A new disease has resulted in numerous reports of death in cattle in Texas recently, according to the Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory. The disease, commonly called emphysema of the lungs, is also known as atypical pneumonia, panthers, and interstitial pneumonia among other names. Dr. Percy Turner, veterinarian, said there had been several cases in the Water Valley area.

The disease is very similar to the condition in humans, usually attributed to smoking but the disease in cattle has nothing to do with smoking or air pollution. According to Dr. W.L. Sippel, director of the Diagnostic Laboratory, it is thought to be caused by an allergic reaction to something the animals are eating. The lungs are the target organ for allergic reactions, or manifestations, in cattle. Most of the current cases are associated with the high protein content of young Bermuda grass; this has been true in the Water Valley area according to Dr. Turner.

Cattle have been on the pastures from 2 to 14 days when the first animals are affected. Five to 50 percent of a herd can be stricken. Deaths can be rapid or chronic cases may develop; up to 50% of those affected may die.

One of the major symptoms of the disease is unusually fast breathing or breathing with difficulty. Such animals should be removed immediately and a veterinarian consulted. If found soon enough, they can treat the animal with drugs.

Where cattle are being run on Bermuda grass pastures, they should be held off until the grass matures and then returned to the field for short intervals only. Another alternative is to feed hay prior to allowing the animals to graze.

Using pesticides on animals which have been formulated for plants can be dangerous. Although the same material may be used in some cases for animals and plants, the concentration and chemical formulation may be vastly different. If manufactured specifically for plant use, the material may contain solvents that speed up absorption by animals and results in poisoning.

Always follow the label directions on pesticide containers. Keep the material stored in the original container so label is available. The old saying, "When all else fails, read the directions", is particularly true in the use of all pesticides.

There were 1,683,000 head of cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in Texas on June 1 according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This is 30% above a year ago and establishes a new record for cattle on feed in the state.

Texas ranked second in the U.S. with that number; Iowa ranked first with 1,766,000 head on feed and Nebraska third with 1,239,000. The number in Iowa is 12% below a year ago while Nebraska's total is 1% above a year ago.

Congratulations to J. K. Martin and Foster S. Price on their showing in the first feeder calf show-sale in San

LIONS CRIPPLED CHILDRENS' CAMP

Members of Lions Clubs throughout Texas this month are pausing to pay recognition to their camp for crippled children which has given over 12 thousand handicapped youngsters a new dimension since it was opened in 1953.

The camp, located at Kerrville in the Hill Country of Central Texas, is free to crippled, blind, deaf or mute children from the ages of seven through sixteen. The 17 permanent buildings and other improvements dotting the 504-hill-side acres represent an investment of more than $700,000.

At the camp, these youngsters who have been denied a normal childhood through no fault of their own learn to shed their shyness imposed by their handicaps. By mutual association with other handicapped children and by skillful and gentle counseling, these youngsters have found the freedom to grow, mentally and spiritually, into useful citizens of tomorrow.

Water Can Be Tested for Salinity

The school now has the chemicals on hand to test well water for salinity — salt water content. So says Fred Igo, local vocational agricultural teacher. If landowners want to keep a check on the salt content of their water wells, they can bring a sample in for testing. Cost of the test is only 50c, which will defray cost of the chemicals used, said Igo.

Burleson Trying to Help Rural Drivers

Washington, D. C. —Congressman Omar Burleson today announced that the Department of Transportation has indicated its intention to revise its commercial vehicle driver qualification regulations insofar as they apply to drivers of certain vehicles controlled and operated by farmers. This action followed consultations and study within the Department of Agriculture with farm group representatives and other interested parties.

Congressman Burleson stated that the Department's Federal Highway Administration found that the seasonal and intermittent nature of interstate farm operations; the general short range of the majority of farm trips; and the lower incidence of exposure of farm vehicles to highway collision risks support revision of the regulations.

"As one who has protested vehemently the restrictions on farm vehicles, and who has introduced legislation to correct this inequity," Burleson said, "this action is step in the right direction."

He stated that the Department's revision will cover a proposed exemption from the new driver qualification rules for all drivers of farm vehicles under 10,000 pounds gross vehicle weight, a lowering of the minimum age to 18 for drivers of farmer-controlled and operated vehicles, and selected exemptions from some other requirements. The agency also will consider a 150-mile radius exemption for single vehicles (nonarticulated and limited exemptions for the larger and heavier multiple-unit (articulated) types of farm vehicles. There is also a general exemption proposed for drivers of vehicles used in custom combine harvesting operations.

"Frankly," Burleson said, "I do not think the Federal Government has any business regulating farm vehicles at all. State provisions should be sufficient and I continue to feel there should be complete exemption for farm vehicles."

For Social Security

Social security benefits were being paid to residents of Sterling County at a rate of $14,000 a month at the close of 1970, J. M. Talbot, social security manager, said today.

A benefit increase signed into law by President Nixon on March 17 raises the monthly rate of payment by 10 percent for most of the 168 social security beneficiaries in Sterling County, Mr. Talbot added. A small number of beneficiaries over age 72 who are not receiving social security cash benefits will get a 5 percent increase.

The increased benefit amounts were made effective back to January 1, 1971. First checks in the new monthly rate reached beneficiaries on June 3, Mr. Talbot said. Separate checks representing the amount of the increase for the months of Jan. through April were mailed later in June.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Sterling County, 113 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 37 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 14 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Mr. Talbot pointed out that although most social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60. In Texas, 1,276, 977 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments each month. Nearly 194,000 are under age 18, receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits. Most of the 32,934 beneficiaries in Texas between 18 and 22 years of age are getting students' benefits under a provision in the social security law permitting the continuation of a child's benefits beyond his 18th birthday, and up to age 22, if the child is attending school full-time and is unmarried.

Also in this 18-22 age group, Mr. Talbot said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that the social security program provides workers of all ages. A number are children of retired, disabled or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting. The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Benefits are also payable to their mothers if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care.

Mr. Talbot said that another relatively small or significant group of youthful security beneficiaries are those receiving benefits as disabled workers. Social security disability payments can be paid to a person who becomes disabled for work even if he has less than 5 years of work under social security. As little as 1½ years of work is required in the case of a worker who becomes disabled before age 24, Mr. Talbot said.

For more information, contact the Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, Texas, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo at 949-4608.
