PHYSICIAN SAID ECZEMA CAME FROM TEETHING

"When my little girl was about eight months old, she was taken with a very irritating breaking out, which came on her face, neck and back. When she first came down with it, it came in little watery-like festers under her eyes, and on her chin, then after a few days it would dry down in scaly, white scabs. In the daytime she was quite worrysome and would dig and scratch her face nearly all the time. "I consulted our physician and found she was suffering from eczema, which he said came from her teething. I used the cintment he gave me and without any relief at all. Then I wrote for a book on Cuticura and purchased some Cuticura Soap and Ointment at the drug store. I did as I found directions in the Cuticura Booklet, and when she was one year old, she was entirely cured. Now she is three years and four months, and she has never been troubled with eczema since she was cured by the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." DRY FARMING POINTS

Potatoes Are Good Crop for Rotating With Grain.

System of Rotation Will Produce Four Crops in Five Years-Land Must Be Handled at Right Time and Not Neglected.

The climate has not changed, nor continue to do so. And why is he changing? Because there are so many devoting their lives to finding out facts and giving them to the human race in a concrete form.

Men like King, Campbell and Hilgard and others, too numerous to mention, have practically devoted their lives to the building of a new agriculture. But for such men as these, we would not be tilling the deserts of the west and making paying crops in years like the present one. Campbell, the great apostle of dry farming, is the first man that ever gave us a complete set of rules for dry farming, and the writer wishes to state that anyone who will take his book on dry farming and apply the rules laid down by him, will succeed, writes Norman E. Holden, in the Scientific Farmer. Of course, there are always local conditions that will modify them.

One of Professor Campbell's rules is to always summer till and have two season's moisture for one crop. The writer has found that system of rotating will produce four crops in five years, but in rotating one must be equipped to handle the land at the right time and not neglect it. If one intends rotating, if it is a grain crop, the disk should follow immediately behind the harvester. This should be not absolutely necessary as when a year. After the disking, the land should be plowed, packed and harrowed. The following spring it should be double disked and harrowed sufficiently to make a good seed bed.

Potatoes are a good crop to plant for rotating with grain. One should plant an intertilled crop after grain. tells how you can | Canadian field peas are a good crop if they are planted in rows and cultivated. Corn is another and, where it can be grown, is probably the best. Here is a good rotation for one starting on sod: First year, plant small grain (preferably winter wheat or rye); second year, the same, then summer till the ground; next crop, potatoes, then Durum wheat. Of course this rotation proposition must be carefully looked into and if there is not sufficient moisture in the ground to warrant a crop, it is better to summer till. The moisture in the ground can be ascertained by taking samples as far down as the moisture goes and weighing the same. Place the damp soil in an oven after it has been weighed, dry it, and weigh again. This will give the amount of moisture. It is not advisable to crop unless there is at least four inches of water stored. Another, and one of the most important of all conditions to be understood, is that the more ideal conditions of the soil for plant life, the less moisture it will take to grow the crop.

That the year 1910 has demonstrater that dry farming is not a myth, is evidenced by the results obtained. inches of rainfall. The history of dry farming in Beaverhead county has been a course in which something of real merit had all would be soaked in from the snow those forces to contend with that have during an ordinary winter. It must their origin in self-interest, lack of be remembered that there is considknowledge, etc. However, this season erable difference in the moisture as has proven to the most skeptical that it falls as snow, and as it sinks into dry farming is something real, a line the ground. TREES CONSERVE SOIL WATER

Windbreaks Prevent Excessive Evaporation in Dry Land Areas-Good on the Plains.

A hedge fifteen to eighteen feet high will lessen the evaporation of soil moisture in its vicinity. On the leeward side the evaporation of moisture is lessened to a considerable distance from the hedge and close up to the windbreak on the windward side. . The influence of the hedge on the evaporation of soil moisture depends upon the humidity, temperature, velocity of the wind, and kind and condition of the soil. At a distance of 200 feet from will it change, but man has and will the leeward side of the hedge this influence falls off, but not rapidly. On the windward side the loss from evaporation is less at 50 feet than at 200 or 300 feet and lowest at 100 feet, probably due to the checking of the wind on approaching the hedge. The hedge has a greater influence in retaining soil moisture in fine, sandy loam than in silt loam, but not at such a great distance from the hedge.

These facts were brought out in an experiment carried on in 1910 by Wilbur Zacharias, a senior in the Kansas Agricultural college. This experiment was continued from October 11 to November 22, or a period of 41 days. Observations were taken and cylinders of soil weighed every 24

The windbreak in this experiment was an Osage orange hedge on the college farm. Mr. Zacharias, who did the work for his thesis, gave the most careful attention to the test. The physics department of the college took temperature and wind velocity readings

From this experiment and other observations made by F. H. King of Wisconsin and R. A. Emerson of the University of Nebraska, it is to be inferred that hedges would be of great importance in the level plains region, where the hot, dry winds of the summer sweep across the prairies with a done with summer tillage, but it is high wind velocity, and the evaporation of moisture is excessive. This is crop is to be planted the following not so necessary in moist, humid climates, but hedges or any forest trees of sufficient height and planted thick enough seem to be an effective means of bringing about a solution of the conservation of soil moisture in the great plains region.

MOISTURE BY DISKING SAVE

Even Held That It Is Wise to Grow Weeds in Stubble Field to Aid in Catching Snows.

(By L. R. WALDRON, Superintendent Dickinson Experiment Station.) An objection offered to disking stubble land at a time of harvest is that the stubble is broken down to such an extent that the snow-holding power of the stubble is destroyed.

It may be that such practices are to be recommended in preference to disking the stubble land at the time of harvest, but certainly the latter practice has not been experimented with sufficiently in western North Dakota to admit of any definite ideas at the present time.

I doubt if any farmer has carried out really definite experiments to determine the value of disking stubble land at the time of harvest.

Some stubble land was disked at the experiment station in 1911 at time of harvest in comparison with some stubble land left undisked. A month later it was determined that the disking, and subsequent harrowing, conserved moisture to the extent of 1.57

This represents a great deal of water, and probably is as much as wet.

Rotation on Dry Farm.

A systematic plan of rotation is just as necessary for a dry ranch as on any irrigated land. Live stock demands forage and this must be furnished in the form of fodder or alfalfa. The practice of growing wheat and summer fallowing is a straight soil-robbing process and does not make well-rounded farming possible. In a few areas it has paid very well for a number of years, and doubtless will continue to do so for a brief Roup can be easily traced to damp period. HYDROPLANE MAN HAS CLOSE CALL

HUGH ROBINSON, the American aviator, had a narrow escape recently at Nice, France, when his hydroplane dived into the water. The planes of the machine were smashed, and Robinson was thrown into the sea, but was picked up by one of the many motor boats gathered to watch his flight over the French battleships into the Gulf of Juan.

Hasty Pudding Is a Dish That May Be Quickly Added to the Family Menu if Desired.

The arrival of unexpected guests sometimes obliges the hostess to add one or two hastily prepared dishes to the usual family dinner menu. Often it is the dessert that has to be concocted at a moment's notice. There is a recipe that may be made quickly and which requires only the ordinary ingredients to be found in every kitchen, Cut six slices of stale bread about a third of an inch thick. Many housekeepers do not know that there is a simple way to prevent potatoes from burning and sticking to the bottom of the pot. An inverted ple pan placed in the bottom of the pot avoids scorching potatoes. The water and empty space beneath the pan save the potatoes. This also makes the work of cleaning pots easier, as no adhering parts of potatoes are left to be scoured out.

> HARD TO DROP But Many Drop It.

A young Calif. wife talks about coffee:

"It was hard to drop Mocha and Java and give Postum a trial, but my nerves were so shattered that I was a nervous wreck and of course that means all kinds of ills.

"At first I thought bicycle riding caused it and I gave it up, but my condition remained unchanged. I did not want to acknowledge coffee caused the trouble for I was very fond of it.

"About that time a friend came to live with us, and I noticed that after he had been with us a week he would not drink his coffee any more. I asked him the reason. He replied, 'I have not had a headache since I left off drinking coffee, some months ago, till last week, when I began again, here at your table. I don't see how anyone can like coffee, anyway, after drinking Postum'!

"I said nothing, but at once ordered a package of Postum. That was five months ago, and we have drank no coffee since, except on two occasions when we had company, and the result each time was that my husband could not sleep, but lay awake and tossed and talked half the night. We were convinced that coffee caused his suffering, so we returned to Postum, convinced that the coffee was an enemy, instead of a friend, and he is troubled no more by insomnia.

"I, myself, have gained 8 pounds in weight, and my nerves have ceased to quiver. It seems so easy now to quit the old coffee that caused our aches and ills and take up Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek,

In No Country is the Sport So Well Beloved by Women as It Is In Ireland.

Hunting absorbs keen sportswomen in Ireland, and it is seldom that a frost drives the Irish follower to hounds from the countryside. Irish women are renowned for their fearless prowess in the hunting field, where the terrible obstacles to be negotiated call for nerves of steel, and it is neck or nothing in the distressful country, says the London Daily Graphic.

The fearsome stone walls, sometimes overgrown with turf and masking a brook, appal all but the stoutest hearts, and even the most hardened sportswoman is known to quail at the commencement of the hunting season, experiencing the sensation of the heart in the mouth when called upon to face the stiff going. She finds her nerve returning, however, after a day or so in the saddle.

The late empress of Austria used to hunt regularly in Ireland, where proved in every respect. her reckless and brilliant horsemanship is still spoken of. With the late Bay Middleton to give her a lead, she was always in the first fight and stuck at nothing. The famous happygo-lucky hospitality that marks the Irish temperament is exemplified in matters sporting, and open house is kept by those having accommodation in a good hunting district.

The Irish colleen will dance all night at a hunt ball and turn up at a distant meet as fresh as paint with- tion. out going to bed at all, full of life and spirit, with wit and repartee bubling like a font. The Irish country brings out all the dare devil Irish low cheeks fresh and rosy. nature, and there is little searching for gaps or gates when the blood of Irish horse and rider is up.

Ireland is not overrepresented in the matter of hunting, and Irish packs are not by any means numerous, and may be reckoned to number a couple of dozen. Some only possess quite a restricted number of couples, and but few hunt four or five days a week, though an occasional by-day may bring the total up. The Meath hunts five days a week and is one of the famous hunts of the United Kingdom, and the County Galway, the Blazers, has four days a week.

His Dreams Come True.

A number of interesting stories are told of F. F. Nicola, Pittsburg's most dazzling operator, by Isaac F. Marcosson in his article, "The Millionaire Yield of Pittsburg," in Munsey. One of them deals with the erection of his famous hostelry, says the writer.

"About 12 years ago Nicola built a million-dollar hotel in an out-of-theway corn-field. People thought he was insane. Now he has reared about it a whole civic center, which includes a memorial hall, an armory, and fine clubs, and will in time embrace the new University of Pittsburg. It was Mr. Nicola who vivified a string of decrepit railroad properties, and sold them to George J. Gould as the nucleus of the Pittsburg division of the Wabash system. He is a dreamer of indomitable will, and he has seen some of his big dreams come true."

Sailor Swam Fifteen Miles.

Alfred Schurman, a sailor on the British steamship Bentmore, made a remarkable record by swimming fifteen miles through the Gulf of Mexico to shore.

The Bentmore steamed from Port Arthur and was out fifteen miles in the gulf when Schurman, who was engaged at work on the railing, was pitched overboard by a lurch of the ship and was not missed by his shipmates. He struck out and after nearly seven hours in the water finally made shore.

It was a turbulent sea and Schurman was exhausted when picked up on the beach five miles from Port Arthur and sent to a hospital.

Astonished Husband.

De Wolfe Hopper tells a good story about the domestic unhappiness of another actor. The hero of the joke was a man who had married because the woman had much money, although no beauty. Naturally, after the wedding ceremony and the acquisition of the bride's financial resources, the husband was never very attentive to her.

Another member of the company in which the couple were appearing was, however, far more appreciative of the lady's charms, and proceeded to make love to her in an ardent but stealthy manner. Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.

Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time.

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."-Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA

New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities. I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything.

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicines are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. Gaston BLONDEAU, 1541 Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA.

Wauchula, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles.

"I got two bottles of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman. "I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. MATTIE HODNOT, Box 406, Wauchula, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA.

Martinsburg, W. Va .- "I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself. "I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. MARY A. HOCKENBERRY, 712 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA.
