Company F, of the 10th cavalry, was in the field at daylight August 12th. They found an Indian Irail yesterday afternoon about twenty-five miles west of my camp, at direrson's Springs, the trail coming from the north, and followed it until dark. There are about twelve horses on the trail, and the general direction taken thus far is south. I am now in the upper valley of Devil's river. A party of rangers and citizens, seven in number, got on the trail in the rear not far from where I found it, and pushed forward and joined my command. John Armor and Austin Brown, the latter colored, charged with rolbing the U. 5, mail in transitu between Uraide and Fort Clark, on July 11th, last, were before U. 8.
