Drug Store Talk
Buddy Smith of San Angelo with the Perkins Rexall Drug stores, talked about a drug store for Sterling City. Smith said right now and in a hurry, the people needed prescription service. He said his company would fill all prescriptions sent or called in to them and get them back the best way. He said if there was no hurry, one could leave his prescription order at the Sterling Butane Co. and Joe Blaneck would take them to San Angelo daily. He will also bring them back daily. Should a prescription be needed in a hurry, one can call in to the Perkins Rexall store in San Angelo and they would be sent out on one of the buses. There are two daily buses.

Social Security Should Be Paid on Household Workers

Many housewives in this area may be depriving their household workers of social security protection according to a joint statement issued by S. Baker Mallett, Administrative Officer of the San Angelo Internal Revenue office and Floyd B. Ellington, Manager of the Social Security district office.

"Workers' earnings are credited to their social security account from reports of their employers, and most of the employers," Mr. Mallett said, "faithfully report these earnings year after year." Some household employers who only recently hired household help may not realize their responsibility, and their employees, in particular, should make sure they are protected. The next quarterly report is due by July 31.

"Postcard forms for checking your own account with social security are available at all social security offices and should be used as least every three years by all workers," added Ellington.

If statements returned by social security show that your earnings are not posted to your record, steps will be taken to correct the omission and make sure that your employers report promptly and properly.

"Most people need many years of social security credit to qualify for benefits," Ellington said, adding, "It's your social security; make sure you are protected."

Two cases of DWI were disposed of in county court this week on pleas of guilty. Both were fined $50 and costs and their driving licenses suspended for six months. The two were George Woodrow Wilson of Ballinger and Mrs. V. R. Carter.

BACK the Eagles! Attend the opening game tonight.

OUTDOOR COOKING MADE EASY
by Joe Bates, Jr., Guest Columnist

A metal-bodied wheel-barrow can double as a practical outdoor grille which can be wheeled anywhere. Merely put a few inches of sand or gravel in the body and build the hardwood or charcoal fire on this insulated base. A few bricks form an adjustable support for the cooking grid, which can be a wire tray from a stove or ice-box. Let's use this wheel-barrow grille to enjoy a pork-chop barbecue—a favorite meal that glorifies pork-chops with an unusually delectable flavor. Canned sweet potatoes are delicious with this tasty meal, and so are caramelized onions. Let's do this the easy way, using paper plates and cups, and having no pots and pans to bother with!

a quarter portion each of French dressing (oil, vinegar and condiments), brown sugar, butter or margarine, and catsup mixed with A-1 or Worcestershire Sauce. Let it simmer lightly, and it's ready. Put the potatoes and onions very near the coals or fire about an hour ahead of meal time. Turn them with tongs once in a while. Keep them very hot, without burning. While the vegetables are cooking, let's have some delicious hot drinks—the easy way. We merely need to boil some water! The drink to go with this meal is "Nestle's EverReady" Cocoa—a favorite of sportsmen everywhere. "EverReady" Cocoa has sugar and whole milk already in it. Just put three heaping teaspoons in a cup; add very hot water or hot milk, and it's made! When a sharp-tined fork stuck in the vegetables tells that they are soft, or nearly so, it's time to put on the chops. Place them on the grid over the coals and let them cook slowly. At this time, put the foil-wrapped bread on or near the coals, too, turning it occasionally. Paint the chops with the barbecue sauce, turning and basting them often. When the fat has should be done. Put the chops on paper plates and pour a little more sauce over them. Untwist the foil from the potatoes and onions, which should be lightly browned and slightly caramelized. Open the bread and serve it on the foil. Pour another cup of that delicious "Nestle's EverReady" Cocoa—and let's eat!

Peel the sweet potatoes and slice them the long way, half an inch thick. Put them back together again and with butter spread between the slices. Place each potato in a square of doubled foil and pour over each a tablespoonful of honey, maple syrup, or a little brown sugar, plus a dash of cinnamon. Roll each in the foil, twisting the ends so they can be used as handles. Next, peel the onions and cut each in half, crossways. Put each onion back together again with some butter, salt and pepper between the slices. Wrap each securely in foil twisting the foil at the top, where the sprout of the onion would be. Garlic bread goes well, too. Mash half a peeled and finely chopped garlic bean into half a stick of salted butter (or use garlic salt and butter). Slice a loaf of French or Italian bread almost to the bottom and spread the garlic butter between the slices. Wrap this securely in foil. There are many ways of making barbecue sauce.
