All Tires More Than Five Must Be Turned in by November 9

Owner Must Declare That He Has No Extras, When Making Application on That Date for Gasoline Ration Books.

TO BE REIMBURSED

Government Will Buy Them According to Ceiling Prices.

Not only did the government freeze the sale or exchange of all privately-owned tires in the nation last week but all extras must have been given or sold to the government by Nov. 9 in order for an owner to be eligible for gasoline rationing.

Under the order, extra tires—all more than five for a passenger car—must be disposed of through the Railway Express Agency.

Purchases will be made by the government on the basis of the ceiling price schedule established for used cars last March 16.

The Railway Express Agency will have nothing to do with the transaction, other than handling the tires for the government, which will make appraisals at central depots and then will make payments according to the findings of appraisal experts using the established ceiling schedule.

The owner has three alternates in his business with Uncle Sam in regard to his extra tires: He may donate them to the war effort; he may take the appraised value in War Bonds and Stamps; he may take the appraised value in a check. But whatever alternate he elects in that respect, he must dispose of them—and only to the government.

Although truck tires also will be purchased, the operators have a slightly more complex routine to go through, which includes registering them with the ODT by Nov. 15. Operators must fill out and send to the Detroit ODT office by Nov. 15 applications for "certificates of war necessity." The ODT will work out the galleonage and rubber requirements. However, in this case also, operators will not be eligible for gasoline or rubber until they have complied with the order.

All local persons having passenger tires to be turned in by Nov. 9 are to take them to the Railway Express Agency office at the Santa Fe station, where they will be tagged for shipment. At the time of receipt at the station, a government form will be filled out. It has been asked that when several tires are to go in a single shipment they be tied securely together. That is not a job of the agency.

The first shipment went out of Artesia Tuesday, an extra tire and tube.

When a motorist applies on Nov. 9 for a gasoline ration book, he will have to swear that he has no more than the allotted five tires. Otherwise he will not be able to get more gasoline.

Three New Wells Flow in the Eddy Fields This Week

Same Number of Locations Are Staked—Progress of Others Shown

Oil well completions picked up somewhat during the last week, when three producers were reported. During the same period three new locations were staked.

The completions: Continental Oil Co., State 3, NW 36-16-30; total depth 3,025 feet; flowed 60 barrels of oil in 17 hours through 1/4-inch choke on tubing, natural.

McDannald & Williams, Grier 2, NW SW 30-16-31; total depth 3,141 feet; flowed 60 barrels of oil per day, natural.

Danciger Oil & Refineries, Turner 9-B, NE NE 20-17-31; total depth 3,485 feet; flowed 140 barrels of oil per day through open casing, natural.

The new locations: Barney Cockburn, Grier 1, NW SW 31-16-31; Paton Bros. et al, Sargent 2, NE NE 27-17-30; O. H. Randel, State 1, SE NW 2-17-30.

Have Permits So Airport Now Can Be Surveyed

Permits for ingress and egress to make the necessary surveys on the four sections of land west of Artesia for the proposed $750,000 CAA airport have all been obtained and it is expected government surveyors will arrive the latter part of the week to start surveying.

Although the entire four sections probably will not be used immediately, they all will be surveyed, so as to determine the exact location of the port in general and the runways.

In the meantime, some of the dismantled buildings for the pre-glider school across the Pecos River near the old Illinois oil camp are being moved this week from the twin CCC camp at Roswell, to be used as barracks and other buildings. The others are being dismantled and will be moved to the school field and set up as rapidly as possible.

Work skinning the field has progressed nicely and it appears that strides will be made within the next few days.

It could not be learned whether the field and buildings will be ready for starting operations by Nov. 1, as had been contemplated, but if not, it will be soon after.

A number of instructors and Army men have rented houses and apartments and more are coming in nearly every day, looking for suitable places for their families. Anyone having a house or apartment which will be available for the pre-glider school personnel may contact W. C. Cunningham, who is working on that angle for the community.

Burial Here of Mrs. T. F. Bazel This Afternoon

Mrs. True Forest Bazel of Artesia, 44, succumbed Sunday to acute plebitis in a Raton hospital, where she was taken Sept. 22 for an operation.

The body arrived here Wednesday morning. Funeral services are to be at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the First Presbyterian Church by the Rev. J. Basil Ramsey, pastor. Burial will be in Woodbine Cemetery.

Funeralbearers will be W. D. Burks, Lynn Shelton, Fred Henderson, Troy Bourland, Owen Hensley and Sep Watts. Singers will be Ed Wilson, David Simmons, Mrs. Woodrow Butts and Miss Flora Coggins. Survivors include Mrs. Bazel her husband; three children, Pvt. True D. Bazel, Army Air Corps, Los Angeles; Mrs. Ben Caudle, Coffeerville, Kan., and Mrs. Thomas Ditto, Roswell; a granddaughter, Rita Sue, infant daughter of Mrs. Caudle; a sister, Mrs. Joe Lane, Stockport, Ia., and her step-father, Julian Gentile, Fairfield, Ia.

As Mabel Alice Martin, Mrs. Bazel was born May 28, 1898, at Marksville, La. She married Mr. Bazel at Fairfield, Ia., Nov. 9, 1916. To them were born the three children mentioned as surviving.

The family moved to Artesia about three years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Bazel formerly lived at Coffeerville, Kan., about fifteen years.

Prior to her illness, Mrs. Bazel was employed here at the J. C. Penney Company store. The store is to be closed during the services today. Mr. Bazel is a carpenter.

Tests Show Artesia Dog May Have Been Rabid, Officers Say

Carl Henderson of Carlsbad, district sanitarian, reports that laboratory tests show a dog killed here last week by Fletcher Collins might have been rabid.

The tests showed a few organisms like negri bodies, with suspected rabies, Henderson said.

He asked local police officers to see that contacted dogs be confined for a period of four months or be killed and that human contacts take treatments.

The dog was killed by Fletcher Collins when the dog aroused suspicions that it was rabid.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lanning left Saturday evening by train for Baldwin, Kan., where they attended the fiftieth wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Stevens Sunday. Mrs. Stevens is an aunt of Mr. Lanning.

Party of Demo Candidates Here On Wednesday

A party of state Democratic nominees stopped in Artesia Wednesday on their swing through Southeast New Mexico, coming here from Carlsbad, where there was a Democratic meeting Tuesday evening.

The group, which had been headed by John J. Dempsey, candidate for governor, arrived here without him, for he left the party at Portales Saturday because of a cold. He was expected to meet them in Hobbs last evening.

In the party were A. M. Fernandez, candidate for the second seat in Congress; J. B. Jones, candidate for lieutenant governor; Mrs. Georgia L. Lusk, candidate for superintendent of public instruction, and Mrs. C. A. Jopling, state Democratic vice chairman, who has been organizing women voters wherever they go.

H. R. (Ray) Rodgers, candidate for re-election for land commissioner, also had been with the party, but he was called back to Santa Fe before they arrived here.

Pile Up Scrap To Help Fight Nazi and Jap

In Two Days Students Are Responsible for 84,700 Pounds — Lions Club Has Account for 144 Tons to Date.

Among other things, Greater Artesia is becoming more and more scrap conscious, as has been demonstrated during the last week in the several drives connected with the general campaign to whip the Axis with scrap.

The contribution to the growing local stockpile by the students of Artesia Wednesday and Thursday of last week was 84,700 pounds, combed from the residence and business premises of the city in a determined effort.

And the Artesia Lions accounted for about 88,000 pounds last week end, as they continued their collection in the oil fields of Eddy County.

Even The Advocate's "Key Collection Campaign" is bringing results, for an estimated 10,000 keys have been turned in at this office, the First National Bank and the three drug stores.

In the meantime, the Artesia firemen, who hope to raise funds for the purchase of a resuscitator through the sale of scrap gathered, are listing available old metal in the farming communities in the Artesia area.

Just entering the campaign last week, the firemen could not take an active part until after the presentation of "It Can Happen Here," but now they are on the job under the chairmanship of Virgil Millsaps.

Jal Wins Over Bulldogs 26 to 7 There Friday

In a spectacular drive down the field at Jal Friday evening, sloshing through mud and in the rain, the Artesia Bulldogs made their first tally of the season, but were defeated by their foes 26 to 7.

The score does not show the fine work the Bulldogs displayed, for observers said they were a better team and played a better game than the Jal boys. But tough luck and bad breaks stole their chances to bring home a victory.

An Artesia fumble in receiving the pigskin on the kickoff placed the ball in Jal's hands on the Artesia 15-yard line, leading to the first enemy score four plays later. Five minutes later Jal scored again on a pass.

In the second quarter, Leroy Harmon, after a sustained drive from midfield, during which five first downs were made, went over right tackle for the Bulldogs' only touchdown. Harmon made the extra point on a dropkick, something rare in these days, especially in the rain and mud.

The Bulldogs lost on downs later in the second quarter, when they had fought from the twelve to the two and then were thrown for a loss of ten yards on fourth down. (Continued on last page, column 7)

Joe Richards, Early Resident, Dies on Sunday

First Artesia Fire Chief Answers Final Call — Fellow Firemen Carry Charter Member's Body Wednesday.

Joe Richards, one of the earliest residents of this community and the last charter member of the Artesia Fire Department, died at his home at 7:20 o'clock Sunday evening after a long illness. He was 68 years old.

Although Mr. Richards had been in poor health many months, he had shown considerable improvement recently and his death was somewhat unexpected.

Funeral services were from the Methodist Church at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. I. L. Morgan, pastor. Burial was in Woodbine Cemetery.

The active pallbearers all were members of the Artesia Fire Department, of which Mr. Richards remained a member, though inactive, until his death. They were P. V. Morris, Lee Francis, William Linell, H. D. Jones, Leland Price and L. B. Feather.

Honorary pallbearers: Rex Wheatley, Dave Runyan, W. E. Ragsdale, Judge G. U. McCrary, J. M. Jackson, C. O. Brown and Harry Carder of Artesia and J. E. Robertson of Carlsbad.

Joseph O. Richards, a son of James F. and Matilda Jones Richards, was born Feb. 6, 1874, at Neosho, Mo. As a young man in 1898 the family came to what is now Artesia, then known as Miller's Siding.

Three Dozen Boys And Girls Sign Up For 'Kids' Rodeo'

Will Compete at Goat Ropers Arena at 2 O'clock Sunday Afternoon

About three dozen boys and girls have signed up for the "Kids' Rodeo" to be given Sunday afternoon at the arena of the Artesia Goat Ropers Club, the sponsoring organization.

The rodeo will start at 2 o'clock, but it will be preceded by a parade, to start from the street near the American Legion hut at 1 o'clock. Boys and girls wishing to be in the parade do not have to be entered in any of the rodeo events.

The principal events include calf roping, calf riding, a Shetland pony stake race, a Shetland pony (continued on last page, column 6)

MAY SIGHT GUNS ON RIFLE RANGE

Capt. Oren C. Roberts of the State Guard announced this week the company's rifle range northeast of the Pecos River bridge will be available for the use of deer hunters Sunday morning, Nov. 1, to sight in their guns.

Members of the company will be at the range from 9 o'clock until noon to assist the hunters and make suggestions. The State Guard also will furnish targets, Capt. Roberts said.

The date for the public to use the range for sighting in originally was set for next Sunday, but that was changed, when it was discovered the pheasant season would be in full swing at that time.

First National Again Sets New Deposit Record

The First National Bank again set an all-time high on deposits this week, when books at the close of business Wednesday showed $2,334,735, up $82,829 from the previous high of $2,251,906 on Aug. 19, the first time the figure had passed two and a quarter million dollars.

And bank officials are expecting the deposits to go much higher, as only a small amount of cotton money has come in and the calf and lamb shipments will not be heavy until the first of November.

Deposits Tuesday were $2,318,675, setting a new record, but yesterday's total surpassed that figure by more than $16,000.

It is less than a year since the bank attained deposits of more than two million, for that mark was first surpassed only last Nov. 21.

On the strength of the top mark for 1941 being set the latter part of November, it follows that something the latter part of next month a new high may be set, far exceeding that of yesterday.

Linell Does It Again; Is Golf Champ of 1942

Seventh Time He Has Worn City Crown — Defeats Troy Bourland Sunday in Final Match of Top Flight Play.

Bill Linell, almost perennial city golf champion, is it again—the first time, however, since 1939.

The crown, which he has worn six times before, passed back to him from B. E. Spencer Sunday, when he defeated Troy Bourland 2-up in the final match.

Linell first became city champion in 1932 and has won seven times out of eleven times playing in the championship finals. But he cannot recall the exact years, so common has it become with him to be the No. 1 Artesia golfer.

Troy Bourland, whom he defeated Sunday, is the father of Bob Bourland, medalist both last year and this. The son dropped out of championship play in the semifinals, when Linell eliminated him 1-up on the nineteenth hole.

His dad, Troy, reached the championship bracket by winning 1-up over Harold Crozier in the semis.

The championship flight consolation goes to Bill Bullock, who won over E. N. Bigler, 1-up.

First flight champion is Cliff Thomas, who won 2-up over Zane Smith, a newcomer here, playing his first Artesia tournament.

In that flight the consolation final has not been played. C. A. Baker and Floyd Springer will play it off Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Morgan Superintendent At Albuquerque

The Rev. Dr. I. L. Morgan, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Artesia the last year, was appointed the superintendent of the Albuquerque district at the annual New Mexico conference in El Paso last week.

He will succeed as superintendent of the Albuquerque district the Rev. C. K. Campbell, who in turn was appointed superintendent of the Roswell district, succeeding the Rev. G. W. Shearer.

Dr. Morgan received word Wednesday that he will be succeeded here by the Rev. C. A. Clark, pastor at Hobbs the last seven years. It previously had been announced that the new Roswell district superintendent would serve as acting pastor of the Artesia church.

The Rev. Mr. Clark has been quite successful in his pastorate at Hobbs, Dr. Morgan said, and is greatly beloved there.

The Rev. Constantino Gonzales, pastor of the Spanish-American Methodist Churches in Artesia and Carlsbad, at the recent conference of the Latin division of the church, was transferred to the pastorate in Chicago. Coming to the Carlsbad and Artesia churches will be the Rev. Frank O'Neal, pastor of the (Continued on last page, column 7)

Bonds Total $50,300, as Big Defense Show Is Successful

Men May Enlist In Specialists' Program Today

What probably will be the last chance for Artesia men to volunteer in the specialists' program of the Army Air Forces for assignment at the new Bombardier School at San Angelo, Tex., is being given them here today. A recruiting party from that airfield, headed by Lt. B. E. Vance, is interviewing prospects at the Artesia Auto Company display room.

Men between 18 and 50 years are sought as future aircraft mechanics, radio technicians, welders and metal workers. Physical qualifications have been relaxed to such an extent that almost any man who can work with tools can qualify. And one member of the recruiting party is a member of the medical detachment, so that Artesia men can learn right now whether or not they can qualify.

Rapid promotions among ground crews in the AAF has been one chief reason for so many mechanically-minded men, both married and single, to volunteer under this limited plan. At the San Angelo school more than 300 promotions have been made in the last three weeks in the technicians' division.

Other advantages include the prospect of assignment at an airfield near home, dependency allotment for wives, children and other relatives, low-rate government insurance and the opportunity to learn a skilled trade which can be put to good use after the war.

Men are invited to see the aircraft exhibit and talk with officers Thursday. "If you can learn to work with tools, you are the very man for this rapidly-expanding arm of the service," members of the party said.

Rotary Learns About Making Rubber of Oil

Rubber can be made from any substance containing carbon and hydrogen, J. V. Starkey, Artesia High School chemistry teacher, declared at the weekly Rotary luncheon Tuesday noon. It is a matter of knowing how to manipulate the molecules, he said.

However, Starkey did not imply it is as easy as that, nor did he intimate there will be ample rubber at once, but he pointed out the fact it is a possibility.

Speaking on "Petroleum as Pertaining to Chemistry," the high school instructor gave an interesting insight into petroleum from its formation through its various refining processes.

The making of rubber from crude has been worked out, he said, and it is no great trick to make it today in small quantities in any laboratory. The problem of making it commercially remains. Another common natural resource from which rubber can be made is limestone, Starkey said.

It was announced at the meeting that the Rotary club will observe ladies' night next Tuesday evening on the Roof Garden of the Artesia Hotel. The banquet will start at 7:30 o'clock.

The Rev. Dr. I. L. Morgan, pastor of the Artesia Methodist Church, who has been appointed superintendent of the Albuquerque district and will leave for there Saturday, spoke briefly, expressing the pleasure he has had in Artesia, both in his ministry and in his membership in the Artesia Rotary Club.

George Littlefield, Prominent Rancher, 68, Dies in Texas

George T. Littlefield, 68, one of the most prominent ranchers in the Pecos Valley, died at his home at Mineral Wells, Tex., Monday night. He was the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Littlefield of Roswell and the only nephew of the late Capt. George Littlefield of Austin, Tex.

He held extensive ranch property near Elida and was known to pioneer ranchers of Southwest New Mexico. He came to the Pecos Valley, in 1883. Mr. Littlefield was a veteran of the Spanish-American War.

Surviving Mr. Littlefield are his widow and three children, George W. Littlefield, Clovis; Mrs. Frank Byrd, Elida, and Mrs. A. Q. Evans, Hobbs.

Roswell Army Flying School Band Concert Helps in Savings Rally at Theatre, While Bidders Buy for War Effort.

BOMBERS IN THRILL

Fliers Stage Raid in OGD Original Presentation, "It Can Happen Here."

Artesia's biggest patriotic affair in history went off last Thursday evening with many a bond and many a bang—literally—as $50,300 face value in War Savings Bonds was purchased during a rally at the Ocotillo Theatre and upwards of 1,500 persons saw the spectacular civilian defense demonstration at Morris Field, "It Can Happen Here," the first known presentation of its kind ever staged.

Not only was the war effort enriched through the purchase of bonds and the people of the community were enlightened as to what civilian defense is all about, but the Army Emergency Relief fund was fattened by $226.95, representing the admissions to the theatre, where the band from the Roswell Army Flying School played for a concert in conjunction with the bond sale, and at the American Legion hut, where an orchestra from the band played for a dance, as well as a free-will offering at Morris Field.

The bond sale was stepped up through the auctioning of various articles contributed by Artesia stores and a few trick prizes, such as a "live baby." But it was all in fun, and bidding was brisk.

It is believed at least $5,000 more of War Bonds would have been sold, but the evening's activities were being run on schedule and the splendid concert performance had to be cut short, so the band and members of the theatre audience could be at Morris Field by 9 o'clock for the civilian defense demonstration.

The high point in "It Can Happen Here" was at 9:30 o'clock when a flight of three bombers, piloted by Maj. C. M. Opel, Maj. C. L. Liles and Capt. Pinkham Smith of the Roswell Army Flying School flew over the field in a simulated air raid.

The experienced flyers did themselves proud, as they dived again and again over the stadium and football field, which was blacked out in simulated air raid upon their approach. They were greeted with anti-aircraft fire in the form of skyrocket and other explosives, while high explosives were touched off in the background by T. E. (Dutch) Miller to represent bombs. Firemen and ambulance crews were in action, while a gasoline tank burned.

The stage for the bombing raid was set fifteen minutes before the arrival of the bombers, when a tel- (continued on last page, column 3)

Will Assist Farm, Ranch Truck Men Fill Applications

Every Operator Must Have a Certificate From ODT By November 15

Operators of motor trucks in Eddy County, all of whom must have "Certificates of War Necessity" in order to continue to operate after Nov. 15, may receive assistance in filling out their application blanks today through Saturday either at the city hall in Artesia or the courthouse in Carlsbad, provided they principally serve farmers or ranchers, it was announced by C. F. Beeman, chairman of the county USDA War Board, who automatically became chairman of the county farm transportation committee.

The applications, supposed to have been mailed to all truck operators, are to be returned to the Detroit office of the Office of Defense Transportation with full information, so as to reach there before the Nov. 15 deadline.

It was planned to have extra applications on hand this week at the city hall and courthouse for the (continued on last page, column 6)

GENTLEMEN, THAT WAS FLYING

A telegram Friday morning to Major C. M. Opeil, Major C. L. Liles and Captain Pinkham Smith at Roswell Army Flying School from N. M. Baird, Artesia coordinator of civilian defense, began: "Gentlemen, that was flying!"

The coordinator, of course, was referring to the performance the trio put on over Morris Field the evening prior, without which the presentation of "It Can Happen Here" would not have carried as much thrill.

It certainly was flying, the greatest most of us in Artesia ever have had the pleasure of witnessing.

The three pilots knew what they were doing and they took no chances, appearances to the contrary notwithstanding and in spite of the stories on the streets that the light poles—both while the lights were extinguished and after they were lighted—were missed by a few inches, or actually were flown under. The clearance at all times was far greater than it appeared, we have been assured.

But we will bet the trio of flyers had the time of their lives in the twelve-minute display they gave us.

And that's the American spirit and the American way—to have the time of their lives while flying. That is the spirit displayed by the American pilots on the war fronts, a thrill-filled spirit of living, intermingled with grim determination, while spilling death on the enemies of the United Nations.

We will bet that Major Opeil, Major Liles and Captain Smith will make good accounts of themselves when they fly over the enemy—when they have more with which to scare him than just noise, for, gentlemen, that was flying!

ARTESIA DOOED IT!

Well, Artesia dooed it, as Red Skelton would say!

Not only did we have a show the like of which no one here ever dreamed of before, but the fame of Artesia is spreading greatly because of it.

Members of the audience last Thursday night had not stopped quaking in their boots when Lieutenant-Colonel J. R. Guild, executive officer of the office of the adjutant general of New Mexico, requested a complete manuscript. The colonel, who was representing Governor John E. Miles and Brigadier General Russell C. Charlton at "It Can Happen Here," was assured it would be furnished.

Then Lieutenant Ralph H. Ayer, public relations officer, who was representing Colonel A. C. Kincaid, commanding officer of the Roswell Army Flying School, made a similar request.

And now The El Paso Herald-Post has requested a story about the performance for a feature edition to be published within a few weeks, which also will be forthcoming.

Yes, Artesia dooed it and made the state sit up and take notice that evening. More than 200 people took part in the performance and hundreds more witnessed it. But those local people did not think it such a great thing; it was the visitors who were surprised. Oh, it is true, the show was something to behold and we all were somewhat impressed, both those who saw it and those who put it on, but some of the visitors had the impression until last Thursday evening that Artesia was just a wide place in the road between Roswell and Carlsbad.

Further surprise was displayed when bonds to the tune of $50,300 were sold from the stage of the Ocotillo, only about three weeks after $53,775 were sold at another rally. Yep—you betcha—Artesia dooed it!

CLINT ANDERSON SETS AN EXAMPLE

Our old friend, Clint Anderson, who is running for re-election to Congress, set a good example the other day, when he sent out mats of his handsome face to the newspapers of the state, in order that they might release any tied-up stereotype metal being held in the "morgue."

Heretofore newspapers, upon receiving mats of prominent people have made stereotype castings of them and, frequently, then discarded the mats.

As this amounts to many pounds of metal, even for a weekly newspaper, the amount the nation over is a staggering figure.

We have been complying with WPB Order M-99 by way of discarding obsolete castings, but a casting of Clint Anderson could by no means be considered obsolete—for he is far from it too, and any day we might have occasion to run his physiognomy in our columns.

Of course, that being a live cut, we could retain it. But Congressman Anderson has set a pattern, costing him little for new mats, which we can use time and time again, just as we could use any castings therefrom.

If only more of the powers that be would follow suit, we could turn in many more pounds of metal, as well as file their pictures for future use in smaller space, which we have not done in the past, because it was easier to save the castings—space and cost of metal be hanged.

Clint does get in one other excuse, however: "One old mat did turn up in connection with the primary campaign, and I hardly recognized myself, because the photograph must have been made at least fifteen years ago. I can't see that my looks improve with the years, but I believe a curious voter is entitled to see me as I look now, rather than as I looked a good many years ago."

Could be; we didn't know Clint then. But we like his metal gathering idea.

THE BOYS AREN'T KICKING

They tell about morale among the troops of the United States and some pity is shown for the poor boys in the training camps.

If you have any such pity in your heart, then read the "Dear Folks" letter in this issue from Cpl. Paul D. Hoover, Artesia boy, who is in a Washington camp.

Even if you don't have such a pity, read Paul's letter anyway, and then get the slant which that young American soldier has.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

"Probation after Death" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 25.

The Golden Text is: "He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment." (Rev. 3:5).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye, always having all sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work." (II Cor. 9:8).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook: "Each successive stage of experience unfolds new views of divine goodness and love."
Visitors always welcome.

Dere Folks: Sands of Time

Battery I, 260 CA(AA)
Seattle, Wash.,
Oct. 6, 1942.

Dear Folks:

You will be surprised to get two letters from me so close together, I guess. I just came back from one of the houses near here. The lady who lives there has a boy in the Army. The way she talks made me so angry I just had to write you and tell you. Don't feel sorry for me or any other service man who isn't over seas. Those are the ones who deserve the sympathy. She was talking about her poor little boy in the Army, so far away from home and everything dear to him. Her poor little boy spent his afternoons off leaning against a lamp post because nothing is being done for their morale. She was talking about entertainment, not morale.

Morale is the spirit that gets you when you're out on the regimental parade ground with the whole battalion. Every mother's son there (if he's a red-blooded American) wants to look as much the soldier as the old man, battalion commander, does. Not another sound can be heard before or after the salute to the colors or when the band crosses the field to a stirring march in the display of colors. And when your battery passes in review before the colonel, you're firmly convinced that there isn't another on the field who makes as good a showing as your battery. That is morale.

Morale is the enormous feeling you know when you sit in pitch darkness before a pup tent in the field and watch your company's searchlight cut the sky. It's the feeling you know when you look across a great space and see long lines of Army equipment moving along. Nothing can stop things; nothing will stop them.

That is morale. Just the feeling that you belong to a unit that nothing can stop.

If you care to, you can give this to The Advocate and let them print it. The people of the whole country should know that is the way about 95 per cent of the soldiers feel. Give your sympathy to the boys who deserve it. We don't.

Don't misunderstand me. We would all be very thankful to be home with that feeling of peace and security, but until that time comes, we are all ready to sacrifice anything or everything we have to make this country of ours what it was before war.

I am well, and very thankful to have comfortable quarters like I do.

Your loving son,
Paul D. Hoover.

For fifteen years W. B. Carter of Chewelah, Wash., had been promising his wife venison, but what with chores and all, he just never found time to kill a deer. So Mrs. Carter looked out the farmhouse window and saw a big buck nibbling in her garden. She reached for the Carter rifle. There's venison on the Carter table now.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
(From The Advocate Files for Oct. 20, 1927)

At the special election Friday Artesia citizens voted 160 to 6 in favor of granting a natural gas franchise to V. S. Welch. Martin Yates has been busy since the first of the week making a survey of the town to determine the number of possible gas consumers.

The skeleton of a giant Indian was unearthed by Joe Richards Tuesday about forty-five miles west of Artesia in the hills. Richards, who is doing some road work in that section, observed a rock mound on the side of a hill and decided to investigate. After removing the rocks, he dug only a short distance, when he struck the skull with a pick. Apparently the Indian had been buried in a sitting position. The bones were fairly well preserved, but the skeleton was dismembered in an attempt to exhume it. Surface evidence indicated that the spot near where the Indian was buried once was an Indian village, as a number of flint arrowheads were found in the vicinity.

WHAT'S WHAT —in— NEW MEXICO

News Briefs of the "Sunshine State" Gleaned From Many Sources

State geologist John Kelly declared today that federal restrictions on gold mining would have virtually no effect on the New Mexico mining industry, which produces the precious metal mostly as a by-product. Kelly estimated that less than 100 miners would be affected, and these displaced workers are to be put to work in nearby lead, zinc and copper mines, under the order. Telegraphed details on the restriction order were received by Kelly from Washington. The Black Hawk Mine at Mogollon, New Mexico's chief gold producer, shut down operations voluntarily prior to issuance of the order, Kelly said. "There will be little maladjustment in New Mexico," Kelly said. "The proportion of workers at mines where gold is the chief product—I would estimate less than 100—is very small when compared with the 8,000 men employed in the state's mining industry." The government issued the order to conserve labor, material and equipment for production of ores vitally needed for the war effort.

Formation of a New Mexico Republican "Dempsey for Governor" club was announced by H. H. Errett, Santa Fe business man and former representative from Union County during the Dillon administration. Errett, who was made chairman, said Republicans from several counties had been enlisted. He estimated about forty persons attended the organization meeting in Santa Fe.

Roswell High School students set a new high mark last Thursday with the purchase of $1,381.35 worth of War Savings Stamps and Bonds. This was an average purchase of $2.53 cents per student, based on the day's attendance of 546.

Cattlemen in some parts of the state are resorting to the methods of old-time range days and are driving their cattle overland to shipping points, Sam McCue, secretary of the New Mexico Cattle Sanitary Board, said. Because of transportation difficulties, many a steer who would have had a truck ride to the railway loading point in prewar years, now has to walk. McCue said that this wartime trend first showed up in Roosevelt County, where a considerable number of cattle have been driven to Kenna for shipment. Toward the end of this month, about 700 additional head are expected to be driven there.

A campaign to recruit at least 4,000 women in New Mexico for vocational training in preparation for jobs in war production plants was organized at a conference called by Gov. Miles. The campaign is to be undertaken with the cooperation of the State Board of Education, the Department of Vocational Training, the U. S. Employment Service, the AWVS and the Office of Civilian Defense. Mrs. W. H. Woolston of Albuquerque, representing the AWVS and the OCD at the conference, said voluntary workers would make a state-wide house-to-house recruiting survey and sign up applicants. Training will be offered by the vocational department of the public schools in Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Las Cruces, Silver City, Clovis, Clayton, Las Vegas, Raton and Gallup. Courses will be from three weeks to three months and will be offered in machine shop, welding, airplane mechanics, riveting, sheet metal and similar crafts. Brice Sewell, state director of vocational training and C. J. Boyd, assistant state supervisor of national defense training, reported that 4,000 persons, mostly men, had already been trained in New Mexico and given employment in war production work.

Cancellation of the 1942 convention of New Mexico school bus drivers, to have been held in conjunction with the curtailed state teachers' meeting, was announced by J. T. Reese, state school transportation director. Reese said officials of the Bus Drivers' Association thought it "unwise" to ask them to use rubber and gasoline so vitally needed in the war effort to attend the convention.

This year's 6-by-33-inch general election ballots are the smallest since statehood, the office of Secretary of State Jessie Gonzales said. None but the two major parties have candidates seeking election.

Neil M. Clark of Cedar Crest, well known New Mexico magazine writer, has advised the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce that his story on the Carlsbad Goat Ropers' Club has been accepted by the Saturday Evening Post. Publication date has not been set. Clark spent a week in Carlsbad obtaining material for the story and Salvatore Pinto, Saturday Evening Post photographer, spent three weeks in Carlsbad obtaining color pictures of the members and their activities. Clark also submitted a story on Carlsbad's potash industry, but he said the story has not been definitely accepted.

State Game Warden Elliott Barker described the second half of the 1942 antelope season, concluded in the Roswell and Alamogordo areas, as much less successful than the first-half reports from the southwestern part of the state where hunters chalked up a 93 per cent kill. In the Roswell area, which includes the J. J. Lane, the J. P. White, the Flying H, the Porter, the Minnickee and the Diamond A ranches, 300 hunters bagged 201 bucks. Best section of this area was the J. J. Lane ranch where 26 hunters took 25 bucks. In the Alamogordo area, 98 hunters got 70 antelope. These figures compared with reports from the first half of the season showing 301 hunters getting a total of 278 bucks in the Magdalena-Beaverhead, White Signal-Separ, Eagle, Gourd Land and Cattle Company, Nara Visa, Waggoner and Bell ranch areas. Barker attributed the relatively poor kill in the Roswell area to the fact many hunters were unwilling to risk their automobile tires to get into remote sections where antelope were plentiful.

State WPA Administrator J. J. Connelly announced that New Mexico's work relief quota for October was 3,300, the lowest figure in the agency's history. The quota for October 1941, he said, was 8,100. Large projects in several areas, he explained, have been temporarily closed to permit WPA workers to aid in harvesting.

Opposition to two proposed constitutional amendments was restated by Director Rupert Asplund of the state Taxpayers' Association. The proposals he singled out for objections were one to pay state legislators $1,000 a year instead of $5 for each day of the session; and another proposing to create a group to determine policy and recommend budget allocations for each state school.

Cibola National Forest officials last week estimated Mount Taylor, near Grant already has a foot of snow on its peak—the first of the oncoming season. They based the estimate on Wednesday's second consecutive daily report of three-inch snowfalls at about the 8,000-foot level. The peak is about 11,000 feet high.

Inability to obtain timbers for culvert construction has forced the contractor to suspend work on a 7.7-mile project on Highway 80 west of Lordsburg, the State Highway Department reported. At the same time Office Engineer Clyde Faulk said construction of the $200,000 Santa Fe by-pass would not be pressed until such time as war-vital labor and materials may be spared.

New Mexico's total outstanding indebtedness as of last June 30 was placed by the State Taxpayers' Association at $24,915,500. The figure, which did not include $2,433,000 in secured indebtedness, was contained in the Association's analysis of a state treasurer's report. Largest debt item shown was $22,225,000 in highway debentures, paid from gasoline tax and motor vehicle license revenue. Other items included: Supreme Court building debentures of $115,500, payable out of legal document fees; public defense certificates, $625,000, payable out of property taxes; capitol addition refunding bonds, $146,000, payable out of federal land grant income; 1913 highway bonds, $20,000 payable from state road funds; refunding bonds, $328,000, payable from Santa Fe County property taxes only; refunding bonds, $110,000, payable from general property taxes; Santa Fe and Grant counties and Silver City debentures, $376,000, payable from federal land grant income. The $2,433,000 in secured indebtedness represented bonds of state institutions issued in anticipation of income from lands, permanent funds and earnings.

Too old to bear arms an eighth time in the U. S. Army, Asa Dakaluge has been made head of the Mescalero Apache Indian Council. The veteran Apache scout, who was educated at Carlisle Indian School and was interpreter for Teddy Roosevelt, succeeds Chief Homer Yahnova, who was in the Philippines with his white brothers when Bataan and Corregidor fell. In his hands now rests chief responsibility for rounding up the biggest cattle crop since 1912, for harvesting 3,000 acres of farm lands and for cutting and milling of defense important timber on the tribe's reservation in the Sacramento Mountains. A fourth of the draft age braves are in the armed forces. These include half of the tribe's picked riders and many of its best farmers. The women are helping only on the farms so far.

The announcement that the usual Christmas lights will not be lit at Madrid, the first occasion of a blackout at the holiday period for years and years, is attracting attention all over the state. Before tires and gasoline came up as troubling factors, thousands of New Mexico people, many of them "repeaters" journeyed to the little coal mining town south of Santa Fe to see the most outstanding display of its kind in the nation, the more striking because of its location, in a rough coal mining camp, miles away from populatative centers. Of course economy figures in the probable cancellation of the lights, but the principle factor lies in the operation of the Selective Service, which has gone through the man-power of Madrid, with many mortalities. That labor thing is upsetting many of the historic events in New Mexico. Since it is a part of the war effort, few if any people kick about it.

WPB PLANS TO SEIZE JUNK CARS FOR SCRAP

More than 15,000 "junkers," broken-down automobiles six to ten years old and out of running order, face government seizure in the Rocky Mountain region, unless they are restored to running condition or scrapped within the next sixty days.

This warning was issued by E. J. Blankenfeld, regional manager of the War Production Board's auto graveyard section, who said that "old cars are either a means of transportation—or they are heaps of scrap metal." He urged citizens, police and state highway patrolmen to report location of "jankies" and owners names, if possible, to his office at 724 Kittredge Bldg., Denver. Every opportunity will be given the owner to sell the junk car, he said, but it will be seized for scrap if not sold or put in running condition in sixty days.

Joe Nunn returned Sunday from Garden City, Kan., where he had been looking after about 1,400 head of cattle. Mrs. Nunn and their small daughter, Joan, who were with him, returned home also.

NUMBER 66 ★ How to enroll in the "Kitchen Course in Nutrition" ★ Why farm-fresh produce should be sold by the pound ★ A list of flour and baking needs ★ Recipes for home-baked rolls

Delight your family with these recipes for home-baked rolls

War times have revived interest in good plain cooking, and homemakers are beginning to do more of their own baking. There's nothing like the fragrant aroma of fresh homemade bread or rolls baking in the oven to quicken already hearty fall appetites. And really, making your own rolls is easy, especially if you use the recipe for REFRIGERATOR ROLLS given below. These rolls have a decided advantage over most yeast breads, because the dough can be made several days in advance, then shaped and baked as you want. Simply cover the dough, in one mass and store in the refrigerator. About 1 hour before you want to serve rolls, take the dough from the refrigerator; let rise about 30 minutes; knead and shape into rolls; and bake another 30 minutes. That's all there is to it.

REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

7 cups all-purpose flour
2 eggs
4 cups milk
4 drops yeast

4 drops shortening
2 eggs salt
1 cake yeast

Sift flour and measure. Heat milk. Place sugar, shortening, and salt in large bowl; add hot milk; stir until shortening is melted; cool to lukewarm, about 15 minutes. Add crumbled yeast; mix well. Add flour; stir until dough leaves sides of bowl. Cover bowl with damp cloth; let rise in warm place until light and double in bulk, about 2 hours. Punch down. Place on lightly floured board; knead until dough is smooth. Mold into desired shapes. Place on greased baking pan. Cover with damp cloth. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 30 minutes. Brush with glaze mixture of 1 part sugar and 2 parts milk. Bake in moderately hot oven (425° F.) 15 minutes, or until done. Makes about 3 dozen rolls.

To Store: Punch down dough after first rising. Cover tightly and place in refrigerator.

SHAPING THE ROLLS

You can shape rolls as you wish, making them dainty or man-sized. Keep in mind, however, that they'll double in size during the final rising. For soft rolls, place them almost touching each other on the baking pan. For crusty rolls, give each one space enough to double in size without crowding.

Miss Mary Ellen Griggs Is Bride Of Harold Kersey Thursday, Oct. 8

Miss Mary Ellen Griggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Griggs of Kirksville, Mo., became the bride of Harold Kersey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer Kersey of Artesia, Thursday, Oct. 8, in Carlsbad. The ceremony was performed at the Presbyterian Church in Carlsbad with the Rev. W. S. Dando officiating.

The bride was attired in a wool suit of salute blue with a blue hat and black accessories. Her corsage was red rosebuds. Those witnessing the ceremony were Miss Thelma Kersey, sister of the bridegroom, and R. E. Griggs, of Kirksville, Mo., father of the bride.

Mrs. Kersey, a granddaughter of Mrs. C. A. Sangster of Artesia, is a graduate of Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Kirksville, and has done graduate work at Iowa State in Ames, Iowa. She is a member of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority, the Alumni Club, the Order of the Eastern Star and the D. A. R. chapter at Kirksville. She has taught home economics in St. Louis, Mo., three years in Roswell High School and for the last year and until her marriage she taught home economics at Northeast Missouri State Teachers College, Teacher Training School, in Kirksville.

Mr. Kersey, son of a prominent family in this community, attended the Texas School of Mines, El Paso, two years and is a graduate of the Engineering School, Oklahoma State University, Norman, Okla. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Tau and Tau Beta Pi fraternities. Mr. Kersey is now associated with his father as a member of the Kersey Drilling Company in Artesia.

The newlyweds left immediately after the ceremony for El Paso on a brief wedding trip. They expect to make their home in Artesia.

Ensign Kaiser And Joan Weir Will Wed Today

Announcement was made today of the marriage of Miss Joan Marie Weir, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Weir of New York, N. Y., and Ensign Clarence Drake Kaiser, son of B. F. Kaiser of Artesia. The wedding to be at 8 o'clock this evening at the Broadway Presbyterian Church in New York City.

Clarence, who finished the Artesia schools, received his pre-medical degree at the University of Oklahoma, Norman. He also has had two years graduate work at the University. Ensign Kaiser enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve last spring and received his commission at the Midshipmen school at New York Oct. 16. He will report Oct. 30 at the Bomb Disposal School in Washington, D. C.

For the present Ensign Kaiser and his bride will be at home at 542 West 112 Street, Apartment 6-B, New York, N. Y.

The Past President's Parley Is on Tuesday

District Women's Club Convention Of Much Interest

The Women's Club convention of the New Mexico Federation of Women's Clubs, third district, held in Artesia Friday and Saturday of last week, attracted an attendance far beyond expectations. More than 100 delegates and guests were in attendance at all sessions, with about 150 at the patriotic tea at the Sanley Carper home Friday afternoon, covers were laid for 110 at the patriotic banquet Friday evening and seventy-three at the luncheon Saturday noon, with many turned away, who had not made reservations earlier.

Mrs. C. E. Mason brought a stirring message Friday afternoon when she addressed the assembly on "Women in a World War," and when she later led a forum on "Women's Contribution to the War."

Dr. Alfred Crofts, professor of social science, Eastern New Mexico College, Portales, who delivered an address Friday evening at an open meeting, using for his subject, "The Lights Are Going Out," also led an open forum after the lecture, which proved interesting and informative.

"The lights are going out, is true not only of our year in history, but also of the world tonight," said Dr. Crofts.

Cities and ships are blacked out everywhere; only lights of munitions furnaces, burning cities or scenes of combat, as in Stalingrad are to be seen, he pointed out. The light has gone out gradually, from East to West. Darkness began in Manchuria in 1931 and spread over Asia and Europe and on to America.

Dr. Crofts said total war was operating in the Axis countries for ten years; scientists were learning how to poison and bomb people; theologians were learning how to stir up "Holy Land Wars," against democracies; language and elocution classes were learning how to confuse and subvert opinion by speaking propaganda in the American tongue; athletics ceased to be fun—it was military drill.

America refused to believe the night was coming and lived on only for happiness, he continued. Education was fun; difficult courses and hard teachers were removed to promote happiness. Politics was fun; candidates clowned and chattered, elections often going to the best showman. Business was fun; Tarazan, Andy Gump, Li'l Abner, the movie folks, the hot dog and apple taffy were major industries. America still played long after the darkness covered Europe. "Then it came to us, too."

"We are to live in darkness historically," Dr. Crofts said. "Our chapter will be one to make timid people afraid. The brave and courageous, who have passed on, might envy us our lives, for many have lived better lives and accomplished more because of the threat that hung over them."

"After the night there will be another day. It will be just like the last one; we will have no more power than that we have before and which we have thrown away. The new league of nations will have to be almost exactly the same as the one written in 1920. The same group of political outlaws will attract it for the same reasons, to get themselves elected to office, unless we have changed as a thinking people, the same disaster must be repeated."

"How must we change?" is the question asked. The soldiers on foreign fronts will return tremendously changed. We must use our imaginations and will to keep pace with them. They will be democratic fellow soldiers of the colored and European peoples. We therefore must forget race prejudice. They will be internationalists. The United Nations must succeed nationalistic jealousy. They will want a new society that will not keep them unemployed until some can make a profit, or sink American ships to keep freight rates from going down," concluded Dr. Crofts.

H. T. Decker, baritone, chairman of the School of Music, Eastern New Mexico College, Portales, rendered a thirty-minute musical program before the appearance of Dr. Crofts, and was enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

Mrs. Walker C. Hubbard, Children's Home, Portales, addressed the Saturday morning session on "Daughter What Is In Thine Hand?" Mrs. Hubbard spoke with conviction and brought a splendid message.

The convention went on record by presenting resolutions favoring federal aid for schools in New Mexico and a return to religion in the homes. A resolution presented by Mrs. Martin Yates, Jr., Artesia, on a more lenient oil rationing for Workers are still badly needed to help fold dressings at the surgical dressing room in the Ward building. Anyone wishing to help does not have to be an instructor, as there is an instructor there at all times to assist and instruct the workers.

The room is open from 9 to 12 o'clock and from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock Monday through Friday of each week.

Mrs. Fay Hardeman, chairman of surgical dressings, announced there would be another instructors' course at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 28-29, at the Red Cross room in the Ward building. Anyone wishing to take the course may enroll at Red Cross headquarters or be at the meeting Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Sally Lanning, chairman of sewing, reported this week that all sewing has been taken out.

The Eddy County quota for kits, which are sent to the boys in the armed forces, is 400. Girls will be at the postoffice and the First National Bank Saturday, to take donations for this purpose. The cost of these kits is $1. Any amount a person gives will be appreciated.

Western states, was defeated by a very small majority. Many of the delegates did not vote on the resolution, as they felt they were not properly informed at that time.

Carlsbad was chosen for the next convention city. Many came to the convention feeling this to be the last convention to be held for the duration of the war, but after a round-table discussion at the close of the two-day session, there was a strong appeal for a 1943 convention, if conditions permit.

Register by Monday For Home Nursing Class in Afternoon

Mrs. Phillip Kranz, chairman of Red Cross home nursing, announced this week that Monday would be the deadline for enrollment in the afternoon class, which will meet from 3 to 5 o'clock on Mondays and Thursdays at the high school with Sister Walburga the instructor.

Those who wish to enroll may call Red Cross headquarters at the hotel, 328-W.

As there is a shortage of doctors and nurses, the Red Cross is giving everyone an opportunity to take the home nursing course, so that in case of illness and emergencies in the home he will be better prepared to meet difficulties which may come, Mrs. Kranz said. She also added that at least one person in each home should complete the course.

Joe Richards—

Although he followed the trade of blacksmith the greater part of his life, he ranched here upon his arrival and then opened a blacksmith shop in Hope, where he also was water superintendent. Later he operated a shop in Artesia, until becoming a maintenance foreman for the State Highway Department, in charge of construction to the west, which he followed until forced to retire because of failing health.

Mr. Richards and Lela Gage were married Feb. 26, 1902, and to them were born six children, of whom four survive him: Bertha, Mrs. Jack Johns, Carlsbad; Velma, Mrs. Roy Spivey, Hobbs; Juanita, Mrs. Russell Hill, Artesia, and Joe Richards, Jr., who is stationed at the new U. S. Naval Station at Norman, Okla.

Here, as Mr. and Mrs. Richards were rearing their family in the early days of the town, the Artesia Fire Department was organized in 1910, in which Mr. Richards was instrumental. He not only was a charter member, but the first fire chief. In 1912 he was elected vice president of the New Mexico Firemen's Association and the next year was elevated to the presidency of the organization.

In the growth and development of the local department Mr. Richards always took an active interest. During his long illness the firemen at times held their meetings at his home, so he could have a part, and the last place Mr. Richards went was to a meeting of "the boys" at the fire station some weeks ago.

Mrs. Richards died March 12, 1932, and was buried in Woodbine Cemetery. He was buried yesterday by her grave. His father died here in 1918 and his mother in 1921.

Besides the children mentioned, Mr. Richards is survived by one grandchild and four brothers and two sisters. The brothers and sisters: Lum Richards, Sr., Socorro; Mrs. S. A. Haynes, Edom, Tex.; E. P. Richards, Tularosa; Mrs. A. M. Wier, Richland Springs, Tex.; John Richards, Williams, Ariz.; and Albert Richards, Artesia, present fire chief. A sister and a

Here for the services Wednesday were all of the children and the four brothers.

The more bonds the less bondage.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 155-millimeter gun is the modern version of the old "GPF" of World War 1 days. It has a range fifty percent greater than the old gun, having a 95-pound projectile approximately 15 miles. It is capable of high road speed and each one costs $50,000.

Armaments of America are working at terrific speed turning out this long range, effective weapon for our armed forces. You and your neighbor working hand-in-hand in unity can make possible the purchase of an adequate number of these guns by buying War Bonds. Put 10 percent of your income in War Bonds to help reach your county quota, every day.

PENNEY'S WARM WINTER WEAR

WHERE IS YOUR IMPORTANT 10% FOR WAR SAVINGS COMING FROM?

When we are asked to put ten per cent of our earnings into War Bonds and Stamps, it means adjusting the budget all along the line. We must do without many things, and we must save on the things we cannot do without. One sure way to save is to buy all your family's winter needs at thrifty Penney's, a life-saver to millions whose family budgets must stretch farther than ever before.

The 21st day of September, 1942, in accordance with Chapter 131 of the Session Laws of 1931, O. V. Moore of Artesia, County of Eddy, State of New Mexico, made application to the State Engineer of New Mexico for a permit to change location of shallow ground water well from Well RA-1258, located in the NW 1/4 NW 1/4 SE 1/4 of Section 32, Township 16 South, Range 26 East, N. M. P. M., to a location in the NW 1/4 SW 1/4 NE 1/4 of said Section 32, where it is proposed to drill a shallow groundwater well 12 1/2 inches in diameter and 170 feet in depth for the purpose of continuing the exercise of rights already acquired under File RA-1258. This application is not for any new appropriation of underground water.

Any person, firm, association, corporation, the State of New Mexico or the United States of America, deeming that the granting of the above application will be truly detrimental to their rights in the waters of said underground source, may protest in writing the State Engineer's granting of approval of said application. The protest shall set forth all protestant's reasons why the application should not be approved and shall be accompanied by supporting affidavits and by proof that a copy of the protest has been served upon the applicant. Said protest and proof of service must be filed with the State Engineer within ten (10) days after the date of the last publication of this notice. Unless protested, the application will be given final consideration for approval by the State Engineer on the 31st day of October, 1942.

NOTICE OF SUIT

THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO
TO: Augusta Nobles, Defendant,
GREETINGS:

bananas, beans (frijoles), nuts, rubber, chicle and tobacco. Though in recent years Mexican manufacturing has been expanding, with Monterrey as center, the country still looks largely to others for machinery, textiles, steel products, automobiles, paper and miscellaneous manufactures. But more and more, with development of airways, railways and highways, Mexico is making use of a rich natural endowment and directing it into its own and the world's trade channels. And as the Pan American Highway pushes southward, the country of Maya and Aztec plays host to mounting thousands.

This application is merely for the purpose of correcting an error of land descriptions contained in a former application and does not involve any application for additional water.

SHE WON'T STOP by shouting Whoa!

Driving on today's crowded streets and highways doesn't give a man time to say "Jack Robinson" or "Whoa" either — when he has to stop in a hurry. Good brakes are the only thing that count then.

It pays in more ways than one to have your brakes in tip-top shape. The safest plan is to have your brakes inspected every 3 or 4 months. A simple adjustment then may save your brake lining for many thousand more miles.

Come in and have your brakes checked on our fast, automatic Bear Hydraulic Brake Tester. It is accurate and uncovers all brake troubles.

INTRODUCING SETH HOWELL

Candidate for Land Commissioner

Seth J. Howell, Encino rancher, business man and partner of former Governor Dick Dillon for 25 years.

Mr. Howell doesn't claim to know all the answers to our state and national ills and problems, but he modestly admits that he believes he can operate the State Land Office efficiently, competently and honestly by discarding corrupt politics and applying the simple rules of fairness and justice in the dealings of that department.

Seth, as his friends and neighbors call him is not a wealthy man, but has managed to accumulate a modest amount of this world's goods—and there is not a dollar of "tainted" money in it, these people maintain.

He is highly regarded by the people in his home county. In fact, they have thought enough of him that he has had 10 years experience as Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners in his own County of Torrance.

Mr. Howell is a member of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, the New Mexico Wool Growers Association and several fraternal lodges.

For decency and good government; honesty, efficiency, fairness and justice in the Land Office you will do well to cast your ballot for Seth J. Howell, Republican candidate for Land Commissioner.

WHO IS JOE TONDRE?

That question is being asked more and more by voters down here in "Little Texas," as election day draws nearer. They want information on the Republican candidate for governor. Here it is:

Joseph F. Tondre is the third generation to bear that name. His grandfather, Joseph Frank Tondre, came to Iowa in the early 1800's from Alsace-Lorraine, France. He became a naturalized citizen in Iowa, where he settled, in 1856. These naturalization papers are still in possession of the Honorable Joseph F. Tondre, Republican candidate for governor.

Joe's father, Joseph F. Tondre, II, came to Isleta, N. M., by ox and mule team in the early sixties and opened a trading post. Shortly after his arrival there, he married Miss Anna Mellecker, who came overland by mule team from Kansas. She descends from French-German stock which also emigrated to America from Alsace-Lorraine.

These are the parents of Joseph F. Tondre, III, Republican gubernatorial candidate. Tondre the third was married to Miss Ruth Powers of Las Vegas. They are the parents of four talented and charming daughters and a son, Joe Tondre, IV, a student at the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

The Republican candidate for governor is a native New Mexican. He is a successful business man of Los Lunas, his home town. He speaks fluently three languages—English, Spanish and Navajo—the latter two being familiar to too few New Mexicans in this section.

Mr. Tondre has served as U. S. Marshal and for four years as Sheriff of Valencia County. With this background of law enforcement, as governor, his friends believe he would use every means at his command to place behind penitentiary walls, the embezzlers, thieves, and grafters now infesting many state departments and offices.

Joe Tondre has all the qualifications to make a fine governor. He is honest, fair, capable and just in his dealings with his fellowmen. He has no rock asphalt, road machinery or oil to sell the state. He has stated frankly that all he expects to sell it, is his service as governor and that in case he is elected, he will retain his salary, considering it money honestly earned.

Pix Rhapsody

By Mary Jane

"My Sister Eileen" is blonde, devastating, terrific.

"My Sister Eileen" is the Ruth McKenney magazine character who delighted millions of readers and whose romantic antics, brought to the stage by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov, have convulsed the play-goers of the nation for more than two solid years.

"My Sister Eileen" is, today, the Columbia comedy considered by Hollywood as "unbeatable," a film which will never be matched for exuberance, light-hearted gaiety and romantic appeal. The film opens Nov. 8 for three days at the Ocotillo Theatre, with Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Janet Blair starred.

The Misses Russell and Blair are delightfully seen in the new comedy as Ohio's Ruth and Eileen Sherwood, respectively. Ruth is reasonably level-headed, and she wants to be a writer. Eileen is phenomenal, a blond bombshell of personality, and she wants to be an actress. As the editor of New York's most sophisticated magazine, Aherne helps both girls achieve their ambitions—but not until they have involved themselves and him in a series of delicious complications.

KNOW YOUR NEIGHBOR MEXICO

Aztec legend has it that Popocatepetl and his bride, Ixtaccihuatl, came to the entrance of the Valley of Mexico on their honeymoon. Giant that he is, Popocatepetl found the forty-mile-wide valley too narrow for his bulk, and asked his bride to rest while he explored for another passage. Unsuccessful in his quest, Popocatepetl returned to find his spouse asleep, and solicitously settled himself to wait the end of her aeon nap.

Through the centuries he has watched faithfully by her side, but, annoyed like many a man before and since, he sighs now and then with a breath of ashes and lava at the perversity of woman-kind.

Popocatepetl is a volcano mountain given to infrequent eruptions, whose hoary head 18,000 feet in the clouds, may on a fair day be seen from any one of the modern hotels in Mexico City built for the accommodation of the tourist. Joined to it is the mountain, Sleeping Woman or Ixtaccihuatl, wrapped in a snowy shroud, and out of this proximity grew the legend.

The story makes delightful nonsense, but it serves to highlight a characteristic of the Mexican people—reverence for and preservation of Indian lore and legend, song and story, culture and civilization.

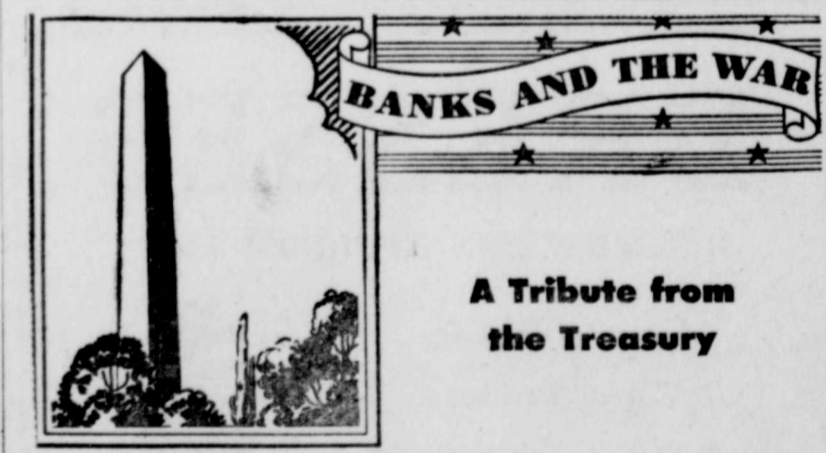

In councils of state, in commerce and the arts, the Indian has been given freedom to achieve high place in shaping his nation's destiny, and with equal pride the modern Mexican may claim as heritage the blood of Indian ancestor and Spanish conqueror.

Northernmost of the Latin American republics, Mexico's cultural fabric had its beginnings further into antiquity than the archeologist has as yet been able to travel with certainty. Several civilizations were to appear and thrive before the coming of the Spaniards. The Mayas and others left cultures which still puzzle the scientist. Buried cities of days long gone hint of a Mexico dimmed by centuries but living still.

First in silver, second in antimony, third in lead, fourth in mercury, fifth in zinc, sixth in gold, seventh in petroleum;—so runs the account of Mexican tangibles on the pre-war production sheets of the world. For Mexico is one of the world's richest mineral countries. Nearly every state has mines. And beyond the visible wealth are stores unfound, unused or scarcely touched in the rugged fastnesses of the Sierra Madre.

But if treasure such as this drew the conquistadores of Old Spain, and others after them, it does not hold first interest for the Mexican. Agriculture is the keystone of Mexican economy. About seven out of ten of the nation's more than nineteen millions live in rural communities.

Lying in tropic and temperate zones, with productive lowlands and fertile plateaus, in possible diversification of crops Mexico enjoys an advantage held by few nations. Crops range from the henequen or sisal hemp of sub-tropical Yucatan to the wheat of the central plateau and the long-fibre cotton of Lower California. Corn, the leading crop, is grown in almost every part of the country. From it comes the famed "tortilla," a truly national institution. Other important soil products are coffee,

HERE'S ABOUT THE KINDEST CUT OF ALL

The kindest cut of all is a cold cut. Kind to ladies-in-a-hurry; kind to you who are hot under the collar; kind to palates (do you say 'yum' or 'Mmmmm' when it tastes good?) and kind of what we like best to eat these days are cold cuts.

Cold cuts embrace a legion of ready-to-serves. Any good meat cooked and served cold rates the name. Cold sliced pork and beef and meat loaf and veal are cut into slices you'll like to serve. Bologna, liver sausage, salami, head cheese, spiced hams, veal loaf, almost anything your favorite meat-man sells under the name of "luncheon meats" (just peek through his refrigerator glass counter and pick 'em out) will get the name—and the fame, which is prodigious.

Cold cuts have not been idle in the rush of nutrition recognition, either. Those same B vitamins, the same high and complete protein content, the same minerals found in all meat are as present in cold cuts as in their warmer relatives. No "snackeroo" but a real meal basis, they bring economy and flavor to any board they grace.

Notable for parading down a platter (and that's fun, fixing them all in a row like that contrary girl's garden), and with a modicum of fame for their glamour between slices of bread for a sandwich, cold cuts can be oh-so-much more to you.

COLD ONES GET HOT

No secret but still one you can spell out to your friends is the fact that cold cuts can be served hot! Look, see, how they turn into just about the best-eating food you ever fixed:

Ham Hurry-Ups

Take thin slices of boiled ham and American cheese. Roll them together into a cornucopia with the cheese slice inside. Secure with toothpick. Broil or bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 10 to 12 minutes, until the ham is heated through and the cheese melted inside. Serve with potato salad and individual molds of tomato aspic. Ham contributes B-1 along with its delicate color and flavor.

Lazy Liver Sausage Sandwich

Toast bread on one side. Then spread untoasted side with mashed liver-sausage. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Place under broiler 'til cheese melts. Serve at once with a green salad. A hearty open-face sandwich rich with the nutritional essentials all liver contains.

Fresh Corn and Cervelat Saute

Saute together fresh corn kernels and cervelat (cut in cubes). Stir occasionally to brown evenly on all sides. Serve with broiled tomatoes and hot potato salad.

Salami Sandwich

(No Bread)

Take two slices of salami about 1/4 inch thick and spread with sweet pickle relish. Press together in sandwich form and serve as the meat main-dish with cooked string beans in the center of a buttered rice ring.

Tongue a la King

Cold cut ready-to-serve tongue in cubes. Cream together with pimento, peas and finely chopped green pepper. Serve in homemade pastry cases, according to this recipe:

Pastry Cases

Two cups sifted flour, 3/4 cup

lard, 12 teasp. salt, 4-6 tbsps. ice water.

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in lard until particles are about size of peas. Add water, a little at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through flour with a fork until dough just holds together. Use as little water as possible. Chill before rolling. Roll to 1/8" thickness. Cut into 4" rounds and fit over back of 3" muffin pans; trim to fit. Prick well with fork; bake, pastry side up, in hot oven (425° F) for 15-18 mins. Remove; carefully lift shells from pans. Makes about 12 pastry cases.

SLIVERS FROM COLD CUTTERY

Have a "Slice Your Own" Supper... buy a whole liver sausage, a loaf of luncheon meat, a length of bologna; have a knife handy and plenty of buttered bread, mustard, catsup, relishes, a bowl of green salad and some hot coffee. Result: buffet supper!

Slivered cold cuts may repose a-top mixed green salads to their betterment.

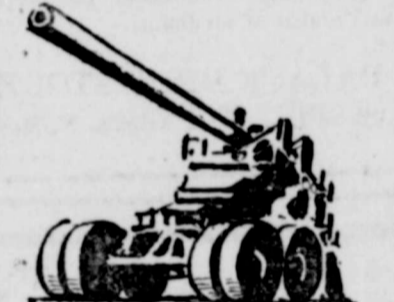

Devised eggs are angelic when ground or cubed cold cuts are added to the deviltment.

Chopped cold cuts and a gob of mayonnaise or herb of relish make good sandwich fillings, canapés too. Toast for extra added pleasure.

Horns of plenty (plenty good!) are slices of any cold cut—ham or bologna especially—rolled up, fastened with a toothpick, filled with cole slaw. Why not?

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 155-millimeter gun is the modern version of the old "GPF" of World War I days. It has a range fifty percent greater than the old gun, heaving a 95-pound projectile approximately 15 miles. It is capable of high road speed and each one costs $50,000.

Arsenals of America are working at terrific speed turning out this long range, effective weapon for our armed forces. You and your neighbor working hand-in-hand in unity can make possible the purchase of an adequate number of these guns by buying War Bonds. Marine recruiters turned down Donald Moore, 17, when he tried to enlist last July in Rocky Ford, Colo. He was color blind. Eat carrots, they advised. Their vitamin A might help. Donald never liked carrots, but he bought a bushel. When he had eaten all of them he was back at the recruiting office. The verdict: Better, but still not good enough. Donald cringed, started his second bushel. "I'm getting kind of tired of them," he admitted.

It isn't often that I can spend my money twice—but War Bonds let me do exactly that!

Everytime I buy one I feel inside the way I do when a band plays the Star-Spangled Banner. I sort of feel I'm doing something for my country.

Then when I get down to earth again, I realize that I'm doing something for myself as well. I get to dreaming about what I'll do when the war is over and about things I want to buy. Things like the rest of the equipment for that electric kitchen I have my heart set on but can't get for the duration. But I'm buying it now for later with Bonds.

Southwestern PUBLIC SERVICE Company

Victory Service League Is Being Formed in City

Formation of an Artesia chapter of the national Victory Service League, a national alliance of motorists, was announced here by Clyde Guy of the Guy Chevrolet Company, which will serve as local headquarters of the new organization.

The Victory Service League, according to Guy, has been founded as a patriotic organization of car and truck operators who are pledging themselves to car conservation in the interests of maintaining America's civilian transportation system.

In addition, the league will provide motorists a correlating agency through which they can participate in any nationally-sponsored activity designed to further the country's war effort, Guy said.

More than 8,000 Chevrolet dealers and 75,000 of their employees comprise the basic group about which the Victory Service League has been established. This group has a two-fold purpose in making the league effective in the war effort. First, they have taken an active part in four of the nation's greatest patriotic drives. They were extremely effective in the drive to establish the 10 per cent bond drive. Second, they actively engaged in the scrap rubber campaign and in the metal scrap campaign now under way, which is proving to be a tremendous success. The purpose is to assure conservation of passenger cars and trucks and will bring to the nation a full realization that the motorist must protect his equipment to get the most economical mileage and to prolong the driving life of the car or truck he is now using in his country's service.

"Automotive transportation is America's vital life-line," Guy said. "The 27,000,000 passenger cars and the 5,000,000 trucks now operating in this country constitute a great source of mobility in the hands of the general public. How that essential mobility is conserved has a very direct bearing on the war program. It is the aim of the VSL to foster sane, sensible conservation of transportation."

The national slogan of the VSL, Guy said, is "Save the Wheels That Serve America." That slogan must be translated into actuality and the VSL affords an excellent medium for so doing.

VSL members, Guy said, will receive a free car conservation inspection when they sign the national pledge. In addition, they will be given membership cards and emblems to display on their cars.

Owners of all makes of cars and trucks are urged to sign the VSL pledge, Guy pointed out, and the fact that local headquarters will be the Chevrolet dealership has no bearing on the aims and intents of the program.

SGT. HANNAH ENTERS OFFICERS' TRAINING

Sgt. Ernest A. Hannah, Jr., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hannah of Artesia, has been selected by a board of New Mexico officers to attend officers training school at Camp Berkeley, Tex.

He is now at the school and is taking the medical administration course.

Sgt. Hannah was chosen to take the training because of outstanding service and qualities of leadership exhibited as an enlisted man.

A Reminder to Mail Yule Gifts To Boys Abroad Before Nov. 1

Don't forget that if you're sending Christmas gifts or cards to relatives or friends in the armed forces abroad, mail them before Nov. 1.

Otherwise, postal officials warned, the packages and cards probably will arrive at their destinations too late for Christmas enjoyment.

Special efforts will be made to deliver packages labeled "Christmas Parcel" in time for the Yuletide observance, the officials said, adding that early mailing will greatly facilitate the process.

Carelessness in choosing gifts or in packaging and mailing them, they cautioned, also may result in meager Christmas cheer for the nation's fighting sailors and marines.

In selecting gifts, persons were urged to purchase articles that are easily portable and useful in any climate. In this category they listed toilet kits, watches, notebooks, pipes, wallets, pens or pencils and photographs.

Sending of electrical apparatus and perishable matter was discouraged. Clothing should not be mailed unless specifically requested, the officials said.

Postal regulations prohibit the sending of intoxicants, inflammable materials, including matches and lighter fluids, and poisons or compositions which may kill or injure another.

Parcels should not exceed the size of an ordinary shoe box and should not weigh more than six pounds. They should be packed in substantial boxes or containers and should be covered by strong wrappings.

Delay will be avoided if packages are not sealed, but are tied or secured so as to be readily opened for censoring. Sealed packages of cigars, tobacco and toilet articles in simplest mercantile form, however, may be enclosed within packages.

The packages should be packed tightly to avoid damage in transit, while sharp instruments such as knives and razors should have their edges protected.

The address on the package should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the name, rank and rating of the addressee and the naval unit or ship to which he is assigned.

In no case, however, should the location of the unit or ship be mentioned, as it might reveal secret military information.

Only two postoffice addresses should be used, depending upon which is nearer to the man addressed. They are: c/o Postmaster, New York, and c/o Postmaster, San Francisco. Local addresses may be used only in addressing men within the continental limits of the United States.

Inscriptions such as "Merry Christmas" and "Do not open until Christmas" may be placed on the covering, if they do not interfere with the address.

Postage must be fully prepaid. Books are acceptable at the rate of 3 cents a pound.

Money orders should always be used, as at many places abroad there are local prohibitions against the importation of United States money.

The Men Behind

The Men Who Fly 'Em

Public Relations Office, Roswell Army Flying School

Cpl. Tommy H. McCubbin is just an ordinary soldier in Uncle Sam's fast-growing Air Force, yet it is upon him and thousands like him that America depends, and it is he and his kind that Hitler fears.

Cpl. McCubbin is an armorer. Daily he handles thousands of pounds of practice bombs at the Roswell Army Flying School. It is to him that the bombardier says daily, "Got 'em aimed right, pal?" just before taking off on a practice bombing mission.

Young McCubbin, who in May, 1941, left Hendrix College at Conway, Ark., to enlist in the Air Corps, originally intended to become a flying cadet, but because of slightly defective vision in one eye, he couldn't quite make the grade.

Finding he could not become a pilot, McCubbin got into what he thinks is the next best thing . . . armament. Sometimes he has banker's hours, from 9 to 5 o'clock. But whatever his hours, his schedule runs something like this: Reporting to the "line," he is the first man on a plane that has just returned from a bombing mission. He begins by testing the mechanisms of the ship's bomb racks and wiring and release gear. Then he helps stow the deadly "tin fish" in the belly hatch of the big bomber, cocking all the bomb racks so the big missiles will drop out of the plane properly. Then he shackles the bombs so that they rest on the racks properly. After he checks the arming wire on the bomb and rack, the plane is ready to go, as far as his job is concerned.

Cpl. McCubbin's last job in civilian life was that of soda jerker at $15 a week. As a corporal in the Air Corps he makes more than that, $66 a month and his keep, which adds up to a pretty good job when you figure it out.

As an armorer, McCubbin is as much a part of the plane's crew as the gunner, navigator or pilot. It is up to him to see that the bombs fire properly. In actual battle, if McCubbin let a visibly defective bomb go through, an entire flight mission might be wasted. Armors have a lot of fun at their jobs. Sometimes they write dubious poetry on the sleek practice bombs like: "Look out below, Tojo!" Or, "Here's mud in your eye, Adolph!"

McCubbin, from his long hours in the open has gained weight since entering the Army and thinks he is in better physical and mental condition than ever before in his life. Even though he is not a pilot, he can fly with other members of the ship's crew practically any time he desires.

When the war is over he hopes to pick up his college career where he left off. He puts part of his Army pay in War Bonds and, all things considered, thinks he will have a nice nest egg hidden away with which to finish his education.

Ambitious, he hopes to become a commissioned ground-school officer before the war ends. In Army language, to "wait" for something is to "sweat it out," and that's what McCubbin is doing now—working hard at his job as an armorer, and sweating out a promotion. He shouldn't have long to wait, either, as advancement comes quickly in the Army these days. If you know the Air Corps, you'd say his chances for promotion are pretty good.

Keep 'em firing—with junk!

Businessmen — Let's talk about death! Let's not dodge the issue — let's face facts. A lot of good American fighting men may soon have to die for want of scrap!

IF YOU FAIL SOME BOY WILL DIE!

WE'RE talking facts, remember! Such as the fact that steel for every tank, ship, and gun must be made of 50% scrap. And the terrible fact that America's mills are starving for this scrap—without enough on hand for even 30 days more production!

Which puts it up to you!

Monday starts the big scrap metal drive. And you, as a businessman, have a double job to do. Clean out your home—and scour your place of business, factory, office or store . . . for every single bit of scrap.

And when you see the stockpiles grow—for the mills to take when it's needed—be glad that you've done your part...that your work may have saved some boy from a needless death!

From Near and Far, Some Timely, Some of Human Interest

At Greenville, N. C., Recorder J. W. H. Roberts, told a defendant convicted of drunkenness that he would suspend the thirty-day sentence meted out to him if he would report to the court on Oct. 23 and prove that he had collected 500 or more pounds of scrap metal or rubber for the community salvage pile.

The Philadelphia school board has urged youngsters to refrain from Hallowe'en pranks because "this year is different." But—just to be on the safe side—it cautioned householders to keep milk bottles and ashes indoors Hallowe'en.

Rin Tin Tin III, grandson of the famous movie dog, is home on furlough from his Army station in the desert—recovering from wounds suffered in line of duty. He had a brush with a night prowler near the Army camp. The prowler was a porcupine.

Pvt. Edmund D. Metcalf's induction notice keeps following him. A soldier from Metcalf's battery found the notice on a San Diego scrap heap. Metcalf explained he'd tossed it into a trash can at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. He had no idea how it got to San Diego.

Cpl. Lester H. Geiss of Fort Warren, Wyo., begged Cheyenne cleaners and pressers to end their strike. "Unless I can get my pants back, I may lose a swell girl," he moaned. Geiss' chances look slim. The strike is continuing—and he has a date for tomorrow night.

Mrs. Jennie Wheeler of Buffalo, Okla., was surprised when her small radio set left the table and floated toward the ceiling. She scurried outside. A small boy was pulling on the aerial wire.

Joe Broken Leg, a Cheyenne Indian, is in a hospital. No, Broken Leg didn't break a leg. But he injured his foot.

Camden, Mo., residents who don't own cars must either walk or find themselves a horse. The town's only taxi, owned by Mrs. Thomas Nance, was demolished in a collision with a truck.

Cpl. Bernie Abrahams of the Royal Regiment of Toronto, who has returned from Britain, tells of an air raid warden trying to hustle an English woman out of her home into a shelter during a bombing. "Wait till I find me teeth," the woman said. "What do you think they're dropping, lady, sandwiches?"

Resuming business after the Columbus Day holiday, the Navy recruiting station staff in Richmond, Va., found enlistments piled up. The first enlistment card filed was that of Christopher Columbus Tompkins, 40, of Richmond. He was assigned to the Naval Training School as a mail specialist.

Candido Yozano, 40-year-old farm worker, isn't one to fret over current events. He was arrested for vagrancy in Los Angeles and could produce no draft registration card. "I didn't know about this draft," he explained. "I didn't know there was a war going on."

Ernest Hill, Linneus, Mo., city electrician, found it difficult to keep his driving speed below thirty-five miles per hour. So he rigged up a gadget. Now when the speedometer hits thirty-five, the horn honks.

Three masked handits in Chicago got as far as removing a cash box containing $400 from the safe of the Kallis Publishing Company. Then something happened that they hadn't anticipated. Three young women employes suddenly screamed and the would-be robbers were so upset they dropped the cash box and fled.

Mrs. Herbert Pique of Greysbull, Wyo., held her daughter, five days old, up to the hospital phone so that her husband in Pearl Harbor could hear the infant. The baby was jiggled and gitchee, gitchee good, but nothing happened. A baby-wise nurse supplied the answer. Baby's feet were tickled. A gurgle went across the Pacific.

"Honey, do you want to buy a house?" Honey does, so off the couple goes to pick out a nifty little number at the used house lot.

A wrecking company that once tore down houses for salvage re-conditions them and put them on display. They are delivered F. O. B. to your lot in Los Angeles.

Maybe this Denver motorist is just a little too enthusiastic about the scrap metal drive. Police are seeking a driver who knocked a parking meter over with his car. He got out, picked the meter up, and drove away.

A girl at Third Service Command headquarters in Baltimore telephoned Pratt Library asking help decoding an official message. "I can't understand what went wrong," she told Miss Mildred Donahue. "I know the soldier who sent it, and he's very smart. The first part is clear enough—just some army orders. But there's a line that doesn't make any sense." Miss Donahue went to work with a radio telegraph code book. Then she called the puzzled girl. "I've translated the message," she told her. "It reads: 'I love you!'"

Mrs. W. E. Evans of Knoxville, Tenn., has put the parachute to another practical use: She's made an evening gown of one. The discarded parachute was sent her by her son, Lt. Richard E. Evans of the Army Air Force in Texas. She made it into such a flattering piece of attire that she wore it recently at the wedding of a niece.

Soldiers passing a night club near Camden, S. C., dropped in for a bit of amusement. But instead of the expected throng of merry-makers and diners they encountered a group of somber-garbed preachers. The club operates only in the winter season and at the time had been thrown open to a church conference.

Marine recruiters turned down Donald Moore, 17, when he tried to enlist last July in Rocky Ford, Colo. He was color blind. Eat carrots, they advised. Their vitamin A might help. Donald never liked carrots, but he bought a bushel. When he had eaten all of them he was back at the recruiting office. The verdict: Better, but still not good enough. Donald cringed, started his second bushel. "I'm getting kind of tired of them," he admitted.

At Eddyville, Ky., Sidney Scott has lots of trouble keeping his automobile going these days. He got into it the other day, stepped on the starter and nothing happened. He called a garage and had it towed in. It was discovered squirrels had filled much of the car's innards with hickory nuts.

Two American fighter pilots—Lientenants Edward A. Tovrea of Phoenix, Ariz., and William B. Whisonant of Vineland, N. J.—agreed when they arrived in England that the first one shot down

TWO-PURPOSE PROGRAM SET FOR FARM HAULING

A two-purpose program designed to keep the growing volume of farm products and supplies moving with the least possible wear and tear on the approximately 1,500,000 motor trucks now engaged in such transportation has been announced by ODT.

Asa J. Merrill, Denver regional ODT director, said a plan has been worked out whereby three groups principally concerned with the primary movement of farm products—farmers, carriers and processors—may act jointly in their respective areas to conserve truck equipment.

FISH-GAME OFFICIAL LAUDS DEER PROGRAM

The spreading national campaign asking hunters to turn in their deer and elk fats for explosives, a program which originated with the Denver chapter of the Izaak Walton League, has drawn commendation and support from Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington.

Dr. Gabrielson added his appeal to sportsmen to enlist in this drive to aid the country's war program.

Mrs. Hollis Watson, Mrs. Lewis Story, Mrs. C. R. Baldwin and Mrs. Dave Bunting spent several days this week in El Paso, driving over Sunday.

Pvt. Cecil F. Hubbert has the run of the post—except that he can't go to the post theatre, the post exchange, the restaurant just off the post, or any place else where fatigue clothes are banned at Randolph Field. Pvt. Hubbert's dilemma is caused by his lack of pants. He measures four feet from his hips down. Six feet, five inches tall, he was issued regulation equipment for the trousers. He will wear fatigue pants until the quartermaster masters the problem.

The Machine Gun Mortons, they call 'em in Thomason, Conn. Father Frank Morton, Sr., works in a foundry making 50-calibre machine guns. Mother Morton is in another shop where she makes dies for 50-calibre machine gun bullets and son, Frank Morton, Jr., is a sergeant in the Army, in charge of a squad handling 50-calibre machine guns.

Four-H Calves, Pigs to Be Sold At Courthouse

Fred Barham, Eddy County agent, this week announced a sale of calves and pigs raised by 4-H Club boys on the courthouse lawn in Carlsbad at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Heretofore, Barham said, the 4-H boys' stock has been sold each year at the Roswell Fair, but as that was called off this year, it was decided to have the county auction.

Barham said it is hoped a number of Artesia and North Eddy County bidders will be present, so as to encourage the boys, some of whom are from this end of the county.

The steers are being offered one each by Fred, Jr., Roy and Henry Savoie, Artesia; Gene Reno, Artesia; John Henry Angell, Jr., Lakewood; Marion Hughes, El Paso Gap; George Birchell, Carlsbad; Dean Boyd, Carlsbad, and Morris Lee Roberson, Loving.

Both of the fat barrows are being offered by Billy Johnson of the Cottonwood community.

Intensified Campaign For Recruiting Young Men of 18-19 Years

An intensified campaign for recruiting 18 and 19-year-old volunteers for the Army now gives young men still in their teens a wider range of choice than before in selecting the arm in which they are to serve.

Under a new ruling, recruits of 18 and 19 may volunteer specifically for the Quartermaster Corps, Ordnance Department, Chemical Warfare Service, Medical Corps, or the Provost Marshal General's Department, in addition to the previous range of choice between the Infantry, Cavalry, Army Air Forces, Coast Artillery (including Anti-Aircraft and Harbor Defense), Field Artillery, Armored Force, Engineers, and Signal Corps.

Men 18 and more will have the same opportunities to get ahead in the Army as older soldiers, too! They have the opportunity to attend officer candidate schools, and may be commissioned just as the older men.

For further details, the recruiting office in Roswell may be contacted.

Defense Show—

phone call direct to the field from the base at Roswell said the bombers had left there. The Artesia control room at the city hall, represented by a roped-off space on the field, went into action upon receipt of the call, which was interpreted to mean that the interceptor command had notified the city a hostile force of bombers was coming this way.

N. M. Baird, coordinator of civilian defense in Artesia, who was in the control room, received the call and immediately put the civilian defense activities into action. On the city's control panel he lighted a yellow light, representing the first warning, and went through the motions of calling Mayor Emery Carper, chief of civilian defense, who, in turn, was supposed to have called Gov. John E. Miles from his home, asking the governor to call out the State Guard.

The coordinator, in the staging, also called Howard Whitson, controller; Tom Ragsdale, panel clerk, and the chiefs of all corps connected with civilian defense.

Then came the blue light warning, meaning that the bombers were near. All members of the various corps then were sent to their stations, represented on the playing field, which was divided into four city defense zones—and the stage was set for the bombing.

After the lights were brought up again and the bombers had returned to Roswell, four incidents were enacted on the field, just as though the raid was still in progress, by the senior and junior air raid wardens, police, firemen, members of the AWWVS Motor Corps, the emergency medical corps, including the Red Cross first aid workers, and messengers.

The State Guard then took to the field, one platoon representing an invading detachment and the other the State Guard itself, while Major Charles Morgan, commanding officer of the 2nd Battalion, explained the action over a public address system.

An explanation of the AWWVS work by Mrs. H. R. Paton was followed by a demonstration by members of the Artesia regular and auxiliary fire departments in extinguishing a gasoline fire and incendiary bombs, with Fred Cole at the microphone. Fire Chief Ira Stockwell of Carlsbad also demonstrated use of the new rescuator which the Carlsbad department recently acquired.

Prior to the action of the impending raid and the raid itself, the entire Civilian Defense Corps units and State Guard, with the Roswell Army Flying School band leading, staged a grand entrance and a parade past the reviewing stand. There Lt. Col. J. R. Guild, representing Gov. Miles and Brig. Gen. Russell C. Charlton, and Lt. Ralph H. Ayer, representing Col. A. C. Kincaid, commanding officer of the Roswell base, received the salutes as the units passed in review. The State Guard was in charge of the flag raising—and "It Can Happen Here" was under way.

During the enactment of the incident after the air raid, Coordinator Baird, one of the authors of the show, gave an explanation of the action over the public address system. A. L. Bert, another of the authors, was the general narrator. Hugh Kiddy, originator of the general idea, was the third author.

They are working day by day and already have a considerable amount of scrap metal located. In the near future they will start to pick it up with trucks.

In the campaign by the Artesia students, they raised a total of $339.16 for the Junior Red Cross in the sale of the 84,700 pounds.

Included in the total scrap of the schools, was a pile of 10,180 pounds gathered by the fifth and sixth-grade children at the high school, while the youngsters of Central School had 2,930, all taken to the school in small amounts which the boys and girls could carry.

The greater part of the school's total was contributed to the high school boys and girls, who made a house to house drive Wednesday of last week. Senior boys, with trucks, picked it up on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday.

C. D. Marshall, high school principal, speaking for the faculties and children of both schools, expressed their thanks for the cooperation of the citizens of the community in making the drive a success and in making available for the war effort such a large amount of old scrap.

Information as to more scrap turned up during the two days is being turned over by the schools to the firemen for their drive.

The rescuator which firemen hope to be able to buy is not the main reason they have entered the campaign, members of the department said. They wish to do their part in the war effort, but they see a chance to raise funds for the life-saving machine, for which they have wished for a long time.

It has three distinct purposes: To replace the customary prone pressure method, by applying suction and pressure with positive rhythm; as an inhalator, when only oxygen is needed; as an aspirator to remove phlegm or other foreign matter from the throat.

The Lions Club total for last week end included ten tons they brought in Friday and thirty tons of boiler brought in by Ralph Pitt for them. This brings the club's total to 144 tons to date.

In the "Key Collection Campaign," besides keys many other small metal objects have shown up, including a number of cartridges.

race, a 100-yard race, a novelty race and a belled calf race for teams of two. Prizes are being offered in each event.

Boys and girls not more than 17 years old still may enter for the fun Sunday, by mailing or giving an entrance blank to Miller Ammons, chairman of the rodeo. However, each must have his parents' consent. An entry blank will be found in this issue in an advertisement for the "Kids' Rodeo."

An added attraction for the rodeo will be a $10 jack pot calf roping for adult riders, with $25 added by the club. A number of top hands are expected to take part in this feature.

The "Kids' Rodeo" is the first of its kind ever given in Artesia, probably in New Mexico, and it is attracting considerable attention throughout this area. A number of boys and girls from the mountain areas have signed up already, or have signified their intentions to take part. It is expected that by Saturday half a hundred contestants will be lined up.

In a matched roping contest at the arena last Sunday the Maloney Tank Company team, headed by Carl Folkner, defeated the Grayburg Oil Company team, captained by Jewell Heard, by 60.2 seconds. Each team consisted of five men. It is planned to have more team roping contests in the near future.

Will Assist—

convenience of truck operators who might not have received them. Applications also may be obtained from the ODT district office at Denver.

Named on the Eddy County committee with Beeman were J. W. Bradshaw, Artesia, representing the farmers; Lee Glasscock, Artesia, representing the ranchers; Roy Thomason, Carlsbad, representing the farm implement dealers; R. E. Bybee, Carlsbad, representing truck transporters of farm commodities.

They and helpers will be on duty at the two designated places in Eddy County through Saturday of this week to assist in filling out the applications.

The farm registration periods in Eddy County were set aside, in the main, for trucks the predominant use of which is for hauling farm or ranch products from farms and ranches and hauling farm and ranch supplies to farms and ranches.

Certificates will be issued by the ODT, governing the maximum mileage to be driven and the average minimum loads to be carried. Without such a certificate an operator can obtain no gasoline, tires or repair parts.

Operators will be required to have in their possession their vehicle registration certificates. If they do not have these, they should apply to the License Bureau at once, the ODT advised.

Persons who have not received their applications from the ODT should report either here or in Carlsbad during the week, as a list will be made up by the county committee.

It will be necessary for an operator to bring with him a record of the mileage and gasoline consumption for 1941 and 1942.

Assisting at the city hall today through Saturday are ten young women, who have been given instructions in filling out the applications. They are Misses Tess Company, Billie Sue Barnett, Meredith Martin, Boots Hancock, Betty Smith, Helen Watson, Elsa Runyan, Bernice Marie Baldwin, Grace Glasscock and Bonnie Fletcher.

thus missing another chance to score.

Jal's other touchdowns were in the final period, the first on a fumble on the Artesia four, after an exchange of punts. The other was the most spectacular run of the game, when a Jal back ran eighty-five yards on a double reverse around end and crossed the line untouched.

The Bulldogs have no game this week end, but will meet Monument here for the final game of the season Friday of next week.

However, an intro-squad game will be played on Morris Field at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening. Coach Wayne Riddle announced. The Bulldogs will be divided into two well matched squads for the exhibition game, for which there will be no charge.
