PIK Program Details Explained To Farmers

Caution Advised On Completing Forms

Hundreds of Bailey County producers and land owners have flocked to at least one of the three area meetings being held within the County in the past three days which dealt with the new Payment in Kind program. These sessions have been held under the direction and guidance of Rusty Williamson, Bailey County ASCS Executive Director in an effort to help farmers better understand the recently announced PIK or "crop swap" program.

Prior to these meetings, little solid information had been released regarding the new program, but following a district ASCS meeting in Dimmitt on Friday, Williamson received some details and released them to the Journal. The program, however is neither a cure-all nor is it a program guaranteed to meet every producer's needs. It is a plan that is intended to benefit the largest majority of the American farm producers.

While the many rules and regulations governing the PIK program must be carefully considered, the ASCS office personnel will be available to answer producer's questions regarding the plan. "The final tag on the bottom line is this: The PIK program has to be determined by each individual producer. Does it fit in his plans? Will the benefits be sufficient to encourage his participation, and last of all is he willing to see the entire plan through?"

The initiation of the sign up for the PIK starts with the regular Reduced Acreage Program, whereby a producer signs up a certain percentage of his farm's base acreage for diverted acres and/or a paid diversion. What this actually means is that the farmer or owner agrees to participate in full with the 1983 Farm Program.

In order to be eligible for the PIK program, Williamson stated that a farm operator must also participate in the previously announced acreage reduction program and paid land diversion programs under the 1983 farm bill. The PIK allows a producer to leave an additional ten to thirty percent of his acreage base idle in 1983, and this reduction will be figured straight off of the crop acreage base the director states.

Deciding if the PIK plan fits a producer's own personal farm plans and needs would be the second step or phase of the program. Most of the PIK will be a tailor-made program, especially fitted to the particular farmer involved. By putting a pencil to the plan and figuring his own personalized plan, a producer may determine his decision whether or not to participate.

This step is one that has to be made with certainty, since when the PIK contract is entered into, signed and dated, it becomes a "legal and binding" contract; and, a producer who attempts to escape or bypass his responsibilities will be subject to heavy penalties. Cotton alone could cost him close to $50 per acre if he defaults on his contract. March 11 is the final day of sign-ups or changes.

The regulations and rules of the PIK participation are some of the most important reasons that producers are being urged to meet with ASCS representatives to secure any and all information that will enable them to make the right decision for their own operation.

A producer who fails to live up to his PIK program contract will be subjected to liquidated damages rates of $0.572 per bushel on corn; $0.544 per bushel on grain sorghum; $0.152 on Cotton per pound and $0.86 per bushel on wheat.

Another aspect of the PIK program is the whole base bid plan. This, too, is a very complex part of the program and requires careful study and accuracy of figures before submission, according to Williamson.

Around Muleshoe

An error in a report of Commissioner's Court activities last week indicated that James Williams had been hired by the Court as Constable. This is not the case, and the report indicated that the matter had been "passed over" rather than an order passed. Our apologies for any concern or trouble caused.

Due to the bad weather last Thursday, Square Dancing was called off, but will be held beginning lessons this Thursday, January 27 at 7 p.m. in the American Legion Hall.

Rick Copp, Lazbuddie FFA Instructor has announced the re-scheduling of the Lazbuddie 4-H-FFA Livestock Show for Saturday, January 29. It had previously been scheduled for January 22, but was called off due to the bad roads and weather. All times and schedules for the show will remain unchanged.

4-H and FFA mothers who are to bring food for the Bailey County Livestock Show this weekend, are asked to have it at the Coliseum late Wednesday afternoon or before 10:30 a.m. Thursday morning. Each mother has been asked to bring six cornbread muffins and twelve (2x2 individually wrapped) brownies or a pie to help out with the food situation. If you have not yet been contacted to work a shift during the show, and would be willing to do so, please contact Mrs. Jack Dunham or Mrs. Donald Prather.

PARMER COUNTY PIK SESSION THURSDAY

Farmers in the Lazbuddie area are invited to attend a special "PIK" discussion night on Thursday, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Lazbuddie High School Cafeteria. The program is being sponsored by the Parmer County ASCS Offices and County and community committees. Parmer County ASCS Executive Director Martin Chandler will be the speaker and will attempt to answer all your questions concerning the PIK "Crop Swap" program recently announced by President Reagan. This is a very important meeting and it is suggested that all producers attend, since the PIK program and plan is a highly individualized one which will have to be tailored to each particular producer's needs.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of Muleshoe Journal & Bailey Co. Journal:

I know I am one without influence in the community, but I do have an opinion I'd like to express.

Men and women in this community are taking wage cuts in order to be able to keep a job. Some businesses are closing down, because of our economy.

It seems our County, State and Nation is in a period, when we need to work together.

I personally disagree with the County Officials voting themselves a raise in wages. When other people have been layed off or taking wage cuts.

I cannot vote for anyone to return to office that would vote for or accept a County wage increase at this time.

Thank You for listening.

Texas Farm Credit Board Names Officers

The Board of Directors of the Farm Credit Banks of Texas elected Wilmer Smith of New Home, Texas, chairman during its December meeting. Roy A. Seaberg, Jr. of Huffman, Texas, was elected vice chairman.

Smith first was elected to the board in 1966 by the cooperatives in Texas. The new chairman is active in a number of West Texas cooperatives and is a former chairman of the board of the Central Bank for Cooperatives in Denver, where he is still a director. He is a director and past president of the Plains Cooperative Oil Mill and is a director and has served as president of the American Cotton Growers Association.

He farms just south of Lubbock, with principal crops being cotton and sorghum.

A graduate of Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Smith holds a bachelor of arts degree in government and history. He and his wife, Lola, have one daughter, two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Seaberg recently was reappointed to a second three-year term as director-at-large by the governor of the Farm Credit Administration. He serves as a director of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives and the Texas Federation of Cooperatives. He is a member of the Federal Land Bank Association of Dayton and the Beaumont Production Credit Association.

He is a partner in a family farming operation which includes rice, soybeans and cattle. He is co-owner of a seed company, agricultural implement dealership and a gravel company.

Seaberg graduated from Rice University in Houston with a degree in business administration, and received his J.D. degree from the University of Texas School of Law. He and his wife, Ruth, have three daughters and one son.

Other members of the board of directors are: W. Clyde Ikins of Bandera; John W. "Dub" Roberson of Devine; Ray Robertson of Dimmitt; and newly elected members Edward Breihan of Lubbock and Dr. Ben Gearhart Jr. of Marfa.

The Texas Farm Credit System is comprised of the Federal Land Bank of Texas and its 55 Federal Land Bank Associations, the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas, 30 Production Credit Associations and the Texas Bank for Cooperatives.

Telephone Excise Tax To Increase By Two Percent

The federal excise tax on monthly telephone bills will increase during 1983 from 1 percent to 3 percent as the result of legislation passed by Congress in August 1982 to obtain new tax revenues.

The tax applies to local and long-distance service. The tax legislation states the 3 percent tax will be collected for these years with elimination in 1986.

An excise tax on telephone service was first imposed by Congress during World War I as a "temporary" measure, according to the U.S. Independent Telephone Association. Although repealed briefly after the war, the tax was reinstated during the Depression. Rates have ranged as high as 25 percent on long-distance calls and 15 percent on local service. The tax stood at 10 percent for almost 26 years. However in 1970, Congress voted to begin eliminating the tax by reducing it 1 percent per year beginning in 1973 and continuing through 1981. However, the Fiscal Year 1981 Budget Reconciliation Bill signed by former President Jimmy Carter in December 1980 contained a provision maintaining the excise tax at 2 percent during 1981. The 1982 tax bill further postponed the phaseout by keeping the tax at 1 percent until Jan. 1, 1985. However, the August 1982 legislation raised the tax to 3 percent for the years 1983-85. The 3 percent tax is shown separately on the bill.

Hospitalized Vets To Be Saluted Valentine's Day

Sports and entertainment stars, along with community and government leaders, will gather in Veterans Administration medical centers in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi next month for the 10th annual National Salute to Hospitalized Veterans.

Special events on Valentine's Day February 14 are being planned also by veterans, civic, religious and youth groups. Festivities will include talent shows, celebrity visits, musical programs and VA benefits workshops at most of VA's 172 medical centers, 226 outpatient clinics, 96 nursing homes and 16 domiciliarys, nationally.

The program will be coordinated at each medical center by VA's Voluntary Service, the organization that oversees services to some 78,000 hospital volunteers who nationally contribute nearly 11 million hours to patients every year.

According to Edward Rose, VA's Voluntary Service director, individuals or groups interested in joining the salute on February 14 should contact the Voluntary Service at the nearest VA medical center. "Help is needed to build enthusiasm and a festive atmosphere so that the misfortune of being hospitalized can be temporarily dispelled," Rose said.

The salute has been conducted since 1974 to show hospitalized veterans that their fellow citizens appreciate their service to the country and haven't forgotten them, Rose said. Mrs. Ronald Reagan is the event's honorary patroness, and boxer Sugar Ray Leonard and Olympic skater Dorothy Hamill are the honorary chairpersons. Camp Fire Inc. is the official youth group for the event. But Rose said that scouts and school classes also will be participating in many communities.

Texas Leads Nation In Beef Numbers

Texas continues to lead the nation in beef cow numbers, with 15 percent of the total beef cow herd.

In fact, Texas' 5.9 million beef cows are more than double those of the number two state, Oklahoma.

Beef cow numbers have been increasing slowly throughout the nation after bottoming out in 1979. They totaled 39.5 million head on Jan. 1 of this year, says Dr. Ed Uvacek, economist in livestock marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The nation's cow herd peaked at 45.5 million head in 1975.

Uvacek expects the next inventory of cow numbers to be just slightly higher. Texas beef cow numbers increased by 45,000 head during 1981, but the total number will probably be down this year due to poor prices and the summer drought.

Leaders in cow numbers along with Texas and Oklahoma are Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Montana and South Dakota, notes the economist. There has been a shift of cow numbers in the past 40 years from the North Atlantic and South Central states.

Herd size also seems to increase as one moves westward and northward in the U.S., says Uvacek. However, distribution among herd sizes within a state still varies greatly.

In Texas, for example, 86 percent of the cattle operations have less than 100 head, but these operations account for only 27 percent of all cattle in the state. On the other hand, a mere 2 percent of the cattle operations have 500 head or more but account for 43 percent of the state's cattle numbers.

The smaller operations are generally managed by part-time farmers and ranchers while the larger units are commercial operations that depend on cattle for a livelihood, notes Uvacek.

Oil Found In North Sea

Oil has been discovered on a block in the North Sea, in which a Pioneer Corporation subsidiary has a 12.5 percent interest, the corporation said today.

The discovery was made by the Amoco Group and the Van Dyke Group in Block P/9 of the Netherlands Continental Shelf. The discovery well, the P/9-2, is situated 40 miles northwest of The Hague. The well found 30 degrees API gravity oil at a depth of approximately 6,500 feet. On testing, the well produced at rates up to 2,950 barrels per day. The participants in the block are now evaluating the discovery.

Amoco Netherlands, as operator, drilled the P/9-2 well as a result of a farm-out from the Amoco Group to the Van Dyke Group.

The Amoco Group is composed of Amoco Netherlands Petroleum Company, Exploratie En Productie Maatschappij Dyas B.V., and Veba Oil Nederland B.V. Members of the Van Dyke Group are Amnol Netherlands Petroleum Company, a unit of R.J. Reynolds Industries; Anadarko Netherlands Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of Panhandle Eastern Corporation; Champlin International Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of Union Pacific Corporation; Pioneer Production Corporation International, a subsidiary of Pioneer Corporation; and Van Dyke Energy Company.

Irrigation Engineer Now In Amarillo

Leon New, who has served as an agricultural engineer-irrigation with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, since 1968 with headquarters at Lubbock, recently transferred to Amarillo.

He is officed at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Amarillo.

New will be providing leadership for educational programs in crop irrigation for the Panhandle area as well as the northern portion of the South Plains and irrigated areas of the Rolling Plains, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, Extension Service director.

New's transfer follows the appointment of Joseph C. Henggler to the new position of Extension agricultural engineer-irrigation at Fort Stockton last spring. Henggler is serving the Trans-Pecos and Far West Texas areas as well as the southern portion of the South Plains and a number of counties in West Central Texas (San Angelo area).

"With these two irrigation specialists on board, we feel we can better serve the needs of irrigation farmers throughout western Texas and the plains, said Carpenter. "Efficient use of irrigation is critical to the survival of irrigated agriculture in these areas, and our educational programs will be directed mainly to that effort."

New holds a B.S. degree in agricultural engineering from Texas A&M University and an M.S. in agricultural engineering from Texas Tech University. He served with Central Power and Light Co. for six years and was a consulting engineer before joining the Extension Service.

One of the easiest things in the world to do is to stand to one side and tell the rest of the people what to do.

Creative Woman

By Sheryl Borden

Topics to be presented on "The Creative Woman" show on February 1 and 5 include low sodium information, ways to create fast fashion and recipes for low calorie Italian cookery. The show is aired on Tuesdays at 12:30 p.m. and at 2:00 p.m. on Saturdays.

Hazel Wallace, Consumer Affairs Officer and Dr. Frank Newman, Regional Medical Officer with Food and Drug Administration in Dallas, Texas, will be guests on the show to discuss the effects of sodium intake in the diet. This program will be the first in a three part series entitled "Sodium -- Think About It."

With today's busy lifestyles, all homeseers are looking for methods for creating fast fashion. One shortcut is precut interfacing called Pellon Fuse 'n Fold and to demonstrate uses for this product will be Ann Meyer, Education Representative with the Pellon Corporation in New York.

Evelyn Davis, Extension Home Economist in Tucuman, will be another guest on the show and will demonstrate ways to make Italian cookery lower in calories but retain the excellent taste.

On February 3, topics will center on hypertension and home decorating ideas for temporary living facilities and low-budget situations. "The Creative Woman" airs at 12:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

Carolyn Hill, District Hypertension Nurse in Clovis, will discuss hypertension, a new concept in the treatment of mild hypertension and explain sources of assistance in reducing risk factors. Since one in four Americans suffer from hypertension, this topic is one that concerns a large number of people, and everyone needs to be more aware of the risk factors, the importance of risk reduction counseling and the screening services available in many areas.

Living in temporary housing or trying to decorate in a money-saving manner is the reason behind many of the ideas viewers will see in a special program featuring the home of David and Tonya Williams in Portales. Mrs. Williams is very artistic and creative and has lots of ideas for decorating and making use of existing structural problems in a house.

"The Creative Woman" is produced and hosted by Sheryl Borden for KENW-TV. Viewers can request copies of printed materials offered on the show by calling on the toll-free telephone lines. The numbers are: New Mexico: 1-800-432-2361, out-of-state: 1-800-545-2359 and Portales and Roosevelt County: 562-2112.

Restful Sleep Important To Function Properly

Getting enough restful sleep is important if a person is to feel good and function properly. Sleep patterns can be interrupted, however, by factors such as age, food or alcohol intake, and sleep aids.

Many sleep disorders have been associated with poor lifestyle habits, according to Dr. Mary Ann Shirer, health education specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A & M University System.

These poor lifestyle habits include lack of exercise, inadequate meals and ineffective handling of stress. "Positive changes in these habits will improve sleep, and may even completely alleviate the problems associated with sleep," says Shirer.

Heavy meals before bedtime can interfere with sleep, since digestion is such a demanding physiological process. Food allergies can cause insomnia and caffeine can disturb sleep, because it acts as a stimulant.

Shirer says evidence indicates that heavy alcohol intake causes less total sleep time, less deep sleep, and less dreaming sleep.

Sleep medications can be bought over-the-counter or with a prescription. "These medications, when used on a short-term basis under a physician's supervision, are frequently beneficial and worthwhile," says Shirer.

The recommended dosages of over-the-counter sleep aids should not be exceeded. Overdoses can cause confusion, memory disturbances, worsening of glaucoma, and, in rare cases, death.

Sleep aids prescribed by physicians are usually either

Specialized Skills - Job Insurance Of The Future

While fewer classified ads stipulate college as a requirement, more employers are looking for persons with specialized skills needed to be a commercial artist, computer programmer, data processor, electronics technician, medical technologist, or secretary.

"This demand for skills is slowly becoming commonplace in the job market," said Henry Herzing, president of the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools, an educational association representing 500 private career schools. "Employers prefer to hire trained applicants rather than provide training, so the person with previous training or experience who is skilled and ready to work is the person who usually gets the job."

Because many employers prefer to hire skilled workers, more individuals are attending accredited trade and technical schools to learn the necessary skills it takes to get a good job. Many of these specialized career schools reported enrollment increases of over 15 percent this year.

"Most career schools are independent, small, job-oriented, intensive and student-centered," said Herzing. "Their single mission is to give students job skills to enter and to compete in the job market."

Until recently a college education was considered one of the best ways to

Distinguished Service Awards Luncheon Set

"Women -- Aware" has been chosen as the theme for the Eighth Annual Texas Panhandle Distinguished Service Awards Luncheon hosted by West Texas State University.

Women from throughout the Texas Panhandle area will be honored for their contributions to education, medicine, business, civic service and professional areas on Saturday, April 16, at the WTSU East Dining Hall.

Nominations of women who are 18 years of age and older and who are residents of one of the top 32 counties in the Panhandle, must be received by the WTSU Returning Student Program office before March 25. Nominees do not have to be former students or graduates of WTSU.

Serving as honorary chairpersons for the 1983 luncheon are Bea Pickens of Amarillo and Helen Shannon of Canyon. Co-chairpersons are Donna Moseley of Amarillo and Dr. Sue Park of Canyon.

Other members of the planning committee are members of the Area Advisory Council of the WTSU Returning Student Program and members of the WTSU faculty and staff.

Area Advisory Council members are Claudia Stuart, Caroline Chamblin, and Charlotte Quackenbush, all of Amarillo; Paula Britt of Wheeler; Ruth Magee, McLean; Poppy Hulseley, Tulia; Nancy Jossrand, Hereford; and Ruth Cross and Joan Van Doren, both of Canyon.

Also serving on the planning committee are Sandra Meek, WTSU dean of student affairs; Sylvia McTague, counselor with the University Counseling and Testing Center; Dr. Mary Gill, associate professor of modern languages; Ronnie Hutcherson, instructor in the School of Business; Mary Hill, assistant professor of physical education; Lila Vars, director of development; Mona Williams Statter, University Information Service director; Peggy Yeager, Returning Student Program secretary; and Jackie McAlpin, associate registrar; and Jane Kerr, director of the Returning Student Program.

Themes of previous luncheons have been "Bi-centennial Luncheon," "The Expanding World of Women," "Individual Women . . . Together," "The Volunteer: A Valuable Voice," "A New Decade - Enter Women of the '80s," "All For the Family," and "one Touch Touching All."

prepare for the job market. But now, many students may wonder, as they go off to school, whether a college diploma is worth its price in tuition and several years of missed income.

Between 1968 and 1978, the proportion of college graduates employed in professional and technical occupations declined because the number of jobs did not expand as rapidly as the supply of graduates. One out of every four college graduates took jobs traditionally filled by someone with less schooling, and more graduates than ever before turned to lower-level clerical, sales, and blue-collar occupations to earn a living. From 1970 to 1979, 80 percent of the jobs available required training and education while only 20 percent required a four-year degree. "We all learned a valuable lesson from the job market in the '70s," said Herzing. "A four-year degree does not guarantee a good job. There are unlimited careers to choose from that can be realized without a college degree."

The 1982-83 edition of the Occupational Outlook Handbook, published by the U.S. Department of Labor, predicts that greater efforts in energy development and industrial production will lead to a demand for engineers and technicians. The medical professions, which include such occupations as dental assistant, medical assistant and medical lab technician, are expected to grow as the health services industry grows. And, the computer field is projected to grow rapidly, along with a demand for systems analysts, programmers, and computer service technicians.

NATTS SCHOOLS PROVIDE TRAINING Schools accredited by NATTS, now located in 45 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, have been providing students with specialized training since 1965. According to Herzing, the growing success of these schools can be summed up in a word, "sensitivity." They respond directly to a student's needs and desires.

"The most important question in the trade and technical schools is 'where are the jobs?'" said Herzing. "It's vital to our schools to know how advances in technology and shifts in the labor force are going to affect particular occupations. Unlike colleges and universities, we can't stay in business if our graduates must ultimately settle for jobs which are not related to their area of training."

According to Herzing, another reason accredited trade and technical schools have done so well is because these schools offer success on the students' terms.

"We work hard to eliminate the reasons which have traditionally discouraged individuals from continuing their training beyond high school," said Herzing. "Our students know that they will get more specialized training and finish quicker; thereby, earning more money sooner."

According to labor experts, during the '80s the demand for skilled workers will continue; the youth labor force will decline thus easing the stiff competition for entry-level jobs; and once again more college graduates will be available than will be needed to fill jobs that require a college degree.

"In a way, career school students are receiving job insurance for the future," said Herzing. "They're getting 'hands-on' training in occupations for which the Department of Labor has projected substantial growth during the years ahead."

For persons planning for the careers of the '80s, knowing something about projected growths will be a tremendous asset. But employment prospects alone, according to Herzing, should never be the sole reason for choosing a career.

"In our free Handbook, we advise students to take many factors into consideration before choosing a career," said Herzing. "We recommend that people consider personal interests, salary, advancement, job demand, job mobility, working conditions, and educational requirements." Readers may ask for a free copy of the Handbook of Trade and Technical Careers and Training from: NATTS (Handbook), 2021 K Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20006-1077.

Moving Expenses May Be Deductible

Individuals who have changed their job locations may be able to deduct their moving expenses the Internal Revenue Service says. They may qualify for this moving expense deduction whether they are self-employed or an employee. However, the expenses must be connected with starting work at the new job location, and there are certain tests of distances and time to be met.

More information about moving expenses appears in the free IRS Publication 521 which is available by using the handy order coupon in the tax package or by calling the Tax Forms/Information number listed in the telephone directory under U.S. Government.

The Scientists Tell Me...

How to Figure Community Cost of a Rural Health Clinic

By Robert L. Haney
TAES Science Writer

"Doctor Wanted" signs would be posted in dozens of rural areas of the State, if they were thought to be of any use, say economists at Texas A&M University, who made a study of the problem.

A great many rural areas would like to induce a physician to set up practice in their community in order to improve the quality and convenience of health care, according to Dr. Lonnie Jones, Professor of Agricultural Economics with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and A&M.

"One method of attracting a physician that has proven successful," Jones said, "is to provide financial assistance by constructing a clinic and then charging a monthly fee to recover costs."

"We have developed a means for local leaders to estimate the need for a physician in a given community or area and a formula to establish the amount of capital and operating costs that is required to construct a clinic.

"By 'we' I mean myself and Dr. Mike Wood, Extension community services specialist. We have cooperated in developing an answer to this problem that is a 'research concern' of the Experiment Station and a 'people concern' of the Extension Service.

"The budget we developed helps community planners work out a detailed breakdown of expenses involved in providing a service such as a clinic; it includes initial capital costs such as building, land, and medical equipment. "Annual operating costs also are detailed and include such items as utilities, insurance, janitor and maintenance expenses.

"We have adapted a computer program, developed in Oklahoma, so that Texas communities can have their local budget situation rapidly analyzed by computer."

By developing a computer program, Jones says, community decision makers have the flexibility of experimenting with various assumptions; cost estimates can vary from high to low; number of physicians needed can vary; land cost and equipment cost can vary; and number of physicians to be supported can be varied.

The strength of a computer program is that all options or examples can be run very rapidly. Using a remote terminal, economists can work through several examples with local decision-makers, in the comfort of their own office.

The computerized model not only allows an analysis of need, costs, and receipts of building a community clinic but also allows rapid response when considering various alternatives such as a new building versus renovation of an old building, different sizes of the facility, different numbers of physicians, and various cost estimates.

Presently, researchers at Texas A&M are updating the cost figures to more accurately fit different regions in Texas.

For further information concerning this project contact your local county Extension agent or Mike D. Woods, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843 (Tel. 713/845-4445) or Lonnie L. Jones, Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas, 77843 (Tel. 713/845-2336).

Other community budgets, being developed by Experiment Station research, include ones for emergency ambulance service, sewer systems, water systems, and mini-bus transportation systems for the elderly.

Still another model developed by Jones and Woods can be used to estimate fiscal impacts of industry. It will be used by individuals involved in managing growth impacts on an area, as a result of industrialization.

Ag Research Facing Exciting Times

Agricultural research is in for exciting times, according to the director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas A&M University System. The Experiment Station is the state's agricultural research agency.

During opening remarks at the annual TAES conference on the Texas A&M campus, Dr. Neville P. Clarke told about 500 agricultural researchers: "We face some of the most exciting opportunities ever in the field of agricultural research as we move toward the year 2000. The problems facing agriculture are substantial, putting pressure on us to achieve and deliver the goods (new agricultural technology). Because of this, we face good and challenging times ahead."

The agricultural research director added: "We're looking at a substantial amount of total change in the years ahead. However, we want to create and direct change rather than just react to it."

Clarke also reviewed some of the findings of the Target 2000 Project (the blueprint for progress in the Texas A&M University System recently developed by a group of some 230 Texas lay leaders at the request of A&M's board of regents) as it related to TAES program.

"Target 2000 provided an opportunity for substantial input from outside sources regarding the direction of the TAES so as to be more responsive to the needs of the state," he said.

Critical areas addressed in the report, which should be in final form later this spring, were outlined by Clarke:

- Water availability and cost
- Energy availability and cost
- Integrated resource use
- Marketing, transportation and policy
- Agricultural production efficiency

Clarke noted that a number of other critical issues were addressed in the Target 2000 Project, including soils, weather uncertainties, environmental protection, a safe and nutritious human food supply, and urban agriculture.

The preliminary project report also dealt with various resources needed by the TAES to accomplish its objectives, including the establishment of a Texas water resources center, an agricultural policy center, and urban centers similar to the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Dallas. The report called for more efforts in the basic sciences, expanded use of computers, completion of Texas A&M's west campus, and the expansion of TAMU centers throughout the state.

The Target 2000 report also noted that the TAES must respond to the needs of both the agricultural community as well as the general public and that it must streamline its management to become a more efficient and effective organization.

Theme of the four-day conference Jan. 10-13 is "Research: Promise, Practice, and Payoff."

IRS Introduces New 1040 EZ Form

The Internal Revenue Service has developed a new simplified tax form for single taxpayers, called Form 1040EZ. The IRS says that, as the name implies, the 1040EZ is a brief, simple-to-complete tax form.

The IRS estimates that over 20 million taxpayers will be eligible to use the new form. For example, most college students who file federal individual income tax returns will be eligible to use the 1040EZ even if they are claimed as dependents on another taxpayer's return.

To use the 1040EZ, a taxpayer must be single, claim only one personal exemption, and claim no exemptions for children or other dependents. All income must come from wages, salaries, tips, and no more than $400 in interest. Taxable income must be less than $5,000.

The form contains only 11 items, the IRS says, which is half the lines on the Form 1040A for 1982. The 1040EZ is divided into steps that guide the taxpayer through the form.

Most of the instructions needed to complete Form 1040EZ are on the back of the form. However, the IRS advises that this year's 1040EZ filers will need to use the 1040A instructions for the tax table and for the special worksheet used to figure the allowable deduction for charitable contributions on the new form.

The 1040EZ has been included in the 1982 Form 1040A tax package. It is also available separately at many local IRS offices and through form distribution centers in many banks and post offices.

Lazbuddie Man Testifies On UPS Services

Mr. Teddy J. Treider, owner of Treider Electric Supply in Lazbuddie testified today in Austin before the Railroad Commission of Texas as to his business's need for having United Parcel Service available for shipments within the state.

UPS is applying to the Commission for authority to pick up and deliver packages between any point in Texas, otherwise known as "intrastate" operating rights. Currently, the nation's largest package delivery firm can only move packages on an interstate basis, or within the commercial free zones of Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and San Antonio.

Texas is one of just two states that restrict UPS intrastate.

Mr. Treider testified that the lack of UPS service within the state has seriously hampered the operation of his business. Mr. Treider cited no pick up or delivery service, slow delivery time, and lack of statewide coverage, as the major problems being encountered with other delivery services Treider Electric Supply currently uses. And, parcel post does not fill their needs, Mr. Treider added.

UPS has been seeking intrastate authority from the Commission since 1966. These hearings are expected to continue well into 1983.

Teachers Selected On Travel Study Program

High production and low prices are plaguing agriculture in the 1980's. Survival of the food and fiber production business and the entire rural community that depends on agriculture is a major concern of commercial bankers of Texas.

The 1983 Texas Farm and Ranch credit Conference for Commercial Bankers at Texas A & M University, Feb. 27-March 1, is designed to provide persons in the farm credit area with an update on current conditions for the agricultural economy and give insight into dealing with the risks of making credit available during the current times of economic uncertainty, says Dr. Robert B. Schwart.

Conference sessions will be in the J. Earl Rudder Conference Center.

Among headliners will be Phil Gramm, former U.S. congressman and economist at Texas A&M, who will discuss "Economic Outlook." The Hon. Charles Stenholm, U.S. congressman from Stamford and member of the Agriculture Committee of the U.S. Congress, will discuss "Washington's Role in Farm Survival." Jim Hightower, Texas commissioner of agriculture, will speak on the state of the Texas agricultural economy.

Other topics for discussion include evaluating crop insurance for financial risk management and outlook for the major commodities of importance to Texas.

Concurrent sessions, Schwart said, will deal with row crops, cattle and dairy loans. Other sessions will deal with regional loan problems and opportunities.

For registration information, contact Dr. Richard Trimble, Department of Agricultural Economics, Texas A & M University, College Station, Tx. 77843, or call (713) 845-8012.
