

BIOGRAPHY OF BILL MILIGAN

Lipan Indians called W. P. Miligan, a noted Mexican and fighter, "Wesasha" meaning "the white man."

Miligan was a noted rancher and fighter in the valley of the Rio Grande in the 60's and 70's when the region was terrorized by Indians and the notorious Mexican bandit, Pancho Villa and his gang of outlaws.

Miligan was tall, red whiskered, and nosed and eyes like those of a grizzly bear. He was fearless, and when he saw him he wore two six shooters which he had used on many outlaw white men and Mexicans.

Although he was rated as a desperado, yet he was a fine, loyal man.

He loved children, especially boys. He would often take them to his place and "turn" squirrels for them to shoot. We got to be pals and he would never tell me of his adventures, but he would tell father and mother in my presence.

Following is one of the stories he told me when I was a boy. He owned a horse and cattle on the Rio Grande near Brownsville which is on the river between Matamoros. He and his Mexican neighbors got along fine. He would speak their language as well as his own. He had some horses that were the envy of his neighbors.

One day Cortina and a band of his outlaws visited his ranch. The outlaws were guided by one of his Mexican neighbors. They took every horse he had. When he begged Cortina to let him keep a saddle pony, Cortina had his men to hold Bill down while he, Cortina, gave him a severe beating on his back—down with the flat side of his sword.

This made Bill mad and he returned to even the score with Senior Cortina. When Bill was able to go to Brownsville, he stole into a Catholic church, swiped his robes and ran over to Matamoros and held services for the Catholic people of that town.

He learned from some of the men where Cortina and his outfit had their headquarters, which was a few miles up the river. Here he had services and warned Cortina and his gang to flee from the wrath that was to come. To soften the blow...

What You Buy With WAR BONDS. Many of the women of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps are already overseas serving in various capacities to help win the war. The WAACs go through a strenuous training to fit them for the arduous duties they must perform.

A uniform for a WAAC, complete, costs approximately $170.00. The Quartermaster's department must provide thousands of them. Your purchase of War Bonds helps pay for these uniforms. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday through a Payroll Savings plan at your office or factory.

Highway No. 158 Nears Completion

Durham K. Durham, engineer for the State Highway Department is here supervising the asphalt topping of the Sterling City-Garden City-Midland, highway 158.

Mr. Durham reports that the road will be completed about next Saturday. That means that in a few days we will have a hard surfaced, first class road from Sterling City via Garden City to Midland. It is among the best paved roads in West Texas.

It will relieve the traffic congestion on the Bankhead Highway from Big Spring to Midland and cut the distance between Midland and San Angelo by about 20 miles. It means much to the traffic as well as Garden City and Sterling City. It will also serve a great military need.

It has taken years of persistent effort to get this vital highway built but it will prove the worth of the effort.

Chief engineer Earl Beavers was up from San Angelo last Wednesday inspecting the work.

Henry Latham Is a Prisoner of War

Mrs. Thad Green was notified Wednesday that her son, Henry Latham, who had been reported as missing was a prisoner of war. The last heard from him, he was supposed to be in the Philippines. It was supposed that he was in the disaster of Bataan and Manila. That was about a year and a half ago.

James Knight Is Now a Captain

He is a graduate of the Sterling high school. For many years, he has been a professor in the Texas University. He will be instructor of high mathematics in the army.

He has been out over the Pacific, but does not talk much about it.

District Court Convened

Judge J. F. Sutton convened our 51st. District Court here last Monday. He set the grand jury to work with Fred Hodges as foreman. After being out a few hours, they turned in two felony indictments and went home.

These two indictments moistened up the dry criminal docket which the Judge found dry when he came. The cases are set for next Monday.

Aside from a case or two of divorce matters, the court found little to do here at this term.

The two indictments returned were against two Mexicans, charging them with passing a forged instrument. The indicted Mexicans had appeared at W. P. Meyers' store, bought some groceries and tendered a check purporting to have been drawn by Santos Gaitan, a local contractor in payment and received the difference in cash. It soon developed that Gaitan did not draw the check. The defendants appeared before the court Thursday, plead guilty, and their punishment was assessed at five years in the penitentiary, with sentence suspended during good behavior.

Leaves His Property to His Benefactors

George T. Wilson, Attorney at San Angelo, is attorney for the estate of the late R.T. (Bob) Dickey. Dickey's will provides that his property shall never be sold. That a part of the revenues derived from the estate shall go to Mrs. A. C. Carper of Sterling City during her lifetime. After her death, the estate will revert in fee simple to the Salvation Army. Dickey owned a patent on an automatic float valve both in the United States and Mexico.

Dickey came to this part of the country as a youth with the late A. C. Carper and family. He worked on many of the big ranches over all West Texas. When not working, or in ill health, he would return to the Carper home, where he knew there was a warm welcome awaiting him. His last act was done in gratitude.

Asks Cooperation in Stamping Out Diseases

Asking the cooperation of all Texas parents in a campaign to stamp out preventable diseases and insure the highest possible health levels among the children of this State, Governor Coke R. Stevenson has followed President Roosevelt's example in naming May 1 Child Health Day.

Urging the State-wide cooperation in this campaign for child health program, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said today, "There is no more important phase of national health than that of child health and the tragic annual death rate from diphtheria and smallpox is indeed hard to understand when we remember that science has long since produced a successful and safe immunization against both these diseases."

Dr. Cox pointed out the vital importance of child health to the total strength of our nation, and urged all Texans to exert every effort to conserve and protect child health not only through the application of positive health measures but also by reducing the incidence of the more devastating childhood diseases.

Young children who are taught personal hygiene, who live in clean homes, whose diets are carefully supervised and whose young bodies have been made immune to the ravages of such diseases as diphtheria, smallpox and typhoid fever stand an excellent chance of growing into strong, healthy, useful citizens," Dr. Cox said. "It is these boys and girls whose strength and health we are safeguarding by Child Health Day, who will be the leaders of that victorious and peaceful era which we are fighting to bring about today."

POKE SALAD

Are you acquainted with poke salad? If you are not, you have missed a lot of good eats in your day.

If the creator of Popeye had known the tasty virtues of poke salad, he would have left spinach out of his pictures, poke salad would have been the rage instead of spinach.

I have always noticed that when I got a mess of poke salad in the spring cooked with hog's jowl, I got through to the next spring to eat more poke salad and hog's jowls.

Poke used to grow abundantly along the river banks, but since the sheep took possession, there is no more poke.

While eating breakfast Wednesday morning, I wondered if I would ever eat anymore poke salad. In fact I was honing for one more feed of poke, when in came H. Sparkman bearing a big dishpan full of poke salad with the dew on it. I had poke salad that day for dinner, which was a guarantee that I would get through another year.

The Sparkmans know good eats and never fail to raise poke in the spring. I sure do thank them for this life saver.—Uncle Bill

A certain scientist warns the public that when cars are driven slowly, acids will form in the cylinders and damage them. That reminds me that 14 years ago, I bought a new model A Ford pickup. I laid the law down that the car should never be driven over 35 miles an hour. Since then this car has been driven every day. It is still going strong. The acid this boy speaks of may have formed in the cylinders and damaged them—no one has ever opened the motor to see about it. I am watching and waiting to see how soon the old jalopy will break down from slow driving.

The National shelter belt ended where the mesquites were growing. Where the mesquites grew, there was no need to plant a shelter belt. Mesquites split the wind currents, hold the soil in place and holds back the water that falls and tempers flash floods in the streams. Don't ever listen to the man who wants to destroy your mesquites. He may be honest in his theories, but don't forget that the fellow who killed his goose that laid the golden egg was honest too, but he couldn't think very well.—Uncle Bill

John L. Lewis, C.I.O. and chief aid to Hitler is in open defiance to the U. S. war labor board again. It will be noticed that just about the time Uncle Sam needs coal the most, John L. sees that he doesn't get it. John is worth more to the German cause than a division of German soldiers. If we had guts enough to put him where he belongs our war effort would be stepped up.—Uncle Bill

Where were you Monday night? Only three women came to make Red Cross surgical dressings.

General McNair, commander of the American ground forces in Tunisia was badly wounded in action last week. While inspecting a front post, shell fragments struck him on the head and shoulder, tearing through the steel helmet he wore and inflicting a scalp wound. His shoulder was badly mangled, but it is reported that the chances are good for his recovery, but he will be out of action for several weeks.

Well, I am still sending the paper to the boys in camp as well as over yonder. If you feel like helping me do this, your help will be welcomed. The boys will get their paper anyway, whether anyone helps or not. But in case you feel that way, call and you will find me in a receptive mood.—Uncle Bill

It is written that brevity is the soul of wit. There is truth in this saying. If you write for publication, be brief if you expect it to be read. Few people have time to read long articles. Many good articles find their way to the waste basket because they are too long.

STORY OF BILL

supposed priest, they made up and gave him a nice sum of money. Before leaving, Bill blessed them after the manner of priests, but in his heart he cursed them.

Bill went back home and gathered twenty of his friends. Armed with machetes, pistols and turpentine balls, they crossed the river and went to Cortina's camp at midnight. They cut off the head of the sentinel, lighted their turpentine balls and threw them among the sleeping outlaws. Then they went to work on them with their machetes and there was not one of them left alive. But Cortina lived only because he was absent that night visiting a lady friend. Twenty-one outlaws passed away for the reason that Miligan and his men separated their heads from their bodies.

The last I heard of Bill Miligan he had moved to Comanche County where later he was elected sheriff of that county back in the early 70's.

The late J. S. Johnston, who ranched in the north part of Sterling County, and who formerly resided in Comanche County was intimately acquainted with the subject of this story.

Dad and the Boys Get in the Scrap

Heavy scrap from America's farms is still vitally necessary to beat the enemy. Now that good weather makes it easy to locate scrap iron, every farm can help supply the materials that make guns and ammunition.

Some day, I mean to write other incidents in the life of this rugged character of the frontier days of Texas—Uncle Bill

If not, why not?

"Buy War Bonds and help turn the heat on Hitler!"

ADOLF may not live long enough to pay for his mass murders by actually sitting in the "hot seat." But electricity is already hastening the day of his doom!

Electricity drives delicate machines that turn out time fuses—and thundering presses that forge tank armor. Electricity is a basic part of every bayonet, bomber and battleship—of all America's roaring war production.

Even when war began, America had more electric power than all the Axis countries combined. It's no military secret that today our power supply is far greater. And it's no secret, either, that the electric companies under experienced business management supply about seven-eighths of it!

Free Americans set world production records primarily because they are free—because they have grown up under a business system that encourages initiative and invention—instead of reducing them to the ranks of Axis slaves.

Free Americans are freely giving billions of dollars to help put Hitler in the chair. But once he's there, a cent's worth of electricity will finish the job! Which goes to show what BIG things penny-priced electricity can do!

Pigs to Be Given to Winners in District Essay Contest

An essay contest is to be conducted in Tom Green, Coke, Concho, Menard, Iron, Runnels and Sterling Counties in May.

The contest is to be directed by a general committee, composed of the County Agents, Assistant Agents, the District Agent, Swine Specialist, and the officials of the local Sears, Roebuck and Co. Stores.

Nine purebred registered gilts and boars will be given to each county, and will represent one or more of the major breeds of hogs.

In order to qualify for one of these pigs, the boy will write and submit an essay entitled, "Advantages of the Cow-Hog-Hen Plan of Farming." The essay to have a maximum of 500 words.

All essays must be in the hands of the County Agents of each county by May 10, 1943, and must be written on notebook paper, typed or in ink and must contain name, address, name of club, and county of contestant. The essays must be judged by a committee in each county, appointed by the County Agent or Assistant County Agent.

Pigs will be awarded as prizes on the basis of 40% for best essay showing knowledge and information the contestant has on the subject, and 60% upon his facilities and ability to successfully complete the demonstration. Judges reserve the right to talk to the contestants, to inspect the farms, and talk to the parents and others in making their decisions.

Anyone interested in the contest can contact our local County Agent and get full details.

WORK AND WAGES

[Note: The following article is not by this publication, and is published by request—Editor]

These questions on just and honest wages for work received, were settled thousands of years ago by The Great Mogul of the nations and races of men.

"I will come near to you in Judgment; and I will be a swift Witness against those that oppress the hireling in his wages.

"The wages of him that is hired, shall not abide with thee all night until the morning.

"At his day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down on it; for he is poor and setteth his heart upon it; lest he cry against thee unto the LORD, and it be sin unto thee—

"Woe unto him — that useth his neighbor's service without wages, and giveth him nothing for his work.

"He that hurries to be rich, hath an evil eye, and considereth not that poverty shall come upon him.

"Men destitute of Truth, supposing that gain is godliness, from such men withdraw yourself. Godliness with contentment is great gain.

"For we brought nothing into this world and it is certain we carry nothing out.

"They that would be rich fall into temptation and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which drown men in destruction and perdition. For the love of money is the root of all evil.

"Charge them that are rich in this world that they, be not high minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but Trust in the Living God."—Truth Finder

War Takes 96¢ Of Each Dollar

Out of every $18.75 that is invested in a War Bond, $18 goes into guns, planes, tanks, ships and other military equipment. The 75 cents goes for ordinary governmental expenditures. Out of every dollar 96 cents goes toward the war effort and 4 cents goes for Government "business as usual."

The same ratio applies to all other securities the Government has offered investors in the Second War Loan campaign for 13 billion dollars.

"Dear Joe: Somethin' mighty swell happened to me on my last day's leave. I'm standin' on the corner, not knowin' anybody in town, when a stranger says 'hello, soldier—how'd you like a chicken dinner at home with me and the wife?"

"Well, it turns out they were the kind of folks who couldn't do enough to help out soldiers. They'd invited two other fellows and just as soon as we're introduced the lady brings us a glass of beer before dinner.

"We had a fine dinner, talked till ten ... Honest, Joe, I'll never forget their hospitality. Make me feel good fighting for people like that."
