TWO CONTAINER-FILLING machines made by Votator, Louisville, are hard at work in a Fort Smith, Ark. plant turning out up to 2,000 five-ounce jars of baby food a minute. The machines have a big job to do. A baby is born every 7 1/2 minutes in the U.S.

CELEBRATING its 175th anniversary this year is the U.S. patent system. Established by George Washington in 1790, the patent office examines approximately 87,000 applications each year. About 1,000 patents are granted each week.

ONCE CONSIDERED worthless, black calcite may be a new source of silver, say geologists of the Department of Interior. A sample from Hamilton, Nev. contained 1,500 ounces of silver per ton.

AROUND THE COUNTY by

ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

Five of six Sterling County entries in the Tom Green County Pecan Show last Thursday placed in their classes. Entrants from the county were John Brock and W.R. Hudson.

A pound and half of Western Schleys produced by John Brock were judged the reserve champion pecans of the show. They had placed in the variety class. In selecting the champion pecans, the first place winner in each class is judged against all others. John's pecans were beaten out for champion of the in-shell varieties by an entry of Mahans.

In judging the pecans, the judges take in consideration the overall appearance of the nuts the weight or number per pound, the yield, and the kernels. To arrive at these figures the judges select a random group of ten pecans from each entry. These ten are weighed in the shell and the kernels weighed.

John's first place Schleys yielded 59.1% kernels. It required 46.6 pecans in the shell to make a pound.

John also took first place in the John Garner class and the Desirable class. His Burketts and Mahans were second in their class. John will have five entries in the State Pecan Show at College Station on the 15th and 16th of this month. The judges selected the pecans for the state show at the conclusion of the judging. The John Garner's from Brock's grove tied for first place in the heaviest yielding nuts in the show. They shelled out 61.8% kernels.

W. R. Hudson's native pecans did not receive a ribbon, but based on the scoring, they stood fourth in the native class. This was a good entry in the native class. Both Webb and John are to be congratulated on their showing. Perhaps next year there will be more entries from the county. Tom Green County is planning a bigger show next year. This year there were 158 entries in the pecan show and 137 in the food show.

About fifty men attended the field day sponsored by the North Concho River Soil Conservation District supervisors on the George Skeete ranch in Coke County Tuesday morning. Those in attendance came from Coke, Runnels, Taylor, Tom Green, Concho and Sterling Counties. Special guests on the tour were Congressman O.C. Fisher and Forrest Harding, state representative from Tom Green County.

The tour was set up to tell the story of what is being done, and what can be done, with rangeland under some of the government assistance programs. Congressman Fisher saw one excellent result of the use of the Great Plains program. George had dozed two pastures and reseeded them with native grasses. It would be hard to find a better stand of sideoats grama and green sprangletop anywhere. The pastures are stocked at the rate of 200 ewes per section and 19 Angus cows. This adds up to a stocking rate of 59 animal units per section. George, along with help from Charles Probandt and Clinton Hodges had prepared an excellent barbecue dinner for those on the tour. The wives had put forth their best efforts in preparing cakes and salads, too.

Thus far, the county agent's office has not received any information from the Texas Animal Health Commission in regard to the state-wide sheep inspection plan. You have heard on the radio no doubt that all sheep flocks in Texas must be inspected by April 15 for scabies. Several states that normally receive sheep from Texas have promised to lift certain regulations in regard to receiving in-shipments when this inspection is completed.

According to information put forth on some radio programs, at least on of our neighboring counties is already in the process of inspection. The inspection is being done by inspectors from the Animal Health Commission at the convenience of the rancher; this is all the information on the program thus far. As soon as something more concrete is received, it will be passed on to all producers.

Retiring Postmaster Brock Takes Honors Honored with Dinner at Pecan Show

A no-host dinner party was held last Saturday evening in the Log Cabin Steakhouse in San Angelo honoring the Hal Knights. Hal is retiring as the Sterling City postmaster on December 30. He has served a total of 26 years as postmaster in Sterling. He served as postmaster from 1920 to 1936 and then from 1955 to now. He had worked in the post office before that.

Mrs. Virgie Garrett has been named as acting postmaster by Congressman O.C. Foshier.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight were presented with a silver tray from the group. Presentation was made by an old schoolmate—Jeff Davis.

Presbyterian minister H. C. Travis, gave the invocation. Chesley McDonald acted as master of ceremonies. A tribute to Mr. Knight was given by Rankin Pace, postmaster at Winters. Hal had been active in postal circles for many years, having served as president of the 21st district league of postmasters as well as the president of the League of Postmasters of Texas.

Among away from Sterling postal friends present at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Pace of Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hollingshead, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Green of San Angelo, Mr. and Mrs. Odom of Silver, Mr. and Mrs. Don Evans and Mrs. Pat Duncan of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Hamlett and Mr. and Mrs. George Hamlett of Big Lake. Seventy-seven persons were present at the dinner and a letter of regret from Congressman Fisher was read. He had a prior engagement in Del Rio.

A tape had been made of a home interview with Hal by the master of ceremonies and was played. A doctored tape with loaded questions and cut out answers from Hal was used to add merriment to the occasion.

Hal reminisced to the group saying as he opened the gift package—that he had never opened a parcel that had the label saying "May be opened for postal inspection". Some one asked about reading post cards and Hal said "I'll take the fifth amendment on that." The crowd consisted of 60 local friends and the 17 from out-of-town.

Hal, who, in addition to his post office work, has served on the school board, for a long time as president and now as treasurer, as past president of the Lions Club and is one of the three remaining charter members, and his term in the bank, said he was looking forward to retirement and expected to enjoy many more years in Sterling City.

John Brock's Western Schley pecan entry in the San Angelo pecan show won reserve champion last week. He also took a number of other prizes with his pecans in the show. John also took first place with his Desirable entry. And first place with his John Garner pecans. His pecans took second in the Mahon entry, and also in the Burkett.

The pecan show was the first held in San Angelo and was for Tom Green and adjoining counties.

THE AMAZING LIME

In Malaya, piercing a lime with pins will cause love pangs in one's sweetheart. Lime's supernatural powers are also recognized in India where they play a principal role in effecting cures.

In the early days of British sailing ships, the tars would die of scurvy. The consumption of limes—a scurvy preventive—was required by law on all ships. The name "Limy" became the popular slang term for English sailors.

Limes, because of their pungent aroma, were used by the Romans as a bath scent. It's not surprising that even today the lime scent is popular. Recently Old Spice has introduced a lime aftershave lotion called Old Spice Lime. Proving that the amazing lime is still useful as a cosmetic!

SMOOTH SELLING

by George N. Kahn, Marketing Consultant

THE SALESMAN IS A V. I. P.

Copyright—George N. Kahn

There is a foolish idea in some circles that selling is not dignified. For this attitude we shower blame on the colleges, the professors, and anyone else within range. Rarely does anyone put the blame where it really belongs—on the salesman himself.

Selling will never achieve its rightful status in the business world until salesmen start thinking of themselves as Very Important People. The salesman's image in the public's mind will improve only when he starts giving himself a higher rating. You can't convince prospects of the value of your product or your company unless you can first convince them of your own value.

Rate Yourself High

The salesman who speaks apologetically of his vocation or derides his colleagues is simply cutting his own throat. When the salesman gloats of "pulling a fast deal," he is doing great harm to himself and his profession. In short, if you talk and act like a sidewalk pitchman, that's the way you'll be treated.

Management is much quicker to recognize the salesman's importance than he is himself. Businessmen know that creation of demand is a vital factor in their profit and loss statements. These days all top executives and even technical personnel are sales oriented. Engineers must think like salesmen to design products that appeal to consumers. Even the production department must gear its effort to a sales campaign.

Salesmen Are First Class Citizens

The salesman is the key person without whom there would not be any business. But many salesmen behave like second class citizens—and too often that's the kind of reception they get in a prospect's office.

I remember running into an old friend, Jack Creswell, whom I hadn't seen in years. I asked him what he was doing. Jack smiled deprecatingly and said he was "on the road" for a flooring company, adding:

"Of course, this is just until I can find something better."

He made his job sound as if he were washing dishes in a cheap hash house.

"Jack," I said, "there is probably nothing wrong with the job except yourself. Before you move to what you think are greener pastures, why not give this job your best. If you think of yourself as a failure in selling you'll wind up as one. But if you see this as an opportunity to push ahead to success, your future is assured."

I think the advice took, because Jack stayed in selling with the flooring company and became a top producer with a loyal following of customers. Years later he told me: "You hit pretty hard that day, George, but you opened my eyes to what I was and what I could become."

No Room For Amateurs

In today's competitive market there is no room for amateurs and dabblers in selling. For those who really want to make selling a career, there is a rich reward. But you must be willing to work for it.

Selling has its problems, heartaches and frustrations. It's a lonely job. But these very factors are what separate the men from the boys.

Millions of people are embedded in dull, prosaic jobs that afford them little or no excitement, drama or challenge. The salesman can look forward to steady growth and can enjoy a stimulating, lively life on the way. His future is limited only by the strength of his desire to succeed.

Frontier of Selling

The trouble with many uninspired salesmen is that they don't understand the dynamics involved in selling. They are really clerks at heart whose horizons are limited. They never think of selling as an adventure and as a test of one's true abilities. They could move mountains, but they go around them instead. They play it safe, and, in time, level off as mediocrities. The earnest, imaginative salesman can write his own ticket to wherever he wants to go. With faith in himself, drive and the right tools, he can make big money and climb high in his firm.

But he must feel and act important to accomplish this goal. He must think of himself as one of the world's key people—a man who rates high in the scheme of things.

Act Like A V. I. P.

Do you stride boldly into a prospect's office or do you sidle in, glancing back at the door as if it were an escape hatch? Do you apologize for taking up a buyer's time? Do you feel like an intruder in his office?

If the answers are yes, you are letting yourself, your family and your company down. To be a V.I.P. you must act like one. That's the only way to command respect and so sell merchandise. Only then will you earn what you are dreaming of earning.

The head of the sales training program of a big paper manufacturer once said to me:

"About the fifth day of the program my instructors can usually spot those who will be top salesmen. There's something about their attitude, they handle themselves in a certain way. They act like they are proud to be here. It's almost like getting a successful salesman ready made."

That man put his finger right on the heart of the matter. Pride. Are you proud to be a salesman? If not, something is wrong. If you're not proud of your work, chances are you are not acting like a Very Important Person.

Here is a Periodic Aptitude Test to enable you to find out what your feelings are toward your selling job. If you can answer "yes" to at least seven of these ten questions you are probably headed for success.

If you score below seven, it's time to take self-inventory:

1. Do I think of my job as temporary? Yes No
2. Do I discuss my work with my wife very often? Yes No
3. Would I tell a stranger on a plane my occupation? Yes No
4. Am I happy in selling? Yes No
5. Would I want my son to be a salesman? Yes No
6. Do I try to improve my earning power by studying salesmanship, attending meetings, etc? Yes No
7. Do I let prospects do most of the talking? Yes No
8. Do I tell jokes which put salesmen in an unflattering light? Yes No
9. Do I see myself as playing an important part in the economy? Yes No
10. Have I really thought about the tremendous future that is available to me through selling? Yes No

Today, the young married set does all housework in a fraction of the time required only a generation ago. In today's total electric home the housewife has as many as 166 electrical servants to save time and work and to do each job better. With their help she cooks automatically, preserves food, washes and dries dishes and clothes, cleans her home, heats it in winter and cools it in summer. Her husband shaves, shines his shoes, uses power tools, and together they live better electrically, conveniently, economically, healthfully. Here's a reason you can take home with you, that WHATEVER THE WORK TO BE DONE — you can DO IT BETTER ELECTRICALLY.

Social Security

"A tremendous boost for many youngsters" is the way Floyd B. Ellington, District Manager of the San Angelo Social Security District Office, described one of the changes which was made in the Social Security Law last month. He explained that children between the ages of 18 and 22 can continue to receive their monthly social security checks if they attend a public or accredited school as full-time students. Children of deceased, retired, and disabled workers are included.

Under the old law, checks for children stopped at age 18 even if they continued to go to school. Mr. Ellington stated that, "If there are any of these young people under age 22 who are going to school now or in September, they or their parents should get in touch with their social security office right away; and since this provision provides for payments back to January 1965, some benefits may be payable to former child beneficiaries who went on to school and who reached age 22 earlier this year."

"These youngsters are eligible for these payments and we are anxious to get their checks to them as quickly as possible," Mr. Ellington stated. He added that anyone with any question about this change should get in touch with their San Angelo Social Security Office immediately. The office is located at 3000 W. Harris and the phone number is 949-4608, or see your representative when he is in your community.

AN ELECTRONIC DEVICE that sounds an alarm if a library book is removed without proper checking is being developed by the American Library Association.

'PRESSLABS,' white strips of "reflectorized" vinyl plastic made by Neff Laboratories, Inc., and used as street markings, got a severe test during the inaugural parade on Washington's Pennsylvania Avenue and passed easily. Work crews simply peel off a paper backing and apply the markings to the street surface.

Great Religions Express Support of U. N.

Four of the world's great religions have built or blueprinted New York centers that are, or will be, showplaces of their support for the United Nations. All four combine places of worship with facilities for meetings, lectures and cultural activities.
 The newest is the just-dedicated Holy Family Church and Catholic Center opposite the U.N. grounds. It was rebuilt in handsome contemporary style from a 40-year-old church that had been converted from a stable. Upstairs offices serve as the "embassy" for Msgr. Alberto Giovannetti, the Holy See's first permanent observer to the U.N.
 A synagogue "to fill the needs of the local Jewish community while ministering to the international family of the United Nations" will be the next U.N. religious center to rise. Later, a mosque and Islamic center will be erected with funds contributed by Moslem United Nations delegations.
 The first such facility was the 12-story Protestant Church Center for the U.N., dedicated 18 months ago. Supported by the National Council of Churches, the center has attracted some 36,000 clerics and laymen to its training and orientation programs.

NEW CIVIL SERVICE

The U. S. Civil Service Commission has announced two new examinations this week for Technician and Social Worker.
 The Engineering and Scientific Technician examination covers a wide range of positions principally in the Washington, D. C. area. These technicians act as non-professional assistants to engineers, mathematicians, and other scientists such as chemists, physicists, astronomers, geologists, metallurgists, electronic scientists, and the like. SOCIAL SECURITY
 "You don't have to retire completely to get social security benefits," Floyd B. Ellington, social security district manager in San Angelo said today.

"If you earn $1200 or less in a year, you are considered to be completely retired and would be entitled to all your benefits," he added.
 If you earn over $1200 in a year, you may be considered partly retired and entitled to part of your social security benefits. For example, a worker would have only one dollar in benefits withheld for every two dollars earned between $1200 and $1700. For earnings over $1700 annually, one dollar in benefits is withheld for each dollar of earnings.

Ellington emphasized the fact that, no matter how much you earn in a year, you can be paid your social security benefits for any month in which you neither earn over $100 as an employee, nor render substantial services as a self-employed person.

Avoid any misunderstanding you may have about the social security retirement test, especially if you are over 65 earning anywhere between $1201 and $3600. Get all the facts from your social security office at 3000 West Harris, San Angelo, Texas.

New UNICEF Head

A man who has been a pivotal figure in America's foreign aid programs has been named head of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

He is Henry R. Labouisse, United States ambassador to Greece when he was selected as UNICEF's executive director. He succeeds another American—Maurice Pate, who died recently after serving at the post since the agency was founded 18 years ago.

In his new job, Labouisse will head a U.N. agency that ministers to the health and welfare of mothers and children in more than 100 countries. Born in New Orleans 61 years ago, he has served with the U.N. before. From 1954 to 1958 he was director of the U.N. Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA), which feeds, houses and educates nearly a million Arab refugees of the Palestine upheaval.

During the Truman administration, he was a key man in getting Marshall Plan aid rolling in Europe. President Kennedy subsequently appointed him to head the International Cooperation Administration, America's giant foreign aid agency. In 1961, he was named ambassador to Greece.

Labouisse is married to the former Eve Denise Curie, daughter of Marie and Pierre Curie, the discoverers of Radium.

For further information on the U. N., write to: United Nations Association of the U. S. A., 345 E. 46th St., New York, N. Y. 10017.

Behind the 8-Ball

Christmas comes but once a year—and it's a good thing, too, I 'spect.

Some of us can't even handle it once a year.

8-BALL

When I was very young, it seemed forever and ever between Christmases. Now they fall about six weeks apart. Hardly time for paying up the added bills that happen around Christmas. Extra bills—that is.

8-BALL

Next week we will put out our Christmas issue and not publish one the following week—on the 31st. This has been our custom for many years—and also for several other papers over the state. Usually the week between Christmas and New Year is kinda dead—for business.

8-BALL

John Brock really did all right at the pecan show in San Angelo last week. His pecans took three first, reserve champion ribbon and two seconds.

8-BALL

Seen in Sterling—the street lights (Christmas) making the town really show up each night. The Christmas tree in the lobby of the bank—all flocked up and colorful. The lights in the yards and on homes over the town gleaming out at night. Deer hunters around town looking for day leases. Joe Stucke cutting a customer's hair while that customer reads a book.

High School Library Club December Meeting

The High School Library Club held its regular first Monday of the month meeting on December 7 at seven p.m. in the school library. A new member, Ronnie Lawson, participated in the program. During the first part of the meeting all members present cooperated in cleaning trophies, books and shelves and in arranging everything. The second part of the program consisted of brief accounts of an interesting book recently read by members. All members showed the same fine spirit an attitude in both activities. Several books interestingly and briefly presented were: 70,000 to One by Quentin Reynolds; Journey to the Center of the Earth by Jules Verne; Call It Courage by Armstrong Sperry; and Below the Salt by Thomas Costain. In the absence of President Jeanie McDonald, Vice-president Ronnie Kilpatrick presided. A social period with refreshments concluded the meeting.

On October 25 an entertainment was given for him by the employees and their wives. Refreshments were served to twenty-four persons during the evening.
