Clayton Stewart Gets A&M Scholarship

The West Texas A&M Club of San Angelo has announced that Clayton Stewart of Sterling City has been awarded a four year Scholarship to Texas A&M College according to John Fuller, Club President. Clayton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stewart, and a 1962 graduate of Sterling City High School. There he played football, basketball, and ran track. In 1961 he was selected football hero. He was president of Sterling County 4-H Club in 1958 as well as president of the Sterling City FFA; county, district, and state award winner in 4-H Club Range Management Awards program in 1960. Clayton has won many other awards in 4-H Club work including Gold Star Award, Leadership Award, Soil and Water Conservation; a member of the range judging team, and grass identification teams for several years. He is also a member of the Baptist Church. Clayton has attended six weeks of summer school at the Texas A&M Adjunct in Junction and will enroll at College Station this fall where he plans to study Veterinary Medicine. With the enrollment of Clayton Stewart the West Texas A&M Club will accomplish a goal of maintaining four boys from this area in Texas A&M on Scholarship. Each Scholarship of the Club is in the amount of $300 per year. Other scholarship winners include two Sophomores and a Junior. The Scholarships are administered by the Texas A&M College Development Fund. President John Fuller stated that the money for the scholarships is obtained through Club dues, money raising projects and individuals donations of the Club members. There are 250 members and associate members of the West Texas A&M Club from Sonora to Ballinger and Ft. Stockton to Eden. The Club is confident that Clayton will be an outstanding representative for the Club and Sterling City while at Texas A&M, or wherever he might be.

Local ranchers are carrying their interest in the program on by mailing in many specimens of worms for positive identification. This will prove valuable to the foundation even though we are presently not included in the area where flies are being dropped. Continued mailing of the samples will aid in bringing about eradication of the screwworm, a $100 million pest in Texas, in the next two or three years.

Under farm flock conditions such as at McGregor, such yearling ewes should be sold because the condition was due to lower fertility and not under-development. Subsequent production of these ewes was lower. Older ewes that fail to lamb probably should be sold under either condition. If they are retained, provision should be made to check their performance for several years.

There is considerable thought that such ewes tend to lamb every other year; in her lifetime such a ewe would produce only three or four lambs rather than six or seven. There is much more detail and information in the report. If you would like to have a copy of the report request Progress Report 2238. Copies are available in the county agent's office and I'll send you one. * * * * *

The 12th Annual Beef Cattle Shortcourse gets under way at College Station with registration at 8:00 A M Monday, July 30 in the Memorial Center. The program gets under way at 9:00 A M. Topics on the program include calf crop losses, nutrition, reproduction and breeding problems, different ranch systems, and the new dual grading system inaugurated on July 1. The shortcourse ends Wednesday morning. All ranchers are invited to attend. * * * * *

Sterling County was one of twenty counties in the state that contributed 100% or more of their potential to the screwworm eradication program according to a letter just received from Marvin J. Bridges, executive director. The fourteen men who solicited contributions to the fund under the direction of Alvie Cole, Chairman, and H. L. Hildebrand, treasurer, and all the ranchers who participated are to be commended. Many counties are still far short of their potential; concerted efforts are being made to bring the state up to the 100% mark. Thus far, $1,700,000 of the projected $3 million has been raised.

Local ranchers are carrying their interest in the program on by mailing in many specimens of worms for positive identification. This will prove valuable to the foundation even though we are presently not included in the area where flies are being dropped. Continued mailing of the samples will aid in bringing about eradication of the screwworm, a $100 million pest in Texas, in the next two or three years.

Little Tammie Conner, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Sherman Conner, will be on the TV Program "Romper Room" the next two weeks. The program is from 10:30 to 11:00 A M each week day over KCTV, Channel 8, San Angelo. The program features preschool age children. In case of fire dial 8-4771.

A good rain shower dumped 1.50 inches of moisture here in town Wednesday afternoon and another .20 after midnight that night. Fall was good here in town and to the east, but played out to the south and west. The rains of this summer have been spotted but as one rancher said, "Even so it'll finally get around to raining on everybody."

Wednesday's shower, which lasted about 45 minutes, between four and five o'clock was the best rain of the summer, here in town. At the U.S. Weather Bureau official gauge at Jim Hinchshaw's, 1.27 inches was recorded in the afternoon rain and a tenth in the night shower. At the time this paper was being printed on Thursday afternoon more rain was in prospect. In fact, it looks very promising.

How To Lessen Wage Levies

A workable plan to reduce the chore of employers in handling wage levies against their employees for delinquent federal income taxes, was presented today by Ellis Campbell, Jr., Dallas district director, Internal Revenue Service.

The plan, he said, solves the major cause for wages levied against delinquent workers, namely, that the amount of tax withheld from wages or salaries is lower in many cases than the amount of tax due at the end of the year.

Campbell said the worker sometimes is unable to pay the additional amount due when he files his income tax returns and thus becomes delinquent. This necessitates a wage levy for collection purposes in many cases.

"To solve this problem," Campbell said, "workers have the right under law to eliminate one or more exemptions for tax withholding purposes on Form W-4. This automatically increases the amount withheld by approximately $120 a year for each exemption dropped."

Campbell continued, "If that doesn't cure the problem, workers may enter into an agreement with their paymasters to increase their withholding further by amending their W-4 form. Convenient tax withholding tables, provided by IRS in Circular E, give this computation at a glance."

The IRS official urges area employers to encourage their employees to take advantage of these two devices as to prevent their becoming delinquent and thereby eliminate wage levies.

"Dropping exemptions for tax withholding purposes," Campbell explained, "doesn't mean that taxpayers lose their exemptions. It's merely a system for increasing the amount of tax withheld. The exemptions can be claimed for tax computation purposes when the taxpayers file their returns."

For Social Security SOCIAL SECURITY REPORTS

If you are self-employed, you are responsible for the correctness of your own social security account, explained Floyd B Ellington, District Manager of the San Angelo office of the Social Security Administration. Filing complete and correct tax returns will assure you of receiving correct social security benefits.

Ellington emphasized four easy steps for a self-employed individual to take in order to keep his social security account straight. He should make sure his social security number is shown in item 4 of Form SE (attachment to Schedule C or Schedule F). He should file his tax returns on time. He should keep accurate records of his business income and expenses. He should check his social security account once every three years.

Ellington stated that any social security office will furnish a postal card to be mailed to their accounting office in Baltimore. A statement of the earnings credited to the individual's account will be sent. If it is not correct, the individual should notify the social security office immediately.

Social Security

Almost 12 million people 65 and over are now receiving social security benefits. Are you one of them? If not, should you be?

In years past, most people over 65 couldn't receive any social security benefits if they earned more than $2,080 in a year. That's changed now.

Under the law as it now stands, a worker over 65 can have fairly substantial earnings and still receive some social security benefits for the year.

How much can you earn and still receive benefits? Depends on how much your benefit is and whether any of your dependents also qualify for benefits.

Only one way to make sure you are not losing some benefits. If you are over 65, still working, and have never applied for social security, do it now.

The folks in the social security office at 204 Continental Building, San Angelo, Texas will be glad to help you. If you find it difficult to get to the office, give them a call. The number is 653-6861.

Navy Now Accepting Three Year Enlistments
 The Navy will accept volunteers for the first year term enlistment and will permit certain young men to reenlist for two or three years in an experimental program, Vice Admiral William R. Smedberg, III, Chief of Naval Personnel announced today.

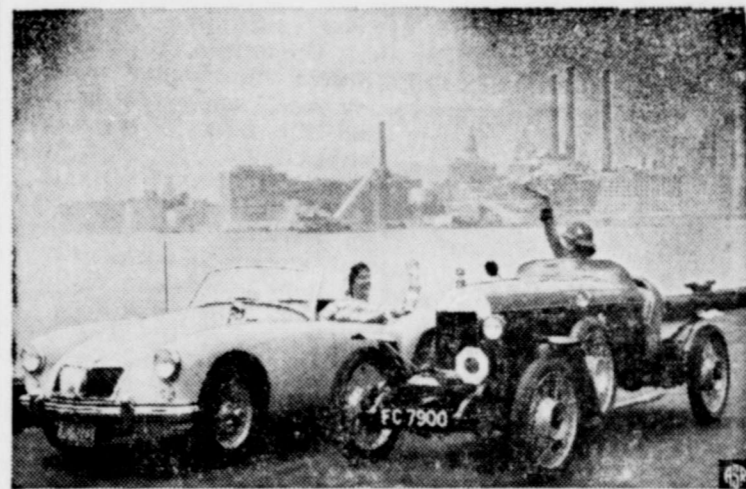

The experimental program has been placed in operation, Admiral Smedberg said, to meet the increased readiness posture of the Navy and the Nation. It will remain in effect until June 30th, 1962. The three year enlistment program is open to men who have had no prior military training. Under the reenlistment program, eligible personnel who have been released from active duty may reenlist with an option of up to 30 days advance leave. Formerly, broken service men reenlisted for four or six years with no advanced leave authorized. Admiral Smedberg said this new experimental program would afford young men of the country an opportunity to train and serve patriotically while learning of Navy life with only a three year commitment.
 The experimental program will in no way effect the Navy's current stay in school policy, young men will continue to be encouraged to stay in school.

PINNING HIM DOWN

Grandmater of Them All

Though "Old Number One"—the first MG ever built—still holds her own, the newest member of the famous sportscar family proves that more than hemlines and headgear have changed since the mid-twenties. Not only does today's MG sport such "accessories" as a windshield, radio, heater, and an easily raised convertible top, it also boasts lines that are as much at home against New York's skyline as on a country lane.

In her day, "Old Number One's" new style created an unprecedented demand for duplicate models. She was adorned with the barest minimum of tin-ware, and what with her bucket seats staggered fore and aft her chassis was excitingly narrow. Cycle-type wings over the wheels—again of modest size—no windshield, boat-tail body and externally mounted handbrake gave "Old Number One" a most sporting appearance.

Our WASHINGTON Letter

Tempers boiled over in Washington last week, featuring outbursts from both President Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Freeman. Casting himself in the role of a purger, Kennedy said he was going after the scalps of 21 Senate Democrats and 31 Senate Republicans who voted to defeat his socialized medicine bill. Ten of the Democrats are chairmen of Senate committees.

On the same day that the President drew a bead on the recalcitrant Senators Orville Freeman let go a very intemperate attack upon all who voted against the recent farm bill. Opposition, he said, constituted "the biggest piece of nonsense and contradiction that the mind of man ever conjured up."

Oldtime observers up here, who have seen them come and go, attribute this display of sour grapes to immaturity in the game and to the Washington heat which has been unusually severe the past week or two. Others think the President's broadside was caused by advice from some eager beavers on the White House staff who have been moping around for months trying to find an issue which can be used against conservatives in the coming elections.

In any event, it is admitted even by most Administration partisans that proponents of the Senate move were more interested in an issue that they were in passing a bill. The Senate effort was defeated by a vote of 52 to 48. It is believed that if acted upon in the House defeat would have come by much heavier majority. That is understandable because House members, being elected every two years, are closer to the people and usually more responsive to public opinion.

The medicare plan is bad for many reasons. It was conceived, born, and nurtured in the marsh lands of politics, and actually has little has little to do with solving medical aid hospital needs for needy elderly people. It is frankly admitted by some partisans to be an opening wedge designed to eventually get the British type socialized medicine adopted in this country. Although increasing taxes by $2 billion per year initially, the proposal would provide no help on doctor's bills and the neediest would still have to pay $10 a day for the first 10 days in hospitals. The cost is exorbitant because, being political, aid would be doled out to the rich as well as the poor, whether they want it or not.

Moreover, this political maneuver in the name of medical aid is made even more ridiculous in view of the fact that the Congress two years ago enacted a federal aid plan, covering both doctor and hospital bills, covering all needy elderly, and available to every state that is interested.

Gifts to Children

People often make gifts to youngsters and sometimes save on income and death taxes as well. The giver may set aside money for children until they become of age or until they need it.

But such gifts may be complex. For remember, there are gift taxes on the subject of the gift, and income taxes on the income from it.

1. The parent or guardian may want to keep control of the money. If they keep too much control, they may not complete the gift and the expected tax savings will go out the window. The parents' control may allow them to take back the gift, and so it is not really a gift.

2. Property is hard for children to manage. They cannot rely well make contracts or buy or sell the property. But it costs too much, as a rule, to set up a trust for each piece of property for each child.

And so to encourage gifts to children, the law has a simple way to make and administer gifts under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act. This law applies mainly to gifts and stock shares.

This law creates the "custodian" with powers much like those of a trustee or guardian. He is often a parent-donor who manages the stock. He may reinvest or sell the stock for the child.

The custodian must act as a "prudent person." He cannot lawfully buy and sell the stock for his own benefit, nor can he be negligent. The gift can only be used for the minor's benefit, and for his support and education. The custodian cannot mingle his own property with the child's. After the child becomes 21 the

The boys shore knocked J. F.K.'s ears down on the Medical Aid, didn't they. Now that is just fine. And in his disappointment talk, he referred to what the people would do in November at the polls. It looks like he is putting in more time poloticing than he is being President, and they are both A full time job.

I am past 65 and old father time has quit creeping up on me. But the only repairs I have now is about every year. Get the sewer line swabbed cut and A new gasket put on the water faucet. This medical care thing would be just like the relief, about half of it faked. And it would open another avenue of graft.

The Federal Government don't owe me nothing, unless it would be for ninety days I served in jail the last time. They can pay me for that. But I am shore they are not going to, for I had A permanent address and A place to eat and sleep and no worry about some bird breaking in on me and stealing my britches.

He said in campaign, "to see what you could do for your country not what the country could do for you". Poor kid has tried nearly everything. But has only succeeded in getting only one thing done and that was getting the debt ceiling raised and deeper in debt. There was A time when we didn't owe nobody. But US. Now, we owe even with the world, we owe as many as we don't owe. Pay-day is just around the corner and we haven't got the cash to meet the notes.

But they still have the printing presses in Washington and men to man them, so it will be A small job to make more Bonds. So the thing that we can do for ourselves, without hollering "lookout, Sam here I come". But that has got to be such A habit that it will be hard to break.

whole gift or what it left of it must go to him.

In rare cases, the law may let the giver revoke his gift, as when he gave it in contemplation of the minor's marriage which did not take place. He may also revoke the gift if it was made as a result of undue influence of fraud.

Other ways of giving to minors are also fairly inexpensive. For example, one may create a trust for children which has tax advantages.
