ARTHUR BARLEMANN, JR. COUNTY AGENT

The pecan nut casebearer situation which has been somewhat muddled with the erratic hot days and cool nights cleared up some on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. We have been checking the tip ends of the nuts for several days and found one egg on Tuesday afternoon and two more Wednesday morning on trees in the John Brock orchard. Checks of a number of trees in other parts of town did not turn up any eggs. But, if they are present one place, they more than likely are present at other places as well.

With this as a guide, it is likely that the best time to spray will be this weekend—Saturday or Sunday—or the beginning of next week, Monday at the latest. The eggs we found were clear indicating that they had just been deposited. They turn to a dirty brown in a day or two and usually hatch in four to five days, again depending on the weather.

A spray mixture that has given good results here is made up of two pounds of Sevin, one and one-fourth pints of malathion (the 55% liquid), and two pounds of zinc sulfate in one hundred gallons of water. For five gallon mixtures, use four tablespoons of Sevin, three tablespoons of malathion, and five tablespoons of zinc sulfate. The use of Sevin and Malathion gives a quick knockdown plus a longer residual effect on the casebearer while the zinc sulfate is recommended for the control of rosette, a nutritional deficiency here.

Because of the weather conditions, the casebearer may be emerging over a longer than normal period of time. To take care of this situation, a second spraying will probably be necessary in seven to ten days. Use the same insecticides as the first spray recommended above but omit the zinc sulfate the second time.

The casebearer eggs hatch in about 4 to 5 days, fed on the buds below the nuts for a day or two, then move back up to the nuts and enter the nut. Once it has entered the nut, control is impossible.

Commercial concerns treating trees for the casebearer will more than likely use an insecticide other than sevin and malathion. Guthion, thiodan, zolone, or some other insecticide more than likely will be used.

Sterling County marked up its first confirmed case of screw-worms on Wednesday, the 19th, when a sample taken from a dehorning wound in cattle by Billy Ralph Bynum was identified at the Mission laboratory. The area was scheduled by the hotspotted with sterile flies dropped by air on Monday of this week. The air-drop method is the only one being used this year, the ground release of sterile flies having been discontinued last summer.

The confirmed case at Billy Ralph's pretty well blocks out a large area in this section of the state having had confirmed cases of screwworms. Coke, Tom Green, Glasscock, Irion, Runnels, Concho, Schleicher, Crockett and Reagan have all had confirmed cases, plus a number of other counties in the area.

Check your stock, take samples, and treat all suspected cases. Collection vials and mailing

Behind the 8-Ball

By the editor.

Yes, Virginia, there is a runoff primary on June 5!

Believe it or not, there will be a state-wide runoff primary by Democrats on June 5.

All boxes will be combined in one and the voting here will all be at the courthouse. O. T. Jones is precinct chairman and election judge at the box.

Jon Newton and Jerry Sadler face each other in a runoff in the race for Railroad Commissioner.

For Judge of Court of Criminal Appeals, unexpired term, W.T. Phillips and Carl Dally are listed.

With no local or district contests, the county chairman, Jack Douthit, does not look for a very good turnout of voters. He does urge all Democrats to go to the polls and vote. The office of Railroad Commissioner is a very important one, and has a lot to do with the oil and gas regulations.

'If your check is lost or stolen, get in touch with your nearest social security office at once,' a spokesman said. 'The check can be replaced, but it takes time. Handle your check carefully when you get it and you won't have to wait while it's being replaced.'

Social security pays over $4 billion a month in benefit checks to almost 29 million people—eligible retired and disabled workers and their families and families of deceased workers who worked long enough under social security.

FHA SECRETS GRAND PARENTS TEA

On April 13, 1976 the Sterling City Chapter Future Homemakers of America gave a tea for their Secret Grandparents. This was to enable the Secret Grandparents to find out who their Secret-Granddaughters were since they did not know.

The decorations used were the Bicentennial decorations that were used at the Spring Banquet. The FHA girls prepared cookies, brownies and punch for refreshments. They took time to arrange the tables to enable the elder people to watch while the girls entertained.

The party began at 3:30 in the school cafeteria, with a welcoming of all the Secret-Grandparents. The FHA girls served refreshments and visited until the entertainment began. They exchanged gifts and seemed to enjoy every minute of it.

For entertainment, Mrs. Terry played the piano as the FHA girls sang oldies-but-goodies. They Baby Face, Bicycle Built for Two, When You and I were Young Maggie, Battle Hymn of the Republic and When Johnny Comes Marching Home.

Tricia Jordan, a sophomore, danced the Charleston as Mrs. Terry played 5' 2. These songs everyone enjoyed singing and listening to.

The Homemakers are proud of their new cookware, and felt it would be a good idea to show it to the Secret-Grandparents.

The FHA girls also felt about the old people at the rest home and felt like it was a good idea to go and entertain and serve refreshments while they were still in the spirit. At the nursing home they sang and served refreshments. They were asked to return.

The FHA girls would like to thank all the Secret-Grandparents for their time they spent in writing and to each one for the gifts. Also, they would like to thank Mrs. Terry for sharing some of her time in playing the piano for us. Of course, we could not have done it without Mrs. Demere's help in the absence of Mrs. Barton. Thanks to everyone for their help and cooperation.

NEWS OF ECOLOGY

ALUMINUM STRETCHES ENERGY RESOURCES

Now that pollution clean-up is underway, environmental concern seems to be shifting to energy supply. Some ecologists worry about America's accelerating use of fuels—coal, oil, gas and uranium.

These basic sources of energy, burned directly or transformed into electricity, propel all vehicles, heat and cool our homes, run appliances, cook and refrigerate foods and power our industries.

The use of aluminum, an environmentally thrifty metal, stretches fuels and energy, the people at Reynolds Aluminum point out.

"Aluminum does not deteriorate and is easily recycled with little expenditure of energy," said Dr. Robert F. Testin, director of environmental planning for Reynolds. "That makes it an energy bank that can be drawn upon again and again. When long-lasting aluminum products are finally discarded, melting them down for refashioning into new products takes less than 5 per cent of the energy used to make the aluminum originally."

Because it is so light—only one-third the weight of steel, copper or brass—aluminum provides a greater quantity of material per ton. "This phenomenon stretches the energy used in making aluminum products, as a ton of aluminum yields two to three times more items than are obtained from a ton of other materials," according to Dr. Earl E. Patterson, who heads up Reynolds metallurgical research.

An example of Dr. Patterson's point is beer and soft drink containers. A ton of steel produces 15,400 steel cans, and a ton of glass makes 5,000 bottles, but a ton of aluminum results in 32,680 all-aluminum cans.

An article in the Reynolds magazine reveals many other ways aluminum conserves energy.

Transportation of all kinds consumes 30 per cent of America's energy supply. The light metal cuts fuel consumption in all kinds of vehicles—aluminum highway trucks, automobiles with their aluminum parts, aluminum railroad cars, aluminum boats and ships with aluminum superstructures. The 1973 autos average about 78 pounds of aluminum per car.

In heating and air conditioning, which take 27 per cent of the energy supply, aluminum insulation and ducts, because of their high heat reflectivity, cut fuel consumption.

Durable aluminum siding, windows and other construction items greatly reduce use of resources and energy in maintenance, repair and replacement. The article points out that aluminum will not rot or warp, and is immune to red rust, mildew and termites.

In cooking, the rapid heat conductivity of aluminum pots and pans—six times faster than steel, for example—conserves electricity and gas. In the refrigerator, foods in aluminum foil chill or freeze quicker than when wrapped in paper or plastic film, saving electricity.

The public depends on aluminum electrical cable for low-cost delivery of electricity to the home. Replacing expensive copper, aluminum cable has lowered everybody's electrical bills.

Doctor, looking over his patient's X-rays: "Between the big, happy family at your office and the big, happy family at home, you've got an ulcer."

Spotlight on HEALTH

PROFILE OF A COLD VICTIM

What are your chances of catching cold? According to a booklet on the subject, they're especially good if you're female, live in a large city in the western or north-eastern part of the U.S., and are the mother of a child under 6 years of age. Young children are the greatest cold-spreaders. Your chances are further enhanced if you're going through a period of stress and strain. "Contentment preserves one even from catching a cold," the great philosopher, Nietzsche once said.

The booklet, which discusses the common cold, is distributed by Winthrop Laboratories, the makers of Neo-Synephrine nose drops and nasal spray that are widely used in the U.S. and abroad.

Keeping up one's resistance helps to avoid the common cold, according to the publication, which advises getting sufficient fresh air and exercise, well-balanced meals, and as much sleep as possible in a well-ventilated bedroom. In cold weather areas, an extra hour a night is recommended.

Early stages of the common cold are the most contagious. Every sneeze fills the air with thousands of virus-laden drops. To help prevent spreading a cold to the rest of the family, to friends and to co-workers, everyone should have his own glass, cup, silverware and towels. Hands should be washed thoroughly and often, preferably with a liquid antibacterial skin cleanser. pHisoHex is the one that is used in most U.S. hospitals to help prevent spread of infections. Particularly during the cold season, it is wise to keep a handwashing preparation in the kitchen, as well as in the bathroom.

Your chances of catching a cold will be reduced if precautions are taken. However, the Winthrop booklet also states that it is not completely possible to avoid a cold. Just breathing the air that someone with a cold has merely talked into offers the possibility of infecting a healthy person.
