Muleshoe Reds Maintain Lead

To End Season

Sunday, the Muleshoe Reds again widened out their season record, and going into the 15th and final game for the season Tuesday night, were 13-1.

Nazareth came to town Sunday, and Appy Sanchez gave up only two hits as the Muleshoe Reds won 8-1.

Few hits were made by the Muleshoe Reds in the fast-paced game. They were made by Steffan Moore, Todd Gregory and Ramon Guillen, each with a single and Joe Alvarado, two singles.

Last week, on Tuesday night, the Senior Babe Ruth team downed Morton 14-4 with winning pitcher Lupe Rosales giving up four hits in the game. He struck out six players and team manager, Don Leak said there was excellent playing from the field.

Hits were made by Shorty Sanchez, a single; Appy Sanchez, two singles; Lupe Rosales, a single and a double; Todd Allison, a single; Steffan Moore, four singles; Ramon Guillen, a single and Todd Gregory, a double.

The final game for the regular season was at Olton at 8 p.m. on Tuesday night.

Wilson Is Installed New Lions President

Three priorities were established by incoming Muleshoe Lions Club President Gordon Wilson Monday night. In brief remarks immediately following his installation, he said the first priority would be to keep the members of the Muleshoe Lions Club at the present time.

Second, Wilson advocated an intensive effort to obtain new members. Third, he said publicity would be a main factor. "People don't know what we are doing, or who we are unless we tell them," Wilson told his fellow members. "It is our responsibility to let all the news media know what is going on with the Muleshoe Lions." He also suggested appointing a publicity officer to keep the local media informed of the Lions Club activities.

"What you see is what you get," he said immediately after being installed as president. "I promise to do as good a job as president as I did the day I led the singing." From the response of laughter from the members, it became evident he may not be exactly musical, but his intent is good.

Outgoing president Jerry Redwine thanked all the members and the board of directors for their assistance during his year as president of the Muleshoe Lions Club. "A board is

Little League Reports Show Lots Of Action

More Little League action takes the spotlight this week, with reports on four more games.

In one game, Hector Reyes had five strikeouts to lead the Lions to a 24-6 routing of the K-Bars. Ramie Garner had two strikeouts for the losing team.

Joe Reyes had a home run over the center field fence and a single to lead scoring for the Lions, while Chavez was the leading hitter, with a double for the K-Bars.

The K-Bars also won over the Cardinals. Winning pitcher was Joe Olivas and Gig Pierce was credited with the loss.

Leading hitters included Danny Cazaverz, Andy Olivarez and Gig Pierce.

Todd Daniels was the winning pitcher for the Longhorns in a 10-9 narrow victory over the Sox. Daniels had seven strikeouts. Kurt Miller was the leading hitter.

Sergio Leal, with two strikeouts, led the Mustangs to a 2-1 victory over the Cardinals. Gig Pierce was the pitcher for the Cardinals.

Leading hitters in the game were Sammy Wilson and Sergio Gonzales.

Student Loan Fund Established Here

The name of Laura Thomas may become as familiar around Muleshoe in years to come, as it is familiar around Hereford, and to members of her family in Muleshoe and Friona. Recently, the Laura Thomas Memorial Loan Fund was established at Amarillo College.

Founder of the Student Loan is L.T. Johnson, radiographer at West Plains Medical Center in Muleshoe. When asked the reason for establishing the fund, he explained, "I had help getting through school and now I am making a good living. I decided it was time for me to help someone else."

"In establishing this loan fund on a payback basis, it should put it on solid ground to help a lot of people in years to come," he added.

Laura Thomas was a grandmother of L.T. Johnson, and as he spoke fondly of his grandmother, Johnson said she was always very interested in education. He decided the fund should be established in her name. Even though Johnson continued to minimize his own part in establishing the student fund for second year students of the Radiologic Technology Department at Amarillo College, several reasons could be in the background for establishing the fund.

Johnson cited a letter from the college, which said in part, "Established in 1980 to assist deserving x-ray majors. Loan applicants will be approved and recommended by the Department Chairperson of the Radiological Department."

He is a graduate of that department at Amarillo College, having entered the college after a severe illness.

According to Johnson's thinking, his grandmother always upheld education. She was born Laura Pyle in Scioto County, Ohio and her father moved the family to Kansas when she was a child.

She was later married to George Thomas and they were Pioneer settlers of Hemphill County. They resided in Hemphill County until Thomas died in 1933. Mrs. Thomas then made her home in Hereford until her death in 1973 at the age of 92.

Parker Folsie Received Fourth Gold Medal

Nearly 4,000 East Texas residents gathered in the piney woods of Lufkin recently to celebrate the Ninth Annual Southern Hushpuppy Olympics. At stake was $1,000 grand prize and the distinction of being crowned "The South's Greatest Hushpuppy Cook."

Competition in the 1980 Olympics was fierce with twenty Texas cooks, including four past champions, competing for the crown. This year's Olympics was won by Dallas architect and gourmet cook, Parker Folsie who received his fourth gold medal since the competition began in 1962.

Folsie, who won first place in 1975, 1976 and 1979, outscored his challengers, including second place winner, Bill Lawhorn of Dallas, and two-time winner, Cecil Davis of Wichita Falls, who came in third.

Folsie, whose recipe includes shrimp, crabmeat and crayfish, admitted after the judging that he didn't change the recipe that won him the 1979 championship. But he did disclose the "secret ingredient" that helped him win in the 1979 and 1980 -- he just didn't tell anyone about it. "I used a heaping teaspoon of sugar. The sugar makes the hushpuppies take on a golden color. I've used sugar in my hushpuppy recipe for nine years," the four-time Grand Champion said softly, "but I've never revealed it. I guess it's time I did."

And in doing so, Folsie revealed his entire 1980 prize-winning hushpuppy recipe:

- 1 heaping tbs. chopped lump crabmeat
- 1 heaping tbs. chopped fresh cooked crayfish tails
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk

Stir all ingredients together in a bowl adding enough milk to moisten batter. Place in pastry bag fitted with a large star-shaped tip and then swirl batter onto 365 degree cooking oil. Turn hushpuppies once and cook until golden color. Remove, drain and salt to taste. The recipe, which can be doubled, makes 12 large hushpuppies.

Parker Folsie's recipe has come a long way since this traditional culinary art became part of the culture and heritage of the Southern United States. Hushpuppy cooking is colorful and falls in the same class as chili making. There is a breed of people, most of whom reside in areas around Southern lakes, who practice hushpuppy cooking with the same devotion that a West Texan cooks chili or a Mexican-American cooks tamales.

Some cooks, particularly those who specialize in fish, take great pride in their ability to make a tasty hushpuppy. Many, including Parker Folsie, have their own special recipe and secret ingredient and talk enthusiastically of the qualities of their prize hushpuppies.

It is a good idea to remind everyone of the approach of Father's Day.

HUSHPUDDY OLYMPICS... Parker Folsie of Dallas was first place winner of the ninth annual Southern Hushpuppy Olympics in Lufkin, disclosed the "secret ingredient" of his hushpuppy recipe that helped him win the title for the fourth time. Nearly 4,000 residents of this piney woods area of east Texas were on hand for the ninth annual competition to determine the South's best hushpuppy cook. Folsie, who also won in 1975, 1976 and 1979, revealed his entire recipe.

Parker Folsie's Olympic Hushpuppies

- 1/2 cup flour
- 1/2 cup corn meal
- 1 heaping teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 tsp. cayenne pepper
- 1/2 tsp. ground coriander
- 1/2 tsp. creole seasoning or chili powder
- 1 heaping tbs. chopped parsley
- 1 heaping tbs. chopped green onion
- 1 heaping tbs. chopped pimento
- 1 heaping tbs. chopped boiled shrimp

June Saylor Attended State Convention

Texas State WIFE president June Saylor of Muleshoe, along with Mildred Brown of Hale Center and Charlotte McLaughlin of Petersburg recently returned home from Washington, D.C., where they represented Texas Women Involved in Farm Economics in its efforts to get the U.S.D.A.'s decision on micronare discounts reversed.

With the help of Congressman Hance and Stenholm, they secured a letter addressed to Secretary of Agriculture, Bob Bergland, calling for the reversal of U.S.D.A.'s decision with the signatures of Senators Tower and Benson and Texas Congressmen.

In a meeting with the National A.S.C.S. Chairman Ray Fitzgerald and other U.S.D.A. officials, the WIFE members spent two hours explaining why reversing this decision is so vital to West Texas cotton growers. Fitzgerald requested a review of the decision from Secretary Bergland. "WIFE is hopeful that the review and reversal will happen this week," said a spokesman for WIFE.

The three ladies also visited with Department of Energy officials concerning grants for alcohol stills. WIFE has been asked by the DOE to help review its latest Guidelines for on the farm alcohol production.

Food, nutrition and labeling of imported food was discussed with Under Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman. WIFE is for better inspection of imported food and labeling as to point of

Credit should be given to Agriculture Aides of Congressman, Jim Wright and Kika de la Garza for helping to secure appointments and giving procedures by which to work to Mrs. Saylor, Brown and McLaughlin.

Having lunch with White House Correspondent Sarah McClendon at the National Press Club was a real delight for the WIFE members. Sarah is a native of Waco and was key speaker at the National WIFE convention last November. She is dedicated to helping the farmer and WIFE is her chief source of information concerning farm problems.

WIFE is now working vigorously to inform our Congressman and Senators about what the E.P.A. and the U.S. Corps of Engineers may be trying to do concerning our Playa Lakes. WIFE asks all women involved in farming, to join WIFE and its efforts to improve agriculture.

On the local scene, WIFE

Short Course To Be Given

Raising hogs in a climate-regulated house raises utility bills sometimes faster than the pork. The trick for producers is to turn rising costs into higher quality pork, experts at Texas Tech university this summer will say.

What would appear to be easy for a farmer with access to the best feeds, supplements, medicines and advice becomes a complex affair, says Dr. B.N. Day, animal husbandry professor at the University of Missouri.

Day will be one of the speakers at the annual Swine Short Course at Tech June 26 in the New Livestock Arena.

"Most (farmers) have found that poor reproductive performance is still a weak line in total confinement operation," Day said in a recent summary of production problems.

The causes of this problem are not the same for all breeds, seasons, regions, units or facilities within units, he said. Unclear is whether the problems stem from confined housing, genetic changes, management changes, all three areas or other causes, he said. "Increased problems" may simply result from increased awareness, the scheduled speaker said.

Day said studies do show that as swine production units become larger with increased use of total confinement, the reproductive problems increase. Delayed puberty and irregular estrus cycles -- meaning fewer baby pigs and profits -- appear to result as breeding herd sows are moved to total confinement, he said.

Day will offer recommendations on how to soothe stressed sows and increase their reaction to boars.

Dr. James E. Pettigrew, swine research manager for Moorman Manufacturing Co. of Illinois, will detail feed efficiency in confined operations and other feed-use factors.

Space and time in confinement affect how well hogs react to amino acids, especially lysine, he said in a recent summary.

Genetics, climate, wetness and feed texture, amino acid content and fat levels affect how many pounds a hog will gain per pounds of feed eaten, he said.

Because the most important amino acid in protein, lysine, is expensive, farmers must weigh the dollar value gained in performance against cost, he said. Pettigrew will detail the math used in this problem during the course.

He warns that carcass quality -- the ultimate determiner of profit and acceptance by buyers -- improves to certain levels as more lysine is added to the feed.

The business becomes a juggling affair, says Dr. Leland F. Tribble, a Tech animal scientist who specializes in hog production.

The short course will help more than 100 farmers expected to attend, he said.

Among the other speakers will be Dr. Robert E. Carlson, D.V.M., Pfizer Agricultural Division, Lee's Summit, Mo.; Dr. Samuel E. Curl, dean, Tech College of Agricultural Sciences; Kenneth Horton, executive vice president, Texas Pork Producers Association; Pat Murphy, extension agricultural engineer, Kansas State University; Dr. Donald E. Orr, Jr., animal scientist, Tech; Dr. C. Reed Richardson, animal scientist, Tech; and Tribble.

Environmental Documents Available

Final environmental impact statements and supplements on proposals to establish a national wildlife refuge and a national resource range, and to protect 11 river corridors in Alaska are now available for public review, Secretary of the Interior Cecil D. Andrus announced today.

The areas are the proposed Alaska Peninsula National Wildlife Refuge, the Iliamna National Resource Range, and the following rivers: Alagnak, Birch Creek, Delta, Forty-mile, Gulkana, Kirsaralik, Koyuk, Melozitna, Nuyakuk, Susitna, and Unalakleet. The refuge and range would be administered by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service as part of the National Wildlife Refuge System, while the rivers would continue under the management of the Bureau of Land Management.

The lands, totaling approximately 11 million acres, are among the remainder of those included in the 3-year emergency withdrawals of 110 million acres made by the Department in November 1978 under section 204 (e) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act (FLPMA). Since that time, nearly 56 million acres have been given permanent protection as national monuments and another 40 million acres as national wildlife refuges and natural resources areas.

The documents, prepared by the Fish and Wildlife Service and the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service, analyze the significant environmental impacts of actions currently undergoing Congressional consideration. Executive Branch alternatives that approximate the legislative proposals for natural resource protection, and a no-action alternative. The environmental documents include final supplements on the Iliamna Peninsula proposal and four of the rivers that had been addressed previously in a 1974 EIS.

Notice of the availability of the environmental documents appeared in the June 5, 1980, Federal Register. Copies of the documents are available for review in major libraries across the country and at the following locations:

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sandy Creek comes out in favor of eggs, electric cars and a good pair of mules.

Dear editor:

I've concluded that if you give scientists enough rope they'll unravel it.

For years now they've been saying that cholesterol is bad for you. They hammered on it so hard and long, claiming that eggs particularly are full of it, that it wouldn't have surprised me if some people who'll believe anything had come out in favor of outlawing chickens.

Now other scientists have come up with a study saying go ahead and eat eggs, cholesterol won't hurt you. Personally, I never stopped. I don't know which came first, the chicken or the egg; but I know which came first, eggs or scientists.

The way to handle scientists who come out of their laboratories pale and dyspeptic to report what you should or shouldn't eat or drink was established years ago by a man I knew. His doctor told him he should limit himself to only one cup of coffee a day. He obeyed, after he found a cup that held nearly a quart.

Another scientist is being hailed for inventing a bug that eats oil. I've had them in my tractor for years.

Other scientists are now working on electric cars and I'm in favor of it if I can get hold of a pair of good mules. As I understand it, the cars will run up to 100 miles before their batteries run down and have to be recharged.

I figure there'll be cars stalled all up and down the road, their batteries exhausted. A man with a good pair of mules and a long extension cord can clean up pulling them to the nearest wall plug.

Understand, I'm not decrying all scientists. If it hadn't been for volcano scientists we never would have known when Mount St. Helens was going to blow up.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Oil Creates False Hope For Jobs

In spite of its notoriety, brought about by oil development, Alaska's economy is still quite small and highly seasonal compared to other parts of the country. Alaska's Commissioner of Labor, Edmund N. Orbeck, is urging job seekers nationwide to stay where they are, "because there is not an abundance of jobs to be had in the state."

Orbeck also restated that,

"Alaska's unemployment rate is one of the highest in the nation (11 percent) and the Mantanuska - Susitna area continues with 20 percent unemployment." Alaska continues to have a high cost of living.

Currently there is an oversupply of unskilled labor throughout the state. Semiskilled and skilled labor, though not in oversupply, is already available in adequate numbers for most employer's needs.

Because of the current economic situation in many parts of the U.S., Alaskan workers who are employed are staying at their jobs. As a result, job openings due to turnover are down.

"The recent publicity about Alaska doing away with income tax is somewhat misleading," Orbeck says, "because an employee must file state returns for three years to be totally exempt from state income taxes."

"No final decisions have been made on construction of the Alaska Natural Gas Pipeline," says Orbeck, "and construction is not foreseen until the mid-eighties. If the line is built there are already more than enough workers living in Alaska to fill all but the most technical jobs."

Tech University Research Engineers

Getting Grip On Damage

After chasing nearly 50 try during the last decade, Texas Tech University diaster research engineers are getting a grip on predicting the damage that the twisters can cause to office buildings and homes.

That information is useful to home and office builders as well as owners, who can guard against structural flaws that can lead to severe damage during tornadoes.

However, all tornadoes are not the same and there are some surprises.

After four tornadoes struck Grand Island, Neb., June 3, a team of researchers from Texas Tech's Institute for Disaster Research (IDR) visited the area and made some preliminary observations on the damage and the debris. A detailed report will follow data analysis.

The IDR team included Dr. James R. McDonald and Kenneth LaGrecka, both civil engineers, and Timothy Marshall, an atmospheric scientist.

One of the four tornadoes at Grand Island struck the Veterans Administration (VA) hospital building and the damage there could have been predicted by the IDR team which has studied VA buildings around the country for potential storm damage.

"The VA hospital in Grand Island is a well constructed structure and we could have predicted some glass damage, disruption of utility services and damage to the gravel on the roof," McDonald said.

"The patients, according to our estimates, would have been safe in the hallways, even on the upper floors, and in the basement, as the tornado would not have caused any structural damage to the building," he added.

That is almost exactly what happened to the VA hospital in Grand Island.

"Glass is seldom designed to withstand tornado pressures and flying debris, and some window damage is always expected, but the extent of structural damage to a building depends on the construction materials used in walls, the connections between floors and walls, and the design of the roof," McDonald said.

LaGrecka said the VA hospital was made of reinforced concrete with the usual tar and gravel layer on the roof concrete to prevent water seepage.

"The gravel from the VA hospital roof was blown away, but the roof structure remained basically intact," LaGrecka added.

Other typical damage included collapsed garages and car ports and roofs. One house shifted away from its basement because of inadequate anchors between the house and its basement, McDonald added.

Marshall said the tornadoes in Grand Island were unusual, however, in that they moved at a rather slow speed of 5 to 7 miles per hour and the storm produced one twister that may have rotated counterclockwise. Most storms in the northern hemisphere produce storms that rotate clockwise.

Social Security Expands Services

Social Security has expanded service to the public with a new telephone center in Texas, Jim Latimer, Field Representative with the Lubbock social Security office stated today.

If you need information in a hurry, just dial 1-800-392-1603 and your question or problem can be resolved in a hurry, or you will be given information about where to get it resolved.

Latimer said that anyone getting SSA or SSI checks can get information by dialing the toll free number also.

Anyone wishing to apply for a check should call the Lubbock office toll free by calling Collect 762-7385, Latimer added.

which increased the damage to some extent," Marshall added.

"One of the tornadoes took a sharp U-turn and another tornado struck inside the U-shaped region of the first one, without actually crossing paths," Marshall said.

IDR storm study teams also visited sites in Kalamazoo, Mich.; Tulsa, Tex.; and Sedalia, Mo., this year.

"The information collected from these tornadoes adds to our knowledge of how buildings respond to tornadoes and how the construction industry can guard against possible structural flaws," McDonald said.

Disillusioned

Two modern little girls coming home from Sunday School were solemnly discussing the lesson.

"Do you believe there is a devil?" asked one.

"No," replied the other promptly. "Of course not. It's just like Santa Claus. He's your father."

Men are the constant dupes of names, while their happiness and well-being mainly depends on things. -J. Fenimore Cooper.

ONE INJURED SUNDAY.... Billy Joe Knowlton was taken to West Plains Medical Center for emergency treatment Sunday afternoon after losing control of this vehicle on a country dirt road and overturning at least one time. In the background are DPS Trooper Carey Brooker and Deputy Sheriff Bob Henderson. The hospital reported Knowlton had no serious injuries.

Everyone has his good points, if you are interested in finding them.

Politicians who appeal to your selfish interests are seeking your vote.

It might not have occurred to you but summer is only a few weeks away.

The truth seems to elude the grasp of mankind despite the long and historic pursuit.

One of the pleasant
outlooks is the approach of the peach season.

House-keeping is a lot of work for the women who actually keep house.
