TWO MEN ARRESTED ON WORTHLESS CHECK CHARGE SATURDAY

Two men, who gave their names as E. B. Box and Lloyd Morgan, were arrested here Saturday evening charged with passing worthless checks. Two checks for the amount of $64.64 each were passed at two local stores. Each check was drawn on the account of the Collins Pipe Line Co., of Borger, Texas. When arraigned before Justice S. W. Gilbert, the offenders waived preliminary hearing, after pleading not guilty and were placed under a bond of $500 each and taken to Carlsbad, where they will await the action of the Eddy county district court.

CROP IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION TO OFFER EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

A Splendid Program Being Prepared In Connection With Business Session—Many Farmers Coming From Other Sections.

The New Mexico Improvement Association at its third annual meeting which will take place at Artesia, October 7, will offer an educational program in addition to the regular business session. Arthur Behmer, a representative of the Mile High Alfalfa Seed Growers' Association of Union county, will discuss alfalfa seed production and marketing from a farmer's standpoint. The new alfalfa seed cleaning equipment at the Bullock warehouse will be visited, as well as the Artesia demonstration farm.

The value of certified potato seed as compared with common seed in the lower altitudes will be discussed by J. W. Newberry, one of the most successful low altitude potato growers in Dona Ana county. C. P. Pardue of Carlsbad, will discuss producing certified cotton. Dr. Stroman, plant breeder at the experiment station, will present a paper on developing new and better strains of farm crops.

Each local association will give a report on its activities during the past year. Farmers from Rio Arriba, Taos and several northern New Mexico counties and southern counties will be well represented. Dona Ana county is planning to send several cars of delegates. It is expected that several of the workers from State College will also be in attendance.

ASSOCIATION GIN AT ESPULA DESTROYED BY FIRE THIS MORNING

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the gin plant of the Alfalfa Assn. at the Espula switch this morning between 4:00 and 6:00 o'clock. The night watchman and two of the night crew were about the plant at the time of the fire. One member of the night crew was asleep in the cotton bin and another member with the night watchman had stepped into the gin office, when a fire was seen in the boiler room. A strong west wind aided in spreading the flames from the boiler room located in the west side of the building to the main part of the plant. Volunteers fought the flames valiantly, but could make little headway. A water pump and three or four barrels of water were thrown into use, but could not extinguish the flames.

In addition to the gin building and machinery, six or seven bales of cotton were lost in the fire. The seed house with a car of cotton seed was saved. The amount of loss sustained on the plant was placed at $15,000 this morning, in addition to the loss on the cotton. The plant was partly covered by insurance.

Looking to the accommodation of the Alfalfa Association customers, W. R. Hornbaker, manager, issued the following statement this morning: "Our Espula gin plant burned early this morning. For our Espula customers this will mean a great deal of inconvenience, but we mean to do everything within our power to accommodate them. To do this we are putting on day and night crews at our Artesia and Atoka gins. At Artesia we have storage for 60 bales and customers coming from a distance needing their trucks or wagons may use this storage.

But in addition to all that we can

East Limits Hobbs Pool Are Not Yet Established

Grimes No. 1 Of Prairie Oil Co. Comes In Good Well—New Company Enters Field—Texas Co., May Build Line To Hobbs.

With several offset wells made in the Hobbs pool, Lea county during the past week, prospects are said to be good for additional offset wells to be located in the area within the next fifteen days. The Vacuum Oil Co., it is said has entered the Hobbs field and made a location in the northeast corner, SW 1/4 section 31-18-38. The Vacuum Oil Co., drilled a well southeast of Lovington, several months ago, but it has not been numbered among the producing or drilling companies in the Hobbs territory.

Possibly the most interesting completion in the Hobbs field in the past week, was the Grimes No. 1 of the Prairie Oil and Gas Co., 2310 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the west line sec. 29-18-38, which was drilled to a total depth of 4191 feet. On a company test the well is said to have made 370 barrels of oil in the first hour, flowing open. The Grimes No. 1, an eastern edge well has the operators guessing just where the east limits of the field will be found. Previous to this time the proven area was thought to have been pretty well established in three directions. Production in this section seems to run about like other fields of the southeastern part of the state and where ever soft spots in the lime are encountered big wells result and hard lime has the opposite effect.

The State No. 2 of the California Co., sec. 29-18-38, appears to be one of the best producers completed since the mid-September proration period. The well was drilled to 4171 feet and on company test the California well made 360 barrels of oil in thirty minutes, flowing open with 14,250,000 feet of gas. The State Northrop No. 4 of the Ohio Oil Co., SE corner SESW sec. 30-18-38 was another good producer completed within this period and made 550 barrels in one hour, flowing open, according to field reports. The State No. 2 of the same company in sec. 30-18-38, made an average of 86 barrels per hour for fourteen hours, on a company gauge. The Grimes No. 1 of the Shell Petroleum Co., 330 feet from the south and east lines of sec. 28-18-38, an early completion made 6156 barrels in 24 hours on a company test from 4175 feet.

Present production records on a wildcat in the Eunice district, being the State No. 1 of the Getty Oil Co., 330 feet from the north and east lines of sec. 19-21-36, have been somewhat disappointing. When cored drilled to 4,000 feet the well is said to have made a 20 barrel head in five minutes. Later efforts were made to test the well by swabbing. According to all available information the well is rated at 300 barrels and may be drilled deeper.

Another Pipe Line For Hobbs
Filed information is to the effect that definite plans are being made by the Texas Company to build an eight inch pipe line from its property at Wink, Texas to Hobbs. Several months ago, the Texas Company constructed an extension from the Eunice district to Hobbs. This carrier has been used by the Shell Pipe Line Co., since its entrance into the field.

HINKLE ACCEPTS THE DEMO. NOMINATION OF LAND COMMISSIONER

Former Governor James F. Hinkle will accept the nomination for state land commissioner on the democratic ticket, he announced last night at Roswell, after hearing of the decision of the state executive committee which met at Santa Fe yesterday afternoon and voted unanimously to refuse his resignation.

"If they won't let me off, then I will have to stand for it," former Governor Hinkle said. "I tried every way possible to decline the position both at the convention and in the press for reasons heretofore stated. But I am no quitter and bow to the will of the democratic party. I am now in the race to win, and if elected will give the best in me to the administration of the office."

EDDY COUNTY DIST. COURT CONVENES AT CARLSBAD OCTOBER 6

The fall term of the Eddy county district court will convene at Carlsbad on October 6th. The grand jury will not be called, only the petit jury will report for duty. A fairly heavy docket will be ready for disposal and a few criminal cases will come up for trial.

Among the local residents from this section, who are called for jury service includes J. S. Ward, R. L. Cole, John Plowman, A. L. Mount, Henry Terpening, William Dooley, Roy E. Wright, William Schneider, M. W. Evans and B. R. Hammond.

COLE FOR REPRESENTATIVE

Fred Cole, local banker may accept the democratic nomination for state representative. A number of local residents have urged Mr. Cole to accept this place and he has been solicited from Carlsbad. Because the position of state representative means a sacrifice of both time and money to any aspirant, Mr. Cole has hesitated to give his consent. He was still undecided when interviewed by an Advocate representative this morning.

DR. STONE WINS FIFTH PLACE IN CONTEST

That a man's greatness or ability isn't always measured by the size of the town he lives in was again proven recently, when Dr. Edward Stone, Artesia optometrist won fifth place in a $1,000 contest, "Why I Use Known Quality Lenses." The winner of first place was a resident of Canada. There were 450 contestants competing for first honors. It is no little distinction to have won a place in an international contest of this sort against a field of 450.

WEDDING ANNOUNCEMENTS AND INVITATIONS, ENGRAVED OR PRINTED—ADVOCATE

DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL MEETING IS HELD AT CARLSBAD TUES. P. M.

The Eddy county democratic committee held a call meeting at Carlsbad Tuesday evening. The meeting was called for the purpose of nominating a candidate for state representative to succeed E. K. Neumann, who is the democratic nominee for attorney general. The attendance at the Carlsbad meeting was small owing to the fact that not all members of the committee received notice in time to attend. It was decided to hold another committee meeting Tuesday evening, September 30th, at which time a candidate for representative will likely be named. Under the new law, the party may file a list of the nominees any time within twenty days of the general election.

TWO CHANGES MADE IN THE ARTESIA HIGH FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Some changes made recently in the football schedule of the Artesia high school Bulldogs may be of interest to the local fans. On October 24th, the Bulldogs will journey to Clovis to meet the Wildcats in the first game ever played between the two schools. This game will supercede the tentative game between the locals and the N. M. M. I. preps, announced as tentative last week. Another game on November 14th between Artesia and the Bowie High of El Paso, has been cancelled. This date will likely be filled later, it was said.

Friday the Bulldogs will leave for Albuquerque, where on the following day they will face the Albuquerque Indians at Albuquerque in probably the hardest game of the season. The Bulldogs lineup has been shifted and revamped and it is hoped that the boys will show more playing strength in their new role.

DELEGATES TO THE REPUBLICAN MEETING

Messrs. A. C. Kimbrough and William Dooley and Mrs. Earl Bigler were among the local delegates in attendance at the republican, state convention, which closed its session at Albuquerque Tuesday evening.

GLENN NAYLOR SUFFERS AN INJURY THURSDAY

Glenn Naylor, employee of the Southwestern Public Service Company suffered painful bruises about the face and head when he fell from a light pole while working in Dexter last Thursday. Mr. Naylor fell about twenty-five feet, his face struck the running board of his car. It is regarded as very fortunate that Mr. Naylor's injuries did not prove more serious.

TOTAL HARVEST OF ALFALFA SEED MORE THAN 216,000 POUNDS

The E. B. Bullock warehouse has cleaned 216,000 pounds of alfalfa seed over the week end, as the alfalfa seed harvest nears a close. Of this amount 100,000 pounds had been stored for shipment and approximately 116,000 pounds shipped out to seed dealers over the country. A good part of the seed shipments have come from the Carlsbad project. Seed yields over the valley are slightly higher than last year, but the acreage is less.

During the night session only once was there any reference to the difficulties regarding nominations which the morning delayed the convention business.

Immediately before adjournment a resolution of appreciation included the following: "The convention wishes to express its appreciation of Governor R. C. Dillon and Judge Reed Holloman for their gracious and patriotic action."

A WARNING!

The death of a young man near Lake Arthur last week forcibly proves the fallacy of a prevalent belief that there is no danger in milk poisoning from Golden-Rod until frost has occurred. Surely this sad event will startle people into caution in regard to their use of milk and butter.

It is best for all milch cows to be kept up in a pen and fed—not allowed to graze in a pasture where there is the remotest possibility of their having access to this deadly weed and no milk or butter should be bought until the buyer is certain that the owner of the cow producing it is using care to protect his stock from contact with this danger.

It is permissible for cows to feed in fenced pastures if there is no Golden-Rod in them. Every farmer in the valley recognizes Golden Rod when he sees it, and he should dig every stalk of it from his pasture land and burn it. It should be borne in mind that butter and meat are also dangerous in this respect, and should receive as much of the buyer's or grower's attention as does the milk.

This form of milk sickness is peculiar to the Pecos valley according to Ellis Kellert in the Nelson System of Medicine, accepted by leading physicians everywhere. It has been known for a long time, and it seems certain that the Indians knew the disease. Milk sickness has at various times made its appearance in other parts of the United States, and it is recorded that the mother of Abraham Lincoln died with the disease. However no cases have been observed since 1904 outside of the small sweep of the Pecos valley.
In these other sections of the country, the cause was definitely established as being the white snakeroot plant which poisoned the milk, but here, it seems to be the rayless Golden Rod. Because of the fact that the disease has almost entirely disappeared from all sections of the country except the Pecos valley, nation wide interest of students of medicine has been prevented, and the disease remains a mystery. It is almost impossible of cure, and it is so insidious in its attack that the victim is unaware that he has a more serious ailment than a sickness at the stomach and dizzy feeling until the break down occurs. For this reason, preventative measures gives the only satisfaction in the combat of the disease.

Kellert gives the symptoms of the disease thus: "In cattle there is a marked slowing of all movements, faltering gait, and constipation. Following this, the muscles become hard and stiff, the extensors are paralyzed and the neck is twisted to one side. Marked muscular weakness ensues, and there is a characteristic trembling, which becomes more pronounced when the animal is driven. The eyes, protruding and glaring at first become red and covered with a yellowish discharge and the breath has the odor of acetone. Bloody mucus may be passed from the rectum. The joints become stiff, and the animal sinks to the ground, where it may remain for hours, apparently unable to rise.
The curious fetid odor present is characteristic of the disease, and it is stated that tanners can indicate which animals have died of the disease (trembles) by the odor arising from the raw hides. Horses which are affected may drop suddenly or develop muscular contractions and become unconscious.

"In man the symptoms begin with a period of fatigue followed by violent vomiting, thus accounting for the popular name 'sick stomach.' The vomitus is mucoid, acid, often bloody, and has the odor of acetone. The patient is restless dull, markedly constipated, and cannot take food or water. The tongue is large, red and dry, and presents active tremor. The pulse is rapid and irregular the blood pressure low, the abdomen scaphoid, temperature usually subnormal. The breath foul, and thirst is generally present. The odor of the body is characteristic, and is usually described as sweetish garlicky or like that of chloroform liniment.
Although convulsions are uncommon, coma not rarely precedes death.

"Children appear to be less liable to the disease than adults, and nursing women are relatively immune, according to accounts." This account relates that one attack of the disease does not produce immunity but rather predisposes to the disease. The average duration is about one week, and may be followed by prolonged weakness.

Large doses of common soda prove about the only remedy that the household can provide. A physician must be called at once in case of the disease.

Because the physician is almost powerless to effect a cure of the disease, we should use every means at our disposal to prevent it. The greatest means is to clear the land of the Golden Rod, and to keep it clear.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Folks of this section are generally pleased with the democratic ticket nominated at Santa Fe Friday. The ticket should prove popular with both sections of the state. There was an able man left out of the running, however and one that has given years of conscientious service to his state. We refer to John Morrow of Raton, ex-congressman. If there was a regrettable incident connected with naming the ticket, it was the fact that one of New Mexico's best statesmen was left out.

We heard about the corruption and mismanagement of the republican administration through the democratic keynote speech delivered at the democratic convention last week. Recently we read about the shortcomings of the democratic party at the republican convention and now we may hear a third party cuss and discuss the weak points of both parties.

Will Robinson in the Cavern City Chronicle makes a favorable comment on the more cotton per acre contest sponsored by the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, saying that the final results of the contest will have some meaning. "This is where the scheme differs from the silly practice of paying a premium on the first bales," which usually comes from alkali land or plants that have something the matter with them, he says.

The conventions will be over this month and the other gas will be turned on in October.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Baked pears are a pleasant variation from baked apples. If the flavor is not very pronounced, a little lemon juice will tone it up.

Under ordinary use a floor needs rewaxing only two or three times a year. Applying too much wax is a common mistake. Oil should never be used on a waxed floor as it softens the wax.

Shoes that are too large are a misfit. The foot is not snugly supported. Blisters are often formed, especially on the heel, and stockings are needlessly worn into holes. The shoes should be carefully and correctly fitted.

A hint on the children's clothes.
Buy a lot of the same kind of buttons—a stock design, easy to duplicate—and always keep a reserve card on hand. Then you won't have to hunt to match the button that come off, and little dresses will always look neat. Also use rather large buttons on children's clothes so that they can button and unbutton their own garments.

5000 CUSTOMERS USE FEDERAL TIRES SAYS A PIONEER TIRE MAN

In speaking of tire service to the modern motorist, Ben F. Pior, proprietor of the Pior Service Station recalls some of his early day experiences in Artesia, at a time when the automobile industry was just coming into its own and at a time when there wasn't quite as much satisfaction in dealing in tires as today. Ten years ago Mr. Pior came to Artesia and built a service station in what was then regarded as an outpost of the business district, at the corner of Fourth and Main. He started in the retail tire business. Mr. Pior says of his career as a tire merchant in Artesia: "Our first customer is still our friends and year after year our lists have grown until we now number over 5,000 satisfied customers. Year after year Federal Tires and Tubes have rendered splendid service. No road too rough, no highway too long; mile upon mile of satisfactory service at a most economical cost. Our customers must be pleased and the service they have received is our best advertisement. We offer the world's finest tire—the famous Federal air-cushioned tire offering new riding comfort—greater speed—greater safety—greater mileage. Compare the prices listed in our ad with those of mail order offerings. Tire for tire we offer you a saving. Compare the appearance, compare the guarantee, compare the personal service. Every tire we offer, guaranteed a 1930 first, fresh from the factory. Every tire we sell is mounted on your wheel free of charge. No order to write. No lengthy correspondence. No delays. Satisfaction from the start. Satisfaction to the end. Miss Emma Briscoe was the honoree at a butterfly shower at the I. C. Keller home last Thursday evening. The butterfly motif was carried out in the decoration and the vivid yellow and orange fall flowers lent brightness to the scene. The results of the quest for gifts, which led the young lady all over the house and lawn, was a handsome array of beautiful and useful articles valuable in the establishment of a new home. The book also contained extra leaves and on these the guests wrote best wishes and suggestions for the bride, who had been their fellow worker in the Peoples' Mercantile for the past few years. Games contributed to the amusement of the evening, which was completed with the serving of light refreshments. The party was given by Mrs. I. C. Keller and Mrs. L. L. ## The Enchanted Harp

By LAURA R. MONTGOMERY

(Copyright.)

HENRIETTA, looking around the waiting room filled with teachers, experienced an acute fear. When there were such a number of applicants would she be able to get any kind of a position? And, if she did secure one would it be in a town that Dora would like? Dora, her younger sister, was not fitted for work, or so she thought, and Dora took avid dislikes to places. Henrietta could have kept on at the Sawyer high school if Dora hadn't insisted upon a change of scene, saying in her gentle, pathetic voice that she hadn't much to amuse her. Her sister seldom had time, herself, to think of amusement because the work of the tiny apartment, plus her teaching took most of her strength.

All year Henrietta sewed and cooked and mended and got temporary positions during the school vacation. She was an expert stenographer and was seldom out of work more than a few days between offices. But, work as she might, the expenses kept her thinking.

Two years before Dora had heard a harpist at a concert and had come home possessed of a consuming desire to learn. The harp cost a thousand dollars which Henrietta paid for in monthly payments. Also she had contracted for a long term of lessons because Dora felt that harp-playing was exactly what she could do. And she was an apt pupil. The lovely long fingers with their delicate pink nails swept the golden strings beautifully, and in an amazingly short time she played simple melodies with both feeling and accuracy. To Henrietta, accustomed to the long hours of teaching, the harp seemed the entrance to a new and glorious world. She would forget her mending and sit entranced while Dora played and sang in her sweet threadlike voice.

It was through the harp music that Henrietta had her first chance at romance. Peter Pringle, in the flat below heard the music. He asked a mutual friend to present him and soon he ran up nearly every night.

Dora had high ideas about marriage and was, as she candidly told her sister, saving herself for the man who could give her wealth. She looked on at the embryo-romance with cool, amused eyes and was most agreeable about playing the songs that Peter loved. So friendship had progressed into courtship under the blue-eyed scrutiny of Dora, and Henrietta knew that she owed an immense debt to the music that had brought Peter to her.

But, although it was Dora's playing that formed a bond, it was also Dora who proved a barrier because the lovely, useless Dora was an expensive luxury and Peter earned only thirty dollars a week. Therefore the hope of marriage must be postponed until Dora, in some miraculous fashion, found the man of wealth who would relieve Henrietta of her load.

The employment placement clerk looked at Henrietta's shiny blue serge, glanced at her papers and then regarded her impersonally. "I'm afraid I can do nothing for you," she said coldly.

The girl went slowly out, almost stumbling against an old college friend who was wearing the very latest French hat and clothes to match.

"Good old Henrietta," she greeted. "I'm mighty glad to see you. Do you know I am going to give up teaching next year?"

"To be married?" demanded Henrietta.

"No. But I've got a chance to travel in a musical quartette playing the banjo. If only I knew the harp I would be in better luck."

Henrietta asked about the work, more to be pleasant than through curiosity, for she was worrying about her own problem.

"It's right here in Chicago. A music shop in a new suburb needs a harpist. Not any wonderful musician, you know, just one who can give a program of popular melodies and sing a bit. By the way, did you ever buy the harp that Dora talked about so much?"

"Oh, yes, and she does well. Why don't you come up tonight and hear her play?"

Her friend arrived bringing a man with her. At the end of the evening Jack Gordon asked Dora if she'd care for the position he had to offer. The salary wasn't very large but it was ample for one person and Dora's cool eyes brightened as she listened.

"Why, playing my harp is my greatest pleasure," she said. "I'll be glad to start in right away."

The manager of the new venture smiled. "We're going to have an evening in the new community house next week. I'd like you to wear something blue, turquoise, I believe is the shade that will match your eyes. You'll have two numbers and—I hope you'll let me call for you."

Peter was the last to go, and while Dora was dreamily sweeping her beautiful hands across her beloved golden strings he drew Henrietta out into the hall. "That harp seems to be enchanted," he said quaintly, "when I first heard it downstairs I was simply unable to keep away. I managed to get acquainted and now it has"—he checked himself lest he disturb the elder sister who had worked so uncomplainingly for Dora. "Well," he said, "it leaves you free for—"

How Radio Does Cooking
A bulletin of the General Electric company in describing a new high frequency radio tube, says: "Among the stunts demonstrated with the high frequency apparatus was radio cooking. A wire was suspended over a tube at some distance from the radiating aerial and parallel to it. A sausage placed in a glass tube was hung from the end of this receiving aerial, and in a few minutes it began to steam. On being removed it was found to have been beautifully cooked by the high frequency currents induced in it, although no flames or other visible means of heating were applied. A fryless fried egg was also prepared in the glass tube and served hot to the spectators. An apple was impaled upon the end of the receiving aerial and in a short time was thoroughly baked."

How "Nigger" Came Into Use
The derivation of the name from the Latin "niger" meaning "black" is correct. Ethnologists refer to all dark-skinned races of the world as Negroids while the name Negro is reserved for tribes found in Africa south of the Sahara and for their descendants in America. Even in Africa there are many peoples of Caucasian and mixed race.—Kansas City Times.

How Miners Are Safeguarded
Through the efforts of the United States bureau of mines more than 250,000 men in the mining, oil and gas and steel industries have been trained in first-aid and rescue work. This army of safeguards approximately 2,000,000 people actively engaged in the fields in question.

How Limelight Is Formed
Limelight is produced by the incandescence of a stick or ball of lime in the flame of a combination of oxygen and hydrogen gases and coal gas.

How We Get Term "Mate"
The word "mate" comes to us through several languages—from "gemamama," a very old word which meant an equal or a companion.

BUSINESS ON INCREASE LEADERS ARE BUYING AHEAD OF THE DEMAND

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary Lamont said Monday that there was an important trend now noticeable in American business by which leaders of industry are buying raw materials far ahead of current consumption rates.

The commerce department head commented the movement was a natural reaction to the present low level of commodity prices. "It is perfectly clear," he added, "that business on the whole has ceased a marked decline which was characteristic of a number of earlier months and there are some distinctly encouraging features. The most encouraging aspects are the growth of export trade as revealed by the August statistics and the distinct picking up in retail trade in this country."

"The increase of exports during August was more than is customary at this season. The gain already manifested in retail trade is more than usually occurs at this season. Moreover the stocks of retail stores are exceptionally low and there is good reason to believe that their purchase from manufacturers and wholesalers will increase materially." As to the purchase of raw materials by industry, Secretary Lamont said the extra buying was being done entirely without organization and not because of any government pressure or solicitation.

How Tracks of Running Rabbit Deceive the Eye

The triangle formed by the tracks of a rabbit in the snow points in the opposite direction from which the animal was running, says an article in Pathfinder magazine. When a rabbit runs it touches the ground with both small front feet close together and then strikes with the two large hind feet apart and ahead of the front feet, forming the base of the triangle with the hind feet and the apex with the front ones.

In other words, the hind feet strike the ground last and leave it last with each leap, but they strike far ahead of the front feet, consequently the two foremost and most widely separated tracks are made by the hind feet not by the front feet as so often supposed. Unless one understands the relative position of the feet while the rabbit is in motion it is sometimes hard to tell by its tracks which way it has run, because the feet are so covered with hair that often the toes do not show in the track.

"Tom," said his wife, "I don't believe you have smoked one of those cigars I gave you on your birthday."
"That's right, my dear," he replied "I'm going to keep them until our Johnnie wants to learn to smoke."

Democratic Votes for Hoover Bought at $50 Each -- Hanna

—BY—

REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

MR., MRS., and MISS VOTER:

To get your votes, the Democrats will make any kind of wild promises or wild charges. They are long on promises and short on performances. They make baseless charges against the Republican Party in the hope that they may gain enough votes to return them to power.

Former Democratic Justice of the Supreme Court, R. H. Hanna is now the Democratic national committeeman. He has been signally honored by his party. Twice he was its nominee for the Supreme Court, later he was the nominee for United States Senator. Now he is national committeeman, a position held by only two other Democrats since statehood, A. A. Jones and Arthur Seligman.

Now comes Judge Hanna with grave charges against about ten thousand voters of his own party. In an address before the Young People's Democratic Club of Bernalillo County, he said, as reported by the Albuquerque Journal of September 12, "that the Republican Party won the last election in New Mexico by buying votes at $50 each."

Eleven Thousand Bought

Hoover's majority was nearly 22,000, therefore, according to the Judge, the Republicans bought, at $50 each, eleven thousand Democrats to vote the Republican ticket. For example, figuring the Democratic majority in Chaves County in 1926, and the majority of 1765 for Hoover, there were 1206 Democrats in that county who, in exchange for $50 each, voted the Republican ticket. On the same basis of figuring 574 Democrats sold out in Colfax, 1005 in Curry, 515 in Eddy, 544 in Quay, 657 in Roosevelt and 648 in San Juan.

Any Democrat who voted for Hoover is charged with having sold his vote for $50.

What are the facts?

Why They So Voted

No Democrat was paid $50, or any other sum, for his vote. They voted against Smith for two reasons. First of all because he had committed the Democratic Party to repeal or nullification of the prohibition amendment. He mentioned no plan for making legal again the liquor traffic without restoring the saloon. Secondly, the Democrats who voted for Hoover were against Smith because he announced himself in favor of a revision of the tariff on the principles of the Underwood Bill. That bill put cattle, sheep, meats, wool, corn, and wheat on the free list and gave only twenty-five cents a bushel protection on beans, which was no protection against the beans grown in Manchuria.

Prohibition and tariff revision will be the issue of the Democratic Party in 1932. This was made sure by the recent letter of Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic governor of New York, to Senator Wagner, announcing that he favors the repeal or nullification of the prohibition amendment.

It is now sure that the big Democratic delegation will go from New York to the National Convention pledged to the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for president. That, together with all other eastern delegations will be for an unequivocal wet plank in the platform.

A Wet Candidate

Perhaps the seeming chance of victory on a wet platform will lead the delegations from the southern states, traditionally Democratic and proverbially dry, to forget their prohibition views in the interest of practical politics as they did at Houston two years ago when they accepted Governor Smith on his own wet declaration.

The election of any Democrat to either house of congress, this year, from a dry state like New Mexico, will give encouragement to the wet Democrats of the eastern states. They know that such Democrats will stand by his party, regardless of what he may say in the campaign, just as Senator Batton voted against the best tariff bill ever written for New Mexico after he had declared publicly that he would vote for it.

Notwithstanding the charge that they voted against Smith for $50 a vote, there are a great many Democrats in New Mexico who place their prohibition principals against party interests.

What Would It Mean?

Times have changed. In the old days the sale of liquor was merely a nuisance on the public highways, except that it wrecked millions of pay envelopes that, since prohibition, finance the family budget and go to make prosperous the grocer, the dry goods merchant, the doctor, the baker, and the butcher and the furniture dealer.

But widespread sale of liquor would be more than a nuisance now. It would be a menace to every one who might be traveling on the public highways. In the old days, the rate of travel was about four miles an hour; now it is thirty-five to seventy-five miles.

Not only is the Republican Party on the right side morally, but it has always been on the side of progressive government.

The state laws for the education of our children and for the construction of our wonderful system of public laws, are all Republican laws. Under those laws the people of the State have prospered, and New Mexico is looked upon as a marvel of progress, only eight of the forty-eight states showing more progress during the past ten years. So says the United States census.

Of Course You Won't

Mr., Mrs., and Miss Voter: We don't believe you will help elect to office a party which charges its own voters with selling out. We don't believe you want to have in office a party that doesn't know what it stands for from one election to the next. We don't believe you want in office a party that will destroy New Mexico's chief industries by putting on the free list cattle, sheep, meats, wool, wheat, corn, beans and other products.

Whenever the Democrats have been in power they have passed tariff laws that brought ruin to the business of the country—especially to the business of New Mexico.

We don't believe you want to put into power a party whose chief claim to your votes is restoration of the liquor traffic and ruin of the livestock industry and the prosperity of the state.—ADV.

PICKED UP ON MAIN

Probably the reason that Jim White's discovery of mummies in a cave in the Guadalupe mountains hasn't created any more attention is due to the fact that the average man thinks the mummies are only remains of the non-advertising merchants.

A lady who still has matrimonial aspirations ups and asks us what is the age limit on membership in the young democratic club.

Artesia has some six footers and better. One in the bunch sensibly refuses to wear golf pants with bare legs because he says there be too much territory to cover in case of a sun burn and then, too, the mosquitos around these parts seem to take a particular likin' to that portion of the anatomy.

A Chicago man prayed that the Chicago cubs would lose the National flag race because if they won some city half wits might go crazy and have to be confined to the hospitals and the tax payers would have to foot the bills. Well, it looks as though the old boy's prayers were answered before, he got started.

The worst blow of the Hoover depression was recently delivered by the post office. A clerk inadvertently stamped a number of box slips, "Box Closed," instead of "Box Rent Due." The number of patrons that stormed the windows looked like a run on a national bank. Earl Collins will gladly explain any further details connected with the incident.

Married men, whose wives are out of town have been holding a mid-night convention on Main street for the past three nights. Politics has been the main theme under discussion at previous meetings and Tuesday night Earl Bigler explained why Hoover democrats shifted to the republican column for $50.00. Tonight Fred Cole will have charge of the program, that is unless his wife returns today, and tomorrow night, an interesting program has been arranged by C. J. Dexter on an easy way of doing the dishes without the dish pan.

Arrangements were made concerning the P. T. A. council meeting which is to be held here on October 18. The date for this meeting has been changed from October 11 to October 18 on account of conflict with the Cotton Carnival at Roswell.

CONTENTS OF ANDREE'S DIARY, NOTED EXPLORER DISCLOSED RECENTLY

STOCKHOLM — Solomon August Andree and his two comrades; on their pioneer polar balloon expedition 33 years ago, failed by 500 miles in their attempt to reach the north pole and three days after setting out from Dane's Island, Spitzbergen, came down on the Arctic wilderness.

Examination of the diary found on Andree's body after Dr. Gunnar Horn's expedition had brought it back to Tromsø, Norway, has revealed the secret of the party's landing and wanderings until they made camp on desolate White Island, where they were destined to perish.

After coming down through an unknown cause in latitude 83 north, longitude 30 east, the explorers remained encamped on the ice for a week.

On July 22, 11 days after they flew away from Spitzbergen, they set out on the long trek back to civilization.

The doomed men, day after day, the diary reveals, struggled on toward safety in a constant battle with creaking treacherous ice and deep pools of fresh water, which they had to cross with their frail canvas boat.

They marched not toward the northern coast of Spitzbergen from whence their balloon had brought them and where food depots had been prepared, but in a more easterly direction.

Their course was toward the little known regions north of Fridtjof Nansen Land (then known as Franz Josef Land).

The distance they covered each day varied considerably but they were never able to do better than a few miles. Their astronomical observations show that the westward drift of the rough ice over which painfully they made their way had begun to prove too much for them.

Finally, on August 4, when they had been marching for about 13 days, the heroic little band, defeated by the drift in their efforts to the east, were forced to abandon this route.

Given in to the drift, they decided to utilize it in a belated attempt to reach the Seven Islands, off Spitzbergen, and turned southwestward, to the Seven Islands, they knew, was an important food depot.

In starting the new march they were in latitude 82.17 north and longitude 22.43 east.

This was roughly 60 miles east and slightly south of the point where they had come down in their balloon.

In the 13 days it had taken them to conquer this distance, their provisions had begun to run low. The scanty supplies salvaged from the balloon's gondola had to be eked out by chance kills of polar bears—the wandering meat shops of the Arctic, as Andree calls them in the diary.

With each successful kill, the prospects of the explorers brightened and their hopes were renewed. But there came a time when there were no more bears, and hunger pangs warned them that starvation might follow. All felt the weakening effects of short rations.

During the long and painful trudge over the crumbling, treacherous ice, one after another of the three dauntless explorers fell into the pools dotting the ice surface or into concealed crevasses.

Knut Frankel and Nils Strindberg suffered periodically from bruised feet and severe attacks of diarrhea. But their diary shows that despite their sufferings they never lost heart. Encouraged by Andree, they kept up one another's spirits with jokes and laughter.

The leader of the expedition showed his heroism in many ways. In the face of the terrors and fatigues and uncertainty of the trek, Andree continued conscientiously to fill his diary day by day with scientific observations of the utmost interest.

Not only did he do this, but when every ounce of extra weight must have added to the already burdensome difficulties of the explorers, he collected samples of interesting finds along the line of march.

He notes some 20 bits of clay, gravel, moss and driftwood that he had picked up on the ice. One of the samples he dried on his bare chest.

Throughout the diary the entries frequently show his solicitude for these specimens, which he believed might prove of great importance in future study of the polar ice drift.

Thus slowly and painfully the three explorers approached the northern coast of Spitzbergen, wearily making on foot a longer journey than only a few weeks before they had sailed by balloon.

Their chief respite from fatigue was an opportunity from time to time to load the whole of their equipment in the canvas boat they had frequently used since leaving the balloon. To row and few miles amid the ice floes in the occasional open water of the Arctic, even in this fragile boat, was to enjoy a few hours of comparative rest.

Hunger at the same time sharpened their skill at picking up nourishment from the most unpromising sources on or under the surface of the ice.

Knut Frankel became adept in preparing what Andree calls a "blood pancake," as a substitute for bread. Nils Strindberg's specialty was creating dishes from the raw materials of seaweed.

Off the northern coast of North-east Land in the Spitzbergen group, the explorers reached shallower waters, and here suddenly the direction of the ice drift began to change.

The effect of the changed drift immediately was to cut them off even from their goal on the seven islands.

Between September 12, about a month after they left Dane's Island on the Polar flight, and September 17, the ice drifted with the hapless explorers for more than 100 kilometers in an east-southeast direction, steadily bearing them away from the food depot.

Meanwhile Autumn was at hand, the days were growing shorter and shorter, and the cold was becoming increasingly bitter. The explorer's insufficient nourishment made cold all the harder to bear.

Marooned on the drifting ice, the three men at length resigned themselves to spending a Caruso-like winter of isolation on a suitable "ice float." They set to work building what the diary describes as an "icecot."

At last, on September 17, they sighted the tall ghostly peak of White Island, the first land they had seen since flying from Spitzbergen on July 11. In the diary Andree called it "New Iceland."

The sighting of land also brought them good luck in hunting. On the next day they killed their first seal, and on the 19th bagged three more. On the 20th, after a long fast from bear meat, they managed to kill a polar bear.

The increased food supply sent their spirits soaring. Andree notes the stroke of good fortune and estimates his little band will have sufficient food to last until the April following.

A week later the three explorers moved into their newly finished ice cabin on the drifting floes. They christened it "The Home."

But disaster was just around the corner. A few days later, on the morning of October 2, it struck them. The ice floe on which they had built their little "home" suddenly split up with a thunderous sound, and the house of ice was shattered into a hundred pieces.

Worst of all the party's equipment and provisions were dispersed and drifted about on chunks of the original ice floe.

In desperation the explorers had to plunge into the icy waters to rescue them. And in the midst of this unexpected blow, stricken in sight of land, Andree found too much to do to continue the heroic work of noting scientific specimens or even the account of their misfortunes. The diary abruptly comes to an end.

But its last entry is one of courage and hope, not of despair: "With such companions," writes the leader of the expedition, "Everything will go on all right in almost any circumstances."

With this sturdy defiance of misfortunes ends the record of the three wanderers over the Arctic ice and seas from the end of their balloon flight to their sighting of the land that sheltered them until death.

How they reached it is not recorded in this diary. But in addition to the vivid account of the march, the diary settles the fact that all three clung together through the worst and implies they reached White Island still together.

It was there, in a camp laid bare by melting snows and ice, during an unusually warm and damp Arctic summer, that Dr. Gunnar Horn, Norwegian scientist and explorer, on August 6 at last solved the riddle of their fate and brought back to the world the record of their sufferings.

Solomon August Andree, in dying on lonely White Island, apparently the last survivor of his expedition gave his last thought to the preservation of the record of his wanderings and hardships on the polar flight attempt.

A diary, in which virtually every page had been written on was found inside his clothing when his body and the other relics of his expedition brought back by Dr. Gunnar Horn was examined at Tromsø by Swedish and Norwegian experts.

It had been wrapped carefully and securely placed at his back. As his body was found in a reclining position beside the White Island camp, it is assumed that on feeling the approach of death, he lay down upon his precious record and protected it even in death with his body.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS ON HIGHWAYS ARE MADE IN THIS AREA OF STATE

B. F. Kelley of Roswell, district highway engineer who was a visitor here yesterday reports that the highway from Lovington to Hobbs in Lea county is being finished up. A greater part of this new stretch of road has been opened to traffic for several weeks, but the road bed will not be in good shape until a rain falls in that section of the country. Two road crews on the Artesia-Lovington highway are making some needed repairs and grading the road on top of the Cap Rock. Some of the rougher spots under the Cap Rock are being surfaced.

Scurry county, Texas, which is traversed by Highway 83 will vote on a $600,000 road bond issue October 17th. The county commissioners of Scurry county have called a bond election for this date, according to press reports.

A right of way from Pecos north to the state line leading toward Carlsbad has been practically completed for beginning work on the Cavern highway. The improvement is to be hard surface a distance of 54 miles to the state line.

Members composing the county central committee are A. C. Kimbrough and Mrs. E. N. Bigler of Artesia and W. F. McIlvain and R. L. Halley of Carlsbad. The district delegates from Eddy, Chaves and Lea counties nominated Herman Crile of Roswell as candidate for district judge to oppose G. A. ### NO CO. REPUBLICAN TICKET

Eddy county republicans will not have a county ticket this year, it was announced at Carlsbad, Monday. Strength of the democratic party in this section and fear that a county ticket might hurt the state ticket were the reasons given for the decision not to have a ticket.

AMERICAN LEGION IS IN MIDST OF CAMPAIGN FOR MEMBERSHIP 1931

The Clarence Kepple post, American Legion is now in the midst of the 1931 campaign and a mighty effort will be made to boost the membership roster to a new high mark. The local post has established an enviable reputation for its activity in the matter of securing new members and the present administration does not intend to lessen its efforts to make the Artesia unit the biggest little post in the southwest. It may be gratifying to know that at the present time there are more new names on the membership roll than at any period during the history of the organization.

Commander Kremer announced this week that the Clarence Kepple Post would like to see every ex-service man in this area affiliate with the Artesia unit.

The first reservation for the Legion convention meeting here in 1931 was received Tuesday. The first delegate to register was C. P. Nolan of Santa Fe.

Why "Walking Chalk Line"

To say of anybody that he walks the chalk line is to convey the thought that he observes strictly the conventions of propriety and ordinary conduct and never for a moment even strays from this imposed or self-imposed obligation.

This modern idea is a long way off from what the phrase originally conveyed, for in the beginning walking the chalk line was used as a test by which a man actually walked along a chalked line to demonstrate his sobriety!

While the expression today retains metaphorically some of its early significance, it has, as everybody knows, achieved much broader application, so that it is now used almost exclusively in the wider sense indicated.

Why Chocolate Is in Demand

That chocolate is a favorite flavor is well proved by the fact that the world consumption of cocoa last year was about 500,000 tons, of which the United States used approximately 200,000 tons. A good part of this went into the making of chocolate candies, chocolate bars and other confectionery products. The use of chocolate and cocoa as a beverage claimed another part of this amount, and the wide demand for chocolate flavored desserts and ice cream accounted for the rest. It is said that since 1916 we have doubled the consumption of cocoa and chocolate products.

Why Virginia County Brags

Craig county, Virginia, has the distinction of being one of the four counties in the entire United States that can brag that its cattle industry is on a pure-bred basis, at least so far as the herd bulls are concerned. The three others are all in Kentucky, being Union county, Russell county and Taylor county. A second Virginia county, Gaston, is on a pure-bred basis so far as its dairy herds are concerned, but this goal has not been attained in beef raising.

Why Bait Attracts Fish

According to the bureau of fisheries most fishes are attracted to the bait by both the sense of smell and sight. The sense of smell is highly developed in most fishes and many species are attracted to the bait chiefly by that sense. Such fishes are not easily caught with artificial baits. Fishes that bite chiefly by sight are most easily caught by such baits.

Why He Claims Title

Patrolman Wooster of the Atlanta force seeks the crown of the South's busiest man. Here are some of his interests: Traffic arrest in one day, singing tenor at revivals, often as song leader at camp meetings; raiser of chickens and pigeons; father of 12 children ranging from one to nineteen years old.—Capper's Weekly.

Why Woodpecker "Drums"

The biological survey says that a woodpecker pecks in order to dig out a nest and to obtain food. When he "drums," however, it is either for pleasure or it serves as a call to birds of the same species.

Why Soap Cleanses

Do you know how soap cleans your skin? It does this, in chief part, by its power to emulsify fats and greases on your skin, alkali being liberated, and renders the dirt easily removable in the washing process.

METHODIST CHURCH REVIEWS YEAR AT THE CHURCH LAST NIGHT

The final business meeting of the First Methodist Church before the annual church conference was held in the church parlors last night, when the church officials met with Presiding Elder, Dr. A. L. Moore and reviewed the business of the year.

It was estimated that something like $600.00 would be required to complete the year's budget. Stewards elected for the ensuing year were: J. E. Robertson, T. H. Ragsdale, J. H. Jones, S. S. Ward, J. M. Jackson, J. H. Holloman, Dr. H. A. Stroup, E. B. Bullock, George Frisch, T. M. Bradshaw, A. L. Allinger. George Frisch was re-elected Sunday school superintendent and Mrs. J. E. ## WHY

Some Plants Grow Rapidly in Hours of Darkness

Other things being equal, corn probably grows most rapidly on warm nights. Many plants, including corn, continue to grow after dark, notwithstanding the fact that photosynthesis takes place only while the plants are receiving sunlight. The rate of growth in plants, says the bureau of plant industry, is influenced by many factors other than the formation of the food materials through photosynthesis, and the photosynthetic products themselves may require further change before being utilized in growth. Accordingly some plants not only continue to grow after nightfall but actually grow more rapidly at night than they do during the day. Apparently, however, this is not true of all plants. There is no particular period in the course of the 24 hours of the day during which all plants grow most rapidly. Even among those that reach their maximum rate of growth in the night the period of most rapid growth in some seems to begin in the early part of the night, while in others it does not begin until after midnight. Certain plants will continue to elongate rapidly even in prolonged darkness, but in such cases the type of growth differs materially from that which takes place when the plants are exposed to the light.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Why Old Bridal Custom Called for White Horse

The ancient Britons often ascribed to the horse human and sometimes divine qualities. At one time no English wedding ceremony was complete without the presence of a white horse to carry away the bride, and this old custom had a very deep significance in British folk superstitions. It is believed that this custom came from the East Indians, who still use at weddings an effigy of a horse, made of white wickerwork. The horse is regarded as the emblem of the sun and the symbol of creative life—a sort of unspoken prayer for a large and happy family.

The horse's influence on men's imaginations is found in the nightmare, as we call our bad dreams. Mare is distinctively a Saxon demon, a vampire which was supposed to sit upon the chest of sleeping victims, in the form of a horse.

Why Called "Nashys"

Postal officials are called Nashys from the fact that D. R. Locke many years ago wrote a series of articles for a Toledo paper and signed them "Petroleum Vesuvius Nashy, Postmaster at X Roads, which is in the state of Kentucky." For a time Locke had pretended to be an old-time ignorant whisky-drinking, negro-bating politician who was determined to be postmaster of the "post office" at "Confederit X Roads, Ky.," a position then held by a "nigger." At any rate, the comic papers of Nashy were very popular throughout the country and it was in those days that "Nashy" was saddled upon postmasters and postal officials as a general title.—Exchange.

Why Windows Were Broken

Attention of Rockville Center (L. I.) police was called to what looked like bullet holes in several store and office windows. Patrolmen Sam Griffiths was sent to investigate. While he was puzzling over the case a small pebble struck the wall beside him. Glancing across the street, he saw an automobile just going over the edge of a small pile of gravel in front of a new building and the mystery was solved. The tires of cars running over the small stones were snapping them across the road and several had found windows as their marks during the night.
