Rebate proposed as part of energy plan

By DON IRWIN
The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — The Administration Friday proposed payment of rebates to purchasers of fuel-efficient 1977 cars bought this Sunday and thereafter as part of President Carter's energy plan.

Rebates also would be paid on later models. The Administration warned, however, that it might seek an outright ban on new gas-guzzling automobiles and a federal parking tax if voluntary incentives fail to achieve a 10 per cent reduction in gasoline consumption by 1985.

The moves were disclosed in a pamphlet on the President's energy plan that was released by the White House as Carter sent Congress the draft of a 283-page bill to provide legal underpinnings for his controversial energy program.

By making the rebates on gasoline-saving cars retroactive to 1977 models, instead of taking effect with the 1978 model year as had been expected, the Administration appeared to be trying to dilute automobile industry opposition to parts of the president's bill that discourage production of big cars. Moving the effective rebate date forward provides an early bonus for buyers of fuel-saving small cars.

Under the Administration plan, the rebates would balance taxes on "tax guzzlers" that get low fuel mileage. The bill proposes schedules of taxes on new cars that fail to meet minimum standards for gasoline consumption, starting in 1978 with cars that get less than 17.5 miles to the gallon. By 1985, the break-even point for the taxes would be 27.5 miles per gallon.

In letters of transmittal that accompanied his energy legislation to Capitol Hill, Carter anticipated that many of the steps he proposed in the legislation and in two speeches last week will be "highly controversial." Assuming that congressional consideration will extend over "the next several months," Carter said he expected "intense scrutiny and attention from the Congress."

Carter signed the letters to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Vice President Mondale, the Senate's presiding officer, in the White House Rose Garden while his energy adviser, James R. Schlesinger, and a dozen of his aides looked on.

Schlesinger, who supervised preparation of the program and the legislation, said later that the effective date for rebates on gasoline-saving cars had been moved up "to avoid any delay on the part of those who might commit themselves to the purchase of fuel-efficient cars." At present, U.S. manufacturers are overstocked on some models of small cars.

Under questioning about the Administration's determination to reduce gasoline consumption by 10 per cent, Schlesinger confirmed that books of gasoline ration stamps printed under the Ford administration are still in existence.

While the books could be used in the event of an emergency caused by a cutoff of oil imports, Schlesinger said they are being preserved entirely as a "fallback measure." There is, he said, "no intention at this time to proceed with rationing."

The pamphlet issued by the White House on the energy plan warned of other possible measures.

"If it should appear that the goal of a 10 per cent reduction in gasoline consumption by 1985 is not being achieved, additional measures, in-

Briscoe tardy opposing energy policy, Hill says

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill and Gov. Dolph Briscoe stopped shadow-boxing and began swinging at each other this week in what observers felt was their first unofficial campaign skirmish for the 1978 Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Hill, who says he will not make an official announcement on the race until June, threw the first punches Thursday when he termed "irresponsible" statements by Gov. Briscoe about the possibility of cutting off the supply of Texas gas to other states.

Briscoe's comments came during a news conference in Houston Saturday when he criticized President Carter's recently proposed energy conservation and development program.

Briscoe reacted to Hill's comments saying the attorney general was letting "partisan politics" interfere in matters of great concern to Texans.

"I stand by everything I have said about the Carter energy policy," the governor said. "If those who want to knuckle under to greater federal regulations and to the federal bureaucracy want to criticize me, let them have at it. I have just begun to fight to protect the economy of our state."

On Friday, Hill traveled to Midland where he told the Midland County Bar Association that Briscoe's opposition to Carter's energy program was belated.

He said the governor had failed to influence the composition of the team that formulated the energy plan for Carter. He said 13 of the 15 men on the team were federal officials, and Texas was not represented by a single member.

"If Gov. Briscoe had acted then to persuade President Carter that Texas should be represented, it is more than likely that we would have had some of our own experts on the team," Hill said. "Gov. Briscoe failed to take any effective action. He sat by while the policy was being finalized by someone else in Washington."

Hill added: "Participation in the decision-making process is more than threats to cut off gas to the other states, which would entail breaking solemn contracts, an option which has been ruled unconstitutional by our court system."

Hill and Briscoe, however, appeared to agree on one point: Texas officials must present a united front.

Hill said the thing to do now is to help "the Texas congressional delegation sell a Texas viewpoint with reasonable arguments and solid facts," and called on the governor to "invite our state's top experts to sit in with us and develop a battle plan."

Briscoe also referred to a united front Thursday saying, "It is important that the public officials of Texas try to present a united front to Congress and the administration... passing a stripped-down tax bill that tere in a matter of vital importance to the future of our state."

Hill, 58 and in his second term as attorney general, has been visiting different cities in the state lately discussing state affairs.

While in Dallas Thursday Hill spoke before a group of Mexican-Americans. Most of the questions to Hill started: "If you are elected governor..."

TEAMSTER PRESIDENT Frank E. Fitzsimmons and three other trustees of the union's scandal-stricken Central States pension fund resigned Friday. The resignations, announced by the U. S. Labor Department, were part of an agreement under which the government promised to drop a planned lawsuit and to restore the fund's tax exemption. (AP Laserphoto)

Shortages, attitudes said behind thefts

By JIM STEINBERG

A shortage of oilfield equipment, coupled with high user demands and "no questions-asked" purchasing attitudes, are responsible for thefts that have plagued oil production sites during recent boom years, according to sheriff's officials from Midland and Ector counties.

So far this year approximately $20,000 worth of equipment has been taken from well sites in Midland County. They reflect a specialized crime wave that stretches from oilfield to oilfield across vast areas of Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico. Midland County sheriff's chief criminal investigator G. W. Thompson said.

Frequently a "go-between" will learn of oilfield equipment needs and contact thieves who will virtually "steal to order," Thompson said.

Many times stolen merchandise will be hidden for a few days, then taken to a work area where identifying marks are scraped off and a fresh coat of paint added before the equipment is sold to an unsuspecting buyer who has no indication that the material is stolen.

But in other cases, stolen goods are brought out to a work area in the back of a pickup or car where they are sold for one-quarter or less than they are actually worth. Ector County sheriff's chief criminal investigator Ken Turner said.

"When you've got a case of something that's worth $2,000 and it's sold for $200; I don't think the buyer really has to do much thinking to realize it's stolen merchandise," Turner added.

Often this stolen merchandise is in such short supply that it might take one year to order through legitimate channels, Turner said.

Because many firms engaged in the production of oilfield equipment folded before the oil boom in the early 1970's, the demand for equipment during this period has far outpaced suppliers' production, Thompson explained.

"If there wasn't a market for oilfield materials they wouldn't be stolen," Turner said.

Items that are popular among the oilfield thieves include tongs, rods, tubing, elevators and tools. Heavier items like pump jacks are taken on rare occasions. Thompson said he read that a $1 million drilling rig that had been stolen in East Texas had been recovered in Mexico.

Both lawmen urged oilfield operators to mark their equipment in several places and keep small tools locked up at night.

To cope with increasingly more organized oilfield thieves, law agencies are improving their communications with other law agencies, Thompson said.

Counselor believes talk basic treatment

"Most of these people are perfectly happy just to sit," said John Allison, who was not at all happy with the situation, with that attitude.

Occasionally he gets disheartened, but surely not as much or as often as his clients. He wants them to care about themselves, about life, about living.

Allison is a counselor for emotionally disturbed and mentally ill men and women, who undergo therapy at the partial-day hospital at the Mental Health-Retardation Center here.

The basic treatment is just plain talk.

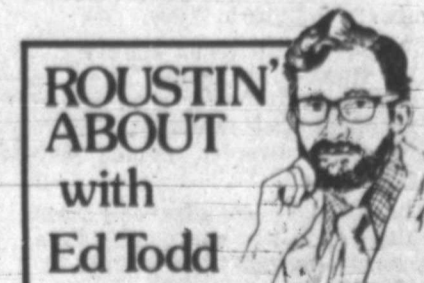

"My theory is to get them to talk to express themselves," said Allison.

That approach may be the beginning of recovery for some: the instilling of self-esteem.

"Most of the people have a very low opinion of themselves," he said, "and that's where most of their problems stem from."

There is a "learned behavior," Allison said.

And he, other counselors and coordinator Sue Conder are trying to help their 26 men and women clients to break that pattern.

Some suffer from mild depression, some from severe depression.

"We have some who really are psychotic," said Mrs. Conder, a case worker, who coordinates functions of the partial-day hospital.

Allison cited the case of a 41-year-old man who utterly depended on his mother for his every decision. She died and left him and his brother alone and virtually helpless.

"His self-concept is about zero," Allison said.

"He absolutely depends on other people for everything."

Not accepting responsibilities can lead to a deterioration of self-confidence.

Senate approves tax cut affecting millions

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approved a tax cut for 47 million couples or individuals Friday, passing a stripped-down tax bill that once was the heart of President Carter's economic stimulus program.

The measure, approved 73 to 7, includes a major simplification of tax forms, which will allow virtually all Americans to fill out their federal income taxes without worrying about mathematical errors.

In the tax bill, the main tax cut is achieved by raising the standard deduction. This would mean an annual tax reduction averaging $121 for 47 million tax returns.

Ninety-two per cent of the benefits would go to families or individuals with incomes under $20,000. However, none of the benefits would go to persons who itemize deductions.

Withholding rates would be cut June 1 to reflect the increases in the standard deduction.

Senate passage would send the bill to a conference committee to work out differences between the House and Senate versions.

The biggest difference is that the Senate bill contains no provision for the $30-per-person rebates that Carter originally asked as the centerpiece of his plan to pump up the economy.

After the House passed the bill containing the rebates, Carter changed his mind, saying the economy had improved so much that the $10.4 billion worth of rebates was no longer needed.

The Senate then eliminated the rebates, and there apparently will be little sentiment for reviving them when the conference committee writes a final version of the bill.

Although the rebates are missing from the Senate bill, it is generally agreed that the tax cuts costing $24 billion over two years will have some beneficial effect on the economy.

In addition to the increased standard deduction for individuals, the bill extends through 1978 three existing tax benefits: the $35-per-person tax credit first approved in

Carter public works plan gets Senate OK

By MIKE DOAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Friday approved President Carter's $4 billion public works plan intended to stimulate the economy and reduce unemployment by giving local governments money to build schools, hospitals, bridges, courthouses and other projects.

The legislation was sent to the House for final passage.

House sponsors have estimated the program could create up to 300,000 jobs this year.

The bill, approved 71 to 14 in the Senate, also declares that Carter cannot drop any water or dam projects unless he gets congressional approval.

The House takes up the bill Tuesday, and Carter is expected to sign it soon afterward. Passage there would make it the first part of Carter's economic stimulus package to clear Congress.

A second part, the tax bill, also won Senate approval Friday and was sent to the House. Also awaiting action are a separate $4.1 billion public service jobs bill and a revenue-sharing bill.

The government began the public works jobs program last year by spending $2 billion on local projects, but it got $24 billion in applications from local governments.

Virtually all of this year's money will be spent on existing applications. The government will approve many of the projects in May and June, near the start of the construction season.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., supporting the bill, noted that the unemployment rate has edged downward to 7.3 per cent and the economy has shown some improvement.

"It is clear, however, it is not improving at a rate which relieves us of the obligation to address ourselves to appropriate, cautious, careful and prudent stimulation," he said.

Big cities complained that last year's program set aside too much money for areas that had no real unemployment problem. This year's bill distributes 65 per cent of the funds on the basis of the number of unemployed in each state.

The other 35 per cent is given only to states which have had unemployment rates over 6.5 per cent. The national unemployment rate in March stood at 7.3 per cent.

Turbulence brings hail, tornadoes

Turbulent weather in the Permian Basin spawned funnel clouds in two areas and hail was reported north of Midland.

Two funnel clouds were sighted in the Odessa area but neither touched down, Odessa police reported.

The Department of Public Safety reported three tornadoes 23 miles northwest of Midland but no damage was reported.

It began raining in Midland about 9:30 p.m., and the city was under a severe thunderstorm warning until 11:10 p.m.

Two Midlanders have been elected to state offices in the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens. Mrs. Cecil Aycock was elected member-at-large for the state board of directors and H. Wade Whitely was elected vice president of region 13 at the annual meeting of the organization last week in Austin. Other Midlanders attending the convention were Mrs. Neil Byrum, Mrs. Donald Soholt, Lori Soholt, Mrs. Wade Whitely and Brian Whitely. The Midland chapter of Teens Aid the Retarded (TARS) received the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens Local Appreciation Organization award. The award is given to a local organization in Texas which has promoted mental work with retarded citizens. Gayle Rowan is president of Midland TARS.

Senate approves tax cut

The 75 per cent of taxpayers expected to use the standard deduction could determine how much tax they owe simply by looking at the tax table. For them, there would be no mathematical calculation at all. An estimated 1.7 million individuals — mainly single persons earning more than $13,750 a year — would face a tax increase averaging $50 because of the change in the standard deduction. Present law allows an individual who does not itemize deductions to reduce his taxable income by 16 per cent, but not less than $1,700 and not more than $2,400. For a couple filing a joint return, the standard deduction ranges from $2,100 to $2,800. The Senate bill would allow a flat $2,200 standard deduction for single persons and $3,200 for couples and heads of household, who generally are widowed or divorced women with minor children. The tax hike would affect only those single persons who now qualify for a standard deduction of between $2,200 and $2,400. The higher standard deduction for all married couples would reduce the "marriage penalty," or the incentive for "living in sin" as President Carter has called it. Under the present system of standard deductions, two persons could get a maximum standard deduction totaling $4,800 (two times $2,400) but if they married they would qualify for a maximum of only $2,800. That "marriage penalty" is $2,000 ($4,800 minus $2,800), which translates into higher taxes of $500 a year for persons in the 25-per-cent tax bracket. The House has voted for a $2,200 standard deduction for single persons and $3,000 for couples.

Woman ordained

HOUSTON (AP) — The Rev. Helen Havens was ordained as an Episcopal priest Friday night to become the first woman priest in the Diocese of Texas and the second in the state. About 600 persons were on hand at the ordination at St. Francis Episcopal Church. Her husband, Neil, a professor of drama at Rice University, said the ordination "means the fulfillment of six years of massive, concerted work and prayer. But in another way, it is only the beginning." The ordainer was the Rev. Richard Trelase Jr., bishop of the Rio Grande Diocese. The Rev. Milton Richardson, bishop of the Diocese of Texas, assisted.

Degrees due Midlanders

CANYON — Ten Midlanders are scheduled to receive degrees from West Texas State University May 14. Receiving bachelor of science degrees will be Diana Dygert, Mariell Eyer, Every Filley, Dana Henderson and Sara Mills. James Birth and Joe Nelson Jr. will receive bachelor of business administration degrees and Thomas Dillon will receive a master of arts degree in music education. Peggy Aiken will receive a bachelors degree.

Independent oilmen halfway home on tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Independent oil men are halfway home in their efforts to regain a $30 million tax advantage they lost in 1976. The Senate on Friday passed a tax bill which includes repeal of the 15 per cent minimum tax levied on certain intangible drilling costs in 1976. The provision was inserted in the bill by the Senate Thursday at the request of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex. The bill now goes to a conference committee. Bentsen, like many Texas legislators, thinks the independent drillers are the most effective people in the energy production industry when it comes to presenting their case to Congress. "They'll bring their tax returns right into your office and show you exactly where it's hurting them," Bentsen said. The independents started lobbying in force this year when their tax accountants gave them the bad news about the impact of the 1976 law on income taxes. Some said they would have to reduce exploratory drilling by as much as 30 per cent, Bentsen said. They were especially annoyed that corporations were not subject to the same provision. They said it gave the major oil companies unfair advantages in the search for oil. When President Carter said he favored eliminating that advantage, Bentsen acted, without waiting for Carter to send his legislation to Congress. The intangibles drilling deduction is a complicated provision. Basically, it is an accelerated depreciation privilege for oil drilling investment. Intangible drilling expenses cover everything involved in drilling a well except the hardware, such as pipes and derricks. They include labor, fuel, transportation, etc. Generally, they amount to about two-thirds or three-fourths of the cost of a well. Oilmen have been able for many years to immediately deduct from gross income all the intangible expenses they incurred in a year. This is a special privilege for the oil industry, since most businesses have to amortize investment over a period of years. The intangible deduction proved attractive as a tax shelter. Professional people could invest in oil at the end of a tax year and deduct the intangible percentage from their taxable income. To curtail that practice, the 1976 tax reform law required that individuals include the intangible expenses from productive wells in their "minimum income tax base," where it was taxed at a rate of 15 per cent. For example, if an independent invested $100,000 into the intangible cost of a well in 1976, he could deduct that amount from his gross income, whether or not the well was producing. But if the well was producing, he had to take a second step after calculating his regular income tax. He had to put the $100,000 into his minimum tax base and pay $15,000 in taxes on it. Bentsen's amendment allows that independent to subtract his oil and gas income from the amount of intangible expenses in his minimum tax base. Thus, the independent in the example, if he had income of $50,000 from oil or gas, would reduce his tax payment from $15,000 to $7,500 and could eliminate it entirely if his income were high enough. The Treasury Department has estimated that the Bentsen amendment would save the independents $30 million annually. The House tax bill did not include the intangibles tax provision. It will be one of many differences the conference committee will try to resolve. Sen. John Tower said he was not satisfied with the Bentsen amendment, which he supported. Tower said he would introduce an amendment to the Carter energy package to remove the retroactive feature of the 1976 law. That law, passed in October 1976, applied to taxes for the entire year. Tower said drillers made their 1976 plans under one law and paid their taxes under another. Tower's effort to add his amendment to the tax bill Friday was rejected by the Senate.

Turbulence brings hail, tornadoes

reported thunderstorms throughout the Permian Basin. The forecast for today and Sunday calls for a continued chance of afternoon and evening thunderstorms. The high today should be in the low 80s and the low tonight in the upper 50s. Sunday's high should be in the lower 80s. Winds are expected to be 10 to 20 mph today, except for stronger winds near thunderstorms. The weatherman gives the area a 20 per cent chance of rain today, a 30 per cent chance tonight and a 20 per cent chance Sunday. Midland had a high Friday of 81 degrees and a low of 58 degrees. Andrews, Lamesa, Big Spring, Crane, Stanton, and Rankin all reported gathering clouds between 7 and 8 p.m. Friday night, but only Big Spring had received some rain earlier in the day Friday. The Midland police department received several reports of brief power failure in small areas of Midland. There was an unconfirmed report of a funnel cloud north of Air Terminal about 11 p.m., but by 11:30 p.m. the thunderstorm activity had moved east of Midland, the National Weather Service said. A funnel cloud was sighted five miles northeast of Chillicothe in Wilbarger County. Rainfall rates ranged from a quarter inch to a half inch per hour in North Central Texas along a line from San Angelo to San Saba, with Brownwood receiving a lot of rain. One Brownwood radio station told the National Weather Service that 3 1/2 inches fell in four hours. In a 24-hour period that ended Friday morning, 2.35 inches of rain fell at Tahoka near Lubbock. Outside the storm areas, winds were from the south to southeast at five to 15 miles an hour. A stationary front located in the Panhandle caused winds to be from the northeast. By early afternoon, temperatures ranged from the upper 60s to low 80s. Beaumont and Tyler recorded readings of 81 degrees under partly cloudy skies. Abilene had a reading of 68 under cloudy skies at the same time.

Judge bars Deep Throat

HOUSTON (AP) — A judge refused Friday to allow the defense to show the jury "Deep Throat" in the trial of a bookstore clerk charged selling an alleged obscene film. Defense attorneys had hoped to use the adult film as an example of what the community will accept in films. However, County Criminal Court Judge Thomas Rott ruled that the hour long movie in color with sound could not compare with the film on trial, a 20-minute silent film called "Birthday Party." "It would be like comparing a Jeep with a Mercedes Benz," Rott said. On trial is Larry K. Dobbs, who is charged with selling the film for $15 to a Houston vice officer.

yourself, somebody else is going to take it," Mrs. Conder said. "I guess we all do that; we just don't use it to that extent." One of the clients is a "very, bright, very, very intelligent" young woman, who feels rejected by her parents. Many mental and emotional problems may be associated with the breakup of homes, with the declining quality of home life, Mrs. Conder said. "I guess very few of our people have (or had) very satisfactory home lives," she said. "I can't think of too many satisfactory homes." "If kids don't have that security, I think it carries over to the adult age," she said. Often, disturbed people come to the partial-day hospital as an alternative to being institutionalized. Many live with parents or other relatives. Few hold down jobs. Those "enrolled" in the school-like program "come from all socioeconomic levels and are in varying stages and degrees of emotional instability," Mrs. Conder said. Some are problem drinkers, if not alcoholics. To help their clients, counselors concentrate on the positive. "They all have their strengths to emphasize," she said. "We try to emphasize their strengths to make them feel better (about themselves) and then work on their weaknesses." Eventually, perhaps, they will build up their self-esteem. And they won't be "perfectly happy just to sit."

Water board seeks to block Hill suit

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Water Quality Board asked the Texas Supreme Court Friday to block Atty. Gen. John Hill's suit to nullify the board's county-by-county orders for the Edwards Aquifer. The board's petition asked the high court to command Hill to drop the suit, filed in a district court here March 9. "It is our opinion that it is not only Hill's duty to represent the Texas Water Quality Board, but he is the only one allowed to represent it," said TWQB attorney Margaret Currie. "In light of that, the board is left without any representation," Ms. Currie added. Hill, the board said in its suit, is the only lawyer the Texas Constitution and the statutes allow it to have.

that the government is making every effort at conservation," Schlesinger said. Asked if he thought such an approach might be accepted by consumer advocate Ralph Nader, a foe of nuclear power, Schlesinger replied that he was "talking generally of environmentalists across the board." He said the President's program has been endorsed by 10 environmental organizations with 35 million members. Schlesinger indicated that the Administration might be willing to revise the definition it has formulated for "new oil" which the President's plan would raise to the present world price of $13.50 per barrel over a three-year period. The plan would authorize this incentive price only for oil from new wells more than 2 1/2 miles distant from, or 1,000 feet deeper than, existing onshore wells.

Job-hunting seminar set at UTPB Friday

ODESSA — Graduating college seniors and others interested in improving their job-hunting skills may participate in a seminar in job interview and resume preparation at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin Friday. The seminar, presented by UTPB management faculty members, will be at 2 p.m. in room 483 of the main building. Dr. Charles Doryland will lead a general discussion on setting up interviews. Resume preparation will be presented by Theresa Hangan and Dr. Eugene Nini will discuss conducting interviews. All three are members of the faculty of accountancy. Special interest groups will include further discussion. Economic index encouraging

By EDMUND PINTO

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration economist said Friday a strong showing by leading economic indicators, led by an increase in new orders for consumer products and materials, was an encouraging sign for the future growth of the economy.

The March index of the indicators was up 1.4 per cent, registering the highest gain in 20 months, according to figures released by the Commerce Department.

The index, consisting of 12 separate economic statistics, is designed to forecast future trends for the nation's economy.

In another development, the Agriculture Department said consumer food prices are inching up faster than expected and may average 4 to 6 per cent higher for the year than in 1976. The department had been predicting a 4 to 5 per cent hike.

The department said moderate retail price increases may be in store in coming months for meats, dairy products, vegetable oils, processed fruits and vegetables and possibly sugar products. Meanwhile, the Labor Department said contracts negotiated over the first three months of 1977 generally resulted in smaller pay hikes than those bargained for during the same period a year ago.

The department said increases in the first year of labor contracts averaged 7.6 per cent for agreements negotiated in the first three months of 1977, compared to 8.4 per cent for the first quarter of 1976.

Increases over the life of the contracts were put at 6.5 per cent for the 1977 quarter, up from 6.4 per cent for the first quarter of 1976.

Courtenay Slater, chief economist for the Commerce Department, said that while a large part of the increase in economic indicators for March could be attributed to the economy catching up after a slowdown caused by winter weather, the figures still show encouraging signs of growth over the next couple of months.

The latest index contained figures for 10 of the 12 economic areas, with six showing gains in March over February while four were down.

The index was put at 129.7 in March, 1.4 per cent higher than the revised February index of 127.9. The base year for figuring the gains is 1967, which is assigned the value of 100.

The largest gain for the month was a 4.6 increase for new orders in consumer products and materials, which stood at its highest level in the last six months.

Improvements were recorded for the average work week, the layoff rate, vendor performance, changes in sensitive prices, and building permits.

In other economic news, the House Budget Committee approved a compromise budget resolution calling for a $66.2-billion deficit for the year beginning Oct. 1.

The House earlier this week had rejected a budget recommendation that called for a deficit of $68.6 billion.

Meat varies in quality at fast-food outlets

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

At fast-food outlets, on picnics and in family dining rooms, Americans are gobbling up more than 50 billion hamburgers a year, but the meat they are eating may vary from place to place.

No one knows exactly how many pounds of chopped beef are sold and consumed in the United States. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that only 15 or 20 per cent of the ground beef is produced at federally inspected plants. Most of the rest is chopped up by the butcher at the supermarket and there are no over-all sales figures.

Only the meat produced at the federal plants is subject to USDA standards on fat content and additives; the rest is regulated by a variety of state and local laws.

An economist for the American Meat Institute, a trade association, estimated that roughly 51 billion hamburgers will be consumed in the United States this year, compared to 16 billion hot dogs.

He said hamburger consumption — which works out to more than 200 a year for every man, woman and child — has increased sharply in recent years, but declined to provide any specific comparative figures.

A report prepared by the joint cooperative extension service of Cornell University, the State University of New York and the USDA says that hamburger accounts for up to 38 pounds, or 40 per cent, of the beef eaten by Americans each year.

Industry sources estimate that by 1980, ground beef will account for 50 or 60 per cent of all the beef consumed in this country.

Hamburgers reportedly account for $43 billion, or 56 per cent, of the annual sales in food service establishments. A spring 1976 survey for the National Restaurant Association showed that hamburger restaurants served 15 per cent of all restaurant patrons, far more than any other type of restaurant. McDonald's alone sells an estimated one billion hamburgers every 4½ months.

One clue to the increase in ground beef sales comes from the figures for cow slaughter. That's because the meat from the leaner, grass-fed cows is often used for hamburger, while the meat from grain-fed steers is turned into more expensive cuts.

When grain prices rise, as they have in recent years, farmers tend to sell their cows for slaughter, rather than keeping them for breeding.

Figures compiled by the American Meat Institute show that the number of cows slaughtered last year was slightly less than in the previous year, but was still 43 per cent higher than in 1974.

A USDA spokesman said most of the ground meat produced in federal plants under the eyes of federal inspectors is sold on a bulk basis to buyers such as fast-food chains.

There are two categories of chopped meat under the federal rules: ground beef and hamburger. Neither may contain more than 30 per cent fat; neither may contain additives other than seasonings — and these must be listed on the label; and both must be made from fresh or frozen beef. The difference is that extra fat may be added to hamburger up to the 30 per cent limit; ground beef cannot contain anything that is not in the cut of meat being chopped.

State and local rules vary from area to area, however.

In New York State, for example, ground beef may not contain any added fat, water, seasoning, binding or extenders. Hamburger may contain added beef fat and seasonings. Frozen beef patties may have some extender such as soy protein included.

New York retailers are not required to label the meat according to the cut it comes from — chuck, sirloin, round, etc. If they do choose to provide such a label, the meat must come from the cut listed.

Check your local consumer affairs department or state agriculture officials to see what standards apply in your city.

Part of hamburger's popularity is its price. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports that ground beef cost an average of 85 cents a pound on a nationwide basis last year, an increase of 13 per cent since 1972.

Porterhouse steak at an average $2.34 per pound on a nationwide basis and rib roast at $1.77 increased 30 per cent in the same period.

Many consumers "stretch" the meat by adding bread crumbs, cereals or prepackaged filler mixes. But the New York State cooperative extension service says that these extenders have risen sharply in price in recent years and may be more expensive on a per-pound basis than the meat itself. Make sure you figure out exactly how much "stretch" you are getting for the dollar before you start cooking.

Illegal alien proposal said inadequate

By ROBERT B. CULLEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal being circulated in the Carter administration for an illegal alien policy is a "well-meaning, but inadequate" effort, Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., said Friday.

The proposal, sent to the White House from a team of Cabinet officials, includes civil rather than criminal penalties for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens and an amnesty provision for some of the estimated 4 million to 12 million aliens in the United States.

Roybal and Rep. Herman Badillo, D-N.Y., leaders of the congressional Hispanic Caucus, were briefed on its contents earlier this week. They sent a letter to President Carter Friday, asking that he meet with them before making any final decision on what to propose to Congress.

Roybal and an administration expert said the idea of a national identification card, to be issued to every worker who has a right to work, has been dropped. Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall had been advocating that idea.

"It would have had civil liberties problems and its costs would be enormous," said Chuck Knapp, an aide to Marshall who helped formulate the proposal that was sent to Carter.

Advocates of the national identification system have said it is the only way to differentiate between illegal aliens and Spanish-speaking citizens. Thus, they say it is the key to any system that might exclude all illegal aliens.

Knapp said he has reached the conclusion that it is impossible to establish a foolproof system. "You're never going to shut down the border entirely, and people will be able to forge identification that shows they're legal when they aren't," he said.

Knapp refused to discuss details of the proposal, particularly the nature of the amnesty section. That will be "a call the President has to make," he said.

Roybal said the administration is talking about a cutoff date five years prior to the enactment of amnesty legislation, which would mean 1972 if a bill were passed this year. He called that "unacceptable, because much of the immigration from Latin American countries has come within the past five years."

Roybal also was peeved that one of his proposals was not included in the recommendation to Carter: a joint U.S.-Mexican border commission which would try to work out bilateral solutions to the alien problem.

The recommendation provides for programs of special economic aid to countries which are sources of illegal immigration. But Roybal said those proposals would take 10 years or more to have an effect. "We need immediate joint action. Only with Mexico's active cooperation can we solve the problem," he said.

Roybal charged that the administration failed to consult sufficiently with the Mexican-American community before the recommendations went to the President. He noted that Leonel Castillo of Houston, Carter's choice to head the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, has not even taken office yet.

"If they had wanted input they would have talked to us three months ago instead of this week," Roybal said.

Metric switch loans advocated

HOUSTON (AP) — The federal government should supply loans to small businesses to offset the cost of converting to the metric system, a spokesman for a small business organization said Friday.

James D. McKeivitt, Washington counsel for the National Federation of Independent Businesses (NFIB), said some small firms will be hard hit financially because of the conversion.

"A hardware store, for example, will be heavily impacted because of new sizes of tools and nuts and bolts," McKeivitt said.

McKeivitt also said his organization wants to make sure federal agencies don't use procurement policies to place unfair conversion demands on the small businessman.

In a statement prepared for delivery to a local civic club, McKeivitt said the NFIB was successful in convincing Congress that metric conversion should be voluntary.

Studied to death

Most postal studies in recent years have suffered from single-mindedness and a lack of imagination. The Commission on Postal Service report which went to Congress recently is no exception.

The commission's conclusions are familiar. It recommended that the Postal Service should avoid further deficits by eliminating Saturday mail deliveries, reducing overnight sorting operations and moving more rapidly into new electronic technology.

Just a year ago the Ford administration was proposing roughly the same thing. The goal behind both proposals is to save money so that the Postal Service can break even.

Unless something is done, this latest report said, first-class mail will cost 28 cents an ounce by 1985.

It's true that a 28-cent stamp to mail a letter would inhibit some potential postal patrons. It's also true that even that price isn't much higher than an extension of the present inflationary rate. And not the least of the reasons that the post office is in its present financial bind is that its previous organizational retrenchments have driven away customers and encouraged private delivery organizations.

Acknowledging that the Postal Service has been studied to death already, we would nevertheless suggest two more analyses to the House subcommittee on postal service, which is holding hearings on the subject.

First, Congress should reexamine its mandate that the Postal Service has to break even financially.

Second, if the Carter administration delved into postal problems with the same intensity that it waded into energy, strategic arms discussions and fiscal matters, some innovative ideas might emerge. So far as the Postal Service is concerned, one new idea would be worth 10,000 words from any blue-ribbon commission.

Rickover reassessed

The contributions made by Adm. Hyman Rickover to the U.S. Navy and to the entire nation have been recognized by a grateful Congress.

He has been advanced to four-star rank and kept on active duty long past retirement age. He is now 77 years old.

Adm. Rickover has made a practice of going over the heads of his superiors in the Navy and making his pitch directly to the Congress. He has been successful in pushing nuclear propulsion, the cause with which he is identified, maybe even too successful for the good of the Navy.

Many Navy leaders believe Rickover's success in pushing expensive nuclear-powered vessels, notably the supercarriers has prevented the development of a more balanced naval force, with a larger number of less-expensive vessels more suited to the Navy's primary mission of sea control.

There are others perhaps who support the admiral's views in this regard, but they seem to be in the minority. The right or wrong aspect would have to be determined by Navy personnel or by those familiar with Navy affairs.

Anyway, Rickover has developed the flattery of congressmen into a fine art. He ridiculed his colleagues of flag rank in the Pentagon by telling a Senate subcommittee recently that many of them should be reduced to writing each other in crayon so there could be no copies.

It was an amusing comment, irreverent but also irresponsible and arrogant. The admiral may be reaching the end of his unusually long tenure.

Burger and Mitchell: Old friends

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — Chief justice Warren Burger is deeply indebted to his old friend, ex-Attorney General John Mitchell, for his Supreme Court job. Yet Burger has refused to disqualify himself from Mitchell's appeal of his Watergate cover-up conviction, now pending before the high court.

The white-haired Burger has been trying to persuade reluctant fellow justices to hear the appeals of Mitchell and ex-White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman. National Public Radio reported last week.

The report, which our sources confirmed, said that Justice William Rehnquist voluntarily stepped down from the case because of his past friendship with Mitchell.

But Burger and Mitchell also were personally close, high ex-Justice Department sources told us. In fact, they said, it was the pipe-smoking attorney general who recommended Burger to President Nixon in 1969.

This charge was bolstered by no less than Mitchell's wife, the late loquacious Martha. She told friends that her husband had tapped Burger for the nation's highest judicial post. At a May, 1970, gathering in New York attended by both Burger and Martha, free-lance photographer Fred Ward casually asked Martha whether she knew Burger.

"Who do you think put him where he is?" Martha said. Ward, then on assignment for Look magazine, relayed the incident to Winzola McLendon, a close friend of Martha and a writer for Look.

McLendon, alone with Martha in the powder room, asked: "What did you mean by that remark to Fred? Did John put him in there?" According to the notes McLendon made at the time, Martha replied: "John is the one who put him on the Supreme Court."

Martha later told McLendon that the two men often gabbed on the telephone until Mitchell left the Justice Department to run Nixon's 1972 campaign. But a Supreme Court spokesman said Burger spoke only infrequently with Mitchell from 1969 to 1972, and then only on official business. Only once did Burger talk by phone with Mitchell at home, the spokesman said.

The Watergate cover-up trial is not the only one in which Burger's participation has been questioned. Burger's voice reportedly appears briefly on the suppressed White House tapes in a conversation with Nixon. Although Burger ordered Nixon to release certain other tapes in 1974, he has not removed himself from the continuing battle over whether Nixon or the government should get custody of all the tapes.

Footnote: Both McLendon and Ward confirm their portions of the May, 1970, conversation. Although the Justice Department could ask Burger to disqualify himself, a department spokesman said such questions are always left up to the justices. A spokesman for Burger said he had no intention of disqualifying himself. Mitchell could not be reached for comment.

WASHINGTON WHIRL — The military brass are trying to raise the

THE SALT TALKS: The Kremlin Hopes For U.S. Backdown

By V.H. KRULAK Copley News Service

Now that the dust has begun to settle on Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's first adventure into strategic arms talks with the Russians, one conclusion stands out like the sun at noon: the Soviet rejection of our proposition is the best thing that could have happened.

It cleared the air, scraped off the cosmetics and exposed the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) for what they are — international hard ball at its hardest.

There is little doubt that the Russian rebuff took our delegation by surprise, and that it has taken awhile for us to get our public relations ducks in a row.

Vance's "high hopes" on the eve of the talks, his "serious disappointment" the day they ended and a staff member's view that we made "miscalculations" have now all been supplanted by "the talks turned out about as we expected" and "realistically, the Russians had little time to contemplate the proposals."

All of which tiptoes around the real facts. In truth, the Russians knew exactly what our proposals were going to be, if not from private diplomatic discussions between President Carter and Soviet Ambassador Dobrynin, then in the U.S. press.

In further truth, our proposals were reasonable — neither excessively demanding nor excessively con-cessive. In further truth, our delegation should have known that the Russians would do exactly as they did.

It is not dancers in the Bolshoi Ballet that we are dealing with, it is hardline professional negotiators who do their homework and who have profited greatly in the past from digging their heels in during discussions with the Americans.

The Soviets did not like what we proposed — a major reduction in numbers and size of intercontinental weapons, coupled with limits on the range of the Soviet Backfire bomber and on the range of our cruise missile.

Nor did they like our fallback position (which, incredibly, we announced in advance) of approving the Vladivostok agreement on the number of missiles allowed, but omitting any reference to the Soviet Backfire bomber and our cruise missile, which because of its accuracy and flexibility, gives the Russians real gas pains.

They felt there was nothing to lose from brushing us back from the plate with some rough talk. Maybe, just maybe, by an outright rejection they might send us back to the drawing board, to hunt for some area where we might back down. After all, that very formula worked with President Nixon in Moscow and with President Ford at Vladivostok.

While Vance and chief arms negotiator Paul Warnke skated around for the first two weeks after the Moscow party trying to put a good face on the affair — "it really did represent progress" — the one solid rock was Mr. Carter. He said little, and what he did say made sense — that we had gone to Moscow with a reasonable program and that he intended to stand behind it.

And then, beginning on Good Friday, our hopes started down the tube. It looked like the President was beginning to weaken. "I felt we had a good proposal — still do — but if the Russians feel it was unfair we will search for areas where we may modify it." This was followed by similar pleas from Warnke for the Soviet Union to point out areas where they would like us to make concessions.

All of this is sweet music to the Russians' ears. They are not interested in either fairness or equity. They want advantage; they aim to have it, and if it comes to them through irresolution and concession on our part, so much the better.

That is why the blunt action by the Soviets is a good thing for us.

It tells us that our own proposal was strong enough that the Russians didn't like it and it reminds us once again that detente, in and of itself, is not an adequate objective. Ours should be a much higher aim — the certainty of peaceful survival in a form that secures our institutions.

And the most likely way to achieve that purpose is to hang tough. That is the emotion that seemed to guide the President in his early reaction to the aborted Moscow mission. That is the emotion that underlay the inspiring show of bipartisan solidarity by Congress, reflecting popular applause not just for the strong proposition Mr. Carter sent to Moscow but for his steadfastness in the face of their initial rebuff.

Now, with equal vigor, it should tell the President that there is no stomach — much less any enthusiasm — for wavering — for a series of negotiated concessions that put us further behind the nuclear eight ball than we already are.

Mark Russell says

First, the Administration wanted to send a plane-load of clothing to Zaire. Then, a plane-load of food. And now, 10 tensie-weensie M-60 battle tanks.

Can a tiny division of advisers be far behind?

Jimmy isn't exactly a hawk, but do I see claws growing on the dove?

When you buy a tank, who pays the gas-guzzler tax? This could save Detroit: mount cannons on Lincoln Continentals and sell them to emerging nations.

INSIDE REPORT:

Ivan woos Abdul as anti-American sentiments fanned

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

ANKARA — Fishing in the troubled waters of U.S.-Turkish relations, the Kremlin is quietly pressing Turkey to sign a new "document" which would commit both countries, in advance of any military operations, to political "consultation" that Turkey feels would be inconsistent with its NATO treaty obligations.

Western diplomats are in doubt as to how far the "consultation" would go, and Turkish officials refuse to discuss it. But the assumption is that the "document" pressed unsuccessfully on Turkish foreign minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil during his visit to Moscow last month, marks a new stage in Moscow's political campaign. The campaign: exploit the weakening of Turkey's military and political alliance with the U.S. The alliance was strained by U.S. pressures on Turkey arising out of Turkey's 1974 invasion of Cyprus.

Apart from the mysterious and troubling "document," the Soviet Union has now become Turkey's principal source of economic assistance — a role formerly played by Washington. Indeed, Moscow's most recent line of credit to the country with which it shares a 500-mile border across the Black Sea and the top of Anatolia is a tidy $1.2 billion over the next 10 years or so.

These credits are being used here for steel, aluminum, hydroelectric, oil refining and other industrial complexes which Turkey desperately needs to continue its tortuous path from a predominantly agricultural to a mixed economy.

The economic fragility of Turkey, which is giving the Soviets their entrée, is dramatized by a few statistics: balance of payments now running a cool $2 billion in the red; foreign exchange, a healthy $2.5 billion in 1974 — the year of the Cyprus invasion — now at a perilous $651 million; unemployment, a difficult computation for this rural population, figured at 25 per cent, and inflation about the same.

Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel exaggerates when he blames the American arms embargo — and the continuing ban on grant military aid — for this bleak economic picture. But the embargo nevertheless has been a contributing factor as Turkey has dipped into its meager foreign exchange fund to buy expensive arms.

What makes this significant is Turkey's geography: its importance as the eastern anchor of NATO, the guardian of the vital Dardanelles waterway between the Black and Mediterranean seas, and the possessor of the largest NATO army next to the U.S. Many Western experts say Turkey would not take itself out of NATO under any foreseeable circumstances, and that its greatest ambition is to tighten its economic and cultural ties with Europe, with NATO its bridge to the West.

But Moscow, convinced the Turkish effort is worth making, is committing manifold resources to it, using all the familiar machinations. For example, officials believe that "laundered" Soviet funds are financing radical left-wing student movements. Student terrorism has become one of the biggest domestic issues in the campaign for the June 5 election: nearly 150 students were killed last year in shootouts between left and right student factions.

This undercover Soviet role is standard fare. But in addition, the high quality of Soviet diplomats assigned here also signals Moscow's conviction that Turkey is indeed maneuverable. The Soviet ambassador heads a mission that ranks on a par with Soviet embassies in Washington, London and Paris. The ambassador himself is one of Moscow's top diplomats.

The danger to the Western defense system of this intensifying Soviet campaign rests squarely on continuation of the bitter dispute between Turkey and the U.S. which began with the congressionally-imposed arms embargo in 1974 and the subsequent decision here to close down U.S. bases.

The result of that base closing, according to the best estimates, has been the loss of about 50 per cent of the intelligence product from missile-monitoring and other electronic surveillance conducted against the Soviet Union — a significant cost.

The political impact here of President Carter's latest proposals modifying the arms embargo — but postponing a serious drive for congressional approval of the new Defense Cooperation Agreement signed 13 months ago — is not yet fully known.

What is known is that Moscow is playing ever harder on aggrieved Turkish emotions with the likelihood that anti-American sentiments will be fanned in the election campaign. A confidential study by the Rand Corporation now under scrutiny in Washington makes the point explicitly: "The Soviets will probably make a quiet breakthrough — already well prepared — in Turkey, the recipient of the largest amount of Soviet aid last year, which will eventually lead to a fundamental change in the balance of power in the Mediterranean."

Considering its source, the warning is not to be ignored.

Hunt family faces new federal charges

CHICAGO (AP) — Seven members of the Hunt family of Texas have been charged in a suit by the federal government with illegal soybean futures trading on the Chicago Board of Trade.

The suit, filed by the Commodities Futures

Trading Commission in U.S. District Court, charged that the Hunts and Hunt Holding, Inc., of Dallas have been in violation of the Commodities Exchange Act since Jan. 17.

Under the act, no one may hold soybeans futures totaling more than three million bushels. CFTC Chairman William Bagley said the Hunt family has purchased contracts on 22 million bushel of soybeans worth more than $200 million.

Speculators buy not the beans themselves but merely soybean futures.

The suit, assigned to Judge Frank J. McGarr, asked for an order to force the Hunts to liquidate immediately "in an orderly manner" any soybean futures holdings in excess of the three-million bushel limit.

It also asked the court to strip the Hunts of any illegal profits obtained through soybean futures trading.

W.H. Hunt, his son, Douglas Hunt, and brother, Nelson Bunker Hunt, were named as defendants. Also named were Nelson Hunt's son, Houston Bunker Hunt, and three daughters, Ellen Hunt Flowers, Mary Hunt Huddleston and Elizabeth Bunker Hunt.

BRIDGE Rules for declarer apply to defenders

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Defensive play is more difficult than declarer's play because you are more often in the dark. When the situation is clear, however, you can apply the ordinary rules of play to defense.

South took the first trick with the king of spades. There was little to fear from the spades if West had only a four-card suit, as his deuce indicated. South must have known his customers, because he led the queen of diamonds at the second trick. West pounced on this hungrily with the ace of diamonds and returned a low spade to the ace.

South continued with the nine of diamonds, and West put in the jack. South backed his judgment by playing low from dummy. He was still relying on the spades to break.

CASHES SPADES
West cashed two spades, but the defense was then washed up. South had three diamonds and two tricks in each of the other suits.

West had no reason to go wrong since he could see dummy's without a side entry. If West were declarer at notrump he would hold up his ace of diamonds until the third round; and the same principle would defeat South's game contract.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with 2 NT (22 to 24 points) and the next player passes. You hold: S-J1083; H-Q1098; D-72; C-QJ9. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to bid major suit of four or more cards. If partner bids three spades or three hearts, you will raise his suit to game; and if he bids three diamonds, denying a major suit of four or more cards, you will go to 3 NT.

DPS plans experimental longer licensing hours

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Driver licensing offices in major cities will be open some evenings and on Saturdays under an experimental program announced Friday by state police and Rep. Ron Waters, D-Houston.

Waters said he was withdrawing his bill that would have required the Department of Public Safety to stay open late in cities of 100,000 or more.

He said he introduced the bill because Houstonians had complained that routine 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. hours for most DPS offices made it hard for them to get their driver licenses renewed.

"In most factories, you just can't ask the shift supervisor, 'I'd like some time off to go get my license renewed,'" Waters said.

J. M. Cowan, a captain in the DPS licensing division, said details have not been worked out but the experimental program will begin June 1. In Houston, Waters added, the target date is May 23.

Cowan said at least two of the four DPS offices in Houston will open on Saturdays. DPS offices will be open to 8 p.m. or 9 p.m. on some nights, he said.

To provide the off-hours service, DPS offices might have to be closed one day a week, he said.

DPS offices were open on Saturdays until about 10 years ago when its staffers were put on 40-hour work weeks.

Waters warmly praised the DPS for its decision to provide the off-hours service for working Texans.

"This is one bureaucracy that jumped out ahead and is doing something without a mandate of law," Waters said.

Rising big car sales send auto profits up

DETROIT (AP) — Buoyed by feverish demand in the lucrative big-car market, Ford Motor Co. became the second U.S. automaker to establish earnings and sales marks for the first three months of the year.

Ford, the world's No. 2 car maker, reported Thursday its net profits rose 47 per cent from the first quarter of 1976 to $483 million, the most for any three-month period in company history.

Sales also set a three-month high, jumping 24 per cent to $9 billion, Ford said.

Ford's earnings, equal to $5.12 a share, were better than the $4.50 to $5 a share Wall Street analysts were forecasting.

The company earned $328 million, or $3.59 a share, in the first three months of 1976 on sales of $7.4 billion.

The company's strong showing came a day after industry giant General Motors, the other leading big-car producer, reported record first-quarter profits of $903 million, a 13 per cent gain from the year before.

Chrysler Corp. reported earlier in the week that it earned $75.4 million in the quarter, up five per cent from 1976 and second highest ever for the period. Analysts suggested Chrysler fell short of its quarterly record of $90 million set in 1973 because of weakening demand for compact cars, Chrysler's forte.

Small-car specialist American Motors earned $2.5 million in the period, double its year-earlier profit, despite a severe sales slump. AMC attributed the earnings gain to the sale of a stamping plant to Volkswagen and strong performances by its now dominant nonautomotive operations.

Texas firm accuses Gerber Products Co.

FREMONT, Mich. (AP) — A Texas food processing firm says Gerber Products Co. is making allegedly misleading statements about a proposed takeover of the baby food manufacturer.

Anderson, Clayton & Co. said in a statement issued in Houston Gerber has been issuing misleading statements about plans to close plants and fire employees if the Anderson, Clayton's bid to buy up Gerber's stock is successful.

"Nothing could be further from the truth, and Gerber's board of directors is fully aware that we have no such plans" to close down some of Gerber's Michigan operations, the statement said.

"We said it to them and we repeated it in our proposed offer," Anderson, Clayton, also charged the Gerber management was engaged in stalling legal tactics aimed at depriving the firm's 12,000 stockholders of a chance to accept Anderson Clayton's offer to buy Gerber stock at $40 a share.

Pope, archbishop concede obstacles to unity remain

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI and the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Donald Coggan, conceded Friday that serious obstacles, particularly on marriage after divorce, remain on the road to Roman Catholic-Anglican unity.

The obstacles contrasted with a glittering Christian unity service in the Vatican's Sistine Chapel where the two religious leaders prayed together. The 79-year-old Pope and the 67-year-old archbishop embraced in a "kiss of peace" symbolic of the progress achieved since an Anglican primate and a Roman Catholic pope first met here in 1960. That meeting broke the ice of more than 400 years separation between the two churches.

But a common declaration signed by the two leaders did not minimize continuing differences that remain to uniting the 600 million Roman Catholics and 60 million Anglicans. The differences range from the problems of mixed marriages to the orderation of women as priests in the Episcopal Church in the United States.

The common declaration recommends the work of a joint Anglican-Roman Catholic Commission continue "through procedures appropriate to our respective communions, so that both of them may be led along the path toward unity. The moment will shortly come when the respective authorities must evaluate the conclusions."

The commission, which first met in 1970, reported agreement on the practice and meaning of the Eucharist, the sacrament in which bread and wine are consumed as the body and blood of Christ, and on the character and function of the two churches. It agreed that if they unite, Rome should have authority over the union.

Beyond these conclusions, however, a gap also remains to be bridged on theological differences over the doctrines of the Immaculate Conception and the Assumption.

Dr. Coggan, spiritual leader of the worldwide 60 million member Anglican community, including three million U.S. Episcopalians, emphasized the problem of mixed marriages in a news conference after the prayer service.

"I have underlined the tragedy for children of a mixed marriage when their parents can't receive communion together," he said referring to his challenge to Pope Paul to sanction shared Holy Communion between Anglicans and Roman Catholics.

Vatican officials appeared cool to the idea, though there was no official reaction. "You can't expect a quick comeback," the Anglican leader said.

Midland High School band president Stacy Trotter, left, and band member Kellie Whitaker admire the Midland High sweepstakes trophy. The trophy is for 1 ratings in concert sight-reading and marching. It is the first sweepstakes trophy Midland High has won since 1960.

MHS, Lee win sweepstakes trophies

Both Lee and Midland High schools received sweepstakes trophies in band and orchestra contests in Midland Tuesday and Wednesday.

The last time Midland High won the sweepstakes award band director Clyde Wilson was a senior at Midland High and played in the band himself.

Sweepstakes awards are given to schools which made 1 ratings on both concert and sightreading this week and marching last fall.

Other sweepstakes winners were Permian and Odessa high schools.

Big Spring High School received a 3 rating in concert and a 2 rating in sightreading.

In AAA competition, Austin Freshman School took 1 ratings in both sightreading and concert and Edison Freshman School received 2 ratings in both categories. Fort Stockton and Andrews High School received 2 in both sweepstakes awards categories and Ector Pecos High School received a 3 and a 2 in concert in both categories.

Thieves get prickly... LOS ANGELES (AP) — The theft of desert plants, once the crime of a relatively small number of cactus collectors, has grown into big business.

Ten of thousands of Joshua trees, golden cholla, yucca, prickly pear, hedgehog and barrel cacti are being taken illegally each year from public lands in the eastern Mojave.

While individual collectors continue taking plants for their private use, federal and county investigators say, the principal culprit now is the commercial dealer who uses large trucks and mechanized equipment to remove plants in wholesale lots.

Alamo science group making camping trip

Members of the Alamo Junior High School Science Association left Friday for a weekend campout in Irion County. They will return Sunday.

The students will collect animals, plants and fossils and will tour Sonora Caverns.

Specimens collected during the trip to Foster Park will be classified and used for study by the school science department.

Dick Standefer is the sponsor of the group. Activities will include seining and collecting fish and invertebrates from Spring Creek; collecting plants, reptiles and insects on a nature hike; collecting fossils from highway cuts, and observing planets through a telescope.

Students will listen to tapes about the stars and solar system while sitting around a campfire.

The science association was organized three years ago to provide education enrichment for students interested in science. Members work on individual projects during the year.

Pilgrim rites held

BRECKENRIDGE — Kenneth D. Pilgrim, 57, a retired Northfield farmer, died Wednesday night in the VA hospital at Amarillo. He was brother of Harold Pilgrim of Andrews.

Funeral services were held Friday in the Satterwhite Chapel of Grace. Interment followed in Gunsight Cemetery.

Other survivors include the widow, one other daughter, two sons, two brothers, three sisters and five grandchildren.

Realtors find renters real home-buying prospects

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Association of Realtors has just come up with a finding that seems to destroy one of the oldest myths in the business of buying and selling homes.

Based on the conventional wisdom, there is a hierarchy of home buyers, led by the existing homeowner who moves up to a new, more expensive home, leaving the resale home to a buyer who previously had rented.

Many a salesman measured his prospects in that manner. Because they believed the myth, commercial property managers often overlooked sales opportunities among renters. Advertising efforts often were misdirected.

Examining U.S. Census Bureau figures on its computers, the Realtors found the conventional wisdom was neither the convention nor wisdom. Previous renters, it found, were just as likely to buy new homes as were previous owners.

While this might not represent a stunning discovery to you, the Realtors felt otherwise. Ken Kerin, director of the economics and research department, calls it "perhaps the most startling and singularly important finding in our computer analysis."

Because of the absence of census data before 1973, the Realtors never before had been able to make such a detailed study of the homebuyer. Now that the study is completed, the timing couldn't be better.

Why? Because the market for housing is booming, and those salesmen who know their customers are likely to benefit the most from the opportunities.

To the surprise of a good many people who not long ago were reading of the depression in housing, sales through March were at an extraordinary, record-breaking annual rate in excess of 4.5 million units.

More familiar to most people is a smaller figure — that for housing starts, which were at a rate of 1.5 million units in March. Assuming that those houses will be sold, and adding in 3.4 million sales of existing homes, you arrive at a figure of 4.9 million as a possible total for 1977. Never has there been a year like that.

Kerin and others who examine such figures have come to several conclusions, among them:

—New household formations alone don't account for the phenomenon. Motivation plays a large role. Many young people are convinced they cannot wait for home prices to fall.

—Young families seem to feel they now have a rare opportunity in the mortgage market, where money is abundant, interest rates are down slightly from last year, and down payment requirements sometimes are as low as 5 per cent.

There is evidence, Kerin says, that homebuyers today are more willing to extend themselves, to scrimp in order to achieve both an investment and a place in which to live. They are hedging against inflation, he says.

Because of this, some of the old rules of thumb that relate a couple's income to the price they can afford, are as suspect as the myths about who buys homes.

"People are exercising a lot of discretion in spending on housing," he says. He found in the study that it is hazardous for a salesman to categorize his prospect on income alone.

One assumption has been that a prospect could afford a price 2½ times annual income, but Kerin's study found the range varies from 1.5 times to 3 times.

And, of course, that they're just as likely to jump from an apartment into a new home as they are to move up from an existing, less expensive one.

UT fund established

AUSTIN — A fund for two excellence awards and a scholarship in The University of Texas at Austin Department of Geological Sciences has been established.

J. C. Walter Jr., president of Houston Oil & Minerals Corp., has provided $40,000 to endow two excellence awards of $1,000 each to be presented to members of the geological sciences faculty.

A gift of stocks by James R. Moffett of New Orleans, La., will be sold to provide approximately $18,000 to establish the David S. Thayer Memorial Scholarship, also in geological sciences. Additional gifts will bring the fund to $25,000.

Emergency order to cut worker exposure to hazards of benzene

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department, citing new medical evidence that benzene can cause leukemia, Friday issued an emergency order to sharply reduce worker exposure to the chemical.

The order, effective May 21, affects about 150,000 workers in 1,200 plants, where the government said workers are exposed each day to benzene.

Benzene is a petroleum derivative used as a solvent in the rubber industry and is also used in certain chemical, printing, paint and adhesive processes.

The emergency order reduces permissible worker exposure to the chemical from the current 10 parts of benzene per million parts of air to one part per million over an eight-hour average. It also requires employers to measure worker exposure, provide personal protective equipment and clothing, and institute training programs, medical surveillance and strict record-keeping measures.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall cited what he called "overwhelming" evidence linking benzene with leukemia and said, "The need to act is urgent."

"The sad fact is that because of exposure to benzene, many workers have died and many are now suffering from leukemia, an irreversible form of cancer," he told a news conference.

Marshall gave no figures.

Eula Bingham, assistant labor secretary for occupational safety and health, said the action was taken after she received a report from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which found that chances of dying from leukemia were about five times as great for workers exposed to the chemical as for the rest of the population.

The HEW study involved former workers in the St. Mary's and Akron, Ohio, plants of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., where benzene was used in the manufacture of plastic wrapping. Goodyear no longer uses the chemical in the process.

Government investigators found that seven workers had died of leukemia during a 10-year period after being exposed daily to benzene, a death rate about five times the expected level.

Storage crisis likely

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Unless bad weather or other disaster hits the hard red winter wheat belt, a lot of the 1977 crop apparently is going to pile up on the ground.

There is little room for it in farmers' bins, country elevators or even the giant terminal warehouses in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and Missouri.

"And what are we going to do in the fall when the corn and beans and milo come in?" asked Joe B. Gregg, chairman of the transportation committee of the Kansas City Board of Trade.

Gregg presided at an annual meeting with representatives of grain belt railroads, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Commodity Credit Corp. of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The subject has always been "the box car shortage," although in modern times most wheat has come to be moved in covered hopper cars rather than in box cars.

This year the talk was storage space instead of box cars.

"If the crop comes through, everything will be filled up in a week," Gregg said.

Ready, Set, Go!

Not so long ago there were two of you. Now there are three, and you can almost see your baby grow from day to day. You get to thinking about it. Soon he'll be walking, talking, asking questions.

Are you ready to answer them? Or, are you confused? Wondering the way the world is going, just where it is going to go?

The Church isn't going to give you a set of printed answers. But it will give you something much more valuable. It will help to start working out those answers for yourself.

Try it.

Church to mark silver anniversary

Rev. Robert L. Shell

Rev. Fred H. Hartman Jr.

Dellwood Baptist Church will celebrate its silver anniversary, and mark the beginning of its second quarter century, at special services Sunday. The present Dellwood Church is an outgrowth of what began as Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, organized on May 1, 1952 with six original members, joined shortly afterward by seven additional members. Following its organizational meeting, the Rev. Ted Stanley was called as missionary pastor and the congregation soon purchased property at West Ohio and North Midkiff streets as the site for its future home. Construction began on the first unit of the new structure in late summer of 1953 and the congregation occupied the building later that year.

Several other pastors have served the congregation in more recent years. The present pastor, Dr. Chapmond Davis, came here in 1975.

Bethel Missionary Baptist Church became Dellwood Baptist Church in November 1956.

At Sunday's anniversary celebration, the church's first pastor, Mr. Stanley, will preach at the 11 a.m. worship service. Mr. Stanley now serves as president of the Texas Baptist Children's Home at Waxahachie.

Following the service will be a luncheon at the church, beginning at 12:15 p.m. This will be followed by a song service at 1 p.m., led by the Rev. Alva Boyd who was first elected songleader of the church in 1953.

During an evening service scheduled to begin at 6 p.m., the Rev. Robert Isaacs, second pastor, will be the speaker. He now is president of the Instituto Biblica Bautista and Casa Publicaciones Bautista at Lubbock, and he will show film slides of his Spanish-language Christian education work.

Movies made at the church several years ago will be shown during the evening worship hour. A special display of pictures depicting the 25-year history of the church will be on view and the present pastor of the congregation, Dr. Davis, will recount historical highlights of the church.

All anniversary activities and events will be open to members, former members and friends of the Dellwood Baptist Church.

Authenticity of Bible questioned by students

By ROBERT DIVEROLI
Copley News Service

A Bible scholar says the question he's asked the most on college campuses is about where Cain got his wife.

"Most of the time it's asked by students who are implying the Bible can't cope with the question because it supposedly teaches that Cain and Abel, Adam's first sons, had no sisters," says the Rev. Dr. John C. Whitcomb.

"The idea seems to be that if there were no women around at the time, how could Cain marry anyone," said Whitcomb, theology professor at Grace Theological Seminary in Winona Lake, Ind. "It's the kind of question I usually get on secular college campuses from students who have only a superficial knowledge of the Bible and who wish to discredit it in some way." Whitcomb said in an interview.

Whitcomb said Cain did in fact have a sister, whom he married, and who was mentioned in Genesis 5.

He said the reason she wasn't mentioned earlier is that Hebrew genealogies of the time normally listed only males.

"But it's perfectly obvious from all the genealogies mentioned in the Bible that there were women around he added. Whitcomb said students who question the Jonah story usually claim that an animal big enough to hold a man could never have existed.

"I tell them that there are many documented cases of men having been swallowed by certain types of whales and who have lived to tell the story," he said.

Those who say the Genesis flood was local rather than universal argue that if earth had been entirely covered with water the latter would have had no place to run off.

Whitcomb said he answers this by citing Psalm 104:6-9 which says that at God's behest "the waters fled because the mountains went up and the basins went down."

"In other words, God readjusted the planet in a reverse manner from the beginning of the flood so that the continents rose, the ocean basins went down and the water drained back down into the oceans."

Whitcomb said students who ask questions as a rule are primarily interested in embarrassing the Bible, not in learning.

Rev. James Sain

Sain to be evangelist

The Rev. James Sain of Clovis, N.M., will be the evangelist during revival services scheduled next week at Tower Baptist Church of Midland.

According to the Rev. Roy Roach, host pastor, the special services will be held at 7:30 p.m. daily beginning Sunday and continuing through the following Sunday. The public is invited to attend. Du'l' Holley will be the song leader.

Tower Baptist Church is located in southwest Midland, south of I-20 and just off Tower Road.

Church plans first missions conference

The Midland Bible Church, 2800 North A St., is planning its first missions conference next week. The conference, scheduled to begin Wednesday and run through the following Sunday, will bring three outstanding ministers to the church as featured speakers. They are the Rev. Fred H. Hartman Jr., southern field evangelist for the Friends of Israel organization; the Rev. Robert L. Shell, district representative for the Sudan Interior Mission, and Wes Smith, a missionary for the CAM International organization. According to the Rev. Mike Halsey, pastor of Midland Bible Church, events planned for the missions conference include a women's luncheon at noon Thursday, a dinner and question-answer period beginning at 6 p.m. Friday, and a Men's breakfast at 8 a.m. next Saturday. The concluding event will be the morning worship service at 11:50 a.m. May 8, at which the Rev. Robert L. Shell will speak on "The Biblical Concept for Missions."

Overall theme for the conference is to be "The Concept and Operation of Faith Missions." All events will be open to the public.

Roman Catholic bishops juggling 'hot package'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops are juggling a "hot package," not sure just what to do with it. They'll offer their first public reaction next week to the sizzling bundle of proposals for changes in the Church.

The ingredients were served up through an unprecedented, representative church process that the bishops themselves had initiated. But they've been variously jolted, gratified and distressed at the outcome.

Some applaud it with qualifications; others deplore it. Collectively, they'll work out their initial response to it at the spring meeting May 3-5 in Chicago of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

For "the first time they ask their children to be open and honest with them and they went into parental shock at what they heard," writes columnist Dolores Curran in the Catholic Messenger of Davenport, Iowa.

The sweeping array of recommendations were drawn up by a national assembly of 1,340 diocesan delegates at a "Call to Action Conference" last October in Detroit, the culmination of two years of hearings and consultations throughout the church.

Among the 182 recommendations, the bishops were urged:

—To petition the Vatican to allow ordination of married men.

—To support admission of women to the priesthood.

—To "affirm more clearly the right and responsibility of married people to form their own consciences" about using contraception.

—To back passage of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

—To permit divorced, remarried Catholics to receive Holy Communion.

—To open the role of preaching to women and unordained men.

"People do expect us to continue the process by responding with decisive action where it is called for and with honest disagreement when it seems necessary."

Annual Missionary Conference continues

The 12th annual Missionary Conference which began Friday night at St. Paul United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive, will continue there through Sunday.

Inspirational singer and musical evangelist Johnny Ray Watson heads the list of visitors participating in the conference. Others here for the event include the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Gamadia, natives of India who currently live and work in Dallas and will become missionaries to Kenya in 1978; the Rev. and Mrs. Robert Biddulph, missionary candidates to Spain, who presently reside at Tyler; Gail Rucker of El Paso, a teacher at El Paso's Lydia Patterson Institute, a Methodist school, and the Rev. Ray Hundley, a youth worker and missionary to Colombia.

The annual conference began with a Friday night supper for the St. Paul congregation and the conference guests, followed by a missionary rally.

Today's events will include a men's breakfast at 8 a.m., a 10 a.m. cola party for church young people, at which Miss Rucker and the Biddulphs will speak; a women's luncheon at noon, at which Miss Rucker will speak, and a covered dish supper beginning at 6:30 p.m. During a missionary rally scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today, the Rev. and Mrs. Gamadia will speak, and an "afterglow" event at 8:30 p.m. which will have Mr. Hundley as featured speaker.

The conference guests will speak to various departments during the Sunday school hour Sunday morning, after which Mr. Hundley will be in the pulpit for the 10:50 a.m. worship service. Johnny Ray Watson and his wife will be featured guests at a sandwich supper for church youth at 5 p.m. Sunday, and Mr. Hundley will speak at a meeting of the United Methodist Youth Fellowship organization beginning at 6 p.m. The final event of the conference will be a faith promise, or special pledge, service beginning at 7 p.m. in the sanctuary. Johnny Ray Watson will lead the service.

because otherwise there would have been no genealogies," he said.

"Cain's wife is not named anywhere in Genesis simply because God assumes that from our knowledge of other genealogies that we would know Cain had a wife."

Whitcomb said students then frequently ask him why this and other brother-sister marriages recorded in the Bible did not produce impaired offspring.

Whitcomb said he answers this by saying that before Moses, man's genes were so pure there was no danger of producing such offspring.

He said students also often ask questions about evolution, Jonah and the fish story and whether the Genesis flood covered only part or all of earth.

Whitcomb said he answers the evolution question by telling students the theory is incompatible with the biblical record of creation.

"Birds came before the reptiles from which evolutionists say they evolved. Whales came before the land mammals from which evolutionists say they evolved.

"Earth came before the solar system from which evolutionists say it evolved and so on," he said.

"There's just no way you can square evolution, even theistic evolution, or the idea that God used evolution as a means of bringing things into existence, with the Bible."

Nazarene assembly set

SAN ANTONIO — Delegates and members of the 60 Nazarene churches within the San Antonio District of the denomination, including representatives of Midland's two Nazarene congregations, will be in attendance at an annual assembly and two auxiliary conventions in Temple next week.

All activities will be held in the First Church of the Nazarene at Temple.

Leading off the special events will be a Sunday school convention to be held at afternoon and evening sessions next Monday. A missionary convention on Tuesday will have morning and afternoon sessions. The main gathering, the district assembly, will convene at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday and will conclude at noon Thursday.

Dr. Charles H. Strickland, general superintendent, will preside at sessions of the general assembly. He is a member of the six-man Board of General Superintendents, elected at quadrennial general assemblies, directing the affairs of the denomination through the 165 districts in 66 nations of the world.

Guy Woods to conduct services

Guy N. Woods, widely-known as a Bible scholar, lecturer and author, will return to Midland to conduct his second series of special services at the North A and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ next week.

Mr. Woods conducted a similar evangelistic series at that church in 1973.

An attorney by training, Mr. Woods has long preferred a life of religious service to the practice of law. Accordingly, he has written commentaries on the New Testament in addition to several other volumes. He also is a writer of Bible school literature.

The services at which Mr. Woods will be featured speaker will begin Sunday and continue through May 5. Services will be at 7:30 p.m. daily and will be open to the public.

Families turn to Bible for answer to problems

The Bible has always been a best seller. Suddenly it has become "hot copy" which means individuals, couples, families are turning to scripture for answers. Dr. Charlie Shedd has been asked to do a weekly Bible study for the whole family. DO YOU THINK YOU ARE BETTER THAN OTHER PEOPLE?

They were advertising a Christian college. Obviously the purpose was to fortify worried parents. "This is the place. Hurry on down. Don't worry your insecure heads one moment longer. We have the perfect spiritual setting for future saints of the Lord."

And the sign read: "SEVEN MILES FROM ANY KNOWN SIN."

What do you think? Okay? If not, why not?

The Scripture for our study now is Luke 15:25-32, "neither trespassed I at any time thy commandment." He was right. He had stayed home. He had worked hard. He had saved his money. He hadn't "wasted his substance in riotous living." So, what's the problem? The problem is that he looks so unattractive in his righteousness. Call it pious, pompous, judgmental. By any other name it turns us off. But there is another more serious problem here. His idea of transgression was much too limited.

This character would have made an excellent president, "SEVEN MILES FROM ANY KNOWN SIN."

If you were choosing the prodigal son or his elder brother for a friend, who would you rather know?

Are there any clues in the passage? "He was in the fields" (Luke 15:25). Suppose he was tired? Do you ever blow up when you're weary? Couldn't we make it a rule around here:

1) To count to ten;

2) To sleep on it;

3) Table the matter until we're rested.

"He was angry and would not go in" (Luke 15:28). Did you ever miss a good time because you were in a pout? Any secrets to share? How can we snap ourselves out of it before the party is over?

Verse 28 also says, "Therefore went his father out and entreated him." Remember in last week's discussion of the prodigal son we said, "God never quits loving us." What does this verse tell us about our heavenly father? Loud and clear it says, "He loves us even when we're not nice."

Jesus talked often about the sins of the spirit. Name some.

All together now: "God never quits loving us."

Thank you, God. Amen.

Church to host drama group

Midland's Covenant Presbyterian Church, 5200 W. Illinois Ave., will be host to a Christian drama group, the Covenant Players, during the church's Sunday morning worship hour.

Units of the Covenant Players, headquartered in Southern California, have performed in numerous Midland churches in recent years.

Specializing in what they term "motivational drama," the Covenant Players present one-act plays and skits aimed at generating increased understanding of, and

A TRIP TO PARADISE

Hear Bob Blazek speak on this subject Sunday night, May 1, at 7:00 at the

CHRISTIAN CHURCH OF MIDLAND
2608 Neely

A book on this subject, authored by Mr. Blazek, will be given to each visitor.

Dear Neighbors,

A minister's little boy asked his dad, "Daddy, what is that bronze plaque hanging in the lobby of the church building?"

Why, that's the names of our members who died in the service," said the parson, solemnly.

"The 9:30 service or the 10:30 service?" asked the innocent but wise lad.

Midlander packs irons for Nelson shootout

High Noon all over again. That's what it will be for Jerry Mobley.

He's packing his shooting irons to challenge Rik Massengale, Johnny Miller, Jack Nicklaus, Tom Watson, Ben Crenshaw and other bit-time mashie swingers who may have into view.

Of course, the intended victims may not realize Jerry's on the prowl. It has been 10 years since the Ranchland Hills Country Club pro last played in a tour tournament.

Mobley earned an exemption for the Bryon Nelson Tournament in Dallas starting Thursday by finishing third in the West Texas PGA Chapter tournament held earlier at Dallas Hillcrest.

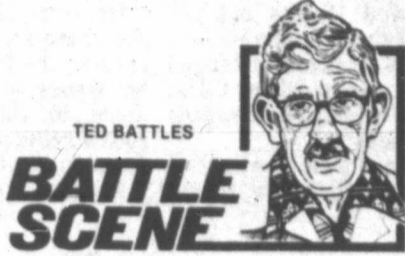

THAT MEANS no qualifying for one of the available spots the Monday before. When the field tees off Thursday, Jerry will have a time reserved up on the boards, fair enough warning.

"Last time I played on the tour was back in 1967 in the Greater Hartford Open," Jerry recalls.

That was the summer Mobley played the tour as an amateur with John Breck as his sponsor. "I didn't particularly like tour life, so I jumped at a club pro job the first chance I got. That was in Muleshoe."

A six-year hitch as a radar navigator in the Air Force probably did as much as anything to change Mobley's outlook on golf as anything.

JERRY WAS raised in Monahans, attended Odessa College, long noted for its links excellence, and graduated from Hardin-Simmons in 1961. Then came the service hitch.

BATTLE SCENE

"No, I really didn't get to play much golf while I was in the Air Force," he said.

Asked what kind of shape his game was in for the Nelson test, Mobley confessed, "Terrible," then gave himself away with a grin. "No, I've been playing pretty decent."

Probably his biggest handicap will be never having played Preston Trail before.

What happens after Nelson? "If I make the cut, I would be eligible for the next TPGA event, which is at Muirfield Village in Ohio, Jack Nicklaus' course. That's a week after Colonial, which is still an invitation tournament."

But as far as Jerry is concerned, he'd just like to make the cut for his own personal satisfaction. He has no desire to prolong his tour career.

"I can't. We have four tournaments coming up here at Ranchland and we've got to get ready for our Stampede in May. I couldn't leave the staff with that kind of a load."

So rest easy, Rick, Jack, Johnny, Ben and Tom. Jerry's not out gunning for anybody's reputation... still, if it should happen, he's not going to fight it.

Bulldogs, Rebs face Odessans

By SUBBELLIN

Midland's Bulldogs and the Robert E. Lee Rebels should be able to play relaxed today.

Both are completely out of the running for the District 5-4A baseball championship, but still face a pair of arch-rivals in the Odessa Bronchos and Permian Panthers.

The Purple Pack entertains the Bronchos at 2:30 p.m. at the Memorial Stadium stadium while the Rebs and Mojo go after each other at the Permian stadium at the same time.

In other 5-4A games, Abilene Cooper, the first-half champion, is at Big Spring while San Angelo travels to Abilene to meet the Eagles.

San Angelo and Big Spring are tied for first place with 6-0 records while Abilene is one game behind the Bronchos and 5-1ers with a 3-1 record.

MIDLAND LOST to San Angelo Tuesday 2-0 while Lee was dropping a 4-1 decision to Big Spring. Both Tall City teams scored in the second half of the second round of the title picture.

Kevin Pearce, most likely will face OHS Abilene Challenger with while Lee will go after Mike Richard or Craig Van Horn. The Panthers will counter with Lou Swain.

Both Permian and OHS stand 2-2 and have an outside chance at the second half title. Permian showed plenty of teeth in hitting three home runs Tuesday to topple Cooper, 7-6, in an eight-inning affair in Abilene.

OHS meanwhile lost to Abilene, 5-1, at Big Spring in Odessa and the Warbirds won a 7-3 season record.

Cooper has the top two hitters in the league in catcher Randy Jones and shortstop Barry Russell who are .514 and .467, respectively.

STAN STRIFLER, shortstop, Permian's is next with a .394 average followed by Don Connolly of OHS with a .387 average.

Pearce leads the Midland hit parade in district with a .345 average while Jimmy Zachry, a sophomore for the Pack, is hitting .333.

Todd Clements and Richard pace the Rebel attack with .324 and .323 averages.

David Johnston and Steve Cole of Midland High are also hitting well in league play with averages of .324 each.

Russell has the most base hits — 17, while Van Horn has connected with six doubles to lead that department. Jones has three in tops triples while Russell in homers with three.

Frankie Rubio of Big Spring lead in runs-batted-in with 11 while Mike Hill of Cooper has 10 RBIs.

Rubio, with an 8-1 season pitching record, is 7-0.

ON THE year, Clements is hitting .432 for the Rebels and has knocked in 21 runs while Richard and Van Horn follow with .403 and .385 averages.

Cole is hitting .370 on the year while Kevin Widner owns a .313 average and Pearce is hitting .304 in 23 games.

Lee takes a 14-12 season record into the Permian game while MHS is 4-19 on the year.

65 leads Nelson golf

Sam Terry and Mike Mullins stole the thunder from the rest of the field Friday afternoon in the 9th annual Ernie Nelson Golf Tournament at the Midland Country Club.

Playing in the third flight, they combined to shoot a sizzling 65 during the opening round of the three-day tourney.

George McCaw and Ted White shot a 69 to take the lead in the championship flight along with two more pairs. Graham Mackey teamed up with Jim Cauthen for a 69 while the twosome of Clayton Tucker and Oliver Seilemer also had a 69.

Buck Watkins and Jeff Dewese recorded a 67 to lead in the second flight while Richard Salmon and Ernie Gilkerson turned in a 70 to top the fourth flight.

Another amazing score came in the 11th flight where Ray Bray and Jim Ormond shot a 75.

The championship flight will be cut into the President's Flight today, making 12 flight altogether.

Littler's birdie binge earns tie

HOUSTON (AP) — Veteran Gene Littler fired nine "3s," including an eagle on the 16th hole, for a 65 that lifted him into a tie with George Burns for the second-round lead Friday in the $200,000 Houston Open Golf Tournament.

The usually placid, unemotional Littler tossed his putter into the air after holing a 60-foot putt for the eagle that put him seven under par for the day.

The 46-year-old veteran had to have those heroics to take a share of the top spot with Burns, who matched Littler's 135 total, nine under par for two rounds over the 6,997-yard Woodlands Country Club course.

THE HUSKY Burns, who compiled a spectacular amateur record before joining the pro tour three years ago, played his second round in four-under-par 68 and hasn't made a bogey in the tournament.

"I'm going to be very low key from here on in," said Burns, who blew a chance to win his first pro title in this tournament a year ago. "I don't want to get too excited."

George Knudson, a 39-year-old veteran from Canada, was third at 137 after a 68 that included a double bogey seven.

CHI CHI Rodriguez, who said "I've got my game back—all of a sudden I think I can play good golf again," Doug Tewell and Leonard Thompson were next at 138. Rodriguez had a 66, which included an eagle two on the ninth hole. He called it "my best round since I won the Tam O'Shanter in 1964." Thompson, who said he had benefited from a series of lessons from Arnold Palmer at Palmer's Bay Hill Club in Florida, shot a 68 and Tewell had a 67.

Lanny Wadkins, who scored nine birdies on his way to a 68, and Dave Eichelberger, with a 67, were at 139. Mark Hayes, who shared the first-round lead with Burns, blew to a 76 in the warm, windy weather and was well back at 141.

Jack Nicklaus, only two strokes off after the first 18 holes, took a fat 75 and was even par at 144. Arnold Palmer, with a 74, and Lee Trevino, with a 77, were at 146. Defending champion Lee Elder, who took advantage of Burns' collapse over the last nine holes a year ago, shot a 70 and was at 148.

Diablos batter Midland, 9-2

EL PASO — Midland's Cubs became the first team to score off John Racanelli this year in the Texas League when Keith Drumright flopped a single to right, Bill Huisman beat out an infield hit and Karl Pagel drove in the first inning run.

That's about all the Cubs did as the El Paso Diablos, now 10-2, put on a display of speed and pitching to back up Racanelli's eight-hit pitching for a 9-2 win before a disappointing crowd of 3,321, worst of the season, at Dudley Field.

Racanelli notched his third win of the season although losing his 14th inning unscored on string.

JAY PETERS hit two home runs and Cory Lansford one to pace the El Paso attack. Peters hit a solo homer as the sixth after a three-run job in the third. It gave the right fielder four for the young season.

Lansford's homer was his first of the year.

Byron Wilkerson, 0-2, started for Midland and beat a hasty retreat as El Paso piled up a 7-1 lead after three innings.

Wayne Doland pitched an inning and a third in relief before suffering an arm injury.

Midland heads for Armarillo tonight to open a five-game series against the Gold Sox.

Bulldogs' doubles team loses in semifinals

By PAUL DOMOWITZ R-T Sports writer

LUBBOCK — It was a match filled with "ifs," and Jeff Bramlett and Kirk Farquhar are going to be ifting it over in their minds for a long time to come.

What if that shot was two inches instead of two inches out? What if we didn't blow those three straight chances to break their serve in the third set? What if we had called that deep serve out instead of giving it to them?

Ifs. Millions of them. The more they replay the match in their minds, the more ifs there will be. But nothing will change. Their 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 semifinal defeat here Friday to El Paso Irvin's

Richard Holmes and Jose Rivera in the Region 11 Boys AAAA-AA Tennis Tournament's history, and nothing is going to change that.

HOLMES AND Rivera, the defending regional doubles champions, advanced to today's 9:30 a.m. final against Robert Davis and Steve Wyatt, Lubbock Coronado, while Bramlett and Farquhar meet Tray Pitt and Steve Herman, Amarillo Tascosa, also 9:30, for third place.

In the singles final, it will be Abilene Cooper's David Zimmerman, a 6-1, 6-0 semifinal victor over Pleasanton Stacy Foster, against Scott Kobern, El Paso Coronado who defeated El Paso Eastwood's Lance Hickman 6-1, 6-0.

The top two finishers in both the singles and doubles events will advance to the state tourney in Austin in two weeks.

"The odds were a lot of chances to get away," said a disheartened Coach Larry Bargin, "but they just couldn't do it."

In what he felt was the best match of the tournament, the two Tall City youngsters started like a house on fire and had the two El Pasoans talking to themselves as almost everything they hit in the first set fell within their lines.

"Well, definitely missed," shouted a sarcastic Holmes after a Farquhar forehand was wide in the fifth game of the opening set. But it was about the only one that hit him. Bramlett and Farquhar returned everything the pair smashed at them, and a good deal more, as they held serve all five times and broke their opponents in the third game to take a 6-4 win.

But the defending regional champs weren't going to give up quite that easily. The momentum changed quickly, and Holmes and Rivera broke serve twice in the second set by swinging away, 6-0, and set up a third set.

With Farquhar serving, the first game went to the Bulldogs before the Williams finally held for a 1-0 lead. After Holmes and Rivera held in the second game, the Pack tandem won game three on a Bramlett backhand that topped past Holmes down the line for a winner, and a 2-1 lead.

But the Irvin youngsters came back, and they held serve in the fourth game, 6-4, 6-4.

fourth game, it was obvious that a service break was going to decide the winner here.

Bramlett and Farquhar's chance came in the sixth game. Rivera was serving, and if they were going to break anybody's serve, it was going to be his. He had been having trouble getting his first serve in all afternoon, and had been the victim of service break three times.

But a fourth was not to be. After being extended to deuce on a Farquhar overhead smash, the El Pasoans took the next two points and held to make it 3-3.

What had begun as hope turned into a nightmare. It was Bramlett that was broken in game seven as Holmes, at 6-foot-3, hit a pair of big winners through the middle.

THE STEAM was gone from the Tall City youngsters after that. They didn't score a point in the eighth game, as Holmes held service for a 5-3 lead.

Farquhar held service in game nine, but the end was drawing closer. With Rivera serving, the Irvin duo took a quick 4-0 lead and had three chances to ice the match. But valiantly Farquhar and Bramlett battled back to deuce.

Then came the biggest "if" of all. Rivera's next serve was quite obviously deep by at least two or three inches, but Bramlett gave it to him, and the El Pasoans were at match point once again.

This time they held.

First Round: David Zimmerman, Abilene Cooper def. Oscar Ontivero, El Paso, 6-1, 6-0; Jim Cannon, Amarillo def. Steve Hoover, Harford, 6-3, 6-1.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Maryou Crocker, Debbie Austin and Debbie Massey tied for the lead Friday at four-under-par 68 in the opening round of the sixth annual Ladies Professional Golf Association's Birmingham Classic.

Miss Massey finished fifth last year at Raleigh and appeared to have the Green Valley Country Club course here conquered.

"I'm pleased with my first few tournaments," the rookie said after the opening round. "I am working to develop physical and mental continuity."

Miss Crocker has won one tournament and ended the day with five birdies and one bogey.

"I'm trying to take a little vacation, but I keep playing good," she said. She credited the upswing in her game to being physically stronger. "I thought I played well last year, but I've had a lot of bad rounds. But it's been a lot better this year, thank goodness," she added.

Miss Austin, playing on the tour for nine years without a tournament victory, ended her day with four birdies.

"I'm very pleased with my round," she said. "I've never won, but I'm a happy bridesmaid. I'm working on it."

Judge chides Kuhn for his inconsistency

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal judge chided Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on Friday for imposing different penalties on baseball club executives accused of violating the same player "tampering" rules.

But Kuhn insisted from the witness stand that the circumstances were vastly different when he fined St. Louis Cardinals President August A. Busch Jr. $5,000 in September and when he suspended Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner for one year in December.

The testimony came during the final day of hearings on a suit by the Atlanta ball club challenging Turner's suspension.

The hearing ended Friday afternoon with U.S. District Court Judge Newell Edenfield taking the matter under advisement. He gave attorneys until May 9 to submit proposed conclusions of law.

THE BRASH Atlanta club owner, who Thursday threatened to present an opposing attorney with a "kneuckle sandwich," was more subdued at the conclusion of the case.

Turner, a millionaire sportsman who also owns controlling interest in the National Basketball Association's Atlanta Hawks, refused to comment about the case, but said it has already changed his impulsive style of ownership.

"It's hard to be quite as enthusiastic with all the problems that exist that I didn't know about (when he purchased the club in early 1976)," Turner said. But he added: "That's not going to stop me from being enthusiastic."

Turner was accused of violating free-agent draft rules by mentioning salary terms before baseball's Nov. 4 re-entry draft. Besides being suspended, Turner's team also was forced to forfeit its first-round choice in the amateur draft in June.

AT ONE point Friday, Edenfield referred to Kuhn as a "benevolent despot" and later wondered "about the fairness of your benevolence."

Contrasting the penalties Kuhn handed out to the two club owners, Edenfield remarked, "You say that's being a benevolent despot?"

Yankees win, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Relief pitcher Ron Guidry, a last-minute replacement for missing Mike Torrez, fired eight shutout innings and Thurman Munson slammed a two-run homer as the New York Yankees beat Seattle 3-0 Friday night in their first-ever meeting with the expansion Mariners.

It was the second major league start for the 26-year-old left-hander, whose strikeout pitching bailed him out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the first inning.

The Mariners never got another runner beyond first until the ninth inning when one-out singles by Juan Bernhardt and Bill Stein chased Guidry. Sparky Lyle replaced Guidry with runners at first and third and retired Dan Meyer on a pop and Ruppert Jones on a grounder to end the game.

Ferguson's home runs help Astros' rookie

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Floyd Bannister, top pick in baseball's free agent draft last June, gained his first major league pitching victory and Joe Ferguson hit two home runs to lead the Houston Astros to an 11-3 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday night.

Bannister, a product of Arizona State University, allowed 11 hits but pitched the full nine innings in his first major league start. He had been 0-1 in two relief appearances this season.

The Pirates, who had won five in a row, took a 2-0 lead in the first inning with the help of run-scoring singles by Dave Parker and Willie Stargell and a pair of stolen bases.

However, Houston put the game away with five runs in the fourth inning off Reuss, 0-3, and five more in the sixth off rookie relief pitcher Odell Jones.

Ferguson singled and scored in the fourth, which also included two-run doubles by Art Howe and Rob Sperring. Ferguson added a solo homer in the fifth and belted a three-run homer in the sixth, his fifth of the season.

Houston, which halted an eight-game losing streak last weekend, has since won four of five games.

Fryman, Eastwick top Cubs with 7-hitter

CINCINNATI (AP) — Woodie Fryman and Rawly Eastwick combined for a seven-hitter and George Foster singled in the winning run as the Cincinnati Reds extended their winning streak to four games with a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

Fryman, the oldest starter in the National League, won his first game since opening day. The 37-year-old left-hander settled down after a shaky start to even his record at 2-2.

Chicago Cubs Friday was greeted by Larry Bliittner's pinch hit single, then retired Ivan DeJesus on a fly to post his fourth save.

Eastwick was summoned with two outs in the ninth after George Mitterwald doubled. He Foster delivered a one-out single off loser Bill Bonham, 2-2, to crack a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning. After Ken Griffey opened the inning with a single and stole second, Joe Morgan drew a walk, setting the stage for Foster.

Angels beat Birds in 11

BALTIMORE (AP) — Don Baylor's lead-off home run in the 11th powered the California Angels to a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night as unbeaten Frank Tanana captured his fourth victory in a row.

A one-out homer in the ninth by Joe Rudi, giving him a record-tying 27 runs batted in for April, had saved Tanana from losing a classic pitching duel with Jim Palmer.

Palmer, who has allowed only 21 hits and five runs in 47 innings this season, was working on a two-hitter when Rudi connected for his fifth home run—all of which have been hit when Tanana was pitching.

ODESSA—Stanton's Doug McCalister was the first area winner as the first day of the Region I AAA-A track meet closed here Friday.

SPORTS SCRATCHPAD A's farm out Umbarger

BASEBALL — Pitcher Jim Umbarger, a Texas Rangers' pitcher all last season, has been sent to San Jose of the PCL by the Oakland A's...

Oakland's Dick Allen reprimanded some of his younger teammates, and possibly Manager Jack McKeon, when he said, "This isn't a team yet. No sir, I've never seen such a bunch of crybabies. And if they're doing it now, think how it's going to be later when it gets tight."

"It just happened and I wish it hadn't," Lenny Randle told a news conference before the Mets opened a series with San Diego Friday. Randle was traded from the Rangers to the Mets after slugging Manager Frank Lucchesi in spring training.

TENNIS — Ricardo Cano upset Dick Stockton 3-6, 6-4, 8-6, 6-4 and Guillermo Vilas downed Brian Gottfried 6-4, 6-0, 6-2 to give Argentina a 2-0 lead over the U.S. in the American Zone Davis Cup tennis tournament.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets hit 16 of 19 free throws in a 40-point third quarter and rallied behind Calvin Murphy's 40 points Friday night to beat Washington 123-115 in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series.

BUOYED by their free throw shooting, the Rockets took a 14-point lead early in the fourth quarter, but had to hold off a late bullet rally when the Bullets cut Houston's lead to four points with 19 seconds to play.

MURPHY'S 40 points tied him for second place among leading single-game scorers in the playoffs this season. Moses Malone added 25 points for Houston and Rudy Tomjanovich added 19. Elvin Hayes led Washington with 30. Mitch Kupchak had 20 and Phil Chenier added 19.

HOUSTON (AP) — The defending champion Boston Celtics, led by the sharpshooting of Jo Jo White and John Havlicek and the tenacious play of fouled-up Dave Cowens, kept alive hopes for another National Basketball Association title Friday night with a 113-108 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Ledet claims shot victory

LUBBOCK—San Angelo and the two El Paso schools of Andress and Burges scored heavily in two field events here Friday at the Texas Tech oval as the Region I AAAA-AA ended the first of two days of action.

SAN ANGELO'S Harold Ledet pulled off a victory as expected in the discus with a toss of 175-8 and Odessa Periman's Danny King won the long jump with a leap of 22-9/4.

SAN ANGELO, Burges and Andress all won 14 points after two complete events. Olney grabbed the AA lead with 14 points after three events.

OLNEY grabbed the AA lead with 14 points after three events. Crane's Jim Smitherman lost a state bid in the shot put with a third place toss of 51-11.4.

ROBERT PRATT of Olney won the event with a 56-4/4 and Wiley's Tony Keefer was second with a 52-7/4.

HOKEEY — New York Rangers' stars Carol Vadnais, Rod Gilbert, and Phil Esposito scored five goals between them as Canada whipped West German 9-3 in the World Ice Hockey Championships Friday night at Vienna. Finland defeated Romania, 4-2, in Friday's other game...

BOXING — The recent investigations of the U.S. Boxing Championships, promoted by Don King for ABC-TV, forced the World Television Champions, a weekly series, off the air. Originated by matchmaker Don Elbaum and shown in most major markets by an independent network, it was suspended indefinitely, because of the "bad press", said WTC president Hank Schwartz...

MEANWHILE, Don King has reinstated the three assistants he suspended over a week ago amidst controversy concerning the U.S. championships. "I deeply apologize to my three friends for my friends for my thoughtless action," King said.

FOOTBALL — Jefferson Street Joe Gilliam, now in a Virginia drug treatment center, may be transferred to a New Orleans center to try to rest of the way playing a key role in the final two minutes. The big red head finished with only 11 points but dominated the boards and intimidated the 76ers.

With Boston in front by just one point, 103-102, Cowens stole the ball for a play which set up Charlie Scott for two free throws with 1:58 remaining. Twenty seconds later, Cowens blocked a shot, batting the ball to Havlicek who fed White for a layup and the Celtics were in command the rest of the way.

White scored 40 points and Havlicek 25 as each went the entire 48 minutes in the fiercely played game before a packed crowd of 15,040 at Boston Garden. Cowens, who picked up his fifth personal foul with the second half only 5:19 old, managed to remain alive and go the championship and an unprecedented 14th in history, led 27-23 after one period as White hit for 11 points. The Celtics widened the margin to 57-48 at halftime and then to 71-60 after five minutes of the second half before the 76ers charged back on the shooting of Doug Collins.

Collins scored 16 points as Philadelphia closed to within 87-83 at the three quarter mark. White personally kept Boston alive with 16 points of his own.

Collins, who finished with 32 points, helped the 76ers finally gain the lead for the first time since early in the game.

Rankin takes 2nd in golf

ODESSA—For the first time since 1972, the Rankin Red Devil golf team is not the Region I Class A golf champion, but they still could wind up with an unprecedented fifth state championship in two weeks.

MEMPHIS fired a 599 at the Golden Acres golf course here Friday to win the Class A Region I title, but Rankin earned its fifth straight state tournament berth with a second place 607.

AS FAR as Rankin is concerned, lightning can strike twice in the same place. Memphis was the team that defeated Rankin for the Region I title in 1972, but Rankin went on to win the state championship that year and the following three years. No Class A school had ever won four state crowns in a row. Now the Devils still have a chance to add to the string.

MEMPHIS produced a 300 in Thursday's first round to tie Rankin and Stratford for the lead, but in Friday's final 18 holes, Memphis put out the fire with a scorching 299 while Rankin managed a 307 and Stratford a 317. Stratford still finished third with a 617 while Iran was fourth with a 622. Stanton finished a distant ninth with a 654.

THE BATTLE for medalist honors proved to be a much closer battle, however. Memphis' Don Cofer, Rankin's Clarke Turner and Albany's Ken Lawrence all ended regulation play with 144.

IN A sudden death playoff, Cofer won top honors with a par on the first hole and Clarke later took second with a par on the third hole while Lawrence had to settle with a double bogey.

RANDY DOEGE helped the Rankin charge with a two-day 149 while Russell Wimberly, the District 6-A medalist, had a 153. Tom Wimberly and John Bell each carded 161 in the two rounds.

AS EXPECTED, Fort Stockton easily captured the AAA Region I crown and a state berth with a two-day 563 score, finishing 30 strokes ahead of second place Pecos, who rallied in the second round to win the other state berth. Borger finished third with a 602.

CANYON, which was in second place after the first round Thursday, fell to last with a 616. Fort Stockton's Mike Waller won the AAA medalist crown with a 133. He had a 66 on Thursday and a 67 on Friday. Teammate Blaine McCallister managed a 137 for second place.

THE STATE tournament will be held in Austin in two weeks.

Cooper's belt paces Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper hit his third home run of the year in the seventh inning to lift the Milwaukee Brewers to a 6-5 victory over the Cleveland Indians Friday night.

Jackson earns berth in state

ODESSA—Andrews won a state berth and lost another one during the first day of the Region I AAA tennis tournament at Odessa College.

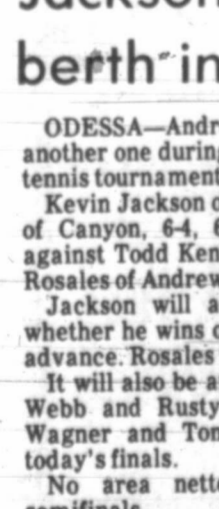

KEVIN JACKSON of Andrews defeated Mark Sullivan of Canyon, 6-4, 6-4, to advance to today's finals against Todd Kent of Canyon, who defeated Arthur Rosales of Andrews in the semifinals, 6-4, 6-1.

JACKSON will advance to the state tournament whether he wins or loses here today. Kent will also advance. Rosales will not get a state berth.

IT WILL ALSO be an all-2-AAA doubles final as David Webb and Rusty Conway of Seminole and Scott Wagner and Tony Gibbs of Monahans tangle in today's finals.

Flyers totter on edge; Islanders battle back

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Flyers are on the verge of elimination from the Stanley Cup playoffs, while the New York Islanders have shown the powerful Montreal Canadiens they're not about to be swept away.

The Flyers trail the Boston Bruins 3-0 in the best-of-seven National Hockey League playoff semifinals, and Coach Fred Shero doesn't even want to think about his club having to win four in a row.

"I can't think about winning four games until we win one," said Shero, whose Flyers moved within one game of summer vacation when they were beaten 2-1 in Boston Thursday night.

And it's no consolation that the Flyers are due for a victory.

"I don't believe in the law of averages," Shero said. "I think you make your own law of averages. When you don't capitalize on your chances, you don't win."

The Flyers must win Sunday in Boston to stay alive. "We're in a pretty deep hole," says Philadelphia's Orest Kindrachuk, "but we're the type of team that's capable of getting out of it."

Boston's Terry O'Reilly, however, put it in focus.

"They have to win four; we only have to win one," he said.

The Islanders, meanwhile, can even their series with mighty Montreal with a victory Saturday night at the Nassau Coliseum, where Thursday they dealt the Canadiens their first loss in 19 games 5-3.

The Islanders feel that getting their first victory over the Canadiens could break down some psychological barriers.

"Now we know they're beatable," says Islanders defenseman Denis Potvin, "and they know they are beatable."

After three close contests, the Canadiens have "realized that we have to play three full periods against them," according to Montreal's veteran center, Pete Mahovich. And defenseman Serge Savard adds, "Nobody expected an easy series, and we still don't."

The Islanders now have to win three out of four against Montreal, which has only lost twice in its last 40 games. But they don't think that's impossible.

Things looking good for High Sky tourney

"Things look really good right now for our tournament on Amistad Lake," said John Kelly, tournament director for the second annual High Sky Bass Club Invitational Bass Tournament May 7-8.

"We have had letters from people in San Angelo, Abilene, Sonora and San Antonio. In addition, we will get a very good participation from the Permian Bass Club of Odessa and the Castle Gap Club in McCamey," Kelly said.

Kelly also expects a strong turnout, based on last year's response, of the Del Rio and Laughlin AFB clubs.

More than $4,000 in merchandise and $550 in cash will be up for grabs. An Opelco graph recorder, a Garcia flash-recorder, a Garcia oxygen temp probe, Shakespeare troll motor, Lowrance depth finder and lots of rods and reels, tackle boxes and ice chests will be among the prizes.

Kelly pointed out that men's and women's competition will be divided into separate classes but said that identical cash and trophy awards are set up for each. A special $50 award will go to the club with the most entries.

Tournament fee is $15 payable to the High Sky Bass Club, P. O. Box 5287 Midland....

STRIPED BASS still dominated the Lake E.V. Spence scene last week with the catches in the 3 1/2 to 12 1/2 pound range. Thomas Bostwick, Midland, took a five pound yellow...

At Lake Colorado City, crappie, catfish and some carp are providing the action. Rains last weekend limited the turnout, but should improve the fishing. Perhaps, the week's outstanding catch was by Slim Jordan, Colorado City, who landed a 31-pound yellow on a hell-bender while trolling in 12-feet of water...Scott McKnight, Midland, caught seven pan-size crappie, seven black bass and seven crappie at one pound each....

CRAPPIE FISHING at Oak Creek Lake was slower than usual...but Odessa's Ben Wester took 30 with the best going 1 1/2 pounds. Ed Whitehead, Lubbock, caught several nice channel cat on trotlines using live bait, the best going five pounds....

Charley Stigen, Steve Binns, 13, and Jim Binns caught a string of 12 bass at Lake Spence, the largest going to five pounds. Two of the fish were caught on worms.

More than 120,000 catchable sized rainbow trout were stocked in the Canyon Dam trailrace of the Guadalupe River by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. Trout fishing has been available on the Guadalupe since a pilot program was established in 1966 and it became an immediate success with Central Texas anglers....

In New Mexico, fishing on the Pecos River to the state line is producing bass in deep holes with minnows and surface lures as bait...At Elephant Butte Lake, white bass fishing continues to pick up. Crappie is fair on minnows and lures while catfishing is good at the north end of the lake using cut baits....

Coined Silver receives test in Stepping Stone

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Coined Silver preps for what would be owner C.V. Whitney's 13th Kentucky Derby when the colt opposes five other 3-year-olds Saturday in the one-mile Stepping Stone Purse on opening day at Churchill Downs.

Whitney has had 15 Derby starters and the closest he has come to winning was in 1947 when Phalanx finished second, beaten a head by Jet Pilot. Gleaming Sword, last in a 14horse field in 1968, was the last Derby starter for Whitney, who also owned the last filly to run in the famed race—Silver Spoon, who finished fifth in 1959.

TEE TIME

HPMGA membership reaches 137 this year

Rex R. Worrell HOGAN PARK GOLF PRO

The Hogan Park Men's Golf Association membership now stands at 137. Handicap Chairman Roland Davis urged that anyone not signed up for the year do so before May 2, as he will receive the handicap list and only paid up members will have their handicaps figured at the time.

The Association's first tournament will be a 2-Man Scramble May 14. Entry fee will be $5 per team. Partner's handicaps must be within 6 strokes of each other, and deadline for entry will be 6:00 p.m. May 12. Entry forms are available at the Golf Shop.

STARTING TIME procedures for the summer at Hogan Park Golf Course will be handled as follows:

Starting times will be accepted for Saturday, Sundays, and holidays, for 3-4 & 5 somes only, on the Friday previous to the weekend or holiday, beginning at 6 a.m. Times may be reserved in person at the Golf Shop prior to those made by telephone.

Starting times for weekdays will be assigned by the golf shop staff at the time of registration. 11 players will be paged to the tee by the staff or directed to use golf ball rack. Starting times will be on seven minute intervals beginning at sun up and continuing until 3 1/2 hours before sun down.

Players with starting times need to check in with the Golf Shop 10 minutes prior to their assigned time, ready to play.

STARTING TIMES are for the convenience of the players, and orderly play on the course. Repeated infractions of being late, or not honoring your time will be subject to review by the golf shop staff in accepting future starting times. Groups with less than three players will be worked in at starter's discretion as soon as an opening exists. Players without tee time reservations should check in with the golf shop staff prior to registering.

Your support and cooperation are necessary to make this program work, and in this manner, the course can be used by the greatest number of players. Rules of play are listed on the scorecard; you are requested to study these rules and abide by them so that all players can use the course in an orderly manner.

The Hogan Park Women's Golf Association held a low score on par 5 Thursday, with the following results... 18 hole division - first flight winner was Cheryl Starcevic, second flight winner Jayne Wagner, third flight winner Dottie Turk, and fourth flight winner Chata Mee... 9 hole division - Margaret McClesky took first place honors and Marjorie Cardwell & Jeanne Allen tied for second.

May 5 will be Trophy Day for the Hogan Park Women's Golf Association with the following pairings: 18 hole division - Gene Veltan, Margaret Hestand & Jean Elkin; Muriel Inman, Neil Kimball & Betty Cobb; Gloria Deleback, Merla Ketter & Cheryl Starcevic; Florence Maloy, Jane Wagner & Shirley Edwards; Joyce Parker, Gail McCreary & Golda Morgan; Bernice Cox, Alvina Hill, Connie Kern & March Davis; Chata Mee, Fern Barnett, Dottie Turk & Pat Barton; 9 hole division - Anette Mack, Bernice Webb, Frances Stahl, Evelyn Ballard, Marjorie Cardwell & Marilyn Berry; Wilma Allenson, Aurelia Kiefer & Kim Gentry; Peggy Martins, Margaret Phelps & Juana Evinger; Pat Koth, Margaret Moore & Rosa Lee Cook; Rita Bue, Peggy Parkins & Betty Williams; Deenie Ashland, Mary Davis & Peggy Barry; Norma Harbin, Marguerite Stoltz & Margaret McClesky; Betty Ireland, Jeanne Allen & Ernestine Browning; Lucracia Black, Evelyn Guidry & Dorothy Koons.

NEW YORK Nets' Kevin Loughery has reason to smile after signing a new five-year contract to coach the NBA team.

Kimbrow named all-state

GREENWOOD—Greenwood High School's Cindy Kimbrow has been selected as a guard on the Class B All-State team, and will play in the North-South All-Star girls basketball game July 16 in Abilene.

Greenwood now has had a all-state girl in basketball for three straight years. Capri Kimbrow, Cindy's sister, was the first, and last year Rae Garcia earned the honor.

Miss Kimbrow is also a track standout. She will be entered in the JClass B girls state track meet in Austin next weekend in both the triple jump and long jump. Teammate Cindy Brewer will be in the discus.

It will be the fourth trip to state for both girls, but neither has won in Austin. Miss Kimbrow ran at Class A Iraan her freshman year and this is her third trip for Greenwood.

Neill new leader

As the Texas Men's State Bowling Tournament went into another weekend, there was a new leader in Class B Singles.

Parke Neill rolled a 216-191-246-653 during the sixth weekend of play to take the lead from John Brenek, Temple, 647.

In D doubles, C.Schnelle and R. Koennecke of Fredericksburg moved into the lead with a 1,140.

Fort Worth Vending, Euless, was beginning to look as formidable as Gibraltar in Class A team competition, their 2,900 outstanding another wave of bowlers last weekend.

Competition this week will be at Super Bowl (Team) and Busby's in Odessa, (singles and doubles).

AL docks Blyleven ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)Texas Ranger Gen. Mgr. Danny O'Brien said Friday it's understandable that American League President Lee MacPhail could not let the Bert Blyleven beanball incident go unpunished but added "I think we would be somewhat more irate if Bert had missed a turn." Blyleven was given a three day suspension and fined $500 for deliberately decking Kansas City catcher Darrell Porter Wednesday in retaliation for what the Rangers believed was a knock-down pitch thrown at Texas' Juan Beniquez.
