Depot Committee Formed To Help Decide Use, Location

By the time a meeting was over Tuesday night, a major question had been answered, but the answer left many questions dangling for the future.

Around 20 persons were

City Police and Sheriff's officers were called at approximately 8 a.m. Tuesday morning to the City Barn where workmen had discovered an injured man who had walked into the barn. The man was identified as David Wayne Hardisty from Valley De Oro, Texas (near Amarillo). He was taken to the West Plains Medical Center for treatment of injuries, the cause of which was unknown at press time. Authorities reported late Tuesday evening that he had been released from the hospital, but that the investigation into the circumstances surrounding his arrival in Muleshoe still continued. No definite information was given as to the cause of his injuries or as to how he arrived in Muleshoe.

The #1 Flowers, 467 feet FSL, 1687 feet SEL, Section 18, 15S, R2E, P a r m e r County, is drilling below 7,000 feet now and has 8 5/8 intermediate casing. The wildcard is located 1 1/2 miles northwest of the #1 Jamison P and A at 8500 feet in November, 1978. D and J Operating is the operator of the #1 Flowers, which is scheduled to go to 8500 feet. Norton Drilling Co. of Lubbock is drilling the hole.

The location is on a farm out from U. S. Petroleum Corporation of Longview, Texas which has approximately 20,000 acres under lease in the area.

The Muleshoe FFA is in need of anyone who is a past American Farmer, Honorary State Farmer or Honorary Chapter Farmer to participate in the annual Parent-Member Banquet to be held on May 12 in the High School Cafeteria beat the City Council meeting room at the Muleshoe City Hall in an attempt to try to decide what to do with the Santa Fe Railway depot.

After the Railroad Commission decided to close the Muleshoe depot, it was a toss-up as to whether the building would be offered as a historical marker, or would be dismantled, as first announced.

The Santa Fe said they would give the building to someone - not to a private individual and not to any profit-making group or individual. Santa Fe also said the depot must be removed from Santa Fe property. Although the group did discuss moving the depot to the Mule Lot adjacent to the present location of the depot, it was reminded that the Mule Lot is on Santa Fe property and leased to the city on a year to year basis.

Santa Fe also said the land around the depot must be leveled and restored to their specifications following removal of the depot building.

Ministers Push For Tighter Control

In a special city council meeting on Tuesday, May 3, the City Council, at the urging of the Muleshoe Ministerial Alliance, passed an ordinance "making it unlawful to consume an alcoholic beverage or to be in possession of an open container of alcoholic beverage with the intent to consume said alcoholic beverage on certain specific public property within the corporate limits of the city of Muleshoe, Texas; Defining terms: declaring possession of an open container of an alcoholic beverage prima facie evidence of an intent to consume said alcoholic beverage; declaring a violation of this ordinance to be a misdemeanor and providing for a penalty upon conviction thereof; providing for severability; and declaring its effective date."

A number of citizens, as well as members of the Ministerial Alliance were on hand to view the proceedings and to voice their opinions. Ted Harrison, a local farmer, stated to the group that he felt to pass this ordinance based strictly on the "Mule Lot" was a discriminatory act. The Mule Lot was one of the places mentioned in the first draft as a potential "hot spot." Ministerial Alliance spokesman Don Knight of the Trinity Baptist Church maintained that it was not the group's intention to discriminate against anyone but that a serious problem existed with alcohol in this town, and that it was time to do something about it. J. E. Meeks, minister of the First Baptist Church and also of the ministerial alliance stated that they felt they had the right to ask, the council to take measures to allay these problems. Brock Sanders, pastor of the Richland Hills Baptist Church, voiced this same opinion.

City Police Chief Les Irvin told the group assembled that while the ordinance might be a start in the right direction, as Meeks suggested, he did not feel that any great accomplishments would come from this. It was pointed out that most alcoholic offenders were well over the age of 20, according to statistics in Muleshoe.

Councilman Paul Wilbanks told the Alliance that he could support an ordinance having to do with the control of public or publicly owned properties, but not private properties, i.e. bank parking lots, etc. "We are not going to solve this problem overnight and I feel that we have a police department where common sense prevails and they will do the things necessary to enforce this ordinance."

A final note was added by City Manager Dave Marr, who stated that according to attorney's opinion Cont. Page 6, Col. 1

Letter To The Editor

Shirley and Journal Staff
I would like to thank you for all the "extra-special" publicity you did on the Library for Library Week, for all the time you spent, and all the pictures you made. The Sunday full-page story and pics was very good. Good publicity always helps to make a project a success, and I really appreciate your help.

The Study Club cleared about $300 on the book sale this time, which will help furnish our "new" room.

Sincerely,
Anne Camp

The manufacturers found that the valves and thermostats may allow gas to flow to a burner when the thermostat calls for heat even if the pilot flame is off. An explosion or fire could result if the right mixture of gas and air develops and contacts an ignition source.

Honeywell has announced the recall of its valves with these numbers: CS134, CS5134, V4136, V4146, VS118, VS189, V7284, V8129, V8136, V8139, V8146, VS8133, VS8138, and VS8141. The company said it will replace the valves free of charge. The White-Rodgers Division of Emerson Electric Co. is recalling certain LP-gas water heater thermostats manufactured between 1961 and mid-1980.

ENMU Player Signs With NFL Seahawks

Gary Nicoson, a 6-3 275 pound offensive center with the Eastern New Mexico University Greyhound football team, has signed a free agent contract with the Seattle Seahawks of the National Football League.

In addition to an undisclosed signing bonus, Nicoson also reportedly signed three one-year contracts, plus incentive bonuses. All except the signing bonus will be contingent upon him making the team.

Never take yourself too seriously. The world is too vast.

The company notes that only water heaters that use LP-gas are involved. The thermostats can pose an explosion hazard if the pilot gas control knob becomes damaged so that the safety valve sticks in the open position and allows LP-gas to escape.

White-Rodgers thermostats manufactured between 1961 and 1976 are on various A.O. Smith and Sears, Roebuck and Co. LP-gas water heaters. Thermostats manufactured after 1976 are on Sears, Roebuck and Co., State Industries, Rheem, A.O. Smith, and W.L. Jackson water heaters.

White-Rodgers thermostats are identified with one of these numbers (XXX represents any number from 101 to 999): 3701-XXX, 3707-XXX, 3731-XXX, 3755U-XXX, 3761-XXX, 3761U-XXX, 3762U-XXX, 3771U-XXX, 3772U-XXX, 3774U-XXX, and 3776U-XXX.

This company will also replace their equipment free of charge. White-Rodgers can be contacted by calling the toll-free number 1-800-325-9589 or by writing Thermostat Recall Program, White-Rodgers, 9758 Reavis Park Drive, St. Louis, MO 63123. The company says that consumers with Sears propane water heaters involved in the recall can contact a local Sears service store.

The Commission's LPG Division regulates the safe handling of LP-gas.

City Ordinance

ions (city attorney and the attorney for the Texas Municipal League), some of this ordinance could be judged as excessive regulations and beyond the scope of the city's authority.

Marr did state that he had no problem with the control of alcoholic beverages on publicly owned property, but that private property was another matter entirely.

The two and a half hour meeting concluded after much discussion back and forth and pro and con, with Councilmen passing an amended ordinance. Reservations regarding even the amended ordinance were evident. A copy of the ordinance in its entirety is printed in the legal section of this newspaper.

In essence, publicly owned property is described as streets and right of ways, alleys, sidewalks, parks and publicly owned parking lots. Publicly controlled property is described as property under the care and control of a governmental entity. All of these descriptions come from Section 1 of the ordinance passed.

Section 2 of the ordinance states that "it shall be unlawful for any person to drink or consume an alcoholic beverage or have in such person's possession an open container of alcoholic beverage with the intent to drink or consume said alcoholic beverage while on any publicly-owned or publicly controlled property within the corporate limits of the City of Muleshoe, Texas.

Possession of an open container of alcoholic beverage will be prima facie evidence of an intent to drink or consume said alcoholic beverage.

the Chamber of Commerce, said that although no specific proposal was made to the city, the CofC had met with city council members to see if they were interested in the depot building. Gulley said the city said they were not interested. He also said he received the same response when he visited county commissioners court about the building.

Gulley also said he had checked into moving costs for the building, and a local mover said the cost of moving the building would be around $4,000.

However, Mike Perez, of the Knights of Columbus was at the meeting and told Gulley that Knights of Columbus would move the building at no charge as a public service or community project.

One city council member, Connie Sinaer, was at the meeting and Bailey County had no representative there on Tuesday night.

Shafer explained that the city did not have the finances to support the building at another location even though he agreed that the park would be large enough to move the building there, provided other city council members would approve and land could be found large enough for the building out of the flood plain.

Because of the impending expenses, and a massive fund drive to be launched to obtain funds for foundations, insurance and utilities, as well as a partial restoration, Shafer pledged a personal $100 to start the fund drive off.

Although the two main ideas tossed around for use of the building included a senior citizen center, where senior citizens could go day by day if they wished, for games, crafts and meetings or a museum, it was decided to have a survey to see what local and area people think should or could be done with the depot.

The survey is included in this issue of The Journal and can be clipped/out filled in and either taken by the Chamber of Commerce offices at the City Hall in Muleshoe or mailed to the Chamber of Commerce.

Seven or eight students from high school who worked under the supervision of Lavonne McKillip in 1977 while seventh graders and who compiled and published a Bailey County History book attended the meeting. With spokesman Todd Holt the group expressed an interest in acquiring the depot for a museum for this county, and all immediately volunteered their services to help obtain necessary funds to move the building.

Mrs. McKillip spoke in glowing terms of her former students who worked diligently to publish the history book, and added her plea for a museum for the county.

"These young people are filled with enthusiasm and interest, and we should listen to their thoughts, and use their youth and interest to help preserve our historical buildings," she added.

A committee was named to help decide what will be the best way to acquire a plot of land for the building, how to get the building moved, and how to provide future funding for necessary items such as insurance and utilities.

As soon as the survey is received, the group will be meeting again, and will, in the future be releasing plans to move the depot to a permanent location, and preserve one of the older buildings in Muleshoe.

Clubs, individuals and others in this area will be approached to help fund the depot and will also be asked to help with moving and setting the depot at a permanent location.

Other details will be released as plans are made and meetings held.

Land Bank...

H. Benson, president of the Federal Land Bank of Texas. These reduced fees are effective April 25, 1983.

"The adjustments follow reductions made earlier this year," Benson said. On January 1, 1983, the Bank's interest rate on farm loans was lowered to 11.25 percent. The interest rate for rural residence and farm-related business loans was lowered to 11.75 percent. Bank closed loan fees subsequently were reduced in February from 4 to 2 percent on farm loans and from 7 to 4 percent on rural residence and farm-related business loans. The fee reduction was made possible, Benson said, by the decrease in the Bank's cost of funds.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Muleshoe makes long-term real estate loans.

Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson Grass farm on Sardy Acres takes a serious look at a new law.

Dear editor:

I don't know how many laws have been passed since this country started over 200 years ago—I don't suppose anybody knows and I for one don't want to know.

I do know though that the number probably is uncountable, considering all the permits and licenses now required to stay within the law. It's probably only because some Congressman hasn't thought of it that there's no law requiring a license to trim your own toe nails.

But what interests me this week is a law requiring children to help pay their elderly parents' doctor bills. Several states have passed such a law and Congress is considering making it nation-wide.

The states and the Federal government are now paying about 14 billion dollars a year for Medicaid patients, and it's being argued that prosperous children of destitute parents ought to be forced to chip in to ease the load on the rest of the taxpayers.

One state has proposed a sliding scale. If a child over 18 is making from $30,000 to $35,000 a year, he'd have to pay $3.25 a day for a parent in a nursing home. Those making from $50,000 to $55,000 would have to pay $7.50. The law could be waived in individual cases if it caused "severe hardship" for the child. That sentence needs an exclamation point after it.

I guess this is a good law but I'll tell you, if I was broke and sick and had a son making $50,000 a year, and it took a law to make him help me out, I wouldn't want that law enforced. I wouldn't want anybody to know I helped raise that kid.

Yours faithfully,

J.A. GRENADE FOUND

ARB Members Attend Training Sessions

Four local appraisal review board (ARB) members along with two Bailey County Appraisal office personnel attended a training and orientation seminar conducted by the State Property Tax Board this week in Lubbock to familiarize themselves with the authority, duties and administrative actions required of review boards.

Officials from the Appraisal District office commented that the meeting was very informative and helpful. The half day seminar was held on Wednesday, April 27 at the Region 17 Education Service Center in Lubbock with sessions beginning at 9 a.m. These are part of a series of meetings scheduled by the Austin-based state agency at 15 regional locations in April and May.

County Treasurer In Texas A&M Seminar

Bailey County Treasurer, Dorothy Turner along with some 174 other Texas county treasurers, participated in the 11th Annual County Treasurers' Seminar at Texas A&M University, April 12-14. The theme of the conference was "Education That Counts." John Gilmartin explains that the seminar is an annual educational program of the V. G. Young Institute of County Government, a part of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The seminar is sponsored in cooperation with the County Treasurers' Association of Texas.

The Treasurer's Seminar is just one of many county officials' programs offered by the V.G. Young Institute as a service to Texas' elected county officials. The Institute is staffed by two full-time specialists knowledgeable in county government. "Helping county officials become more effective public servants is the task of the program," says Gilmartin.

According to Gilmartin the seminar this year was purely educational. "Courses included county finance, organizational management, money and banking, an introduction to the computerization of county operations, and principles of governmental accounting."

Dorothy Turner will be receiving a certificate for successfully completing the two and one-half day course.

At the final session of the seminar, Dorothy Turner received a copy of the new Texas County Treasurers' Procedure Manual published by the V.G. Young Institute. The manual includes chapters on county government in Texas, the office of County Treasurer, basic responsibilities, several resource directories, and other general information.

The manual also refers to a large number of state laws and opinions of the Texas Attorney General and is designed for updating as laws and procedures change.

Breeders Recognized

Two area men, David G. Lust and Frank Hinkson, both involved in Angus breeding, have been recognized nationally by the American Angus Association for having registered Angus cows that are qualified to be listed in the Association's 1983 Pathfinder Report, according to Dick Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association. Fewer than 850 of the more than 26,000 members of the American Angus Association are represented in the Pathfinder Report, Spader said.

The Pathfinder Program identifies superior Angus females based upon economically important production traits including regularity of calving and weaning weight, according to John Crouch, director of performance programs for the American Angus Association. Angus cows that meet the strict requirements are listed in a Pathfinder Report published annually by the American Angus Association in St. Joseph, Missouri.

Some 3,263 Angus cows are included in the report which is published in the May issue of the Angus Journal. For a free bound property values generated by the appraisal district office, in order to ensure that all property subject to taxation within that district is listed on the appraisal roll and is valued fairly and uniformly under the law.

The board also has the authority to review applications for exemption and special valuation, as well as questions about ownership of property or identification of the Jurisdictions in which it is taxable. At a hearing before the ARB, an individual taxpayer may protest or a taxing unit may challenge any of those aspects of taxability or property value.

According to Kenneth Graeber, executive director of the State Property Tax Board, "The right to appear before the appraisal review board is the most important remedy available to taxpayers. In this way, you may discuss your concerns about your property valuation and exemptions in an informal session without resorting to litigation." Graeber stressed though, that the ARB has no authority over budgets or tax rates, which are set by the governing bodies of individual taxing units.

Graeber said that the seminars are targeted to experienced as well as new ARB members. Topics included an overview of 1982 ARB performance, review of questions which an ARB may determine, an introduction to the concept of judicial decision making, elements of a fair hearing, jurisdiction over appraisal and tax rolls and authority to make changes in the rolls. Administrative topics were also covered, such as screening and scheduling hearings, approval of appraisal records, correction orders and supplemental appraisal records.

Senate Panel Okays Water Package Measures

The Texas Senate's Committee on Natural Resources has given its approval to an eight bill package designed to insure that Texas has adequate supplies of water to meet its future needs.

Approval of the bills came at a meeting of the committee here Wednesday and followed their adoption by a subcommittee of the panel the day before. The measures will now go before the full Texas Senate which is expected to debate them next week.

State Sen. H. Tati Santiesteban, chairman of the Senate panel, hailed the measures as "a major step toward guaranteeing that every section of the state will have the water supplies it will need for years to come."

"The key word in all of these proposals," Santiesteban said, is "conservation as the entire package is dedicated to making better use of the water supplies we already have. They provide for the development of new water resources where necessary, but they will be most meaningful in helping every section of the state better utilize existing water supplies. And," he added, "this package-unlike the so-called 'Water Plans' the voters have rejected in the past-is a practical, workable solution to Texas' water problems, not a dream that can probably never be accomplished."

"I am proud that my committee was able to produce this package," Santiesteban, who authored one of the eight bills and shepherded the package through his panel, reported, "and I expect little trouble in gaining the approval of the full Senate sometime next week. If the House follows our example," he said, "the voters will make their decisions on the three constitutional amendments in the package next year and we can get this long-term program under way."

Santiesteban, an El Paso Democrat, described the measures included in the "water package" as follows: --SB 1076 by State Sen. John Sharp, D-Victoria, which guarantees that Texas' coastal bays and estuaries will continue to receive the fresh water which is so vital to the survival of marine life;

--SB 1235 by Santiesteban which sets up a system under which local governments who want aid from the state for water development projects and persons who want permits to use state-owned surface water must adopt and implement water conservation programs in order to receive the state assistance or rights to the state's water;

--SB 1236 by State Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana, which would set up a program under which the state will make long-term low interest loans to local governments for water development projects and provide a guarantee for bonds issued by local governments for such programs. The guarantee will make it possible for the bonds to be sold at much lower interest rates thereby substantially reducing their cost to local taxpayers;

--SB 1309 by State Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, which establishes a program under which the state will make funds available to banks and lending institutions who, in turn, will lend them to agricultural producers who want to install water conservation irrigation systems. Since 72 percent of the water now consumed in Texas is used in agriculture, this bill is expected to result in large savings of water;

--SB 895 by State Senators Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, and Bill Sarpalius, D-Canyon, which is designed to protect underground fresh water supplies from the impact of saltwater and pollution associated with oil and gas well drilling and operations;

--SJR 40, a proposed amendment to the state constitution authored by State Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, which will authorize the programs called for by SB 1263;

--SJR 41 by Montford another proposed constitutional amendment whose passage will make possible the loan program to be established by SB 1309; and

--SJR 42, a constitutional amendment by State Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, which authorizes the bond guarantee program established by SB 1236.

Should the Legislature approve them, the three constitutional amendments are to be submitted to the voters for their approval at the November, 1984, general election.

"The fact that this package benefits every area of the state is clearly demonstrated by the fact that the senators who authored parts of it come from every end of the state," Santiesteban said. "For example, while I come from as far West in Texas as you can go, Howard is from our farthest East point, Parker is from the Gulf Coast and Sarpalius represents the upper Panhandle. This shows that this plan, unlike some of the past proposals, offers solutions to every section's problems, not just to those of one area of the state."

NEW EATERY IN TOWN-A fish and chicken fast food service is currently being built on American Boulevard in the previous location of Puckett and Clark Trucking. Groundwork is now being laid and construction should be completed in the not too distant future.

Program To Feature Visual Evaluation Of Steers

The Steer Evaluation and Production Symposium at Texas A&M University May 20-21 is designed to teach youth how to evaluate steers through the eyes of the show judge.

Carcass traits along with performance characteristics are the principles that a successful judge uses in selecting steers in the show ring, says Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Accurate visual appraisal of market steers requires a thorough understanding of the factors affecting carcass quality and composition. Carcasses are the primary unit of trade in the meat industry, so a great deal of importance is placed on them in evaluating market steers. In essence, carcass value (dressing percentage, weight, quality and cutability) determines what a meat buyer would be willing to pay for live steers.

Differences in body composition as they relate to visual evaluation of market steers will be demonstrated at the symposium, says Tanksley. Dr. Dennis Stiffler, Extension meats specialist and others in Texas A&M's Department of Animal Science, will show this by "freezing" steers of different composition. Sections will be cut away from the "frozen" steers to demonstrate differences in fatness (amount and distributions) and muscling (size of ribeye and thickness of quarter).

Indicators of quality and composition are related to the relative amount and distribution of fat, muscle and bone, explains Tanksley. Fat is the most variable tissue and has the greatest impact on percentage yield of retail product. Some fat is necessary for an acceptable level of quality, but excess fat must be trimmed away and is costly to the industry. Muscle reflects the amount of saleable product while bone -- structure, soundness and type -- is functionally important and fundamental to optimum production efficiency.

Most individuals have trouble relating the live steer to its carcass, says Tanksley, and the symposium is designed to help in this effort. Use of "frozen" steers and carcasses will make it easier for individuals to identify differences in muscle and fat and to associate these differences to those of the live steer.

For further information on the steer clinic and registration forms, contact the county Extension agent's office.

Annual Wheat Field Day Scheduled Soon

The Annual Wheat Field Day at the USDA Conservation and Production Research Laboratory at Bushland will be held at 1:00 p.m. on May 26, according to Dr. Paul Unger, Acting Director. "Everybody is invited to see the latest research on profitable production of wheat," Unger said.

In addition to observing the small grain plots, visitors will be shown research projects on cropping systems, weed control, irrigation, limited tillage, and wind energy. Latest methods of spray application will be discussed.

All arrangements for the event will be under the direction of Dr. Kenneth Porter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Small Grain Breeder. Speakers at the various stops on the tour will include Dr. Frank Petr, Area Agronomist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service; and Dr. David Worrall and Gary Peterson, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Wheat Researchers from Vernon and Bushland.

Dr. Porter said "Since releasing TAM 105 wheat three years ago, we have been developing new wheat lines that have even better yield potential." "This will be the first opportunity for people to view the new wheats," he concluded.

New St. Augustine Grass Available

Texas homeowners can now select a new, semi-dwarf variety of St. Augustine grass for their lawns. The new St. Augustine grass is called "Seville," says Dr. Richard Duble, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. It is a patented variety of St. Augustine grass produced by Pursley Turf Farms of Palmetto, Fla., and is sold through Texas nurseries and garden centers as rooted plugs in plastic trays.

"Seville is resistant to St. Augustin Decline virus, moderately shade tolerant, medium textured and as cold tolerant as other St. Augustine varieties," Duble points out. "But unlike Floratam, Seville is susceptible to chinch bugs, an insect that damages many St. Augustine lawns each year."

Seville's semi-dwarf character makes it one of the best looking varieties of St. Augustine, says Duble. However, the grass develops a dense turf that is subject to heavy thatch accumulation. This can be prevented with weekly mowing at a height of 1 1/2 inches and avoiding excessive nitrogen fertilization. The specialist recommends no more than 3 to 4 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet per year. With weekly mowing, grass clippings need not be removed.

"Seville also is more susceptible to Downy mildew, a fungus disease that can severely discolor and stunt St. Augustine grass," notes Duble. "Downy mildew has severely thinned stands of St. Augustine grass in many Texas lawns."

Seville, like other St. Augustine grasses, is susceptible to iron chlorosis, a problem which can be corrected temporarily with several applications of iron sulfate or iron chelate.

Cattle Theft Bust Accounts For 447 Head

Kansas in 1965, has given TSCRA field inspectors a voluntary statement admitting the string of cattle thefts. The stolen cattle not already sold were found on seven pastures leased by Marlow in the Clarksville, Ark., area.

King said many of the cattle, some held as long as two and one-half years, were branded, but the brands were altered. TSCRA field inspectors were able to identify the cattle by rechecking the brands. The cattle came from 22 counties in the four states.

Thus far, the inspectors have cleared cattle 26 theft cases, based on information supplied by the suspects.

According to the suspects, many of the cattle were sold in Arkansas and may have been slaughtered.

No market value has been set for the total loss, but it could exceed $150,000 easily, based on an average market value of $375 per head.

Investigating officers included TSCRA Field Inspectors Paul Wade of Antlers, Okla.; Duane Cates of Canadian, Tex.; Kelly Rushing of Pampa, Tex.; Eddie Foreman of Hewitt, Tex.; Johnson County, Ark., Sheriff Elton Brown; Polk County, Ark., Sheriff Frank Reynolds; Benton County, Ark., Sheriff Don Ransom; Beckham County, Okla., Deputy Sheriff Bill McMinn and Wheeler County, Tex., Constable Jerry Bob Jernigan.

In my more than 20 years of livestock law enforcement, I can't remember another case involving the theft of so many cattle in this short period of time," he said. "Our inspectors, along with Johnson County, Ark., Sheriff Elton D. Brown, already have identified and recovered more than 135 head of cattle stolen as far back as August 1980. This effort, on behalf of cattlemen in these four states, could not have been done without the close coordination, cooperation and investigative skills of all officers concerned."

Marlow, a cattleman and professional calf roper convicted of livestock theft in Oklahoma in 1954 and in

When Lee and Ella Dunbar moved to Muleshoe on June 30, 1960, they had no idea that they would eventually own a highly successful western wear store here.

Dunbar moved here with Swift & Co., a company he was associated with for 22 and one half years. He moved to Muleshoe as feedlot manager for Swift. However, Swift & Co. ceased operations on April 1, 1977, and Dunbar and his wife opened up Lee's Western Wear on June 27, 1977.

Before going to work in the family business, Ella Dunbar worked as secretary at the former Richland Hills Elementary School for more than nine years.

The Dunbars say they are proud to be a part of Muleshoe, and to have reared their three daughters here. Their daughters are Debbie, a nursing student, one year away from being an RN. She works at Mary Lanning Hospital at Hastings, Neb.; Fran (Hamilton) who lives in Muleshoe and works in the family store; and Sandy, a junior at North Texas State University at Denton.

The Dunbars invite all their many friends to come by to visit and check out the specials they usually are featuring at Lee's Western Wear.
