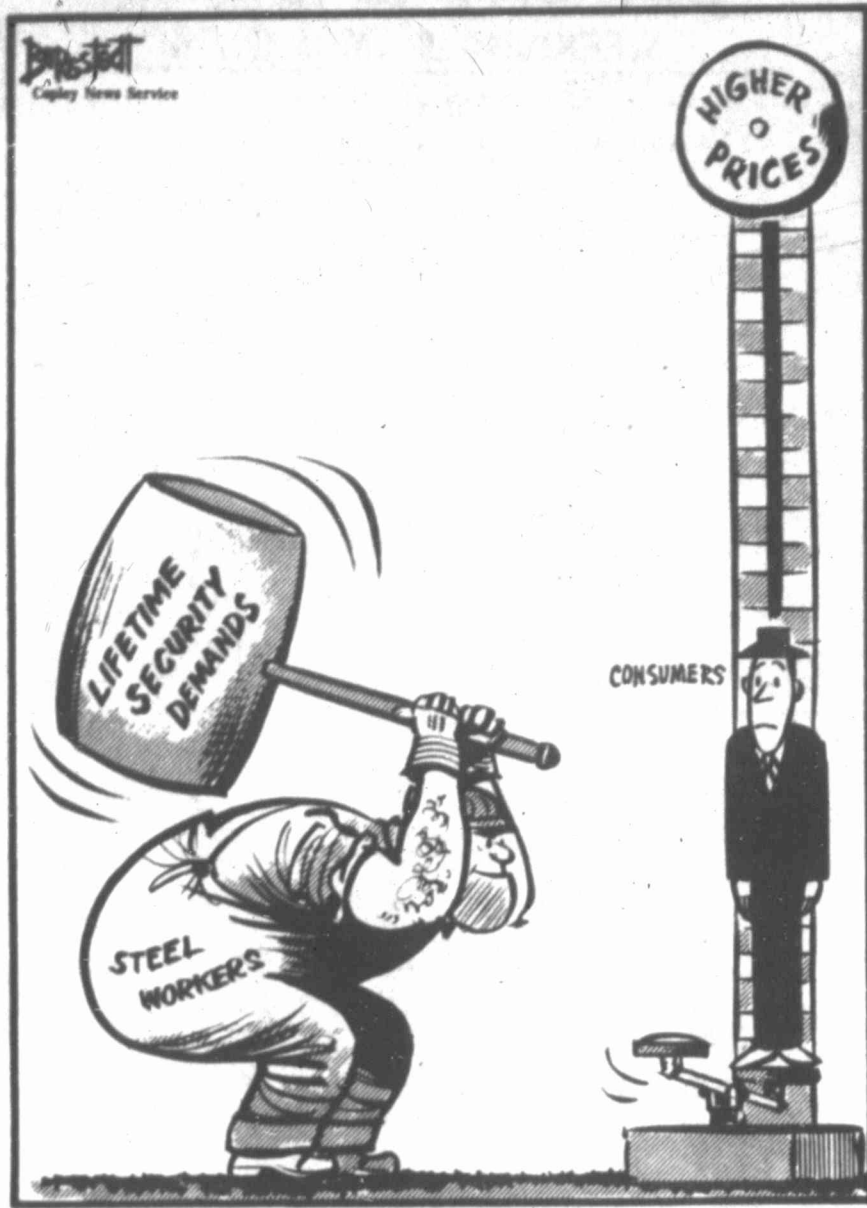

Congratulations to them on the 67th birthday anniversary of Camp Fire Girls.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Cruel and unusual punishment

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Behind bars in the United States, the constitutional rights of the incarcerated American are routinely violated. The Constitution guarantees that he will not be subjected to cruel and unusual punishment. Yet he is in daily danger of being raped, abused, beaten, even murdered.

For the stark truth is that conditions are intolerable in all too many American prisons. The guards often contribute to the abuse rather than protect the prisoners from it. Thus a prison sentence frequently becomes cruel and unusual punishment.

Some of the nation's worst prisons are located in Mississippi, which is now trying earnestly to improve them. With the cooperation of the authorities, we sent our roving reporter, Hal Bernton, into the tense barracks of Parchman prison. He spent several days as an inmate.

He was thrust into a world where each prisoner must rely on his wits for survival. Frustrated convicts are crammed into cages, where the luxuries of the outside world are paraded before their eyes on television screens.

The guards are hard pressed to keep the inmates from fighting among themselves. Inmates who complain about the decrepit conditions are harassed by some guards. The guards at the maximum security building, until last year, even wore raincoats to protect themselves from the urine and excrement which sometimes is hurled at them.

Bernton immediately sensed the smoldering tension inside the cage. The new arrival confronts the ugly possibility of rape. He is particularly vulnerable if he has no friends or inmates from his home town who will protect him against the others.

Young lawbreakers, sent to prison for "rehabilitation," become immersed in a far more violent atmosphere than they left behind on the streets. Bernton met one frail, 17-year-old boy who had been sentenced to 10 years for robbing the uncle of a small-town sheriff. The boy's total take was $208.

Bernton later spent two days in a "gunman camp," the most violent place in the prison. Inside, Parchman's most dangerous criminals are locked in their quarters, surrounded by armed guards.

Most prisoners are armed with a "shank," a crudely forged knife usually made from the bottom of a bed frame or a kitchen utensil. Although prison officials regularly confiscate these weapons, the inmates always manage to make new ones. For most of the men, the possession of a "shank" is essential for self-defense.

Bernton found blacks pitted against whites in the racially polarized gunman camps. In the past, black inmates, who comprise 71 per cent of the prison population, often ganged up on white prisoners. The whites, in turn, formed a tight little family sworn to defend one another to the death if a fight broke out.

Violent assaults have been cut in half under the new prison director, Dr. Allen Ault, who ran the prison system in Georgia while Jimmy Carter was governor. Ault is trying to humanize the prison.

Scattered behind the 18 camps, for example, are small red houses that help lower the level of frustration at

PENNSYLVANIA AVENUE: Question: Is full disclosure enough?

By BENJAMIN SHORE
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Pollster Louis Harris has come up with some interesting findings in a survey of public attitudes toward congressmen and the jobs they do.

Hired by a special House commission that is drafting a code of ethics, Harris sampled the nation's adult population early in January to find out whether citizens are as concerned about the same kinds of behavior as are ethics-minded congressmen.

To no one's surprise, the public turns out to be far more concerned about their congressmen getting lots of federal pork barrel projects for their districts.

Congress continued to receive a negative rating from the public, Harris found, but not primarily for unethical behavior. In fact, ethics was cited by only 11 per cent as their main reason for thinking negatively about Congress as an institution.

But, as Harris warned, if Congress doesn't solve its ethics problem fast, it could become the dominant issue in public attitudes toward the institution.

What to do. Well, the unanimous first step on everybody's list of remedies is full disclosure by members of Congress about their personal finances, their campaign finances — in other words, make their political and private lives open books.

But Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., the chairman of the Special Ethics Commission, believes the Harris survey indicates a need for more.

Obey suggests his colleagues should limit the amount of income they can make from giving speeches and writing articles, the amount of individual honorariums, and the amount of other outside income, such as from law firms in which they held partnerships before they entered public service.

But an argument can be made (and will be made by some of Obey's equally high-minded colleagues) that full disclosure is sufficient to demand of elected officials, whether serving in Congress or in the executive branch.

First of all, federal public service is expensive, often requiring the maintenance of two homes (one in Washington and one wherever home was before entering public service here) and requiring other outlays of cash that gobble up what looks like a whopping salary.

Second, and more persuasive, members of Congress hold their jobs at the whim of the voters, making it unreasonable to ask them to sever income-producing ties as long as they don't constitute a conflict of interest.

If President Carter is voted out of office in 1980, for example, his peanut business will be waiting for his return to Plains. Similarly, members of Congress like knowing that they have their former incomes to resume. They also like knowing they will be able to pay their children's college tuition with outside income augmenting their public pay.

Full disclosure, strictly enforced, shares the responsibility for insuring ethical government equally between the elected officials and the public, which has some improving to do itself.

Consider these findings from the Harris survey:

— Only 50 per cent of the adults polled could name their representative, and fewer knew which party he or she belonged to.

— Only 29 per cent have ever bothered to write or call their representative.

— While 26 per cent have met their congressman in a group setting, only 8 per cent have ever had an individual meeting.

— Only 11 per cent ever gave a contribution to their representative's election campaign, and only 7 per cent have ever volunteered to work in a campaign.

The point is that full disclosure of all aspects of a public servant's financial life puts the ethics ball squarely into the public's court.

If citizens don't care enough to scrutinize disclosure reports, ask questions and then draw their own conclusions about their representatives' standards of ethics, they will get the kind of representation that such apathy breeds.

Mark Russell says

Carter's style includes dispensing with the songs, "Ruffles and Flourishes" and "Hail to the Chief." Nixon called Carter and said, "Can I have them?"

In spite of the pardoning of draft resisters, there is talk of resuming Selective Service. The new draft notices will say, "Drop in if you can."

At the bottom of the notice will be a phone number for "regrets only."

A draftee not wishing to serve must bring a note from his mother.

There would be new posters saying "Uncle Sam Wants You — Unless You're Busy."

Government reorganization is a misnomer; it implies that the government was organized in the first place.

Streamlining the bureaucracy is like painting racing stripes on an arthritic camel.

NICK THIMMESCH

Carter and Rabin: Stand pat and go slow is great

WASHINGTON — After talking with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, President Carter must be happy that, despite the usual talk of real peace, "the Israelis are taking a stand-pat position on negotiations with the Arab states."

Mr. Carter has been burned plenty over his offhand remarks on international affairs, and for him to press the Israelis to a new position now would only give him more trouble.

As it was, the President was forced into semantic gyrations by his statement to support for Israel's "defensible borders." That term means "secure borders" to the Israelis, not necessarily peaceful borders, and they were delighted to have the President pick up their language, if only for a day.

The day after Mr. Carter let that one slip, he sort of took it back at his press conference, by saying it was "semantics." But in addition to reaffirming traditional U.S. support of Israel's security, Mr. Carter characterized Middle East peace efforts as "a long, tedious process," and the Israelis like that kind of talk.

There is much going for the Israelis these days. The wily Dr. Henry A. Kissinger is out of power, replaced by a relative greenhorn on foreign policy, President Carter, whose secretary of state, Cyrus Vance, is not about to rock the boat. Pro-Israeli sentiment in the White House and Congress is strong in the new administration. The Palestinian Liberation Organization was greatly weakened by the war in Lebanon and is even in disfavor in many quarters of the Arab world. The Israelis point out that the Syrians alone killed more members of the PLO in the past six months than the Israelis did in all these years.

Lebanon has been virtually removed as a sanctuary for Palestinian terrorists, and Israel now has legitimate reason — due to the war — to insist on strict patrol of Lebanon's borders.

Beyond that, Egypt under President Sadat is not an immediate military threat to Israel. Indeed, there is even talk of trade and tourism between the two adversaries. Finally, the Soviet Union has only small influence in the Middle East now, and the oil-rich Arab states are as weary of the Palestinians as the Israelis are.

states demand it, for they want the momentum which Nixon-Kissinger-Ford started on the Middle East to continue.

Besides, Rabin has elections in May, and one sure way to get hurt in Israeli politics is to do or say anything which could be perceived as a major concession to the Arabs.

For the short term, Israel is secure and doesn't need to push for negotiations. But the clock can be tough to reckon with. Sadat went through the worst riots Egypt has suffered since its Black Saturday street fighting in 1952 which put dictator Nasser into office. Israel needs Sadat, and he is vulnerable.

The population of Israel undergoes significant change. The Arab portion grows larger and more restive, and the European refugees decline in number. A new generation of Sabra — born on the land — has different views on what Israel should be, and they are less hawkish.

Outside, the Arab world is strengthened economically, and yet the deep feeling by Arabs persists that Israel is a European state imposed on the Arab world, and often turns into hatred. Israeli leaders admit that underlying all the talked-about problems in the Middle East is the Arab mentality which asserts that Israel is an illegitimate state and must be dissolved.

Finally, there is less sympathy in the world for Israel than there was 25 or even 15 years ago. Israel has become a conservative, quasi-military state in the minds of many world leaders, one linked to South Africa and big old U.S.A.

Mr. Carter can only have limited understanding of all this, at this point. He is delinquent in getting his own administration organized, and must feel a bit tenuous about coming to grips with something as complex as the Middle East.

So American intensity, in the terms of pushing for a settlement, must be less than in the previous administrations, and all parties, except the Arabs, are happy with that. But this is a region where fires flash quickly, and careful analyses perish just as quickly.

ART BUCHWALD

Television unreality explained

WASHINGTON — Dr. Heinrich Applebaum has just completed a study on the effects of television on children. In his case, though, he wasn't concerned with violence, but how television gives children a false sense of reality.

Dr. Applebaum told me, "The greatest danger of television is that it presents a world to children that doesn't exist, and raises expectations that can never be fulfilled."

"I don't understand, Doctor," I said.

"Well, let me cite one example. Have you ever seen a television show where a person in an automobile doesn't immediately find a parking place on the very first try?"

"Come to think of it," I said, "I haven't."

"Not only is there always a parking spot available but the driver doesn't even have to back into it. There are two parking spaces available whenever someone in a TV show needs one. Children are being led to believe that when they grow up they will always be able to find a parking place when and where they want it. Can you imagine the trauma when they discover that in real life you can drive around a block for three hours and still not find a place to put your car?"

"I never thought of it but it's true. What else do they show on television which gives a distorted picture of the real world?"

"Have you noticed that whenever a character walks out of a restaurant or office building or apartment and says to the doorman, 'Get me a taxi,' the taxi immediately arrives? Millions of children are under the impression that all a doorman has to do is blow his whistle and a taxi will be there. I have never seen a show where the doorman has said, 'I'm sorry, I can't get you a taxi. You better take the bus.'"

"Of course," I said. "I never knew before what bothered me about those TV action programs; but somehow, there is always a yellow taxi waiting offscreen."

"Now," said Applebaum, "have you ever said to a taxi, 'Follow that car and don't lose him?'"

"Not really."

"Well, if you had, the driver would have told you to blow it out your ear. No taxi driver is in a mood to follow another car because that means he's going to get involved. But on TV every cabdriver looks as if he'd like nothing better to do than to drive 90 miles an hour through a rain-swept street trying to keep up with a car-full of hoods. And the worst thing is that the kids believe it."

"What else have you discovered?"

"Kids have a perverted sense of what emergency wards of hospitals are really like. On TV shows they take a kid to an emergency ward and four doctors come rushing down to bandage his leg. In a real life situation the kid would be sitting on the bench for two hours before he even saw an intern. On TV there always happens to be a hospital bed available when a kid needs it. What the kids in this country don't know is that sometimes you have to wait three days to get a hospital bed and then you have to put a cash deposit of $500 down before they give it to you."

Applebaum said the cruelest hoax of all is when TV shows a lawyer defending someone innocent of a crime.

"On the screen the lawyer spends day and night digging up the evidence to clear his or her client. In real life the lawyer says to the defendant, 'Look, I've got 20 minutes. Tell me your story and then I'll plead you guilty and make a deal with the DA.' In real life the defendant might say, 'But I'm innocent.' The lawyer would say, 'So what? I can't afford to find that out. I'm not Perry Mason.'"

"Then what you're saying, Dr. Applebaum, is that it isn't the violence on TV but the fantasy that is doing harm to children."

"Exactly. Even the commercials are taking their toll. Children are led to believe that when they grow up if they use mouthwash they'll find the mate of their dreams. When they don't find him or her after gargling all night, they go into a tailspin, and many of them never come out of it."

"What do you think is the biggest fear little girls have?"

"I have no idea."

"That someday when they get married their husbands will have ring around the collar?"

"What about boys?"

"Boys worry that they'll only go around once in life and they won't have all the gusto out of their beer that they deserve."

"How'd you like it cut? Lengthwise? Crosswise? Or ground up?"

Realities limit Carter's actions

Editor's Note: These comments were excerpted from an address by columnist George F. Will to a recent meeting of Copley Newspaper Publishers in Borrego Springs, Calif.

By GEORGE F. WILL
Copley News Service

Mr. Carter is the most restricted, most constrained President of modern times. All presidents are much more restricted or restrained than we in the press are inclined to represent them.

If you read the Constitution, you cannot escape coming away with the impression that the presidency is inherently, which is to say constitutionally, a weak office.

There are very few things a president can do on his own. All else depends upon his powers of persuasion.

We have not had since the death of John Kennedy a persuasive, publicly articulate president.

If you look at the record of modern presidents, all of them were governed by events. Richard Nixon spent a career in vain against wage and price controls and then was driven to impose them.

Nixon was a conservative, decentralizing, anti-federal bureaucracy president who, confronted with the energy crisis, created a bureaucratic monster in the Federal Energy Administration. He was a president who pioneered politically what was called a Southern strategy, yet under whose presidency more schools were desegregated in the United States than under any presidency in history.

Gerald Ford was part of two conservative Republican administrations that between them compiled approximately one-fifth of the national debt. Ford was the most determinedly conservative president economically since Calvin Coolidge, and he accounted in two years for $110 billion in federal deficits.

The Democrats are also not immune from the general tendency of being governed by events. The Democrats divide their time these days between complaining about the complexity of the tax code and ignoring the fact that it was written by Democratic congresses for 40 of the last 44 years.

All presidents today control at most — speaking practically — one-third of the federal budget, which is a severe restriction on what they can do.

But Mr. Carter is more constrained than any other president for three reasons:

He has stated that first there will be a balanced budget by the end of his first term — that is, in fiscal 1981, beginning in October, 1980. Second, federal spending will be held to the level it currently is — that is, 21 per cent of the gross national product. And third, that he will deliver on a dignified portion of the Democratic platform promises of 60 new or improved programs.

The second thing restraining him is, generally, the public mood. The public is out of patience with its government as rarely before.

I don't think it's hard to understand why this is so if you look back... to Jan. 20, 1965, which may be looked on by historians as the recent peak of American optimism.

That was the day Lyndon Johnson was inaugurated.

It was just a month earlier that the first tremblings of the student unrest were felt in Sproule Plaza at Berkeley with the free speech movement. It was just a month later that the American barracks at Pleiku were bombed and the United States bombed North Vietnam for the first time in retaliation. And it was just seven months later that the riots in Watts occurred.

Since then, three great events of government have contributed also to the decline of patience in government. They were, first, the Great Society legislative initiatives which fairly or unfairly are considered to have promised rather more than they delivered. The second was the Vietnam War and the third was Watergate.

Vietnam is wrongly but generally considered to have been a presidential war.

I think that's wrong because Congress funded it every step of the way and repeatedly refused invitations to stop it.

The third thing restraining Mr. Carter is the fact that the government is manifestly out of resources.

There are only four ways a central government can increase the resources at its disposal for governing purposes. It can print more money, it can borrow more money, it can reorder priorities or it can increase taxes.

If you take these one at a time briefly, you will see exactly the dilemma that Mr. Carter is in. It is clear the government cannot simply solve its problems by printing more money at a more rapid rate. Inflation has become the principal political issue in the United States.

The government also knows that it can't borrow more money because we now face a capital formation crisis of considerable proportion in the United States. Last year government at all levels consumed 40 per cent of the nation's demand for credit.

We are now in danger of the phenomenon known as "crowding out" — the crowding out from the credit market of private borrowers, as the Treasury elbows its way to the front of the borrowing line.

If the government can't borrow and can't print more money, it also can't reorder priorities, by which we mean in Washington cut the defense budget. The fact is that defense today as a percentage of GNP and as a percentage of federal outlays is at the lowest point since (to pick a date not quite at random) Pearl Harbor.

It also is the case that payroll costs consume about 60 per cent of this budget, that strategic arms has been a declining percentage of the defense budget since 1951, and that there simply is not much revenue to be released for social domestic spending by cutting even the largest and most ambitious programs, such as Trident and the B-1 bomber.

You can always, of course, raise more taxes.

But it is the case, I think, that the two most salient statistics of American politics today are the following: if you're earning $20,000 in the United States, you're in the top 20 per cent of income earners in this very rich country. If you earn $31,000 you're in the top 5 per cent. That is, you are in some objective sense statistically rich if you're in the top 20 per cent of a wealthy nation.

But I have noticed when I mention that statistic people bitterly resent being told they are rich, because they feel — and not without reason — in the $20,000 bracket that their needs are pressing against their resources. They may be statistically rich but they are psychologically strapped.

As a result of this it is clear that the government cannot raise substantial new revenues by increasing personal income taxes unless it begins to increase taxes on people down around the $16,000 or $17,000 level, because that is where the money is in the United States. For that reason, I do not anticipate the government trying to raise more money at those levels without producing a political and taxpayers' revolt of some sort.

Given this brief and all too cursory outline of certain brute facts confronting the administration, I think you can see why Mr. Carter is in such a difficult position, why he is terribly constrained.

He has promised that the budget will be balanced soon and that there will be many new programs paid for. But he can't print, borrow, tax or reorder priorities to any significant degree. So, what he needs in the most desperate way is what we call in Washington a fiscal dividend.

A fiscal dividend is a great yield in revenues to the government from constant tax rates as a result of a sudden increase in economic growth.

To produce this first fiscal dividend of any significance that Mr. Carter will have to have for his $60 billion surplus (what he's promised) for his new program, he needs to have a rate of economic growth and of economic performance that is improbable. But in order to get this, he needs to stimulate the economy rather much from Washington.

He needs, that is, stimulus for political as much as for economic reasons.

So he has been hunting for bad news to justify a stimulus program and has been frustrated by the fact that all the indexes are up. And that the best economic news in a long time came as a result of the figures for December which was, of course, Ford's last full month as president.

Hill likely to be first to announce

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Once Attorney General John Hill announces, as expected, that he will challenge Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who has stopped just short of announcing his reelection campaign, a flurry of other political announcements can't be far behind.

One of those standing in line, with announcement almost in hand, is Secretary of State Mark White — who'd like to move in when Hill moves out.

White's intentions aren't any secret. He notes in understated fashion that "there may not be an incumbent running" for the attorney general's spot, and that he has been "thinking about" running.

White has discussed making the race with Briscoe — but says those discussions have been confined to generalities.

Briscoe, White says, has explained that "it's a big state... hard on a man both physically and financially... he gave me some advice and warnings."

Although he's taken no polls, White reports he's "encouraged" by the response to his potential candidacy. Will the voters he's helped to sign up remember him at the polls? "I'd like to hope that every one would..."

White is likely to have some competition, however, with several other

Many were fooled

To The Editor:

We apologize to your photographers and to many of those who attended the barbecue for Big Ed Darnell Tuesday night.

The special gift, a pair of quail, are not mounted quail as you published in the newspaper Wednesday. Rather, we gave a special commission to Midland artist Perry B. Holley to carve these out of wood. As you know, Mr. Holley is an artist of international reputation and the fact that he fooled your photographers and many others into thinking that the quail were real attests to his abilities.

We would appreciate the correction and giving Mr. Holley the credit he richly deserves for his artistic skill.

Heartfelt thanks

To The Editor:

Words can never express our appreciation for the wonderful thing Midlanders did for us last Tuesday. Visiting with so many friends at the barbecue was a great joy, and we are highly honored by the scholarship at Midland College which will carry our name. The letters, the honorary Chamber of Commerce membership, the beautiful carved quail, and all the good wishes from so many are overwhelming.

To each and everyone who had a part, please accept our heartfelt thanks. You have pleased us so much.

Hypocrisy

To The Editor:

I don't understand why Americans are so horrified by the massive scale destruction of human lives going on in Uganda. It is rather hypocritical when you consider that Americans use the same method to solve social problems and eliminate undesirable, inconvenient, or otherwise troublesome individuals from the society. The only catch in our country is that, as it stands now, the person to be eliminated must be as yet unborn (or at least newly born), and his or her mother must approve of his or her destruction. Our very own government was a big help in slaughtering over a million human beings last year. "Every baby a wanted baby; every Acholi tribesman a wanted Acholi tribesman."

POSITIVE THINKING

You can think yourself to failure or to success

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

You can think yourself to failure or you can think your way to success. Belief is a form of thought. All the believing you ever do is done in your mind. You can disbelieve yourself into a frustrated existence or you can believe yourself into a successful life. It is up to you. We do not half realize the power of thought — either to destroy or create. Thoughts actually are forces. You can't see them but they are substantial nevertheless. Thoughts are dynamic powers.

Think negative thoughts and you thereby activate negative forces, drawing back to yourself negative results. Like attracts like. Send out hate and you get back hate. Send out fear and you get back fear. Send out defeat and you draw defeat to yourself. Conversely, send out positive thoughts and what comes back? Positive results, of course. You defeat yourself, or you gain victories, by the thoughts you think.

A young woman came in tears to ask if I thought her father a "bad man." I said, "No, your father is not a bad man. He is just a man who handled himself badly."

The father, an officer in a small town bank, had a social climber wife. She wore clothes with a flair — and a woman who wears clothes well usually wants more of them. Also, she had ambitions to be a leading socialite in town. So she harassed her husband for more clothes, bigger house, better cars, furs and what have you.

The financial pressure on this man became acute. He didn't have that kind of money but had invested in the frantic hope of improving his situation. Despite being a banker, however, he didn't do well and soon found himself in trouble — deep financial trouble.

He was a moral man who would never think of dishonesty. But one night a thought flashed up in his consciousness: "You have easy access to money. You could use a little."

You would not be stealing it — just using it temporarily to handle pressing personal obligations. You could put it back before the bank examiners came and nobody would know the difference." But he knew this thought was very wrong — stupid, in fact — and he repulsed it forcibly.

At this point he was sovereign over himself, over his actions. His mind was acting as judge.

Sometimes a person will say, "I have had thoughts" and complain of feeling guilty because of such thoughts. It is not consistent with a decent person's self-image to have such thoughts. And so they punish themselves with guilt feelings for being something other than their ideal selves.

But you never need feel guilty simply because a bad thought comes into your mind. If your mind, acting as judge, repudiates the bad thought, you are even stronger morally as a result than before the thought came. It is only when you hold a bad thought, nurse it, cultivate it — and finally accept it (and act on it) that real feelings of guilt are incurred.

So the banker repulsed the dishonest thought. A few nights later, working alone late at the bank, the thought had come again — "Just borrow for awhile." Again he repulsed it, but not quite so forcibly this time.

Night after night the same thought advanced upon him. His repulses were becoming less and less forceful — and finally one night the thought had grown so strong and beguiling that the man's hand reached out and performed the act which his mind had been building up.

As so often happens, the first step in the wrong direction leads to another step, and another. The thought is always ancestor to the deed. The inevitable happened. His "borrowing" was found out. This poor fellow is now serving a term in the penitentiary.

candidates expected to come into the race.

Former Speaker Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty already has been testing the political waters, and Austin Rep. Sarah Weddington has been discussed. And White names the two as among those against whom he might have to run.

But one name which has been mentioned in the attorney general's race apparently can be counted out: Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

Armstrong feels that being attorney general would be a "lateral move" for him — and that he'd rather remain where he is.

"Absent something unusual happening, I have a job that continues to be challenging," Armstrong says — adding that for him it's "the best job in state government."

With energy problems growing, he adds, "I hate to take the experience I may have acquired... and run off and do something else..."

Still another potential candidate who is probably out of the race is Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Bullock won't indicate just what his political plans are, except that he "is not seeking and will not accept" nominations to be secretary of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Defense, HEW, etc., "at this time."

moving to attorney general would be a "lateral" move.

There had been talk that Rep. Pike Powers of Beaumont would be in the race, but it now appears that Powers, with ties to Daniel and White, is out of the picture.

As to Weddington, as side confides that she "hasn't ruled out that possibility yet."

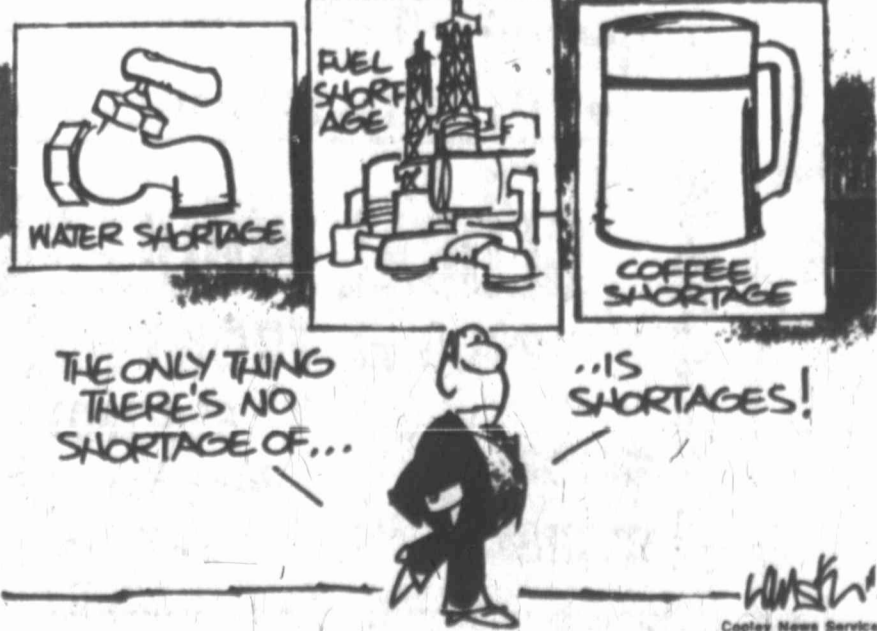

But White and Daniel appear to be the two firmest candidates at the present time — with Daniel apparently hoping that he might receive Hill's blessing.

But Hill doesn't seem inclined to do that right now — partly because it might irritate some supporters he hopes to win, partly because such endorsements rarely carry as much effect as either the giver or the recipient hopes (or would like), and partly because Hill is continuing to play his political cards close to his pin-striped breast.

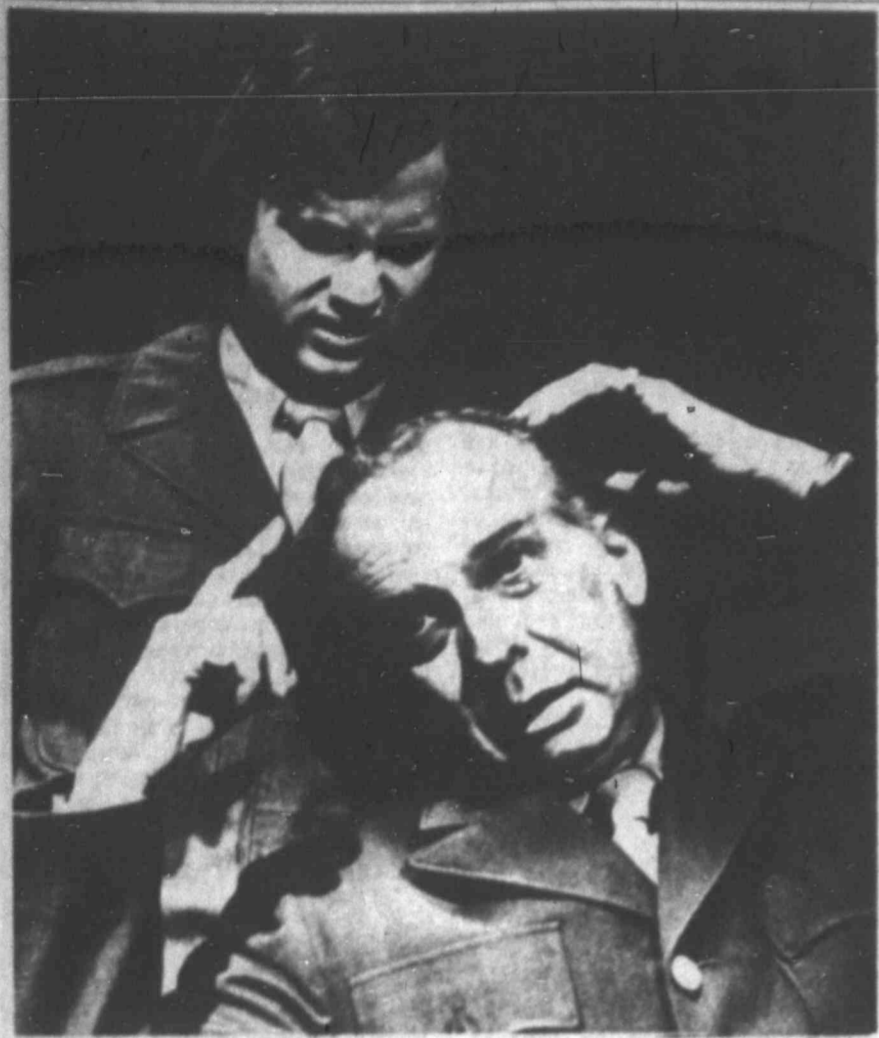

"Don't count Hill out yet," one of his confidants says. "He hasn't said yet that he won't run again."

But the likelihood is that he won't seek reelection, and that he intends to resist the blandishment of some Briscoe supporters who would like to steer him into a senatorial race with promises of aid.

Things could change, of course, but it would seem a good bet that the adjournment of the Legislature will mark the start of campaigning for the 1978 session.

Fiesta del Arte to draw artists, craftsmen

ODESSA — Talented artists and craftsmen from Midland, Odessa and elsewhere in the Permian Basin will join those from throughout the state and neighboring states in exhibiting their creative specialties at Odessa's Fiesta del Arte March 26 and 27.

The fifth annual fiesta will be at Ector County Coliseum and will be open to the public. Sponsoring the event is the Fiesta del Arte Guild and the board of directors of the Permian Basin Rehabilitation Center.

On view and on sale at the fiesta will be the serigraphs of Marian Ford of Midland, oil paintings by Zee Glibbreath of Sanderson, enamels and watercolors by Jean Longman of Alpine, watercolor paintings by Barry Selman and Duke Sickels, both of Odessa, oils by W. B. Franklin of Midland, oils by Wayne Terry, Jean Johnson, Brown Jarrett and Marvin Stevenson, all of Odessa, and glass naturals by Gwen Swails of Midland.

A number of artists and artisans will come from Lubbock, and another group will come from El Paso. Others participating in the invitational show are from Amarillo, Dallas, Austin, Lake Jackson, Universal City, Corpus Christi, San Marcos, Arlington, Houston, Denton, San Antonio, Sweeney, Fort Worth, Leander, Hubbard, Waco, Converse and Seguin. Out-of-state exhibitors will include those from Santa Fe, Edmond, Okla., Tucson, Los Alamos, N. M., Oklahoma City, Jemez Springs, N. M., Tempe, Ariz., Montrose, Colo., and Truth or Consequences, N. M.

Concerts to feature competition winners

Four gifted young musicians will be featured performers in the Midland-Odessa Symphony's March concerts this week.

They were named performing winners in the symphony's annual National Young Artist Competition held in January at Odessa, winning the privilege of returning here to perform with the orchestra over some 70 other talented students participating in the contest.

The young artist concerts, always

Student Art Festival continues

The annual Student Art Festival at Museum of the Southwest is approaching the half-way mark.

Art works by students in Midland's two high schools, and those in freshman and junior high schools here, will continue on view for another week, after which art works by elementary students in the city's public and private schools will go on display, remaining on view through early April.

The annual festival, showcasing the creativity of the city's students, is sponsored by the museum, the Midland Independent School District, the City Council of the Parent-Teacher Association and the Junior League of Midland Inc.

The art show will be open to the public between 2 and 5 p.m. today, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday. There is no admission charge.

Another current show in the museum's Turner Memorial Gallery, 1705 W. Missouri Ave., is the exhibition of photographs of Texas scenic and historic Big Bend area. The almost three dozen fine photographs of nature scenes in the Big Bend were made by Frank Bell, widely hailed as an unusually astute chronicler of nature. While photographing general scenes, wildlife, flowers and plant life, Bell takes special pains in capturing the subtle moods of nature. Bell is a former park ranger with the National Parks Service.

among the most popular events of the season in both Midland and Odessa, will be at 8 p.m. Monday in Odessa's Bonham Junior High auditorium, and 8 p.m. Tuesday in Lee High auditorium here. Symphony season tickets will, of course, be valid for either concert and, in addition, single tickets will be available for purchase at the doors each night, priced $5 for adults and $2 for students.

The featured performers include two Texans, another Texan now living and studying elsewhere, and a Pennsylvanian.

Bass vocalist Terry Cook, a junior student at Texas Tech, hails from Plainview, and cellist Kevin Dvorak, a junior at Baylor University, is from Dallas.

Violinist Margaret Batjer, a former resident of San Angelo, where she was active in musical circles, now makes her home in Illinois and studies at Philadelphia's noted Curtis Institute of Music, where she is a high school senior.

Pianist Peter Orth, who recently completed keyboard studies at the Juilliard School in New York City, is from Reading, Pa.

The Monday and Tuesday concerts will be under the baton of Dr. Tom Hohstadt, symphony musical director and conductor. The orchestra will open the programs with Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," and will accompany the students in the following works:

—Miss Batjer: The final movement of Antonin Dvorak's Concerto in A Minor.

—Orth: The final movement of the Concerto No. 3 for Piano and Orchestra by Sergei Rachmaninoff.

—Dvorak: "Variations on a Rococo Theme" by Tchaikovsky.

—Cook: Operatic arias, including the "Il lacerato spirito" from "Simon Boccanegra" and "Arise, ye Subterranean winds" from "The Tempest."

Choir to sing here

The A Cappella Choir of Austin College at Sherman will present a concert in Midland a week from today.

The ensemble, currently on a concert tour to cities in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California, will sing at 7:30 p.m. next Sunday in Midland's First Presbyterian Church.

TOBY, ONE OF AMERICA'S FAVORITE CLOWNS, will be delighting audiences here next Sunday when the American Continental Circus presents its three-ring extravaganza in performances at 1:30 and 5 p.m. at Cubs Stadium. The circus' annual visit is sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles here. Tickets will be available at the stadium in advance of each performance.

Rudolf Serkin recital set

AUSTIN — Famed Rudolf Serkin, regarded as the dean of contemporary keyboard artists, will play a recital in Austin March 22.

Serkin will be making one of his infrequent visits to the Southwest when he performs in Municipal Auditorium here, under auspices of the Great Musicians Series at The University of Texas.

Serkin will present an all-Beethoven program, including the Sonata in C Major ("Waldstein"), the Sonata in F Major and the Sonata in B-flat Major

(the "Hammerklavier"). Serkin's Austin recital will come just a few days before his 74th birthday. Born in Bohemia, he was a child prodigy and made his European concert debut at age 12 with the Vienna Symphony. He made his American debut in 1936, performing with Arturo Toscanini and the New York Philharmonic

Tickets for the program, priced $3.50 to the general public, are on sale daily at Hogg Auditorium box office on the UT campus. Mail orders, accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope, should be sent to Fine Arts Box Office, P. O. Box 7398, UT Station, Austin 78712.

MCCA dinner slated Monday

Midland Community Concerts Association, currently in the midst of its annual membership campaign, will initiate the second and final week of the campaign with a dinner Monday night.

Guests at the event will be the several dozen volunteers working in the campaign to obtain members for the entertainment organization's 30th anniversary season beginning next fall. Officers and directors of the association also will attend.

The Monday dinner in Conner's banquet room, Secor and West Illinois streets, will have George Blake of New York City as guest speaker. Blake is president of Community Concerts Inc., the national "umbrella" organization for community organizations such as Midland Community Concerts Association. There are at the present time approximately 750 local associations throughout the U. S. and Canada.

Blake, a native of North Carolina, was graduated from Berea College in Kentucky and holds a master's degree from Columbia University.

with additional study at Yale University. He joined Community Concerts as a field representative in 1956, becoming vice president and western manager in 1961. He became president of Community Concerts in 1969. In addition, Blake is a vice president of Community's parent company, Columbia Artists Management and serves on that firm's board of directors. Columbia Artists Management is the world's largest artist management having on its roster such stars as Leontyne Price, Robert Merrill, Yehudi Menuhin, and such acclaimed ensembles as the Berlin Philharmonic and the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Midland Community Concerts Association's current campaign will continue through Saturday, after which the membership rolls will be closed for another year. Campaign headquarters are in the Grammer-Murphy annex in The Village.

'Mohammad' goes back on screen

NEW YORK (AP) — Producer-director Moustapha Akkad decided to resume showings today of his film, "Mohammad, Messenger of God" following the surrender of Hanafi Moslems who had demanded its closing because they felt it was sacrilegious.

Wednesday, was offensive to Moslems. "When lives were involved, we stopped," Akkad said. Akkad, a Syrian of Moslem faith who became a naturalized American 25 years ago, offered to show the film to the Hanafis on Thursday, promising to destroy it if they found it offensive.

The members of the Islamic sect had seized 134 hostages in Washington and threatened to behead them unless certain demands were met. Among these were that the film be withdrawn from public showing. The Hanafis claimed the film, which opened here

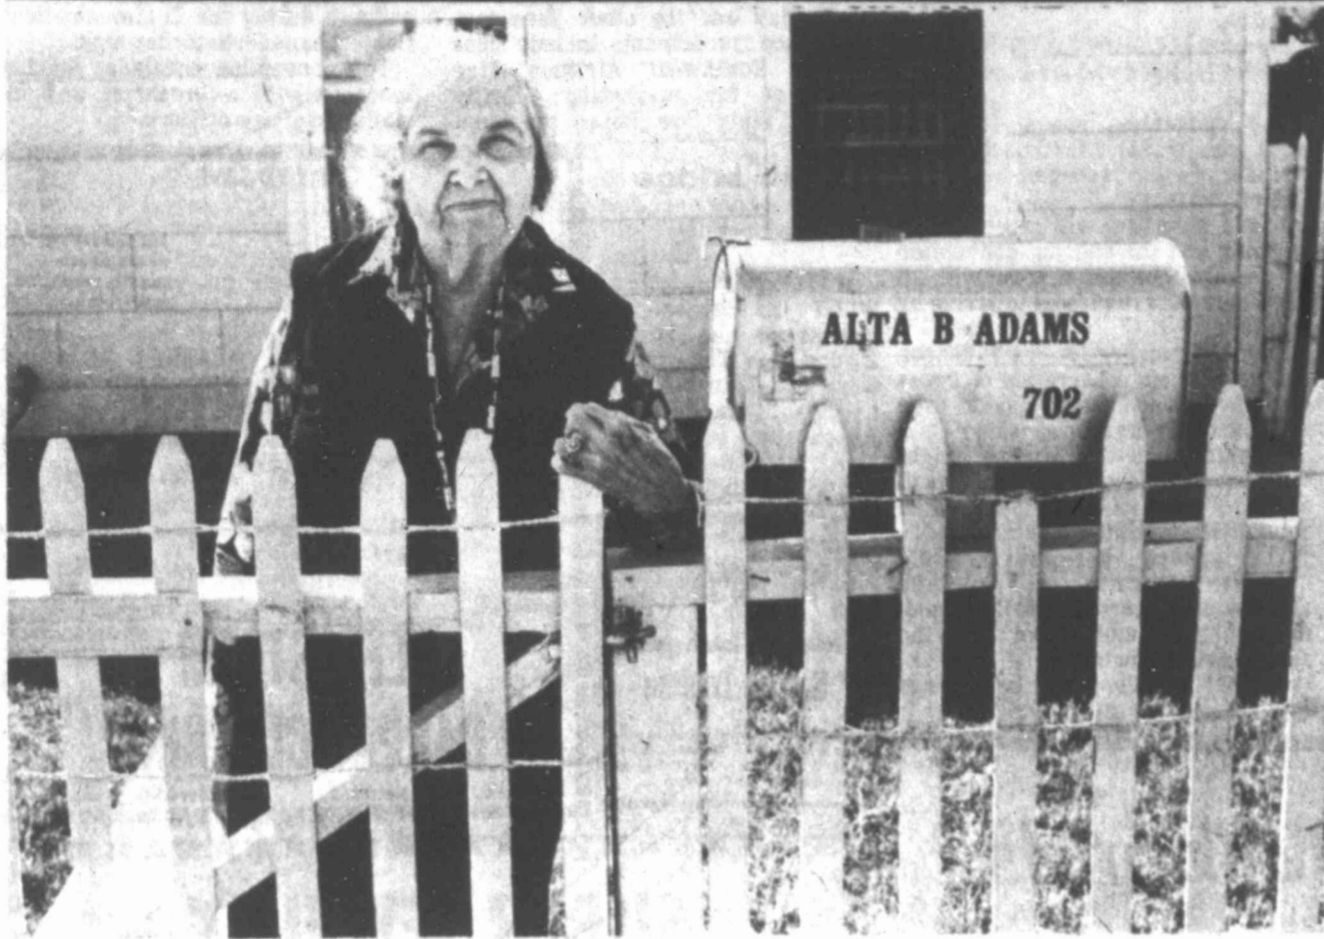

Friday, he reiterated his promise, saying, "The offer still stands, not only to the Hanafis but to any legitimate Moslem organization. They can come forward and show me any inaccuracy, historic or religious, I will destroy the film."

Memories of love wind up on paper

Memories that bring a smile, a tear.
Today with its cares.....
Cares that are a burden, a sweet delight.
Tomorrow with its promises.....
Promises golden that fade in early twilight.
Yesterday, today, and tomorrow.....
One past, one here, one near.
We dream of yesterday, thrill for today,
And plan for tomorrow.
Our tears of yesterday are forgotten*

*In our joys of today.....
And we can grieve our hearts tomorrow,
If things go wrong today.
Today is yesterday's tomorrow,
And tomorrow's yesterday...
So let's not miss one joy or thrill,
For today will soon be done,
And tomorrow here with its promise to fill.
Yesterday, today, and tomorrow...
One past, one here, one near.
by Alta B. Adams)*

*Didn't know I had learned to care so much
Didn't think I'd miss you, your smile, your touch Never dreamed that you had won my heart completely
Or that I'd forever hold the torch for you.*

*Yet I find within that silent tomb my heart
A fountain filled with love and devotion
It sings a song of recent madness
Madness cause I didn't know.
("Madness" by Alta B. Adams)*

By BRUCE PARTAIN

Contrary to popular beliefs, songs, and posters on pubescent girls' walls, love wasn't invented when the Bay City Rollers hit town. It's been around for a while. Alta B. Adams, a Midlander for over 30 years, has quite a bit to say about the subject. She's a poet. And love sonnets just have a way of jumping from her head to her notebook. "I never plan a thing," she says in her sing-song voice. "I write from the end of my pencil...I never studied or did research; I don't even spell the words right some times. I just have these lovely thoughts running in my head and I simply grab a pencil and paper and go to it."

Like her pristine poetry, Alta's simple innocence attracts the reader, the listener. "Would you like to hear me read some of the poetry?" she asks. "People say I have a beautiful reading voice." And she does. "I resolve to be more kind and generous," she begins, and what looks like a Boy Scout oath on paper comes alive with sincerity when brought back to its creator. Alta refers to her poetry as "old things, written long ago", and one imagines a fair-haired girl sitting on the veranda of an East Texas mansion, thoughtfully penning rapturous pleas to a lover.

But hers are more mature thoughts, written by a woman who has felt the pain of forever leaving a husband whose slovenly ways seemed sure to crush her spirit, even though they had "a love that endures and lives on and on." Her poems reflect the loneliness of losing another love, this time to death, but this time a man she was "proud to say" was her husband. Born in February of 1895, in Rockwall (about 50 miles east of Dallas), the daughter of a grocer, Alta didn't start writing poetry until 1950, about the time she moved to Midland. Her writing career actually started on a dare, a challenge given by a penpal cousin she still corresponds with. "Mary and I were out there on her porch, laying on a day bed, just talking, like all girls do. She said I had such a way with words that I should write poetry. Then she handed me some paper and a pencil and said "write a poem, right now!" And I did, in five minutes." The poem, "Sunset", is typical of an Adams work. Simple, descriptive, and written off the top of her head.

*I wish that my pen were mighty,
That my brain were gifted, too,
So, as I see the beauty of sunset
I could find words to describe it to you.*

*No artist could paint with his brush
The colors that came into view—
Gold, blue, crimson—mixed in the curtain
That hides the sun from you*

*The sun dips in salute to the radiance,
And smiles as it sinks in the west.
The stars twinkle in envy at the colors
That blaze the sun's trail to rest.*

*Each sunset I watch has more beauty
Each color a more vivid hue...
One thing in this world could be greater—
To watch the same sunset with you!
("Sunset" by Alta B. Adams)*

Alta attributes her talents to heredity; her father was something of a bard himself.

"He used to write poems and slip them under my mother's pillow for her to read," she remembers. Like her father, Alta's better poems deal with love, and love's companions; pain, loneliness and death. "I write best about love and sorrow," she says with a worried look, "although I don't seem like I could write such sad things. I'm not that kind of person at all; I'm kind of happy-go-lucky." Her life was not always sweetness and light, however. There was that first husband. "I loved him very much...he was the "great love" I mention in the poems."

Lonely dreary endless days
Hours of anguish that slowly pass Maddening moments as time stands still*

*Vanished dreams of a life half spent
Cherished hopes crushed in utter despair
Gilded castles in tumbled ruin
And so goes life without you*

*Like a flower without fragrance
A day without sunshine
A bird without a song*

*A child without its mother
A night without a moon
Like a song out of tune
Is my life without you.
("Without You" by Alta B. Adams)*

So, like many another dreamer, she headed west to California. Although she lived in the unreality of Hollywood, the practical part of her didn't let the dreamer dominate. She enrolled in a nursing school and was graduated as a licensed vocational nurse in the early 40's. It seemed as if Alta was in California to stay, but the climate of Los Angeles wasn't entirely suited to her health.

"I was one of the first victims of the smog," she recalls. "I was going to move to Arizona to clear up the asthma, but my sister-in-law in Midland said the weather here was just as dry and clear so here I came."

"Midland was just a wide spot in the road, then." After settling into Midland, associating with several doctors and getting to know "all the oldtimers and big shots," Alta began compiling some of her works for publishing.

In 1966, 200 hardbound copies of "Orchids and Cactus" were printed. Her publisher, who had promised to promote the book, died shortly afterward and a second edition never came out. "Memories of Love" came out a few years later, a simple softbound locally printed book limited to just 50 copies. Obviously no publishing giant, Alta still plans a third book, as yet unnamed. The books serve mostly to give friends and admirers personal copies of her work, but it could be Alta is trying to preserve a little of what she found precious in her life. "You know," she says in that sing-song voice, "it can be kind of discouraging; not many people care. So many poets are not recognized until they're dead and gone." Alta B. Adams is very much alive and doing quite well in Midland, Texas.

*As often as the shadows fall
My heart to yours shall call
As often as the bright stars shine
My soul with yours entwines*

*Life's bright as day if you are near Then dark as night when you disappear
Gentle as a summer breeze
Is your kiss upon my brow*

*Yet when you are gone
The chill of winter
Grips my heart somehow
Happy are dreams that I dream about you
Sad and empty would life be without you.
("To You" by Alta B. Adams)*

Guild supports ballet association

From sewing beads on a costume to painting scenery to sending newsletters, the Permian Civic Ballet Guild gives its support and promotes the Permian Civic Ballet Association. The group, reorganized in 1975, now numbers 63 active members. The guild spends a lot of time on the telephone, asking for volunteers to help with sewing costumes, sending invitations or putting together scenery. Other guild work includes addressing season ticket brochures, post-performance reception invitations or member-guest coffee invitations. They also host the reception for guest artists. One fund-raising project included selling plants in the guild's "Help Us Grow" campaign. Through work of the guild, the association is able to provide the ballet productions and to provide professional training and scholarship aid to talented local dancers. The product of the guild's efforts can be seen in the association's Spring Gala performance slated for 8:15 p.m. March 22 in Lee High School auditorium.

AN INFORMATIVE PROGRAM on college sorority activities for girls and their mothers interested in the subject will be presented when the Midland City Panhellenic Association conducts its annual College Forum at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the

TPW convention slated soon

WICHITA FALLS — District 12 of Texas Press Women, Inc. will host the organization's state convention slated March 25-27 here, with the Gateway Motel to be headquarters for the meeting.

Members of District 2, TPW, which includes Midland and area towns, will attend.

The convention opens Thursday night with an Early Bird party in the Wichita Falls Museum and Art Center.

Board members will meet Friday morning and the opening convention luncheon will be held at noon, with all TPW members requested to arrive by that time.

Keynote speaker for the luncheon will be National Federation of Press Women president Jean Huyler, who will also be a workshop speaker.

Speaking at the Friday night Woman of Achievement banquet will be Virginia Payette, syndicated columnist with United Features.

The general business meeting Saturday morning will include election of officers, possible amendment of bylaws and a report from the special policy committee.

District presidents will be honored at the Saturday luncheon. Speaker will be Stephanie Shelton of CBS radio and a newspaper woman from New York.

Two workshops will be offered, one on Friday and the other Saturday. Workshop participants include Jess Coker, Southwest Airlines vice president for marketing; Emily Collier, State Cow Belles president and publicity relations director; Stephanie Shelton, and TPW president Ann Faragher.

Tricia Shelton, contest director from Midland, will announce award winners during the Communications Contest banquet Saturday night.

The convention concludes Sunday morning with a breakfast and installation of new officers.

DEAR ABBY

And now... commandments for husbands

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: Last week I published my Ten Commandments for Wives. And now...

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR HUSBANDS

1. Thou shalt put thy wife before thy mother, thy father, thy daughter, and thy son, for she is thy lifelong companion.
2. Abuse not thy body either with excessive food, tobacco or drink, that thy days may be many and healthful in the presence of thy loved ones.
3. Permit neither thy business, nor thy hobby, to make of thee a stranger to thy children, for the precious gift a man giveth his family is his time.
4. Forget not the virtue of cleanliness.
5. Make not thy wife a beggar, but share willingly with her thy worldly goods.
6. Forget not to say, "I love you." For even though thy love be constant, thy wife doth yearn to hear the words.

7. Remember that the approval of thy wife is worth more than the admiring glances of a hundred strangers. Cleave unto her and forsake all others.

8. Keep thy home in good repair, for out of it cometh the joys of thy old age.

9. Forgive with grace, for who among us does not need to be forgiven?

10. Honor the Lord thy God all the days of thy life, and thy children will rise up and call thee blessed.

DEAR ABBY: I see where a lot of people have protested the advertising of various "unmentionable" products on TV, but as far as I'm concerned, there are worse things on television to complain about.

I refer to the content of some of the daytime programs. Some of the game shows I used to enjoy have gotten so dirty I have stopped watching them.

Also, whatever happened to that commandment about taking the name of the Lord in vain? I've heard "God," "Lord" and even "Jesus Christ" used that way, and I find it very offensive. (The "hells" and "damns" I've gotten accustomed to long ago, although I still feel it sets a bad example for our young people.)

Now, to whom shall we direct our complaints on the above?—OFFENDED IN CONN.

DEAR OFFENDED: Write your local TV station, and ask them to forward your complaint to the head of the network.

Bardin marries Pruitt in evening ceremony

Bellview Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage at 7:30 p.m. Friday of Kandy Lynn Bardin and Larry Wayne Pruitt. The Rev. Elbert Smithen performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Bardin of 301 W. Hamby St. are the parents of the bride, a graduate of Midland High School. She is employed by Bob M. Kiker Dental Lab.

The bride groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pruitt, 2604 Cessna St., was graduated from Lee High School, and is an electrical draftsman for the Salsbury Electric Co., Inc.

The couple will reside at 2300 N. A St., Apartment 2003, after a trip to the Davis Mountains and Big Bend.

Tracy Bardin, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Janet Pruitt, the bridegroom's sister, was bridesmaid. William Ray Collins Jr. was the best man. The groomsmen were Kirk Smith, and the ushers were Randy Bardin and Ronnie Bardin, brothers of the bride.

Organist for the ceremony was Carol Hisey.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a formal white gown with hand-embroidered Alencon lace on the sleeves and front. A Juliet headpiece held a four-tiered chapel-length veil trimmed with Venise lace. She carried yellow Sweetheart rosebuds and white daisies with lilies of the valley.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Larry Wayne Pruitt

Marsha Jolly weds Joseph D. Pickering

St. Ann's Catholic Church was the setting Saturday for a candlelight double ring ceremony uniting Marsha Kay Jolly and Joseph David Pickering in marriage. The Rev. Edward Vrazel officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Earl Jolly of Midland. Pickering is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Pickering, also of Midland.

Organist for the ceremony was Doris Bruce, and the soloist was Janice Johnson.

William Michael Pickering served his brother as best man. The maid of honor was Jeri Jolly, sister of the bride, and matron of honor was Mrs. Marc Lewis, also a sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Carla Bates and Vicki Miller of Midland and Maria Elena Cisne of Matagorda, Nicaragua. Patti Pickering, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid.

Groomsmen were Jeff Kozak, Todd Holcombe and John Houghton of Midland and Mark Pickering of Victoria. Junior groomsmen were Charles Franklin Pickering, also a brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Danny Ross of Amarillo, Richard Brasher of Ranger, Worth Whitworth of Midland and Cullen Ingram of Tulsa, Okla.

Dr. Jolly presented his daughter in marriage. Her gown was of candlelight sata peau and silk Venise lace. It was fashioned with a highrise waist and featured a fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. The silk lace was applied on the bodice to form a slight V-bib yoke effect and a band collar, with sprays of the lace extending over the waist and onto the upper skirt. The semi-circular skirt extended to a rounded court train. Scallop of the lace banding edged the entire hemline. She had a full-length silk illusion mantilla edged with matching lace scallops caught to a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis, white spider mums and baby's breath interspersed with ivy.

A reception was held in the Midland Hilton. Following a honeymoon to Ruidoso.

Santa Fe and Taos, N.M., the couple will be at home at 309 Ball St., Apartment 1003, in College Station, where the bridegroom is a junior student at Texas A&M University. The bride attended The University of Texas-Austin and is employed by the City of Bryan.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom is Los Patios Restaurant.

Parties honoring the bride prior to the wedding included a gift coffee in Midland Country Club, with Mrs. John T. Hampton, Mrs. Joe B. Hilliard, Mrs. A. M. Schiemenz, Mrs. Herbert E. Ware Jr. and Mrs. Jack W. Young as hostesses. A kitchen shower in Austin was given by Kathryn Kidd. Also there was a theater and dinner party given by Vicki Miller, and a bridesmaids' brunch given by Mrs. Gilbert Bates and Carla Bates.

Out-of-city guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Douglas Swanzy of Clyde, grandmother of the bride, and Mrs. F. J. Krenek and Mrs. George Pickering of Victoria, grandmothers of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Joseph David Pickering

Jordan--Patterson recite vows in Andrews Methodist ceremony

ANDREWS —Leela Elizabeth Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Jordan Jr. of Andrews, formerly of Midland, was married to Stephen Mack Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Patterson of Lubbock, at 7 p.m. Saturday.

The double ring ceremony was held in Means Memorial United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Maurice Cotter of St. Matthias Episcopal Church officiating.

Dean and Mary Newsom were vocalists, and the organist was Don Godlinski.

Rebecca Sasser of Odessa, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Laura Jordan and Sara Jordan, sisters of the bride, and Sally O'Gwin.

The best man was Dick Patterson of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom. The groomsmen were Terry Martin, Ronnie Taylor and Bill Abbott, all of Lubbock. Jimmy Jordan of Hondo, cousin of the bride, David McCaskill of Andrews and Dana Dillon of Lubbock ushered the guests.

Mr. Jordan presented his daughter in marriage. She wore a traditional gown of silk organza and pearl beaded Alencon lace. The all-over lace bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline framed with lace flowers. Long bishop sleeves of the lace were shirred to lace cuffs. A border of tucked organza enhanced the sleeves at the cuffs, suggesting a lantern effect. The full circular skirt of layered silk organza fell from a crescent-shaped waistline and ended in a chapel train. She wore a matching lace edged veil, and carried a cascade of white Sweetheart roses surrounding Phalaenopsis orchids.

The Fellowship Hall was the setting for the reception, before the couple left on a trip to Ruidoso, N.M.

The bride has a bachelor of science degree in elementary education from Texas Tech University, where she was a member of Delta Gamma sorority. The bridegroom attended Tech and is employed in the Cotton Research Department of Coker Pedigreed Seed Co.

The couple will reside in Lubbock.

Mrs. Stephen M. Patterson

Nancy R. Gandy becomes bride in afternoon garden ceremony

MULLIN—Nancy Ruth Gandy of Austin became the bride of Dub Dewey Baxter Keith of Austin in a double ring afternoon ceremony held in the garden of the bride's parents' country home here.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gandy of 4312 Pleasant

St. in Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Lin Keith of Mason.

Officiating was the Rev. Billy Bush, the bridegroom's brother, of Lamesa.

Attendants were Judy Lee Finger of Austin and Boyd Airheart of Marble Falls. Kerensa Keith of Austin was flower girl. Glen Wilbanks provided the organ music.

When presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of natural cotton crinkle cloth designed with a sweetheart neckline, lace-covered bodice, long full sleeves with lace cuffs and a full skirt. She wore a pearl necklace her mother wore on her wedding day. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, white daisies and white carnations.

The reception was held at the home. The couple will reside at 3104 Funston St. in Austin.

Bryce A. Thomas weds in Presbyterian church

Lynn Gordon Perryton were bridesmaids. The flower girl was Donna Early of Denison, cousin of the bride.

The best man was John Searcy of San Antonio. Gary Weatherman of Mercury, Wayne Gossett of Elm Grove and Gene Bruce of Estelline were the groomsmen. Mike Middleton of Midland and Don Arons of Rochelle were the ushers. Gary Wayne Early of Denison was ring bearer.

Gene Hays presented his niece in marriage. She wore a traditional gown of candlelight silk organza and re-embroidered net. It had a fitted Empire bodice with portrait neckline enhanced with Venise lace. The long full sleeves had ruffles at the cuffs. The A-line skirt and chapel train were finished with a wide flounce. Her veil of silk illusion edged in lace fell from a lace Juliet cap. She carried a bouquet of white Cattleya orchids and white roses with baby's breath.

The reception was held in the church parlor.

Following a trip to New Mexico and Arizona, the couple will be at home in McCamey.

The bride received a bachelor of fine arts degree from Texas Tech University. The bridegroom has a degree in civil engineering from Tech and is an engineer for the Texas State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Mayberry marries Wallace in early afternoon ceremony

Janice Elaine Maberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Maberry, 1704 W. Kentucky St., and Donald Lloyd Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wallace, 316 W. Hart St., were married at 1 p.m. Friday in the chapel of the Epworth United Methodist Church in Carlsbad, N.M.

The Rev. L. B. Trone performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore an ecru nylon jersey dress designed with a fitted bodice caught at the waist by a softly gathered skirt, and long full sleeves. She also wore an ecru ruffled hat with chiffon scarf banding. Her jewelry was a gold pendant, a gift from the bridegroom. She carried a nosegay of yellow Sweetheart roses and gypsophila with satin streamers.

Mrs. D. A. Wallace, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and D. A.

Wallace, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The couple will reside at 2300 N. A St., Apt. 1602, after a trip to El Paso and New Mexico.

A past worthy advisor of Norman Read Assembly, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, the bride attended Odessa College and is employed by Texaco Inc. The bridegroom also attended OC and is employed with Oil Industries, Manufacturing and Engineering.

Mrs. Donald Lloyd Wallace

Adjusting to husbands requires special care

COLLEGE STATION — Wives of returned Vietnam prisoners of war often find adjusting to having their husband home again calls for special care. Debby Johnson, a family life education specialist, says.

She is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Wives may encounter many emotional problems, such as planning for a future with or without a husband, striving for personal growth and independence, struggling with financial, social and legal problems and dealing with family criticism and feelings of guilt.

A recent study of 48 families of returned prisoners of war, by the Naval Health Research Center, provides partial explanation for why some families can overcome the stresses and others experience severe disruption and instability.

For this group of families, couples who had been married longer seemed to adjust better to the separation and reunion. During prolonged periods of separation, wives altered the family life styles by developing greater independence and self-confidence.

Consistent with the findings from studies done after World War II and the Depression, couples with happy and satisfying relationships prior to the separation experienced fewer stresses during the reunion.

Miss Johnson said research noted that "the establishment of a relationship strong enough to endure the stresses of separation and the trials of reintegrations was accomplished early in marriage."

While some of the wives made the decision to terminate the marriage in advance of their husband's return, the majority in this sample waited to discuss it with their husband. Families who had left the father role open during the absence, rather than delegating it entirely to other family members or organizations, found the reintegrating process more successful.

Laurie Wright, Rick Roberts marry in First Baptist chapel

Laurie Frank Wright, daughter of Mrs. David E. Wright of San Antonio, and Rick G. Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. "Red" Roberts of Cardinal Lane, were married at 3 p.m. Saturday in the chapel of the First Baptist Church.

Mahesh Chavda of Levelland performed the double ring ceremony. Mona Ruth Dickson was organist, and Deena Herral was soloist.

Jacqueline Benson of Fort Worth was maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Beki May of Fort Worth. Mrs. Marty Miller of Lubbock and Mrs. Rod Roberts of Bryan were bridesmaids.

The father of the bridegroom was the best man. The groomsmen were Rod Roberts of Bryan, brother of the bridegroom, Kim Smith and Marty Miller of Lubbock. Ushers were Mike Williams of Humble, cousin of the bridegroom, and Fred Talley of Kerrville.

Capt. Robert M. Wright, brother of the bride, presented her in marriage. She wore an A-line silhouette of silk organza, bridal pearls and peau d'ange lace. The fitted Empire bodice was overlaid with lace extending around the scooped neckline. The sleeves were enhanced with the lace which extended into a lace cape in back. The gown was accented with bridal pearls, French crystals and lace. Her veil had a tier to the elbows and a tier extending beyond the length of the gown.

A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. King, Cardinal Lane.

After a cruise to Nassau, San Juan and St. Thomas Island, the couple will reside at 11850 Riverside Drive, No. 18, in North Hollywood, Calif.

The bride was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Crescents and Pi Beta Phi sorority while a student at Texas Tech University. The bridegroom was a member of Kappa Alpha Order and was named to the Dean's List at Tech.

A rice bag party was given in the home of Mrs. Beth Adcock, and a luncheon for out-of-city wedding guests was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Harris.

Camp Fire Girls observe 67th birthday

Camp Fire Girls nationwide will observe their 67th birthday beginning today and concluding Saturday.

Midland Camp Fire Girls will celebrate Founders Day Thursday with a citywide skating party at Super Roll-Arena.

Camp Fire's program of informal education provides opportunities for children and youth from ages 6-12 to realize their potential and to function effectively as caring, self-directed and responsible individuals. The program at all four levels—Bluebirds, Adventure, Discovery and Horizon—is oriented to children and youth, action and the community.

Some 300 girls and 60 adults participate in the activities of the Midland Council of Camp Fire Girls.

Camp Fire members add to the quality of life in our community in many ways. This week and during the year, Camp Fire girls assist with the Meals-On-Wheels program, Christmas in April, foster parents and

Hope chests hold dreams

By SARAH CONROY
The Washington Post

There are people so tidy and orderly in their lives that they even have a place to keep dreams.

Not everyone has dreams. Some only have nightmares; others wouldn't admit to having either. And some people keep their dreams just any old place: in worn-out suitcases, cardboard boxes, under the bed or pressed in the unabridged dictionary.

But there is a type who keeps her dreams carefully wrapped in tissue paper and put away in a hope chest.

In one corner will be folded a dream about what her house will be like, once she doesn't have to put up with any more of her mother's antiquated notions. And in the tray will be the dream about what she'll look like when she can decide all on her own what is appropriate to wear to breakfast.

Hope chests hold the dreams of growing up and being the lady of the house and having everything just the way you want it.

The proper name for a hope chest is a "dowry chest," though some people mistakenly say "dower." A dowry was the portion a woman brought with her when she married.

In ancient times a dowry chest might be full of gold and precious stones—if the bride were a princess and her father indulgent. More often a dowry chest was a rough pine box, with a quilt carefully put together from scraps, a sampler with a wise saying to hang for a picture or a set of underwear embroidered with who knows what thoughts.

Often the dowry chest was made by a girl's father, pounding the nails to work off the lingering worries about that boy she was marrying. And mothers have always contributed heavily to hope chests—sewing clothes and embroidering linens with the new monograms to help it all seem real.

In a way, you could say that hope chests have always been a manifestation of women's rights, because whatever gold or dross was in the chest was universally recognized as the woman's, and hers alone.

If her husband died, or cast her off, the chest's contents remained hers to keep.

Chests may have been the first furniture. When people were hunters roving across the land, their possessions had to be portable. The extra skin for winter, the mortar and pestle for grinding grain and the pretty rock from the last camping place all rode in a chest on the back of the horse—or the back of the person.

When camp was reached, the chest by the fire became the evidence that a place was, for the time, home.

Almost always chests carried the name of the owner, sometimes with the date of acquisition cut or painted on the front.

Such chests are found in every European country, dating at least from medieval times, with the decoration and the workmanship marking the origin as plainly as a map. Often the family shield or the bride's favorite flower will be carved into the side. (During the Dutch tulip mania, all sorts of varieties were worked into the decoration.)

The themes are varied. Cupids, of course are favorites. Unicorns stand for virginity, doves for bliss, hearts for love,

Doctor develops Home Treatment to

Rinse Away Blackheads

See Blackheads "Wipe Off" After A Single Queen Helene Skin Treatment

By INA LEE

A leading New York dermatologist has developed a simple medicated home treatment that rinses away blackheads & whiteheads in a matter of minutes.

I saw it demonstrated on five women and two teenage boys. The results were breathtaking. Blackheads really rinsed away. In fact, many could be seen on the cleansing tissues that finished each treatment.

But this wasn't all! In the case of two older women, I saw enlarged pores reduced, and rough, muddy complexions made cleaner, clearer and smoother looking. In the case of teenagers, I saw acne pimples improve after one application. After seeing these results I can well understand why so many beauticians are acclaiming this doctor's treatment as an important beauty discovery.

Anyone Can Use It
The treatment starts with a thorough skin cleansing. A special laboratory-developed whipped cleansing cream is used that takes off not only surface dirt, but also softens and loosens pore-caked grime with its emollient action. It liquefies as soon as it is applied and literally floats the dirt right off your face.

After this is rinsed off, a delightful mini-scented cream is applied. Within 2 or 3 minutes an absorbing agent called Argilla dries and turns this specially medicated cream into a plastic-like masque. As it firms and hardens, its suction action draws on waste matter in the pores. In 8 or 10 minutes you simply rinse the masque away with luke-warm water which dissolves it immediately. When you wipe your face, you can see blackheads and other pore "filler" actually come off on your tissue. And your skin feels clean — really clean — and refreshed and smooth, like velvet!

Pore Sponging & Closing
The third step in the treatment is an exhilarating application of a unique anti-septic astringent — a facial "mint julep" that sponges and tightens emptied pores and tones up your complexion.

Nothing Else Like It
Even after a single treatment, women who have been troubled by blackheads for years see a marked improvement. Many find it hard to believe their eyes. Some blackheads and whiteheads just rinse away. Others are softened and made ready to be drawn out by future treatments. Enlarged pores appear to be smaller. The skin looks smoother and firmer — feels fresher and more alive!

The medically developed products used in this treatment are manufactured and quality-controlled by QUEEN HELENE. They are Queen Helene Whipped Cleansing Cream, Queen Helene Medicated Masque and Queen Helene Penetrating Astringent. The three items are sold as a complete skin and beauty kit for $3.00. Quite a bargain when you think of what it will do for a person's good looks — and self-esteem!

AT WIT'S END

Spouse 'has headache' to keep from dancing

By ERMA BOMBECK

We all marry for better or for worse. But you don't know how bad it can get until you find out you're stuck with an "I don't dance."

During courtship, the "I don't dance-ers" mislead you (I don't believe I said that). They're the first ones on the floor, pushing your arm up and down like they're priming a pump, and maneuvering around between couples dipping and swaying.

It wasn't until our wedding reception when the orchestra played the anniversary waltz that I knew I had been conned. The crowd made a circle around my new husband and me to lead the dancing when he turned to me and said, "Please, not tonight. I have a headache."

If his excuses for not dancing were laid end to end, they would encircle Ann Miller's teased hair 30 times. These are some of his better ones:

"It's too crowded. Wait till it thins out."

"No one else is dancing. Wait until there's a crowd."

"Stardust" is too fast. Let's wait until the tempo slows down a bit."

"My varicose veins have been acting up."

"The song is almost finished. Let's wait until next New Year's."

"We just got here an hour ago. Give me a chance to talk."

"Why didn't you mention you wanted to dance before I unbuttoned my jacket?"

Through the years I have resigned myself to sitting around listening to the music and watching my feet swell under the table. I tell myself he's a good provider, loves children, and is kind to my mother-in-law.

But I couldn't resist mentioning his handicap the other night as we watched a period movie. The hero moved across the floor and chose his dancing partner — a beautiful woman of mystery. Together, they joined a line of about 50 other people and went through a routine of counting steps, swaying, dipping, turning, bowing and skipping that would have baffled the Ohio State marching band.

At the same time, mind you, the hero carried on a conversation that was provocative, suggestive, witty, and political — without missing a beat.

"Would you look at that!" I exclaimed to my husband. "Face it, Bunkie, you would never have hacked the Virginia Reel."

My husband took note of the dancer resplendent in cutaway coat, powdered wig, lace over the hands, satin vest and buckled shoes and observed, "Without his Suppohse, he'd be sitting it out like the rest of us."

Auction '77 plans told

Plans are underway for Auction '77, a fund-raising event benefiting the Museum of the Southwest.

The invitational affair will be held April 23 in the Midland Country Club, beginning at 7 p.m. with cocktails and a dinner. The auction will follow at 9.

Various merchants and artists from the Permian Basin area and other regions of the United States have donated items to be auctioned, including trips, furs, art, jewelry and specialty decorator items.

Members of the auction committee are Mrs. Redfern Glenn, chairman; Mrs. Don Jones, assistant chairman; Mrs. H. L. Landua Jr., secretary; Mrs. Glenn Rogers, treasurer; Mrs. George Thomas, gifts; Mrs. Burgess Wade, publicity; Mrs. Julian Ard, designer; Mrs. Charles Perry, decorations; Mrs. James P. Boldrick, invitations and Mrs. James Isbell, arrangements.

Other members of the committee are Mrs. Pat Baskin, catalog; Mrs. Peter G. Crain, lighting; Mrs. Robert Koziol, food; Mrs. David Grimes, pages; Mrs. Jack Nini, display; Mrs. Smith Ray, block display; Mrs. John Elphick, entertainment and personnel, and Mrs. Joseph I. O'Neill, sponsors.

THE VISIBLE WOMAN

'Extended' family here

Copley News Service

When we arrived the house was spick-and-span. A punch with fresh fruit floating on top was on a table. The girls had been cooking all day, planning for our arrival. We were given a tour of the house and barn and introduced to the rabbits and cow before dinner. The men discussed the best way to raise bees and we women talked about the problems and joys of fixing up old houses. Before long you would have thought we'd all been friends for years. Some of us had.

This was the first time my children had all their parents together at once, a family reunion of sorts.

My second husband got along quite well with my first husband and his second wife. I thought their little boy was charming, and my two children by my first marriage were generally pleased with the whole scene. They just felt sorry that their stepbrother, my husband's son by his first marriage, couldn't be there.

If ever there was an extended family, this is it. This dinner, with all its pleasantness seemed strange in some ways, but in other ways it seemed natural and only polite.

My first marriage ended 10 years ago, and up to five years ago, the hostility and anger hadn't completely disappeared. But as time passed, the children grew older and we both remarried, it seemed to matter less and less.

Little by little, telephone calls to discuss the children began to relax and include talk about other things. "Did you hear the latest about your high school history teacher?" or "My old boss got a good promotion, remember him?"

The children especially were anxious to have a peaceful family. They even bragged about its size. In her freshman speech class my oldest daughter began her first speech, "I have a large family, a father and mother, a stepfather and a stepmother, a sister, a stepbrother, and a half-brother. And I have lots of grandparents, aunts, uncles and cousins." The interesting thing was that the other kids related to this...most of them had extended families too.

I can't say that this civilized state of affairs is the result of preparation or planning or anything else. We didn't have an easy divorce...does anyone? But we tried to be civil and decent, and time did the rest.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGNER

(Sun., Mar. 13)

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Gain the goodwill of important persons and show you have good judgment, novel ideas. Get into philanthropic work that can be most helpful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to improve your position in the world through the goodwill of bigwigs. Seek out new outlets for the days ahead that are good for you. Take time for meditation that can prove helpful.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Relying on your hunches is wise now since you get excellent results. Impress others with your ability.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you use a different system you can solve some problem with another in a most efficient way. Don't get involved with a civic matter now or it could get you in trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Do something thoughtful for persons who are loyal and you get good results. A new system for handling routine obligations makes them work better.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Daytime hours are best for entertainment, but the evening should be spent quietly at home. Take no chances where reputation is concerned.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Spend some time improving the appearance of your home. Be more concerned with the needs of kin. Be careful intruders.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get out early to the activities that will help you to put your finest ideas across to others. Come to a better understanding with those who are close to you. Avoid one who is most troublesome to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your financial position early and know how to better it in the future. Listen to advice given you by an expert.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Personal matters you handle today you meet with fine success. Get together with congenials who can be of help to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Spend some time in thinking of ways to work out problems of a business or personal nature, and come to right decision. Know better what is expected of you by a loved one and try to please more.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get together with older acquaintances and listen to their suggestions, advice. Social fun can yield fine results.

(Mon., March 14)

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't be forceful with the one you love. Engage in philosophical matters and get excellent results. Don't criticize others so much.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can improve your appearance and then go after your aims with enthusiasm. Strive for increased happiness.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try not to worry over whatever you can now do nothing about. Steer clear of an opponent who acts too hastily.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to go after that data you need to gain some personal wish. Think along more constructive lines.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find the right appliances to help you get ahead in career matters. Avoid one who has a peculiar sense of humor.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make plans to expand in the future and know exactly where you are headed. Engage in new social activities in spare time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't neglect important work awaiting your attention. Find better ways of getting ahead. Show kindness to others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Although you are disappointed where some work is concerned, you find associates give you a big boost now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Express your creative ideas to the best of your ability. Come to a better understanding with associates.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A new project could prove very successful to you at this time. Avoid an opponent who could do you harm.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find the right way to improve career matters so you can be more successful in the future. Think constructively.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Obtain the data you need from the right sources. Listen to the views of associates and come to a better understanding with them.

THE WINE DRINKER

Margaux goes with romance

By TOM GABLE
Copley News Service

There is no confusion about style when one says "Margaux." With the other communes of the Haut-Medoc in the Bordeaux area of France, there is sometimes a question about the chateaux behind the names St. Estephe, St. Julien or Pauillac. But with Margaux, one almost automatically thinks of style, finesse and incredible delicacy — those perfumed wines for romantic, special occasions.

The reason is that the entire commune is associated with its greatest property: Chateau Margaux, one of the five first growths of Bordeaux.

Although the wines of Chateau Margaux are up to three-fourths Cabernet Sauvignon and one-fourth Merlot, they are lighter in style than others from the Haut-Medoc and usually faster maturing, due to its particular microclimate and soil conditions. "Beautiful" and "feminine" are two words often used to describe its wines.

The 1970 Margaux is the best since 1966. If you are either wealthy or have some good friends who would like to share a wine experience at some $30 a bottle, it would be a near-perfect example of what these descriptions are all about.

There are other wines from the commune of Margaux well worth seeking out.

Most of the chateaux are bunched within one or two kilometers of each other around the village of Margaux, which sits two kilometers from the Gironde River toward the southern end of the Haut-Medoc, the greatest fine wine producing area in the world.

The Wine Cellar
by Sam Day

The Moselle River flows in France and yields several tastings, but when it reaches Germany it gives its name to one of the finest white wines of all. The Mosel has 20,000 acres in Germany of steep vineyards, whose ripening grapes produce about 10 million gallons of wine each year. Despite the large output, the wine is generally very good. Moselle-Mendocino is one of the best known of the wines produced. It is a very tasty wine, delicate and fruity, and fits as an accompaniment to fish, shellfish, veal, or poultry.

At IMPERIAL LIQUORS, 3204 W. Huxley, 694-4256 you'll find a good wine for every taste and occasion. We feature a full selection of imported and domestic wines and will be happy to help you set up a wine tasting party. It's a great way to entertain your friends! The home of the friendly wine-lover, we offer live-up window service. Open 10-9 Mon-Sat.

Textural stitch improves background, design

By ERICA WILSON

Do you remember how many years we spent filling in plain backgrounds on needlepoint canvases with the central design already worked? Now we know what fun we were missing and we're all gung-ho to do the design ourselves.

But the backgrounds are always a bore whether the design is preworked or not, so it's time to take a new approach—be inspired by bold woven textures, or the controlled geometrics of Moorish mosaics, or the soft subtle effect of Danish openwork.

There are times, of course, when a textural needlepoint stitch "becomes" the background as well as the design—for instance a bold sunset that practically covers the whole canvas, done in horizontal stem stitch in shades of palest yellow to deepest orange.

Or perhaps a checkerboard of various patterns covering the whole canvas, such as the Nantucket landscape I completed last summer—layers of trees and old captain's houses, coming down to the harbor where the famous ferry boat "Nobska" lay at anchor. Each segment of the pattern was done in a different geometric stitch, in very flat colors increase in speed).

If you'd like a background effect of twill-weave linen, do what I did around Peak Chessie's "old man." (Remember the adorable cat who was the mascot of the Chesapeake-Ohio RR?) It's really a simple large and small cross stitch, hence its name, with a little horizontal stitch to make the effect of twill. Here's a diagram to make things clearer. Try it; I know you'll like it!

The Danish open work, or "pulled work" as it's called, is causing the most excitement in needlepoint circles these days. You use less wool than you normally would, and pull each stitch tightly, leaving the

to give it the effect of an applique panel.

How about textural stitches used to enhance an existing, central design? After your design's stitched, you can experiment with different background stitches right beside the design itself. Up close is really the only accurate way of telling whether the two are going to be able to live with each other.

What's in order is an afternoon of experimenting, with needle, thread and canvas in one hand and your favorite stitchery book in the other. But you must throw away those preconceived notions about "traditional" backgrounds.

Who says satin stitch is exclusively for crewel flowers? Try "Gobelin" stitch (which is really satin stitch), working horizontal rows of stitches over four or five threads of mesh, to cover the canvas with bands of stitching, like a tapestry. (That's how it got its name, of course, from the Gobelin factories in France, which are famous for tapestry weaving.)

Or who says that cross stitch must be reserved for samplers or bedspreads? Try cross stitches on needlepoint canvas; they look terrific. Alternate sizes if you like— one large cross stitch, one small, one large again.

A classic background stitch, much used on 18th century furniture, is cross or tent stitch done double the size of the design. In other words, if the main part of the pattern is done over one thread of the canvas, do the background over two for a nice contrast in texture (and a great

Don't swing at that bee

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Taking a swing at a bee is a surefire way of becoming its next target, beekeeper Ralph Mills warns.

"A bee will go out of its way to avoid confrontation with humans. But if you take a whack at one, it apparently retaliates in self-defense. That's when it lets you have it," said Mills, a member of the Eastern Nebraska Honey Producers Association.

Sitton leads Midland Lee to golf title

Midland Lee shot a 294 in relatively subdued winds Saturday to post a two-day total of 614 to beat out San Angelo by six strokes for the Midland Invitational High School Golf Tournament at Hogan Park.

The real battle took place for medalist honors and wound up as an intra-city duel between Midland Lee's Billy Sitton and Midland High's Kelly Eng, who finished tied for first with 147's.

home with a 35-34-69 Saturday. A par on the 18th hole would have given either Sitton or Eng the title without a playoff, but both took fives.

Steve Wise, the first day's medalist in Friday's blowing dust and 25-40 mph winds with a 75, probably suffered the most ups and downs over the final day, winding up with a 149.

Steve shot a front nine 40, three bogeys and a double bogey, but he finished strong. He birdied 10, 13, 15 and 17 and, he too, could have won the title outright with a par on the final hole. What he never expected was a triple bogey seven which took him out of the playoff picture.

San Angelo, led by Joe Terrazas' 149, shot a two-day score of 620 to beat out Midland, which took third with a 630.

After that the 13-team field was strung out far in arrears with Odessa Permian and Abilene Cooper tied for fourth with 657's.

THE TOURNAMENT concluded predistrict play and still failed to Vasicek paces Midland win in tennis play

By PAUL DOMOWITZ

Iona Vasicek stared out at her daughter Vicki, standing motionless on court number four of the Midland High tennis complex and smiled. "This is going to be the day," she said. "I can feel it in my bones."

What she could so strongly feel with the intuitiveness only a mother could possess, was that her 15-year-old offspring was going to beat Kerri Ashford in Saturday's Girls 'A' Singles finals of the Tall City Interscholastic Tennis Classic.

Fifty-five minutes after the words were spoken, Vicki Vasicek turned them into reality, beating the favored Ashford with surprising ease, 6-1, 6-3.

The Midland High sophomore had never beaten Ashford in tournament competition before, always falling prey to the pressure a 15-year-old should not have to face. But Saturday, she left the worrying to her mother and took advantage of several costly errors by her opponent to walk off with the tourney title.

It was a splendid day all around for Midland High and its coach, Larry Burgin. The Pack captured the 'A' Division team title, finishing ahead of runnerup El Paso Irvin, and the MHS doubles team of Amy Tompson and Dinah Boyd made it a Bulldog sweep of the girls' events, as they toppled top-seeded Yvonne Gerken and Vicki Berryhill of Amarillo Caprock, 6-4, 6-1, in their championship confrontation.

BECAUSE ALL of the finalists in the boys 'A' events were from the El Paso area, the singles and doubles championships will be played off Monday in El Paso. El Paso High's Steve Peinado will oppose Coronado's Scott Kobren for the singles crown, while the teams of Rivera-Holmes and Bunch-Oppenheim, both from El Paso Irvin, will battle for the doubles title.

El Paso outpointed Midland for the overall 'B' team trophy, while Andrews edged by Baird for 'C' honors in the two-day affair.

The Midland High duo of Craig Aldridge and Duncan Kennedy captured the Boys 'B' Doubles event, beating Hoy-Montoya of El Paso. For the second week in a row, Lance Armstrong of San Jacinto and Ricky Houdek of Goddard faced off, and for the second time in succession Armstrong won, 7-5, 6-1, to capture the Boys 'C' Singles crown.

Jeff Eger of Lee had little trouble disposing of Charles Taylor of Lubbock Escadado, 6-2, 6-3, to capture the Boys 'B' Singles title.

The Vasicek-Ashford battle was expected to be a three-set struggle, probably with everyone of them decided by a tiebreaker. Nothing of the sort ever materialized however, as Vasicek played undoubtedly the best tennis of her very brief, but very promising career.

She broke Ashford's service twice in the first set, and twice more in the second, and took advantage of eight Ashford double faults along the way.

TRAILING TWO games to one in the first set, and leading in the fourth, 40-love, Ashford suffered her first series of mishaps, which would ultimately set the tone for the rest of the match. Three consecutive baseline shots quickly knotted the score at 40, and then Ashford double faulted not once, but twice in a row to give her younger opponent a 3-1 lead in games.

Vasicek used it as a catapult to run away with the first set, 6-1. She continued the blistering pace early in the second set, breaking Ashford's service in the first game, thanks to another double fault.

But Ashford valiantly battled back, taking advantage of Vasicek's errors this time. In games four and five, the Midland High youngster found herself up at the net and in perfect position to put Ashford away, but her returns both went into the net.

Then came the mental error by Ashford that took the brief momentum she had acquired and gave it back to Vasicek—for good.

After hitting an excellent passing shot at Vicki that made the score 40-15 in her favor in the sixth game, Ashford made the mistake of thinking she had won the game and went to get a quick drink of water.

But Vasicek pointed out to her that the game was not yet over. More determined than ever, she rallied off of the hole she was in, won the game, and never looked back. She won the eighth game to take a 5-3 lead, and climaxed the win by breaking Ashford's service in the ninth.

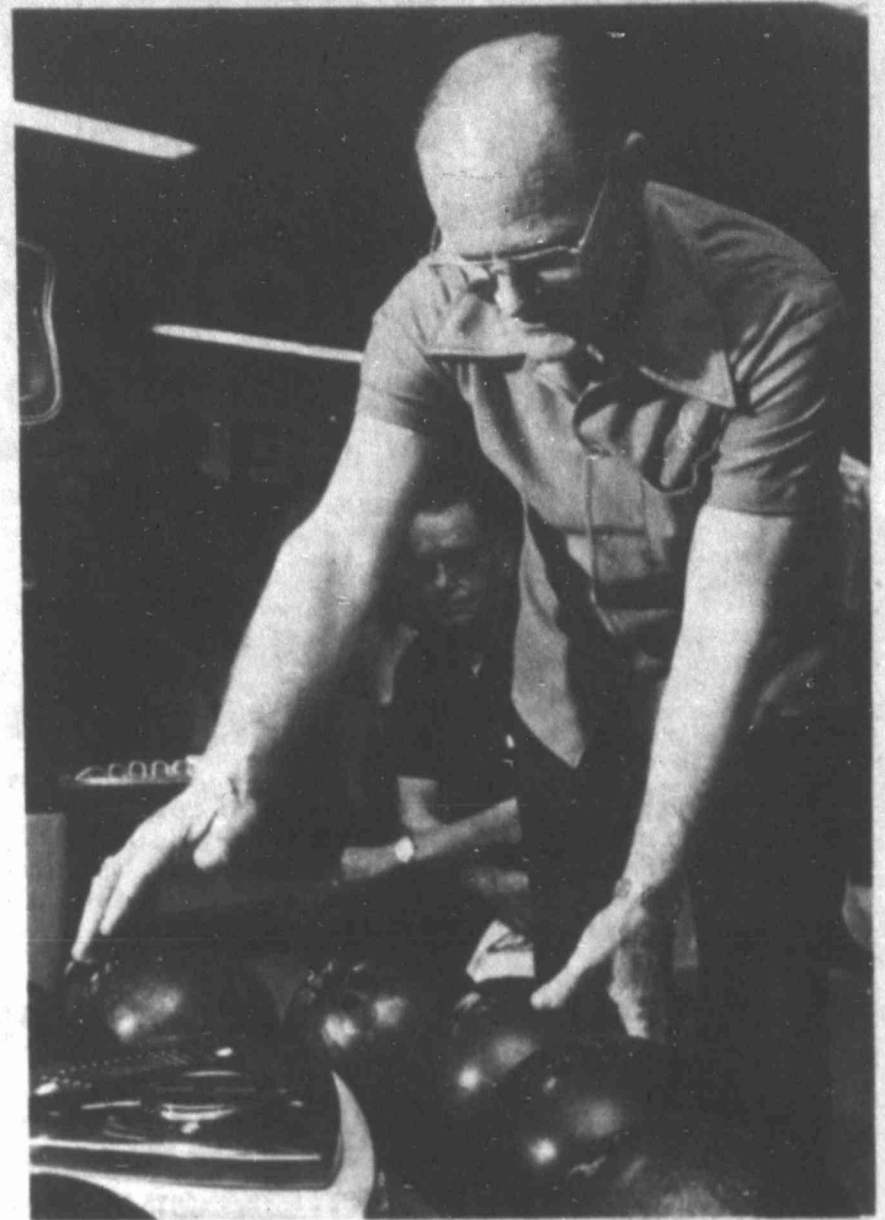

ONE TOP seed was eliminated in Saturday morning's semis. That was El Paso's Oscar Ontiveros, who was upset by Peinado, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

The Midland High girls doubles team of Sue Ann Clark and Liz Ruwwe almost added another number one seed to the list of semifinal losers, extending Gerken and Berryhill to three sets, before succumbing, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

The second-seeded team of Karen Young and Linda Apperson from Wichita Falls Rider, were slight favorites in their morning confrontation with Midland's Boyd and Tompson, but the Pack duo beat the odds, and earned a finals berth with a 6-4, 6-2 win.

Young and Apperson broke the Tall City pair's service in the first game of the first set, and took an early 2-0 lead, before the roof caved in. Tompson and Boyd won the next three

Midland, Lee runners blanked

TERRY WILLIAMSON R-T Sports Writer

ODESSA—For the first time this year, the Midland High and Lee track teams failed to win a first place medal as the 32nd annual West Texas Relays came to a close in W. T. Barrett Stadium Saturday afternoon.

But just how do you judge success? Both schools improved on their times in just about every race. Some plain bad luck, some super competition and the fact that some local runners were held out of their specialties played a part in the outcome for the Rebels and Bulldogs. In any event, neither team pushed for the championship.

MEET FAVORITE San Angelo won the AAAA Division with 115 points, six points better than Odessa High. The Bobcats were led by Neville Leverett, who won high point honors with 27 points including an upset over teammate Wes Evans in the 330 intermediate hurdles.

Lee finished sixth with 37 points and Midland High eighth with 25.

Odessa Ector repeated, like San Angelo, as the AAA champion with a 110-90 margin over Lubbock Dunbar, and Slaton ran away with the AA crown with 112 points while Stanton was a distant second with 79. Ector also captured the girls title with 132 points and Midland High was sixth with 22 points.

It was the Midland High girls, however, that brought home the only gold in the two-day meet for the Tall City entrants.

GLORIA CALDWELL remained undefeated in the 880 run with her best time of the year, a 2:33.4, but she had to fight out of a jam in the last five yards to move from third to first in a brilliant spurt to the finish to edge out Permian's Karen Cloud at the tape.

In one of the feature AAAA races of the day, Midland High's Robert Wilson suffered his second loss of the season in the mile run, despite a career best 4:25.3.

El Paso Austin's Jose Paz and David Guerrero ran neck and neck with Wilson for four laps. Paz spurred at the tape to win with a 4:25.2 and Guerrero's chest lunge beat Wilson even though both were awarded the same time. Midland's Pat Darden was fifth with his best time of 4:35.5.

Wilson will probably get another crack at both runners in the regionals later this year, and it could be a battle royal for a state berth.

LEE'S MOST productive race came in the 880 run, but the final results belittled the times turned in. David Skinner ran the best race of his life with a 2:01.8 only to finish third, and Arthur Pertile, who won his first 880 bid last week in Pecos was fourth with a better time of 2:02.4. Charles Hamilton placed sixth with a 2:03.0, and all of the Lee runners did better than Pertile's winning time of 2:03.7 at Pecos. Omar Carrasco of Austin had a 2:00.7 to win and San Angelo's Ed Bruning had a 2:01.5 to lead the 5-4A runners.

Lee's Jamie Berry matched his best time of 32.4 in the 440 dash. That was good enough for first last week, but managed only fourth here.

MIDLAND HIGH'S Alvin Price did not match his best time of 22.1 in the 220, but his 22.6 was still third even though the speed burner led the pack for 110 yards before losing momentum to Odessa's Darrell Shepard and El Paso's Nat Green.

Jerry Moore, Berry, Doug Guthrie and Elbert Montgomery posted Lee's best 440 relay time of 44.2 only to finish third and Garold Dedrick, John Dean, Price and Brad Dudley's 45.1 gave Midland High fifth place. Midland High was sixth in the mile relay with Dean, Dudley, Chuck Stump and Doug Noel with a 3:37.0.

State bowling meet underway

The Winners of Midland jumped out into the first day lead in the Class A team event of the 45th annual Texas State Bowling Association Bowling Tournament being held for the next thirteen weekends at the Super Bowl and Odessa's Busby's Lanes. The Tall City quintet posted a 2697 to hold a slim lead over the rest of the field that rolled Saturday.

The Class C doubles team of Melton Post and Jim Campbell are the only other Midland bowlers holding onto the top spot after first day action. They bowled a 1116.

The other leaders in the team event are Stadium Lanes of San Angelo, 2713, Class B; Garza Finance of San Antonio, 2637, Class C; and San Antonio Free and Easy, 2609, Class B.

In the singles competition, Donnie Biesel of Longview lead in Class A with 599; Santos Cruz of Houston is the B leader with a 593 total; William Graham of San Angelo, Class C, 593; and Avery Falle of San Antonio, Class D leader, 578.

Beisel teamed up with Wayne Brooks in Class A doubles, and the pair lead with a 1072. In Class B, Ron Heton and Rodney Moore of Houston head the Pack with a 1062. Post and Campbell are the C doubles leaders, while Mike Gray and Mike Culver of San Antonio are on top in Class D with a 1051 total.

UCLA, Marquette, Wake Forest post NCAA victories

By The Associated Press

Nevada Las Vegas crushed third-ranked San Francisco 121-95 with a racehorse offense led by Reggie Theus and Idaho State whipped Long Beach State 83-72 behind Steve Hayes' 29 points in West Regional games of the NCAA playoffs Saturday night.

Nevada-Las Vegas, the nation's No. 5 team, advanced to the West Regional semifinals against Utah, which edged St. John's 72-68 in the first game of a doubleheader at Tucson, Ariz.

Idaho State's victory secured a West semifinal berth with No. 2 UCLA, which earlier whipped No. 14 Louisville 87-79 at Provo, Utah, on Brad Holland's 16 second-half points. Marquette and Southern Illinois were other winners in first-round games Saturday.

The Warriors, ranked No. 16, ran off

13 straight points midway through the second half and pulled away from No. 11 Cincinnati in beating the Bearcats 66-51 in the Midwest Regional at Omaha. Utah got clutch foul shooting down the stretch in eliminating St. John's. A tie-breaking shot by Gary Wilson with three seconds left helped Southern Illinois get past Arizona 81-77 in another Midwest game at Tucson.

UCLA trailed 55-51 with 14 minutes left when Holland entered the game and netted 11 points over a five-minute period to put the Bruins on top. Louisville regained the lead briefly, but UCLA came back again to go on top by six on a three-point play by Holland with 3:21 left.

The Cardinals, 21-7, never got closer than four points after that. Marques Johnson finished with 17 points for the winners and Wesley Cox had 23 for Louisville.

Marquette and Cincinnati battled on even terms at Omaha, Neb., until the Warriors, aided by a controversial goal-tending call, ripped off their 13-point streak. Bo Ellis and Jerome Whitehead teamed for 11 of the 13 points. Ellis finished with 17 points and Whitehead added 15.

Bob Miller scored 20 points for Cincinnati, 25-5, which managed only three field goals over the final 10 1/2 minutes of the game. Marquette, 21-7, will play the Kansas State-Providence winner next.

The 19th-ranked Utes, led by sophomore Greg Deane's 25 points and Earl Williams' clutch free throws in the final minutes, edged St. John's 72-68 in the first game of the tournament's opening-round doubleheader here.

Thus entered the game in the fourth minute after USF had taken a 10-6 lead. The 6-foot-7 sophomore guard scored 18 points in the half and finished the game with 27.

Eddie Owens added 22 points and Glen Gondrezick scored 21 for the Rebels, who led college basketball with their 108-point per game scoring average in a 25-2 regular season.

Las Vegas exploded into a 63-44 lead by halftime, outscoring the West Coast Athletic Conference champion Dons 12-0 late in the half to make the score 61-42.

Winford Boynes, USF's sophomore guard, was virtually the only bright spot for the Dons. He scored a game-high 30 points including 20 in the first half.

San Francisco, which had been unbeaten and top-ranked until a season-ending loss to Notre Dame, went home with a 29-20 overall record.

The sixth-ranked Wildcats got 12 points from Clayton, who hit on six of eight shots, and 10 from Shidler.

Sowinski led Princeton with 16, followed by Bill Omelchenko and Tom Young with 10 each.

Kentucky Coach Joe Hall was pleased with his team's effort. "We felt our problem would be tempo," he said. "But I thought we were able to maintain what we wanted to do. Clayton and Robey gave us a big lift."

Princeton Coach Pete Carril thought the Wildcats have a chance to go all the way in the NCAA tournament. "They're a very fine team," he said. "They're strong, tall and shoot the ball very, very well."

Kentucky, 25-3, advances to the eastern regional semifinals next Thursday night against VMI. Princeton finished 21-5.

VMI led most of the second half but Duquesne drew within one point, 61-60, with 4:37 remaining. VMI's John Krovic then hit two free throws, Duquesne's Norm Nixon missed a pair from the line and Dave Montgomery hit a layup for the Keydets to give them a 65-60 lead.

After swapping baskets with Duquesne, VMI went into a spread offense with just less than two minutes remaining. Kelly Lombard then hit four free throws and Montgomery hit two more from the line to ice the win.

Duncanville wins diamond tourney

By BOB DILLON

Duncanville's Panthers reign as kings of the 3rd annual Tournament of Champions.

The defending Class AAAA state champions went undefeated in four tourney games to take home the first place trophy, winning three games on Saturday to win the championship.

Sophomore righthander Tank Davis threw a one-hitter at the Moore, Okla. Lions in the tourney finale in Cubs Stadium Saturday night as the Panthers won, 2-0.

Earlier in the day, Duncanville defeated the Midland Bulldogs, 7-4 and Lubbock Monterey to the tune of 6-2.

Davis, who also slammed a pair of homers during the two-day round-robin meet, gave up a single in the first inning and then blanked the Lions the rest of the way.

DUNCANVILLE ONLY got two hits off the slants of lefthander Donnie Graham and righthander Ernie Baxter, but those were triples by Jimmy Dean and Leland Creel.

Monterey finished second behind the Panthers with a 3-1 record while Moore, which gave both Duncanville and Monterey fits, wound up 2-2, losing 10-9 to the Plainsmen and 2-0 to the Panthers.

Action opened Saturday morning with Robert E. Lee's Rebels taking it on the chin to the Plainsmen, 10-2.

Mike Richard, who hit .600 in the tourney, had a double for the Rebels along with teammate Todd Clements while Phil Brudeigam and Archie Crim had two-baggers for Monterey.

Crim, Ron Reeves and Dana Rieger had triples for the winners.

DUNCANVILLE TOOK its 7-4 decision over the Purple Pack with two pitchers — Leland Creel and Doc Daus working on the mound in scattering six hits.

Tank Davis powered a homer for the Panthers while Nick Junior and Leland Creel pounded triples.

Monterey almost blew its lead over the gutty Moore in the final inning as the Oklahomans scored twice off winner Ron Reeves.

The Lions outhit the Plainsmen 14-10, but four errors hurt their chances of pulling off a big upset.

Lee pounded Midland High, 8-3, in a game played the Bulldog diamond since the Duncanville-Monterey game was postponed Friday night due to a power failure.

Duncanville and Monterey hooked up in the game that decided who would take home the first place trophy.

Keith Creel, an all-tourney selection and the mound ace for Duncanville, threw a six-hitter for the Panthers.

Creel pitched the Panthers to two consecutive state titles in 1975-76.

Tank Davis, again whacked a homer for the winners while Leland Creel and Tab French chipped in with doubles off loser Gary Holub.

IN THE final game of the night, the fans were treated to super defensive ball by both teams in the 2-0 Duncanville victory.

A 10-man all-tourney team was selected by the coaches of the five teams. It included: Leland Creel, Duncanville; Mike Rendeluk, Moore; Tank Davis, Duncanville; Mike Richard, Lee; David Johnston, Midland; Dana Rieger, Monterey; Mike Craig, Monterey; Archie Crim, Monterey; Keith Creel, Duncanville and Donnie Graham of Moore.

Graham also had a homer during the tourney which featured some great defensive play and power hitting by all five teams.

Lee won one and lost three while Midland wound up 0-4, but played three close games.

BATTLE SCENE

Time comes for a lynching

By TED BATTLES

Someone suggested his Chamber of Commerce membership be revoked. You might as well slap Charles Manson on the wrist.

Tar and Feathers are too good for this traitor. Somebody get a rope and when the sand settles we'll find a tree. We haven't had a good lynching in Midland since ought-three.

This was the weekend Midland and West Texas would find itself as a tourist mecca.

Talk about opportunity. Florida should have the same chance. They came from all over the Southwest for the games and fun, to laze and sun in this secluded West Texas paradise they'd heard rumors about, but really didn't think existed.

THEY FLOCKED to the Tall City from afar for the Tall City Tourney, the Midland Invitational Tennis Tournament, the Men's State Bowling Tournament and the West Texas Relays, menu fit for a king.

One old-timer claimed it was the biggest thing to happen to Midland since Columbia stopped in Midland to work out beside the T&P tracks on the way to their 1933 Rose Bowl date with Stanford and immortality after perpetrating the biggest upset in the history of the game.

It was the kind of weekend that could have put the Tall City a decade ahead in the convention business, once the good word was spread.

THEN THE weatherman spoiled it all. You were here, doggone it, you saw what happened.

Bowlers from Houston were grumbling, "I guess we'll appreciate the good ol' air pollution back home now. How can anyone make this scene?"

Bad? Melvin Mattina, who retired to Midland from Long Beach, Calif., a couple of years ago, longed for that faint, fuzzy orange ball in the sky they recognize as the sun.

Panic? Out at terminal some guy was asking, "Quick, what's the first flight back to Buffalo?"

A foreign visitor made reservations for Austria. "At least, in an earthquake, the grounds shakes under you, not on top of you."

ANYBODY GOT that rope yet? The weatherman is guilty as sin, but he deserves his say while we're stringing him up.

"Honest, I'm not a Russian spy, posing as a Cuban," he whines. "And I don't know where those stories got started that we are conducting a test of a new bacteria for the government."

KNOWING HIS neck is about to be stretched, he blurts it out, "It's a plot, all right. It's a plot by the international Military-Tourist complex in the west, headquartered in Phoenix and Palm Springs. They are being secretly financed by pesos from Acapulco and leis from Hawaii."

Pleading for mercy, he breaks down. "What could I do? It's not our weather. They just turned on the wind and blew all their filth into Midland. I was helpless. Hey, that necktie burns."

"You really can't blame them," he last gasps. "With that many people coming into Midland this weekend, they knew the jig was up if word got to the outside world about Midland and their days would be numbered."

So, there you have it, visitors. Honest, this has never happened before and we don't even know what that stuff in the air is. So come on back, ya' heah?

Barker advances to finals

DALLAS (AP) — Sue Barker, Britain's saucy 20-year-old blonde bombshell, trounced fellow Englishwoman Virginia Wade in straight sets Saturday night to advance to the finals of a $100,000 professional women's tennis tournament.

Miss Barker, who captured the San Francisco tournament last year with a victory over the 31-year-old Miss Wade, needed only 57 minutes in a runaway 6-4, 6-3 victory.

The championship match is set for 2 p.m. today with a $200,000 first prize.

Skiier seriously injured

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — Sheila McKinney, an 18-year-old ski racer who has been plagued by injuries, was in intensive care Saturday after sustaining head injuries in a World Cup downhill race at Heavenly Valley, Nev.

Miss McKinney, of Squaw Valley, Calif., was in critical condition in Barton Memorial Hospital, and a spokesman said her condition "was such that it could go either way. If she starts to bleed, or her condition worsens, surgery might be necessary, but right now we're optimistic. Her doctors don't think surgery will be required, as of now."

Hunch surprise Stakes winner

NEW YORK (AP) — Hunch turned the $53,850 Swift Stakes into a sure thing about halfway through the race Saturday at Aqueduct, galloping home a four-length winner in the first of New York's four Kentucky Derby prep.

Only two Derby nominees were in the field of seven 3-year-olds and Hunch was not one of them.

The winner, ridden by Leroy Moyers, got the lead shortly after the break and was in command at the midpoint of the six-furlong race. At the finish, he was four lengths in front of Silk Heriz, who was one length ahead of Derby nominee Catalan. Ali Oop was another nose back.

Hunch, 117, owned by Susan B. Fisher, was timed in 1:0935, which is a track record for Aqueduct's inner track, and paid $4, $3.60 and $2.60.

Bean slips to 71, but ups lead to 3

MIAMI (AP) — Front-running Andy Bean, seeking the first title of his two-year pro career, slipped to a one-under-par 71 but managed to stretch his lead to three strokes Saturday in the third round of the $200,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament.

The hulking, 6-foot-4 Bean, the leader all the way in this chase for a $40,000 first prize—more than he's won in the rest of his career—put together a 54-hole total of 205, 11 under par for three trips over the tough, 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

Although he's one of the tour's longest hitters, Bean continued to let the par five holes escape. He hasn't birdied one of the long holes since the 12th in Thursday's opening round and played them one over par—taking a bogey six on the 12th—on this warm, humid, partly-cloudy day.

Leonard Thompson, who's been playing better since he abandoned a diet and regained the 30 pounds he once lost, and Chi Chi Rodriguez moved into a tie for second place.

Thompson had a wildly erratic round that included eight birdies, four bogeys, a double bogey and only six pars. He birdied seven of eight holes in the middle of the round.

Hogs fold under Deacons' press

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Jerry Schellenberg's play and a tenacious full court press keyed a second half comeback that gave Wake Forest an 86-80 college basketball victory over Arkansas in the NCAA Midwest Regional Saturday night.

Kansas State and Providence met in the second game.

Schellenberg had only five points in the first half, but responded with 14 in the second half to help bring the Deacons back from a 13-point halftime deficit.

Wake Forest finally got on top at 74-73 with less than two minutes to play when Schellenberg hit a jump shot and then fed guard Skip Brown for another basket.

Arkansas had jumped to a quick six-point lead and easily rode to a 46-33 halftime advantage.

Lee, MHS cindermen record good times

Celeste Washington had a fifth in the 440 dash with a 1:04.4, and Caldwell, Washington, Lynetta Brown and Wanda Caldwell finished sixth in the 440 relay.

Doug McCalister had a big day for Stanton in the AA division, winning the 120 hurdles with a 15.3 and the 330 hurdles with a 41.4. Stanton also won the 440 relay with a 45.1 and Marvin Jones was second in the 100 with a 10.3. Stanton's mile relay placed second with a 3:30.0.

ANDREWS' WELDON Jones placed second in the AAA 440 with a 52.0 to lead the Mustangs' efforts for the day while Lamesa was paced by a second place in the mile by Jesse Dominguez with a 4:42.5.

Lee and Midland High will end a seven year home drought next week when they make their first appearance in that span at Memorial Stadium Friday night.

MC places fourth in golf

LAS CRUCES, N.M. — The Midland College golfers placed fourth here Saturday in the New Mexico State University Invitational Golf Tournament.

The Chaps shot a three-day, 45-hole total of 782 to finish 26 strokes behind the tournament champion, New Mexico Junior College.

Finishing behind the winners were: 2. New Mexico, 765; 3. New Mexico State, 782; 4. Midland, 782; 5. New Mexico State, 782; 6. Western Texas, 805; 7. U.S. International at San Diego, 807; 8. Tulsa, 812; 9. West Texas State, 813; 10. New Mexico Military Institute, 834.

Tom Chick of New Mexico Junior College took top medalist honors with a 45-hole total of 181. The tournament was originally scheduled for 54 holes, but 80 mile an hour wind gusts during Thursday's opening round severed the first day round to just nine holes.

Wally Brodzik led the Midland sextet of duffers with a 193 total. Other Chap results included: Jim Higgins, 194; Tim O'Connor, 195; J.T. Epley, 200; Ken Harbert, 202; and Doug Adams, 206.

Chaparral netters sweep two

MASON — The Midland College men's tennis team took a pair of matches from Southwest Texas State University here Saturday, beating the Bobcats 4-3 in the morning, and duplicating the result later that afternoon. The affair was sponsored by the Mason Tennis Association, who brought in the two teams.

Australian Tony Luttrell was the only Chap to go through the two matches unscathed. He won both his singles matches, and combined with Derek Edmonds for a pair of doubles victories over the SWTSU competitor.

The Chaps will play an exhibition match here in Mason Sunday afternoon.

NIT to return home Monday

NEW YORK (AP) — Having opened its show on the road for the first time ever, the 40th annual National Invitation Tournament returns home to Madison Square Garden Monday night for the quarter-finals.

In an effort to boost attendance and save money, opening round games in the NIT were played at eight sites across the country last week. The eight survivors, including 12th-ranked Alabama—the only nationally ranked club in the field—will play the rest of the tournament here.

Monday night's doubleheader matches Alabama against Virginia Tech and Houston against Illinois State. Tuesday night's quarter-final pairings are Villanova against Massachusetts and Oregon against St. Bonaventure.

Monday night's winners square off Thursday night in one semifinal contest and Tuesday night's winners meet, also Thursday night, in the other. The finals are next Sunday. Alabama, sporting a 22-4 record, will be playing Virginia Tech, 19-9, for the second time this season. The Crimson Tide rolled over the Gobblers 108-78 in mid-December. The Tide whipped Memphis State 80-43 in the first round behind Reggie King's 26 points and a stiff defense.

"From what I've seen, the only team in the NIT that could touch Alabama might be Oregon," said Memphis State Coach Wayne Yates.

VMI made it into the Garden by downing Georgetown 83-79. Houston, behind high-scoring guard Otis Birdsong, slipped by Indiana State 83-82 to advance to the quarters against Illinois State, a 65-58 winner over Creighton.

In the other half of the draw, all the first round games were squeakers. Villanova got by Old Dominion 71-68; Massachusetts shaded Seton Hall 86-85 on a layup by Mark Donoghue with five seconds left; St. Bonaventure needed a basket by Glenn Hagan in the final seconds of overtime to beat Rutgers 79-77, and Oregon survived a 65-point outburst by Anthony Roberts to edge Oral Roberts 90-89.

South Oak Cliff wins 4A crown

AUSTIN — Cullen Mayfield, the shortest player on the court, scorched Fort Worth Dunbar with 23 points and quick defensive maneuvers Saturday to give Dallas South Oak Cliff the Class 4A schoolboy basketball title with a 78-71 victory.

It was SOC's first basketball championship. Oak Cliff in Dallas won titles in 1923-24.

The loss snapped Dunbar's 19-game winning streak, a streak that started after SOC dealt Dunbar its only other loss in 41 games — 80-78.

Dunbar, seeking its first title, took a 67-62 lead on Michael Watley's shot with 6:15 left in the final period. SOC quickly regained the lead, reeling off 10 straight points, including a 22-foot jumper and a dazzling drive shot by Mayfield.

Dunbar cut the margin to 72-71 on Watley's layup, but Mark Coleman hit a jump shot with SOC in a slowdown offense to seal the victory.

At 5-7, Mayfield, a senior, was three inches shorter than any other player, but he was as important on defense as offense. He repeatedly slapped away Dunbar passes and forced Dunbar players to charge into him, drawing fouls. Afterward, he would smile and walk away clapping.

Dunbar's 6-9 junior, James Griffin, rammed in 24 points, including four baskets in which he soared high enough to stuff the ball through the net. He had 16 rebounds.

Griffin and Watley, who tallied 17 points, spent time on the bench because of fouls, and Griffin fouled out with 43 seconds left in the game. The well balanced SOC team got 16 points and 10 rebounds from David Burns, 16 points and 12 rebounds from Arthur Williams, and 10 points and 11 rebounds from Ricky Phillips.

SOC finished with a 35-8 season record.

Saul, Cubs new pilot, inspects premises, heads west

BY TED BATTLES

Lee Velarde's industrious ground crew was putting the finishing touches on the new warning track around the outfield fence, an addition that should spare Cubs Stadium outfielders a life and maybe a limb or two.

In the deserted, barren clubhouse, the green indoor-outdoor carpet was piled in a heap, to be replaced after a washing machine overflow last year.

In the small room that served as Manager Denny Sommers' office and locker, there were some leftover reminders, a Sept. 4, 1976 Sporting News and taped on the wall a yellow sheet of handwritten instructions from Mike Roark on the routine to be followed by certain pitchers.

OUT ON the diamond, the wind howled and the light standards swayed ominously, almost as though there should be a game with El Paso later in the day.

General Manager Bill Rigney, Jr., was explaining, "After the season was over, Lee and his crew tore up the infield and completely replaced it." It was just Rigney's word against the evidence. The infield looked good enough to putt on.

It was Manager Jim Saul's first look at the Cubs Stadium facility as bossman, although he had been through with the Chicago Cubs as a coach when they played the Milwaukee Brewers here in 1975. He liked what he saw then and he liked it even more now.

Midland Cubs Boosters got their first look at Jim at a meeting last week before he headed out to spring camp and a series of meetings before the Midland Cubs report for drills Thursday.

WHAT THEY saw was a 6-3, 200-pounder, who, even at 39, looked trim enough to don the catcher's harness and put in a full day's work behind the plate.

Most managers announce they expect 100 per cent hustle from their players while on the field. When Jim says the same thing, you get the feeling that they aren't trite, empty euphorisms.

When Jim says batting practice is at 4 p.m., you get the idea that if you are wise, you'll be ready to go at 3:45 p.m.

After scanning the winter roster, the native of Bristol, Va., hard by the Tennessee border, admits, he really doesn't know much about any of the players.

After two years as one of Jim Marshall's aides at Chicago, he is familiar with most of the young players who have come through Midland and gone on to Wichita and Chicago, but the kids are all new to him.

"I'M NOT the type who likes to sit back and wait for something to happen," he says in explaining his baseball philosophy. "I want my team to be aggressive. To go out and make something happen. If you make the other team handle and throw the ball, it gives them a chance to make a mistake. If we get beat, they'll have to do it while we're coming at them."

As far as style of play, Saul says, "I'll have to wait and see what kind of material we have and build from there. Last year, I understand Midland had no power hitter."

"And right now," says Rigney, "we don't know of any Tabbs or Tyrones in the lower organization, although you can never tell. Those parks in Florida are pretty spacious," the kind that sometimes muffle a long ball threat.

THIS IS Saul's third hitch with the Chicago club, first as a player, then a player-coach under Marshall at Wichita and then with Marshall again at Chicago before being appointed at Midland.

It's evident the Cubs value his instructional talents. In the managerial change last winter that saw Herman Franks take over and bring in his own team of coaches, Saul was a victim, but Chicago was reluctant to let Jim get away, so he was offered the Midland job.

Saul was a 14-year minor league catcher and in 1963 led the Pacific Coast League with only three errors in 915 chances. He spent most of his career in the PCL.

After retiring as a player, Saul managed Salinas in the California League, a California Angels farm club, had for two years and many of the players now with the Angels, the same ones who advanced through the Texas League on the way up.

SAUL EMPHASIZES that he will be looking for the players with the talent, desire and hustle to make it to the big leagues.

"After all, that's what it's all about and where we all want to go, players and coaches," he notes significantly.

In Sommers' office, Jim inspected some of the leftover mementoes of the 1976 Cubs manager who is now a coach with the New York Mets, "I envy him. It's a great break."

From the way he said it, Saul sounded like a guy who can't wait to get back and he's going to do all he can to get there...which also sounds like it could be a great break for Midland Cubs fans, a manager with ambition and a goal.

Vols, Orange set for TV

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Three of the Top 20 college basketball teams in the country — each of them a potent scoring machine — take the court today in the first round of the NCAA playoffs. And then there's Middle Tennessee.

Middle Tennessee meets Detroit, No. 17 in the last regular season poll, in the opening game of Sunday's Midwest Regionals. Syracuse, No. 10, meets Tennessee, No. 7, in the nationally televised second game.

Detroit, led by forward John Long, is fifth on the national scoring rankings with an average of 90.9 points a game. The balanced Syracuse attack produced 87.7 points per contest, good for 10th place on the scoring list, and Tennessee's Bernie and Ernie show is 13th most potent with an average of 85.6.

AND THEN there's Middle Tennessee, unranked and averaging a comparatively puny 75.6 points per game.

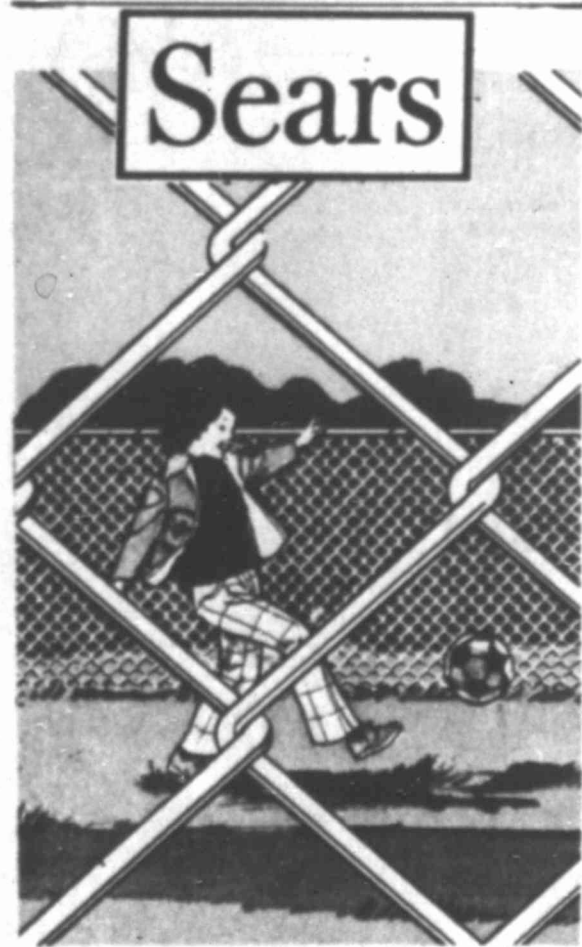

"We pride ourselves on our defense," said Middle Tennessee Coach Jimmy Earle. His Ohio Valley Conference tournament champ is the only one of the four teams in Sunday's playoffs here to appear anywhere on the NCAA's list of defensive statistics—28th, having allowed opponents an average of 68 points a game.

Middle Tennessee got its bid to the playoffs after finishing second to Austin Peay in regular season standings, then winning the conference tournament. The OVC bid went to the tournament winner—not necessarily to the team with the best regular season record. The team comes into Sunday's tournament here with a 20-8 record, poorest of the four teams.

Earle prefers to say "the kids came through when they had to," rather than say they got into the playoffs through the back door.

If Middle Tennessee weren't in the Midwest Regionals, Detroit would probably be wearing the underdog label. Despite a 21-game winning streak, the Titans didn't get into the Top 20 until they upset Marquette late in the season. They finished 24-3 with only one loss at home.

"At best, you'd have to say we're co-underdogs," said Detroit Coach Dick Vitale, whose fast-break conversation matches his team's style of play.

Oakland A's dynasty becomes a disaster area

By ROSS NEWMAN
The Los Angeles Times

MESA, Ariz. — A visitor nodded affirmatively when Oakland center fielder Bill North asked if he'd care to hear a prediction.

"Twenty-seventh," whispered North, leaning forward so as not to be overheard.

It was North's way of indicating how far the A's have fallen, of saying they no longer belong among the 26 major league teams, two of which, Seattle and Toronto, have never played a game.

"The dynasty," agreed second baseman Phil Garner, "has become a disaster."

"Well," said Vida Blue, the talented pitcher. "I'm not here to play a guessing game with the owner. I don't know what his plans are for the franchise or for myself. I can still go out there and do my job but it would be a big relief to be able to do it for a different owner, to be able to go about it without the harassment and uncertainty you get here."

"ALL I'M trying to do now is get myself in shape to pitch for somebody. If it's the A's, I'll give 100 per cent as I always have. But it's going to be a difficult year here. I'll have to work harder. There'll be a lot more pressure. You just don't replace the type of people we lost."

Gone are merely eight players from that confident, outspoken, free-spirited team which became unified in its struggles with owner Charles Finley and, between 1971 and 1975, won five straight titles in the American league West and three straight world championships.

The unsigned Ken Holtzman and Reggie Jackson were traded during the 1976 season. The unsigned Joe Rudi, Campy Campaneris, Rollie Fingers, Gene Tenace, Sal Bando and Don Baylor, the latter obtained in the Jackson trade, played out their options and became wealthy mercenaries via the free-agent market.

Had Finley satisfied the initial salary requests of Jackson and the five (excluding Baylor) who played out their options, it would have cost him $3.2 million, a pittance compared to the $13.4 they received as free agents.

ALL EIGHT of the departed have said Finley treated them with little respect, that his way of negotiating was an insult. Finley has said they never intended to sign, that they were without loyalty, that "no one will play out his option at my expense."

Finley has been left with tattered remnants. There does not even seem to be a shell.

"Competitive?" asked North, a degree of incredulity in his voice. "Can we be competitive? Not under these circumstances. Something will have to be done. We have only four or five proven players and a couple of those are pitchers. I can still do my job (as a leadoff man). I can get on first, steal second, steal third. But who's going to drive me in? Where do we get any power? The opposition won't care how much I run. They'll let me run until the cows come home. What difference will it make?"

"This club has gone back 10 years," Garner said. "It's where it was before all those people made it a winner. Bando said it's like the Titanic and I called him and asked if he could send me a life preserver."

"THE POINT is that it's unfair to expect the A's to continue to win this year. The question is where will the A's be three or four years from now? Is Finley dedicated to rebuilding, restructuring? If he's willing to give the young players a chance to play and develop like he did Bando and Rudi, that's a program I can live with, but if he's going to demand a winner this year, he should have signed the players he had. It may be true that all good clubs eventually fall on tough times, but it was allowed to happen long before it should have..."

No one is quite sure of Finley's intentions. If he is dedicated to maintaining a competitive club then it would seem strange that in addition to those players he lost to free agency he has since released veteran third baseman Ken McMullen, sold veteran first baseman Ron Fairly to Toronto and sold his only left-handed relief pitcher, Paul Lindblad, to Texas for $400,000, which, perhaps, is a shrewd business move considering Lindblad is 35.

COMMISSIONER Bowie Kuhn, who last year blocked Finley's sale of Blue to the Yankees for $1.5 million and Rudi and Fingers to Boston for $1 million each, has said he suspects Finley is dismantling his franchise. There are those close to the Oakland scene who agree, saying Finley intends to make it a distressed property the league will be forced to take over.

Others say he is (1) attempting to sell, (2) moving to Washington, D.C., or (3) merely waiting until a judgment is made in his multimillion dollar suit against Kuhn over the commissioner's action in the sale of Blue, Fingers and Rudi.

Should he win, it is said, Finley will use the money to improve the club and also employ the ruling as a springboard for trading Blue, perhaps, or pitcher Mike Torrez, who has a one-year contract he says will be his last with the A's, for two or three regulars.

In the meantime, the franchise seems to be sinking slowly into the East Bay. Items:

—The owner employs only 10 people, including secretaries and switchboard operator, in the front office. He has no general manager. His ticket department is a one woman operation. The A's sold only 1,000 season tickets last year when they drew 780,593. Spring cancellations would indicate the A's will not match that 1,000 total.

—Finley is without a radio or television contract and will probably remain so unless he pays a station to broadcast the games.

WEST TEXAS HUNTING AND FISHING

High Sky Bass Club plans Amistad tourney

The High Sky Bass Club will host its second Invitational Bass Tournament at Lake Amistad at Del Rio May 7 and 8. Headquarters for the tournament is Amistad Lodge.

The tournament features a men's and women's division with equal awards to each. Entry fee is $15 and all contestants must be a member in good standing of a bass club.

Trophies will be given the first three places in both divisions and another trophy will be awarded to the person catching the big bass of the tournament.

Cash prizes of $550 and merchandise awards valued in excess of $4,000 will be awarded.

For information contact John Kelly (682-5283) or Jim Binns (684-4411).

FISH HAVE come out biting at Lake E.V. Spence with the return of spring-like weather.

Numerous catches of striped bass, an increasing number of crappie as well as black bass and channel cat have been reported. And for the first time in weeks, white bass showed up in the reports.

Biggest catch of the week was a 17 pound, 10 ounce striped bass landed by Jay Morgan of Sweetwater.

The Jay Ford group from Midland, took three strippers to 11 1/2 pounds; Perry Taylor, Midland, took an eight-pounder while Forest Taylor landed a 6 1/4 pounder and W. Taylor took a five-pounder. E. Joe, Midland, had a big day with a 9 1/4 pound striper, 30 crappie to 2 1/2 pounds and three blacks to 10 1/2 pounds.

AT OAK Creek Lake, weekend fishing weather has been in a rut, according to Ike Pate of the Sportsman's Lodge Marina. "The past two weekends have been almost identical. Cold and cloudy on Saturday and nearly perfect on Sunday."

"Fishing differed a great deal. Two weeks ago some real bucket-mouth bass were caught going over eight pounds. Last weekend, a 6-5 was the best fish three bass clubs could manage," says Pate.

The high wind that blew did help warm the surface water another three degrees during the week and it reached 55 degrees, which should move the fish into the shallow water with a few more days of good weather and produce good fishing.

IF YOU are going over New Mexico way, black bass fishing at Elephant Butte Lake is picking up on plastic worms near brush piles. Catfish are being taken on trotlines with cut shad bait.

On the Rio Grande below Elephant Butte, trout fishing is good, but everything else is slow....

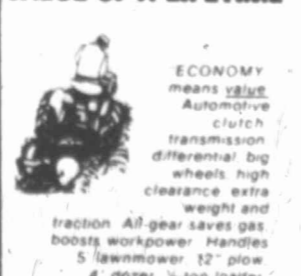

Some of the rarest guns and custom knives in existence will be for exhibit and sale today and Sunday at the 12th annual Spring Arms Show in Market Hall in Dallas. An example of the rare pieces - being shown is a pair of 1808 Harper Perry U.S. Martial Flintlock pistols.

According to Richard Shea, the show chairman, 10,000 paid spectators attended last year to see exhibits with a total worth of close to $3 million. He said this year's show is shaping up to be even bigger.

Gals tour, it's come a long way

By LINDA KOZUB
Copley News Service

Women's professional golf has, in the words of a recent popular advertising slogan, come a long way, baby.

The Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) has risen from a little-known quantity once headquartered in Atlanta to a highly respected athletic organization, given the right of dignity in its field. And the LPGA office now is in New York.

Judy Rankin, current LPGA president and LPGA Player of the Year, remembers a Corpus Christi tournament she won in 1968 with a $1,875 purse.

LAST YEAR she won six tournaments and $150,734 to become the first player in the history of the LPGA to surpass the $100,000 milestone.

The status which LPGA now enjoys has a lot to do with timing. It also has to do with the corporate American dollar.

In Rankin's words, "It's been a good time for women in general. Sponsoring groups are catering to women. It's not something we planned out or really thought about. But I'm pleased we have received some benefit from it."

She has no plan for this season as president of LPGA, except to assist in continuing to promote LPGA and help it grow.

"We want a tour to be around for a long time, not just a couple of years. We need to keep growing. We don't want to be a flash in the pan."

"WE WANT to give our sponsors their money's worth, so they'll be around in future years. The players have a lot of giving to do."

She prefers not to compare men's golf to the women's tour. "I don't think that what we're trying to do is parallel to what the men are doing. We want to be financially successful as we can in our own right."

Television viewers are becoming more interested in women golfers, she thinks, because the competition is entertaining. But perhaps more relevant is that the average player can identify closer with the skills of the women and can watch the tour with the idea of improving their own game.

Rankin said, "There are probably 95 per cent of the golfers in the world who can relate to what we do."

"YOU DON'T find male golfers just anywhere who can play like Jack Nicklaus."

Rankin credits LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe with boosting the image of the golfers.

Volpe, a former advertising and marketing expert, is admittedly a shrewd businessman.

In a phone interview from his New York office, he put it this way: "I think it's a question of philosophy. We needed to look outward, to promote. But in golf, the word promote was almost dirty. Traditionally and historically, there was no."

The YMCA will sponsor a softball clinic for girls nine to 15 years of age March 28 through April 1, it was announced by Kay Merket, assistant Y program director.

Hartwell Martin, San Jacinto Junior High coach, will direct the five sessions to be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Fee for the clinic is $7.

The clinic will be held at Bowie School, A Street north of Cuthbert, and Coach Martin plans instruction in throwing, catching, fielding, batting and proper position of players. He also will cover game strategy and the rules.

Registration Forms are available at the Central Y of most Midland schools. Registration ends March 25. For information, call the YMCA (682-2551).

Several LL borders changed

promotion of professional sports."

BUT WHEN he took over the administrative post of LPGA (which was then called executive director and changed to the commissioner title with his arrival), Volpe put to use his many years and lessons in marketing, advertising and promotion.

"The difference between amateur and professional sports is money. These women are professionals. They get paid. And we are committed to making the tour a good business venture. In order for professional sports to exist, they need money."

This philosophy was not so enthusiastically received in the early stages by many of the golfers, recalls Carol Mann, former LPGA president.

"I remember the very first board meeting when I said we're going to be firm and fair but we're going to get action. We needed professional management."

It was 1973, she remembers, when the idea of using the title of commissioner was discussed. Many of the women didn't think the LPGA was ready for it.

Several Little League boundary changes have been made this year to accommodate shifts in city population and will effect players in the Northern, Central and North-Central leagues.

This year Garfield, W. Golf Course and North J. Street will form the common boundary between the Northern and Central leagues. North of Wadley, Garfield separates the Northern from the North-Central league.

Presidents urge players to check the boundary changes on their Player-Consent form map so they will pre-register Monday in the correct league.

Tryouts begin Wednesday and continue through Friday.

Mary wants Derby mount

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — On the first Saturday in May, jockey Mary Bacon might be aboard a Kentucky Derby starter. Then again, she might be riding a bull. It all depends on where the money is.

Once the beautiful scourge of race tracks around the country, the petite blond is a nine-year veteran who no longer thinks of herself as a crusader for women jockeys.

"With someone like me, it's past the stage of just being a girl jockey," said Miss Bacon in a recent telephone interview from New York. "It's the new girls that are labeled a girl jockey. I've just been around too long, so I don't think they look at me as a girl jockey."

Still, Mary Bacon would be bucking tradition if she manages to get a ride in the 103rd Derby on May 1. Only one woman, Diane Crump in 1970, has ridden in the Derby.

"AND SHE was married to the trainer, so that kind of helped," Miss Bacon recalled. Miss Bacon had a shot at the 1970

Derby; in fact, "I got as far as the Derby Trial with Bold Music, but then he broke down."

Of the 297 horses nominated for this year's Derby, Miss Bacon has ridden about a half-dozen. But it's still too early, she says, to plan on a Derby start.

"Right now, they're just starting to stretch 3-year-olds out," she explained. "And of those I rode that are nominated for the Derby, it's hard to tell if they'll be able to go a distance until they run in a few allowance races."

But she'd jump at the chance to ride in the Derby.

"I'D LIKE either the Kentucky Derby or the All-American," she said. "The All-American is worth a little more, but the Kentucky Derby is still the Derby."

"If there's anyone who asks me to come in and ride, then I'll be more than glad to," she added. "But right now I'm riding primarily in New York. I've been out of contact with those people (in Kentucky) for a long time, because I was on the coast for a couple of years and I've been in New York two years."

"You have to go where your offers go," she said. "If I'm not doing so great around New York, I might end up just coming down there on my own."

After spending much of her early career on Kentucky tracks, Miss Bacon left for greener pastures and richer purses. But when mounts became scarce, she turned to the rodeo circuit — and bull riding.

"I've ridden bulls since I was a kid," said Miss Bacon, a New Mexico native raised near the Oklahoma Panhandle. "I rodeoed primarily for the past two years. Then I ended up breaking my arm again."

But why risk an injury that could curtail her career as a jockey?

"It's good purse money," she said simply. "It's just like anything else, you get paid. When you've got to be mother and father (she has an 8-year-old daughter), you've got to do your best to support your kid."

Measles hold real dangers

Dear Dr. Solomon: We have had a lot of measles going around where we live, and I am wondering if our children should have some shots right away. We recently moved here, and I am just not sure whether or not they were given vaccinations for measles back in the place we were living before. What do you advise? The children's ages are six, four and a year and a half.—Cindy L.

Dear Cindy: The first thing to do is to call up the doctor or medical service that took care of your children's checkups and vaccinations and find out exactly what they had and when. Ask to have a copy of their records mailed to you.

If any of the youngsters has not had a measles vaccination, he should be given one immediately, as the disease is extremely infectious and we have been having the worst outbreak since 1971. Although measles is usually a mild illness, it can have serious complications, such as encephalitis, or swelling of the brain.

And if any of the children were vaccinated for measles before he was a year old, he should have it done again. We now know that a later vaccination—after the 12-month mark—is much more effective than the earlier one that used to be given.

Of course, you will want to fill in any gaps in your children's inoculation schedules for other diseases, too, and make sure they get all the further shots they need as they grow older.

There are seven major diseases that every child should be protected against through the marvelously simple, effective and economical means of vaccination: diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, polio, measles, mumps and German measles. It is every parent's duty to see that this is done. It is a real tragedy that there are still so many children who have not been vaccinated. For instance, only about two-thirds of the country's children have been vaccinated against measles and only 60 percent of the preschoolers have gotten their polio shots.

German measles is another of the serious diseases that too few children are vaccinated against. Making certain that children get their shot before puberty is important for more reasons than one. The little girl who gets vaccinated now and, later in life, becomes pregnant, will not have to fear a disease that can cause great damage to her baby. Her vaccination in childhood also helps protect her mother against catching the disease—an important safeguard in the event her mother becomes pregnant with another child.

An adult woman who has not been vaccinated against German measles should get a shot on two conditions: one, a blood test shows she doesn't have antibodies from an earlier mild infection; two, she is on a birth control regimen that rules out pregnancy for the next two months.

HOME LOAN CHEAPEST OF ALL

Home buyers who think the cost of mortgage money is high today may be interested to learn that they are receiving preferential treatment from lending institutions. The cost of financing a home purchase is lower than the cost of financing almost any other type of real estate. In fact, the U.S. Government and the highest rated state and local governments are about the only borrowers who can obtain long term money at a lower rate than today's home buyer.

There is good reason why home buyers enjoy preferential loan status. Despite the recession, they have developed a reputation for being a better credit risk than most real estate borrowers. Delinquency rates among home buyers continue almost as low as before the recession. On the other hand, delinquencies and defaults among buyers and developers of commercial properties have reached record highs. Since the risk is higher, loans for commercial long term investments carry a higher interest rate.

If you have any questions on this subject or any other aspect of real estate, feel free to phone or drop in at DON JOHNSON REALTORS, 7602 Andrews Hwy. Phone: 683-5333. We're here to help! (come in for your free copy of "Homes for Living" magazine.)

Bob Johnson real power in House

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — In the confusion of House debate under pressure of time or subject, a bulldog of a man sits calmly beside the podium feeding the speaker the words that make a bill live or die.

Parliamentarian Bob Johnson, 48, was a firebrand conservative representative from Dallas in the late 1950s and early 1960s.

Today, he enjoys the respect of liberals and conservatives. And it's not because he guards his tongue like some neutered demi-god. Even on hot political questions, Johnson answers quick and straight.

He'll tell a representative what chances he thinks a bill has of passage. He'll say who he thinks is ahead in a race for speaker, and betting right on that question is crucial to important committee assignments.

Johnson has been executive director of the Legislative Council since late 1963. Being House parliamentarian goes with that job.

One of the most important jobs of his office is to be sure laws are not amended or abolished through some technical error.

For example, such an error could repeal the law against murder, and during the time the repeal is effective and the time the legislature passed a new murder statute, a murderer could be charged only with assault.

"I live in constant fear something like that'll happen, and it's gonna happen some day," he says. The volume of legislation and the restriction of 140 days for legislative business every two years creates this danger, he says. That's why he has six people who do nothing but read bills looking for such errors.

He said the representatives "lean on me all the time," particularly on the matter of drafting their bills in a hurry. This is one of the areas where a member is at the mercy of Johnson's decision.

"They'll say, 'I've got a press conference next Monday,'" he said. "So we try to accommodate them on something like that."

That puts the bill ahead of others, and that draws arrows from those forced to wait longer.

But it's his parliamentarian role that makes him a star.

Several times each session, usually in the final weeks, Johnson makes a ruling that in effect kills a bill. Sometimes the parliamentary question is close, and he admits a prejudiced person sitting in that chair could abuse the power and still give a logical explanation for the ruling.

Once, a controversial bill failed to win enough support in committee even for a minority report. The rules say it takes a two-thirds vote on the floor of the House to bring up such a bill for debate.

Sometimes, when the problem is really knotty, Johnson and the speaker retire to the speaker's office for as long as 45 minutes, then emerge with a decision on a point of order.

They need that much time, Johnson says, to read the legislation closely and to consult two multi-volume collections of congressional precedents. Johnson often has to "bite my tongue" when representatives violate the rules. If nobody notices and objects, Johnson cannot make a ruling.

Each session, there are perhaps 50 major pieces of legislation that everybody knows about. It's the other 3,000 bills that worry Johnson, because only a few supporters or opponents — and Johnson — know what those bills contain.

One headache he no longer has is memorial resolutions. The House used to grind out hundreds of those each session.

One representative from San Antonio used to come into Johnson's office each Monday morning with the obituary column from a San Antonio newspaper. He ordered a legislative memorial resolution for each name.

It sounds like a good political idea. The deceased's relatives presumably would be grateful. But that representative was defeated.

Johnson quotes the late Sen. Red Berry of San Antonio as saying of that practice, "It just proves dead folks don't vote in San Antonio."

Frequently, the speaker has to talk with someone behind the podium, and Johnson must feed him, sentence by sentence, a ruling on a point of order that the speaker is ignorant about.

The speaker says a couple of sentences, then pauses to listen to Johnson. Some lean on him more than others. One of those was Gus Mutscher. Johnson came to be known as "Mutscher's ventriloquist."

WHO WILL BELIEVE OUR REPORT?
By Herbert F. Smith, S.J.

They were little people, and powerless, and inconvenient to have around according to current ideology. So they took them and by the tens of thousands and by the millions, and with no explanation burned their bodies. Buchenwald? Auschwitz? Yes and No.

They were innocent, but they were also powerless and inconvenient, so that were "liquidated" by various means and then their bodies were burned. But some were used in more "humanitarian" ways: They were taken alive and naked and forcedly used as human guinea pigs—things were done to them that you (we hope) wouldn't do to a pig. German concentration camps? Yes, but also No.

For, you see, they were killed in many ways. They were not merely herded together naked and gassed. They were attacked one by one, these millions of whom we speak, and killed. Some were deprived of all aid and left to die naked and exposed on sterile tables. Some were submerged alive in salt solution that burned eyes and mouth and lungs and burned off the outer layer of skin in a fiery death. Many others—usually the smallest—were cut and torn into a hundred pieces all mangled and mingled together—arms and legs, eyes and brains—in a dough of recognizable human parts. However they died, they were thrown into incinerators. But on occasion they were just put in plastic bags and thrown in the local dump.

How could this go on even Nazi Germany, you ask? Oh, but now we are not talking about Nazi Germany. We are talking about Little People, U.S.A. We are talking about the babies aborted—millions of them so far—by doctors without Hippocratic oath, by the methods just described.

How could they let it go on? You asked yourself that about the people of Nazi Germany. Now ask yourself that about yourself. How in God's Name do you let it go on? Have you lifted a finger against it? Or have you secretly adopted the ideology which produces it? Not racial supremacy now, but the supremacy of the born over the unborn. The new ideology has names too: Z.P.G. (Zero Population Growth), or Self-Fulfillment, or Medical Profitmaking in Death Traffic. Does it sound as sick as Nazi Super-racism? That's because it is. And it is here. The sickness is yours, American!

POSTSCRIPT: There was a complaint. It was against throwing their bodies in the local dump. The law stepped in. It set aside the offer to give the little bodies Christian burial, while it considered the legality of throwing even their bodies into dumps—though since they have no legal right to their own bodies, it's hard to find anything "illegal" about it. It all has to be legal, you see. As in Hitler's Nazi Germany. So now the crematoriums are probably used more extensively, thanks to the justice of the law. Cheap fertilizer, anyone?

Federal action cracks consumer carton conspiracy

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conspirators who fixed prices of folding cartons containing such everyday consumer products as toothpaste, toys and TV dinners are variously learning about jail, paying fines and slugging it out in court with claimants seeking millions in damages. It's not known how much the years-long conspiracy cost the buying public, but some estimates put the figure into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

lawyers who brought the massive criminal action say they have no doubts that inflated carton costs were passed along by soapmakers, food processors and other users of the billions of familiar containers. A look around your home at the number of products from pills to pet food that come in cartons should illustrate how, even at only a fraction of a cent per item, the overall cost could mount. Hundreds of pages of notes carefully handwritten and kept at home by Roman Hencel, a midlevel employe of Weyerhaeuser Corp., are a centerpiece of the government's evidence. The memos recorded calls and meetings in which carton manufacturers variously exchanged prices, agreed to support price increases, and arranged to submit seemingly competing bids actually designed to preserve business for a particular company. Hencel, now retired, was in the early 1970s an administrative assistant to Lowell Phillips, head of Weyerhaeuser's folding carton division.

He started prosecutors by carting in his treasure trove of unexpected details in response to a routine subpoena within 16 days of the end of an 18-month grand jury investigation of the industry. Twenty-three corporations doing 70 per cent of the business in the $1.7 billion-a-year folding carton industry were indicted along with 50 of their executives. That dollar volume does not include other packaging such as corrugated shipping cartons, which is considered a separate industry. Measured by number of defendants, it was the largest antitrust case since the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, and one of the government's most noteworthy price-fixing prosecutions since the electrical industry case of the early 1960s. One of the smaller corporate defendants was convicted earlier this year on the conspiracy charge brought under the Sherman Antitrust Act. The other 22 pleaded no-contest — meaning they didn't admit the charges, but otherwise suffered the same result as if they had pleaded guilty.

Forty-eight of the executives also pleaded no-contest. The other two were acquitted at trial by a jury when the government could not show beyond a reasonable doubt that the two knew of and ordered price-fixing by lower-level employes. Fifteen of the executives originally were sentenced to jail terms ranging from 5 to 60 days in jail. But U.S. District Judge James B. Parsons in Chicago reduced those sentences last month to from one to 15 days. All the executives and corporate defendants were fined varying amounts up to $50,000, and some of the executives not given jail sentences were put on probation. R. Harper Brown, chairman of Container Corp. of America, was the most severely sentenced individual in the conspiracy, drawing a $35,000 fine and a 60-day jail term, later reduced to 15 days with release from confinement during working hours. While the brief terms for Brown and the others sentenced to jail began Feb. 28, the case continues in other respects. —The government is seeking an unspecified amount of damages for higher cost it may have paid due to the price fix. —At last count more than 70 commercial buyers of cartons were claiming treble damages in amounts as yet unkind of agreement where, typically, the parties in essence say: "I didn't do it, and furthermore, I won't do it again."

Ringing the bell

With BOB TIEUEL

Purely Personal—During the past several weeks, we have been on the road constantly: Big Spring, Childress, Vernon, Stamford, Wichita Falls, Seymour and in Oklahoma at Lawton, Oklahoma City, Shawnee, Seminole, Boley, Prague, Holdenville, Tulsa and back to Hobbs, N.M. As we do this column, we are en route to Dallas, then back to Midland-Odessa over the weekend.

This fact of our recent travels reminds some of our bellringers we are sure when we did this column from a park bench in Kansas City or a seat along Lakeshore Drive in Chicago. It was fun then and of course much younger. And while we don't travel as far as our previous transcontinental flights took us, we always take heart pulling the chains on the old bell and keeping bellringers informed of "what's happening" in one man's black experience.

Some of my readers will remember my fellow Okie: The late Will Rogers who once said in effect: "If you haven't been a black man on Saturday night you have missed a lot of fun in your life." How right Mr. Will was!

Midland's 1977 building permit value soars to $8 million mark

Building permit valuations came to $503,150 last week on 29 permits issued.

Since the start of the year, 257 building permits have been issued by Midland Inspections Department for a total building value of $8,173,100.

Unlike most permits issued this year, the week of March 7 had a relatively high building value in commercial and residential renovations and a rather low new residential and commercial building value.

The largest single building permit value was for $92,000, which was issued to Midland National Bank for commercial renovations to its office at 500 W. Texas Ave.

Eight permits for new residences were issued for a total value of $292,400.

These were issued to Russell Miller for $39,000, 3335 Cimarron Drive; E. C. Stangle for $46,000, 3512 Gulf Ave.; T. J. Melton III for $36,000, 717 Melton Alley; T. J. Melton III for $36,000, 719 Melton Alley; T. J. Melton III for $36,000, 721 Melton Alley; T. J. Melton III for $36,000, 723 Melton Alley; BJC Construction for $32,400, 4707 Brookdale Drive, and BJC Construction for $31,000, 4708 Brookdale Drive.

Two permits for new commercial construction were issued for a total value of $23,000.

These were issued to Citizens Savings and Loan Association for $10,000, sign at 19 Oak Ridge Square, and J. C. Carter for $13,000, warehouse at 103 S. Dallas St.

Seventeen permits for residential renovations were issued for a total value of $75,750.

These were issued to James Wright for $1,000, enclose carport at 1304 S. Marshall St.; Paul Neill for $3,000, enclose patio at 3520 W. Michigan Ave.; Leroy H. Platt Jr. for $2,000, repair living quarters at 828 N. Baird St.; Kenneth Briston for $3,000, enclose patio at 4307 Bedford Drive; Ross Freeman for $10,000, add room at 2408 Shandon Ave.; Elfa Olgin for $1,500, add floor area at 915 N. Dallas St.; Robert Houser for $6,000, enclose patio at 3202 North I St.; Keith Graham for $1,500, interior work at 1114 Mogford St.; Michael Myers for $22,400, add new roof at 300 S. Bentwood Drive; L. M. Johnson for $1,000, add room at 1308 Walnut Lane; John Stanley for $200, add storage shed at 2312 Humble Ave.; Watson Laforce for $4,000, add patio covers at 2001 Shell Ave.; Melzie Chatham for $1,200, add room at 2817 Franklin Ave.; N. B. Beauchamp for $8,500, repair damage at 306 E. Pennsylvania Ave.; L. A. Vaden for $6,000, enclose garage at 3201 W. Louisiana Ave.; Floyd Hall for $450, add patio cover at 1307 W. Kentucky Ave., and Joe Clark for $4,000, add fireplace and remodel kitchen at 2208 Western Drive.

Two permits for commercial renovations were issued for a total value of $112,000.

These were issued to Leo Proctor for $20,000, add office area at 5003 Andrews Highway, and Midland National Bank for $92,000, add square footage at 500 W. Texas Ave.

Permit filings top pace set last year

Buildings permits for the first two months of 1977 are running nearly $1.5 million more in building valuations compared to the first two months of 1976, Midland's inspections department reported.

The department said 225 permits have been issued in January and February on valuations totaling $7,041,800. Nearly all of the permits were for new residential and commercial construction and alterations and repairs to buildings.

Although building permit valuations are up substantially, the actual number of building permits has decreased. There were 224 permits issued during January and February 1977, which was 34 fewer than 1976. Last year was a record setter when nearly $60 million in building valuations were reached.

Last month the inspections department performed 210 building inspections, 339 plumbing inspections, 256 electrical inspections and 184 inspections to determine zoning ordinance compliance. Except for building inspections, the department made fewer of the other three major kinds of inspections than in 1976.

The department collected $26,122 from various fees last month, including $3,849 from issuances of building permits.

Business communities suffer insulin shock

By RHONDA SEEGAL

NEW YORK (AP) — The proposed government ban of saccharin, the sugar substitute used by dieters and diabetics for years, has sent a shock wave through the business and scientific communities.

Both groups reacted this past week by asking the same question: How valid are tests using massive doses of said. "I know the congressman feels the same way now about it as he did in 1958."

In other business news developments this week:

—Gulf & Western, the largest stockholder in Madison Square Garden Corp., offered to buy the New York City sports complex for $29 million.

On Tuesday, the Madison Square Garden board approved the offer of $10 per share for the remaining 2.9 million shares. The action negated a waiting period required under similar state laws in New York and Michigan, where the Garden was incorporated, and Gulf & Western said the tender offer would soon be mailed to shareholders.

—International Business Machines Corp., after extending its offer to buy back at least 4 million of its own shares at $280 each, said it received 2,546 million shares.

The offer, the largest of its kind ever made, originally ended at 5 p.m. EST Monday but was extended until Wednesday.

—Retail sales rebounded 1.8 per cent in February from weather-depressed levels the month before to a seasonally adjusted $57.57 billion. But the cold also helped boost February's wholesale prices at an adjusted 10.8 per cent annual pace.

a substance to produce cancer in laboratory rats?

In announcing the proposed ban, the Food and Drug Administration cited Canadian tests that showed large amounts of saccharin fed to rats produced cancer in some animals.

"The practice has been to administer the highest possible dose to the animal without killing it," said food scientist Dr. Bernard L. Oser, the researcher whose laboratory test results led to the government's ban of cyclamates in 1969.

"It is a rather absurd situation — atypical and unrepresentative of conditions you'd have with humans," Oser said. "It's almost like banning driving in the city streets because if you drive at 150 miles per hour on the highway you have a higher accident rate."

Industry spokesmen echoed his complaint. To match the amounts of saccharin used in the Canadian tests a person would have to:

—Consume 4,000 packets of Sweet 'n Low a day, said officials at Cumberland Packing Corp., which makes the popular low-calorie sweetener.

—Drink 800 12-ounce bottles of diet soda daily over a human lifetime, a Coca-Cola spokesman said.

The so-called "Delaney clause" of the food additive amendments to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, says the FDA must ban any food additive found to cause cancer in either humans or animals.

The clause is named after Rep. James J. Delaney, D-N.Y., and an aide

Poll reveals public wary of big business

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — The public is more suspicious of big business than it has been in a generation, and is more inclined to want government to control it, says an official of the Gallup organization.

They are most concerned with misleading advertising and other practices they consider cheating of customers, according to Leonard Wood, executive vice president of the public opinion polling firm.

Wood disclosed results Friday night of a series of polls over a decade showing increased suspicion of big government and big labor. He appeared at a Bentley College conference on business ethics.

Another panelist, Mercedes Bates, General Mills consumer vice president, agreed with Wood's findings that the public sees business as being more unethical.

"If we're honest," she said, "business executives must agree that the consumer movement could not have grown to its size today without mistakes, and, in some instances, really unethical practices on the part of business."

She suggested businessmen do "more listening to consumer concerns."

According to Wood, 23 per cent of persons polled last January agreed that big business constituted a major threat in the future, compared with 12 per cent who agreed with the same statement in 1968.

He said big government, listed by 46 per cent of those polled in 1968 as being a major threat, was listed by only 39 per cent this year. Big labor remained the same at 26 per cent. Others were undecided. When the question was asked in 1959, 15 per cent considered business the greatest danger.

Wood said he had no idea if the increase in suspicion of business and decrease in the attitude toward government was linked with the start of the administration of President Carter.

BUSINESS NOTEBOOK

House bill designed to help businessman

By BILL KIDD
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — An overhaul of the 1975 Small Business Assistance Act, with increased involvement by the Industrial Commission in helping small businesses, is proposed in Dallas Rep. Sam Hudson's HB 1000.

The act passed in 1975 provides for each State agency to "attempt to" award 10 per cent of all purchases for supplies and services to small businesses. Hudson's revision would mandate that amount.

"Small business," as defined in the act, is one which has fewer than 100 employees or less than the $1,000,000 in annual gross receipts.

That same act also provides for establishment of an Advisory Council on Small Business Assistance.

Under Hudson's bill, an agency which can't meet the 10 per cent requirement would be allowed to file a statement with the Board of Control explaining why it could not meet the 10 per cent requirement.

The Board of Control, chief purchasing agent for the State, would reduce or waive the requirement if it found the needed supplies or services could not be purchased from small businesses, or if the cost were more than five per cent greater than for the same materials from larger firms.

The bill also calls on the Industrial Commission to "cooperate with those agencies of the United States Government whose programs are complementary to the objectives and purposes of this Act" and to adopt rules and regulations "to secure to this state and its citizens all advantages available under Federal programs."

Moreover, the commission would conduct public hearings to determine the effectiveness of the act—and would make a written report by Dec. 1 of each year to the governor and members of the Legislature on the act, and on ways to improve it.

Other business proposals recently filed in the Legislature include the following:

—HB 1087, Pike Powers, Beaumont, misuse of rental linens, clothes, etc., bearing an ownership identification mark.

—HB 1216, Tony Polumbo, Houston, creation of international trade development offices.

—HB 1338, Ron Waters, Houston, protecting an artist's property interest in art works on consignment to a gallery which becomes bankrupt.

—HB 1393, Joe Allen, Baytown, deceptive trade practices and consumer protection.

—HB 1418, Paul Ragsdale, Dallas, aid to small and minority businesses.

—HB 1440, Sam Hudson, Dallas, requiring television sets to have a filter to keep out interference from citizen band radios.

—SB 757, Chet Brooks, Pasadena, creating a foreign trade zone in Houston.

—SB 809, Lloyd Doggett, Austin, consumers' remedies for breach of warranties.

Meanwhile, there appears to be a growing effort to halt one measure which already has moved halfway through the legislative process.

SB 400, Doggett, banning monopolies and various practices in restraint of trade, was amended in action on the Senate floor to make illegal participation in a boycott such as has been sought by Arab states against Israel.

That provision may result in the loss of considerable trade to Texas firms—and thus to the loss of manufacturing jobs in Texas, critics say.

Therefore, opponents are working to have the bill amended—or stuffed into subcommittee—on the House side.

If efforts there fail, they say, then they'll ask Gov. Dolph Briscoe to veto the measure.

It may not take that, however, if organized labor can be convinced to join business interests opposing measure—which could, it's believed, also be applied to such groups as longshoremen who refuse to load or unload vessels belonging to, or bound for particular countries.

Secretary honored

Marie Fearrington, secretary of Frank Stubbeman of the law firm of Stubbeman, McRae, Sealy, Laughlin & Browder in Midland, has completed 40 years service with the firm.

She was honored last Wednesday with a luncheon at the Midland Country Club.

Top award presented

LaRay Huddleston has been honored as the Kelly Services employe who turned in the "Most Outstanding Performance" during 1976.

She was among several Kelly employes honored at the Kelly Girl Awards Brunch Saturday in the Midland Hilton.

Pamela Reece received an award for being the employe working the most hours and on the longest assignment of 1976.

Other employes honored are Patricia Fisher, Vicki Lowder, Ann Pfister, Glenda Rashall, Anita Merriman, Marylee Tyler, Cynthia Dunbar, Johnny Harvey, Doris Belden, Janet Belden and Elizabeth Turner.

AIMS tests scheduled

Junior High and high school students, as well as adults, will have an opportunity to take tests from Aptitude Inventory Measurement Service (AIMS) personnel March 25-27.

A number of opening still remain for persons wishing to use the service. The Dallas-based firm of aptitude consultants conducts testing programs monthly at Midland College.

DAVID NARBAEZ has been named staff manager for the National Life and Accident Insurance Co.'s Midland-Odessa District office. He is a resident of Odessa.

New book available

HOBBS, N. M. — The first definitive history of the High Plains of West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico is now available in a book titled "Lea, New Mexico's Last Frontier," which is published by the Hobbs Daily News-Sun.

The 328-page book tells of how cattle and oil barons and others helped shape this once inhospitable land into one of the nation's wealthiest areas.

Lea County, N. M., was one of the most impenetrable areas in the High Plains. As late as 1930 the county remained devoid of paved roads, telegraph lines, a railroad or a daily newspaper.

The book is available from the newspaper for $5.

Session completed

Sarah Carter, vice president in the Installment Loan Division of The Midland National Bank, was graduated recently from the National Installment Credit School at Norman, Okla.

The two-week resident session at the University of Oklahoma is sponsored by the Installment Lending Division of the American Bankers Association.

Mrs. Carter was one of only two women from Texas and 22 in the nation among the 250 bank officers involved in the lectures, casework and seminar discussions.

She joined MNB in 1951 and in 1973 was elected assistant cashier. She was promoted to vice president in 1976.

Handbook published

LAMESA — Results from 15 agricultural demonstrations in Dawson County are reviewed in a handbook which is being mailed to every farmer in the county.

The book also includes information on maturity range of cotton varieties, the safe use of agricultural chemicals and herbicides and insects and diseases.

Additional copies of the 1976 "Result Demonstration Handbook for Dawson County" are available in the county extension office, county extension agent Joe E. Wise said.

Woman, 40, confirmed as California justice

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rose Elizabeth Bird, a lawyer who has never before been a judge, has survived controversy over her qualifications to become the first woman to preside over California's Supreme Court.

Ms. Bird, 40, was confirmed Friday on a 2-1 vote by the state's Commission on Judicial Appointments after two days of hearings.

On Monday the panel, made up of state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, Acting Chief Justice Mathew Tobriner and state Appellate Justice Parker Wood, had unanimously approved Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s appointment of Alameda County Superior Court Judge Wiley Manuel as associate justice. He is the court's first black associate justice.

But before Friday's decision, Wood had made it known he opposed Ms. Bird's nomination and Tobriner had indicated support, leaving Younger as the swing vote. Eventually, Younger cut Friday's hearing short and announced he planned "reluctantly" to vote in favor.

Ms. Bird shrugged off the controversy by calling it part of the "process" and "probably healthy for our political system."

Brown, who came under criticism from conservatives for the appointment, said Ms. Bird will make "a very great chief justice." She has served for 26 months as head of the state's 40,000-employee Agriculture and Services Agency and is credited with designing Brown's landmark farm labor legislation. She also used to work in the Santa Clara County public defender's office.

Critics had accused Ms. Bird of being vindictive and cited her lack of experience on the bench. They said she had spent most of her legal career on the side of the defendant and would have a hard time understanding the problems of the prosecution and the victim.

Ms. Bird's proponents called her a skilled administrator with a keen sense of the law.

Ms. Bird herself, now the second woman in the nation's history to be chief justice of a state supreme court, cited her administrative experience, her legal background, and the fact that she was a clerk to the Nevada Supreme Court.

Columnist gives views on energy to adviser

By CLYDE LA MOTTE
Reporter-Telegram
Washington Oil Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The following open letter to James R. Schlesinger, assistant to the President on energy, was written by energy columnist Clyde La Motte.

"I appreciated your letter to me and to other Americans asking for our views on the nation's energy problem and our suggestions for solving it."

"I appreciate it because it indicates government leaders are aware that we Americans like to shape our own destiny and do not wish to march in lock-step to orders from faceless bureaucrats."

"It indicates, too, some understanding in Washington, D.C., that without the support of the people, any program you devise will fail. By the same token, this nation has proved repeatedly that when a majority of us resolve to accomplish something, we have a tremendous record of achievement."

"If, in the months ahead, the Carter Administration succeeds in getting Americans to thinking about the nation's energy needs and the tremendous dependence we all have on adequate, safe supplies of energy fuels, you will have accomplished a big step: An awareness that we must do something about the problem. For too long we have dawdled or bickered or blamed, and none of this has helped player who hits the most home runs, the doctor who provides us with a vaccine against polio, or the inventor who creates the best mousetrap."

"We should apply that same approach to our domestic energy producers and energy conservationists. There can and should be safeguards against abuses, of course, but there should be incentive, encouragement and recognition for jobs well done."

"We (average citizens) realize that we will benefit most from an approach that provides us with adequate energy sources over which this nation has control. If we can succeed in making progress toward that goal, the need for price controls, for allocations, for rationing and all the other dreary aspects related to doling out scarce supplies will disappear."

"President Carter has said that we must be prepared to make sacrifices. We are willing to do so, provided we have reason to believe that such sacrifices will produce desirable results."

"We want and need a better energy mousetrap, and we are willing to do what is necessary to obtain one. Let us get on with it."

J. C. Nichols

Long tour observed

J. C. Nichols of Midland, senior clerk for Shell Oil Co. in its Midland Operations office, has received an award for 25 years of service with the company.

He started his Shell career in 1950 as an employee in the Shell garage here.

After a break in service, he resumed his Shell work in 1952 at the same location.

He was promoted to clerk in 1968 and senior clerk in 1971.

His present duties consist of handling office supplies and furniture, pool fleet vehicles and record storage in the Purchasing and General Services Section.

He holds a B.A. degree from Huston-Tillotson College in Austin.

Chevron asks permit

AUSTIN — Chevron USA Inc. has submitted an application for a surface mining and reclamation permit for its proposed Panna Maria uranium project in Karnes County.

Six miles northwest of Karnes City and three miles northwest of Panna Maria, the uranium ore open-pit mining operation is due to begin production later this year, with 700,000 tons of ore per year due to be produced from the 400 to 500 acres of mine area.

Mining is due to cease by 1986 the Chevron application revealed, with all reclamation work due to be completed by 1986.

Analysis talk slated

The Permian Basin Well Logging Society will meet at 11:25 a. m. Thursday at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Delton A. Wilson of Richardson, with Sun's Computer Log Analysis Section, will speak on "Computer Log Analysis and Core Analysis Equals Improved Formation Evaluation in West Howard-Glasscock Unit."

The presentation, co-authored by W. M. Hensel Jr., concerns new well evaluation from logs using a special computer program supported by special core-derived parameters.

Hensel is supervisor of the Reservoir Engineering Section at the Production Services Laboratory in Richardson.

Wilson is a graduate of Texas Tech University where he earned a degree in Electrical Engineering. He worked 18 years for Schlumberger in the Permian Basin.

He left Schlumberger to go into a private retail business in 1970 but returned to fulltime log analysis in 1974.

Hensel attended Dallas College of Southern Methodist University. He joined Sun in 1951 and was manager of the Core Analysis at Sun's Production Services Laboratory from 1955 to 1973.

Mike Faris appointed

FINDLAY, Ohio — D. J. "Mike" Faris Jr. has been appointed manager of the Eastern Division of Marathon Pipe Line Co., effective April 1.

Faris is coordinating manager, Western Hemisphere, in Marathon's international production organization. He succeeds James H. Brannigan who has been elected vice president-Corporate Planning and assistant to the president.

Meeting scheduled

The Petroleum Accountants Society of Midland will hold its next meeting Wednesday at Ranchland Hill Country Club.

Kenneth V. Terrell, operations manager of the Permian District for Atlantic Richfield Co., will be the speaker.

A slide presentation of the Northern Slope and Alaska Pipeline will make up his program.

The event will begin at 6 p. m. with dinner. The program will start at 7.

Contractors working 287 PB rotary rigs

Reed Drilling Equipment Friday reported 287 rotary rigs were making hole in the Permian Basin, a decrease of two from the previous week when 289 units were counted.

The Friday total, however, is 63 more than the 224 rigs working in the West Texas, Southeast New Mexico area at this time one year ago.

Pecos County was the Basin leader with 27 rigs drilling in the latest count.

Eddy County, N. M., was in second place with 25 units, followed closely by Lea County, N. M., with 24 units.

Ward and Winkler counties were the next most active areas reported with 12 rigs each.

Ector County had 11 rotaries working and Gaines, Hockley and Upton tied with 10 rigs each.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

provide realistic solutions. In fact, the situation has worsened. Its time for positive action.

"The big question is how we go about coping with this enormous problem. Basically, we have only three choices:

—Use less energy. Conservation, as you have suggested, is an absolute must.

—Produce more domestic energy supplies. That makes sense because we Americans do not want to live hand-to-mouth if we can avoid it, and we do not want to rely on the whims and fancies of some foreign people to decide our energy fate. We want to make that decision ourselves.

—Utilize a combination of conservation and a major effort to increase supplies. This seems most desirable because it is attacking the problem from each end.

"Frankly, Mr. Schlesinger, I was dismayed by the fact that while you put heavy emphasis on conservation in the message accompanying your letter, you made little mention concerning increasing domestic energy production. That smacks of running up the white flag on our own energy potential. Damn the torpedoes, Sir! We are not ready to surrender.

"We have vast areas to explore for oil and gas, offshore and onshore; we have tremendous deposits of coal and oil shale; we have the technology for synthetic fuels, and we have scientists with the potential for a breakthrough to new forms of energy. Let's get on with the job.

"If conservation and increased domestic production goals are to be met, some specific plans need to be drawn. I can not help you much on that point, nor can most Americans, because we do not know where or how to drill for oil, how to mine coal or how to build or operate a solar heating system or a synthetic fuels plant. We don't know how to do those things any more than we know how to cure cancer.

"It stands to reason, then, that the government should turn to the experts in those fields. Call in the petroleum people, tell them what we want done and ask them how to do it. Do the same for coal, for nuclear power and for ways and means of conserving energy.

"(In recent years the government has shied away from such people, relying instead on non-energy people to solve energy problems. By contrast, during World War II and the Korean War, industry experts were called to Washington and put to work — and they did the job.)

"An important step toward stimulating additional energy development would be the removal of shackles from our domestic energy industries. One obvious handicap they now face is artificial, unrealistic price regulation.

"Price ceilings may serve a useful purpose on some occasions, but never in our history have price ceilings increased the production of anything. Therefore, if we want to accelerate development of more energy resources we should remove or phase out quickly the ceilings on domestic natural gas and crude oil.

"It is ridiculous as well as unrealistic for us to pay more for foreign producers than we are paying our own. Such action is no more feasible than forcing our nation's workmen to take less wages than foreign workmen receive.

"There are means, such as an excess profits tax, to prevent the greedy from ripping off the consumer.

"Over-all, Mr. Schlesinger, a key to our past successes in any field has been our use of rewards, not force or punishment or governmental red tape.

"We reward the quarterback who can throw the best pass, the baseball

Gulf Energy presents awards to seven long-time employes

Gulf Energy and Minerals Co.-U.S. has announced the completion of long-service tours by seven employes in its Midland District.

J. H. Huggins Jr., purchasing director in the Midland District's comptroller office, completed 40 years with the company Feb. 16.

He joined Gulf in 1937 and has served as petroleum engineer, maintenance foreman, material buyer, district purchasing training supervisor and purchasing director. He is a resident of Midland.

O. L. Walker of Monahans, services supervisor in the Monahans area office of the comptroller district, also marked 40 years with the company. His anniversary date is Feb. 13. Walker began his career with Gulf in 1937 as a field clerk in the Seminole office.

He also has served as senior clerk, technical clerk, unit supervisor and payroll supervisor.

Another 40-year man is L. R. Martin of Iraan. He joined Gulf as a carpenter in the McElroy field of Crane County. He served his entire tenure in the McElroy and Crane areas as a lease pumper, roustabout and lease operator. His anniversary dates is Feb. 19.

C. E. Sikes of Kermit also has 40 years with Gulf. He started work for the company in 1937 as a lease pumper in the Kermit area.

He also has served as well tester, roustabout and connection man. He has spent his entire service with the company in the Kermit and Monahans areas.

R. L. Hawkins, a joint interest representative in the comptroller district, marked his 30th anniversary March 1.

Hawkins joined Gulf in 1947 at Fort Worth as a general clerk. He has also held the positions of senior clerk, accounting clerk and accounting unit supervisor.

In 1962, Hawkins spent time in Denmark on special assignment. He resides in Midland.

W. W. Walker of Odessa, a roustabout supervisor in the Goldsmith Area of the Production District, completed 30 years with Gulf Feb. 21.

He started his Gulf career in 1947 as a connection man in the Goldsmith Area where he has spent all of his Gulf time.

In addition to his present classification, Walker has been a roustabout and roustabout foreman.

D. M. Blair of Monahans, production supervisor in the Monahans Area, completed 30 years Feb. 28.

He joined Gulf as a roustabout in the Wickett Area. He has spent all of his time in the Wickett and Monahans areas serving as connection man, lease pumper and instrument man.

Record cold weather cuts into inventory

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Record demand during the blizzards of December and January cut sharply into domestic petroleum inventories.

Domestic supplies of crude oil and products dropped about 125 million barrels as demand for products moved above 20 million barrels a day the first time in history.

The Independent Petroleum Association of America estimates weather throughout the country for October-January was 30 per cent colder than the year earlier period and 22 per cent colder than normal.

The new edition of the associations monthly supply and demand outlook indicates inventories of crude and products dropped from 1,203,000,000 barrels to 1,079,000,000 between the end of October and the end of January.

Products demand meanwhile climbed from 17,066,000 barrels a day in October to 20,675,000 in January.

The average of 19,758,000 barrels a day for the three months ending Jan. 31 was 2,114,000 barrels or 12 per cent higher than the same year earlier months.

Heavy demand in November and December pushed overall 1976 requirements to a record level.

In November, the American Petroleum Institute estimated January-October demand at 16,847,000 barrels a day, an average well below the record level set in 1973.

The institute's 1976 estimate now is a record 17,400,000 barrels a day, with home heating oils exceeding 1975 by 9.2 per cent and heavy fuel oils 12.3 per cent higher.

After the Arab embargo of late 1973, domestic demand for petroleum products dropped to 16,653,000 barrels a day in 1974 and to 16,322,000 in 1975.

Domestic refineries increased their operations sharply this winter as inventories dropped and demand soared.

Compared with October crude runs that averaged 13,175,000 barrels a day, the industry processed an average of 13,847,000 in November, 14,095,000 in December, and 14,090,000 in January.

Imports of both crude and products also soared. Compared with a 12-month 1976 record average of 7,261,000 barrels a day, imports averaged 7,975,000 barrels daily in November, 8,175,000 in December, and 8,600,000 in January. The three-month average was 8,250,000 barrels a day.

The record levels for both imports and refinery operations have continued into March as the industry seeks to replenish inventories while preparing for heavy spring-summer gasoline demand.

Crude runs at refineries moved to a record 14,813,000 barrels the week ending Feb. 25 and continued to average 14,675,000 a week later.

Imports climbed to a record 10,085,000 barrels a day the last week in February and broke that with a 10,292,000 average the first week in March.

The independents report November-January demand for both home heating oil and heavy fuel oil was more than 22 per cent above the year earlier level. The requirements for heating oil were up 841,000 barrels a day, heavy fuel oil 615,000.

Compared with an earlier forecast, which the independents had based on normal weather, the heating oil demand was up 510,000 barrels a day or 12.4 per cent and heavy fuel oil was up 245,000 or 7.9 per cent. During the November-January period, home heating oil inventories dropped from 237,000,000 to 157,000,000 barrels.

Company gives cash

AUSTIN — Cities Service Co. has given $2,500 to The University of Texas at Austin to be used in the Petroleum Engineering Department.

Dr. Lorene L. Rogers, UT-Austin president, accepted the gift on behalf of the university.

E. F. Motter, engineering manager with the Southwest Region of Cities Service in Midland, and C. W. Burgess Jr., chief operations geologist with Cities Service Co. Energy Resources Group, Tulsa, Okla., made the check presentation.

David G. Griffin

NRM Elects D. G. Griffin

The board of directors of NRM Petroleum Corp. elected David G. Griffin president at the corporation's recent annual meeting in Dallas.

Griffin will continue to manage NRM's principal operating office in Midland, with responsibility for generating prospects for NRM's drilling budget.

The board also approved plans to significantly expand NRM's 1977 drilling activity in the Southwest and to step up its prospect acquisition program.

The company also has scheduled its first two public drilling programs, totaling $5,000,000, with an expected closing July 30.

Jerry P. Metz

J. P. Metz joins Saxon

Saxon Oil Co. has announced the addition of Jerry P. Metz to its Midland office staff as a geologist.

Metz is a native of St. John, Kan., and a graduate of Kansas State University with B.S. and M.S. degrees in Geology.

He is a member of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and the West Texas Geological Society.

Midland is the base of operations for all U.S. work conducted by Saxon.

The local Kelly Girl Office prepares to celebrate its 19th year in the Tall City during National Kelly Week. Martha Henderson, Kelly Supervisor, and Betty O. Simmon, Resident Branch Manager, invite you to join them in the festivities during the week of St. Patrick's Day.

Kelly Girl Services holds open house

The Irish had a great idea by celebrating March 17th as St. Patrick's Day and so does Kelly Services, Inc.

Throughout the United States and Canada, Kelly Services honors their more than 175,000 temporary-help employees with open house and other activities during the week of St. Patrick's Day. The local Kelly Office will celebrate its 19th year in Midland during National Kelly Week.

An Awards Brunch was held March 12th at the Midland Hilton Hotel. Special recognition was given to LaRay Huddleston for the most outstanding performance by a Kelly Girl employee and to Pamela Reese for the Kelly Girl employee working the longest assignment and the most hours in 1976.

Open house will be held all week, Monday through Friday, 8-5 at the Kelly Services office, located on the lower level of the Midland Hilton Hotel, Suite L 120. Activities will be highlighted Thursday, March 17th, 4-6 p.m. with a special party complete with champagne, Irish coffee and soft drinks, honoring all Kelly employees and Kelly customers.

Betty O. Simmon, Resident Branch Manager and Martha Henderson, Kelly Supervisor, invite you to join them in the festivities. There will be Irish pennies, Irish buttons, balloons and candy plus lots of Kelly cheer.

Marie Bennett Munson, in 1958, realized the need for a temporary help service in Midland and brought Kelly Services to our city. Since that time, Kelly Girl has contributed much to the economy of Midland by supplying customers with top guaranteed temporary help, and has afforded many people employment who could not work permanently, or were not interested in full time work.

Hammond promoted

Dean H. Hammond has been appointed district exploration manager-Central District, Onshore Division, for Aminol USA, Inc., in Midland.

Hammond joined the company in 1970 as a senior geophysicist and has had extensive experience in domestic and foreign geophysical interpretation.

After becoming division geophysicist, he was involved in geophysical interpretation of offshore Gulf Coast and onshore Canada and the Rocky Mountain region as well as the Permian Basin of West Texas and New Mexico.

He is a graduate of Colgate University with a B.S. degree in Geology.

Edwin G. Hays

Three Exxon employees retire

Exxon Co., U.S.A. has announced the retirements of three employees in its Midcontinent Production Division.

Edwin G. Hays of Midland, a staff engineer in the Drilling Organization, retired Feb. 1 after 30 years with the company. Homer W. Barnett of Midland, a bottom hole pressure operator in the Andrews District, left the company March 1 after 43 years of service.

William L. Jordan Jr. of Andrews also retired March 1. He was with the company 28 years and was an exploitation geologist in the Andrews District.

Hays joined Exxon in 1947 in South Texas. Engineering assignments with increasing responsibilities took him to Farmington, N. M., in 1956; to Midland in 1959, and to Denver, Colo., in 1973. In August of last year he was assigned in Midland following an assignment in South America with Esso Paraqueay, Inc.

He is a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME. He was graduated from Tulane University with a B.S. degree in electrical engineering. He and his family have moved to Littleton, Colo.

Barnett started his career with Exxon in 1934 as a roustabout in Penwell. He has held assignments in North Texas and area of the Gulf Coast, however, most of his 43 years with the company have been on drilling rig and production field assignments in West Texas. He moved to the Andrews District in 1964.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett are continuing to reside in Midland.

Jordan joined Exxon in 1949 in Houston and moved to Midland a short time later. He has served in surface geology assignments in the Four Corners area, San Juan Basin and Las Vegas-Raton Basin.

In 1953, a transfer brought him to West Texas, with a later move to Hobbs, N. M. In 1971, he was transferred to the Andrews District.

He is a member of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

The Jordans are making their retirement home in Andrews.

NAR names manager

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — G. Jack Fischer has been named general manager of the Oil and Gas Division of North American Royalties, Inc.

The company maintains an office in Midland, Tex.

Fischer was senior division development geologist for Texaco, Inc., in Houston before joining NAR.

A graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles, Fischer joined Texaco as an exploration geologist in 1955. Most of his career has been concerned with exploration and development in the Texas Gulf Coast and in East Texas.

Pool tabs R.C. Mauer

SAN ANGELO — Robert C. Mauer has been named director of manufacturing-San Angelo for Pool Co.

He is responsible for San Angelo manufacturing and maintenance operations of the Manufacturing Division. He is in charge of the construction and assembly of Pool land rigs, offshore rigs and associated auxiliary equipment for domestic and international service.

Mauer joined the Engineering Division of Pool Co. last September.

R. W. Bowdon

Bowdon elevated

R. W. Bowdon, divisions operation manager the last three years in Exxon Co., U.S.A.'s Midcontinent Production Division in Midland, has been named president of Exxon Gas System, Inc., in Houston.

Exxon Gas is a newly-formed Texas corporation with headquarters in Houston.

Bowdon is a 1952 graduate of Louisiana State University. The following year he received a B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering from Georgia Tech.

He joined Exxon's production department in South Louisiana operations soon after being graduated.

Following engineering assignments in the company's Houston headquarters and New Orleans offices, he transferred in 1965 to Exxon Corp. in New York City.

He returned to Exxon's East Texas Production Division at Houston as engineering manager in 1971 and two years later became manager of the Houston Production District. He moved to Midland in 1974.

Manager announced

Francis J. McDonald, president of MGF, said he has been appointed manager of M-G-F Drilling Co., Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of MGF Oil Corp. of Midland.

R. O. "Jack" Major, president and part owner of Simac, Inc., a company whose assets were acquired by MGF Oil in 1975. Since that time, McDonald has worked in MGF's Engineering Department as drilling engineer.

From 1967 to 1972, McDonald was manager of Tenneco's West Texas-Southeast New Mexico production operations. From 1972 to 1975, he worked for Chaparral Drilling Co. in Midland.

McDonald holds a B.S. degree in Engineering from Carnegie-Mellon University, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a B.A. degree from Baldwin-Wallace College, Cleveland, Ohio.

Utilities support Alcan Project

SEATTLE (AP) — Three of the Northwest's natural gas utilities have thrown their support behind the so-called Alcan Project to transport Alaska natural gas to the lower 48, while one utility said it still has some questions.

Wendell Satre, chief executive of Spokane-based Washington Water Power Co.; James Thorpe, president of Seattle's Washington Natural Gas Co., and officials of Portland's Northwest Natural Gas Co. said Friday they support the project. The plan is advocated by Northwest Pipeline Corp., the sole supplier of natural gas to Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

But O. Marshall Jones, president of Seattle-based Cascade Natural Gas Corp., said his utility "cannot add our endorsement of the Alcan route."

The Alcan route would follow the trans-Alaska oil pipeline to a point south of Fairbanks, then turn east to follow the route of the Alcan Highway through Alaska and Canada.

There are two other competing pipeline proposals.

Satre said the Alcan route's use of existing highways and utility corridors would minimize environmental damage and reduce the possibility of cost overruns and construction delays.

Thorpe said the Alcan route "offers the best opportunity to work out a long-range, orderly plan for new Alaskan supplies and continued deliveries of Canadian gas to our area."

Jones, though, said Cascade has "serious reservations on the content of the proposed Canadian-U.S. treaty" which would be necessary for the Alcan project.

"The treaty does have serious loopholes that we would like to see tightened up before lending support to either of the land pipeline proposals," Jones added.

The Arctic Gas Consortium advocates a route through the Canadian Mackenzie Delta south through Canada to the American Midwest. That route was picked as the best of the three by a Federal Power Commission administrative law judge.

El Paso-Alaska proposes a route paralleling the trans Alaska oil pipeline. Natural gas would be liquefied at Valdez, Alaska, and shipped to California. That route is favored by Alaska state officials and the Seattle Chamber of Commerce.

President Carter must choose one of the three routes to recommend to Congress.

John Keesey

Keesey promoted

John Keesey of Midland and Kerry D. Adams of Friendswood have been promoted to vice president posts by Sipes, Williamson & Aycock, Inc., a Midland and Houston-based consulting engineering firm.

Keesey joined the company in 1973 as a senior consulting engineer.

He is a 1962 graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.S. degree in Mechanical Engineering. He joined Amoco Production Co. as a field engineer and progressed through various assignments to engineering group supervisor.

Keesey has made studies of major reservoirs and secondary recovery projects and has performed hydrological studies in the Permian Basin area.

He is a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME and is the immediate past chairman of the organization's Permian Basin Section.

Keesey teaches an oil and gas property evaluation class at Midland College which is part of the college's Petroleum Technology Course.

Adams joined Sipes, Williamson & Aycock in 1974. He received a B.S. degree in Petroleum Engineering from The University of Texas at Austin in 1969.

He joined Amoco Production Co. and was responsible for field installation engineering projects, miscible CO2 flood installations and operations in numerous fields in East Texas and North Louisiana and reservoir analysis of the Goldsmith fields in West Texas. He received a masters degree in Industrial Engineering from the University of Houston in 1973.

Stephen W. Robnett

Robnett transfers

Stephen W. Robnett has resigned from the Northern Natural Gas Co., Gas Acquisitions Department in Midland to go with Seagull Pipeline Corp. in Houston.

Robnett is a graduate of Texas Tech University with a B.B.A. degree and has been a Midlander two years.

He is a gas contracts representative with Seagull.

Solar energy soon to be cheapest way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Solar energy will be the cheapest way to warm homes and heat water in many parts of the nation by 1980, a study prepared for a congressional committee concluded Saturday.

And the study said that solar heat will be economically more practical in colder northern portions of the United States before it is in the sun-belt states.

Prepared by a computer research team at the University of New Mexico and released by the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee, the study said that solar heating will be cheaper than either gas or oil by 1980 in Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Wisconsin, New York, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Vermont and Maine.

By 1985, it will be the cheapest form of home heating in Idaho, Utah, California, Colorado, Nebraska, New Mexico, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and Maryland, the study added.

The study assumed that Congress will act to remove federal price limits on natural gas, now the nation's cheapest fuel, and that both gas and oil prices will continue to rise with inflation.

It said that in more than half the states, solar heat is already cheaper for new homes than electric heat.

The study said that it now costs about $1,350 to install a solar space heating system in the average new home and about $4,200 to equip the average old home for solar heat.

The study results were based on a computer analysis of the various forms of heating and their associated fuel costs.

"Solar feasibility begins in the northern tier of states and with very few exceptions systematically moves southward," the study said.

It listed two main reasons: —Heating requirements in the South are less than in the North, so it will take longer for a solar heating system, with its high initial installation cost, to pay for itself, despite abundant amounts of sunshine in many southern areas.

—Conventional fuels are generally more expensive in the North than in the South, where they are produced. This will be especially true if Congress lifts the federal price limits that now apply to natural gas shipped in interstate pipelines, the study noted.

President Carter is expected to recommend some form of gas price deregulation in the energy plan he submits to Congress on April 20.

"If natural gas prices remain controlled near current levels, homeowners who can obtain natural gas will have no incentive to substitute solar energy which will invariably cost more," the study said.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., vice chairman of the joint committee, said the University of New Mexico analysis has "convinced me that the federal government should temporarily subsidize the installation of solar energy equipment in homes and offices."

E. W. King

E. W. King honored

American Trading and Production Corp.'s Oil and Gas Division recently honored E. Wayne King with a 25-year service award at a luncheon in the Ranchland Hill Country Club.

King, a resident of Winters, is a pumper in Runnels County. All of his tenure has been in that area. He joined ATAPCO in 1950 as a contract pumper and became a fulltime employee in 1952.

The award was presented by Douglas E. Masten of Midland, district manager.

"We're like rich people's children who don't understand the power of money, which is a kind of resource," he said.

Energy is a resource, too, according to Rabi. "We use an enormous amount of it," he said, "and we like it." And, he added, there's no reason we shouldn't as long as we know where we're going to get it.

Now a professor emeritus at Columbia, Rabi's eminence in scientific circles does not rest solely on his research. He was a staunch defender of the famed Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer in the 1950s when it was unpopular to do so.

Oppenheimer was head of the scientific program that developed the atomic bomb at Los Alamos, N.M., and was later discharged by the Atomic Energy Commission as a security risk.

Although Rabi supported the peaceful development of atomic energy, he also recognized its potential peril to the world. He noted the growing global arsenals of nuclear weapons and delivery systems. He likened the situation to a Western movie in which the hero and villain confront each other with drawn guns.

Atom's power best bet for new energy

Nuclear power presents the nation's best bet to solve at least its short-range energy problems, according to one of the country's most respected scientists.

"I think we've got to have nuclear power for the time being," Dr. I.I. Rabi, a Nobel Prize winner, insists.

Other sources of energy just won't meet the conditions imposed by the current energy crisis, he said in an interview. Coal is too dirty, he said, and solar energy too expensive, and thermonuclear fusion power may be too late.

Although atomic nuclear power would seem to be the answer, he said, it will never reach its potential "unless they let it."

What really is needed in the current crisis, he said, is a little common sense. Right now, he said, our energy needs are subject to the whims of a few people in the Middle East.

Second, he said, the energy problem

Dale E. Dawson

Midlander in new post

Dale E. Dawson of Midland has joined Mitchell Energy Corp. in Houston as vice president-Engineering and Evaluation.

In his new position, Dawson will be responsible for engineering studies in support of exploration and development programs, reserve studies and planning for secondary recovery projects.

Dawson joined Mitchell after more than 20 years with Texaco. He was engaged in secondary recovery and reserves activities with that company in Midland as assistant division engineer at the time he joined Mitchell.

Earlier, he had served in technical positions in Texaco's drilling and production operations, in reservoir engineering and in divisional budget forecasting.

Holland gets posts

HOUSTON — James R. Holland Jr. has been elected president and chief operating officer of Bud Adams Enterprises, Inc., and secretary of Ada Resources, Inc.

He also was elected to the board of directors of both companies.

Holland replaces K. S. Adams Jr., who will continue as chairman and chief executive officer of Bud Adams Enterprises and chairman and president of Ada Resources, Inc.

Texas Tech starts study of problems

LUBBOCK — Texas Tech University engineers, scientists and geologists have begun an interdisciplinary study of the engineering and mathematical problems involved in increasing production from known deposits of oil and natural gas.

Expenses of the study will be underwritten by a $1,500 grant from the Gulf Universities Research consortium executive committee.

The grant was awarded to Texas Tech, with mathematics Prof. Wayne T. Ford as principal investigator, to study the "complex fluid flow in porous media."

A seminar series will be conducted in relation to description, simulation and prediction in the field of increased oil recovery, Dr. Ford said.

Participating Texas Tech departments include Petroleum and Chemical Engineering, Chemistry, Mathematics and Geosciences, along with the U.S. Geological Survey, which has an office on campus.

The seminars will be held weekly and will feature Gulf Universities Research speakers and lecturers who are experts in their disciplines.

It is believed that this effort will contribute to a coordination of research efforts within the university and throughout the Gulf Coast region," Ford said.

The first seminar, held last week, concentrated on fluid and rock correlations led by Ford.

Other speakers scheduled include Darrell Vines of Electrical Engineering on analog-digital techniques Tuesday; D. C. Signor of the U.S. Geological Survey on clogging by colloidal suspensions, March 29, and E. P. Weeks of the survey on field determination of air permeability in un-saturated zones, April 4.

Other speakers whose dates have not been announced include Ben Caudle, petroleum engineering professor at The University of Texas at Austin, and Harry Parker of the Tech Department of Chemical Engineering.

Caudle will present displacement process, and Parker's session will be on polymers.

Wyoming wildcat hits gas

HOUSTON—C&K Petroleum, Inc. together with its Northwest Exploration Joint Venture associates announced completion of a wildcat gas discovery well in Sweetwater County, Wyoming, located approximately four miles north of the town of Fontenella. The Lincoln Road Unit No. 1 Well was drilled to a total depth of 16,050 feet and completed in the Frontier Sand through perforations from 9,777 feet to 9,681 feet with 25 perforations. On a seven-hour production test the well flowed at the rate of 4,320,000 cubic feet of gas per day on a one-fourth inch choke with flowing tubing pressure of 2,710 pounds per square inch and shut-in tubing pressure of 3,500 pounds per square inch.

The well is presently shut in pending construction of a fifteen mile pipeline to be completed this summer by Northwest Pipeline Company, the intended gas purchaser. The gas will be sold at rates established by the Federal Power Commission pursuant to Opinion Nos. 770 and 770-A. Under these opinions, a gas price of $1.44 per Mcf would be established. Because of legal proceedings challenging such rates, all revenues collected at rates established under Opinion Nos. 770 and 770-A are subject to a possible partial refund.

The Company has a 14.5% working interest in the well and in 3,840 acres in the immediate vicinity. In addition, the Company has a 25% working interest in 3,796 acres located near the well. It also has the right to earn a 7.25% working interest in an additional 3,262 acres within two miles of the well by paying 14.5% of the cost of drilling two wells on such acreage, and plans are being made to commence the first development well on such acreage in early April.

C&K Petroleum, Inc. is an independent oil and gas company whose stock is listed on the American Stock Exchange under the trading symbol, CHK.

William H. Flynt

W. H. Flynt joins firm

BJ-Hughes Inc. has announced the appointment of William H. Flynt to safety director of domestic operations.

Flynt will be headquartered in Midland. He is a graduate of Texas A&M University and was associated with The Orlloff Corp., Gulf Insurance Co. and Aetna Life & Casualty before joining BJ-Hughes.

Ted G. Ward Jr.

TAO adds T. G. Ward

A former member of the staff of Flag-Redfern Oil Co. has joined Texas American Oil Corp. as production superintendent.

He is Ted G. Ward Jr. who was with Hostetler Engineering, Inc., and Buckles & Hostetler, a predecessor company, at Monahans for 21 years.

He is a Petroleum Engineering graduate of the University of Oklahoma and a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME. He will continue to reside in Monahans.

SEPM sets meeting date

The Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists will meet at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday in the Midland Hilton.

Dr. Robert A. Morton, with the Bureau of Economic Geology at The University of Texas at Austin, will be the speaker.

His topic is "Surface and Shallow Subsurface Geology of the Texas Inter-Continental Shelf."

Hearing scheduled

AUSTIN — The Railroad Commission of Texas has scheduled an Oil and Gas Division hearing April 6 in Austin to consider the application of Texas Pacific Oil Co., Inc., for approval of a unitization agreement in the East Frankirk (Canyon sand) field of Stonewall County.

Texas Pacific also seeks commission approval to operate a secondary recovery program in the proposed unit.

The applicant, holder of 69.6 per cent of the working interest in the proposed unit, has advised the commission that 100 per cent of the working interests and 80 per cent of the royalty interests support the unit agreement.

Scenes note rough past

STONE BANK, Wis. (AP)—Joe Becker is trying to recreate an early American scene on his farm with roaming buffalo and a log cabin.

As for buffalo, he has 24 of them. Each buffalo, about two years old, now weighs about 1,000 pounds, about one-third its full-grown weight.

As for a log cabin, he discovered one in the area, bought it, dismantled it and hauled it to his farm.

Odessans get safety award

ODESSA—Employees of the District camp of Halliburton Services at Odessa recently rolled up a million consecutive miles in company vehicles without an accident, and they received a special award at a barbeque in Odessa last Thursday night.

Halliburton Services, a division of Halliburton Company, is a worldwide technical oil field services organization. The Odessa location is among the largest of its field districts.

D.D. "Don" Narrell, assistant division manager from Midland, presented the Million Mile Club plaque to the employees at an employee-spouse barbeque at the Odessa camp. W.C. "Dub" Arledge, Odessa district superintendent, accepted the award on behalf of the employees.

It was the 11th Million Mile Club award for the Odessa employee since they received their first one in April of 1956. Twice they continued their accident-free driving to complete the consecutive million miles. In September of 1962, they became one of only two field locations ever to earn a Three Million Mile award.

Other Halliburton men attending the award presentation were H.C. "Husten" Gray, division safety supervisor from Odessa, and Roland W. Gay, Halliburton manager of safety from Duncan, Okla.

Glenn S. Brant

G. S. Brant appointed

Glenn S. Brant has been appointed a vice president of Flag-Redfern Oil Co. in Midland, John J. Redfern Jr., president, announced.

Brant formerly was president of Pennant-Puma Oils, Ltd., of Calgary, a Canadian affiliate oil and gas company of Flag-Redfern which sold its Canadian interests in 1976.

He has been a director of Flag-Redfern since 1973. Brant, who has been associated with the oil and gas industry 26 years, received a degree in Petroleum Engineering from the University of Alberta. He joined Texaco Inc. in 1951.

He later became president of Devon-Palmer Oils and Prairie Oil Royalties, both Canadian independents in Calgary, and was a petroleum consultant before joining Pennant-Puma in 1969.

He is a past officer and director of the Independent Petroleum Association of Canada and is a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and the American Association of Petroleum Landmen.

Harold A. Halsey Jr.

Milestone reached

Harold A. Halsey Jr. of Midland, senior employe relation specialist in Exxon Company, U.S.A.'s Mid-continent Production Division, has completed 30 years of service with the company.

He began his career with Exxon in the Baytown Refinery. In 1955, he was promoted to safety engineer and transferred to the Gulf Coast Division in Houston. He moved to Midland in 1957 and in 1966 was named employe relations specialist.

A graduate of The University of Texas at Austin, he holds a B.B.A. degree in personnel management.

The Halsey family has contributed more than 300 years of service to Exxon. Besides his late father, who retired in Baytown in 1955 with almost 48 years service, his grandfather and great-grandfather and four uncles were associated with the company.

Compromise oil price accord seems remote

By J. P. SMITH
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — There is little possibility that Saudi Arabia and Iran will reach a compromise on the price of oil market by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries before July, State and Treasury Department officials said last week.

Government and oil industry analysts have been maintaining a close watch on international price and supply developments since the OPEC set new prices last December.

At that time Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates, which account for one-third of OPEC's total production, refused to increase prices more than 5 per cent while Iran and 10 other producers set a two-phase 15 per cent increase.

"There is no evidence that either the high or low-tier producers wish to reach an accommodation on prices — the possibility that a two-tier system could remain in effect beyond July exists," a State Department official said.

A senior Saudi official, Dr. Farouk Akhdar, said in an interview with The Washington Post that Saudi Arabia would not seek a compromise with Iran. "It is difficult to divorce price from political factors," Akhdar said.

Akhdar, who is Secretary General of the Royal Commission for the country's western provinces of Jubail and Yanbu, stressed that the Saudis have pursued a course of moderating OPEC prices. "Saudi Arabia," Akhdar said, "would never let the world economy suffer because of her decisions."

RRC sets 33-field review

AUSTIN — Members of the Railroad Commission of Texas has approved 33 oil fields whose reservoir performances will be reviewed for redetermination of the most efficient rate of oil, gas and water withdrawal.

The review will be made through a series of hearings, with the first session set for April 12 at commission headquarters in Austin. The session will involve the Greta (4,000-foot) field.

Plans of the commission call for one hearing per week, except for some of the larger fields which may require a longer period for receiving evidence.

The commission will require new and up-to-date engineering and geological evidence on which to redetermine the rate of production that will result in the maximum ultimate recovery of oil from each field, Commission Chairman Mack Wallace said.

In addition to Greta, the other 32 fields on the hearing slate are: Goldsmith, Anahuac, Reinecke, Oyster Bayou, Diamond-M (Canyon), Webster, Levelland, Tom O'Connor (5,500), Andector (Ellenburger), Thompson.

And, Block 31 (Devonian), Van, McElroy, Tom O'Connor (5,900), Cogdell, West Ranch (41-A), Salt Creek, Hastings West, Means, Hawkins, Anton-Irish, Fairway (James lime), Slaughter, West Ranch (Greta).

And, Wasson, Tom O'Connor (5,800), Seminole (San Andres), Neches (Woodbine), Kelly-Snyder, East Texas, Claytonville (Canyon lime) and Yates.

Dan L. Schilling

D. L. Schilling joins Bass

Dan L. Schilling has joined Bass Enterprises Production Co. as drilling engineer in the Midland Division office.

After receiving a B.S. degree in Civil Engineering from the University of Missouri in Rolla, Schilling served three years in the U.S. Army as mission accountable officer for the Combat Developments Experimentation Command.

Previous employment has been with Chevron Oil Co. as a drilling engineer in the Rocky Mountain area in both wildcat and development operations; as a production engineer in Colorado, Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota and most recently as construction engineer for producing facilities and wildcat locations in Wyoming.

W. R. Dowdy

Retirements announced

Texaco Inc. has announced the retirements of two men in the Producing Department-Central U.S., Midland Division.

W. Ralph Dowdy, senior landman in the Land Department, elected to take early retirement March 1 after 39 years with the company.

Vernon T. "Percy" Johnson of Sundown, production foreman, retired Feb. 1 after 43 years with Texaco.

Dowdy joined Texaco at Tulsa, Okla., in 1937 as a clerk.

Subsequently, he served as lease record clerk, title clerk, assistant chief clerk and leaseman at Tulsa. He was transferred to Wichita Kansas as a district landman. Then to Salem, Ill., and back to Tulsa before being promoted to chief landman with Texaco Exploration Co. in Calgary, Canada, in 1955.

He became senior landman in the Midland Division Land Department in 1964.

Five explorations, field projects, completions reported in West Texas

West Texas areas have gained five wildcat projects, five new test in field areas and three field area producers.

Fisher-Webb, Inc., of Abilene announced location for a 3,000-foot wildcat in Concho County.

It is No. 1 T. Doss, four miles south of Miller-view, 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 81, block 71, H&GN survey and six miles south of the Hartgrove multipay field. It also is one location northeast of a 3,168-foot failure.

IRION TEST
John L. Cox of Midland No. 2-H Miss Ella is scheduled as an 8,200-foot wildcat in Irion County, 15 miles northeast

Barnhart.
The location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 17, block 14, H&TC survey, abstract 363. Ground elevation is 2,690 feet.

The operation is two miles southeast of production in the Ela Sugg (Wolfcamp gas) field and 1/4 mile northwest of Cox No. 1-H Miss Ella, a project now testing through perforations from 7,490 to 7,494 feet.

RUNNELS AREA
Alabrook & Edwards Oil Co. of Dallas No. 1 Roy Tyree is to be drilled as a 4,350-foot wildcat in Runnels County, seven miles west of Hatchell.

Location has been staked 2,450 feet from north and 3,600 feet from east lines of Burgess G. Hall survey No. 437.

The drillsite is 200 feet south of the depleted Tyree (Goen) field.

RE-ENTRY TESTS
W. W. West of Midland announced plans to re-enter two wildcat failures in Runnels County.

He will clean out to 4,454 feet his No. 1 W. F. Minzenmayer, one location north of a depleted area of the Winters, West multipay field and six miles west of Winters.

West will clean the hole out to total depth. Location is 467 feet from north and 1,532 feet from west lines of section 58, block 63, T&TB survey.

The same operator will re-enter and deepen to 4,200 feet the former R. Ken Carpenter No. 1 A. N. Hoffman one mile north of Benoit.

The project originally was drilled to a total depth of 2,450 feet where it was abandoned. Location is 1,650 feet northwest of the Winnick

It will be operated by West as the No. 1-142 Annie Hoffman.

FIVE TESTS

Getty Oil Co. will re-enter and deepen five former Spraberry wells in Glasscock County to the Dean sand in the Calvin field area.

The projects are 11 miles southwest of Garden City.

No. 2-A J. A. Bigby, 1/4 miles northwest of Calvin (Dean) production, will deepen to 8,385 feet. Site is 1,980 feet from north and west lines of section 11, block 36, T-5-S, T&P survey.

No. 7-A N. R. Calverley one mile northeast of the field will be deepened to 8,435 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 3, block 36, T-5-S, T&P survey.

Getty No. 6-A N. R. Calverley, 1/4 mile northeast of production, will be drilled to 8,460 feet. It is 680 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 3, block 36, T-5-S, T&P survey.

Getty will re-enter No. 1-D TXL, 1 1/4 miles northeast of Dean production and deepen to 8,375 feet. Site is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 11, block 36, T-5-S, T&P survey.

Getty No. 2 Vera B. Neely, one mile north and slightly west of Dean production, will be deepened to 8,385 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 11, block 36, T-5-S, T&P survey.

SCHLEICHER
Venado Petroleum Corp. of Dallas spotted location for a 3,700-foot operation in Schleicher County, seven miles southeast of Eldorado.

It is No. 1 Mertz and others, 2,470 feet east of Venado No. 1 Stockton, opener and lone producer in the Venado (Wolfcamp gas) field.

Location for the new test is 1,000 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 7, block A, HE&WT survey.

The field opener was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 4,783,400 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 3,270 to 3,326 feet.

WELLS FINAL
HNG Oil Co. of Midland has announced potential tests on a pair of projects in the Sawyer (Canyon gas) field of Sutton County.

No. 1-47 Drake was completed for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1,050,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with a gas-liquid ratio of 125,000-1.

Production is from pay behind casing perforations from 5,767 to 5,770 feet. The zone had been fractured with 14,000 gallons.

Gravities of the condensate is 60.5 degrees.

Location is 4 1/2 miles northeast of other production, eight miles northeast of Sonora and 933 feet from north and west lines of section 47, block 9, TW&NG survey.

HNG No. 1-58 Fields, one mile north and slightly east of the field and four miles southeast of Sonora, was potential for a calculated, absolute open flow of 2,850,000 cubic feet of gas per day. Gas-liquid ratio was 146,000-1, and gravity of the condensate is 68 degrees.

The flow came from perforations in casing from 5,072 to 5,075 feet, from 5,214-17 feet and from 5,248 to 5,251 feet. The pay was fractured with 42,000 gallons.

Wellsite is 933 feet from south and 2,000 feet from west lines of section 58, block B, HE&WT survey.

OUTPOST SET
Wewoka Exploration Co. of Houston No. 2 Berger is to be drilled as an outpost to production in the Whitehead (Strawn gas) field of Sutton County, 16 miles west of section 11, block H, Sonora.

It is 4,108 feet south-west of production, 668 feet from south and 2,442 feet from west lines of section 11, block H, GC&SF survey, abstract 196.

It is scheduled for one foot from bottom. Ground elevation is 2,099 feet.

DIRT, SQUIRT & QUIRT

Nematodes, early weeds call for attention now

By CHARLES GREEN
Midland County
Extension Agent

The warm days of "false spring" this past week found farmers putting the finishing touches to land preparation activities in the West Texas areas. Some cotton producers are beginning to apply pre-emergence herbicides for weed control on cotton land. This activity will pick up in the coming weeks, and preplant application of irrigation water to cotton land will begin soon. A number of alfalfa producers are irrigating as the warm days have put alfalfa to greening.

Nematodes are a large family of microscopic worms that can cause considerable damage to home vegetable gardens. The root knot nematode is the most common, but other species are equally destructive. Nematodes feed on plant roots and generally cause plants to be unthrifty. Often nematode damage may produce symptoms that result from insects, root rot and low fertility.

Each of the different nematodes attacks plants in a different way. Some of the basic parasitic nematodes include the spiral, lance, dagger, ring, stubby root and lesion nematodes. The spiral nematode feeds on the outer part of the root. Tiny lesions result when enzymes are secreted into the outer cells of the root. Damage to roots is direct, and fungi can also invade the root system. The lance nematode acts much the same way as the spiral type by creating root injury and permitting secondary infections.

Stubby root nematodes feed on the tips of roots, causing small rootlets to form around plant stems. Additionally, the worms cause problems by transporting plant viruses.

The dagger variety includes some of the larger worms that are akin to the stubby root nematode in that they feed on root tip cells. However, roots damaged by dagger nematodes can be spread out while those damaged by the stubby root type rarely get one to two inches beyond the base of the plant stem. Dagger nematodes can also carry plant viruses.

Dead plant tissue and fungus infections on a plant are likely to be the work of the ring nematode. Symptoms are similar to damage by lance and spiral nematodes.

Massive destruction of roots can be the work of the lesion nematode. This worm buries itself within the root, feeds on plant cells, and leaves the root open to secondary fungal invasion. Large necrotic spots may appear on the damaged roots.

The root knot nematode produces perhaps the most visible symptom. Their feeding within the roots produces the characteristic galling or swelling of the root tissue. All these nematodes can be controlled with the fungicides Vapa M and DBCP. The key to effective use of these materials is to till the soil at least twice before applying the chemicals and waiting until the soil has warmed to at least 50 degrees. Details on control of the plant parasitic nematodes around the home and garden is available at the County Extension office.

A large dose of "preventive medicine" should be used when fighting weeds and grasses that invade the spring vegetable garden. The key is dealing with the problem early in the season. Herbicides may be used under certain conditions to control some weeds in some vegetable gardens in the home garden. But there is no herbicide that can be used on all vegetable crops that will control all weeds.

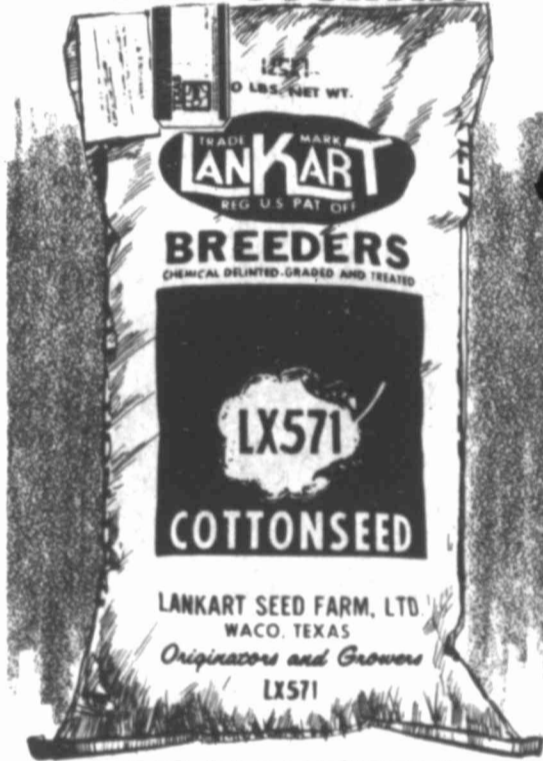

The use of herbicides in a home vegetable garden requires special planning and careful application. For most home gardeners who grow a number of vegetables on a small area, the use of herbicides is not practical.

When selecting a garden site, avoid areas covered with weeds such as bermuda grass, johnson grass and nutgrass. These weeds have hardy root systems and are resistant to chemical controls. A well prepared garden is the next deterring force against weeds. The soil should be well tilled and free of dirt clods, with as many weeds removed as possible.

THE BIG ONE FOR DRY COUNTRY

IT'S DEPENDABLE

Dependable yields of consistently high quality fiber even in drought years. That's what made LX 571 a long time favorite with farmers here about. And it's nice to know that you don't have to give up something else for drought resistance. Farmers appreciate the good gin turn-out of fairly long staple fiber which makes in the premium range under normal conditions.

At maturity you'll like the looks of LX 571's storm resistant bolls and at harvest you'll appreciate how well it strips one-time-over. LX 571 along with other Lankart varieties accounts for over 60% of the cotton planted in the Altus Classing Office territory and have for a number of years strong testimony from people who know how to grow cotton in this area. If you think this might be a dry year

CHECK THESE LX 571 CHARACTERISTICS:

- Good dryland cotton
- Good root system for drought resistance
- Top yields
- Good gin turn-out
- Medium early maturity
- Storm resistant bolls
- Excellent stripper variety
- Well-adapted to one-time-over harvesting
- Staple length in the 1" and longer range
- Micronaire in the premium range (under normal growing conditions)

CHECK THESE RESULTS:

Information from cotton variety comparisons made in 1976 in various locations in Texas and Oklahoma:

- Childress, Texas
On dryland without fertilization LX 571 (Lankart) made 667 pounds of lint per acre. The cotton which was machine harvested had a micronaire of 4.7, staple length of 30 and a gin turnout of 28.8 percent.
- Haskell, Texas
In a dryland cotton variety test, LX 571 produced 685 pounds of lint to top the test and beat the second variety in the test by 12 pounds per acre. The fiber graded 50, had a staple length of 32, micronaire of 5.4 and a gin turnout of 29.5 percent.
- Well, Texas
LX 571 also topped this test of eight varieties on non-irrigated land without fertilizer. It produced 544 pounds of lint with a staple length of 34, micronaire was 4.7, solidly in the premium range.
- Delhi, Oklahoma
Under extreme drought conditions and without irrigation, LX 571 made a lint yield of 250 pounds per acre. The cotton graded 40, had a staple length of 30/32, a micronaire of 5.2. The gin turnout was 28.8 percent.
- Cooperston, Oklahoma
In this test on the Kenneth Boyd farm, Lankart LX 571 produced 349 pounds per acre of very good cotton. It graded 50 with a staple length of 32/32, micronaire of 5.0 and had a gin turnout of 28.8 percent.

If you raise dryland cotton in this area where drought is a threat, go with LX 571 this year. You can get Lankart LX 571 from your gin.

Status report on farm, ranch legislation

22 attain 'A' awards

By ANDY WELCH
Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—Here is how major legislation affecting farmers and ranchers stands, as the Legislatures is now in its 10th week, and with the March 11 deadline for introduction of bills and proposed constitutional amendments past:

SB 625 by Sen. Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls, and its identical companion bill HB 1078 by Rep. Joe Hubenak of Rosenberg, would amend the Texas Grain Warehouse Act by raising the minimum and maximum bonding requirements from $10,000-$500,000 to $15,000-$750,000. The warehouseman must also give receipts within 30 days after deposit and must retain receipted grain records. The bill is still pending before the Senate Economic Development and House Agriculture and Livestock committees.

House resolution 34 by Rep. Bill Heatly of Paducah would create an interim House Agricultural Export Committee to study laws relating to agriculture and livestock and to determine if legislative action is needed to improve the wellbeing of farmers and ranchers. It would report to the legislature in January 1978. The resolution is yet to be heard by the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee.

TAX POLICIES

HB 1 by Rep. Joe Allen of Baytown has been passed by the House and is awaiting a hearing before the Senate Economic Development Committee. The legislation has generally been publicized for exempting residential utility bills from the state sales tax. HB 1 will increase inheritance tax exemptions from property passing to a husband, wife, son, daughter, parent, grandparent, grandchild, son-in-law or daughter-in-law from $25,000 per person to $200,000 per estate. Higher exemptions have long been sought by farm and ranch organizations, since land valuations have increased so drastically.

PROPERTY RIGHTS

SB 360 by Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan has been passed by the Senate and is before the House Committee on Energy Resources. SB 360, in part, would restrict the right of eminent domain to take land for drilling or mining any oil, gas, coal, as such power refers to utility interest. The bill is designed specifically to control the powers of eminent domain in the mining of East Texas lignite.

NATURAL GAS REGULATION
House Concurrent Resolution 17 by Reps. Jim Nowlin of San Antonio and Tom Craddock of Midland has been approved by the House Committee of Energy Resources, and must still be approved by the House before it is forwarded to the Senate. The resolution, which if passed would act as the official position of the legislature, asks Congress to begin immediately price deregulation of natural gas.

STATE GOVERNMENT

SB 54 by Sen. Lloyd Doggett has been approved by the Senate, and House Committees have begun debate on similar measures. SB 54 is a "Sunset Law" which provides that over 75 state regulatory agencies will be abolished at specific dates (all within six years) unless specifically continued by action of the Texas Legislature. Before the Senate passed the bill, it removed both the State Agriculture Department and the Railroad Commission from the "sunset" proposals, since both agencies are governed by elected officials.

FISH AND WILDLIFE

HB 8 by Rep. Fred Head of Athens has been passed by the House and met with some opposition by the Senate Resources Committee. Head's bill would allow the Parks and Wildlife Department to commission deputy game wardens who may enforce state fish and game laws. Large ranch owners, farmers and timber interest have said the deputy wardens will also help them deter trespassers.

Twenty-two Austin Freshman School students have been awarded academic letters for maintaining straight-A averages for the third quarter of eighth grade and first and second quarter of ninth grade.

Browder infant services held

ANDREWS — Services for Dustin Browder, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Toke Browder of Goldsmith, were Saturday in First Baptist Church in Goldsmith, with the Rev. Ross Anderson, pastor, officiating.

Burial was in Andrews Babyland Cemetery directed by Singleton Funeral Home.

The child was born Wednesday in Andrews and died Thursday afternoon in an Odessa hospital.

Survivors include the parents, a sister, Lori Browder of Goldsmith, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Browder of Big Lake, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gibson of Kermit and C. O. West of Gallup, N.M.

Midlander's sister dies

ODESSA — Services for Mrs. Beatrice Hammond Burks, 56, of Odessa, sister of Carol G. Berry of Midland, will be at 2 p.m. today in Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home with burial in Sunset Memorial Gardens.

Mrs. Burks died Thursday in an Odessa hospital after a brief illness.

She was born Aug. 23, 1920, in Foreman, Ark., and married Walter Burks.

Other survivors include the husband, another sister, three brothers and her mother.

Midlanders' mother dies

KONAWA, Okla. — Smithie Lee Eaglin Mann, 85, mother of Arthur Eaglin, Harold Eaglin and Marie Withrow, all of Midland, Texas died Saturday in Ada, Okla.

Services will be at 10:30 Monday in the Watts-Pickard-Schumacher Funeral Home here. Burial will be in Vamossa cemetery.

She was born May 23, 1891, in Tex-arkana, Texas, and married William Clarence Mann Sept. 18, 1916.

Other survivors include the husband; three other sons; two sisters; 23 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

A. L. Lorenz rites today

ANDREWS — Services for Antonio Lopez Lorenz, 35, will be at 3 p.m. today in Spanish Baptist Mission in Andrews with burial in Andrews Cemetery directed by Singleton Funeral Home.

Lorenz died Thursday of a gunshot wound.

He was a roustabout and mechanic. He was born in Edinburg and had lived in Lamesa and Seminole.

Survivors include a son, Antonio Lorenz of Lamesa; his mother, Manuela Sapleveda of Edinburg; a stepfather, Merced Sapleveda of Edinburg; five sisters, Mary Rusdovsky of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Manuel Lozano of Andrews, Elvira Manuel of San Diego, Calif., and Rosie Bowen and Margie Lindborg, both of Edinburg, and four brothers, Thomas Lorenz of Kingville and Luis Lorenz, Mike Lorenz and Manuel Lorenz, all of Edinburg.

E. J. Peltier services held

LAMESA — Services for Early Joseph Peltier, 65, of Lamesa were at 2 p.m. Saturday in St. Margaret-Mary's Catholic Church, with the Rev. Pat Hoffman of O'Donnell officiating. He was the father of Mrs. Deborah Horne of Midland and Mrs. Diana Tatum of Lamesa.

Burial was in Lamesa Memorial Park, directed by Branon Funeral Home.

He died about 10 a.m. Friday in a Lamesa hospital after a long illness.

The Louisiana native had lived for 32 years in Lamesa, where he owned and operated the Lamesa Floral Co. He was married to Marjorie M. Vail

June 2, 1939, in Lubbock. He was a World War II veteran.

Survivors include his widow, a son, two daughters, a sister, a brother and three grandchildren.

H.H. Wright services today

Services will be at 2:30 p.m. today in North 14th Street Church of Christ with Ray Wells, minister, officiating, and Larry Royal, of Downtown Church of Christ, assisting.

The Aspermont native had lived for 39 years in Lamesa, where he was a retired sporting goods store owner and insurance salesman. He was married to Amy Gregory Sept. 8, 1929, in Dimmitt. He was a member of the Church of Christ.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Mrs. Lee Wheeler of Alice and Mrs. Larry Marshall of Vernon; two sisters, Mrs. Burnie Williams of Lamesa and Mrs. N. L. Burrow of Antioch, Calif.; a brother, Irvin Wright of Lamesa, and four grandchildren.

Mashburn receives honor

James Mashburn, who retired last Dec. 31 as Midland County's district attorney, has returned from Austin where he was honored at the annual convention of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association for his varied services to the organization during his years of membership.

He was presented an engraved plaque "in grateful recognition of and appreciation for dedicated service as a director in 1975 and as secretary-treasurer in 1976."

It also was pointed out that Mashburn served faithfully as a member of the association's Committee on Penal Code Revision.

Mashburn did not seek re-election last year to the district attorney post he had held for 11 years. He presently is engaged in the private practice of law in Midland.

Bid openings set

Midland County Commissioners will open bids for items for the roads and bridge department during a regular meeting at 1 p.m. Monday in commissioners courtroom of the county courthouse.

Items to be bid on include tires, a front end loader and a steel wheel roller.

The commissioners also will hear Elmo Linebarger, county tax assessor-collector, and two business supply salesmen.

WTCC convention set April 14-16

The 59th annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held here April 14-16, with hundreds of persons from throughout the 132-county area served by the organization expected to attend. Convention headquarters will be in the Midland Hilton.

President W.H. "Bill" Collyns of Midland said the convention theme will be "West Texas, U.S.A. — The Better Address."

Notable business, state and national personalities will be featured as program participants.

Harry W. Clark is in charge of local convention arrangements.

Registration will begin at noon on Apr. 14, with committee meetings scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m.

A Midland hospitality period will begin at 7 p.m. at the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame, for WTCC members and guests. Special tours of the museum will be made during the reception period.

The WTCC Executive Committee will meet at a 7 a.m. breakfast the following day, with the convention's program session to begin at 9 a.m. in the hotel's ball room. Three speakers, one from business, one from state government, and one from national government will address the convention and then participate in a question and answer session.

A New York business leader will address the noon luncheon, on the subject of "Free Enterprise."

The annual business session will be held at 2 p.m., at which time committee reports will be heard and officers for 1977-78 elected. The 1978 convention city also will be selected. The annual banquet is set for 7:15 p.m., following a hospitality period.

The Quota Buster Breakfast at 7:45 a.m. on Apr. 16 will be the concluding event.

Karcher honored

Hill Country town plans elaborate mud dauber day

LUCKENBACH, Tex. (AP) — San Juan Capistrano can keep its swallows. Luckenbach has the mud daubers.

What's a mud dauber? A Texas size wasp-like insect that makes its nest out of mud and buzzes throughout most of the state in early spring.

Luckenbach, the state's first official non-Bicentennial city, Pop. 3, is preparing to welcome the mud daubers back Saturday.

Any similarity between the Luckenbach spring rite and the arrival of the birds at San Juan Capistrano is not merely a coincidence, but a parody.

It is all part of the legacy of the late Hondo Crouch, a Texas Hill Country rancher with a sense of humor who bought Luckenbach—a grocery store, a dance hall, one parking meter and the ruins of a livery stable and a cotton gin—several years ago.

Hondo, who died last September, organized the first non-Bicentennial fair in the nation last year to select the most tasteless Bicentennial souvenirs on the market. A red, white and blue coffin won the award.

As part of the celebration on Saturday, the organizers of the event have offered manufacturers of Bicentennial souvenirs "one more chance to rip off the public," by selling their red, white and blue left-overs.

"We have had calls from some who said they will be there," said Jack Harms, chairman of "Mud Daubers Return to Luckenbach Day."

The only condition, he said, is that they donate 10 per cent of the profits to the Hondo Crouch "I told you so" fund.

Last year nearly 10,000 people gathered at Luckenbach, about 60 miles north of San Antonio near the LBJ ranch.

WINNER of a $4,000 music scholarship is Lyn Daniels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kyle Daniels of Midland. Miss Daniels of Midland. Miss the Eva Browning Piano Scholarship competition on the Texas Tech campus. She is a senior at Lee High School.

Teachers, journalists to confer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — About 3,500 secondary school journalists and teachers are expected for the 50th annual Interscholastic League Press Conference Friday and Saturday at The University of Texas.

A special feature of the Friday afternoon schedule will be a question-and-answer session for sports writers on athletic rules of the University Interscholastic League, conducted by league athletic director Bailey Marshall and Bonnie Northcutt, girls' athletic specialist for the league.

Also slated to speak are John R. Killgore, co-publisher of the Rosebud News; Charmayne Marsh, reporter for the Dallas Morning News, and Jeff Millar, fine arts critic for the Houston Chronicle.

Odessan freed on bond

MIDLAND — An Odessa man charged with embezzling $450,000 from an Odessa savings and loan firm was released from custody Friday after posting a reduced bond.

Suspect released

ODESSA — A Midland man was released from custody Friday after posting a $10,000 bond on a theft charge.

The man, Clement Ray, was charged before Justice of the Peace Manuel Valles with taking a stereo unit Thursday from Fields and Co. 6715 U.S. 80 East.

The man, Warren Boydston Moore, 38, had been in federal custody on the charge since Tuesday.

Moore's bond was set at $40,000 by U. S. Magistrate Don E. Willians in a hearing Friday. The original bond had been set at $1,000,000, but Moore's attorney, Tom Hirsch of Odessa, filed a motion to have the bond reduced.

Moore will appear before a federal grand jury, but no date for the grand jury has been set, Hirsch said.

Moore is accused of embezzling more than $450,000 in a plan involving embezzlement of First Savings and Loan securities and the purchase of securities through an Atlanta, Ga. firm.

Moore was arrested at the downtown Odessa office of the savings and loan firm, where he was employed as a computer analyst and vice president.

Federal 'sunshine law' faces first test Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since Saturday, most government regulatory agencies and scores of other federal boards and commissions are required to admit the public to meetings at which decisions are made.

of the so-called "government in the sunshine law" claims some agencies are already trying to circumvent the act. "Some are clearly trying to find a way around the law," Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., said Friday in an interview. But the chief congressional author

The legislation that took effect today requires some 46 government agencies to open their business meetings to the public. Most have traditionally conducted business behind closed doors, Chiles said. The bill, passed by Congress last year, specifically exempts courts and Cabinet agencies from the legislation. But all federal bodies governed by two or more persons subject to Senate confirmation — and that includes nearly all regulatory agencies — are included. The first test of the law may come Tuesday, when the Federal Communications Commission holds a meeting it has already announced will be closed. FCC officials have said they don't think the closed meeting violates the law, but Chiles disagrees. He says he may send staff members to monitor the FCC or any other agencies that try to meet in closed sessions. Chiles also accused the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Nuclear Regulatory Agency of trying to circumvent the law. The TVA has issued a regulation saying that anyone wanting to attend must give prior notice.

MECHANICAL INSURANCE COVERAGE FOR NEW CAR BUYERS

NOW AT
Berg Motor Co.

MECHANICAL INSURANCE COVERAGE—ADDITIONAL PROTECTION FOR YOUR NEW CAR.
WHEN, WHERE AND HOW YOU WANT IT!

Effective right now, when you buy a new car at our dealership you can also buy low-cost insurance against the cost of repairs or replacement of major parts specified in the policy—engine, transmission, drive axle, steering, brakes, electrical system, air conditioner, subject to a small deductible. The policy is effective for 36 months or 36,000 miles, whichever ever comes first, except when a breakdown is covered by the manufacturer's warranty. And it even provides for reimbursement of up to $10 a day up to a maximum of $50 exclusive of mileage charges for each part of your car while you are in the shop for at least one night for repairs of parts covered by the policy. We offer you the added security of this low-cost protection because your satisfaction is our main concern.

 Thank you for making us the No. 1 Import sold in Midland. We appreciate the confidence you, our customers, have shown in us thru the years. 1977 is the greatest opportunity we have had thus far to show you the finest small cars, in our opinion, ever built. We have some exciting new additions for your driving pleasure--"THE 200 SX"--a sports model, without a sports car price. A beautiful new luxury car--"THE 810"--equipped with the fabulous 240Z engine. We, at Dotson Datsun Inc., feel we offer a complete line of economy cars at a time when economy is so important! If you don't own a Datsun Datsun, let one of our small car experts show you the advantages of owning one! Prices start as low as $3056 for the Honey Bee.
 Thank you again - We feel our success is because we sell a great product that doesn't come back to the customer who does.

The Capp
Finish-It-Yourself House™

THE HOME YOU WANT-AT A PRICE YOU CAN AFFORD

Finish-It-Yourself means just that. By doing the finishing work on your new dream home, you can save thousands compared to the cost of having a contractor build the same house on your lot. Capp homes are custom-built by craftsmen who take pride in their work and use the finest quality construction materials. The result is a home you'll take pride in for years to come. Here's how it works.

WHAT YOU DO.
What's it like to finish a house yourself? Things like plumbing and wiring aren't all that tough with the help of Capp instruction manuals. But even if you need outside help, you'll still save money by being your own general contractor and eliminating the middleman. Remember, the more you do, the more you can save. And when you're finished, you have a home that's worth a lot more than you paid for it.

YOU DECIDE WHERE TO LIVE.
First, select the area where you'd like to live. Then find a nice piece of property. If you already own a lot, you're all set.

CUSTOM DESIGN YOUR FLOOR PLANS.
You can select from our collection of over 50 models, and you can customize any of our plans or we'll build from your plans. Either way, your home can be completely personalized.

SELECT YOUR OWN FEATURES.
Capp provides you with the quality materials you specified to complete your Finish-It-Yourself House. You select the roofing, siding, and all the interior features. Kitchen and bathroom accessories, doors, windows, flooring, lighting fixtures — all the works. You plan your new home exactly the way you want it.

WHAT WE DO.
Capp custom-builds your home on your foundation according to the plans and Capp specifications. We install sub-flooring, interior partitions and exterior doors and windows — so you wind up with a home that's enclosed and ready for you to finish.

CAPP QUALITY — NO COMPROMISE.
Capp maintains an old-fashioned dedication to quality. The proof is we've been building homes for 30 years. And today over 50,000 families are living comfortably in Capp custom homes.

CAPP OFFERS FINANCING ASSISTANCE.
Your Capp Representative will help you arrange financing through a local bank or savings and loan. Or Capp can give you the financing assistance you need provided you own a lot, meet our minimum qualifications and put down a small deposit. Either way, your Capp Representative can help.
