"Private—Should your man flowell be so far sheaf Friday night or expensity Saturday morning as to make it impossible for him to lose you cannot be too, watchtul, as there as a party contemplating some dirty work to prevent your man from winning. If an attempt is made, it will be done around where the grotto is situated, or else on the south side of the building near the secon entrance. There is where they are likely to be, on the north or the west sides. The game little fellow, Rowell, has nothing to fear; depend upon it. Bir, the information is true, and I assure you you cannot have too many policemen in the localities above manifoned. Wishing, you all success, and knowing the little fellow cannot be best if he has easy fair play. [Signed]

Police were stationed around the track to prevent interference with the pedestrians. The force is to be strengthened by night. Rowell has subsided into a quiet, steady walk, and has not broken into a run to-day. Ennis walks well and is making good time on every minute. Fashion Notes,

MILLINERY. Bonnets are still worn very small, and nearly all have strings intended to the under the chin. The shapes are as varied as ever. A great favorite is the close-litting velvet bonnet, draped with a mantilla sear of lose, which is fastened upon the top of the bonnet with a bunch of flowers, and tied under, the chin. In garutture feathers are still more fashionable than flowers on bonnets. On hats the feather is considered the more stylish. Large quantities of bead work and embroiders are now used, especially upon imported millinery. The imported hats are either very large or simply caps.

imported millinery. The imported hats are cities very large or simply caps.

The small morning caps, which are now so popular, are decidedly coquettish, pretty and becoming. A foulard handkerchief is the foundation necessary for these. The handkerchief is prettily twisted, tacked on a narrow strip of folded net, a low added, and the arrangement is complete. There is a variety of handkurchiefs, with black or bronze ground, and a border of brilliant colors, that is most effective for this purpose. Ladies frequently essay the manufacture of these caps themselves, but in needs a practiced hand to give the necessary tournare, and the result of home attempt is rarely satisfactory.

 Judge D. O. Robinson was chosen permanent chairman, and Charies E. Bartlett, secretary, the organization being effected by simple motion, and not by the usual custom of appointing a committee for this purpose.

 James M. Rokford moved that a committee of twelve persons be appointed on credentials. Seconded.

 George E. Dashiell moved to amend by making the committee consist of one delegate from each of the precincts represented, and that the different delegations select their own member.

 George W. Caldwell thought Mr. Eckford's position was an unusual one, and held that the country precincts cought to have a general representation.

 The question was put, and a vote by acclamation taken, but being close a division was called for, and Mr. Dashiell's substitute was lost by 28 to 24.

 Mr. Eckford's motion was then put and carried, and in accordance therewith the chair appointed the following as said committee. W. W. Herron, W. R. Storey, P. G. Bowman, H. L. Berg, A. Vidal, Jack Harris, A. I. Lockwood, Theodore Felix, S. Cayce, R. Cunningham, J. M. Eckford, and J. R. Mason.

 The report was adopted.

 Mr. Dashiell moved that the same committee fix the basis of representation to which each precinct is entitled.

 Mr. Eckford wanted the basis of the last county convention adopted.

 Mr. Dashiell reminded the gentleman that there had been an election since that time which changed the basis.

 Mr. Williamson moved that a committee of seven be appointed by the chair on basis of representation and organization.

 Mr. Pauly made the point of order that the convention had already declared itself organized, which was well taken.

 Mr. Eckford then withdrew his former motion, and moved that a committee of seven be appointed to fix the basis of representation. Beconded.

 Capt. Storey moved that a committee of seven be appointed to estent fifty delegates to the congressional convention.

 Mr. Ocoke moved to amend by appointing one from each precinct to relect said delegates. He wanted the country properly represented, as a matter of right and justice. He had heard mutterings from the country delegates present as to the manner in which they had been treated by the convention.

 Mr. Deablell thought there had been fun and speaking enough, and begged the convention to go to business, complete its labors and adjourn.

 Mr. Ocoke was asked to withdraw his amendment, but refused to do so.

 A vote on Cocke's amendment was then taken by precincts, and it was defeated by a vote of 37; to 11s.

- Beard on the Boys.

 Several school boys address us a communication complaining of being denied the privilege not only of playing in Travis park, but the adjacent streets as well, and don't think it's treating them rightly to be thus restrictive of their pleasures. Travis park is hardly intended for a play ground, boys, much less public thoroughfares through which people are constantly passing both in vehicles and on toot. It is unfortunate that your school-room is not near some levely common, or that it has not a large yard attached to it. It seems hard to restrain your innocent pleasures, but the old saying that "boys will be boys" is sure to prove true some time or another as your school days fly by—it will be practically demonstrated by some act or word. You may throw a stone, or frighten somebody's horse, while playing in the street, and be the cause of an accident. By playing in the park, you set a precedent for all the boys of the town. It is as much their park as yours. So to take care of it, the "peelers" are given strict rules to go by, as they are also in the case of playing in the street. You occupy the same position, boys, in not having a play ground, that the man in want does to the millionaire, and you'll have to grin and bear it. Hard on the Boys. As the time for the meeting of the conven-tion approaches, a good deal of interest is manifested. A number of delegates from this place will be on hand, and there will be a decided split as to the interpretation of the instructing resolutions. the instructing resolutions.

 The Quill made its appearance Thursday, and was welcomed with evident pleasure by our citizens. The first issue was a very large one, great numbers being distributed grainitously. The prospects for its success are favorable in the extreme, as there is already liberal patronage shown in advertisements and a good, large subscription list. Mr. Costing, the editor, says he will spare no pains nor means to have it placed in every family in Medina and western counties. Such a paper is just what is needed west of San Antonia.

A gentleman who arrived from Wilson county yesterday afternoon, has given our reporter, in brief, the only report yet received of the proceedings of the meeting held at Floresville on Friday last, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the congressional convention. The convention was called as a mass meeting, and what he terms a "fair turnout" were present—that is to say, about sixty-five or seventy voters. He says the meeting was organized in the usual manner and was attended by rather unusual exciteturnout" were present—that is to say, about sixty-five or seventy voters. He says the meeting was organized in the usual manner and was attended by rather unusual excitement. The committee appointed to draft resolutions, etc., reported a resolution endorsing the political views, honesty, patriotism and integrity of Hon. John Ireland, and instructing 'the delegates to support that gentleman in case his name came before the convention as a candidate for the nomination. A heated discussion followed and the report of the committee was adopted. A division being called for, the minority withdrew from the convention. In the afternoon another meeting was held, and regular proceedings had, in which the reasons for the setion of the minority were set forth—among other things, charging that the chairman of the first meeting was a greenbacker, and that others than democrats participated. He reports the first meeting as having appointed four delegates and four alternates, the names of whom he did not remember, except those of S. W. Anderson, Esq., of Sutherland Springs, who was chairman of the meeting, R. C. Houston, sheriff, and D. P. Thompson, Esq., and R. F. Ballard, Esq., as among the siteranta. The succeeding meeting appointed a large number of delegrates from different portions of the country, and both delegations will probably seek admission to the convention. The commanding officer Post of San Antonio, Texas, will direct Corporal Simon Turner, and Privates Russell Harris, and Jacob Walkins, Co. B, 10th cavalry, to report to Captain E. B. - Why is it that all the "Game and colindrige occasionally in a "chee. No glass" when they strike the Alamo plans and feel "discouraged" make a "bee line" for look-wood's? Why is it that the "stranger" who is fortunate enough when he arrives in town to find the "lold man's place" never fails to call again? Why is it that the "cold timer" and the "new comes" both tell their friends, "if you want a drink of good whisky or pure imported brandy, Lookwood's is the place to get it?" It is because for more than a decade "Lookwood" has kept only "straight goods," pure two-stamp whiskies. Because he keeps those celebrated Kentucky brands, the "Old Grow" and the "Hormitage" whiskies, manufactured in Woodford and Franklin counties, Kentucky. Because the whisky sold over Lookwood's counter is just as it comes from the warshouse, pure and unadulterated. Because the "lold man" is here "to stay," and depends on his reputation for keeping "straight goods" to maure him a steady and growing patronage among those who indulgs in and appreciate a drink of pure whisky. These are some of the reasons why "Lookwood's" is becoming more and more popular every day. For nearly fifteen years he has served the public at his old stand on the Alamo plaze, and in the future, as in the past, none but the best brands of domestic and imported liquors will be found at his bar. Call and investigate.
