COUNTY

ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

Notice has been received from Garlyn Hoffman, Extension Range, Brush and Weed Control Specialist at Texas A&M, that a Mesquite Control Field Day will be held on the Pitchfork and Four-Six's Ranches at Guthrie. The field day will start at 9:00 a.m. on October 4, next Wednesday, at the Pitchfork Headquarters located fifteen miles west of Guthrie on Highway 82.

The purpose of the field day is to observe long term results from carrying out a complete mesquite control program. Mesquite control using both chemical and mechanical means of control have been carried out on the two ranches along with combinations of the two methods since 1940.

The State Fair of Texas opens for its annual two weeks run next Saturday, October 7. Billed as the largest state fair in the nation, the fair will open with judging in the sheep and goat divisions as well as Shrothorn and Red Angus cattle.

Sterling County will be represented by several exhibitors during the first week of the fair, which is billed as the Pan American Livestock Exhibition. During the first week, all types of breeding animals will be judged. Amy Hodges will be the only 4-H Club exhibitor from the county during the first week. She will be competing in the Junior Rambouillet Sheep show on Saturday afternoon, October 7.

Monday afternoon, Clinton Hodges will be competing in the open Rambouillet Sheep show. William and J.Q. Foster's Suffolks will be competing in the open Suffolk show on Tuesday afternoon.

The second week of the fair is devoted to the Junior Livestock exhibitors and their market animals—lambs, steers, swine and dairy animals. Sterling County will be represented by nine 4-H Club members who have eighteen lambs entered in the show. Judging of the lambs will take place beginning at 8:00 a.m. Wednesday, October 18. Club members with entries are Bobby Bynum, Tommy Bynum, Charlotte Foster, Skeete Foster, Steven Foster, Janis Igo, Lee Wayne Igo, Pam McEntire and Payton Wilson. Each exhibitor has two lambs entered.

The weeks ahead are critical ones in the screwworm eradication program, according to Dolph Briscoe, Jr., president of the Southwest Animal Health Research Foundation, which is sponsoring the program. Heavy rains set off by Hurricane Beulah in the southern portion of the state as well as lighter rains in other areas are conducive to a spread of the pests. There has been some "spreading" of positive cases in the last few weeks. The last reporting period, ending September 16, showed 38 cases in Texas. One of the cases positively identified came from Tom Green County. The case was found on a ranch near Water Valley—closer than any other cases this year.

All producers are urged to keep up their watch for all possible worm cases. Watch your livestock, treat all wounds and take a sample of all suspected cases, and send them to Mission for positive identification. At the present time, two samples are awaiting the laboratory's identification. The samples were sent in by Tom and Bill Humble, but as of Wednesday of this week, no word had been received. It has taken a little longer to get word on these two samples, sent in late last week, because of the fury of Hurricane Beulah and the flooding caused by the heavy rains in the valley. Late last week, reports were that the laboratory was continuing operations in Mission but was being delayed somewhat by the storm and its rains.

Members of the school are John Copeand, Chesley McDonald, Bill Humble, Clinton Hodges, Stan Horwood, Reynolds Foster and I. W. Terry.

Sue Griffin has enrolled in Angelo State College for the fall semester.

LIONS CLUB

The Sterling City Lions Club met Wednesday noon in the community center for the regular weekly luncheon. Guests present included Tommy Rogger of Big Spring and Chappell Murrel of San Angelo. W. G. Fincher was a new member.

President Jim Davis appointed a program committee—Albert McGinnes, Henry Bauer and Arthur Barlemann. The prize went to W. W. Durham.

An appeal for relief money for Beulah areas was read and the club voted to send $30 to the flood stricken area.

Skipper Lively said a group from the city and county was to go to Austin next week to look into grants for building a nursing home here.

Dr. Kunath to Speak at Water Valley

At Water Valley Methodist Church at 7:30 October 8

Dr. Carl A. Kunath, prominent San Angelo surgeon, is to speak in Water Valley Sunday evening, October 8 at 7:30.

He was first contacted as a speaker for the annual Laymen's Day services at the Water Valley Methodist church but so many people have expressed a desire to hear him that present plans are to turn this into an interfaith service and invite everyone who desires to hear him—regardless of denomination.

Dr. Kunath's topic will be "The Scientific Revolution—Man's Newest Challenge." The talk will be closely related to those he has given at numerous civic clubs and religious groups in San Angelo. He points out "that recent developments in medicine and technology have made such tremendous advances in recent years that our moral and ethical standards have found it impossible to keep pace with them. And that one of the greatest challenges of our age is that our power increases more rapidly than our ability to understand it and use it well. As a result, we are experiencing an ethics lag in which the family doctor, as well as the families themselves are often found groping in a sort of twilight zone trying to make decisions for which there often seems to be no closely defined right or wrong."

"On the other hand doctors are sometimes being criticized for 'needless prolongation of life.' Yet families too, are worried by the question—did we do all that we could or should? "With the advent of artificial kidneys, artificial heart pumps, heart pace makers, respirators, organ transplants, etc. mankind is facing many new challenges. Just how far should we go in attempting to sustain human life?"

Dr. Kunath points out that the rapidly developing scientific advances carry with them profound theological implications. He poses the question: "Will mankind be able to meet these new challenges? Even though this present generation may never know the "answers" it is important that we all be made aware of the challenge and prepare ourselves, both mentally and spiritually for the changes ahead.

George Skeete, church lay leader, says "I have been told by many, many people who have heard this presentation, that it is the finest talk of its kind that I have ever heard." George says that "it appears now that the attendance may be so large that it will be necessary to move to the school gymnasium for we expect some people from San Angelo, Carlsbad, Sanatorium, Sterling City, in addition to Water Valley. We welcome all of you to come hear this outstanding Christian speaker that we are indeed privileged to have come."

Heart Group to Meet Monday Night

The Sterling County chapter of the Texas Heart Association will have a meeting at 8 p.m. in the community center next Monday, October 2. All members of the chapter are urged to be present.

Al Campbell, regional director of the Texas Heart Association, will be present and show a film, said Mrs. Chesley McDonald.

Attend Funeral in Durant, Oklahoma

The Cledis Smiths returned home Monday from Durant, Oklahoma where they attended funeral services for R. C. Lindley, long-time resident of Bryan County, Okla. He was a retired teacher and farmer, and was the father of Cecil Lindley. The services were held in the First Baptist church in Durant.

Play Miles There Tonight

The Sterling City Eagles 8-man football boys downed the Union Wildcats 40 to 12 here last Friday night in a pre-conference game.

Coach White and Moore's boys set the pace with a touch down run of 59 yards on the very first play from scrimmage with Gary Foster making the long run. The Wildcats were not to be outdone and a pass from Bobby Faught to Ronald Luker garnered the Union boys six points in the first quarter. Neither team made the extra points after touch down.

Two counters were racked up in the second quarter by the locals; one by Bruce Crowder on a 24 yard pass from quarterback Phil Cole. Then Gary Foster got loose for a 21 yard T.D. run. Frank Price on a pass from Cole, picked up the two extra points.

The Wildcats did not score in the second quarter and the score at halftime was 20-6.

In the third quarter the Eagles advanced the ball to the three yard line and Esau Vargas pushed it over for six points and Jackie Thornton galloped 14 yards for another T.D. during the quarter. Union failed to score in the third.

In the final quarter Esau Vargas intercepted a Union pass and went 50 yard for a T.D. Quarterback Randy Peel went around left end for the two extra points. Union's Faught pushed the ball over the goal from the 5 yard line to rack up their final points and the score ended 40-12.

Tonight the Eagles play the Miles Bulldogs there in a non conference game at 8. Usually 6-man ball is played at Miles, and 8-man here, in the Miles-Sterling games.

The Eagles have three more pre-conference games; one with Miles tonight; Threeway there October 6 and Wall here October 13. Conference play starts with a game with Sands here October 20.

The Eagles have a perfect season's record so far. They have made 112 points to opponents 30. They beat Woodson 22-6, Rocksprings 50-12, and Union 40-12.

Against Union Coach White's boys racked up 16 first downs to 9 for the Wildcats.

Social Security

Why should a man with a wife and young children concern himself with anything that seems as far away as social security?

A new booklet, "Social Security Information for Young Families," specifically designed to answer this question is now available, social security district manager, Ted F. Moellering announced today.

"Social security is not just a retirement program, and it is not just for old people," Moellering said. This new booklet gives the young worker important information about the survivors and disability protection that he and his family have now.

Nine out of ten families in Sterling City have social security survivor protection which can amount to over $75,000 in benefits if the breadwinner should die, Moellering pointed out.

Disability insurance is the other social security program of particular importance to the young worker. After just five years of work under social security, the worker and his family are eligible to receive monthly benefit payments if he should become severely disabled and the condition is expected to last a year or longer.

Moellering said "Social Security Information for Young Families" explains in detail survivors and disability protection, what it can mean to a family, and how to make an application should it become necessary. Also included is information on how to check your social security account and the financing of social security.

Copies of this pamphlet may be obtained free of charge from the social security office at 3000 West Harris in San Angelo, Texas.

Does the average worker get his money's worth for his social security contributions?

The answer is "Yes", according to Ted F. Moellering, social security district manager. Young workers can be sure, too, that the social security benefits payable to them and their dependents in the future will be substantially increased by the time they qualify for payment.

"The social security program is financed in such a way that benefits can be more than kept up to date with rising prices—without an increase in contribution rates," Moellering said. Because the social security tax is a percentage of payroll, income to the program rises more than benefit obligations as wage levels go up, he explained.

In an expanding economy, rising wages produce more income for the social security system and make it possible to increase benefits more than enough to offset any increases from time-to-time in the ceiling on the amount of earnings that is subject to the tax (and which counts toward the individual's future benefit payments).

"But even without considering the likely future improvements in benefit levels," Moellering said, "the average young worker will get retirement, survivors, and disability insurance protection under social security worth 20 to 25 percent more than he will pay in social security tax contributions over a 40-45 year working lifetime—even if you count accumulated interest on those contributions."

At the upper extreme—the young man who starts work in 1973 or later, when the maximum contribution rate for old-age, survivors, and disability insurance goes into effect, and who has earnings at or above the maximum annual amount subject to the social security tax, will no more than just about pay for the value of his protection.

People already at work, Moellering noted, get more protection for their tax contributions than those who will be going to work under social security in the future.

Painting Pointers

Instant Antiques
If you love old things but have no hankering to hang around country auctions or paw through dusty junk shops, you can create your own antiques.

All you need is a little imagination, a few pieces of unfinished furniture from your local paint, discount or department store, and one of the new antiquing kits. You might start with something easy, like a bench or small table with good, authentic lines. Once you've conquered these, however, you're ready for more complicated pieces—chests, credenzas, breakfronts.

You'll be amazed at how simple and how much fun it is—and how much money you can save. With one of Acme's "Fine Antiquing" kits, for example, the whole procedure is reduced to a speedy two-step process. Once the piece has been cleaned and lightly sanded to make the paint adhere more smoothly, brush on the base coat. Then, following a 24-hour drying period, apply the glaze coat and wipe while it's still tacky. That's all there is to it.

Of course, if you want to make the piece look really old, you can "distress" the wood surface by making random scratches with the point of a nail, dents by pounding it with pieces of broken walnut shell or crushed rock: do this after putting on the base coat but before you add the glaze and the result will be a fine "heirloom" appearance.

Fine Antiquing kits are now available in 12 vibrant continental colors, including Grecian Gold, Morocco Red, Minoan Bronze and Sicilian Green, to give just the proper accent to the Mediterranean-style furniture so popular today.

The kits come complete with all the necessary equipment—brush, sandpaper, wiping cloth, stirring sticks and instructions—as well as sufficient base coat and color glaze to finish two chairs or an average-sized chest or table.

And once you get started, furniture isn't the only thing you're likely to antique: doors, shutters and panel wainscoting all gain new character when undercoated and glazed.

Everybody's doing it and anybody can, so why not get into the swim? Amaze your friends with your virtuosity by beautifying your home with instant antiques created by your own hands!

AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

By Omar Burleson, Member of Congress, 17th District

WASHINGTON, D.C.—News-paper people call it "scooped" and this column was last week. There was nothing unfair about the release of news by the Administration that an Anti-Missile System was to be built. In fact, it was the hope that this column would provide the "scoop", but Defense Secretary McNamara made his announcement a few days earlier than expected.

Anyway, here is more on the subject.

A hero out of Greek Mythology might have a name like SABMIS, but in this case it stands for Sea-Based Anti-Missile Intercept System. If developed, it will mark the start of a new naval defense role. Its concept is to force potential enemies to spread their nuclear pattern, providing us with a greater in-depth defense.

The SABMIS plan is to place ships directly off the coast of Russia and China, equipped with intercepting Anti-Ballistic missiles. If enemy missiles can be intercepted relatively close to their launching, the theory is that a nuclear attack against the United States would be blunted in the beginning. As mentioned last week, the Soviet Union is known to be developing a multiple warhead missile which breaks open at some point near the end of its trajectory and, hence a warhead against several targets. By early interception, a single SABMIS could destroy all of them at one time.

The SABMIS ships would be intended to complement land-based NIKE-X installations in the United States.

When and if such a system is approved, Naval strategists believe that a mobile system could do for our defense what the Polaris Submarine is capable of doing for our offense.

In support of the SABMIS idea, many men believe that moving seaward will compensate for the difference in size of the land area between the United States and Russia. Since Russia is approximately 2½ times larger than the United States, targets for our missiles are, therefore 2½ less vulnerable than are ours. In other words, we have 2½ times less opportunity to protect our cities and strategic military installations than does the Soviet Union.

By placing anti-missile defense forces at sea, nuclear fire would be drawn away from the industrial and population concentration of our cities. By the same action, the survival of our defense and offensive capability is enhanced.

In this age of nuclear weapons, the first strike against our country must be directed against our military installations rather than civilian population.

Enemy planners would obviously concentrate first efforts to reduce our power to retaliate.

Consequently, much of an enemy strike would have to be directed to SABMIS ships and Polaris submarines in a pre-planned nuclear attack. The result would be fewer nuclear warheads reaching our shores. In addition, the fallout as well as the destructive blast would be way out to sea and away from our population centers. No one suggests or apparently believes that there will be anything developed to guarantee absolute defense, but the theory of intercepting an ICBM early in its flight from an enemy base makes obvious sense.

Behind the 8-Ball

By the editor.

Well, I saw the only game won by a Southwest Conference team last Saturday. We saw Texas Tech submerge Iowa State 50-0 in Lubbock Coach John King's boys look good. But, Iowa may not have had much. Anyway, this week end the Red Raiders meet the Texas Longhorns at Austin in a conference game. That will tell more about John Scovell and Co. of Lubbock.

When asked what his plans or strategy for the game was, Coach Darrell Royal of Texas said "Pray".

Larry Stewart has enrolled in Texas Tech at Lubbock for the fall semester.

Mrs. W.R. Kennedy of Winters was a guest in the home of Mrs. D. C. Durham last weekend. She is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Durhams.

If workable, and our naval military strategists think it is, a sea-based system of defense would make it easier for the land-based NIKE-X to furnish remaining protection.

A secondary feature of the SABMIS defense system is the reduction of the need for proliferation of nuclear weapons. In other words, countries friendly to us would not need to develop nuclear weapons, either offensive or defensive. If these nations are automatically under our protective umbrella of mobile SABMIS ships, their need for defensive armament would, at least, be reduced if not eliminated.

Costly--yes. Everything is which relates to war and war possibilities. We can't afford it, but maybe we can't afford not to.
