An unidentified Spanish woman holds the 3-year-old daughter of Italian Luciano Porcari at Zurich airport Wednesday after the second longest hijacking in history.

Swiss capture hijacker

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - An Italian hijacker was overpowered by Swiss police and arrested today at the end of an 8,500-mile pirate flight in a Spanish airliner around Europe and West Africa. It was the second longest hijacking in distance on record and the longest by a lone hijacker.
Police said the hijacker, Luciano

Porcari, managed to grab his Winchester rifle and fire one shot, slightly wounding one of the three policemen who seized him inside the plane. No one else was hurt, the police said.
"Holy Mother of God, it's finished," said Porcari's estranged wife in Turin, Italy, when she heard it was over. The wife, Isabella Zavoli, had refused to surrender the couple's 5year-old daughter to Porcari, one of his demands during the 44½-hour

Police said Porcari, a 36year-old auto mechanic, was being held in investigative custody pending a decision on whether he should be tried in Switzerland. Spain is expected to seek his extradition.

The three policemen entered the plane posing as members of a fresh flight crew that was to fly the Iberian Airlines Boeing 727 to Moscow. They subdued the hijacker within moments.

The 13 passenger-hostages still aboard the plane and the seven exhausted crew members who had manned the aircraft since early Monday afternoon were released unharmed.

Also aboard was Porcari's 3-yearold daughter by an African mistress. The child was picked up in the Ivory

"He didn't threat us badly," said Maria Teresa Lloret Castell, one of the freed hostages. "He behaved like a gentleman. He even tried to calm down my children."

Porcari released seven other passengers in Turin, Italy, and nine in Zurich Tuesday.

The hijacker brought the plane to Zurich from Warsaw where he had agreed to free all hostages in exchange for the new crew to fly him to Moscow. After three hours of negotiations, the Spanish ambassador to Poland, Jesus Millarudo, said:

"We can't understand the man's mind. He must be crazy. It has nothing to do with politics. He just thinks he's solving his personal problems."

Porcari's mother, in Turin, blamed the hijacking on the Italian government, whose policies she said had forced her son to go to Africa to find work without assistance.

"He was an honest boy and would have never hurt anyone because he has a good heart," said Margherita Porcari. "He wanted a family of his own like everyone else and he had a right to."

A Turin newspaper, La Stampa, said Porcari viewed the hijacking as "the final chapter" of a book he was writing about his life. Ugo Moretti, a newsman and author, said Porcari had asked him six months ago for assistance in writing about his eventful life, which he said included the blowing up of a bridge linking Rhodesia to Malawi in exchange for $15,000 from black African guerrillas. Moretti said Porcari called him collect from Barcelona on Monday and told him he would read the final

Education abuses bill likely to pass

Compiled From Wire Reports

AUSTIN - While students and professors at the University of Texas at Austin were enjoying the relaxation of a week-long spring holiday, the House voted Wednesday to drastically restrict the use of graduate school teaching assistants in freshman and sophomore courses.

By an 81-58 margin, the House sent to the Senate a bill that limits the use of graduate student teaching assistasnts — or TAs — who teach many freshman and sophomore

The bill says TAs must have experience as teachers or as "co-teachers" with experienced faculty members before taking charge of a class. It also says the number of student contact hours taught by TAs cannot exceed 25 per cent that taught by ranked faculty members.

Rep John Hoestenbach of Odessa, the sponsor of HB 833, admits the restrictions are aimed directly at correcting "flagrant" abuses in the use of teaching assistance (TAs) at UT Austin, but he insisted it was only a coincidence that the House would debate the issue while the huge campus of over 40,000 students was largely not in town to oppose the legisla-

After more than two hours of debate Tuesday, the legislation was tentatively approved 78-60.

Reps. Sarah Weddington, Wilhelmia Delco, Gonzalo Barrientos and Gerald Hill, all representing Austin, voted against Hoestenbach's bill after attempting to amend the legislation to make its provisions far

Hoestenbach said the crux of HB 833 is to insure that freshman and sophomores have exposure to ranked faculty and not just TAs, who do not know what courses they will be teaching until, sometimes, days before the lectures begin. He alleged at UT-Austin's accounting department all but two of 35 courses are taught by TAs. He also alleged 80 per cent of the English Department courses are taught by graduate students, and not members of the ranked faculty.

He also said a "phony course" is used to orientate TAs, which allows a professor to get credit for teaching.

Hoestenbach claimed a "great misunderstanding" developed with debate over his bill. "TAs are not going to be thrown out of the classroom," he said.

Midland College trustees Tuesday discussed the possibility of cutting back the college swimming program because of lack of available junior college competition.

The trustees postponed action on the subject until the April meeting. The subject was not on the board

G. Langford, college president, announced that a new basketball coach and a new tennis coach will be hired within the next 10 days.

In discussing the swimming program, Langford told the trustees only two other Texas two-year colleges have competitive swimming, so Midland College has had to compete with four-year universities.

Langford said there is a question as to whether it is "within our scope" to enter such competition and whether program is justified with such limited junior college competition.

The swimming budget is approximately $73,000, Langford said, about one third of the total athletic budget.

Both the men's and women's teams placed second in national junior college competition this year he said. Among the alternatives outlined by

Langford to the board were continuing the program at its present level, cutting back scholarships to fees, tuition and books only and cutting out the WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration economic stimulus appropriation may seem like a major step to some congressmen. But not to Rep. George Mahon.

Mahon, 77, has seen a lot of stimulus proposals in his 42 years in Congress. Some of them were more momentous than the one which he, as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, steered to passage

"In 1935, Franklin D. Roosevelt asked for $4 billion dollars for public works. It was an unheard of sum at the time. The entire federal budget in 1934 was only $6

To measure up to that Rooseveltian proportion, Car-ter's stimulus package, which totals $30 billion over two years, would have to spend about 10 times as much.

Group forms to oppose district plan

A citizens committee has been formed in Midland to oppose the charter amendment proposal having some city council seats elected by single-member districts.

Brad Patteson, who ran un-successfully for Midland mayor in 1972 and for city council in 1973 and 1975, heads the organization, called the Committee for Continued Unity.

Patteson said in a prepared statement at a news conference today, "It is our contention that partisan ward politics, with ward bosses and ward heelers, will only serve to divide our community and turn various sections of the city against one another" if the single-member district proposal passes.

The proposal for single-member district elections is one of four charter amendments to be voted on April 2. Although the city council approved

Midland Parks and Recreation Commission Tuesday gave its approval to increasing the green fees at Hogan Park Golf Course.
Some of the increases include regular annual fees to $150, daily fees of $3 for a round of golf on weekdays and $4 for weekend or holiday play. Parks and recreation chief Robert

Thomson said the increases would largely raise revenues at the golf course from $130,000 a year to as much as $170,000, however, a more realistic expectation is $161,000 which is enough to make it operate in the

Thomson said the golf course lost money last year and would fall behind its budget by some $30,000 if increases

Rex Worrell, golf pro at Hogan, said fertilizer, equipment prices, "and just a general price increase over the last three years" have necessitated the

The fees were last increased April

Thomson said a survey of nearby cities reveals green fees at or above the proposed new rates. He said Lubbock is charging $200 annual fees, while daily rates are $3 weekdays and $4 weekends. Kermit has a nine-hole municipal course that charges $3 weekdays and $4 weekends. Sunset Country Club, an Odessa course open to the public, charges $3 weekdays and $5 weekends. Golden Acres Country Club near Odessa charges $3 for weekday and $4.50 for weekend

Two carport variance requests turned down

Two requests to locate carports in front of homes, in violation of front set-back requirements of the zoning ordinance, were turned down Tuesday by the Midland Board of Adjustment

In the one case, Jack C. Harper was requesting a variance to permit building a carport in front of his home at 4511 Versailles Drive so that his invalid wife could have more convenient access to his automobile.

Harper said the carport would not obstruct the view of people, pointed to two other nearby houses that have carports in the front, and said his neighbors did not object to granting the variance.

The board was told by its staff, however, that the two nearby houses with carports in the front win violation of the zoning ordinance, and board attorney Deke Austin said granting a variance could pose an enforcement problem

Board Chairman Jimmie Leath

Addition to house approved

Midland Board of Appeals granted a variance Tuesday to Lee Velarde, 904 N. Dallas St. that will permit him to put an addition on his house without going through expensive and long renovations.

Velarde requested a variance so that he could make the additions to his home, which although there are many other similar residences in the neighborhood, is located in a fire district.

Unless a variance is given, homeowners wishing to make virtually any physical improvement to their home must rewire it with conduit and take other steps to bring it up to standards of a number one fire zone, said board Chairman Ernest

He added that the fire district probably erroneously includes Velarde and his neighbors, but his board has no authority to change that.

e would require re-zoning.

The board considered Velarde's request in a special meeting, which was to also take up a variance request to use untested Mexican brick and a variance request to occupy a type-six structure without a sprinkler system. These two requests were tabled, suggested Harper file a new request with the board asking for a variance to the side yard requirement so that his wife will still be able to gain easy access to the car.

The other request for a carport in the front yard was made by Hugh R. Sloan. Because of an unusual lot design, Sloan did not have to request a variance, but instead chose to ask for a special exception to the zoning ordinance, which is legally easier to grant, Austin said.

Sloan wants to constuct a double carport for his home at 3207 Louisiana Ave. The board decided by a 3 to 1 vote not to grant the special exception.

Builder Harvey Langston requested a variance that would lessen the width of lots he wishes to build houses on in the 2300 and 2400 blocks of Haynes Avenue. Langston wanted to decrease by six inches the width on each lot so that he could build an additional single-family residence.

The board took no action on the request, however, because board member Jim Butler said his wife works for Langston, and he therefore had to disqualify himself from voting. There were only four board members at the meeting, and four affirmative votes are needed before a variance can be granted. In other action, the board: - Approved Midland North Inc.'s request for variance to permit a slightly undersized lot to have a house built on it in the 2300 block of West Golf Course Road. Approved Paul C. Porter's variance request to exceed the rear yard requirement for his house at 1800

North H St. Porter needs the extra area for a carport. - Approved A. L. Winkler's variance request to use the side of his house at 811 North D St. for a carport. -Approved Kenneth Marks' request for variance in the rear yard requirements for three lots in the 2200 block of Front Street. Marks will have a building built there.

In other action, the board discussed eappointing a committee to evaluate the college's purpose. At the suggestion of Langford, the board agreed to appoint a committee later this spring. The committee is to begin work next

Also at Tuesday's meeting, the trustees presented former Midland sheriff Ed Darnell with a resolution conferring an honorary associate degree in law enforcement on him.

WASHINGTON - The Senate sent to the President Tuesday, 66 to 26, a bill restoring the U.S. embargo against imports of chrome from

The measure, passed by the House Monday, 250 to 146, has the strong backing of President Carter. It authorizes the President to reimpose the ban on imports of chrome from Rhodesia and thus put the U.S. back in compliance with U.N. sanctions against the white minority regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith.

First voted in 1966 by the United Nations, the embargo was beefed up in 1968, and President Johnson ordered an import cutoff in 1968. But the Congress in 1971, heeding arguments from Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. (Ind-Va.) that the U.S. vitally needed chrome from Rhodesia for industry and defense needs, voted to rescind the U.S. ban. Since 1971, the U.S. has been importing chrome from Rhodesia.

Sen. Dick Clark (D-lowa), floor manager of the bill, said restoration of the embargo would demonstrate that the U.S. backs majority rule in black Africa and will no longer give aid and comfort to the Smith regime's efforts to thwart it.

"It's a question of putting our best foot forward in Africa in a decade," said Clark. "When you go to Africa all they talk about is how we violate United Nations sanctions." Clark said the bill's supporters had made every effort to rush it through Congress before President Carter's scheduled United Nations speech on Thursday.

Clark and other supporters of the bill said the U.S. isn't really in need of Rhodesian chrome imports because it can get plenty of chrome ore and ferrochromium alloys (a mixture of chrome and other metals) from other countries like Turkey, South Africa, Russia, Brazil and The Philippines.

State Department witnesses told the Foreign Relations committee that the U.S. has a strategic stockpile of nearly 4 million tons, well over a fouryear supply for all purposes and enough to last many years more if confined to defense needs.

Byrd, James B. Allen (D-Ala), Jesse Helms (R-N.C.), and others argued that it was unwise to cut off a supplier of a vital metal, particularly as, according to Byrd, many other countires are ignoring various aspects of the trade embargo against Rhodesia, such as West Germany, Japan and Italy. Allen said nobody had demonstrated that the U.S. participa-tion in the embargo would really have much impact on Rhodesia's economy.

Clark said it wasn't so much an economic matter as putting the U.S. in compliance with a U.N. embargo resolution for which it had voted, of helping open a channel to black Africa for the U.S. and of moving to carry out the Carter policy of strengthening relations with black Africa.

'Marriage penalty' tax inequity may be eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee appears ready to fatten the House-approved permanent tax cut for married couples and take away some benefits now earmarked for single persons.

No large sums are involved in either case. But action contemplated by the committee could mean a tax increase of about $25 for 1.8 million single persons.

It's all in the name of reducing the "marriage penalty," which often has been accused of enticing persons to live together without benefit of marriage. The debate is on the taxcut bill approved by the House earlier this month as part of an effort to stimulate

The "marriage penalty" arises from the fact that current law allows single persons who do not itemize deductions to take a minimum standard deduction of $1,700, while the same allowance for a couple filing a joint return is $2,100. The maximum standard deduction for singles is $2,400; for couples filing jointly it is

Thus, two single persons who formerly were allowed to deduct a total of $3,400 could deduct only $2,100 if they married and filed a joint return, as most couples do. That means the couple would have a taxable income $1,300 higher than if he and she were still single.

For persons who earn more and qualify for the maximum standard deduction, the penalty is $2,000 ($4,800 for two singles compared with $2.800 for a couple)

Both the House and Senate and the Carter administration appear to agree on the need to simplify tax returns by approving one flat standard deduction for singles and another for couples. The debate is over how much.

President Carter recommended a $2,200 standard deduction for singles and $3,000 for couples, which would have meant a $1,400, marriage penalty. The House seeking prevent a tax hike for some single persons, voted $2,400 and $3,000, resulting in a $500 hike in the current $1,300 penalty

Sen. Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, told his colleages Tuesday the House bill would tax "people for doing something that society wants them to do" - marrying and raising a family.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., contended many women no longer see their mission in life as quitting work, marrying and having children. The committee staff came up with a compromise that would mean a $1,500 penalty, with a $3,100 standard deduction for joint returns and $2,300 for singles. "That makes so much better sense than what the House has in its bill," Long said. Nobody on the committee disagreed.

What does the marriage penalty mean in terms of tax dollars?

For a couple in the 25 per cent tax bracket, the penalty under current law costs between $325 and $500 a year. Carter's proposal would result in a $350 penalty; the House formula, $450, and Long's plan, $375.

Carter plan snowballing

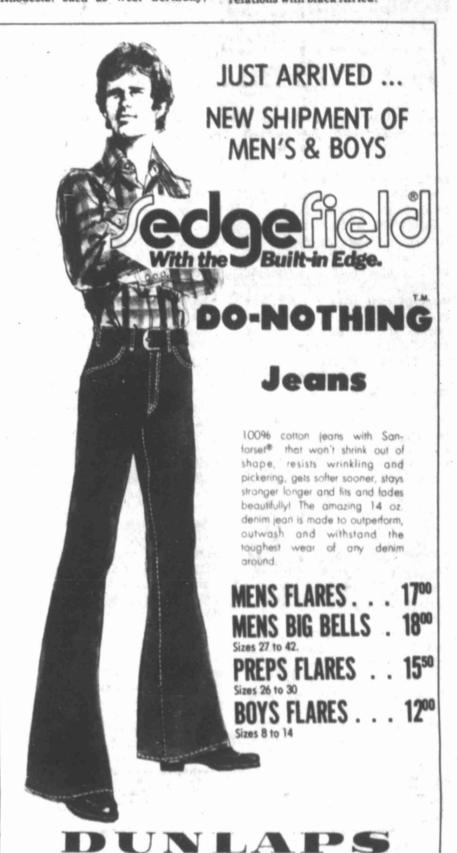

WASHINGTON (AP) - The tax cut and spending program launched by President Carter to jog the lagging economy is snowballing through Congress and seems certain to emerge bigger than it started.

How much bigger it will be than $31.6 billion — the administration's latest two-year estimate - is still a The answer may play a key role in determining whether Carter will be able to fulfill his promise to balance the budget by 1981.

'The House on Tuesday voted a $23.3 billion appropriation to fund major efements of Carter's program and substantial additions by Congress. reached the containing $4 billion for public works this year, twice the amount Carter sought. Amendments backed by the Democratic House leadership added $707 million to the total.

Vance to request $100 million fund for use in Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will ask Congress to approve a $100 million special allocation to be used in part to support a peaceful transfer of power from Rhodesia's white minority to its black majority.

The request, scheduled to be made today, is part of a three-front effort by the Carter administration to bring financial, diplomatic and legal pressures to bear to avert a black-white war in southern Africa. Congressional, administration and diplomatic sources said Tuesday that the request for additional funds was prompted by results of a still incomplete review of U.S. policy in Africa.

The $100 million "special requirement" allocation will be over and above U.S. foreign aid for some of the countries

Sources say part of the money sought by the administration would be used to sustain the proposed black-ruled state of Zimbabwe, which is now Rhodesia, if a negotiated settlement can be reached under which Prime Minister Ian Smith's white government will transfer power.

In addition to the funds, the administration already is involved in a quiet diplomatic effort to persuade South Africa to observe fundamental human rights for non-whites.

And, on a third front, the administration is drafting antiboycott legislation, which may include provisions to prohibit U.S. firms with operations in southern Africa from participating in apartheid practices. In advance of the legislative proposals, 11 big U.S.

corporations with operations in South Africa have issued a declaration in which they vow to respect racial equality in their employment practices.

The firms are: American Cyanamid; Caltex Petroleum; Citicorp; Ford Motor; General Motors; IBM; International Harvester; Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing; Mobil Oil; Otis Elevator, and Union Carbide.

Officials said the timing of the declaration indicated the firms had picked up word of the mood and intentions of the administration Sources say Carter hopes such moves will chip

An outrage!

Many Americans undoubtedly were shocked when they learned that the leader of the Hanafi terrorists who held more than 130 hostages for 39 hours at three Washington, D.C., locations, had been released without bail.

Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., termed the action "an outrage."

"I find no fault when authorities make promises to gun-wielding outlaws in an effort to free inmocent victims," Bentsen declared in brief remarks on the Senate floor. "But a promise made at the point of a gun has no moral force whatsoever.

"You cannot negotiate in good faith at gunpoint."

Bentsen said further that Hamaas Abdul Khaalis, leader of the terrorists, "was at liberty with family and friends, even before the hostages were home, even before the funeral of Maurice Williams, the young reporter shot to death during the incident."

The captives were freed last Friday after Khaalis met with District of Columbia police and the ambassadors to the United States from Egypt, Iran and Pakistan.

As part of a prearranged deal, and within four hours after release of the hostages, a D.C. superior court judge reluctantly freed Khaalis on his own recognizance. The judge said he was "not in a position to secondguess the law enforcement authorities."

"What kind of a precedent does this set for those who would contemplate future acts of violence?" Bentsen asked.

"I firmly believe our policy on terrorism should be one of nonnegotiation and we should express our intention to take severe actions against terrorists and those nations which aid and abet them."

Bentsen, incidentally, had introduced legislation prior to the Hanafi incident which would make terrorism a federal crime and which would cut off all U.S. aid to nations which harbor

Khaalis Monday was booked on a charge of armed kidnaping, an offense which carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

He and 11 of his followers had been arraigned Friday, but Khaalis had been promised that he would not be booked until later.

grand jury returns an indictment. Khaalis, incidentally, had threatened to behead some of the hostages if his demands were not met promptly. And some of the released hostages have said there was no doubt in their minds that he would have done just that. It wasn't a very happy experience for them.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd was another who spoke out against the release without bail of the leader of the Hanafi gunmen.

"It's abhorrent in our society that individuals can commit these atrocious crimes and then be out on their own recognizance," Byrd

And this isn't Khaalis' first confrontation with the law. A Baltimore attorney has said he acted as the court-appointed lawyer for Khaalis in 1968 after Khaalis was arrested for allegedly trying to extort money from a suburban Washington bank. There could be other incidents unbeknown at this time. Yet he is free to walk the streets of Washington.

Senator Bentsen is exactly right in his belief that severe action must be taken against terrorists if their outrageous crimes are to be curbed in America.

It is hoped that the grand jury will take prompt action in indicting those charged in this particular case. It then will be up to the courts to see that justice prevails and that sentences will be meted out in keeping with the severity of the crime.

We shall now see whether Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau meant what he said about improved American-Canadian relations when he addressed Congress and had private talks with President Carter.

Open dumps replaced by sanitary landfills

By LARRY SPRINGER Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - For the most part, the days of the foul-smelling, perpetually smoldering open dump are gone in Texas.

The new concept of sanitary landfills - as expressed in the solid waste regulations of the State Department of Health Resources — mandates properly maintained solid waste disposal facilities and requires measures to prevent water pollution.

Additionally, there is a prohibition against open burning and a requirement that such sites do not become

But county and municipal officials across the state now have reason to wonder if their somewhat expensive cleanup efforts and development of landfills in accordance with the new state regulations will be waylaid by provisions of the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of

For one thing, the Environmental Protection Agency has yet to develop regulations defining just exactly what a sanitary landfill is.

The Texas standards for such landfills are thought to be among the best in the nation, setting out various regional planning agencies. The are to be comprised of a majority of categories of these facilities with each type subject to increasing degrees of maintenance and construction stan-

Officials can't help but worry that the EPA sanitary landfill definition might be more restrictive than the Texas regulations, thereby jeopardizing the continued operation of existing landfills. And if the EPA regulations do not allow for different types of landfills - for example, those which require only weekly maintenance and soil-cover rather than daily - smaller communities could be affected seriously

Another aspect of the federal legislation is drawing both criticism and praise - the provision allowing citizens to sue federal, state and local government agencies to gain enforcement of the standards set under the

The statute requires 60 days notice to the EPA, the state and alleged violator before the suit may be

The federal law also mandates the governor to designate solid waste planning regions and calls on state being artificially and local officials jointly to designate

Thomas Albrecht, 13, hugs mother after earlier court hearing.

Youngster found guilty of killing 3-year-old

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)-Psychiatrists say 13 year-old Tommy Albrecht learned about violence through his father's threats and thrashings. Now Tommy faces five years in state custody for beating to death a 3-year-old girl.

Juvenile Court Judge John Miller ordered Tommy turned over to the Division of Youth Services Tuesday after denying an insanity plea and finding him guilty of manslaughter.

Officials said Tommy could be kept in state institutions until he reaches age 18.

The boy was charged with second-degree murder for hitting and kicking Staci Chubin to death last Oct. 26 after he spent 20 hours babysitting the child. The judge reduced the charge to manslaughter.

Witnesses at Tommy's three-day trial painted a picture of a confused and hostile boy who learned the use of his fists from beatings administered by his father, Larry Albrecht.

One psychiatrist called him "impulsive, explosive and detached," with uncontrollable violent impulses.

'Beating Tommy was his (father's) answer to everything," the boy's mother, Jean Albrecht, told the court. "He was always throwing things

Legislators endorse plan for decriminalizing grass

The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress testifying before a House drug investigating committee Tuesday endorsed the Carter administration's call for decriminalizing possession and use of marijuana. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and Reps. Yvonne Burke (D-Calif.) and Edward Koch (D-N.Y.) appeared before the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control to advocate decriminalization but not legalization of the use of marijuana.

Under decriminalization, possessors of small amounts of marijuana could not be jailed but they still would be subject to civil fines.

Mrs. Burke testified that marijuana, once an inner city problem, has now spread throughout U.S. society. But she said it should be dealt with like traffic offenses, reserving police manpower for combatting hard drugs where criminal penalties should be retained.

"I'm more concerned about angel dust," she said. Mrs. Burke explained after leaving the witness table that angel dust is PCB, an animal tranquilizer. "It's being manufactured in Los Angeles and diverted from veterinarians," she said. "Kids are going out of their minds and killing each other with

The congresswoman disputed Los Angeles Police Chief Edward M. Davis' testimony Monday that he believed the number of marijuana users increased in California after the state last year removed criminal penalties for possession and use of small quantities. She said the California Field Poll had indicated there was a decline

Mrs. Burke was asked by a reporter after the hearing about a statement before the committee Monday by Dr. Peter Bourne, director-designate of the Office of Drug Abuse. Bourne said, in reply to a question, that the Carter administration was "in the process now of very carefully reexamining our position" on decriminalization of cocaine use.

Mrs. Burke said emphatically that she would not favor any decriminalization of hard drugs. A similar position was taken by Rep. Koch during his appearance before the committee.

But Koch and Sen. Javits urged decriminalization of federal marijuana offenses, saying New York's tough state law in this area had proved a failure because of erratic enforcement.

Mrs. Burke said the legal treatment of gambling was analogous to what she and her colleagues advocate in the control of marijuana. It would be impossible to prosecute every one who places a bet with a bookmaker, she said, but the law pursues the book- * Pol ad paid for by Gordon G. White says he supports farmers' land retention

WASHINGTON (AP) - Newlyconfirmed Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John White of Texas says he favors doing whatever is necessary to help family farmers hold on to their White, who received Senate approval as deputy secretary of agriculture Tuesday, recounted his own boyhood as the son of a tenant farmer who was able to buy a farm with the help of a government loan and said: "I have no hesitancy in recommending investment in the family farmer.

However, White's views of major agricultural issues indicated that he has no plans to push for radical change in existing farm programs.

White said he was in general agreement with the price support concept that has been in use in recent years, although he would like to tinker with it to make it more responsive to farmers' situations.

He said he thought the food stamp program ought to stay in the Department of Agriculture rather than be shifted to another agency. He said he wanted to end abuses and make more stamps available to the truly poor, a goal espoused by both the Ford and Carter administrations.

Senate approval of, White came on a voice vote, with no objections, shortly after the Agriculture committee gave unanimous approval to the man who has been Texas commissioner of agriculture for 26 years.

"There is not one (state commissioner) more highly regarded by his peers. This is as close as the administration could come to an ideal appointment WASHINGTON (AP) - The fighting in Zaire poses "a dangerous" situation," particularly if it should interfere with operations in the African country's copper mines, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told Congress today.

The invading force, he said, is made up primarily of Katanga gendarmes who took refuge across the border in Angola after their secessionist movement was crushed in the

At this point, Vance said, U.S. in-telligence has "no hard information" that Cubans or any other foreign groups are engaged in the invasion in the southern province of Shaba, formerly known as Katanga.
Officials of Zaire said Wednesday that the invaders were 5,000 mercenary troops led by "guerrilla and subversive war specialists from across the Atlantic.

The comment was a clear reference to Cuban forces which were instrumental in establishing a Marxist regime in Angola.

Under brief questioning by the House International Relations Committee, Vance said: "If something should happen to the copper mines it would be a very serious blow to Zaire."

Reporting on the U.S. airlift of military and medical supplies, he placed the value at almost $2 million. This doubled the figure of "about $1 million" reported Tuesday by Frederick Z. Brown, a State Department spokesman

Vance promised to keep Congress "closely informed as the situation develops." The committee appeared to accept his explanation and put no difficult questions to him.

Belgium is sending weapons to its former colony, but no American weapons will be shipped, according to U.S. officials.

Belgium's weapons shipments were the first ones reported by any country since Zaire announced the invasion last week. The Belgian Foreign Ministry said the two planeloads of light weapons had been ordered earlier and were only being speeded up. Some sources said 5,000 to 7,000 Belgians are still living in the invaded province, which was the Province of Katanga when Zaire was the Belgian

The Carter administration was hurrying $1 million in medical and military equipment to Zaire, including communications equipment, parachutes, packs, rations and fuel

It was Carter administration's first involvement in foreign warfare and a spokesman said Carter himself had made the decison.

U.S. officials said they had no confirmation that Cubans were involved in whatever fighting was taking place.

Cuban leader Fidel Castro is visiting Africa this week. He was scheduled to arrive in Tanzania today from Ethiopia.

She'd rather flunk than switch...

DALLAS (AP) - A Dallas public school desegregation plan apparently is successful in that at least one bright student has threatened to flunk the eighth grade in order to continue her present course of study at a specialized junior high.

Cathy Thompson, an eighth grader at Oliver Wendell Holmes Academy, shocked a panel of parents, students and teachers at the Dallas magnet school (7th and 8th grades) by saying she may purposely flunk in order to continue receiving a broad education in classics. If she passes and goes to the ninth grade, she said she has no place to get a similar education.

Her statement brought home the message that she and other students feel that the school, one of 12 set up under a Dallas public school desegregation plan, is a success.

Magnet schools, many of them intermediate level, were set up last year to emphasize different subjects and are attended by students on a voluntary basis under established racial quotas. Another student, Doug Tramel, told the panel he is also uncertain about the possibility of getting the same kind of education in another school that he is getting at the magnet school. He is studying languages and computers. The academy is really a school within a school. Its 166 students, out of a total enrollment of 1,800, are given a classical curriculum with emphasis on history, languages and music. Teachers choose qualified students and encourage them to join the academy.

"We concentrate on creative thought and research," principal T. R. Lee Jr., said. "We encourage research, they go into the sociological espects of history, of man, into the 'why' 'when' and 'where'.'' The students find it fascinating and watching them become involved and do their research is a rewarding thing.

The language courses include Latin, Greek, French, Spanish and German. Lee said that students like Cathy and Doug will need to attend a specialized magnet high school or honors courses in their regular high schools when they leave Holmes.

While Cathy and Doug were worrying about where to go next year, school officials were appointing a task force to study reports of resentment and lack of cooperation by some principals and faculties whose top teachers and students are being recruited for the magnet schools.

The reports claimed that principals in regular schools are not encouraging their top students to attend the magnet

India voting running 'heavier than usual'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - The world's largest election began today as India's silent masses went to the polls to elect a new lower house of Parliament and to decide whether Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will continue in power.

The voter turnout was reported heavier than usual, a development that Mrs. Gandhi's opponents had said should prove favorable to them.

Voting was scheduled today in 300 of the country's 542 election districts and continues through Sunday. First results were to be announced then, after the last balloting.

The 59-year-old prime minister made a final campaign appeal to the 320 million voters not to believe opposition charges that she had been a dictator since she put the country under a national state of emergency 21 months ago, jailed thousands of her opponents, censored the press and drastically amended the constitution.

"If I had been a dictator, the people would not have been able to talk about dictatorship, and elections to Parliament would not have been possible," she told a rally in her native state of Uttar Pradesh.

A helicopter took her to district after district, seeking votes for her Congress party, India's governing party since independence in 1947. The Congress is opposed by the new Janata (Peoples') party, a coalition of five parties formed to defeat Mrs. Gandhi.

Reports from around the country indicated that the polling was generally peaceful. Only a few incidents of violence were reported, primarily in the Calcutta area, where Mrs. Gandhi's opposition charged Congress party workers "captured" some voting stations to prevent normal polling. The police said they were investigating.

by Herbert F. Smith S.J. QUESTION: HOW CAN ABORTION BE CALLED MURDER OR EVEN SERIOUS SIN UNTIL SCIENCE DETERMINES WHEN LIFE

ANSWER: Notice that this is not so much a question as a defense of abortion, and a commonly used one. It is a horrifying defense because it exposes an ignorance which has cost many babies their lives.

SCIENTISTS KNOW WHEN LIFE BEGINS. It begins. It begins at conception. In fact, there is even life before conception. The sperm is alive. The ovum is alive. When they unite, there is conception. That is, there is a new SCIENCE ANSWERS THE QUESTION OF WHEN HUMAN LIFE BEGINS THE SAME WAY IT ANSWERS THE QUESTION OF WHEN ANIMAL LIFE BEGINS. When a dog conceives, new canine life begins; when a cow conceives, new bovine life; when a woman concieves, new human life! "The potential for human development is as great in the fertilized egg as in the blastocyst, as in the embryo, as in the fetus, as in the premature, as in the infant, as in the child" (Report of the First International Converence on Abortion).

IS THE NEW LIFE HUMAN AT ONCE? This question is not asked about the human body but about the human soul. It is, then, not a scientific question but a philosophical question and a faith question. It is asked by those who believe the human soul is spiritual and therefore must come directly from God by an act of creation. But when?

DOES THE POSING OF THIS QUESTION PROVIDE A PRETEXT FOR ABORTION? By no means. Ignorance in no way lessens the secredness of human life from the moment of conception. Human life begins from two human beings and God's creative act, and its term is a human being called to eternal life with God. At what point God plays His part is His affair.

We can go further, and observe that the medieval notion that the soul does not originate at conception was based on total ignorance of the genetic structure already present at conception. As Dr Mortimer Adler holds, there is no longer philosophical or theological reason to doubt that "the embryo is a fully potential human being from the moment of conception.

IF THERE REMAINS ANY QUESTION OF WHEN THE SOUL ORIGINATES, IT IS A FAITH QUESTION. To use it as a pretext for abortion makes the believer worse than the unbeliever. Science teaches believer and unbeliever that there is human life from the moment of conception. Faith teaches the believer that to use his ignorance of the moment of the creation of soul as a pretext for destroying an unborn baby's living body is to use his faith to destroy his faithfulness.

That is why "From the Council of Elvira (circa A.D. 300) to Vatican II the Catholic Church has always condemned abortion of the human fetus as the murder of the innocent" (O'Donnell, Medicine and Christian Morality).

Vatican II taught that "God, the Lord of life, has conferred on men the surpassing ministry of safeguarding life...Therefore, from the moment of coneption life must be guarded with the greatest care, while abortion and infanticide are unspeakable crimes."

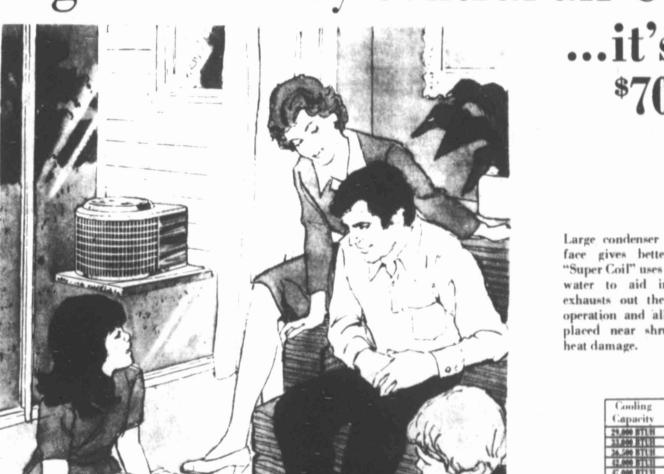

The National Conference of Catholic Bishops declared that "The child in the womb is human. Abortion is an unjust destruction of a human life, and morally that is mur-

Science and faith, each in its own way, have determined the nature of human life in the womb. From both perspectives abortion is the murderous termination of a

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - A Russian scientist says a decision by his country concerning an attempt to bring a sample of Mars to earth will be affected by Viking data.

Two American-sent position and Viking spacecraft temperature." currently are working on the Martian surface and two more are orbiting that planet.

"We can possibly use the same drilling equipment (as was used by an unmanned Russian spacecraft on the moon)," Dr. Y. L. Surkov said Tuesday.

Surkov and Dr. V. L. Barsukov, who is director of the Vernadsky In-stitute in Moscow, held a news conference at the space center here where Russian scentists are attending the eight Lunar Science Conference.

Barsukov presented a bit of the last sample of the moon brought to earth. It was delivered last August by Luna 24, an unmanned Russian spacecraft.

Under an agreement, this country and Russia exchange samples of materials taken from other planets.

just below him. Looking down, in the yellow glow of our lamps, I could see hammers and picks and shovels piled on the dusty floor about 80 feet below.

Above, the smoke from the blast hadn't quite cleared. We decided to give it a couple of more seconds when - suddenly - it happened. We felt this terrific gush of air. Wooooosh!

It was chilling. Like the feel of death. And then I saw the water. That was something I had never seen in my life.

It looked like a great big dam that burst. Like a gusher of water forcing its way out of the ground. Force like I had never seen.

We watched it for a couple of split seconds, not knowing what to do - or what it would do.

Then it started to come up towards us, bringing up timber, and boards, and all that kind of stuff. Coal The water roared up, and caught me in it, hitting air had come first I heard nothing. The water went all the way up to the roof of that shaft, more than 110 feet. It covered everything. I was in it. I was just floating behind the timber fighting the pressure, holding my breath as long as I possibly could, searching for an air pocket ... Along

I was swinging my arms like a windmill, and kicking, fighting the drag from the heavy clothes and tools on me. I was holding my breath. And holding it. And holding it.

I thought the end was there for me, that it was all over. But then I heard in my mind my little boy and my little girl saying to me, "Daddy, hold your breath, hold it as long as you can, like you used to show us in our swimming pool.

And I did. For the longest time. I don't know how Then I felt the water going down, and I found a little space at the top, and I could breathe. I felt so good inside. I was so thankful to God. As the water dropped, I found I was stuck where I had grabbed at some timber, at the top of the shaft.

> Is civilization possible without the chair? I mean, think about it. Plenty of animals make their own beds, but did you ever see even the sharpest rat sitting down in a chair?

> The chair is no mere piece of furniture; it's a concept. It says something about human power. It is political. Long before the kings of Scotland were crowned on the Stone of Scone, the idea of a throne must have existed. After all, if you could afford to sit down in the presence of strangers, that is, enemies, and not stand ready for combat, it must mean you didn't fear them very much. Where do you think the word chairman came from?

> Even today, in an executive office, the chair has mojo. Try asking the boss for a raise when you're sitting in a chair lower than the one across the desk.

the fur-clad genius who discovered that it was possible to rest without lying down? Who first sighed the sublime sigh of a sitter subsiding, spent, onto a

In our homes, this curiously ambiguous emblem of The authority and relaxation is almost a member of the family. Can you imagine everyone standing around the living room after supper chatting or reading or watching the tube?

My grandfather, an old soldier from the Gold Rush days, took up wood-carving in his last yaers and made a marvelous mahogany armchair, all claws and scrolls and subtly sculptured sitzplatz. It was always my father's chair in the dining room, and mine in my turn. Once in the '50s a woman friend, a feminist ahead of her time, railed bitterly at this chair - not at me, particularly, but at the chair for its mute sexism

I no longer sit in it because it is getting arthritic, but it still stands at the head of the table. It insists on being there. Move it off to the side, and the whole room looks wrong. What can you do?

My father also had his special armchair, by the fire in the library, deep, profoundly comfortable, with a high back and generous arms: a chair to take a nap in. Sometimes I would sit in this chair to read his Herald Tribune, but never when he was around. Something made me get up and offer it to him when he came in the room. Not that he was in the least threatening, or that I was in the least polite. It was husband's office in something in the chair.

We still have that chair, all but reupholstered to death, and are about to retire it, but people still shy away from sitting in it unless I insist

My mother also had her special chair: elegant dowell-backed, efficient. It was the chair she sat in to write checks. If she wanted to relax, she would lie on

Another one, a fine old wing chair, used to be stationed by a window in the living room overlooking that the child was not yet the lawn and the valley beyond. It was in a nook, so you could sit perfectly still in it and someone looking for you to do a chore would walk right past. I decided to make it my official reading chair. But it was too formal, too sternly straight-backed, so I never warmed to it. We still have that one too, in the attic. too valuable to throw away, not valuable enough to ell, unaccommodating as ever.

You can tell a lot about a family by its chairs: whether it's socially ambitious, puritanical, lazy, resp whatever. Some living rooms you go into and there are all these springy-bottomed, stiffbacked antique bills on time chairs, with such a high camber that they don't seem to want you to sit on them. SAN PEDRO, Calif. - For most of his 44 years Edward Bunker has lived on the hard side of society. A ward of the state at age 4, he became a thief around Los Angeles' tough eastside barrio at 7 and was hooked on heroin by his 15th birthday. Two years later euphemistically known as the correctional system until his parole last December.

Today Edward Bunker, lounging on his new orange Italian sportscar along the palm-shaded beaches of Santa Monica, is suddenly one of the nation's rising literary successes. His first novel, "No Beast About

CHICAGO (AP) -Chicago's "other" opera company opened its 1977 season with more unusual fare for opera and theater fans.

This company, the Chicago Opera Studio, is not nearly as grand as the city's major company, the Lyric Opera, but it is a lot grander than it was when it was begun by Alan Stone in 1973 in a North Side social club.

Its productions are so fresh and so unusual, and the acting and singing are so extraordinary, that it ENTERTAINMENT plays to sold-out houses.

This season's opener was Mozart's "The Abduction from the Seraglio," sung in English. In the spring it will offer a contemporary work, Lee Hoiby's "Summer and Smoke, based on a Tennessee Williams play.

Auditions slated for play

Even as Midland Community Theatre puts finishing touches to its March production, 'Shield Head,' scheduled to open Friday night, the theater is announcing tryouts for its April show.

"Right You Are, If You Think You Are," Italian playwright Luigi Pirandello's classic stage work dating from the early years of the 20th Century, will be MCT's third production of its 1977 membership year.

Auditions to fill parts in the play are scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday, March 23, at Theatre Centre, 2301 W. Indiana

There are seven male and seven female roles in the stage work. "Everything sort of went to hell in a handbasket," Dellinger recalls. A former account executive for Lockheed Aircraft, he tried to extort $800,000 from four airlines, was caught by the FBI and escaped twice only to be nabbed finally by the California

Older houses popular

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) - They just don't make 'em like they used

In these days of formica cabinets, shag carpet, molded plastic furniture and fluorescent lighting, some young couples are turning to the past to find "something real" for a home.

Rather than building a new house to grow old in, newlyweds Jamie and David Estes have opted to make an old house like

"It's the most economical way to have a house these days," David

Besides economic reasons, the couple was intrigued by their house's history and architectual craftsmanship.

After looking at several possible houses, the couple chose a Wichita Falls house that was built in 1916. They plan to move it to a 20-acre tract out of Those who have been around Wichita Falls long enough to remember say the house was built by pioneer Wichitan W. M. McGregor as a wedding present to his daughter.

"We liked the house for many reasons but the molding and beamed ceilings are the features that sold us on it. We must have looked at dozens of houses before we decided on this one," Jamie said.

In the heyday of formica and walnut veneer, "real wood" cabinetry in older homes is a luxury.

The Estes' house has walnut beams in unusual block shapes that crown the ceiling in the living and dining rooms. Solid brass light fixtures are set within the beams.

Both rooms are framed with real walnut molding. The rooms are joined by full-width French doors. A buffet, also of walnut, is built into one wall of the dining room and features beveled glass doors. All floors in the house are of hardwood and the couple plans on refinishing them rather than carpeting. The old-fashioned transoms used in the house's windows are all in working order. Two stained doors. The house also has two bedrooms and a smaller room which may have been a sunporch. Like most older houses, the ceilings are high - 11

David's parents were the first in the Estes family to restore an old home. The idea was catching, and two other sons have followed the lead.

"What is really unique is that my dad had rather do this than almost anything else," David

Once the house is moved to its future location, the Estes family plans to do all of the construction work themselves - from roofing to plumbing and wir-

The couple is already planning color schemes and collecting antiques, and plans to move in by

'Do you think we'll be through that soon?"

Midland Department of Public Work's traffic engineering division reported collecting $5,154 in parking meter revenues during February, compared to $2,892 collected during February 1976.

From Oct. 1 through February, the division collected $26,236 from

It also said there were 223 accidents in Midland last month, compared to

The division also said it painted 37 miles of center lines and 21 miles of lane markings in February.

Texans in Congress split badly on tax rebate, new carrier

WASHINGTON - Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes March 3-9.

$50 REBATE - Rejected, 194 for and 219 against, a Republicansponsored move to substitute a permanent income tax cut for the oneshot $50 rebate advocated by President Carter. The attempt came in the form of a motion to send the overall bill back to committee. Its defeat left Carter's rebate proposal

This vote occurred during debate on the major tax-cut bill originated by the administration and generally favored by the Democratic majority

The bill (HR 3477), later passed and sent to the Senate, provides in part for a rebate of $50 for each standard deduction claimed on 1976 tax returns; similar payments to the very poor and other non-tax-paying perons; an additional tax cut in the form of a raised standard deduction to take effect with pay checks issued May 1. 1977, and a business tax credit to encourage employers to step up

Supporters of the permanent tax cut argued it would best generate the disposable income the lagging economy needs, Rep. Barber Conable (R-N.Y.) called it a "much sounder economic strategy than the ($50 rebate) which offers neither a sharp stimulative impact nor a permanent reduction upon which consumers can base long-term spending plans."

Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.) defended the one-shot rebate stimulus. "The package we offered is balanced" he said. "It will go into effect im-midiately. It will have an early im-

Reps. Samuel Hall (D-1), James Collins (R-3), Ray Roberts (D-4), Jim Mattox (D-5), Bill Archer (R-7), W. R. Poage (D-11), Jack Hightower (D-13), Richard White (D-16), Omar Burleson (D-17), George Mahon (D-19), Robert Krueger (D-21), Bob Gammage (D-22) and Dale Milford (D-24) world "yes".

Reps. Charles Wilson (D-2), Bob Eckhardt (D-8), Jack Brooks (D-9), Jake Pickle (D-10), Jámes Wright (D-12), John Young (D-14), Kika de la Garza (D-15), Barbara Jordan (D-18) and Abraham Kazen (D-23) voted "nay."

AIRCRAFT CARRIERS Rejected, 161 for and 252 against, an amendment to spend $81.6 million this fiscal year for development of another nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, the Navy's fifth. It was proposed to HR 3839, a fiscal 1977 budget bill later passed and sent to the Senate.

If it stands, this vote will signal a major shift in U.S. naval tactics, away from the existing large "Nimitz" nuclear-fueled carriers and toward construction of smaller conventionally-fueled carriers. The latter are less vulnerable to enemy missiles, but require as-yetunperfected vertical takeoff and landing (V-STOL) jet aircraft.

Rep. Robert Sikes (D-Fla.), supporter of the amendment, said: We should have both the Nimitz carriers and the small carriers. We cannot have both now but we can have the Nimitz carrier. A vote (against the $81.6 million expenditure) simply means a backward step."

Rep. Joseph Addabbo (D-N.Y.), an opponent, said that the present secretary of defense and his predecessor both oppose building another Nimitz carrier. "They feel we need two small aircraft carriers that can be easily dispersed, rather than one large sitting duck," he said. "This is what we're debating."

Wilson, Roberts, Archer Poage, Hightower, Young, de la Garza, White, Burleson, Kazen and Milford voted "yes." Hall, Collins, Mattox, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Wright, Jordan, Mahon and Krueger voted "nay." Teague, Gonzalez and Gammage did not

SPORTS PANEL - Rejected, 75 for and 271 against, a resolution to continue the Select Committee on Professional Sports. Those voting "nay" opposed the committee, which was created in the last Congress to study anti-trust questions, the hazards of artificial turf and other matters relating to pro sports.

Rep. Frank Horton, (R-N.Y.), a committee member and supporter of the resolution, said "we are talking about a very small budget. . .a frugal operation, to look at a very important area of our economy and our society the sports field."

Rep. Charles Wiggins (R-Calif.), an opponent, said: "I frankly would be embarrassed if I were to vote for it. I suggest it might be a matter of some embarrassment to the members voting for it. It just might tell the constituents, . . much more than they would want to tell the constituents about our sense of priorities around

Wright and Young voted "yea." Hall, Collins, Mattox, Archer, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Poage, Hightower, de la Garza, White, Burleson, Jordan, Mahon,

Gammage, Kazen and Milford voted Wilson, Roberts, Teague, Gonzalez and Krueger did not vote.

WARNKE - Confirmed, 58 for and 40 against, the nomination of Paul C. Warnke as chief U.S. negotiator in strategic arms limitation (SALT) conferences with the Soviet Union. Later, by a much wider margin, the Senate confirmed Warnke to serve also as director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Warnke's nomination as SALT negotiator was bitterly contested out of fear he might give too much to the Soviets. Although failing to block his appointment, his detractors succeeded in denying him a two-thirds vote to be confirmed by the Senate.

One supporter, Sen. Edward Brooke (R-Mass.), said: "Ultimately, the responsibility for any SALT II agreements will rest with the President and the Congress. I am confident that Mr. Warnke can and will provide both branches of government with the information and advice necessary for wise decisions.'

Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.), an opponent, said that "two or 20 or 40 votes against the Warnke nomination is significant in the further efforts of mankind to save itself from ex-

with ODOM PHILIPPIANS 4:8

If one could be a Christian without any sacrifice on his part, we would have less trouble getting people to become one. Most folks would like to have the honor of being a child of God but they are not willing to pay the price for In Mark 10 we have recorded the incident of Jesus and

His conversation with the "righ young ruler." (see verses 23-27) The ruler had come to the Master asking. "What can I do that I may inherit eternal life?" When Jesus told him to keep the law he replied that he had done so since his youth. However, the Lord being able to look into the hearts of men saw that this young man had a problem. It was the problem of "sacrifice.

Jesus told this man to go an sell what he had and "distribute it among the poor." Now the Savior is not telling all rich men to sell what they have and give it to the poor in order to be saved, unless the rich man today has the same trouble in his heart as the rich man of this text. This man "loved his riches!" the indication was that God had a rival god. This Jehovah will not tolerate. The rich man of our story wanted eternal life but he wanted his riches more as is indicated by the fact that "he went away sorrowful, for he had great riches."

It appears to this scribe that we all tend to have "idols in our hearts" that would likewise keep us from inheriting eternal life. To one it may well be his possessions like the man of our text. To another he may have a position in life that means more to him than serving God. Sometimes one may reject the truth because his parents were something. religiously speaking, other than what he believes the truth to be, and he reasons that if I accept this as the truth to be, and he reasons that if I accept this as the truth (even though it is the truth) it will serve as testimony that my parents are lost. In such a case, that one has made the choice between God and his earthly parents. The parents have become the idol in his heart. We could add to this list such things as fishing, golf, camping, etc. ANYTHING that is put BEFORE serving God is to be applied as a result of studying the story of the rich young ruler.

My friend, is there an idol in your heart? The Lord Jesus Christ said to his apostles, "Go ye into all the world and christ said to his aposties. To yo late all the world the preach the gospel to every creature; he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved an he that believeth not shall be condemmed." (MK. 16:15,16) What idol in your heart would keep you from doing what the Lord REQUIRES of you that you also might have eternal life? Think about it.

U.S. women's volleyball team in Tall City for exhibitions

The United States Women's National Volleyball Team will square off against the Canadian National Team Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Midland Lee gym.

The special exhibition match against the two highly regarded Olympic hopefuls for 1980 is being sponsored by the Midland Miss Softball America program. Tickets for the event are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

The two teams may play again Friday if the Thursday response is worthwhile.

Both teams are in preparation for the NORCECA Tournament. which is to be held April 24 through April 30 in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. The NORCECA Tournament is a qualification tourney for the World Cup to be held in Japan in November.

THE UNITED States squad was scheduled to arrive in Midland today, and have scheduled a workout in the Midland High gym for 3:30 this afternoon. The workout will be open to the public at no charge.

The U. S. squad makes its home base in Pasadena, Tex., and coach Arie Selinger will bring to Midland what he thinks is the best women's volleyball team the United States has ever

Blomberg slams 400-foot homer in Yankee win

By The Associated Press

"It feels," Ron Blomberg said, "like you're a fan and you jumped up and hit a home run.

Blomberg ought to know. For the past 11/2 years, he has been little more

Tuesday night, he became a hitter again. A career .302 hitter before suffering a shoulder injury that wiped him out in July, 1975 and limited him to one game and two at-bats last season, Blomberg unloaded a 400-foot two-run homer and a run-scoring grounder as the New York Yankees defeated the Minnesota Twins 9-4 in an exhibition game.

But it was much more than a meaningless spring game to the 28-year-old Blomberg, who is trying to recapture his spot as the Yankees' designated hitter against right-handed pitching. The home run was his first since July 8, 1975, and it was his first hit of any kind since last April 4.

"THIS WAS like a regular-season game for me. The home run felt good, it feels like my swing is coming back," said Blomberg, whose powerful, compact stroke is one of baseball's neatest swings. "If I show them I can swing the bat I'll probably be a part of this team.

"I'm getting my timing, so far so good. The shoulder feels good. Physically it feels 100 per cent but mentally I have to get prepared for it. Mentally, it was getting to me. I have to get my mind saying it's 100 per cent. That's a big adjustment for me. I talked to the doctor even after the home run and he said, 'I told you nothing's going to happen.

"I took some bad swings in the first couple of games and I saw the injury all over again. The doctor said that's natural. Mentally, the home run was a big thrill for me. I see all the players and I feel I'm part of the team.

"I've got to win a position down here. Even if I show them I can hit, I don't know what's going to happen to me. I want to show them I can play, drive in important runs and be part of this club. I'd like to stay in New

76ers rout Cavaliers after team meets

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers may be back

Having aired their gripes and spoken their pieces, the 76ers settled down to what they do best Tuesday night and routed the Cleveland Cavaliers 133-102.

"I think the stories cleared the air." suggested 76ers forward George McGinnis, referring to reports of discord on the team which had surfaced earlier this week. "Everybody came into the lockerroom tonight with a different attitude.

"If this can be a turning point for us, it couldn't come at a better time.' Indeed, if the 76ers are to go far in the National Basketball Association playoffs-which are only a month away-they will have to play better than they did for the past month. when they had difficulty breaking

The way they played against Cleveland would be just fine,

"That was one of our super games," said Coach Gene Shue. "We haven't had a game like that in some time. I'd have to rate it as maybe our best road game of the season.

Julius Erving scored 29 points for Philadelphia and McGinnis had 23, including 13 in the decisive third period. The 76ers led 57-46 at intermission, started the second half with a 10-2 burst and outscored Cleveland 43-25 in the third quarter, putting the game away.

Former M-Cub player ready for good year

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) - Ray Burris former Midland Cub, showed the Chicago Cubs in 1975 that he could win in the major Leagues. He showed them even more last season.

"It might have been the biggest year of my life. I was 3-11 at the end of June, and that's a deep hole to be in. But I never gave up on myself," the young right-handed pitcher said. "I not only came back for a respectable year, I came back for a winning year. I think it was an inspiration to a lot of my teammates. 'I'm excited this spring. We're all excited. We're determined to come out of the chute fast and keep go-New Cubs Manager Herman Franks will probably be pitching Burris on April 7 in the season-opening game at Wrigley field against the New York Mets. Burris earned last year's opening eay assignment after posting a 15-10 record in 1975, his first full season in the majors.

From 3-11 midway in the 1976 season, Burris rolled to a 15-13 finish, pitching nine complete games, including four shutouts in his last 17 starts. He posted a 3.11 earned run average.

"He just kept battling. A lot of guys might have given up, but not Ray," catcher Steve Swisher said in the Cubs' spring training camp here about the 26year-old pitcher

Burris posted a 1.89 ERA in August when he was 6-1 and voted the National League Pitcher of the

The Cubs staff had a 3.93 ERA for the season, second highest in the league, and gave up the most home runs, 123.

"But a 3.00 ERA at Wrigley Field is like 2.00 in any other park. There are more runs scored in our park than anywhere else," Burris said.

"But I think the park can help mold a pitcher into what he should be. You've got to keep your concentration because if you let up mentally or physically, the ball can be out of the park.'

Hitters, of course, love the Chicago ball park where the wind often helps produce high-scoring games. The Cubs and Phillies hit nine homers in a game won by Philadelphia, 18-16, last April.

"I think the guys on our staff accept pitching there as a challenge," said Burris as he prepared for the challenge of baseball's 1977 season.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds split their squad and made two Canadian clubs happy. One team of Reds bowed to the Montreal Expos 5-2—exReds first baseman Tony Perez homered in his first game against his former team and later scored what proved to be the winning run—while the fledgling Toronto Blue Jays edged the Reds' other group 9-8 in 11 innings.

THE BALTIMORE ORIOLES also split their squad with somewhat dif-ferent results. They downed the Boston Red Sox 3-0 as Rudy May, Dennis Martinez and Fred Holdsworth combined on a twohitter-Dwight Evans' two-out single in the eighth inning and Fred Lynn's double in the ninth—and also whipped the Texas Rangers 7-3 as Doug DeCinces slugged a tie-breaking two-Elsewhere, Dave Kingman hit his second homer in two days as the New York Mets beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2; Tim Corcoran's two-run homer gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies in 11 innings, and the Los Angeles Dodgers scored six times in the fifth inning—Rick Monday and Dave Lopes each drove in a pair—and trounced the St. Louis Cardinals 13-3. Home runs by Ralph Garr and

Larry Foster powered the Chicago White Sox to a 4-0 victory over Kansas City in the opener of a doubleheader, but the Royals took the nightcap 10-3 as John Wathan and Luis Silverio homered; Vida Blue allowed two hits in five scoreless innings as the Oakland A's beat the Cleveland In-dians 4-2; Jerry Morales singled in the winning run as the Chicago Cubs edged the California Angels 4-3; the San Diego Padres got homers from George Hendrick and Jerry Turner in defeating the Milwaukee Brewers 7-4.

Johnson fretting as Rebs blanked

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

It's less than a week until the Robert E. Lee baseball team's District 5-4A opener, and things are not quite running according to schedule for Coach Ernie Johnson and his young team.

"It seems like we've peaked and are going steadily down hill," Johnson said quite disconcertedly following the Rebels' 6-0 blanking at the hands of Derek Hatfield and Lubbock Monterey Tuesday at the

Hatfield, a junior righthander for the Plainsmen, baffled Lee with his curve ball and sinker all afternoon, blanking them on five hits while his offensive-minded teammates scored on the long ball and took advantage of several Rebel mental and physical errors to win going away.

NOT SURPRISINGLY, it was the mistakes that miffed Johnson, not the nine hits Monterey banged out, including a three-run homer by Plainsman catcher Archie Crim.

"I don't mind it so much when a guy hits one over the fence on you. There's nothing much you can do about that. But mental and physical errors are a different story. They can be avoided, and should be when we're already this far along," said Johnson.

Using basically an underclassmanfilled lineup, Johnson has watched his team lose four of their last six games, after winning their first six.
"I'd like to believe it's just that we're playing better competition," Johnson added, "but it's more than that." MONTEREY'S VICTORY was the second conquest of the Rebels in four days. They beat them 10-2 Saturday in the Tournament of Champions.

The winners got all the runs they really needed in the first inning off Rebel starter Doug Schmidt. With two down, Garry Holub rode a single through the left side of the infield, and Monterey's designated hitter, Bob Fannin, kept things alive when he blooped an infield hit between the pitcher's mound and second base. Centerfielder Dana Rieger then went after Schmidt's first delivery moments later, and his double plated two runs.

THE REBEL death knell came in the sixth when Crim drove one of Schmidt's pitches over the left field fence with two Monterey men aboard. They added another unearned run in the seventh off of Lee reliever Mike

Pittsburgh peddles six to Oakland A's

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) - The Pittsburgh Pirates traded six players, in-cluding veteran pitchers Doc Medich and Dave Giusti, to the Oakland A's today for third baseman Phil Garner and two other players.

The Pirates also gave the A's Rick Langford and Doug Bair, two promising right-handed pitchers who spent most of last season in the minors, rookie outfielder Tony Armas and rookie infielder Mitchell Page.

In addition to Garner, Pittsburgh received veteran infielder Tommy Helms and right-handed pitcher Chris Batton, rookie who spent most of last season in the minor leagues.

Lee's biggest scoring threat of the game came in the third. Jeff Matthews beat out an infield hit, Richard was hit by a Hatfield pitch, and with two out, Craig Van Horn also beat out an infield safety that popped over the pitcher's mound. But with the bases jammed, Hatfield got Rebel third baseman Robbie Roberson to pop up.

REBEL RAMBLINGS: Lee will be home again on Saturday for a twin bill with Andrews. It will be the Rebels' final tuneup before their district opener Tuesday with Odessa. . . Johnson hopes to give Schmidt and Richard some more work in one of the games with the Mustangs.

The loss for Midland is its seventh straight since splitting a doubleheader with Lubbock High in the second weekend of the season. Midland returns to Memorial Stadium diamond Saturday for a doubleheader with the Class AAA Lamesa Golden Tornadoes at 1 p.m. Coronado, meanwhile, has a makeup game with Amarillo Tascsoa Thursday in the Panhandle City.

Texas sweeps

AUSTIN, (AP) - Texas remained unbeaten Tuesday night with a 7-4, 7-1 college baseball doubleheader victory over Wisconsin-Stevens Point behind the hitting of Keith Ferguson and Bob

The two victories make Texas 23-0 for the season and the 23-game winning streak ties the school's record for consecutive victories.

Western Texas beaten, 65-62

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) - Ellsworth of Iowa and Sheridan, Wyo., met today in the only championship bracket game of the National Junior College Basketball Tour-

Top-seeded, undefeated Southern Idaho, the tournament's defending champion, overcame stubborn Lincoln Trail of Illinois 76-66 Tuesday. Other games in the

Ellsworth nip fourth-seeded Western Texas 65-62, Vincennes of Indiana trounce Potomac of West Virginia 80-61, North Greenville of South Carolina shade Rhode Island 80-79, Farmingdale of New York upset Mercer County, N.J., 66-61, and San Jacinto, Tex. whip Shelby State of Tennessee

Southern Idaho, which has not lost since early last season, got a scare. Although leading most of the way, the Golden Eagles were unable to pull free of Lincoln Trail until taking a 68-57 lead with four minutes remaining on a streak of three free throws and a field goal.

Kim Goetz led Southern Idaho with 23 points while Richard Johnson hit 22 for Lincoln Trail.

Richard Hall's layup with one minute remaining snapped a 6161 deadlock and sparked Farmingdale past Mercer County. The Aggies then put in three consecutive free throws, icing the victory over Mercer County, the runner-up in last year's tour-

San Jacinto used a pair of free throws from Ollie Mack with four seconds left to defeat Shelby State. The Tennessee team had tied the game 77-77 on a Mike Torrance jumper with two minutes remaining.

Sears highway passenger tire warranty

Full warranty during first 25% of usable treadlife If the tire fails apparently due to a defect in material or workmanship during the first 25% of the original usable tread (original tread less 2/32"). Sears will replace the tire, free of charge, or refund

Limited warranty

Tire failure. If the tire fails apparently due to a defect in material or workmanship after 25% of the tread is worn, and for the remaining 75% of the original usable tread, Sears will replace the tire or give you a refund, charging you only the proportion of the current price plus Federal Excise Tax that represents the portion of the usable tread used.

Tread wearout. If the tread wears out (2/32" or less remaining) before you receive the miles specified, Sears will, at its option, either replace the tire or give a refund, charging in either case the proportion of the current price plus Federal Excise Tax that represents the ratio of miles of usage actually received to the miles specified. This does not apply to wearout caused by improper inflation, misalignment, or failure to use and maintain the tire as recommended.

To obtain warranty service, simply return the tire to the nearest Sears store throughout the United States.

NEW YORK (AP) -Jack Sikma, Illinois Wesleyan's reboundhungry center, and guard Emory Sammons, a "basketball machine" at Philadelphia Textile, were named today to The Associated Press College Division team of 197677.

Joining two of the country's premier small college players on the first team are forwards Alonzo Bradley of Texas Southern and Purvis Short of Jackson State and Tennessee-Chattanooga guard Wayne Golden

The top five were clearcut selections in the voting by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters, with Sik-ma's 243 points leading the blue-ribbon group. The tally, based on five points for the first team and three for second, also turned up 202 points for Sammons, 178 for Bradley, 146 for Short and 139 for Golden

The next highest pointgetter was Calvin Natt, Northeast Louisiana's fine frontcourt player who made the second team with 113 points. Along with Natt, other second-team selections include forward Carlos Perry of Winston-Salem, N.C., State; center Jeff Covington Youngstown, Ohio, and guards Phil Walker of Millersville, Pa., State and Bobby Bone of Missouri-St. Louis.

Prices climb

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices continued to climb today as the market moved on a steady upward path. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 1.66 points to 966.67. Over the past two sessions, the Dow rose a total of 17.29 points, the largest gain since late October.

Advances were running ahead of declines by about 3-2 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. During the month, market has spurted ahead briefly but has been unable to sustain any rally. "For the first time, I think the stock market looks for real," observed Alan C. Poole of Laidlaw-Coggeshall Inc. "If this were just a shot in the dark, you'd get a big opening and then it would taper off. 'But it hasn't. It's opening gradually and the volume is increasing."

Poole felt investor interest in the market is reviving, particularly as the economy recovers from weatherrelated setbacks.

On Tuesday, the government said industrial production, down in January because of the severe winter, was up one per cent in February, and U.S. automakers reported domestic car sales rose during the first 10 days of March.

The noon composite index was up .08 to 55.45, and on the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .15 to 112.21.

Volume on the Big Board reached 9.82 million shares over the first two hours. Sony Corp. held the top spot on the most active list, still unchangeed at 10.

Honeywell moved second place, up 1/4 to 501/2.
General Motors, which paced the auto industry in its most recent auto sales report, rose 1/2 to 72%.

Holstein bull calf which lived a record 1451/2 days with an artificial air-driven heart developed in a National Heart and Lung Institute clinic.

Artificial heart might be reality within five years

By WARREN LEARY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - On the heart beats of a small herd of calves scattered in research institutions across the country rest the hopes of a $100 million program to build a device that can take over when the human heart fails.

In the calves, at Boston Children's Hospital Center and elsewhere, the heart beats already are produced by an artificial heart. It's still a long distance from calf to human, but it's narrowing.

Some medical scientists long have held that the best way to replace a hopelessly damaged heart would be through a mechanical device rather than heart transplant. But so far, artificial hearts have worked only in calves, up to four months, while some transplants have done much better in human

Still, after years of toil, with more than $100 million spent over the past decade and $13 million more to be spent this year, scientists are guardedly optimistic. Some believe a completely artificial heart is less than a generation away.

"I won't name any date, but I think it will be in our lifetime," says Dr. Michael G. DeBakey of Baylor University.

"We are making progress when you look back over the past 15 years," the noted Texas heart surgeon says. "We have a greater understanding of the problems, and we have solved some of them." While the complete artificial heart is the longerrange prospect, a partial one that can handle some of a damaged heart's functions may be reality within five years, researchers say. Both devices are the goal of the Artificial Heart Program run by National Heart and Lung Institute since 1964. But for now the emphasis is on developing a "left ventricle assist device," or LVAD, according to Dr. Peter L. Frommer, the institute's associate director of cardiology. The heart is divided into two main pumping chambers called ventricles. The right ventricle pumps blood into the lungs to pick up oxygen. The left pumps the oxygenated blood through the arteries

The left chamber does four-fifths of the heart's work and is damaged most often in heart attacks. Frommer says an LVAD could temporarily take the pumping load off a damaged left ventricle to allow it to heal. If the chamber is hopelessly impaired, a long-term LVAD might give permanent assistance or take over the ventricle's task com-

Experimental LVAD's have been used successfully in animals for up to eight weeks, but human tests failed. All of nearly a dozen patients died within a few days after receiving the devices. Fromher said all were patients near death who wouldn't have survived in any case. Dr. C. Grant LaFarge, senior associate in cardiology at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston where some of the human LVAD surgery was performed, says future operations should bring better results. "In Phase One, we got the most difficult patients who were almost dead," he says. "We are moving into a phase where we'll get patients in better shape. Hopefully, we'll get the survivors we plan on.' LVAD's are, in effect, custommade in laboratories. One commonly used is built by Thermo Electron Corp., of Waltham, Mass., and is a single chamber, J-shaped pump weighing one pound. It is externally powered by forcing air through a tube in its side.

"Assist devices could be clinically useful even before we build up to our goal of longterm reliability for years," Frommer notes. "They could be used to rest or aid the heart if they're good for two weeks, two months, or two years."

Frommer says advances in assist devices help the work on the total artificial heart because similar technology is used. Some research teams are pushing ahead to the total heart. And laboratory experience with animals has been excellent with the complete hearts, Frommer notes. "It has been quite encouraging." Calves are used most commonly to test both LVAD's and complete hearts because their organs and body size are close to human proportions. Patients awaiting heart transplants could be tided over with temporary devices. LaFarge, who with Dr. William F. Bernhard is working on the latest model LVAD, says a long-term assist device that can be left in the body would eliminate the need for many heart transplants by taking care of the heart's biggest problem area. Researchers agree that several hurdles must be overcome in both LVAD and total heart. One is to find a reliable material to withstand the strain of a device pumping 100,000 times a day, which your heart does while it's sound. Material and pump have to be designed to prevent damage to blood cells or clotting, something that remains to be fully achieved. So far, a wide range of plastics, metals and metal alloys have been tried.

Researchers also still are working on power for devices. External power with wires into the body, internal power cells that can be charged through the skin and nuclear units are possibilities, but all have disadvantages ranging from likelihood of causing infection to radiation danger. And for a patient to return to a normal, productive life, artificial heart devices must be miniaturized further to fit comfortably into the body. "There's a lot to do, but I'm reasonably op-

Workers start day by singing hymns

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) -The only "music" usually associated with factories is the rhythmic pounding of machines. But at some North Carolina tobacco factories. work often starts with the sound of hymns.

For more than 40 years, groups of employes in a number of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco plants here have gathered around the piano at 7 a.m., half an hour before the start of their work day, to sing hymns.

"Not much is said about it, but many people know the pianos are said Harold Southern, a here." supervisor who has been with the company since 1936. "There is a faithful group of people who take part every week. Anyone who's interested can join in. That's the way it has always been."

The first piano was given to the company in the 1930s by the local YMCA. At that time, a representative of the "Y" came to the plants once a week to lead religious services. The visits were eventually discontinued, but the music and early morning services were continued by employes.

Many of the songbooks used today date back to the YMCA services. Their covers have become soft and yellowed from time and use.

Throughout the years, R.J. Reynolds has had a number of ordained or licensed ministers employed as production workers. Today there are more than 100, some of whom take part in the morning ser-

"These services represent a fellowship that has never broken down throughout the years," said May Milam, an inspector in the smoking tobacco plant, who has attended the services for more than 10

"We all enjoy the fellowship," agreed Frances Tedder, an inspector who has played piano for the group for decade. "Renewing our faith together makes a big difference in our days, our work and our lives."

South thought that North should rebid the hearts before bidding diamonds. North thought that South took control and landed the partnership in spades when six hearts would be a laydown. South then complained that North simply bid too much with his rediculous 11 points in high cards.

By now your dogs should be howling at the criminal. Whom do you suspect?

BID EARLY

South bid the hand badly and played it worse. At the second trick he should play a low trump from both hands. This gives up his chance for an unimportant overtrick but guarantees the slam as long as trumps are no worse than 4-1.

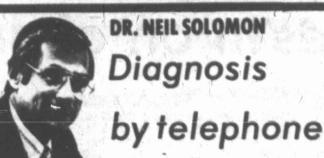

Dummy still has a trump to control the clubs, and declarer can easily regain the lead, draw trumps and run the hearts.

Regardless of bidding crimes, South should have redeemed himself by making six spades. The last crime was the worst

Dear Dr. Solomon: Whenever I don't feel well, my husband says to "Call the doctor and tell him what's the matter." But I don't see how a doctor can diagnose what is wrong over the phone. What do you think?-Lorraine B.

Dear Lorraine: The big advantage of the telephone is that you can get in touch with your doctor immediatelyor at least with his office-when something worries you. It is up to him to decide if you should come to see him tomorrow morning, or go to the hospital right away, or take a medicine he feels sure of, or wait 24 hours and see what happens. But you are right in thinking that diagnosing over the phone can be ovcerdone. Just the other day, I read a report by Dr. H. James Nickerson of Marshfield, Wisc., about a survey he had conducted. He found that in 20 per cent of the cases studied, children's earaches had been misdiagnosed over the phone. And he noted the danger of missing such complications as perforation, mastoiditis or early meningitis.

I'd make it clear to your doctor that you are always ready to come to his office if he thinks it advisable.

Olympic Games in Montreal, we kept hearing about athletes having transfusions of their own blood-which they had stored earlier-in order to help their performance on the day they were competing. Is this some far-out technique for super-athletes or does it have a real medical use?-Anthony C.

Dear Anthony: Building a supply of your own blood in a blood bank before having an operation is a very sensible thing to do-and one a lot more people will go along with than the blood buildups used at the Olympics.

Transfusion of blood from one person to another is usually safe, but there can be problems. There is always the risk of hepatitis, for instance. And there is a small percentage of patients who have a serious adverse reaction. Obviously, the best blood for you is your own.

Dr. Herbert Silver of Hartford, Conn., described the self-blood-bank procedure. If you know in advance you are going to have an operation, you go to the blood bank every five days or so and deposit a pint of blood each time. Then if you need it during the operation, it will be ready. If you don't, it can be turned over to the hospital's regular blood bank for Continental Airlines reported 13,309 boardings at Midland Regional Air Terminal during February, which was 363 fewer boardings than a year ago.

Texas International, on the other hand, had only 3.179 boardings in February 1976, but increased to 5,186 boardings last month.

Continental had about 19,000 fewer boardings from Oct. 1, 1976 through February, compared to the same period a year ago. Texas International more than doubled its boardings during this time period.

Texas engineer cashes in on abandoned gas wells

By MILLER BONNER

ALICE, Tex. (AP) - His office is a converted frame house. He lives in a 101-year-old grocery store and he believes Texas is about to run out of oil and gas.

Although he sounds like an eccen-tric prophet of doom, Bill Doran has apparently developed a knack for anticipating the qualms of the petroleum industry.

Two years ago, Doran sensed the arrival of skyrocketing gas prices and bought into XRG, Inc., a company which today roams South Texas pur-chasing the rights to long-abandoned oil and gas wells.

ERAFT SINGLE

engineer, ran the family-owned Central Producers until 1960 when he "sold all our wells and got out of the business." But in 1972, he revived Central and two years ago began ramrodding XRG.

"I had a feeling gas and oil prices were going up," he said from the XRG offices located in a nondescript house in an Alice residential section. "A number of productive wells here closed for economic reasons in the 1960s. " The prices were too low to make them pay. We have the ability to claim the remaining reserves in those wells and we can justify re-entry or condemn the prospect from this ofguesswork and most of the expense out of oil and gas exploration."

Consumers from Houston to Brownsville are burning gas from the once-abandoned wells. XRG pumps about a "million and a half cubic feet per day," said Doran or enough to supply a city of 10,000 residences on a monthly basis. "About two-thirds of our production goes to LoVaca and the remaining third to the Houston

Natural Gas Company.
"Within 10 years—11 at the most—Texas will be dry," predicts Doran. "After this kind of winter, businesses will be coming to Texas. They will scramble for two-dollar gas because it's better than no gas at all

Two-dollar gas—a Doran term describing the $2.02 (per thousand cubic feet) price tag on intrastate gas—prompted Doran to begin exploring "about 35,000" abandoned wells dotting South Texas.

Doran's formula is simple. Buy the rights to an abandoned well, drill through a concrete plug, install a new compressor and begin pumping away

Within 10 miles of Doran's office are "hundreds of possibilities" which appear to be rusting replicas of once productive wells.

'That well was closed in 1965," he said pointing to an impotent appear-got the rights to it and now it's a little money-maker.

"Some sites we have to drill a new well and in some rare instances, we merely turn on a valve. The guy didn't have the money to plug it and just

Doran doesn't play or look the part of the sterotyped wheelin', dealin' Texas oilman with money oozing from every pocket. His office, crammed with hundreds of volumes pin-pointing the location and history of oil and gas wells, is comfortable but not

He drives a Chevrolet instead of the traditional Cadillac or Continental. But his refurbished home in nearby publicity afforded his profession.

"The building is 101-years old," // said Doran. "I always wanted to buy a place like this and redecorate it." The structure, a grocery store and wool warehouse more than a century ago, has thick stone walls similiar to the Spanish structures such as the Alamo in San Antonio.

"Mementos and artifacts from my travels are in this house," he said softly pointing to pre-Colombian statuettes, a mantel and cut-glass windows from an English pub plus an ornately-carved wooden confessional bought from a Catholic church which now serves as Doran's head-

By MORTON MINTZ The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Without approval or knowledge of the Federal Power Commission, Texaco Inc., has been burning enough natural gas at one of its refineries in Texas each year to heat 523,000 homes

The company, in a telegram replying to a commission inquiry, disclosed Mar. 8 that it has been sending 172 million cubic feet of gas daily from federal lands it leases off the Louisiana coast to its refinery facilities at Port Arthur, Tex. Since 1964, the company estimated, it has delivered 580 billion cubic feet to the refinery.

In New York City, a Texaco spokesman said that the company has complied with all requirements of the FPC in seeking and obtaining approval to transport" the gas.

Th Natural Gas Act of 1938 permits transportation of gas from public offshore lands only after the FPC has certified approval, congressional sources said

In 1964, the sources said, the commission authorized Texaco to carry gas in the Sabine Pipeline, a subsidiary, from onshore Louisiana to

But, they said, Texaco's certification does not cover construction of facilities to bring to the pipeline gas the company produces in its enor-mous Tiger Shoal and Lighthouse Point field offshore. Nor does it cover transportation of the offshore gas through the Sabine line to Port Ar-

The Texaco disclosure is expected to spur inquiries by the commission and by two House Commerce Committee units

One of them, the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, heard testimony last month from its own investigators that Texaco had dedicated to interstate commerce only 45 per cent of the proved reserves in the two fields, while holding 55 per cent for its own uses.

To accomplish this, Texaco told the subcommittee, it dedicated to interstate commerce only that gas produced at specific depths. The FPC certification permits this.

After the hearing, the staff of the Subcommittee on Energy and Power asked the commission to seek information from Texaco about the movement of gas from the two fields to Port Arthur.

Agency and Capitol Hill sources expressed concern at the possibility that unilaterally taking huge amounts of gas for themselves without FPI knowledge or permission.

FPC questions gas

The sources also speculated that this practice may have been an important contributor to the severe winter gas shortage that plagued the Midwest and Northeast.

Energy subcommittee chairman John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) told a reporter he will ask the subcommittee to consider seeking a Justice Department determination whether the Natural Gas Act, and possibly antitrust laws as well, have been violated.

He also hopes to have the Interior Department establish whether producers owe the government royalties for gas diverted to their own uses.

In addition, Dingell said, he hopes to hold hearings soon on whether specific legislation is needed to prevent producers from taking for themselvs gas from the public do-

The Texaco spokesman, contending that the firm had complied with FPC requirements, said that the FPC in 1964 had authorized Sabine Pipeline to "transport Texaco's own produced gas" from an extraction plant near Henry, La., to Port Arthur.

Texaco pledged to the agency that it would provide the pipeline subsidiary with all the gas needed at Port Arthur until 1984, the spokesman said. To fulfill the pledge, Texaco legally committed supplies from the offshore fields, he said.

In January 1976, FPC sources revealed that without FPC knowledge or authorization, Tenneco, Inc., a major Houston-based conglomerate, had for 11 years allowed industries in Louisiana to burn large quantities of gas needed by Midwestern and Northeastern consumers. The arrangement — discovered accidentally by the FPC — involved two subsidiaries, Tenneco Oil Co., a gas producer, and Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co., an interstate facility, and ultimate customers in Louisiana including a Tenneco refiner and a chemical company.

The agency staff recommended prosecution of Tenneco, but the Commission rejected it. In recent filings wth the FPC and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Tenneco said that an internal investigation had unearthed sales of about 100 million cubic feet of gas a day since 1965 by its interstate pipelines, Tennessee Gas, to an intrastate affiliate, Channel Industries

Channel sold the gas - which had come from public lands and was committed by contracts to interstate customers - to a Texas refinery which paid far more for it than is permitted under federal controls on interstate sales.

Reported to be a man who "loves a fight," Rep. Jack Brooks has a high vantage point these days in his role as chairman of the House Government Operations Committee.

He is seen here with another kind of lofty view-showing off the House Chamber's new remote television capabilities.

Brooks not afraid to take on President

By JOHN H. AVERILL The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.) is viewed as one of the most partisan Democrats in Congress. But it came as no surprise to his friends that Brooks got into a noisy confrontation with the new Democrat in the White House within days after President Carter took office.

"Jack loves a fight," said a fellow Texan who worked in the White House when Lyndon B. Johnson was President. "He plays real hard ball.

The dispute over how to handle government reorganization plans has now been peacefully compromised, with both sides professing satisfaction. But the incident demonstrated anew that the 54-year-old cigar-smoking Texan has no fear of the White House

"Jack was a protege of Lyndon Johnson's but he had no awe of him," the fellow Texan said. "He used to tell Johnson whatever was on his mind. He has no awe of Carter either.'

Brooks' partisan nature came most vividly to attention during the televised impeachment proby the House Judiciary Committee, of which Brooks delighted to have further hearings." is a senior member.

Brooks also happened to be chairman of the House

Key Biscayne, Fla., and San Clemente.

Seeking to defend the $10 million federal investments, Arthur Sampson, then head of the General Services Administration, remarked that some of the facilities installed by the government had reduced the value of the Nixon homes.

"Oh, really," remarked Brooks with icy sarcasm. 'Well, Mr. Sampson, I'd like you to come down to my farm and desecrate it a little bit.'

There was a similar incident a few days ago as Brooks' subcommittee was concluding hearings on Carter's government reorganization proposals.

Rep. Frank Horton (R-N.Y.), a supporter of the Carter proposal opposed by Brooks, remarked that more witnesses had spoken in support of the President's position and wondered if that didn't signify something.

Brooks, a pixieish gleam in his eye, blew a cloud of cigar smoke in Horton's direction and said: If the gentleman from New York, who seems to be an ally of the President, would like we can have additional hearings and hear from some ceedings against then President Richard M. Nixon distinguished lawyers who support me. I would be

Self-determination advocated for Indians on reservations

WASHINGTON (AP) - American Indians living on reservations should be given the power of self- recommendation that Indians be given the power to determination, including the authority to levy taxes tax non-Indians on reservations. He complained that, and to try non-Indians in their tribal courts, a report for Congress says.

These are among more than 100 recommendations contained in a report by the American Indian Policy Review Commission, a member of the panel said Tuesday night.

The full report is scheduled to be released this week. The 11-member commission was set up by Congress two years ago to review U.S. Indian policy. The panel includes six congressmen and five representatives of Indian tribes.

Basically, the commission has recommended that tribes be considered as sovereign nations, said Rep. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash.

Meeds is the only member to strongly disagree with the report's recommendations. The report is leader of the leftist alliance in Lebanon's civil war, being distributed to more than 1,000 groups for was killed in a machinegun ambush today, police

In addition to granting Indians full legal rights to run their own affairs, the report also criticizes the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA). Meeds said the report contends the bureau has interfered in tribal elections and plays off tribe against tribe.

Oswald didn't seek aid--CIA man

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - An Italian hijacker was overpowered and arrested today at the end of an 8,500-mile pirate flight in a Spanish airliner around Europe and West Africa. It was the longest hijacking on record.

Police said the hijacker, Luciano Porcari, 36, shot and slightly wounded one of the three policemen who seized him inside the plane. No one else was Porcari released seven other passengers in Turin, Italy, and nine in Zurich Tuesday.

The hijacker brought the plane to Zurich from Warsaw where he had agreed to free all hostages in exchange for the new crew to fly him to Moscow. After three hours of negotiations, the Spanish ambassador to Poland, Jesus Millarudo, said:

"We can't understand the man's mind. He must be crazy. It has nothing to do with politics. He just thinks he's solving his personal

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - While students and professors at the University of Texas at Austin were enjoying the relaxation of a week-long spring holiday, the House agreed Tuesday to drastically restrict the use of graduate school teaching assistants in freshman and sophomore courses.

Rep. John Hoestenbach of Odessa, the sponsor of HB 833, admits the restrictions are aimed directly at correcting "flagrant" abuses in the use of teaching assistance (TAs) at UT Austin, but he insisted it was only a coincidence that the House would debate the issue while the huge campus of over 40,000 students was largely not in town to oppose the legisla-

Final passage of HB 833 is expected when the House returns Wednesday. After more than two hours of debate Tuesday, the legislation was tentatively approved Tuesday on a 78-60

Reps. Sarah Weddington, Wilhelmia Delco, Gonzalo Barrientos and Gerald Hill, all representing Austin, voted against Hoestenbach's bill after attempting to amend the legislation to make its provisions far less restrictive.

Hoestenbach said the crux of HB 833 is to insure that freshman and sophomores have exposure to ranked faculty and not just TAs, who do not know what courses they will be teaching until, sometimes, days before the lectures begin. WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration economic stimulus appropriation may seem like a major step to some congressmen. But not to Rep. George Mahon.

Mahon, 77, has seen a lot of stimulus proposals in his 42 years in Congress. Some of them were more momentous than the one which he, as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, steered to passage Tuesday

"In 1935, Franklin D. Roosevelt asked for $4 billion dollars for public works. It was an unheard of sum at the time. The entire federal budget in 1934 was only $6 billion.'

To measure up to that Rooseveltian proportion, Carter's stimulus package, which totals $30 billion over two years, would have to spend about 10 times as much.

Mahon voted for the Depression measure, along with an overwhelming majority of both the House and Senate. "We had a serious situation then.

In discussing the swimming program, Langford told the trustees only two other Texas two-year colleges have competitive swimming, so Midland College has had to compete with four-year universities.

Langford said there is a question as to whether it is "within our scope" to enter such competition and whether program is justified with such limited

India election begins; more voting than usual

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - The world's largest election began today as India's silent masses went to the polls to elect a new lower house of Parliament and to decide whether Prime Minister Indira Gandhi will continue in power. The voter turnout was reported heavier than usual, a development that Mrs. Gandhi's opponents had said should prove favorable to them.

Voting was scheduled today in 300 of the country's 542 election districts and continues through Sunday. First results were to be announced then,

The 59-year-old prime minister made a final campaign appeal to the 320 million voters not to believe opposition charges that she had been a dictator since she put the country under a national state of emergency 21 months ago, jailed thousands of her opponents, censored the press and drastically amended the constitution.

after the last balloting.

"If I had been a dictator, the people would not have been able to talk about dictatorship, and elections to Parliament would not have been possible," she told a rally in her native state of Uttar Pradesh.

A helicopter took her to district after district, seeking votes for her Congress party, India's governing party since independence in 1947. The five parties formed to defeat Mrs.

Reports from around the country indicated that the polling was generally peaceful. Only a few in-cidents of violence were reported, primarily in the Calcutta area, where Mrs. Gandhi's opposition charged Congress party workers "captured" some voting stations to prevent normal polling. The police said they

In the last election, in 1971, the Congress party won a two-thirds majority in the lower house, enabling it to amend the constitution without difficulty during the emergency. But Mrs. Gandhi's emergency rule united her opponents as they never had been brought together before and split the Congress party, and neutral observers thought the outcome would be

One of the chief issues in the campaign was Mrs. Gandhi's 30-yearold son, Sanjay, who is running for Parliament for the first time.

Midland housewife shares her opinions

"I never can write letters," said the everyday housewife, "because my life is not that glamorous." Nor is her life that drab, either.

If it's typical enough, the life of 29year-old housewife-mother Pam Mears is somewhere between dreaded drabness and enchanting

She was hospitable enough and sufficiently garrulous on a afternoon this week to make a writer's poopcollecting task interesting.

This 5-foot-even gal rambled and talked just about everything - from the wet wetness of Louisiana to the dry dryness of West Texas -Midland, specifically.

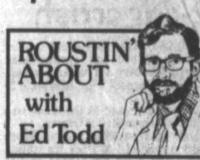

So, here's the housewife, typical or not, talking with the wind: - LIVING COSTS: "Man, it's as high as a cat's back to walk in a store. I would like to work, but (she stays home, instead) . . . I have champagne taste on beer salary.

"Of course my job's obsolete. I was a bookkeeper (at a bank). They've got computers now.

"Richard (her husband) is always telling his boss, 'I don't care how much money I make, I always want a little bit more than I get."

Typical, perhaps. Breadwinner of the Mears household is a ramrodder on a selsmographic crew. - LEISURE TIME: "I do more reading in the summertime than I do in the wintertime, because I do love television." Mostly, she reads what she calls "women's novels." "A lot of things don't get done," when she elects to read and to put the day-to-day chores aside . . . for

"There's got to be more to life than washing clothes, washing dishes, cleaning the house and fixing meals."

- MOVING AROUND: Mrs. Mears grew up as a Baptist preacher's daughter in "wet, wet-wet" Louisiana and eventually ended up in dry and dusty West Texas. She and her moving-around husband have lived in Montana, Utah, Ohio, West Virginia.

Illinois, Alabama, Mississippi . . GETTING SICK: "They may nk I'm a chronic sicker." said Mrs. (Continued on Page 2A)

Midland Parks and Recreation Commission Tuesday gave its approval to increasing the green fees at Hogan Park Golf Course.

Some of the increases include regular annual fees to $150, daily fees of $3 for a round of golf on weekdays and $4 for weekend or holiday play. Parks and recreation chief Robert

Thomson said the increases would largely raise revenues at the golf course from $130,000 a year to as much as $170,000, however, a more realistic expectation is $161,000 which is enough to make it operate in the

Thomson said the golf course lost money last year and would fall behind its budget by some $30,000 if increases aren't approved. Rex Worrell, golf pro at Hogan, said

Thomson said a survey of nearby cities reveals green fees at or above the proposed new rates. He said

Lubbock is charging $200 annual fees, while daily rates are $3 weekdays and $4 weekends. Kermit has a nine-hole municipal course that charges $3 weekdays and $4 weekends. Sunset Country Club, an Odessa course open to the public, charges $3 weekdays and $5 weekends. Golden Acres Country Club near Odessa charges $3 for weekday and $4.50 for weekend

Thomson said he does not expect the proposed increases to have any effect on the fate of a $900,000 bond issue to add nine additional holes and fertilizer, equipment prices, "and just a new pro shop to Hogan Park.

If they are to take effect for this summer, the increases must be approved as an emergency matter at the next Midland City Council meeting

In other action, the commission:

— Approved Central YMCA's request to use a portion of Cole Park for a day camp this summer and the Midland Y headquarter's request to use Hogan Park for a fund-raising barbegue April 16. The money would be used to help send a group of Y members to Mexico City to put on an athletic clinic.

- Approved American Business Club's request to have a fund-raising barbeque at Hogan Park May 14. - Approved City of Midland Swim

Two carport variance requests turned down

Two requests to locate carports in front of homes, in violation of front set-back requirements of the zoning ordinance, were turned down Tuesday by the Midland Board of Adjustment

In the one case, Jack C. Harper was requesting a variance to permit building a carport in front of his home at 4511 Versailles Drive so that his invalid wife could have more convenient access to his automobile. Harper said the carport would not obstruct the view of people, pointed to two other nearby houses that have carports in the front, and said his neighbors did not object to granting the variance.

The board was told by its staff, however, that the two nearby houses with carports in the front win violation of the zoning ordinance, and board attorney Deke Austin said granting a variance could pose an enforcement problem.

Odessa man killed in 2-car crash

ODESSA — A 72-year-old Odessa man was killed and another man injured following a two-car accident Tuesday afternoon near Interstate 20 and FM 2227.

Pronounced dead at the scene was William Vernon Stell of Odessa.

Stell was eastbound on a south service road of I-20 when his station wagon and a car southbound on FM 2227 collided at the intersection of the two roads, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The driver of the car, John Curry, 44, of Odessa reportedly suffered lacerations of the legs and chest. Curry was listed in satisfactory condition at Odessa's Medical Center Hospital this morning.

suggested Harper file a new request with the board asking for a variance to the side yard requirement so that his wife will still be able to gain easy access to the car.

The other request for a carport in the front yard was made by Hugh R. Sloan. Because of an unusual lot design, Sloan did not have to request a variance, but instead chose to ask for a special exception to the zoning ordinance, which is legally easier to grant, Austin said.

Sloan wants to constuct a double carport for his home at 3207 Louisiana Ave. The board decided by a 3 to 1 vote not to grant the special ex-

Builder Harvey Langston requested a variance that would lessen the width of lots he wishes to build houses on in the 2300 and 2400 blocks of Haynes Avenue. Langston wanted to decrease by six inches the width on each lot so that he could build an additional single-family residence.

The board took no action on the request, however, because board member Jim Butler said his wife works for Langston, and he therefore had to disqualify himself from voting.

There were only four board members at the meeting, and four affirmative votes are needed before a variance can be granted. In other action, the board:

- Approved Midland North Inc.'s request for variance to permit a slightly undersized lot to have a house built on it in the 2300 block of West Golf Course Road.

- Approved Paul C. Porter's variance request to exceed the rear yard requirement for his house at 1800 North H St. Porter needs the extra area for a carport.

- Approved A. L. Winkler's variance request to use the side of his house at 811 North D St. for a carport. - Approved Kenneth Marks' equest for variance in the rear yard requirements for three lots in the 2200 block of Front Street. Marks will have a building built there.

But a government statement in Zaire said the mercenaries were led by men "from the other side of the Atlantic:" a clear reference to Cuban forces, which were instrumental in establishing the Marxist regime in neighboring Angola.

Cuban leader Fidel Castro is visiting Africa this week. He was scheduled to arrive in Tanzania today from Ethiopia. However, a Tanzanian Foreign Ministry spokesman said today that Castro will arrive there Thursday and that his visit to the country, which borders Zaire on the east, has been extended from three days to five. The spokesman gave no reason for the change in plans. The Carter administration has been making overtures to Castro in hopes of improving relations with Cuba. Cuban intervention in Zaire could disrupt that effort. In Paris, however, a group calling itself the Congolese National Liberation Front described the attacks as a nationalist uprising by the Katangese separatist movement. Since the central government in Kinshasa quashed a secessionist movement in 1963, the United States has supported the unity of Zaire, which was the Belgian Congo. The Carter administration has budgeted $32.5 million in military aid for Zaire, more than any other African country. The administration was playing down the significance of the shipments and U.S. officials said no weapons are included. State Department spokesman Frederick Z. Brown told reporters "there is absolutely no intention to involve American soldiers." And Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said the White House is giving "no thought or consideration to sending ground troops there.

Schoenewolf named to Andrews post

ANDREWS — Doug Schoenewolf was named Permian General Hospital administrator of hospital affairs Tuesday night by the hospital board of trustees.

The announcement followed the March 1 retirement of Everett Solomon after 20 years of service.

In his new position, Schoenewolf will face expansion of the hospital bed capacity to more than 100. The hospital recently received a state certificate of need allowing them to complete the third floor and add more than 20 more beds.

Work on the rooms is expected to begin soon. The board reviewed plans for the work Tuesday with architect Jack Lemmon.

Retiring administrator Solomon was praised for his work for better medical service for the area and credited with helping to plan the hospitals's long range expansion.

Landfills replacing open dumps

By LARRY SPRINGER Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - For the most part, the days of the foul-smelling, perpetually smoldering open dump are gone in Texas.

The new concept of sanitary landfills — as expressed in the solid waste regulations of the State Department of Health Resources - mandates properly maintained solid waste disposal facilities and requires measures to prevent water pollution.

Additionally, there is a prohibition against open burning and a requirement that such sites do not become

But county and municipal officials across the state now have reason to wonder if their somewhat expensive cleanup efforts and development of landfills in accordance with the new state regulations will be waylaid by provisions of the federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act of

For one thing, the Environmental Protection Agency has yet to develop regulations defining just exactly what a sanitary landfill is.

The Texas standards for such landfills are thought to be among the best in the nation, setting out various categories of these facilities with each type subject to increasing degrees of maintenance and construction stan-

Officials can't help but worry that the EPA sanitary landfill definition might be more restrictive than the Texas regulations, thereby jeopardizing the continued operation of existing landfills. ## Living will'bill heard

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) "I do not want to be prolonged indefinitely when I'm dying," said a young woman who is terminally ill with leukemia.

"We can't fool around with human life," declared an attorney. The statements came during Tuesday's lengthy, emotional Senate Jurisprudence Committee hearing on a bill allowing Texans to write a "living will" to keep their lives from being artificially prolonged by machines.

The committee approved the measure, by Sen. Ray Narabee, D-Wichita Falls, by an 8-3

"I've signed a living will. ..but it won't stand said leukemiastricken Sally Tullos, 31, of Austin. "I very much want to be able to die with dignity."

The proposal would, in effect, allow patients to order their doctors to withhold or withdraw any artificial life-sustaining procedures when the patient is found to be terminally ill. Farabee, whose mother died four years ago after lingering 10 days with the help of a machine, said the measure is designed to remove the burden of such a decision from family members. He said it isn't connected with euthanasia or "mercy killing," since it applies only in cases where death is imminent. Attorney William Buckner disagreed, "People keep saying this is not a euthanasia bill. Let's call is what it is. It's voluntary, passive euthanasia, nothing more, nothing less."

Other opponents in-cluding a Catholic priest, argued that the bill isn't necessary and is poorly drafted.

"It is my personal feeling...that I would like to have this procedure available so that I could issue such a directive to make my wishes known.' said Farabee.

Jurisprudence Chairman A.R. Schwartz added, "My mother lived for 15 years in a nursing home because of heroic efforts — without any quality of life whatsoever. I certainly want an opportunity to do something different in my own case."

Farabee's bill includes several safeguards and doesn't allow anyone other than the patient to issue "natural death" orders to the doctor.

When a patient has been informed of a terminal condition and has at least 14 days to consider his action, he may sign the directive.

Thomas Albrecht, 13, hugs mother after earlier court hearing.

Youngster found guilty of killing 3-year-old

(AP)-Psychiatrists say 13 year-old Tommy Albrecht learned about violence through his father's threats and thrashings. Now Tommy faces five years in state custody for beating to death a 3-year-old girl.

Juvenile Court Judge John Miller ordered Tommy turned over to the Division of Youth Services Tuesday after denying an insanity plea and finding him guilty of manslaughter.

Officials said Tommy could be kept in state institutions until he reaches age 18.

The boy was charged with second-degree murder for hitting and kicking Staci Chubin to death last Oct. 26 after he spent 20 hours babysitting the child. The judge reduced the charge to manslaughter.

Witnesses at Tommy's three-day trial painted a picture of a confused and hostile boy who learned the use of his fists from beatings administered by his father, Larry Albrecht.

One psychiatrist called him "impulsive, explosive and detached," with uncontrollable violent impulses.

Beating Tommy was his (father's) answer to everything," the boy's mother, Jean Albrecht, told the court. "He was always throwing things

Legislators endorse plan for decriminalizing grass

The Los Angeles Times

 ${\bf WASHINGTON-Members\ of\ Congress\ testifying}$ before a House drug investigating committee Tuesday endorsed the Carter administration's call for decriminalizing possession and use of marijuana. Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) and Reps. Yvonne Burke (D-Calif.) and Edward Koch (D-N.Y.) appeared before the House Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control to advocate decriminalization but not legalization of the use of

Under decriminalization, possessors of small amounts of marijuana could not be jailed but they still would be subject to civil fines.

Mrs. Burke testified that marijuana, once an inner city problem, has now spread throughout U.S. society. But she said it should be dealt with like traffic offenses, reserving police manpower for combatting hard drugs where criminal penalties should be retained.

"I'm more concerned about angel dust," she said. Mrs. Burke explained after leaving the witness

The congresswoman disputed Los Angeles Police Chief Edward M. Davis' testimony Monday that he believed the number of marijuana users increased in California after the state last year removed criminal penalties for possession and use of small quantities. She said the California Field Poll had indicated

Mrs. Burke was asked by a reporter after the hearing about a statement before the committee Monday by Dr. Peter Bourne, director-designate of the Office of Drug Abuse. Bourne said, in reply to a question, that the Carter administration was "in the process now of very carefully reexamining our position" on decriminalization of cocaine use.

Mrs. Burke said emphatically that she would not favor any decriminalization of hard drugs. A similar position was taken by Rep. Koch during his appearance before the committee.

But Koch and Sen. Javits urged decriminalization of federal marijuana offenses, saying New York's tough state law in this area had proved a failure because of erratic enforcement.

Mrs. Burke said the legal treatment of gambling was analogous to what she and her colleagues advocate in the control of marijuana. It would be impossible to prosecute every one who places a bet with a bookmaker, she said, but the law pursues the book. * Pol ed paid for by Gordon G. White, who received Senate approval as deputy secretary of agriculture Tuesday, recounted his own boyhood as the son of a tenant farmer who was able to buy a farm with the help of a government loan and said: "I have no hesitancy in recommending investment in the family farmer.

However, White's views of major agricultural issues indicated that he has no plans to push for radical change in existing farm programs.

White said he was in general agreement with the price support concept that has been in use in recent years, although he would like to tinker

He said he thought the food stamp program ought to stay in the Department of Agriculture rather than be shifted to another agency. He said he wanted to end abuses and make more stamps available to the truly poor, a goal espoused by both the Ford and Carter administrations.

Senate approval of White came on a voice vote, with no objections, shortly after the Agriculture committee gave unanimous approval to the man who has been Texas commissioner of agriculture for 26 years.

"There is not one (state commissioner) more highly regarded by his peers. This is as close as the administration could come to an ideal appointment.

QUESTION: HOW CAN ABORTION BE CALLED MURDER OR

EVEN SERIOUS SIN UNTIL SCIENCE DETERMINES WHEN LIFE

ANSWER: Notice that this is not so much a question as a defense of abortion, and a commonly used one. It is a horrifying defense because it exposes an ignorance which

SCIENCE ANSWERS THE QUESTION OF WHEN HUMAN

LIFE BEGINS THE SAME WAY IT ANSWERS THE QUESTION OF WHEN ANIMAL LIFE BEGINS. When a dog conceives, new canine life begins; when a cow conceives, new bovine

IS THE NEW LIFE HUMAN AT ONCE? This question is not asked about the human body but about the human soul. It is, then, not a scientific question but a philosophical question and a faith question. It is asked by those who believe the human soul is spiritual and therefore must come directly from God by an act of creation. But when?

DOES THE POSING OF THIS QUESTION PROVIDE A PRETEXT FOR ABORTION? By no means, ignorance in no way lessons the secredness of human life from the moment of conception. Human life begins from two human beings and God's creative act, and its term is a human being called to eternal life with God. At what point

We can go further, and observe that the medieval notion that the soul does not originate at conception was based on total ignorance of the genetic structure already present at conception. As Dr Mortimer Adler holds, there is no longer philosophical or theological reason to doubt that "the embryo is a fully potential human being from the memors of conception."

IF THERE REMAINS ANY QUESTION OF WHEN THE SOUL

But the rancher-banker-oilman also faces 17 civil suits in state district courts in San Diego and Houston claiming Manges owes almost a million dollars for oil field services. One of the suits involves $381,000 allegedly owed to an Alice lumber company for the construction of Manges' palatial, part-time residence in Duval County.

In addition, county and school taxes allegedly owed by Manges total more than a million dollars for the years 1971 through 1976.

"You don't really think I'm going to let go of that land, do you?" Asked Manges although he was not wiling to discuss possible solutions to his multifaceted financial problems.

In addition to his financial woes, Manges also faces "theft of service" charges in state court.

She'd rather flunk than switch...

DALLAS (AP) - A Dallas public school desegregation plan apparently is successful in that at least one bright student has threatened to flunk the eighth grade in order to continue her present course of study at a specialized junior high.

Cathy Thompson, an eighth grader at Oliver Wenell Folmes Academy, shocked a panel of parents, students and teachers at the Dallas magnet school (7th and 8th grades) by saying she may purposely flunk in order to continue receiving a broad education in classics. If she passes and goes to the ninth grade, she said she has no place to get a similar education.

Her statement brought home the message that she and other students feel that the school, one of 12 set up under a Dallas public school desegregation plan, is a

Magnet schools, many of them intermediate level, were set up last year to emphasize different subjects and are attended by students on a voluntary basis under established racial quotas.

Another student, Doug Tramel, told the panel he is also uncertain about the possibility of getting the same kind of education in another school that he is getting at the magnet school. He is studying languages and computers.

The academy is really a school within a school. Its 166 students, out of a total enrollment of 1,800, are given a classical curriculum with emphasis on history, languages and music. Teachers choose qualified students and encourage them to join the academy

'We concentrate on creative thought and research," principal T. R. Lee Jr., said. "We encourage research, they go into the sociological espects of history, of man, into the 'why' 'when' and 'where'.'' The students find it fascinating and watching them become involved and do their research is a rewarding thing.

The language courses include Latin, Greek, French, Spanish and German.

Lee said that students like Cathy and Doug will need to attend a specialized magnet high school or honors courses in their regular high schools when they leave Holmes.

While Cathy and Doug were worrying about where to go next year, school officials were appointing a task force to study reports of resentment and lack of cooperation by some principals and faculties whose top teachers and students are being recruited for the magnet schools.

The reports claimed that principals in regular schools are not encouraging their top students to attend the magnet

Reporter testifies for 'open' records

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Until the Open Records Act of 1973, police reporters in Houston had the right for 40 years to look at offense reports and individual criminal records, so-called rap sheets, says Bob Brown of the Houston Chronicle.

Brown testified Tuesday before Senate Jurisprudence subcommittee on criminal matters in support of a bill that would restore that right.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who said he worked as a police reporter for the Houston Post in the early 1950s, also testified for the measure.

But Dallas Police Chief D. A. Byrd said he hoped the legislature in its "infinite wisdom" will amend the bill in some way so he can protect the privacy of victims of crime.

The bill, by Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, was left on the table of the subcommittee after Jones asked Byrd to make suggestions to the Dallas city attorney, who in turn can work on the bill with Jones. As soon as the Open Records Act

I can't really remember too much about that winter day before the water crashed in. Or even who I talked to. I guess it was the shock of seeing that unexpected force of nature.

What bothers me though is why, or how, I alone was spared, while nine other men died deep in the earth. Later I would wonder if I had been spared only to die alone days after my friends.

Anna Mae (my wife) woke me at 4 a.m. like she always does when I'm on the day shift. I had coffee, a couple of eggs and then went outside to wait for my ride to the Kocher Coal Co. mine.

There I changed into work clothes, hooked on a freshly charged battery to my head lamp, and went into the tunnel. I was assigned to work with Ralph Renninger and Donald Shoffler.

Down in the mine, we drilled test holes to check where there might be water above us. This is always done for safety purposes.

Most of the morning we kept drilling.

Then we hit rock. We stopped drilling to fire some dynamite near the ceiling of that deep coal chute. We wanted to clear away loose rock and coal so it couldn't fall down on us.

WASHINGTON -Rings appear to be circling the remote planet Uranus, a finding that would make it the second planet in the solar system to have rings around it.

The discovery of what scientists believe are rings around Uranus means the magnificent rings of Saturn are no longer unique to the solar system of nine planets — a supposition treated as scientific fact since 1655 when Dutch Astronomer Christian Huygens identified Saturn's rings.

At no time in the last 320 years had astronomers been able to locate a second planet with rings, because the light of the more remote

Vikings to affect Russians

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A Russian scientist says a decision by his country concerning an attempt to bring a sample of Mars to earth will be affected by Viking data.

Two American-sent Viking spacecraft currently are working on the Martian surface and two more are orbiting that planet.

"We can possibly use the same drilling equipment (as was used by an unmanned Russian spacecraft on the moon)," Dr. Y. L. Surkov said Tuesday.

Surkov and Dr. V. L. Barsukov, who is director of the Vernadsky Institute in Moscow, held a news conference at the space center here where Russian scentists are attending the eight Lunar Science Conference.

Barsukov presented a bit of the last sample of the moon brought to earth. It was delivered last August by Luna 24, an unmanned Russian spacecraft. Under an agreement, this country and Russia exchange samples of materials taken from other planets.

Civilization gains power with chair

By MICHAEL KERNAN The Washington Post

Is civilization possible without the chair?

I mean, think about it. Plenty of animals make their own beds, but did you ever see even the sharpest rat sitting down in a chair?

The chair is no mere piece of furniture; it's a concept. It says something about human power. It is political. Long before the kings of Scotland were crowned on the Stone of Scone, the idea of a throne must have existed. After all, if you could afford to sit down in the presence of strangers, that is, enemies, and not stand ready for combat, it must mean you didn't fear them very much. Where do you think the word chairman came from?

Even today, in an executive office, the chair has mojo. Try asking the boss for a raise when you're sitting in a chair lower than the one across the desk.

the fur-clad genius who discovered that it was possible to rest without lying down? Who first sighed the sublime sigh of a sitter subsiding, spent, onto a

In our homes, this curiously ambiguous emblem of The authority and relaxation is almost a member of the family. Can you imagine everyone standing around the living room after supper chatting or reading or watching the tube?

My grandfather, an old soldier from the Gold Rush days, took up wood-carving in his last yaers and made a marvelous mahogany armchair, all claws and scrolls and subtly sculptured sitzplatz. It was always my father's chair in the dining room, and mine in my turn. Once in the '50s a woman friend, a feminist ahead of her time, railed bitterly at this Keys, husband and wife, chair — not at me, particularly, but at the chair for its mute sexism.

I no longer sit in it because it is getting arthritic, but it still stands at the head of the table. It insists on being there. Move it off to the side, and the whole room looks wrong. What can you do?

My father also had his special armchair, by the fire in the library, deep, profoundly comfortable, with a high back and generous arms: a chair to take a nap in. Sometimes I would sit in this chair to read his Herald Tribune, but never when he was around. Something made me get up and offer it to him when he came in the room. Not that he was in the least threatening, or that I was in the least polite. It was something in the chair. We still have that chair, all but reupholstered to death, and are about to retire it, but people still shy away from sitting in it unless I insist.

My mother also had her special chair: elegant, dowell-backed, efficient. It was the chair she sat in to write checks. If she wanted to relax, she would lie on

Another one, a fine old wing chair, used to be stationed by a window in the living room overlooking the lawn and the valley beyond. It was in a nook, so you could sit perfectly still in it and someone looking for you to do a chore would walk right past. I decided to make it my official reading chair. But it was too formal, too sternly straight-backed, so I never warmed to it. We still have that one too, in the attic, too valuable to throw away, not valuable enough to GENERAL TENDENCIES! You can tell a lot about a family by its chairs: whether it's socially ambitious, puritanical, lazy, response whatever. The class is taught by ex-con Robert Dellinger, who says he made $100,000 last year selling scripts to such TV shows as "Switch," "Serpico," "The Streets of San Francisco" and "The Blue Knight."

Among the inmates at the class is Sara Jane Moore, the California housewife who, on a sunny San Francisco day tried to assassinate President Gerald Ford.

Even though her life sentence here would preclude any literary career on the outside in this century, Moore, like the other students, comes to Dellinger's class out of a need to express the frustrations of prison life. "Any time I'm locked up I write," the nervous matronly Moore, 47, explains. "When I first got here the cons said come to this class. At the class, Moore says, she is developing her rhetorical skills, which she first learned reading the works of Mao, Lenin and Marx. "I wrote some politics when I was in the movement. I read a little bit of everything," she says. "But now a lot of what I read means more to me now that I'm in prison. I'm much more comfortable expressing my beliefs now than I was before. Much more."

But for most of the others at this unique class in a barred-up room, the need for letting loose the personal realities of prison outweighs the desire for political expression. they come to their teacher for a skill that will give them something for all the dues they are paying.

U.S. women's volleyball team in Tall City for exhibitions

The United States Women's National Volleyball Team will square off against the Canadian National Team Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Midland Lee gym.

The special exhibition match against the two highly regarded Olympic hopefuls for 1980 is being sponsored by the Midland Miss Softball America program. Tickets for the event are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

The two teams may play again Friday if the Thursday response is worthwhile.

Both teams are in preparation for the NORCECA Tournament, which is to be held April 24 through April 30 in Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic. The NORCECA Tournament is a qualification tourney for the World Cup to be held in Japan in

THE UNITED States squad was scheduled to arrive in Midland today, and have scheduled a workout in the Midland High gym for 3:30 this afternoon. The workout will be open to the public at no charge.

The U.S. squad makes its home base in Pasadena, Tex., and coach Arie Selinger will bring to Midland what he thinks is the best women's volleyball team the United States has ever

Blomberg slams 400-foot homer in Yankee win

By The Associated Press

"It feels," Ron Blomberg said, "like you're a fan and you jumped up and hit a home run." Blomberg ought to know. For the past 11/2 years, he has been little more than a fan. Tuesday night, he became a hitter again. A career .302 hitter before suffering a shoulder injury that wiped him out in July, 1975 and limited him to one game and two at-bats last season, Blomberg unloaded a 400-foot two-run homer and a run-scoring grounder as the New York Yankees defeated the Minnesota Twins 9-4 in an exhibition game. But it was much more than a meaningless spring game to the 28-year-old Blomberg, who is trying to recapture his spot as the Yankees' designated hitter against right-handed pitching.

The home run was his first since July 8, 1975, and it was his first hit of any kind since last April 4. "THIS WAS like a regular-season game for me. The home run felt good, it feels like my swing is coming back," said Blomberg, whose powerful, compact stroke is one of baseball's neatest swings. "If I show them I can swing the bat I'll probably be a part of this team.

"I'm getting my timing, so far so good. The shoulder feels good. Physically it feels 100 per cent but mentally I have to get prepared for it. Mentally, it was getting to me. I have to get my mind saying it's 100 per cent. That's a big adjustment for me.

I talked to the doctor even after the home run and he said, 'I told you nothing's going to happen.'

"I took some bad swings in the first couple of games and I saw the injury all over again. The doctor said that's natural. Mentally, the home run was a big thrill for me. I see all the players and I feel I'm part of the team.

"I've got to win a position down here. Even if I show them I can hit, I don't know what's going to happen to me. I want to show them I can play, drive in important runs and be part of this club. I'd like to stay in New

76ers rout Cavaliers after team meets

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia 76ers may be back on the track.

Having aired their gripes and spoken their pieces, the 76ers settled down to what they do best Tuesday night and routed the Cleveland Cavaliers 133-102.

"I think the stories cleared the air." suggested 76ers forward George McGinnis, referring to reports of discord on the team which had surfaced earlier this week. "Everybody came into the lockerroom tonight with a different attitude. "If this can be a turning point for us, it couldn't come at a better time." Indeed, if the 76ers are to go far in the National Basketball Association playoffs-which are only a month away-they will have to play better than they did for the past month, when they had difficulty breaking

The way they played against Cleveland would be just fine.

"That was one of our super games." said Coach Gene Shue. "We haven't had a game like that in some time. I'd have to rate it as maybe our best road game of the season." In other NBA games, the Denver

Nuggets beat the Los Angeles Lakers 107-95, the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the New Orleans Jazz 131-104, the Kansas City Kings edged the Washington Bullets 101-99, the Chicago Bulls beat the Boston Celtics 107-96 and the San Antonio Spurs stopped the New York Nets 118-108.

Julius Erving scored 29 points for Philadelphia and McGinnis had 23, including 13 in the decisive third period. The 76ers led 57-46 at intermission, started the second half with a 10-2 burst and outscored Cleveland 43-25 in the third quarter, putting the game away.

"They played well in the first half and we played pretty well," analyzed Cavs Coach Bill Fitch. "They continued to play well and we played lousy."

Philadelphia led by as many as 34 points late in the game.

Jim Chones led the Cavaliers with 22 points.

Nuggets 107, Lakers 95 Baskets by Dan Issel, Jim Price and David Thompson within a span of 16 seconds midway through the third quarter helped Denver beat Los teams with the best records in the

Former M-Cub player ready for good year

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) - Ray Burris former Midland Cub, showed the Chicago Cubs in 1975 that he could win in the major Leagues. He showed them even more last season.

"It might have been the biggest year of my life. I was 3-11 at the end of June, and that's a deep hole to be in. But I never gave up on myself," the young right-handed pitcher said.

'I not only came back for a respectable year. I came back for a winning year. I think it was an inspiration to a lot of my teammates.

"I'm excited this spring. We're all excited. We're determined to come out of the chute fast and keep go-

New Cubs Manager Herman Franks will probably be pitching Burris on April 7 in the season-opening game at Wrigley field against the New York Mets. Burris earned last year's opening eay assignment after posting a 15-10 record in 1975, his first full season in the majors.

From 3-11 midway in the 1976 season, Burris rolled to a 15-13 finish, pitching nine complete games, including four shutouts in his last 17 starts. He posted a 3.11 earned run average.

"He just kept battling. A lot of guys might have given up, but not Ray," catcher Steve Swisher said in the Cubs' spring training camp here about the 26year-old pitcher

Burris posted a 1.89 ERA in August when he was 6-1 and voted the National League Pitcher of the The Cubs staff had a 3.93 ERA for the season, second highest in the league, and gave up the most home runs, 123.

"But a 3.00 ERA at Wrigley Field is like 2.00 in any other park. There are more runs scored in our park than anywhere else," Burris said. "But I think the park can help mold a pitcher into what he should be. You've got to keep your concentration because if you let up mentally or physically, the ball can be out of the park."

Hitters, of course, love the Chicago ball park where the wind often helps produce high-scoring games. The Cubs and Phillies hit nine homers in a game won by Philadelphia, 18-16, last April.

"I think the guys on our staff accept pitching there as a challenge," said Burris as he prepared for the challenge of baseball's 1977 season.

Johnson fretting as Rebs blanked

By PAUL DOMOWITCH

It's less than a week until the Robert E. Lee baseball team's District 5-4A opener, and things are not quite running according to schedule for Coach Ernie Johnson and his young team.

"It seems like we've peaked and are going steadily down hill," Johnson said quite disconcerted following the Rebels' 6-0 blanking at the hands of Derek Hatfield and Lubbock Monterey Tuesday at the Lee field.

Hatfield, a junior righthander for the Plainsmen, baffled Lee with his curve ball and sinker all afternoon, blanking them on five hits while his offensive-minded teammates scored on the long ball and took advantage of several Rebel mental and physical errors to win going away.

NOT SURPRISINGLY, it was the mistakes that miffed Johnson, not the nine hits Monterey banged out, including a three-run homer by Plainsman catcher Archie Crim.

"I don't mind it so much when a guy hits one over the fence on you. There's nothing much you can do about that. But mental and physical errors are a different story. They can be avoided, and should be when we're already this far along," said Johnson.

Using basically an underclassmanfilled lineup, Johnson has watched his team lose four of there last six games, after winning their first six.

"I'd like to believe it's just that we're playing better competition," Johnson added, "but it's more than

MONTEREY'S VICTORY was the second conquest of the Rebels in four days. They beat them 10-2 Saturday in the Tournament of Champions.

The winners got all the runs they really needed in the first inning off Rebel starter Doug Schmidt. With two down, Garry Holub rode a single through the left side of the infield, and Monterey's designated hitter, Bob Fannin kept things alive, when he blooped an infield hit between the pitcher's mound and second base. Centerfielder Dana Rieger then went after Schmidt's first delivery moments later, and his double plated

Chicago, Oakland

MESA, Ariz. (AP) - The Oakland A's acquired veteran right-hander Joe Coleman from the Chicago Cubs Tuesday night for veteran relief pitcher Jim Todd just prior to the interleague trading deadline, which expired at midnight.

Coleman, 30, has a 132-131 lifetime record in 12 major league seasons with Washington, Detroit and Chicago. He split the 1976 season with the Tigers and Cubs, combining for a 3-13 record. He enjoyed his best seasons in 1973 and 1971 with Detroit, winning 23 and 20 games, respectively. He also won 19 games in 1972.

Lee's biggest scoring threat of the game came in the third. Jeff Matthews beat out an infield hit, Richard was hit by a Hatfield pitch, and with two out. Craig Van Horn also beat out an infield safety that popped over the pitcher's mound. But with the bases ammed, Hatfield got Rebel third baseman Robbie Roberson to pop up.

REBEL RAMBLINGS: Lee will be home again on Saturday for a twin bill with Andrews. It will be the Rebels' final tuneup before their district opener Tuesday with Odessa. Johnson hopes to give Schmidt and Richard some more work in one of the games with the Mustangs.

Coronado clouts Bulldogs, 13-6

Calvin Reese led the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs to a 13-6 victory over the Midland Bulldogs Tuesday afternoon in a non-district baseball game at Connie Mack Field.

Inzer, a transfer from Odessa Permian, knocked in three runs and Reese batted in five with a single, double and triple for the Ponies who were winning their third in a row.

Midland's attack was led by sophomore Jimmy Zachry who had a solo home run for the Purple Pack in the fourth inning.

And for a patient to return to a normal, productive life, artificial heart devices must be miniaturized further to fit comfortably into the body.

Artificial heart might be reality within five years

By WARREN LEARY AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - On the heart beats of a small herd of calves scattered in research institutions across the country rest the hopes of a $100 million program to build a device that can take over when the human heart fails.

In the calves, at Boston Children's Hospital Center and elsewhere, the heart beats already are produced by an artificial heart. It's still a long distance from calf to human, but it's narrowing.

Some medical scientists long have held that the best way to replace a hopelessly damaged heart would be through a mechanical device rather than heart transplant. But so far, artificial hearts have worked only in calves, up to four months, while some transplants have done much better in human

Still, after years of toil, with more than $100 million spent over the past decade and $13 million more to be spent this year, scientists are guardedly optimistic. Some believe a completely artificial heart is less than a generation away. "I won't name any date, but I think it will be in our lifetime," says Dr. Michael G. DeBakey of Baylor

"We are making progress when you look back over the past 15 years," the noted Texas heart surgeon says. "We have a greater understanding of the problems, and we have solved some of them. While the complete artificial heart is the longer-

range prospect, a partial one that can handle some of a damaged heart's functions may be reality within Both devices are the goal of the Artificial Heart

Program run by National Heart and Lung Institute since 1964. But for now the emphasis is on developing a "left ventricle assist device," or LVAD, according to Dr. Peter L. Frommer, the institute's associate director of cardiology. The heart is divided into two main pumping chambers called ventricles. The right ventricle pumps blood into the lungs to pick up oxygen. The left pumps the oxygenated blood through the arteries to the body.

The left chamber does four-fifths of the heart's work and is damaged most often in heart attacks. Frommer says an LVAD could temporarily take the pumping load off a damaged left ventricle to allow it to heal. If the chamber is hopelessly impaired, a long-term LVAD might give permanent assistance or take over the ventricle's task com-

Experimental LVAD's have been used successfully in animals for up to eight weeks, but human tests failed. All of nearly a dozen patients died within a few days after receiving the devices. Fromher said all were patients near death who wouldn't have survived in any case.

Dr. C. Grant LaFarge, senior associate in car-diology at Children's Hospital Medical Center in Boston where some of the human LVAD surgery was performed, says future operations should bring better results.

"In Phase One, we got the most difficult patients who were almost dead," he says. "We are moving into a phase where we'll get patients in better shape. Hopefully, we'll get the survivors we plan on."

LVAD's are, in effect, custommade in laboratories. One commonly used is built by Thermo Electron Corp., of Waltham, Mass., and is a single chamber, J-shaped pump weighing one pound. It is externally powered by forcing air through a tube "Assist devices could be clinically useful even before we build up to our goal of longterm reliability for years," Frommer notes. "They could be used to rest or aid the heart if they're good for two weeks. two months, or two years."

Frommer says advances in assist devices help the work on the total artificial heart because similar technology is used. Some research teams are pushing ahead to the total heart.

And laboratory experience with animals has been excellent with the complete hearts, Frommer notes.
"It has been quite encouraging." Calves are used most commonly to test both LVAD's and complete hearts because their organs and body size are close to human proportions. Patients awaiting heart transplants could be tided over with temporary devices. LaFarge, who with Dr. William F. Bernhard is working on the latest model LVAD, says a long-term assist device that can be left in the body would eliminate the need for many heart transplants by taking care of the heart's biggest Researchers agree that several hurdles must be overcome in both LVAD and total heart. One is to find a reliable material to withstand the strain of a device pumping 100,000 times a day, which your heart does while it's sound.

Material and pump have to be designed to prevent damage to blood cells or clotting, something that remains to be fully achieved. So far, a wide range of plastics, metals and metal alloys have been tried.

Researchers also still are working on power for devices. External power with wires into the body. internal power cells that can be charged through the skin and nuclear units are possibilities, but all have, disadvantages ranging from likelihood of causing infection to radiation danger.

And for a patient to return to a normal, productive

3/16/77 problems is technically solvable."

Workers start day by singing hymns

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) -The only "music" usually associated with factories is the rhythmic pounding of machines. But at some North Carolina tobacco factories, work often starts with the sound of hymns.

For more than 40 years, groups of employes in a number of R.J. Reynolds Tobacco plants here have gathered around the piano at 7 a.m. half an hour before the start of their work day, to sing hymns.

"Not much is said about it, but many people know the pianos are said Harold Southern, a supervisor who has been with the company since 1936. "There is a faithful group of people who take part every week. Anyone who's interested can join in. That's the way it has always been."

but the music and early morning services were continued by employes.

Many of the songbooks used today date back to the YMCA services. Their covers have become soft and yellowed from time and use.

Throughout the years, R.J. Reynolds has had a number of ordained or licensed ministers employed as production workers. Today there are more than 100, some of whom take part in the morning ser-

'These services represent a fellowship that has never broken down throughout the years," said May Milam, an inspector in the smoking tobacco plant, who has attended the services for more than 10

"We all enjoy the fellowship," agreed Frances Tedder, an inspector who has played piano for the group for a decade. "Renewing our faith together makes a big difference in our days, our work and our lives."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Diagnosis by telephone

Dear Dr. Solomon: Whenever I don't feel well, my husband says to "Call the doctor and tell him what's the matter." But I don't see how a doctor can diagnose what is wrong over the phone. What do you think?-Lorraine B.

Dear Lorraine: The big advantage of the telephone is that you can get in touch with your doctor immediatelyor at least with his office-when something worries you. It is up to him to decide if you should come to see him tomorrow morning, or go to the hospital right away, or take a medicine he feels sure of, or wait 24 hours and see what happens. But you are right in thinking that diagnosing over the phone can be ovcerdone. Just the other day, I read a report by Dr. H. James Nickerson of Marshfield, Wisc., about a survey he had conducted. He found that in 20 per cent of the cases studied, children's earaches had been misdiagnosed over the phone. And he noted the danger of missing such complications as perforation, mastoiditis or early meningitis.

I'd make it clear to your doctor that you are always ready to come to his office if he thinks it advisable.

Dear Dr. Solomon: During the

Olympic Games in Montreal, we kept hearing about athletes having transfusions of their own blood-which they had stored earlier-in order to help their performance on the day they were competing. Is this some far-out technique for super-athletes or does it have a real medical use?-Anthony C.

Dear Anthony: Building a supply of your own blood in a blood bank before having an operation is a very sensible thing to do-and one a lot more people will go along with than the blood buildups used at the Olympics.

Transfusion of blood from one person to another is usually safe, but there can be problems. There is always the risk of hepatitis, for instance. And there is a small percentage of patients who have a serious adverse reaction. Obviously, the best blood for you is your own.

Dr. Herbert Silver of Hartford. Conn., described the self-blood-bank procedure. If you know in advance you are going to have an operation. you go to the blood bank every five days or so and deposit a pint of blood each time. Then if you need it during the operation, it will be ready. If you don't, it can be turned over to the hospital's regular blood bank for

Texas engineer cashes in on abandoned gas wells

By MILLER BONNER

ALICE, Tex. (AP) - His office is a onverted frame house. He lives in a 101-year-old grocery store and he believes Texas is about to run out of

Although he sounds like an eccentric prophet of doom, Bill Doran has apparently developed a knack for anticipating the qualms of the petroleum industry.

Two years ago, Doran sensed the arrival of skyrocketing gas prices and bought into XRG, Inc., a company which today roams South Texas purchasing the rights to long-abandoned oil and gas wells.

engineer, ran the family-owned Central Producers until 1969 when he "sold all our wells and got out of the business." But in 1972, he revived Central and two years ago began ramrodding XRG.

"I had a feeling gas and oil prices were going up," he said from the XRG offices located in a nondescript house in an Alice residential section. "A number of productive wells here closed for economic reasons in the 1960s.
"The prices were too low to make them pay. We have the ability to claim the remaining reserves in those wells and we can justify re-entry or condemn the prospect from this ofguesswork and most of the expense out of oil and gas exploration."

Consumers from Houston to Brownsville are burning gas from the once-abandoned wells. XRG pumps about a "million and a half cubic feet per day," said Doran or enough to supply a city of 10,000 residences on a monthly basis. "About two-thirds of our production goes to LoVaca and the remaining third to the Houston Natural Gas Company.

"Within 10 years—11 at the most—Texas will be dry," predicts Doran. "After this kind of winter, businesses will be coming to Texas. They will scramble for two-dollar gas rate."

Two-dollar gas—a Doran term describing the $2.02 (per thousand cubic feet) price tag on intrastate gas—prompted Doran to begin exploring "about 35,000" abandoned wells dotting South Texas.

Doran's formula is simple. Buy the rights to an abandoned well, drill through a concrete plug, install a new compressor and begin pumping away.

compressor and begin pumping away

Within 10 miles of Doran's office are "hundreds of possibilities" which appear to be rusting replicas of once productive wells.

"That well was closed in 1965," he money-maker.

"Some sites we have to drill a new well and in some rare instances, we merely turn on a valve. The guy didn't have the money to plug it and just Doran doesn't play or look the part of the sterotyped wheelin', dealin' Texas oilman with money oozing from every pocket. His office, crammed with hundreds of volumes pin-pointing the location and history of oil and gas wells, is comfortable but not publicity afforded his profession.

"The building is 101-years old," said Doran. "I always wanted to buy a place like this and redecorate it."

Fisher, Kent sectors gain wildcat projects

Fisher County drew an oil discovery nd a wildcat site and an explorer was staked in Kent.

A. G. Hill Jr., Abilene, No. 1 Mae Dallas, has been completed as a Noodle Creek oil strike in Fisher, six miles southwest of Rotan.

It pumped on potential test, 24 barrels of 42.5-gravity oil and 48 barrels of water per day, through

Penn strike potentials

Michael D. Lillis of Lubbock has completed No. 1 T. C. Gassiot as a Pennsylvanian gas discovery in McCulloch County, 21/2 miles east of

The calculated, absolute open flow potential was for 1.184 million cubic feet of gas per day, producing through perforations at 872-886 feet, after acidizing with 1,500 gallons and fracturing with 20,000 gallons and 33,000 pounds of sand.

Total depth is 1,394 feet, and 41/2inch casing is set at 1,328 feet. Plugged-back depth is 900 feet.

Wellsite is 150 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 153, H&TC survey, ¾ mile east of shallow gas production in a northwest segment of the Hall field.

Swab test yields oil

Belco Petroleum Corp., Houston, No. 1-28 Baxter-Currie; Glasscock County wildcat, 41/2 miles southeast of Garden City and one location southeast of the one-well Garden City, Southeast (Strawn) oil field, swabbed 151/2 barrels of fluid, cut 30 to 75 per cent oil, in an unreported time.

The recovery was through perforations at 9,334-9,344 feet, probably Strawn. Gas volume was 30,000 to 75,000 cubic feet per day.

It kicked off flowing by heads to tanks on a 1/2-inch choke, no gauge

Wildcat, gas opener head basin activity

Pecos County drew sites for a wildcat and an outpost. Also, a gas pay was reopened in a Pecos field. A pay zone gained a confirmation in Ward and extenders finaled in Ward and Culberson areas.

A. G. Slocum, Mills Valley, Calif. filed application for a 1,600-foot Permian wildcat in North Pecos, 12 miles west of Girvin. It is No. 1 H. E. Lamar.

Location is 1,980 feet from northeast and 1,150 feet from northwest lines of section 129, block 10, H&GN survey, one mile north of the Marlaw (Clearfork) gas field, but separated by a 4,500-foot failure.

HNG Oil Co. plans to drill No. 1-20-122 Texas American Snyndicate as a 14-mile north outpost to the Perry Bass (Devonian) gas field of Pecos.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 20, block 122, TCRR survey, 38 miles southwest of Fort Stockton. Slated bottom depth is 13,500 feet.

Ellenburger gas production has been reestablished in the Yucca Butte, West field of Pecos, with reclassification of No. 2-C Blackstone-Slaughter, for a calculated, absolute open flow of 7.375 million cubic feet of gas per day, and gas-liquid ratio measuring 18,479-1. Gravity of the liquid is 50.8 degrees.

Completion was through perforations at 10,735-10,905 feet, which had been treated with 500 gallons of

Milestones reached

Gulf Energy and Minerals Co.-U.S. has announced the completion of 30year and 25-year service anniversaries for two Midland District

M. H. Benson of Odessa, area production geologist in the Goldsmith area, marked his 25th anniversary Feb. 25. He started his career as a district geologist with Warren Petroleum in 1942.

He has served his entire tenure with Gulf in the Goldsmith Area as a senior geologist and area production geologist. He transferred from Warren to the Gulf staff in 1958.

W. M. Douglas of Sundown, lease operator in the Goldsmith Area of the Midland Production District, observed his 30th anniversary with the company Feb. 13.

He joined Gulf in 1947 as a roustabout in the Kermit Area. He also has served as lease pumper and maintenance man.

Field tests potential

A Tom Green County field gained a confirmation and an extender finaled

The Madora (Tiller and Canyon) field of Tom Green gained a second Tillery well and %-mile southwest extension to that pay with completion of Texas Oil & Gas Corp., Midland, No. 1-J Johnson, 10 miles south of San

It pumped on potential test, 43 barrels of 38-gravity oil and two barrels of water per day, with gas-oil ratio of 4.116-1.

Production was through perforations at 4,484-4,610 feet, which had been acidized with 2,250 gallons and fractured with 7,500 gallons and 7,500 pounds of sand.

It was drilled to 5,200 feet as an outpost to oil production in the Susan Peak, South (Strawn) field, and has 41/2-inch casing set on bottom. It is plugged back to 5,170 feet.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and east lines of section 30, block 25, H&TC survey.

The Tillery opener, BTA Oil Producers, No. 1 Johnson, finaled in 1963, for 96.78 barrels of 30.5-gravity oil daily, through perforations at 4,475-4,487 feet.

James K. Anderson, Inc., Dallas, completed No. 1 Toney as a %-mile southeast extension to Palo Pinto production in the Winters, North field of Runnels County, two miles northwest of Winters.

It pumped 44.59 barrels of 41gravity oil and 121 barrels of water daily, through perforations at 3,778-3.782 feet and 3,793-3,795 feet, which had been washed with 300 gallons of mud acid and acidized with 3,000

It was slated as a wildcat, and drilled to 4,561- feet. It has 41/2-inch casing set at 3,845 feet, and is plugged back to 3,800 feet.

It is 1,580 feet from south and 1,025 feet from west lines of section 77, block 64, HT&B survey.

Scarlet walked here

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)-The most famous thing at the hotel Jefferson, Richmond's oldest hotel and one of only two hotels in America designated as a national historic landmark, is its broad, red-carpeted, marble staricase. When "Gone with the Wind" was made, the movie's producers sent a crew to the hotel to film it and use it as the model for the center staircase in the Scarlet O'Hara home.

It's amazing how many people all over the world know about the link between the hotel, erected in 1895, and the movie, one of the top grossing films in box office history," said Rogers Rudd, the Jefferson's director of marketing. Not long ago, he said, a young girl from England followed her mother's instructions that if she did nothing else in Richmond, she had to walk to the top of the Jefferson's staircase.

FPC questions gas use by Texaco Inc.

By MORTON MINTZ The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - Without approval or knowledge of the Federal Power Commission, Texaco Inc., has been burning enough natural gas at one of its refineries in Texas each year to heat 523,000 homes.

The company, in a telegram replying to a commission inquiry, disclosed Mar. 8 that it has been sending 172 million cubic feet of gas daily from federal lands it leases off the Louisiana coast to its refinery facilities at Port Arthur, Tex. Since 1964, the company estimated, it has delivered 580 billion cubic feet to the refinery.

In New York City, a Texaco spokesman said that the company has complied with all requirements of the FPC in seeking and obtaining approval to transport" the gas.

Th Natural Gas Act of 1938 permits transportation of gas from public offshore lands only after the FPC has certified approval, congressional sources said.

In 1964, the sources said, the commission authorized Texaco to carry gas in the Sabine Pipeline, a subsidiary, from onshore Louisiana to Port Arthur.

But, they said, Texaco's certification does not cover construction of facilities to bring to the pipeline gas the company produces in its enormous Tiger Shoal and Lighthouse Point field offshore. Nor does it cover transportation of the offshore gas through the Sabine line to Port Ar-

The Texaco disclosure is expected to spur inquiries by the commission and by two House Commerce Com-

One of them, the Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, heard testimony last month from its own investigators that Texaco had dedicated to interstate commerce only 45 per cent of the proved reserves in the two fields, while holding 55 per cent for its own uses.

To accomplish this, Texaco told the subcommittee, it dedicated to interstate commerce only that gas produced at specific depths. The FPC certification permits this.

After the hearing, the staff of the Subcommittee on Energy and Power asked the commission to seek information from Texaco about the movement of gas from the two fields

many large producers may be doing the same thing as Texaco, thereby unilaterally taking huge amounts of gas for themselves without FPI knowledge or permission.

The sources also speculated that this practice may have been an important contributor to the severe winter gas shortage that plagued the Midwest and Northeast.

Energy subcommittee chairman John D. Dingell (D-Mich.) told a reporter he will ask the subcommittee to consider seeking a Justice Department determination whether the Natural Gas Act, and possibly antitrust laws as well, have been

He also hopes to have the Interior Department establish whether producers owe the government royalties for gas diverted to their own uses.

In addition, Dingell said, he hopes to hold hearings soon on whether specific legislation is needed to prevent producers from taking for themselvs gas from the public do-

The Texaco spokesman, contending that the firm had complied with FPC requirements, said that the FPC in 1964 had authorized Sabine Pipeline to "transport Texaco's own produced gas" from an extraction plant near Henry, La., to Port Arthur.

Texaco pledged to the agency that it would provide the pipeline subsidiary with all the gas needed at Port Arthur until 1984, the spokesman said. To fulfill the pledge, Texaco legally committed supplies from the offshore fields, he said.

In January 1976, FPC sources revealed that without FPC knowledge or authorization, Tenneco, Inc., a major Houston-based conglomerate, had for 11 years allowed industries in Louisiana to burn large quantities of gas needed by Midwestern and Northeastern consumers. The arrangement — discovered ac-cidentally by the FPC — involved two subsidiaries, Tenneco Oil Co., a gas producer, and Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co., an interstate facility. and ultimate customers in Louisiana including a Tenneco refiner and a chemical company.

The agency staff recommended prosecution of Tenneco, but the Commission rejected it.

In recent filings wth the FPC and the Securities and Exchange Commission, Tenneco said that an internal investigation had unearthed sales of about 100 million cubic feet of gas a day since 1965 by its interstate pipelines, Tennessee Gas, to an in-trastate affiliate, Channel Industries

Channel sold the gas - which had come from public lands and was committed by contracts to interstate customers - to a Texas refinery which paid far more for it than is permitted under federal controls on interstate sales.

The sales "may have failed to meet all regulatory requirements," Ten-neco acknowledged.

Gas, oil discoveries assured in WT areas

M. Brad Bennett, Inc., Robert K. Hillin and NRM of Midland have announced that gas and oil discoveries have been assured in Concho and Menard counties.

The operators' No. 1-101 Jacoby Menard County wildcat, assured production with the flowing of gas at the rate of 2.950 million cubic feet per day for an unreported time on a %-inch choke and through perforations at 3,046.5-3,049.5 feet.

Brooks not afraid to take on President

By JOHN H. AVERILL The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex.) is viewed as one of the most partisan Democrats in Congress. But it came as no surprise to his friends that Brooks got into a noisy confrontation with the new Democrat in the White House within days after President Carter took office.

Oswald didn't seek aid--CIA man

CIA operations in Mexico City in 1963 says Lee Harvey Oswald neither asked for nor received any aid from the Cubans or Russians in assassinating President Kennedy.

In fact, David Atlee Phillips writes in "The Night Watch," none of the CIA personnel in Mexico City had ever heard of Oswald, and were unaware that he had defected to the Soviet Union, married a Russian wife, and then returned to the United States.
