Oil Sales Southeast Are Still Active

Major Companies Influenced By Performance of Gulf Oil Co.'s No. 1 In County, Texas.

Companies continue to lease acreage in south-eastern New Mexico being influenced by the remarkable performance of Gulf Oil Co.'s No. 1 in the county field.

According to the log the salt was encountered at the well from 2828 feet. This shows it to be deeper structurally than the discovery well which was drilled in the Winkler county field.

OIL BOOM PRICES

Evidently trying to profit by their past experience, the Pecos, Texas Chamber of Commerce, is advertising a uniform price on commodities to the oil men, who will come and share the hospitality of the town with the citizenship. We are reminded that the old timers here recall the oil rush which occurred in Pecos seven or eight years ago, when the streets were crowded with prospectors and sleeping quarters were at a premium, with cots selling for $2.00 and $3.00 per night.

It is a very difficult proposition to control prices when conditions get right, even when the best of organizations get behind a move of this kind. Human nature is the same everywhere and oil boom prices are likely to prevail in any town near an oil field, where crowded conditions make accommodations difficult to secure.

MOVING HILLS AND RIVERS

Ditching with dynamite to straighten a small stream or creek has become somewhat of a common practice among engineers, but it was an unusual thing to do when the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad changed the course of a river over one hundred feet wide. The railway company's engineers had to provide for sixty-six miles of tracks in their freight classification yards near Clifton Forge, Virginia. A hill and a river seemed to have the proposition blocked and so they dynamited the hill and put it on the level with the rest of the surrounding landscape. When that job was done they blasted a big riverbed through the new ground that they had leveled down and then turned the river around so that it would run through their ditch. That made the old space that was formerly occupied by the river available for the purposes of the railway yard. Of course they had to fill in the old river-bed—but a little thing like that was not at all disconcerting. They did it in a jiffy.

THE BANK DEPOSITS

Whether or not you believe bank deposits reflect the business conditions of the community, those who have been inclined to bemoan the general conditions here, should find a measure of consolation in the showing made by the Artesia banks at the last call made on March 31st. Deposits will run approximately $800,000, which represents a small loss over the same period of a year ago. It occurred to us that possibly those who had occasion to complain had never stopped to analyze the situation.

The difference between 22 and 25 cent cotton for 1925 and 10 and 14 cent cotton for 1926 on approximately the same production, 5000 bales should be easily figured. Likewise a proportionate loss was sustained on the hay crop during the two year period. Maybe we are poor calculators, but we just naturally came to the conclusion that the showings made by the local banks were rather remarkable.

To say the least, local conditions generally have been more stable during the past three or four years than at any period for the decade. And stable conditions restores confidence, which will in time lead to a normal growth and development.

NO COTTON DECREASE REPORTS INDICATE

There will be no general decrease in cotton acreage this year according to numerous reports which have come to the office of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Despite all efforts to bring about acreage reduction, the land is being put up for

NEW MEX. LIVESTOCK COMMENTS FOR APRIL 1

STATE SUMMARY—Ranges in many parts of the state getting dry, but in most localities sufficient moisture left to start grass. Precipitation light except in mountain sections. Ranges getting short, but cattle and sheep still in good condition. Abundant supply of cheap feed stuff. Winter losses very light. Prospects good for big calf and lamb crop. Many lambs contracted at 10c to 11c; few wool contracts at 25c and 30c.

The Cattle Sanitary Board report a movement of 38,884 head during January and February, compared with 41,091 moved during these two months last year. This is about a normal movement for this season of the year. Roosevelt county shipped 4,036; Otero 1,251; Quay 1,297; and Eddy 1,236. Over 8,000 head went to Texas; 1,261 to Kansas; 1,006 to Kansas City; 820 to Los Angeles; and 658 to Denver. 2,800 cattle were shipped into the state during February.

The movement of sheep is usually light at this season, but 13,000 head were moved in January and February. Apparently about half of these were lambs fed in the Pecos Valley.

NORTH CENTRAL—Taylor Springs: Still very dry. No loss. Cows $40 per ton. Few cattle. Lambs being contracted 10c; wool 26 1/2c. Dulce: Fine prospects for grazing season. Loss will be light this spring. Winter feed plentiful. Costilla: Plenty of feed. Heavy snows insure grass. No wool contracts. Cattle in good condition.

NORTHEAST—Roy: Very dry since August. Conditions not favorable. Feed getting short. No loss. Few lambs contracted 10c to 10 1/2c. Wagon Mound: Feed supply ample. No loss. Some lambs contracting 10c. Moisture good. No wool contract. Optimo: No losses. Very dry. Gascon: Plenty of forage. Cattle in excellent condition. Several wet snows fell in mountains this month. Spring ranges and farm plowing will be late. Pasamonte: Condition of county in general dry. Feed supply good. Very little loss of livestock. A little marketing of both cattle and sheep. Some lambs contracted 10c; wool 25c. Des Moines: Very dry. Plenty feed. Cows $50 to $55; yearling steers $35 to $40.

WEST CENTRAL—Aragon: No wool contracts. Datil: Very cold windy dry March, but some moisture left. No loss. Very little livestock contracted or sold. San Marcial: No loss. Feed light. Market fair, very few steers contracted. Tome: Winds drying out moisture needed for lambing time. Feed supply short. No loss. Good demand for all kinds of cattle. Lambs contracted 10 1/2c. San Fidel: Cold and cotton at about the normal rate, and in many cases, the acreage of cotton will show an increase according to these reports. The feeling seems to be general over the cotton section that there will be a big decrease in total acreage throughout the south this year. Hence the man who tills the soil figures that the general reduction is going to cause an advance in price, and that by slipping in a few extra acres he will benefit. In some communities, meetings have been held according to reports received. Local men in those places have talked about reducing acreage in order to scare the other fellow in other sections into reducing acreage, then to plant ten acres or so more and benefit by the coup that will be made.

The wet fields during February prevented many men planting spring oats as they had planned. Considerable acreage was planted to oats, but nothing like the acreage that had been anticipated. Field men report that this land is now being listed ready to plant to cotton. The only thing that can prevent the threatened increase is for the farmers to decide upon planting a tremendous acreage in maize, and this is considered unlikely because maize usually brings low cash prices on the market. In some sections farmers have found that by providing livestock to feed the maize to, they can realize more money from maize than from cotton, but the average farmer dislikes to wait for his profits after gathering the crop. He prefers a crop he can sell, and considers cotton the easiest crop to market. Hence the feeling that 1927 will see as great cotton acreage as was planted in 1926.—West Texas Today.

The substance of the above means that an increase in the price of cotton is very unlikely for the coming year, unless providence intervenes with a drought, or pestilence. Then a few may profit by the other fellow's misfortune.

In this connection the Santa Fe bulletin remarks:

In some quarters danger is seen in the unanimity in favor of a reduction. A few years ago a movement was started in Kansas to reduce the wheat acreage. Everybody talked reduction, but every grower figured that as his neighbors were going to reduce, he would profit by adding a few acres; so the state's acreage, instead of being decreased, was materially increased. It would be unfortunate if the cotton growers' efforts to reduce their crops should work out this way.

Hearts—K, 10, 5
Clubs—A, J, 10, 8
Diamonds—Q, J, 9, 7, 2

In the play of a diamond bid, A-B would only have lost one heart and one club trick. This hand is an excellent example of the reward of sound bidding and the penalty of unsound bidding. Don't make a mistake similar to B's. Let your bidding be sound at all times and the results will amply compensate you.

Here is an interesting hand that was recently played at one of the well known New York Clubs:

it modern magic. Modern chemists do not need iron, wood, or other raw materials, to get together lamps, electric light switch, wall plates, or similar decorations. They make pyroloxin finishes that decorate everything and are made to harmonize with beautiful color schemes.

There was not enough magic in all of the ancient days to keep window shades clean. "Oh, what a dirty window shade" is an expression as old as the hills. But there is a recent invention known as a tontine window shade. You can turn the hose on it and wash it the same as one does a handkerchief or a shirt. It comes out perfect.

DEMAND FOR HUNTING AND FISHING LICENCE IS GREAT THIS YEAR

SANTA FE.—Demand for the 1927-28 hunting and fishing licenses, which were sent out from the state game warden's office last week for distribution, is great this year, according to State Game Warden Edgar L. Perry, Jr. Mr. Perry stated that as only a limited supply of the blanks had as yet been received from the printers, very few had been distributed to the approximately 240 collectors and that before the first day was over the game department had received calls from all over the state asking that more blanks be shipped at once.

The license fees this year are as follows:

General hunting and fishing, (resident) $5.00; (non-resident) $35.25; general hunting (resident) $4.50; (non-resident) $30.25; big game (resident) $3.00; (non-resident) $25.20; bird (resident) $2.50; (non-resident) $10.25; fishing (resident) $2.00; (non-resident) $3.00; special permit to fish for 303 days in lakes Avalon, McMillan and Elephant Butte, $1.25.

The non-resident fishing license fee was reduced by the last legislature from $5 to $3 as it was felt that many tourists would take advantage of the streams of New Mexico at that fee while otherwise they would continue on to Colorado or Arizona.

Exclusive of the forest service, but 100 deputy game wardens have been appointed this year as compared to several hundred in years past. Appointments are made solely upon the recommendation of local game protective associations.

TEST OUT WEEDS ON COLLEGE COWS

Being a cow at the New Mexico Experiment Station sometimes has its disadvantages. A report is given by J. L. Lantow of an experiment conducted in the fall of 1925 in which supposedly poisonous weeds were fed to College cows to determine whether or not they were poisonous. Happily, the weeds proved non-poisonous.

Cattle were reported by the Hatcher Ranch near Three Rivers to be dying from eating Drymaria and Euphorbia; consequently an animal husbandman, a botanist, and a veterinarian, went to the ranch and made observations. It was the opinion of all three that the death of cattle there at the time was probably due to a disease instead of poisoning, but a quantity of the two mentioned weeds was gathered, sacked, taken immediately to the A. & M. College, fed to cattle, and the effects observed.

Previous work done showed that while under controlled conditions the cows, even though held from other feed, would not eat Drymaria; and when drenched with water which had been boiled with the weed, the cows died.

In this experiment the steers had been running on Sudan grass pasture prior to the time they were put in the feeding lots. The night before the experiment started they were given a feed of alfalfa hay. Steer No. 1, to which was fed Drymaria, cleaned up about a pound and a half in a very short time; while Steer No. 2, which was fed Euphorbia, did not relish it at all. He was induced, however, to eat it by mixing green alfalfa with the weed. Later on in the experiment it was found advantageous to mix alfalfa with the weed in order to get the steers to eat it.

No ill effects due to eating the weed were noticed, the pulse temperature running practically normal during the whole of the experiment.

Modern taste revels in the goodness of Camel

SMOKERS of today—the most particular and hardest to please—find their smoking wishes realized in the mellow goodness of Camels. They demand the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos, and find them in Camel gloriously blended. Modern smokers put Camel ahead of all other cigarettes.

You should know the mildness, the mellowness that brings enjoyment to present-day smokers. You'll find it in Camel—every good point that could be looked for in a cigarette.

It's the modern favorite. "Have a Camel!"

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By E. R. Waite

THAT indifference toward the home city should die.

THAT it should never be resurrected.

THAT there is no reason why it should be.

THAT citizens should never tolerate the idea of indifference.

THAT people who are indifferent to the home city are not needed there.

THAT indifferent people bar progress.

THAT they are nonprogressive.

THAT they hold back prosperity.

THAT it is a crying shame to have many of that class in a city.

THAT it takes a sudden shock to awake an indifferent person.

THAT often they can be made live ones.

THAT often it is done by selling the home city to them, making them realize what a wonderful city they live in.

THAT this knowledge often makes them a live, living, active part of the home city.

No citizen who is well sold on the home city can be indifferent to its needs and ambitions.

NEW ALL-METAL DIRIGIBLE UNDER CONSTRUCTION AT GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA

Glendale, Calif.—A giant dirigible of all-metal construction which is designed to revolutionize the entire aircraft industry is now being built at Glendale by Thomas Benton Slate, its inventor. The outside covering is to be made entirely of duraluminum, welded air-tight. Instead of the usual gas bags inside, the hydrogen with which it will be filled is to be contained only in the metal envelope. This will render it practically proof against blowing up as the gas will only explode when mixed with air and even if the metal is punctured and a match set to the opening there will be no ignition. Its speed will be over 100 miles an hour.

FARMERS WILL SHIFT CROPS IN THE COTTON BELT AGR'L DEPT. SAYS

WASHINGTON.—The agricultural production program for the coming season, as indicated by reports from farmers, appears to be in fairly good balance as among crops and livestock, although weather conditions will be a decisive factor. The department of agriculture in an analysis of early season reports said that the production season is reported as fully two weeks earlier with spring work coming into full swing over most of the country.

Reports from farmers show an intention to shift acreages of crops rather than to make any substantial change in total production," the department said. "Readjustment in the cotton belt is indicated by a planned increase of about 6,000,000 acres in feed crops. The north and west are planning a 3,000,000 acre increase in their principal crops, which would little more than replace acreage lost by drought in the great plains last year. The intended potato acreage, with average yields, would produce some 410,000,000 bushels, or near a record crop, which would be a sharp increase over the crops of the last two years."

The department added that March reports showed about 14,000,000 bushels more potatoes stored than a year ago; about 380,000,000 bushels less of food grains on hand, while the cotton carryover appeared "much less than was thought probable a few months ago."

"There is a marked tendency to increase acreage in both the commercial and non-commercial areas in the western states," it said, "and it is thought in these states that the marketing problem is most likely to be serious next fall, if present intentions are carried out and average yields are obtained."

NEW HIGHWAY FOR LINCOLN FOREST IS NOW IN PROSPECT

A new scenic highway for the Lincoln National Forest is now in prospect for the immediate future.

This new road will intersect with the Roswell-Carrizozo highway at a point near Capitan and go south by way of Alto to a point near the Wingfield store on the Ruidoso, thence south to Ruidoso junction where it will intersect with the Roswell-Alamogordo highway at Ruidoso junction.

The road will be twenty-five miles in length and will pass over some of the most scenic mountain country in the west. Engineers are already at work mapping out the proposed route for the new road and according to the latest information received here the road is to be constructed in the near future.

The mountain country between Capitan and Ruidoso has often been referred to as the "hog back." Here the road leads over the very top of the mountains with a beautiful view of the White and Capitan mountains in the distance. The Alto, Eagle Creek, Bonito and Angus section are especially beautiful and the road when completed will make a most important link in the scenic drives of the Lincoln forest.

The road up the Ruidoso valley, from the Ruidoso junction to the Mescalero Indian reservation is also being improved. A new bridge is being put in, curves taken out, grades cut, and the highway smoothed and widened.—Roswell Record.

MILD WINTER SAID TO BE FAVORABLE FOR BOLL WEEVIL

WASHINGTON.—Survival of boll weevils in hibernation during the winter will be higher than usual, the department of agriculture estimated Monday in publishing the results of its annual survey.

Temperatures throughout the cotton belt have been unusually mild, the department said, adding that this made possible the higher survival among those weevils actually in hibernation.

"This is offset by many sections last fall conditions were such that the number of weevils in hibernation was much lower than report said. "Conservative" infestations are going on last fall in each local section weevils were abundant in spring emergence were reported. "In Texas," the report said, "the weevil population was increased by favorable conditions during the late growing season of 1926, what heavier initial infestations this season than years."

RESIDENTS ARE URGED TO ASSIST IN KEEPING ARTESIA SANITARY

Artesia is a clean town, and for it to remain clean it is almost necessary that upon some one the duty of keeping it clean should be reposed. To this end the town council employed Mr. Gleghorn to collect and haul off the garbage from the various residences and places of business in the town, for which the people so served are charged a very nominal fee.

It is a sad fact that many of the people are failing to pay the charge for the service rendered, and unless something is done in the matter it will be impossible to keep Artesia clean and sanitary. Mr. Gleghorn is to receive through the Town of Artesia the amount of these collections.

It may be of interest to the people of Artesia and to those who owe these accounts which are unpaid that the Statutes of New Mexico provide that cities, towns and municipalities may make just such provisions for the collections of garbage as the Town of Artesia has made and provides means for its collection.

Let's all do our part toward keeping Artesia clean and sanitary by making this nominal charge.

THE TOURIST SEASON IS ON

The tourist season is on us. Many tourists are expected in Eddy county during the next six months. There is nothing that makes a more lasting impression on a stranger than a clean town.

It is the desire of the health department to have Eddy county stand in the front rank from a standpoint of cleanliness.

Every citizen is urged to take enough civic pride to have all rubbish moved away. If you keep live stock, remove the manure at least once a week, thereby destroying the breeding places of flies. Do not throw garbage on the ground.

Clean dairies, cafes, camp grounds, hotels, streets, alleys and people is the desire.

One application each was received offering six, seven, fifteen, twenty-six and one half, twenty-eight, thirty-one and forty cents, and $1.03, $3.75 and $6 an acre; Six applications offered 25c an acre; two each offered 27 and 27 1-2c and $1 and $1.10 an acre; three each offered 30, 35 and 60c an acre; and four bids offered 50c an acre.

AND SO HE WAS—

Most wonderful sentence in language spoken by Adam to his wife. No doubt she wanted to wear his goatskin coat or probably she aspired to the family head, when Adam is purported to have said,

"Madam I'm Adam."

The only sentence in the language that can be spelled backward and make the same sense as forward. So you see he and Eve coming and a-going as far as wearing the trousers was concerned. And that beats some of us modern men.

No. That's not in the Bible.—Ex.

MAKE THIS A DAY

Make this a day. There is no gain in brooding over days to come; The message of today is plain, The future lips are ever dumb. The work of yesterday is gone— For good or ill, let come what may; But now we face another dawn. Make this a day.

Though yestreday we failed to see The urging hand and earnest face That men call Opportunity; We failed to know the time or place For some great deed, what need to fret? The dawn comes up a silver gray, And golden moments must be met. Make this a day.

This day is yours; your work is yours; The odds are not who pays your hire. The thing accomplished—that endures, If it be what the day requires, He who takes up his daily round, As one new armoured for the fray, Tomorrow steps on solid ground. Make this a day.

The day is this; the time is now; No better hour was ever here— Who waits upon the when and how Remains forever in the rear. Though yesterday was wasted stuff, Your feet may still seek out the way, Tomorrow is not soon enough— Make this a day.

THREE ARE SENTENCED

Three men, O. C. Peek, Jack McCarthy and Isador Tobin, who gave their address as El Paso, arrested here last week on charge of possession of intoxicating liquor and who were caught and returned here after they had broken out of the city jail, received sentences from Judge Brice Saturday morning, following their appearance before the district court, with pleas of guilty. Tobin was released and sent home. Peek was given a ninety day jail sentence and McCarthy was held for investigation. After the three were removed to Carlsbad, M. Stevenson received a letter from Joe Kintz, proprietor of the general merchandise store at Dunken, stating that parties answering the description of the three men held here had stolen a quantity of merchandise from his store while en route to this section. So far as known, however, the latter charge was not entered on the court docket.

Many friends here will be sad to learn of the death of Gilmore Vermillion, a former Lake Arthur boy. He has been in delicate health for several years. Gilmore was a popular boy, of pleasing and genteel appearance, and a kindly and lovable disposition, he was about twenty years of age, and lived at the time of his premature death, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Vermillion, in Antioch, California. Mr. and Mrs. Beasley received the message Tuesday notifying them of his death, which occurred Monday afternoon, the 4th inst.

Mrs. Solon Spence was leader for the afternoon, and gave a very interesting talk on the completion of the organization of the club, and the work involved for the ensuing year. The ultimate goal for which the organization is striving is a Lake Arthur booth at the Cotton Carnival next October, and they expect to cooperate with the committee on that work and help to make the booth a success. Mrs. Latta gave an interesting paper on gardens and lawns, it being quite appropriate to the season. The Yucca, our state flower, was the subject of a short talk by Mrs. Alva Spence. "Household hints" was given by Mrs. B. C. Moots. After said session a social hour was spent, at the close of which delicious refreshments were served.

ABOUT THE OIL STOVE

Users of liquid fed stoves, especially in communities where it is more or less common practice to refer to any liquid fuel stove as an oil stove, should be mindful of the fact that the more volatile the fuel the greater the care that should be exercised in handling it.

The use of liquid fuel stoves is almost universal where gas is unavailable, at least during the summer months, and many housewives now use them throughout the entire year, because of their efficiency and cleanliness. The fuel most extensively used is kerosene which has become known as the safe household fuel. Gasoline is also used to some extent.

Kerosene is commonly known as "coal oil," and kerosene stove are correctly called oil stoves. Gasoline stoves, however, should not be confused with them for gasoline requires more careful handling.

The wide use of automobiles has somewhat allayed the fears of housewives who formerly were prejudiced against using gasoline for cooking but this very fact is fraught with danger unless the fact that gasoline vaporizes at ordinary temperatures is constantly kept in mind, for this vapor is extremely explosive.

It is a significant fact that at least one of the large institutes devoted to the testing of household devices will not approve any such device that uses gasoline as a fuel. Users of gasoline for any purpose whether it be as fuel, as a cleaning fluid, or what not, should remember that if it is allowed to stand in an uncovered vessel it will vaporize quickly, and unless there is plenty of ventilation to diffuse this vapor or carry it away into the open air, the striking of a match is likely to prove extremely hazardous.

Kerosene, on the other hand, does not vaporize at ordinary temperatures and is not inflammable unless first vaporized by intense heat, or by a wick which "breaks up" the kerosene into small particles so that vaporization can be started by holding a lighted match to the wick. A lighted match thrown into a vessel of kerosene will not ignite the kerosene, but the match will be put out when it is immersed in the liquid.

The modern oil stove bears little resemblance to the smoky, smelly stove of early years; in fact, the improvements in oil stoves in the first twenty-seven years of this century are almost as remarkable as the improvements in automobiles. Quarter of a century ago both the automobile and the oil stove were more or less inclined to be "cranky" or at least to stutter or sputter and hesitate as if reluctant to start and keep going. Today the motor car that does not keep going is the exception instead of the rule, and this is equally true of modern oil stoves.

Correctly operated there is comparatively little difference between the cooking ability of the better oil stoves and gas stoves; in fact, it is claimed for some of the most advanced designs in oil stove burners that they are as fast as gas, and it is demonstrable that steaks can be fried as quickly and as perfectly on a good oil stove as on a gas stove.

As to smoke and soot—it should be remembered that cooking utensils are not entirely free from soot even when cooking with gas. This soot is due to cold utensils being placed directly in the flame before combustion has been completed.

The cooling effect of the utensil prevents some of the fuel from burning completely, and carbon deposits itself on the utensil.

Instead of smoke and soot being "necessary evils" as some users of old fashioned oil stoves may think, it is a fact that a certain type of burner now used on oil stoves produces cleaner heat than any other heat used in cook stoves except electricity. The only positive and absolute guarantee against smoky and sooty pots and pans is to keep them out of the flame, no matter what kind of a flame it may be—coal, wood, gas, gasoline or kerosene. This has been done by some manufacturers of oil stoves by using the long chimney type of burners which are so designed that no flame touches the cooking utensils. With the long chimney burner combustion is entirely completed within the chimney and the flame itself does not come within several inches of cooking utensils, but in spite of this fact the cooking heat produced is even greater than with other types of oil stoves.

There are many types of efficient oil stoves, some using wicks, some so-called wickless types that use asbestos collars or lighting rings which function as wicks, and others that use no wick but require special priming with a second fuel, usually gasoline, to preheat the burner so that it will vaporize the kerosene.

The long chimney type of burner referred to above is of the wick type. Many years of experience and experimenting have proved that kerosene can be best vaporized with a cotton wick which absorbs the kerosene readily and carries it to the top of the wick where it is "broken up" by the wick into minute particles which vaporize and burn instantly at the touch of a lighted match. The cotton wick is economical of oil and under ordinary conditions, will last a year or longer.

The life of a burner using a wick, is always much longer because it is not necessary to heat the burner to so high a temperature to vaporize the oil. In addition, the wick burner is the type of kerosene burner from which it is easiest to remove the carbon which always forms to some extent when kerosene is burned. This carbon remains on the top of the wick from which it can be quickly removed with either a cloth or a patented wick cleaner.

In respect to color, also, there is little resemblance between the old fashioned black oil stove and some of the modern gay colored stoves. The housewife of today has learned that cheerful colors brighten her "work shop" and drive out gloom just as surely as the modern convenience of the oil stove has banished a good deal of the drudgery of the old-fashioned way of cooking with coal and wood. The most recent preference seems to be for gray stoves which fit in harmoniously with the popular modern light colored kitchen decorations. Keeping the stove clean and bright has been made easier in some cases by finishing the top with porcelain enamel instead of the ordinary paint enamel. The porcelain cooking tops are easily cleaned with a damp cloth.

Cheney, district attorney for Jackson county, stated that he was of the opinion that no court action would be taken until the opening of the May term.

"Jurors have been excused for the term," Mr. Cheney said, "and I understand Mr. Smith has an important criminal case opening in the circuit court at Eugene next week which will prevent arraignment right now or the holding of trial this term."

"Four men were murdered when this crime was committed, three of them shot down in cold blood and the fourth cremated in the dynamited mail car and killed without a chance. If the three DeAutremonts are responsible for the crime, and evidence which we have was sufficient to secure indictments in this court and the federal district court of Portland, it is the duty of the citizens of this city, county, state and nation to withhold judgment until the trial and not hamper justice by a waste of sympathy, which in my judgment, would be misplaced."

Fair Trial Promised.

"I trust that the people of the state will not overlook the seriousness of the crime committed," Mr. Cheney continued, "and be swayed by sentiment for this boy. I think I am justified in saying that he will have a fair trial in the courts of Jackson county and, while I have not talked the matter over with his attorney, I don't believe he will seek a change of venue. Another thing that is being used somewhat as a sympathy creator is the fact that the apprehension of Hugh has brought together his father and mother, who have been estranged for years. This is natural. Difficulties which may have existed between the two would naturally be submerged by the situation which their son faces, for after all he is their son."

Trial Plans Uncertain.

Mr. Cheney has not talked with the defendant as yet, but probably will interview him tomorrow or the first of the week. No announcement has been made relative to the prosecuting force, but Mr. Cheney is known to have invited George Neuner, United States attorney at Portland, to take part in the trial and the Southern Pacific company, it is understood, will assign certain of their legal staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith, accompanied by Hugh's father and mother, returned to Eugene late today. Mrs. DeAutremont, it was said, would be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Smith in the university city until the next step was taken in the case.

Charles Riddiford, postoffice inspector in charge of the Pacific northwest district, with headquarters at Spokane, was said to have been on the train with the prisoner when it reached here and to have continued on to Portland. Charles B. Welter, postal inspector of Portland is here, along with W. G. Chandler of Dunsmuir, California, Southern Pacific special agent, and C. W. Chambers, Southern Pacific special in-vestigator.

It has been reported that one or two other government agents were in town but they had not been located. If this is true, they probably have been called in from the outside and will remain until the trial. While considerable curiosity was shown by Medford folk in the arrival of young DeAutremont, there was no talk of any drastic action.

The case, however, is one of particular interest to Jackson county as the men murdered were residents of this vicinity. The crime was planned with more than ordinary cunning as the train was halted as but the first few coaches, including the mail car, had emerged from tunnel No. 13 near Siskiyou. Sid Bates, the engineer, and Marvin Seng, the fireman, were the first two to be murdered, and as C. O. Johnson ran forward from the darkness of the tunnel, in which the passenger coaches remained, he was shot and killed.

Thus the only witnesses, the only men who saw the outlaws, were removed, and E. E. Dougherty, mail clerk, was trapped in his car, which was wrecked by an excessive charge of dynamite placed in the vestibule to open the door of the car. Flames destroyed its contents and but a few charred bones were all the remains of Dougherty which could be returned to his family. Gaining no loot from their murderous enterprise, the outlaws fled after seeing their plans had miscarried through an excessive charge of explosives.

ARBOR DAY PROCLAMATION

There is probably no other state in the union more in need of tree culture than New Mexico. The economic value of trees as wind breaks and dust shields in this state is acknowledged; avenues, parks and groves of trees are not only great natural ornaments giving us refreshing shade sheltering us from the summer heat, but they purify the air by absorbing its waste elements and help keep down the dust. It is well known that tree life preserves and perpetuates our water supply having its source in mountains sheltered by forests.

Let us combine with tree culture the conservation of bird life. The Agricultural Department at Washington reports that the annual loss to farmers, vegetable and fruit growers in the United States on account of insect pests amounts to more than $1,300,000,000.00; the Department states that birds are the natural enemies to destructive insects, and that they are therefore a great national asset, and everything possible should be done for their preservation. The wholesale destruction of birds compels the nation to spend millions of dollars for insecticides and labor to save our crops. Also, the bird, as well as the tree, has its aesthetic value; it is a beautiful creature to look upon and its songs are joyful; its natural home is the tree.

Now, Therefore, I, R. C. Dillon, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby designate and proclaim Friday, April 8th, 1927 as Arbor and Bird Day in the State of New Mexico.

The law provides that this day "shall be a holiday in all the public schools of the state and school officers and teachers are required to have the schools under their respective charge, observe the day by planting of trees and other appropriate exercises. . . . that the respective county superintendents of schools shall also promote by all proper means the observance of the day . . . and make annual report to the Governor of the State of the action taken in this behalf in their respective counties."

I suggest that the main ceremony of this day be the actual planting of trees and shrubs; slow growing trees should be alternated by those of more rapid growth; remember the birds by planting berry-bearing shrubs and providing for them fresh drinking water; let shade trees be planted in memory of our soldier boys who sacrificed their lives for us, name each tree after one of these boys so his memory may be kept fresh and living in his home community.

Done at the Executive Office this 28th day of March, 1927.
Witness my hand and the great seal of the state of New Mexico,
R. C. DILLON,
Governor.

Attest:
JENNIE FORTUNE,
Secretary of State.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

Apples cooked in a sirup and colored with red cinnamon candies are pleasing in appearance and flavor.

Do not add water when roasting beef or lamb. Sear the meat at a high temperature, then reduce the heat and cook 15 or 20 minutes to the pound.

Fried pineapple is easily prepared. Simply drain the slices of canned pineapple, dip in flour, and brown slowly in butter in a frying pan.

Chopped nuts are good in almost any kind of sandwich. Combine them with raisins, dates, figs or prunes. They are good with olives, with cottage or cream cheese, and with maple or brown sugar.

Codliver oil is not a medicine—it is a food, rich in vitamins. There are many children, and grown folks too, who need codliver oil to build up their general health and help prevent colds and other infections.

Ham for baking may be boiled a day or two beforehand, left standing in a cold place in the liquor in which it was cooked, reheated in this then skinned, covered with bread crumbs and sugar, stuck with cloves and put in the oven for final browning just before dinner.

To prevent jelly from oozing out of the glass and spoiling the paraffin seal, run a knife around the edge of the jelly before pouring on the paraffin, or rotate the glass after the hot paraffin is poured on and let it run up the sides of the glass and form a tight seal.

The red color sometimes admired in devil's food cake is due to the use of more soda than is necessary to neutralize the acid in the sour milk and chocolate. This results in taking into the body more soda, or free alkali than is desirable, as one does when serving hot biscuits made yellow with an excess of soda. Too red a devil's food cake, therefore, is not good.

GOLD RUSH

Later information has it that the character of the search has been somewhat modified. Sopper appears to be the predominating metal, although the ore assays a small amount of both gold and silver.

The Carlsbad Current-Argus of Tuesday carried the following report:

Several days ago, a Mexican sheep herder named Martinez, working for Wash Simpson on his range lease west of Carlsbad ten miles or so, found some likely looking rock which he gave to Mr. Simpson, who has prospected for minerals at different times. Mr. Simpson sent it to San Diego for assaying, and on return of assay figures, located a claim. The assay showed copper, gold and silver. The find is on state land. A few friends were told, who went out to stake their claims, the news spread, and a veritable and typical rush was on. Those who first learned the news began their staking of claims, Sunday. Monday the crowd had grown, and reports were that last night camp fires shone for miles along the hills.

The original claim of Mr. Simpson is about twelve miles north of west from this city, and contrary to usual finds, is in a flat near the foot of a hill. The location is near the Spencer dam, and claims now run for an estimated five miles on to the ridge of hills to the south, angling west.

Curious crowds have gone out all day today to see the evidences of claim filings, and interest has kept high in the possibilities, with some rumors without foundation setting great values on the ore finds, some giving the copper as high as eighty dollars a ton.

Mr. Simpson stated this morning that his assay was shown as $16.60 per ton, or six and three fourths per cent copper, with $2.60 gold and $2.60 silver to the ton. He has other samples which show higher gold values also.

He has investigated the mineable values, and learned that the copper smelters at Globe, Arizona, are working at best with six per cent rock, with much of it down to five per cent. Transportation has been a bar to possible development in this section, though the location of the present find makes it close to highway for trucking to railroad.

Many of the old timers report similar copper strikes during the past twenty-five years at different times, but they have been too far into the mountains to be of value. One of these is declared to have assayed $80.00 to the ton but the strike was in an inaccessible section of the mountains.

There have been many diggings made in various sections of the Guadalupe, some of which yielded low per centages of copper, gold and silver, and some recent work is reported to have been done by geologists interested in locating minerals.

Some few months ago, it is reported, a lode or ledge bearing a pinched out copper showing, was followed from the foothills northwest of here to the river, crossing in the Dayton neighborhood and on northeast of Artesia. A claim or two was filed then, and some dispute arose as to mixing of the stakes on one claim. Nothing further developed in that case, however.

The interesting possibilities of the present excitement are in the location close enough for transportation more than in the values so far discovered.

Surveyor J. W. Lewis was watching today for calls for survey work by the excited locators, but had none, and the county clerk's office had had no calls for filing blanks. Claims include six hundred feet by 1500 feet, in any direction, prior claims having first rights in conflicts. Ninety days are allowed under law for filing of claims on record, it is understood.

THE LAMBING SEASON IS ON NOW—WEATHER IS VERY FAVORABLE

The lambing season is underway in this section now. Sheepmen in general have enjoyed a prosperous year and are expecting a full crop. In a number of instances the lambing season occurred earlier this year than usual. Weather conditions are very favorable thus far.

OIL NEWS

west of the Maljamar producers, the Mid-Continent Oil Co. are fishing for nineteen joints of lost casing on their No. 1 Woolley, Jones, section 21-17-30.

In the Artesia Field, Henderson, Dexter, Blair, Inc. have moved back on their No. 1 State in section 9-19-28 and will carry the hole from the present depth of 2,140 to 2,800 feet. The Manhattan Oil Co., are also making good time on their No. 1 on the Cronin permit, formerly the Monita Oil Co's test in Section 1-18-27, the hole now being 2,568 feet. The contract on this well calls for a 2800 foot test.

Of considerable interest to local oil men is the announcement that the Skelly Oil Co. will next week deepen their No. 1 Beulah Lynch well in section 22-17-31 which has been capped for over seven months. The drilling in of this producer will be closely watched as the well gave every indication of being a good completion.

R. B. Rehn, et al., are rigging to deepen the old T. A. Stephens well in sec. 19-18-28, in the Artesia field. This well was carried down below 2200 feet when first drilled.

J. O. CASEY GIVEN A SENTENCE OF TWO TO FIVE YEARS TUESDAY

James O. Casey was Tuesday afternoon sentenced to serve not less than two and not more than five years in the state penitentiary by Judge Charles R. Brice, following a plea of guilty to an information charging the embezzlement of $8,500 from the funds of the Roswell Drainage district.

Casey was also sentenced to serve from two to five years following a plea of guilty to a charge of embezzlement of $900 from the Occidental Life Insurance company.

He was sentenced also to serve a term of two to five years in the state penitentiary following a plea of guilty to a charge of embezzlement of $400 from the estate of A. F. Fletcher, deceased.

These sentences are to run concurrently, which means that when he has served one he has served all of them. The penalty for embezzlement in this state is from 1 to 10 years.

A number of friends of Casey appeared in court this afternoon and pleaded for a light sentence, declaring to the court that in their opinion a light sentence would do more good than a longer one.—Roswell Record.

POLICE COURT

Monday proved a rather busy day for the police court, when 115 cases were brought before the court for trial. Each defendant was charged with violating the traffic ordinance. Each defendant was found guilty as charged and was fined $11.00 and costs. The sign recently put in on Main street by the city seems to have practically all of the violators. Five of the six motorists were fined with breaking the U. S. law.
