Keely No. 1 Grayburg Oil Co. Occupies the Spotlight

Oil Is Flowing By Heads—Time At 3,085 Feet—Adds Much Interest To East Eddy Area—New Well To Start West Of River.

Considerable excitement was in evidence here Tuesday when the report reached town that the Keely No. 1, Grayburg Oil Co., in the center NE sec. 24-17-29, eastern Eddy county, and about twenty-five miles west of here was flowing by heads and throwing oil over the prairie. The well started flowing early Tuesday morning, and made about six heads during the day. One head was coming and lasted for 12 minutes, and a stream of oil was shot one hundred feet in the air, coming through the eight inch casing. Early morning estimates were inclined to be optimistic. Later and more conservative estimates say the well would flow for at least 500 barrels daily, and hundred barrels of oil was being produced during the first day's run. The last pay in the Keely was found at 1,070 feet and the well started flowing after the bit had gone fifteen feet in the line.

Drilling is being erected on the well and workmen are preparing to pipe. The Keely is located across township from the discovery well in this area, the Jackson No. 1 of F. W. & Y. Oil Co., and about a mile northwest of the Keely No. 2 of the same company, Grayburg.

Getty Wells Looking Good

The Getty Oil Co., has started a new well on its wells drilled in the Eddy county. The company's last well to be drilled in this area, the Dooley No. 4 in sec. 23-17-29, has been flowing an average of 80 barrels per hour into the 80-barrel storage tank. The Dooley No. 4 drilled about 1,560 feet in several months ago, pending marketing arrangement.

The Baish No. 2, of the Majamar and Gas Corp., in the center of NW NE sec. 21-17-32, has been drilled at a depth of 4,120 feet and is making around 170 barrels daily. The company has been able to increase production in their distal well, the Baish No. 1 by the installation of an air lift apparatus. The line has been run from the Baish to the No. 1 Baish.

The Texas Company is running a 2 and a half mile pipe line extension to the State No. 2 of the Pacific Coal Co., in sec. 21-17-32, from its Jal-Texas Lynch No. 1 well. Workmen are erecting 25,000 barrel storage tank on the well. The State No. 2 was completed at a total depth of 3,712 feet and is said to be doing 250 barrels daily.

The government has evidently modified its conservation program on oil and gas lands, inaugurated in the year. Unofficial information says that major companies recently been granted 79 per cent of the land in the area, which were previously in the summer. Each permit was extended two years, dated from December 31, 1929, and attention is granted with the understanding that no well is to be drilled unless the government approves the report.

New locations have been announced this week, which have added to two areas. A second well has been made west of the well by F. B. Van Horn, a local operator, about three miles northwest of Lakewood, 880 feet west and 440 feet north from the southeast corner of sec. 18-19-26. Workmen are moving materials to the location to-day. The Van Horn's location is the second well made in the area, recently, about six miles west of Lakewood, and is being drilled by R. D. Compton. Other locations are in the northern part of Lea county, near Harrison et al., State No. 2, SW sec. 35-18-38; Continental Oil Co., No. 2 Sholes, sec. 13-25-36; and Continental Oil Co., No. 2 State, sec. 14-21-33.

NEW ARTESIA HOTEL TO BE FORMALLY OPENED NOVEMBER 22 AND 23

The date of the formal opening of the new Artesia Hotel has been set for Friday and Saturday, November 22nd and 23rd. The program for the occasion is yet in the making. It was indicated early in the week that efforts would be made to have several prominent men over the state as guests of the city on these dates.

The fourth and fifth floors were made ready the first of the week and the other floors are being finished in order of their decent as rapidly as possible. All of the furniture has arrived and is being placed. Workmen are putting down the carpets in the halls and in the rooms.

J. K. Wallingford, manager stated this morning that the installation of the furniture had been completed. This work was in charge of R. C. Legner, of Chicago, installation superintendent of the Albert Pick Barth Co.

TWO ROSWELL OFFICERS SHOT WHEN CALLED TO WOMBLE RESIDENCE

Alford And Christman Are Greeted With Shot Volley From Revolvers When They Step Up On Front Porch.

Two Roswell officers were shot yesterday morning about 7:30 at 107 East Matthews street by Garbie Womble, who is believed to have been demented. According to the story told of the shooting in Roswell yesterday, T. C. Alford, chief of police and Rue Christman, fire chief received a call to come to the Womble residence at 107 East Matthews. They were not expecting trouble and walked to the door of the Womble residence to be greeted by a volley of revolver shots coming thru the front screen. The first shot hit Christman in the left arm and Alford in the side. The assailant continued to fire at Christman as he ran to the car to see if he might obtain a fire arm. Chief of Police Alford had started around to the rear of the house and it was about this time that M. Stevenson, deputy game warden and former Artesia peace officer, was attracted to the scene of the shooting. Stevenson was passing by on his way up to the business district. Alford told Stevenson to get the man. Mr. Stevenson observed a man standing in the back yard and went to his car to get a shot gun. Upon his return, Stevenson was joined by Frank McDaniel, fireman. Both men observed Womble standing with a gun in each hand. The guns were trained on Stevenson, who commanded Womble to drop his guns and threatened to shoot if he (Womble) did not drop his guns before he counted two. Stevenson counted one very slowly and saw Womble fall. The men rushed Womble and found him bleeding from a wound in his chest, evidently self inflicted while Stevenson had gone to the car after a shot gun.

All three men were rushed to the hospital, where both officers, Alford and Christman are said to be resting well. Womble's condition is regarded as more serious. He was shot just above the nipple.

The matter has been referred to the grand jury.

Trouble between Womble and his wife is said to have arisen over divorce proceedings recently instituted by Mrs. Womble.

THE WORLD'S LARGEST ARTESIAN WELL NOW IN THE PECOS VALLEY

The world's largest artesian well is now located in the Pecos valley of New Mexico, according to the current issue of the Johnson National Drillers Journal of St. Paul, Minnesota. The well is owned by the Oasis Cotton Co., and is located at Oasis, south of Roswell.

In speaking of the Oasis well the Drillers Journal says: The Oasis well is the world's largest well in capacity and head, delivering 5,710 gallons per minute, with a pressure of about 35 pounds at the surface when it was first brought in. It is 12 1/2 inches in diameter and 780 feet deep. This well took away the world's capacity record from the great Passy well in France, which held the record for nearly seventy years.

This well was drilled by Pearson Brothers of the Cottonwood community in 1926.

A CITY BASKETBALL TEAM IS ORGANIZED—PRACTICE IS STARTED

Plans were made last week to organize a city basketball club and the practice season has started with prospects good for a winning team. According to Willis Morgan, manager, the outlook is very bright for probably the strongest town team to appear on a local court, with practically all of last year's team reporting for duty. Last year, the town team closed the season with an excellent record and interest was at a high pitch during the latter part of the season.

New uniforms have been purchased as a starter for this season and negotiations are underway to bring several strong teams here in addition to the regular valley schedule. Among the prospects who have either reported or expected to report for practice are: Rideout, Bird, Wilkins, J. D. Jackson, French, Carl Joiner, Clayton, Jernigan, Goodwin, Middleton, and Fred Cole.

STORES WILL CLOSE MONDAY NOVEMBER 11 FOR ARMISTICE DAY

It was learned here yesterday that the local business houses, except the filling stations and drug stores would remain closed throughout the day, Monday, November 11th, Armistice Day. The drug stores will likely observe Sunday hours and the filling will probably remain open all day.

Members of the American Legion talked of having an Armistice Day program, but owing to the fact that the date falls on the second day of the deer season, it was thought best not to attempt the program, as a number of people will be out of town.

People should remember to supply themselves with groceries and other items needed on Saturday, as the stores will not open until Tuesday morning.

TO ENFORCE COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LAW

The Artesia board of education has given notice that the compulsory attendance law will be enforced in the Artesia schools. The law applies to children between the ages of six and sixteen both inclusive. Parents and guardians of children are made responsible for their attendance. Violation of the provisions of the law carries a jail sentence or a fine.

W. C. TIDWELL ESCAPES INJURIES WHEN CAR OVERTURNS ON MAIN

W. C. Tidwell of Pinon was fortunate enough to escape injury when his car a Ford sedan was overturned on Main street last night as a result of a collision with a truck. The collision occurred near the intersection of Main and Third streets as Mr. Tidwell was driving down the street. The truck, belonging to Dutch Henderson was entering Main street and apparently the driver was blinded or became confused by the lights. The truck hit the Ford a broadside lick turning it over. Mr. Tidwell escaped with a bruised hip. His car was not damaged except the oil was drained from the crank-case. A number of bystanders helped to right the overturned car.

Allen Heard stopped off here the first of the week for a visit among the old timers, while en route to his home at Albuquerque from a visit with relatives in Texas points. The Eddy county commissioners court met in the regular monthly session Tuesday. Only routine business matters claimed the attention of the commissioners. Chairman C. E. Eddy county prisoners are still boarding with the county jail, but will be moved to Roswell as soon as the repairs on the interior of the jail are started.

Awards Are Made In Yard and Garden Contest Mon.

Twenty-Three First Prizes Announced—Event To Be Made Annual Affair—To Be Run Along Same Line As This Year.

Awards were made Monday in the Yard and Garden contest, when the committee met in the Chamber of Commerce office and tabulated the results. The awarding of prizes were deferred one week, owing to the fact that the judges decision in some events were still outstanding. The number of prizes totaled twenty-three with a first and second prize in each event, but on account of some difficulties encountered by some of the growers and more especially in the rose events, where the bloom blighted, a second prize was not made.

There was a fine spirit shown by exhibitors during the past season and interest generally was very gratifying. The committee especially appreciates the interest manifested by the people of the Cottonwood community and it is hoped that an increasing number of entries will be made from that community another year.

The Yard and Garden contest has been instituted as an annual affair. Next year prizes will be offered for the same exhibits and it is hoped that more folks will begin preparing now to enter the 1930 contest.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

J. F. Owens vice-president and general manager of the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company says:

That newspaper advertising is the shortest road to maximum business therefore it is the shortest way to lowest cost to those whom we serve.

Through it we help people to avoid excessive drudgery and to save time and money.

Through it we save human life by setting forth dangers existing from certain situations beyond control of an electric service company.

Through it we emphasize to the people what cooperative effort can do for the progress of the community.

Through it we help to stimulate the "boosting" spirit of the community by "boosting" civic movements ourselves.

Through it we teach how to get the most out of the service we render and assist in promoting effective and economical use of that service.

Through it we tell the public that every individual we are pleased to serve has a right to fair and courteous treatment from us at all times.

This has a beneficial influence upon our own organization being an added reminder of what is expected from our members in their dealings with the public.

SCHOOLS AND ROADS

We note that there is considerable agitation to divert part of the revenue from the state gasoline tax from the state highway department to the public schools. There is no doubt but that the public schools could use more money, but it seems to us the proposition resolves itself around the question of "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul." The state's greatest asset is without question the tourist trade and we can not have the tourist trade without good highways. The tourist trade has not only supplied us with a nice revenue but it has been one of the greatest means of advertising the resources of New Mexico. We cannot hope to attract more people to the state unless we provide them with a way of seeing the state and good highways have done just this. In other words good highways have helped us sell New Mexico to the outsider. Every new settler received in the state becomes a potential tax payer and the tax payer maintains the schools.

We hear so many proposals to divert the gasoline tax that we are reminded that this tax is in danger of becoming a political cow to be milked whenever money is needed for some purpose or other.

A STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

A movement is on foot to organize a state chamber of Commerce. The idea is not new and has been talked of for several years. The proposition has its merits and would be beneficial to the Pecos valley towns more so than the present affiliation with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which is more or less of a good will proposition. In the smaller places it would be necessary to cut loose from the West Texas organization for financial reasons.

We believe the various commercial organizations in this section would be favorable to such an organization provided it was not turned into a political machine nor made into a "Whoopee Association."

AUTOMOBILES DEADLY TO GAME

Pennsylvania game authorities are calling attention to the high mortality of game birds and small animals resulting from being killed by automobiles. From various parts of the state, game wardens and other observers have reported seeing many rabbits and fur-bearing animals together with ring-necked pheasants and other game birds which had been struck by cars.
Similar reports have come from a number of other states. An Eastern Pennsylvania sportsman claims that more game is killed by careless motorists than is shot during the gunning season.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS

They call him "Luke" because he isn't very hot.
France, at one time, reminds me muchly of my bridge hands—only one king for 72 years.

And now we have to listen to both the duck hunter and the fisherman. Next will come the deer hunters—and so on almost without end. Good thing the air is free here—Deming Headlight.

"Ma" Ferguson is threatening to run for governor of Texas again, according to a recent announcement made by her official spokesman, "Pa" Ferguson.

The Town Doctor

(The Doctor of Towns)

ON

HAS ARTESIA A HOLE IN ITS HEEL?

How do you feel toward the man who wears good clothes keeps his shoes shined and his hat cleaned, but on whose abdominal covering, there is conspicuous evidence of many a slip between the cup and the lip; who always needs a shave, and for the years that you have known him never has had a manicure?

What is your reaction when you behold a lady walking down the street all dressed in the finest raiment, with a hole in her heel? And what would you think if you saw this same lady every day for a week, and every time that you saw her there was the same hole in the same heel of the same hose?

Whatever your reaction to such people, it is sure that you are not attracted to them. It is certain that contact with them does not fill you with joy and pleasure, nor create a desire to be intimately associated with them.

In people such is called slovenliness—or perhaps you have a better word for it; in communities it is "oppressive ugliness." Vacant store rooms with dirty, placarded and messed-up windows; broken, cob-webbed and paper-stuffed second story windows in the business district; vacant lots overgrown with weeds, cluttered with all sorts of rubbish and refuse; vacant houses with tumble down buildings; dirty streets, highway entrances littered with nondescript road signs; open city dumps and other such things of repulsion are to a community what a soup-stained vest or a stocking with a hole in the heel is to otherwise well-dressed people.

I know a town where, seven years ago, a store building in the heart of an attractive business district was gutted by fire. Weeds grow rampant through the brickbats within the confines of still-standing, smutted, charred half-walls.

Several years ago a school building surrounded by fine homes was condemned and abandoned. It still stands, dank and gruesome, its broken windows and rotted doorways yawning ghost-like, from under sagging roof and mildewed walls.

The city hall of a town I know was destroyed by storm some time ago. What was the basement of this building is now a catch-all—a dumping ground for street sweepings, tin cans, junk and corruption—a rodents' paradise of filth and hogwash in plain view of every passerby.

As you are affected by slovenliness in people, just so are the potential residential, commercial and industrial customers of your community affected by "oppressive ugliness."

Don't tolerate abominations that create "oppressive ugliness." They can be eliminated and it is your business and the business of every other citizen to see to it that they are eliminated, because its costing you money by driving business out of Artesia and keeping new business and new people from coming in.

FORD SUGGESTS 12 RULES FOR ROAD SAFETY

As a contribution toward greater safety and more pleasant driving conditions on the highways of the country this summer, the Ford Motor Company has listed 12 rules as suggestions to motorists and has distributed them to dealers over the country.

1. Courtesy comes first. Consider the rights and privileges of others.
2. Keep your mind on your driving, and anticipate sudden emergencies.
3. Learn the "feel" of having your car under control.
4. Obey all traffic and parking regulations.
5. Keep to the right, and comply with road markings and signs.
6. Signal for stops and turns, watch the car ahead.
7. Slow down at crossings, dangerous places, and schools.
8. Never pass cars on hills, curves, crossings.
9. Adapt your driving to road conditions—rain, ice, soft spots and ruts.
10. It doesn't pay to take the "right of way" too seriously.
11. When you drive remember the times when you re a pedestrian.
12. Know the law. It was passed for your protection.—Exchange.

WE HAVE HEARD

We have often heard it remarked that the average community is over organized. We believe that this is an accepted fact without question but instead of trying to remedy the situation, most of us have gone ahead and "jined" more organizations. The ordinary community laymen have stated more than once that the reason they belonged to a certain organization is because they believed the organization or club to be a good advertisement for the town or that mighty near every other town has such an organization and we cannot afford to be without one. Apparently the results of the organization or the club is not considered.
It seems that most of us are just good emulators and follow the other fellow's lead to be up to date. This view is clearly a misconception of the purpose of the club or order and probably accounts for the fact that no more good is accomplished.

The name of having a certain club or organization in a community isn't in itself a good advertisement, unless the club is awake to its opportunities. Another hindrance is that we look principally for the entertainment of the individual and do not attempt to take an inventory to really see whether or not we are ac-

HITCH-HIKERS

The state of New Jersey is to have a law prohibiting the solicitation of free rides by the hitch-hiker. He is the fellow who stands at the roadside waving his arms and inviting strangers to include him in their family automobile parties. Lots of people who have taken him aboard have regretted being so gullible when their passengers have turned out to be crooks, and sometimes murderers.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Veal chops have less fat in proportion to lean meat than other chops.
They are likely to dry out considerably in cooking unless protected by a coating of egg and bread crumbs.

See that the food your child eats include each day all of these different kinds of food: milk, eggs, meat or fish, vegetables, fruit, whole grain cereals, and butter or cream.

Don't wait for Thanksgiving or Christmas to make cranberry jelly or cranberry sauce. Either one is excellent with any meat where a sweet tart accessory is liked. Cranberries are on the market now.

Farmers' bulletin 1497-F contains much useful information about laundering clothes, and some suggestions about ironing them. How to fold a man's shirt, tablecloths and other flat pieces, and how to wash sweaters, curtains, blankets, pillows and infant's woolens are among the practical directions found therein.

A cream colored collar is often more becoming on a wool dress than a white one, unless the background of the dress material requires white.
Cream and ecru are often used because they blend well with other colors. Plain colors are better for collars on figured material, because they emphasize the face which is the natural center of interest.

Try this: Place an unopened can of salmon in a saucepan surrounded by boiling water, to heat for 10 or 15 minutes. While this is cooking, prepare a boiled salad dressing. When opening the fish, place a cloth over most of the can, make a small hole in the top to allow the steam to escape, and cut around the entire edge so that the fish can slide out without breaking, onto a hot platter.
Pour the hot dressing over the salmon, sprinkle with finely chopped parsley, and serve at once. Fresh salmon may also be simmered and served in the same way.

Armistice day in Arlington, with infantry from Myer;
A trumpeter advances from a silent army choir.

The wreaths lie on a tabled stone within a roofless nave—
The laurel of Bethesda on the Unknown Soldier's grave.

Solemnly mid cameras; the overseas men lean
Upon a Springfield pattern and behold another scene.

The gleam of Hampshire marble fades, dissolving minarets
Turn into misty valleys and the muddy road to Metz.

A shock division whirlpool in the Saunter of the Dames;
The ash cans coming over and old Thiaucourt in flames.

St. Mihiel muttering about the scissors and the spool,
And ambulances pouring twenty thousand into Toul.

The Argonne boastful to the last, the foxholes just as vain,
And ammunition wagons trotting through a soldier's brain.

From the time that the first great earthquake

Made love on a ruffian's plan,
The metals, the vapors and acids
Were contraband seizures of man.

And out of the inorganic
As a dwarf from a Chinese jug,
They tottered, obedient pagans—
The sword blade, the spear head and slug.

After them came huge ingots
Into deformity led,
Thinking each leader an ideal Pacing a mortal's head.

But now they have seen a Gautama
Pick up a silver and sign,
And peace rising out of a thimble
Instead of an inky Rhine.

And while the nations tarrying, do honor to a morn,
Truth issues from the galleries within a silver horn.

The laurel of Bethesda stirs, the Hampshire marbles gleam—
There are no dead who pass beyond the promise of a dream.

Doughboy Recalls Long Days in Camp and Field

Endless days of intolerable heat drilling in the hot sands of Camp Hancock . . . loading 4.7 shells and cosmoline—Migod, do these guns ever get clean?—rifles in the scrub oak and dreary sands at Yaphank. . . "Why in h—l don't we get sugar, chef?" . . . weak stomachs in the dark bowels of a camouflaged transport. Thundering G. I. cans that tore the living world apart . . . fire like blood from sunken cannon, sneaky "potato mashers" blowing up indiscriminately . . . water, cooties, yellow mud and slime, blood, wreckage and corpses . . . everlasting "goldfish," weak but hot coffee . . . chilling rain for days and wet bodies . . . nausea . . . fear . . . nonchalance and animal-like cluttings at life . . . Grouching, crabbing and eternal disgust . . . but a smile and a grunt of relief from heavy pack, hobnails, and tin hat when the "Welcome" arch of home appeared.—Exchange.

Enshrined Forever

The day that belongs to the men who died for their country. Brave, laughing lads, we can see them yet as they marched away, some to die in fever-infested camps in their own land, others of shot and shell far across the sea. Our hearts are with them. And our tears.

YOUTH PAYS HOMAGE TO HERO

Among the first to observe Armistice day in Washington were the Boy Scouts of America, who journeyed to Arlington National Cemetery, where they paid a colorful tribute to America's Unknown Soldier.

ONE ARRESTED AT HOBBS SAT. FOR HOLMES DEATH

Sam Jones, a former deputy constable of Borger, Texas, arrested at Hobbs, N. M., Saturday on a charge of murder in connection with the death of District Attorney John Holmes at Borger on September 13, last, spent ten days in Roswell before going to Hobbs, the Lea county oil boom town, according to local officers, says the Roswell Record.

Jones is now in jail at Borger, formally charged with Holme's death. Following martial law in Borger, brought about by the assassination of Holmes, who was shot down as he was locking the doors of his garage, Jones is said to have arrived in Roswell and later gone to Lea county.

Jones was formerly prosecuted by Holmes at Borger in connection with larceny of pipe, it was said.

A number of former residents of Borger are in Roswell at this time, officers said and others are scattered at various points in Lea county.

EDUCATIONAL ASS'N. CLOSES SESSION AT ALBUQUERQUE SAT.

ALBUQUERQUE. — Charles B. Reddick of Gallup, city superintendent of schools for that place, was elected the new president of the New Mexico Educational Association at the closing session of the annual convention Saturday.

He defeated Miss Marie Balling of Albuquerque by a vote of 654 to 530.

The annual election and adoption of resolutions constituted the closing business.

The convention registered its disapproval of having the state legislature fix the salary of the state superintendent of public instruction by rejecting the proposed amendment to have the state superintendent appointed by a board selected by the governor with salary to be ascertained by the legislature.

The association reaffirmed its original proposal by adopting a resolution to make the office appointive by a board, but also to give the board power to determine the salary.

Another major resolution provided that the association set aside funds to make a study of available sources of revenue in the state which could be used for educational purposes. An approved program to place the teachers retirement plan before the public and another endorsed the policies of Dr. Austin D. Crile in the conduct of the state land office.

Sausage, Cabbage and Apples en Casserole

With boiled or fried hominy grits, rice or baked or mashed potatoes, this dish, from the bureau of home economics, will make the main course of a meal.

1 pound sausage 4 tart apples, meat sliced
1 quart shredded cabbage 1 tbs. taragon vinegar
1/2 tsp. salt

Make the sausage into flat cakes and fry until crisp on both sides. Put a layer of the shredded raw cabbage into a lightly greased baking dish, and add a layer of sliced apples, another of cabbage, and so on. Continue until all the cabbage and apples are used. Salt each layer as it is put in and have apples as the top layer. Lay the cakes of fried sausage over the top. Wash out the sausage pan with the vinegar and pour over the contents of the baking dish. Cover and cook until the cabbage and apples are tender. Serve from the dish in which cooked.

Large Canned Peaches Utilized for "Melba"

Some of your large canned peaches may be utilized for a "Melba" dessert—which means fruit filled with vanilla ice cream. The bureau of home economics suggests that the sirup will be good and look extra appetizing if it is slightly colored and used as a sauce. Here's the complete recipe:

6 halves large canned peaches 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts
1 quart vanilla ice cream Fruit sirup cream Coloring

Drain the peaches from the sirup. Cook down the sirup until fairly thick, add enough red coloring to give it a pinkish tinge, and allow to cool. Place the halved peaches with the kernel side up on plates for serving and fill the hollows with the ice cream. Pour over the ice cream some of the cold sirup and sprinkle the nuts over the top.

PRISON BREAK AVERTED AT SANTA FE PEN

SANTA FE—Five prisoners of the New Mexico penitentiary were locked in their cells Tuesday by Warden Pat Dugan, who frustrated an attempt on the part of the men to go over the wall.

Dugan said he had found some knives on the men and that one of them had fashioned a ladder out of wire for the get-away.

Warden Dugan said he did not believe there had been any organized attempt by the prisoners to mutiny, and that the incident was "only another attempt of a few men to leave us without saying goodbye."

PRACTICAL PHILOSOPHIES

By J. SCOFIELD ROWE, PRESIDENT,
The Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Company of N.Y.

HUSBANDING RESOURCES

By the careful and constant husbanding of resources can a man, an institution or a nation maintain security and well-being.

Prospect and to conserve the possessions gained by time and toil bespeaks the sort of character that will be prepared to meet emergencies, ready to open the door to opportunity when it knocks.

Wastefulness dissipates needlessly the hard-won gains of industry. "As water spilt on the ground which cannot be gathered up again." Little leakages grow great by repetition. Small wastes, often recurring, multiply into great waste that saps resources uselessly.

Frugality at its best is never "penny wise and pound foolish," but measures its expenditures in the light of expected returns and believes in the economy of ultimate cost.

Conservation never means miserliness or hoarding, for disuse is wasted opportunity whereas it is inherent in thrift to use its resources to the full.

Priceless possessions of health and strength deserve our most thoughtful husbandry. Without them even fame and fortune lose their value. If they are wasted, life itself becomes a burden.

Nothing is more precious than time, nothing so easily wasted, nothing so impossible to replace. "Dost thou love life?" wrote Franklin, "then do not squander time for that is the stuff of which life is made."

To preserve and enlarge our assets of friendship and good will requires the exercise of unflinching courtesy and consideration. Friendliness toward our fellows in thought, word and act brings such rewards that he is indeed a waster who neglects its practice.

To husband the time, the property and the reputation of the business from which we derive our living, loyally and enthusiastically to conserve its every asset as if it were our own, is not only a plain duty but a privilege to those who value integrity and honor.

GAS TAKEN FROM STATE LANDS WILL ADD TO REVENUE

SANTA FE.—"Towns endeavoring to secure natural gas should take into consideration the fact that if gas is taken from wells on state land it will add materially to the state's revenue over a long period of time," Dr. Austin Crile, state land commissioner, said Monday.

While Dr. Crile has decided opinions concerning natural gas for Albuquerque, Las Vegas and Santa Fe, he declined to comment further at this time.

Natural gas, delivered in the field brings five cents per 1,000 cubic feet. Of this amount the state receives one-eighth. Albuquerque, Las Vegas and Santa Fe will use several million cubic feet per day. Royalties accruing to the state on this amount will represent a tidy sum at the end of a year.

If gas is brought in from the southeastern part of the state, it will probably come, in part at least from wells on state land. The state also owns some land in the gas producing section in San Juanaco.

It is understood here that Dr. Crile's recent ruling forcing development of oil and gas in the Hobbs field in eastern New Mexico, forced the Mid-West company some competition for the natural gas franchise in these three towns.

WHO WRITES THE PRESIDENT'S PAPERS

Almost every president has had his "ghost writer." Hamilton wrote most of Washington's state papers; Roger B. Taney wrote Andrew Jackson's; the historian Bancroft and the great lawyer, Jeremiah S. Black, wrote Andrew Johnson's. That is to say, these understudies polished into brilliant language the vigorous thoughts that the presidents themselves supplied.

Exceptions to this custom were made by Jefferson, Lincoln, Cleveland, Roosevelt and Wilson, who penned their own papers, though they sometimes had the Secretary of State formulate some important document. Lincoln's second inaugural address is regarded as one of the most nearly perfect literary structures that has come from the White House. It would be interesting, however, to know definitely the author of Lincoln's Thanksgiving proclamation.

A president's literary style is rarely thought of apart from political and state declarations. In Calvin Coolidge's magazine articles we have a striking exception, and judging from the interest and comment on the part of readers, a pleasant one.

President Hoover has developed a homely style that makes his addresses noteworthy. It is so foreign to the scientific mind that some are led to believe that there is a writer of unusual ability on the staff of our engineer president. Nothing like these papers has ever come from a president. They have the sort of charm that one finds in the best of Goldsmith's Chinese Letters.

WOMEN KNIT AND SEW FOR RED CROSS RELIEF

Volunteers Aid Through Motor and Canteen Corps—Send Gifts to Service Men.

Recalling the days of the World War, many women still make pajamas, other hospital garments, many sweaters, and more than 2,500 surgical dressings were rolled by canteen workers for the American Cross Chapters all over the nation the year just closed.

The hospital garments are given to the Red Cross and the surgical dressings go to the American Red Cross or wherever needed. Many canteen workers also maintain well stocked stores of surgical dressings and garments in order to be prepared should disaster strike their communities.

Canteen workers make children's clothing and layettes which are distributed in time of major catastrophes. The Motor Corps of Red Cross women and the Canteen Service were first created during the World War and are maintained by many Cross Chapters. Last year the Motor Corps, some with ambulances, answered about 30,000 calls, the Canteens served more than 100,000 persons. They were especially busy where floods or forest fires or catastrophes called for feeding the homeless or firemen engaged in active fighting disaster.

Volunteer activity of women volunteers is that of filling Christmas bags, small cretonne ditty bags—to send soldiers and sailors who are stationed at posts or ports abroad. More than 40,000 of these are sent each year for distribution to the Americans at Christmas time.

LABOR HEAD URGES SUPPORT OF RED CROSS

Especially it is the masses of the unemployed which suffer most when disaster occurs," stated William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, recently.

Because they suffer most and because of their helplessness, the ministrations of the Red Cross organization have added significance and importance. No doubt many lives among particular groups are saved through the prompt service which this organization gives.

Because the American Federation of Labor appreciates this fact, we have presented the appeal of the American Red Cross at each Roll Call period and memberships from the great mass of working men and women and their families.

The continued service of the American Federation of Labor in this most important and unselfish work will be cheerfully rendered." Green is a member of the Board of Directors of the American Red

Living Porch Can Be Made Use of in Winter

There is hardly a living porch constructed for summer use that cannot be made livable and attractive for use in winter as a morning room. What a joy it is to be able to use this extra living space in the colder months instead of storing the furniture and rugs and closing it or taking the screens down and storing them away, leaving a lonesome, deserted-looking place at the side or front or back of our house.

While many may feel that they do not care to spend much money in furnishing a porch if used in the summer months only, surely if the same porch may be used all the year round the outlay of even a considerable sum of money does not seem too much to make this permanent room comfortable and lovely.

And all-year-round out-of-door living room may be made acceptable artistically and comfortably livable without a great outlay of money or may be made as elaborate as the purse will allow.

BABY OF BELL SYSTEM FAMILY HAS BUSY YEAR

Nearly 750,000,000 telephone calls were handled over the Bell lines in the State of New Jersey during 1929, and more than 40,000 telephones were added, making a total of 623,000 Bell telephones in service in New Jersey at the beginning of 1929.

The New Jersey Bell Telephone Company, the youngest of the Associated Bell Companies, expanded its plant during the year to the extent of $15,000,000. This expansion included the addition of new equipment and the extension of local and toll lines by more than 270,000 miles of wire. More than half of this wire was placed underground in storm-proof cable. For 1929 a still wider expansion is planned.

JAMES J. WALKER RE-ELECTED MAYOR OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Mayor James J. Walker was re-elected mayor of New York Tuesday in the quadrennial municipal election in a great democratic sweep. He had a lead of 394,645 votes over Congressman Fiorello H. Laguardia, republican fusion candidate in 2,600 districts out of the 3,411 in the city.

The democratic landslide was indicated in the first returns. Thereafter every district vote count added to the mounting total.

Laguardia, who had conducted a fiery campaign, conceded the mayor's re-election soon after 8:30 o'clock and sent a congratulatory telegram to him.

"I am licked," he added grimly to a circle of close friends as he listened to the returns, "but there is no rancor and I hope the election is all for the best."

Mayor Walker withheld formal comment until later but was plainly elated. He received an ovation at police headquarters where he watched the vote being counted early in the evening. Later he motored to Tammany Hall in Union Square where the "Braves" were jubilantly celebrating.

Vote For Mayor

The vote for mayor in 2,600 of the 3,411 districts was:

J. J. Walker, D. 670,182
F. H. Laguardia, R. 275,537
Norman Thomas, S. 117,325
R. E. Enright, Square-Deal. 4,376

The republicans gained a shred of comfort in the apparent re-election of George U. Harvey as Borough President of Queens. This was one of the hottest political battles this borough has ever held in its storm history.

Out of the 634 Queens districts 450 of them gave Harvey 101,592 and Edward W. Cox, democrat, 82,599.

THRIFT AS NECESSARY FOR YOUNG AS FOR THE OLD

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift.

Much is made of the value of thrift in preparing us for days of adversity. Quite properly we are told ever and over again that the best safeguard against dependence due to illness, unemployment, old age or some other condition of restricted income, is thrift.

But it should be borne in mind, also that it is equally important that through thrift we prepare for good times as well. Thrift is for the strong, the ambitious, and the progressive as well as for those who may be living in the shadow of impending misfortune. The following is from the pen of a young man:

"Saving money, for the young unmarried man, in many cases molds his character by self-denial of things he does not need, improves his health by eliminating dissipation and encouraging regular hours of sleep, improves the quality of his work by putting him in a better physical position and lessening the number of distracting outside interests and influences."

He also explained that he was able to make a large saving by keeping a budget. He did not feel that his habits implied stinginess or tight-fistedness, but he realized that his success in life depended on his ability to save money while young. He said he had observed that few successes in the business world were permanent unless the man had learned to save money, and that he did not believe he ever would amount to much if he did not learn first of all to master himself.

He displayed a deep appreciation of thrift values when he called attention to the fact that it was not alone money he was saving that would benefit him in after years, but that to a still greater degree benefits would ensue from strength of character which he was attaining.

Thrift indeed is for the young as well as the old, for the strong as well as the infirm. It belongs to the hopeful sunny days as well as the idle, rainy ones.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S.
St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. LeGear is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-six years of veterinary practice on diseases of live stock and poultry. Eminent authority on poultry and stock raising. Nationally known poultry breeder. Noted author and popular lecturer.

BEATING TROUBLE TO THE DRAW

In the roistering days of the old wild west, the fellow who was the quickest at getting his gun into action had the best chance for long life. Consequently, it was not surprising that men spent hours practicing the art of beating the other fellow to the draw. Their lives might some day depend on it. Today, far less effort invested in preventive measures would save the lives of thousands of fowls that now are sacrificed annually.

For one thing, too little attention is often paid to weeding out the unfit. Chicks that are obviously deformed or hopeless weaklings should be killed at once. Weaklings contract diseases that healthy, well developed chicks would throw off easily, thus making easy the spread of trouble among the rest of the flock. It is most certainly false economy or none at all to save some of the fowls one often sees in flocks otherwise fairly well cared for.

Another way to beat trouble to the draw is to adopt every possible means for eliminating vermin of every description. Lice, mites, ticks and all other such pests sap the vitality of fowls to a point where they easily become prey to all sorts of diseases. Constant vigilance is needed to guard fowls against these tiny enemies. They should be inspected periodically and dusted with a good lice powder if there are any parasites on their bodies. Lice powder should be added to the dust bath and let the hens use this at will. Their quarters should be thoroughly cleaned out at frequent intervals and every nook and cranny should be sprayed with a strong solution of dip and disinfectant. Whitewash is another preventative that is not used nearly as much as it should be. It is well to apply it at least twice a year and put it on hot. If two or three ounces of dip and disinfectant is mixed in each gallon of whitewash it will be very effective in killing mites and other insects. It should be forcibly sprayed on if possible, as that will drive it into every crack and crevice where parasites might find a hiding place.

Tainted foods, too, can cause no end of trouble. Mouldy grains are particularly dangerous. Damaged or cheap inferior feeds of any kind should not be fed at all. Cheap feed is dear at any price. Limberneck, bowel disorders and other troubles are caused by eating spoiled feed. Feed of the best quality only should be fed.

In plain everyday cleanliness, however, comes the greatest protection against the possible invasion of disease. Houses should be so constructed that they can easily be kept clean, and have either solid board or concrete floors that will permit of easy cleaning and disinfecting. Clean quarters cannot very well harbor disease germs. Special care should be exercised in disposing of the droppings. Noxious gases arising from droppings harbor disease germs without number, and intestinal worms besides. Droppings should be removed frequently and used for fertilizer away from the flock. Dead birds should be burned or buried deeply, and a regular cleanup program should be carried out often. This, with the regular use of a good coal tar dip and disinfectant, will prove very effective in preventing many disease and insects pests.

Of course, disease may take its toll of any flock, no matter how carefully cared for. As a rule, however, any extra effort invested in such preventive measures as those described above will pay big dividends. Strong, healthy fowls, protected as much as possible from the various sources of disease, will resist epidemics that would wipe out others. They are also more vigorous and productive in every way.

Iron Crosses and Beer for Signal Boys

Eleven o'clock, November 11, 1918, which brought joy and thanksgiving to large numbers of the A. E. F., was merely another one of those days to the gallant members of B company, Three Hundred and First Field Signal battalion, once of the Seventy-sixth division, who were winning the war by keeping open communication by telephone between French points of command and detachments of negro infantry, C. C. Rodenbach recalls writing in the Chicago Daily News.

The order came over the wires the night before to spread the good news that the war was officially over at eleven o'clock the next morning. But these same signal choristers had been fooled once before on such reports of peace. Back some time in October there was a rumor of armistices. But the rumors had never reached the Germans, for they treacherously let loose a flock of shells when all of the switchboarders not on duty were on their way down the hill for beer.

Stop for Vin Blanc.

This order, however, was authentic. At eleven o'clock the daily interchange of desultory firing ceased. There was no switching to do, and the boys went down one hill and over another toward the late foe man and his souvenirs.

Inasmuch as the gallant soldiery had not discharged its revolvers at the foe before the armistice, it was considered advisable to hold target practice after the armistice. The choristers selected a tree as a target. Nobody hit a tree, but somebody almost hit a lieutenant. It made him very angry, indeed.

"Didn't anybody tell you," he asked, "that there was to be no more firing after eleven o'clock? I could have you court martialed for this."

"Yes, sir," said the choristers, and continued toward the foe man less jauntily.

The foe man was opening a large keg of black beer at the time the signal boys showed up. The collar on the brew was very tall and frothy, and was described by the barkeep pro-tem as "ein Chicago koller."

After a few selds, the barter for souvenirs began. America may have won the war, but Germany got back most of its reparations on its souvenirs. Iron crosses, which had been issued the troops along with the rations, were still wrapped in their tissue paper, and changed into American possession for 50 francs apiece—and that was when a franc was a franc.

Get Souvenirs and Beer.

The signal boys got all the souvenirs they could buy or barter, and all the beer they could hold, and were about to start back, when an important-looking automobile bounded into view. Out of it came a fat, red-faced colonel, of the same shape, but not the same temper as Santa Claus.

"What are you men doing here?" demanded the colonel. "Don't you know there is to be no fraternizing with the enemy? Don't you know I could have you court martialed for this?"

"Yes, sir," said the choristers, and made off toward home, leaving to the colonel and his staff what remained of the iron crosses and the beer.

Quick and the Deid. It is a yearly testimonial to all the fallen, whether it is celebrated at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, at the cenotaphs, the battle gates or the arches of triumph or in some quiet country place far from the flags and the music of ceremony. The crowds and the solemn processions bear annual witness that these dead have not died altogether in vain and that their memory will endure so long as men set honor and courage above ease and contentment.

For the living it is a reminder that war has not forever gone and that its madness lurks deep in the race. This and the lessons of duty, of devotion, of self-sacrifice and of discipline are the supreme lessons of the struggle that ended eleven years ago today. On this and on every Eleventh of November, despite the disillusion and despairs of Peace, humanity can look back to that cold, gray autumn morning of 1918 and remind itself that once, at least, it touched the very peaks of human greatness.

Eleven Years of Peace Sees Dawn of New Day

In Arlington National cemetery, where the Memorial amphitheater erected to all American war dead stands, the words Lincoln used at Gettysburg long ago are carved to pledge that spirit of the nation against aggressive war.

"We here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain."

It was the rebirth of the nation, the coming of a new day when America should again stand forth in the world as one people under one flag, with national aspirations of peace and happiness revealed in the fiery ordeal of civil war, that Lincoln saw as he spoke.

Decades later, in 1921, when the great, open, airy temple of patriotism at Arlington was rededicated at the burial within its sanctuary of America's Unknown from France, another President was to call similarly upon the gathered great men of many nations, come to frame the naval limitations pact.

"There must be, there shall be, the commanding voice of a conscious civilization against armed warfare," President Harding said.

And eleven years after the World war ended, years filled with clashes of conflicting opinion at home and abroad, years when the nerves of governments and peoples have been tried sorely in the bitter aftermath of war, who shall say America has failed to keep her pledge to her dead?

A wedding of interest to the citizens of the community occurred in Carlsbad last week when Carl Nelson and Miss Lucille Price were quietly married. The groom is a prosperous farmer of the Cottonwood community and the bride is the younger daughter of Ed Price. Best wishes of the community are extended to the newly-weds.

One of the outstanding social features of the season occurred Friday evening at the B. C. Moots home, when Mrs. Moss Spence, who is sponsor of the freshman class, entertained the class members with a Halloween party, each class member was permitted to bring a guest. The colors of orange and black carried out the Halloween scheme, as did the games and the refreshments consisting of cider, pumpkin pie, cookies and fudge.

OXFORD'S PANSY MOSES MAKES NEW HIGH RECORD

Once again a new record for the state has been established by a cow belonging to the New Mexico Agricultural College. Oxford's Pansy Moses 350910, was started on a test at thirteen years of age and established a new record for Jerseys over twelve years of age. To win this championship, Pansy Moses yielded 454.42 pounds of butterfat and 8,418 pounds of milk which averaged 5.40 per cent fat for the year. In the month in which her yield was greatest, her butterfat record was 67.81 pounds and for six months of the twelve she was under test, her name appeared on the fifty-pound list.

This new champion has been tested before, once as a senior four-year old, when she produced 485.77 pounds of butterfat and 7,447 pounds of milk in 365 days and again when she was started on test at the age of eight years and eleven months and yielded 475 pounds of fat and 9,169 pounds of milk in 305 days following.

The sire of the new record maker is Combination's Dairy Boy 113343, and her dam is Oxford's Golden Pansy 295319.

In addition to this new aged-cow state championship, the New Mexico Agricultural College has five other individuals in their fine herd of pure-bred Jerseys which now hold state championships in the various age classes.

PEN WARDEN THRIFTY

SANT AFE—Warden Pat Dugan of the state penitentiary is probably the thriftiest official in the employment of the state.

What others throw away, Mr. Dugan carefully collects and saves for clear as well as rainy days.

Six trucks at the state pen, used to haul clay from the pits north of town to the brick plant at the pen have been running on junk for months.

When something goes wrong with a truck and the driver sends in a request for a new part, Mr. Dugan sends back the laconic answer: "Look in the junk pile!"

It makes no difference what is wanted, all one needs do is dig down far enough in the pile of scrap iron and it will be found, the warden says.

Mr. Dugan every day has trucks haul away the cinders accumulated at the capitol. These are used in making brick. All old iron which other department junk, Mr. Dugan gathers up and saves.

Recently the comptroller's department had a batch of old license plates which they were going to dispose of. Mr. Dugan sent for them.

"I don't know what I'm going to do with them," he said, "but I'll find some place to put them if I have to shingle a chicken pen."

WORLD PEACE THROUGH MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING

TEXT—Isa. 2:2-4; 11:6-10; Acts 17:22-28; John 4:20, 21.

THEY SHALL NOT HURT ANY MAN IN ALL MY HOLY MOUNTAIN. For the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord as the waters cover the sea.

Primary Topic—Friends of the World

Secondary Topic—Friends of the World

Immediate and Senior Topics

Working for World Peace. Young People and Adult Topics. Share in Promoting International Understanding.

This lesson title is somewhat misleading. It is not world peace through mutual understanding, but through the coming of Jesus Christ, the establishment of His kingdom on the earth.

Messiah's Kingdom Established (2:2-4). "mountain" in the Scriptures is a kingdom (Dan. 2:35, Rev. 17:9-11).

Its position (v. 2). It shall be in a place of supremacy. Kingdoms of the world shall then be the kingdom of Christ (Rev. 19:11).

The restored kingdom the teacher the gentiles (v. 3). The called Israel and made her the nation in order that she might know His name among other nations. Now, after many centuries of slavery and rebellion, the chosen comes into its own. God's will be so outstanding as to gain attention of the whole world.

The Divine Judge (v. 4). The problems of the world which are beyond man's capacity to solve are adjudicated by the One who is wise, and He shall then rebuke people. Because of this rebuke, shall convert their implements of war into implements of husbandry. shall learn war no more.

Description of His Reign (Isa. 60). Universal peace between men and animals will prevail. In this picture animal is coupled with that one which it naturally preys.

The wolf shall dwell with the lamb. The leopard shall lie down with the gazelle. The calf, the young lion and the bear shall lie down together. A little child shall lead them. The cow and bear shall feed together. The lion shall eat straw like the ox.

The sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp. The weaned child shall put its hand upon the den of the cockatrice. The coming of Christ will have a re-creating effect upon the whole creation. The only peace for the earth is when Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace, shall reign.

Peace Among the Nations by the Knowledge of God (Acts 17:22-28).

The way to bring peace among the nations is to make God known. Paul in his discourse on Mars' hill by pointing to one of their inscriptions, the unknown God, and declared that it was His purpose to make known God unto them. By using this as a point of contact he made declarations about God and man which if followed will tend to the unity of nations.

Declaration concerning God (vv. 23-28).

The Creator of the universe. Lord of heaven and earth. Being naturally spirit, He demands heart worship, and being Creator He cannot be confined to an earthly temple. His active providence. He declares that in Him we live and move and have our being.

Declaration concerning man (vv. 29-31).

We are the offspring of God. (2) Nations have their place and purpose. (3) Men should worship God. The truth thus declared concerning God and man, if received, remove national and racial barriers.

The Basis of National Union (Eph. 4:20, 21).

The coming union of nations will not be formed by symbols, but in spirit. The union of the race must be around Christ. Being united to Him as men are brought into fellowship with God. The Christian church is the supreme unifier of nations (Eph. 4:13).

If we would hasten world peace let us with diligence and endeavor to induce men to allegiance to Jesus Christ.

The Cheerful Heart. Delights in nothing more than a cheerful heart, careful to perform his service. What parent is it not joyful to see his child in the limits of a filial duty? Felicitous, in Resolves.

The Bible. English Bible—a book which, if read in our language should suffice to show the extent of its beauty and power. Macaulay.

F. A. HAZELTINE, SENIOR PROHIBITION OFFICER VISITS ARTESIA MOND'Y

F. A. Hazeltine, senior prohibition investigator, was in the city Monday to confer with Carl Gordon, the town marshal on some cases made by him when he was chief of police in Roswell with a view to asserting some penalties under some old revenue acts against bootleggers and while here, looked over the city police and justice court records with a view to asserting similar penalties against any violators here that might have property. He passes up the busted bootleggers and he says that nine out of ten of them are broke after one experience in court but the richer men he hales into court after they have been convicted locally and they are given a second jolt. Incidentally he praised Mr. Gordon for his work in Roswell which he says was very effective.

Mr. Hazeltine has been assigned to this state to look after what he calls a neglected class of workers. It seems that when a bootlegger is convicted in the federal court he is automatically assessed for some penalties under the old revenue acts passed largely at the instance of the liquor interests themselves long before prohibition came into effect but the violators convicted in the local courts have been overlooked and it is Mr. Hazeltine's duty to give them up and listing them for the assertion of penalties that they, too, are liable for.

He is going back five years on the court records of the district, police and justice courts and says that the violators are not as appreciative of his attention as they might be. Also he says that the second jolt thus given them is very discouraging and has proven quite a deterrent to potential bootleggers. A million dollars was collected from violators in the way of these penalties last and he rather expects that the sum will be increased this year.

Old Acts Not Repealed. It may be remembered that every saloon keeper used to pay a revenue tax of $25.00 before he took out his local saloon license. The payment of the tax gave him no license to sell but it saved him from paying a possible $2,000 for not having paid the tax when a federal revenue agent called on him. The United States supreme court has ruled that this regulation, along with many other revenue acts of the old days before prohibition were not repealed by the Volstead act, but are still very much in force and effect. The bootlegger is the only dealer left in bone dry states, like New Mexico, but he has been dilatory in paying this tax because he realized that its payment meant notice to the prohibition department that he was going to do some bootlegging and he took some chances.

Moonshiners Involved too. In the same way the distillers paid a minimum tax of $100 on their distilleries and there was a penalty of $1,000 if they didn't. The moonshiners took the same view of the situation as their conferees, the bootleggers, and did not pay the tax for distilling moonshine. Then, as distillers, they were supposed to register their stills with the revenue department, which is the last thing they would think of doing, and they are liable for $500 for neglecting to do that. Also there is a penalty of $6.40 for every gallon of moonshine which they have on hand. The home brewer also comes in for his five cents worth as he is running a brewery and every brewery is expected to pay a tax of $50 or a penalty of $500.

There are several minor taxes and penalties that can be invoked, but the above are the main ones. Where the convention idea comes in is that the prohibition department will first notify the violators of the amounts they owe and if they don't settle, then they are sued by the U. S. district attorney who is likely to invite them to an informal reception here with no receiving line but himself and his stenographer and no one to "pour" except the bootleggers pour out their troubles which are checked with the report made on them by Hazeltine, taken from the court records.

He says that as a rule they settle as the court records rather cramp their style if they deny liability. Hazeltine is visiting every county in the state making up these invitation lists and he is about as popular with the violators as a man with the smallpox.

Hazeltine is a newspaper man, he and his son running a paper, the Journal in South Bend, Washington, which was the first paper in that state to refuse liquor ads, forty years ago. Hazeltine has been in the prohibition enforcement work for some eight years, first as chief of agents in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska, then in Pennsylvania and Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazeltine addressed the high school on the poisonous nature of the liquor now being made and sold and Mrs. Hazeltine also addressed the Spanish class as she was a native of Argentina.

Weevils can be prevented from breeding in stored beans and peas by mixing dust or air-slacked lime with the seeds.

Pullets that are to lay well throughout the winter months should begin laying the middle of October or first of November.

One of the rules to follow in figuring the dairy cow's grain ration is to allow 1 pound of grain each day for every pound of butterfat she produces in a week.

It is often economical to chop, cut, or chaff poor-quality hay for horses, as it is eaten with less waste than the unprepared forage. Usually it doesn't pay to cut low-priced hay of good quality for feeding.

Beef usually become more palatable and tender if allowed to ripen or age for two or three weeks before being cut up. The quarters or wholesale cuts are ordinarily aged in a dry cooler carrying a temperature around 36° F.

In Iowa, the big farm pays best, according to a study of farm records made in 1928 by 25 farmers in Webster county. The records show that 80-acre farms suffered an average loss of $171 on management; the 160-acre farms averaged $558 management return; the 240-acre farms averaged $1,021; and the 320-acre farms were credited with $1,848 management returns.

While corn silage is an excellent feed for the dairy cow, it is not a balanced one, and some legume hay should be given to supply sufficient protein and mineral matter. From 6 to 12 or more pounds of alfalfa, soybean, cowpea, or red, crimson or alsike clover hay, in addition to the silage, is a good ration. Hay from Canada field peas, sown with oats to prevent the peas from lodging, also makes excellent roughage.

Eighty-three game and bird reservations are now administered by the Department of Agriculture for the conservation of wild life. One of the largest of these is the Upper Mississippi River Wild Life and Fish Refuge. Another important one was authorized by congress in 1928, Bear River Bay, Great Salt Lake, Utah. Important breeding, feeding, and resting grounds for migratory game birds are also provided at Big Lake, Arkansas, Malheur and Upper Klamath Lakes, Oregon and Tule Lake, California.

On days of low humidity and high winds, fires are easily started and hard to stop. This is a season when many persons take advantage of the drouth and slack times to burn off the accumulation of weeds, rubbish and bugs. A large number of woods fires are caused by allowing such rubbish fires to get beyond control and spread into the woods. Choose a cloudy rainy day to burn rubbish, and watch the fire closely.

Hogs are supposed to be so constituted that they cannot economically digest dry hay or fodder, but alfalfa is an exception. Hogs will not eat alfalfa hay readily at first, but after becoming accustomed to it they relish a limited quantity, especially hay made from plants cut at an early stage. Alfalfa hay added to the grain ration reduces the cost of grains and is good for the hogs. Alfalfa is especially good for brood sows.

It's a good plan to examine orchards regularly in the fall and early spring for signs of mouse injury. Mouse injury in orchards may be prevented in four ways: Removing cover around trees; treating trees with washes to repel mice; inclosing trees with mechanical protectors; and killing the rodents. Poison-bait stations are probably the best way of controlling mice in orchards, according to the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Dietitian: "Yes, a few lettuce leaves without oil, and a glass of orange juice. There madam, that completes your daily diet."

Mrs. Overweight: "Thank you so much, doctor, but do I take this before or after meals?"

DAN EIPPER A PIONEER RESIDENT PASSES ON FUNERAL HELD SAT.

Dan Eipper, age 64, pioneer resident of the Artesia community, passed away at his home on Rose-lawn avenue, Thursday evening, after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage Thursday noon. Mr. Eipper had been in ill health for several months and at one time was apparently improved, but could never rally enough strength to regain his normal condition.

Mr. Eipper moved with his family to Artesia some twenty years ago and had been a resident of the community continuously since that date. He was liked and respected by all who knew him and numbered his friends by his acquaintances.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist church, Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. Rev. H. G. Scoggins, pastor officiating. A beautiful vocal solo was rendered by a ladies quartette, composed of Mesdames Martin Yates, Gates, Wheatley and McCann, with Mrs. Ike Keller accompanying. The profuse and beautiful floral offerings were evidence of the esteem, which the people of Artesia held for the deceased.

Mr. Eipper is survived by a widow, a daughter, Mrs. Grover Kinder, of Artesia and two sons, Dan Eipper, of Moline, Illinois and Ollin Eipper, of Wilmington, California and several grand children. None of the out of state relatives were able to be present at the funeral. His two sons visited here earlier in the year.

CHRISTMAN LOSES PLANE

James Christman, former resident of Artesia had the misfortune to lose his airplane, a Hartman, when a severe windstorm struck Shomokin airport, at Shomokin, Pennsylvania recently, according to word received here by Mrs. Christman. While Mr. Christman suffered the loss of his plane he considers himself lucky that he escaped with his life. Due credit must be given his pipe. According to the story of the accident, Christman had been working at the airport practically all day and had stepped in the administration building to get his pipe. While in the administration building of the airport a storm struck, shattering the hanger like so much chaff before the wind and wrecking his plane. The administration building escaped serious damage due to the fact that it was on the grounds about a hundred feet lower than the hanger.

Mr. Christman expects to visit his family here about the 10th of this month.

CONTINENTAL REFINERY FIRE

Quick work on the part of the refinery fire department checked what might have been a very serious fire at the Continental Refinery, when a broken still line ignited Sunday night shortly after 9:00 p. m. The blaze was extinguished after a short time by the use of chemicals and a steam line. The principal damage was confined to the installations and is estimated at about $200,000.

In compliance with the rule that each home economics department may be represented by three students, Miss Ruth Morgan took three girls from the Artesia school to the meeting of the State Home Economics Student club, which was in session in Albuquerque during the State Teachers' Association. Considering that there were about seventy girls in attendance Artesia has reason to feel gratified at the honor that has come to one of its representatives.

The boy had been ill all summer, but his death came as a distinct shock to friends here, who had not realized the serious character of his illness. Interment will be at Alamogordo tomorrow.

GRAVEL PLACED ON HIGHWAY

The highway has been oiled from here to Lake Arthur, leaving only about 17 miles to be finished between Lake Arthur and Dexter.

Heroic Dead Worthy of Their Day of Tribute

Armistice day was set apart as a periodical reminder to this country of what the World war cost it in treasure and in young life and limb. The apparently growing tendency of business to ignore the day meets with a rebuke from Gen. Charles H. Cole, who protests against the commercialization of a day sacred to the memory of his fallen comrades. Veterans of the war will not be alone in applauding this protest. All Americans, whether the war took personal toll of them or not, who are still mindful of the significance of that greatest of all human upheavals, will second it.

With all our wealth, with all our prosperity, we can better afford to slow up the wheels of industry and trade for the space of one short day than to forget the sacrifice made by those who died that those wheels might not be stopped entirely. A nation that can so soon forget the sacrifice will not long remember its purpose or its achievement.—Detroit: Free Press.

Soldiers' Heritage.

And so, on this Armistice day, there comes back a voice from the dead—the voice of a poet British born, but adopted by the world, who died on the field before the dawn of the day of peace—to remind us that America's, as well as the world's, greatest gain from the war of the nations are the memories of the hero dead and not the selfish glories of victory:

No more shall the war cry sever
Or the winding rivers run red,
They banish our anger forever,
When they laurel the graves of our dead.

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day,
Love and tears for the blue,
Tears and love for the gray.

They have no pact to sign—our peaceful dead.
Pacts are for trembling hands and heads grown gray.
Ten million graves record what youth has sold,
And cannot now un-say.

They have no pact to sign—our quiet dead.
Whose eyes in that eternal peace are drowned.
Age doubts and wakes, and asks if night be fled;
But youth sleeps sound.

They have no pact to sign—our faithful dead.
There is a deeper pledge, unseen, unheard,
Sealed in the dark, un-written, sealed with red;
And they will keep their word.

They have no pact to sign—our happy dead.
But H. O. God, if WE should sign in vain,
With dreadful eyes, out of each narrow bed,
Our dead will rise again.

—New York Times

War's Hatreds No Heritage of Americans

To those who have observed with thoughtful minds the changing character of the American celebrations of Armistice day there will come today a deeper understanding of our national ideals and a more illuminating conception of that essential spirit that has set America apart, in its aims and purposes, from all the nations of the Old world. When the news first broke upon a war-weary world eleven years ago that the day of peace had at last dawned, it was but natural that we should join with the other allied nations, our brothers in the great struggle in exultant manifestations of triumph over victory achieved as well as joy at the happy termination of the years of storm and struggle. But the wild exuberance of those first celebrations has diminished with each recurrence of the anniversary of Armistice day. It is no longer in America a day of victory exultation, but a day of tender memories and glorification of the heroic dead for whom the day of peace dawned in another world. The malice and the hatreds of war, the delirium of conquest and the vainglory of military triumph, have passed like incidents of an evil hour. In their place have come the effluence of those beneficent aims and purposes which were the corner stones of the nation's foundations and which, in every national crisis, have risen to assert themselves, as the true national ideals, above the shouts of victory or the transient glories of military successes. It is in this spirit that America proclaims to the world the ringing truth that it is not a militaristic nation, but the world's arbiter of peace.

Victories Not Celebrated.

This note of charity and healing peace has been characteristic of the aftermaths of all our nation's great wars. Jena and Austerlitz, Trafalgar and Waterloo, are still names that commemorate military achievements abroad and monuments and arches of triumph and days of celebration still perpetuate victories of the past over there. It is characteristic of the American spirit that we have not followed that custom. Our greatest monument attests a heroic defeat—that of Bunker Hill. No national holiday has ever been set aside to commemorate a military victory. Yorktown, New Orleans, Buena Vista, Gettysburg, the Appomattox campaign, Santiago and Manila Bay are still patriotic memories, but they are perpetuated only in glorious history and not in days of exultation. America's policy and spirit have always been characterized by a charitable forgetfulness of the hatreds of war and the extended hand of renewed peace to the foe.

Such was the last word that Washington left to the young republic still cherishing memories of the Revolutionary struggle: "It will be worthy of a free, enlightened and, at no distant period, a great nation to give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people guided by an exalted justice and benevolence. . . . In the execution of such a plan nothing is more essential than that permanent inveterate antipathies against particular nations and passionate attachments for others, should be excluded and that in place of them just and amicable feelings toward all should be cultivated."

Lincoln's Great Message.
With the end of the great Civil war in sight—one of the most bitter wars ever fought—Lincoln in his second inaugural address voiced the same message: "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and for his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

It was the same thought that found poetic expression in Francis M. Finch's "The Blue and the Gray":

No more shall the war cry sever
Or the winding rivers run red,
They banish our anger forever,
When they laurel the graves of our dead.

Under the sod and the dew,
Waiting the judgment day,
Love and tears for the blue,
Tears and love for the gray.

They have no pact to sign—our faithful dead.
There is a deeper pledge, unseen, unheard,
Sealed in the dark, un-written, sealed with red;
And they will keep their word.

They have no pact to sign—our happy dead.
But H. O. God, if WE should sign in vain,
With dreadful eyes, out of each narrow bed,
Our dead will rise again.

A WEATHERFORD JURY ACQUITS HAMILTON FOR WALTON MURDER

WEATHERFORD, Texas—R. H. Hamilton last night was acquitted of murder for slaying his 21-year-old son-in-law, Tom Walton, Jr., in Hamilton's Amarillo law office last May 4th.

The jury returned to the court room one hour and nine minutes after leaving and the verdict was read one hour and forty-nine minutes after consideration of the case was begun. The verdict was reached on the third ballot, the first being eight to four for acquittal, the second eleven to one. J. E. Whitsett, the only juror not a farmer, was the foreman.

Hamilton was not in the court room when the verdict was read. District Judge J. E. Carter did not demand his presence since the verdict was one of acquittal.

After Judge Carter read the verdict, Robert H. Hamilton Jr., a student in the University of Minnesota, walked to the jury box and said to foreman Whitsett:

"I really don't know how to thank you," and then shook Whitsett's hand, as did Dexter Hamilton, the accused man's brother. The jury then disbanded, Robert and Dexter rushing to the hotel where Hamilton awaited the decision.

Calling Cards, 100 for $1.75, on best grade paneled or plain stock.—The Advocate.

Blow out, you bugles, over the rich Dead!
There's none of these so lonely and poor of old,
But, dying, has made us rarer gifts than gold.
These laid the world away; poured out the red Sweet wine of youth; gave up the years to be
Of work and joy, and that unhelped serene That men call age; and those who would have been Their sons, they gave their immortality.
Honor has come back, as a king to earth,
And paid his subjects with a royal wage;
And Nobleness walks in our ways again,
And we have come into our heritage.

It is thoughts such as these, expressed by our own great statesmen and by this poet from across the seas, that should blend in the reflection of our hours of meditation today into a forgetfulness of all hatreds and a renewal of hopes for that reign of Peace which America, as a nation, has always symbolized.—From the Kansas City Star.

LIVING COSTS NOT ADVANCED

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The dollar bill, which was made one-third smaller last July, lost none of its purchasing power in its shrinkage, according to Ethelbert Stewart, chief of the U. S. bureau of labor statistics.

Stewart said Monday that data compiled by his department showed the cost of living in the United States had varied but a fraction of one per cent within the last year and that the dollar was about holding its own.

"The index number for the cost of living, based on 100 prior to the World War, is now about 170," Stewart said. "Food costs about 55 per cent more than it did in 1914. Clothing is up about 61 per cent; rent 53; fuel and light 75; house furnishing goods 98 and miscellaneous items 107 points.

"There have only been a few minor changes in the index figures recently that do not effect the cost of living one way or another."

Stewart said that other reports indicated there was more employment this year than in 1928. He said there was increased employment in the bituminous mines while there has been a decrease in the number of workers in the automobile industry.

MALJAMAR ROAD IS FINISHED

The George Beal construction crew, Tuesday finished the thirteen mile stretch of gravel road on the Maljamar highway. Approximately three miles of gravel was placed on the road just under the Cap Rock and ten miles east of the Twin wills. The original job called for ten miles of gravel but through the efforts of local citizens an additional three mile stretch was graveled.

THE PACT—By Alfred Noyes

They have no pact to sign—our peaceful dead.
Pacts are for trembling hands and heads grown gray.
Ten million graves record what youth has sold,
And cannot now un-say.

They have no pact to sign—our quiet dead.
Whose eyes in that eternal peace are drowned.
Age doubts and wakes, and asks if night be fled;
But youth sleeps sound.

They have no pact to sign—our faithful dead.
There is a deeper pledge, unseen, unheard,
Sealed in the dark, un-written, sealed with red;
And they will keep their word.

They have no pact to sign—our happy dead.
But H. O. God, if WE should sign in vain,
With dreadful eyes, out of each narrow bed,
Our dead will rise again.
