TT IS NO LONGER NECESSARY, or won't be in June, for even a summary of public expenditures to be published in newspapers.

We argued loud and long this law should be observed or repealed. We argued that in our press meeting and recommended that this be done. As an alternative, we advocated the publishing of an approved abbreviated form, which would tell the story and yet not be so detailed.

In the past two years we have also argued that what other states have done and are doing should be done in New Mexico. It may be a year, or ten years, before it is done, but sooner or later it will be done.

The spending of public funds is a trust, a sacred trust.

And the majority of the states of the union have not only provided funds for this to be done but they have required that it be done. It must be a good investment.

The average honest, sincere and conscientious office holder desires that his stewardship be accounted for. He desires that his public be informed not only how the funds are spent, but that the budget of those funds be published prior to its available; the source from which they are available, and how they are spent.

When that is done, the taxpayer can not point start it and continue it. his finger; he can not condemn; he can not even criticize as to how the public funds are spent.

It is just good government.

And the day will come when New Mexico adopts such a law and enforces such a law. Until she is ready to adopt a good law, a fair law, a reasonable law, and one which encourages better government, it is better there be no such law on the book.

They have been striving to work out some advertising plans and to keep this fact before the public and especially before the oil industry. In this connection, they have had maps prepared and had cuts made of these maps. They propose to insert these maps, with proper wording, in the oil magazines and to use these in The New Mexico Magazine. They are also considering other ways and means to provide advertising for the city. They plan a special circular, which would be appropriate to go in letters to be mailed out from here. It is necessary, of course, to push this as much as possible. It is necessary that we emphasize over and over the fact that Artesia is the center of oil activities and that the future will see further development here. We should all join hands with this committee and the board of directors in advertising and publicizing the fact that Artesia is the Oil City of the This discussion provided for the part of the movement; they have tate and the center of oil activities in the state .---O.E.P.

We have the same situation prevail in our business. We find the paper condemned when unfavorable publicity occurs about someone. We are blamed because it was printed and because it happened. The individual never stops to realize if they hadn't acted as they did there would have been nothing to print.

And so it is. This is perhaps why the Immortal Bard said many years ago, "It is not in our stars but in ourselves that we are weaklings." And that is a lesson we all need to learn.

We need to learn and to realize that we either succeed because of the efforts we put forth or we fail because we wouldn't put forth the effort or we didn't possess the ability.

The world has little time for the complainer. It has only admiration for the individual, who gives and does his best and who is honest about his success or failure.

It admires the individual, who is willing to pay the price that success demands and the person, who is big enough to take his or her medicine and pay the price that it costs when we fail to follow the rules of society and play the game according to the rules .-- O.E.P.

But there are other things, which could and should be included in his plea for reduction. Certainly there must be a reduction in the cost of production. There doubtless will have to be a reduction in the cost of labor and everyone knows there must be some reduction in taxes.

And this reduction in taxes doesn't only apply WE ARE A GREAT PEOPLE to not only want to pass the buck, but to blame other people for governments, county governments and city governments.

Most of us can remember there has been a

But in state taxes we are always putting on The same thing occurs when we violate laws new taxes, not taking off taxes. It would probably learn the number of new taxes, which have been added in the past 10 to 20 years. After all, the increase in the services provided during the past 10 to 20 years have not been so great. We might check them.

> But many things have climbed and increased in cost in so far as the taxpayer is concerned and yet he wonders whether he has received any additional services or anything additional for his increased taxes. Perhaps, when he studies this and thinks about it sufficiently to do something about it, he will take a little more interest in his government.

> When he takes that interest he will begin to realize that his business has had to operate on what it received, pay its operation costs, including the extra taxes, and make him a profit.

> He is going to begin to wonder why that governmental business can't be run the same way. He is going to demand copies of budgets and estimates of expenditures; he is going to study these; he is going to do a little figuring and do a little participating in his government.

> And then he is going to demand business like administration of his governmental affairs. And when he does he is going to find that his taxes can be reduced, or that he is going to be getting more for his tax dollar.

Yes, his taxes have increased and especially is this true concerning state taxes, but has his service increased?

Sam Abernathy Holds the Line!

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Folks in our town have been making mighty complimentary remarks about Sam Abernathy. In spite of talk about inflation, Sam's prices-(say, on eggs for instance) -are what they were a year ago. "Shucks," says Sam, "Don't give me credit. I get my eggs from Slim Hines' dairy farm. Slim hasn't raised his wholesale prices, because Bert Childers has kept his price the same on chicken feed. It works by mutual agreement!"

And there again you have Self-Regulation, doing what no law could ever do! Like Self-Regulation in the Brewing Industry Brewers and tavern keepers get together by mutual agreement to maintain decent, law-abiding standards among places that sell beer.

From where I sit, the more you leave things up to the people themselves, the more you get the kind of results America is famous for -- co-operation by mutual agreement. Or, if you want another name for it, self-regulation !

Great Expense Is Duncan Boy, 14, Going Into Choral Club's Concert

The Artesia Choral Club is go ing to considerable expense in preparation for the annual spring concert, to be presented in the auditorium of Artesia High School Friday evening, May 16, far greater expense than for any previous concert, making it necessary to charge $1 for admission.

Three dancers are to be brought here from Santa Fe, where they are being especially trained for the concert, the program of which will be entirely Spanish and Latin-American.

Special scenery is being built for the performance under the direction of Mrs. Mel Mapes, and sound instruments, to be played by members of the Choral Club and male singers, have been bought. /The instruments, familin Latin-American countries and used as accompaniment to native music, are maracas, claves, and guiros.

Food Prices This Way

Safeway Aims to Reduce

As a distributor, Safeway does not control the wholesale prices of raw or manufactured foods and other products. With few exceptions" Safeway buys currently at going market prices the kind and quality of products needed to supply the demands of the consumercustomers of Safeway neighborhood stores.

Thus Safeway has no control over and cannot influence the prices at which it buys and which account for the largest part of the retail price.

However, Safeway can and will contribute to reducing the cost of living by strictly living up to the followins policies:

- 1. When merchandise is acquired at lowered costs, Safeway will immediately drop its retail prices on its existing inventory to the new lower market level. The inventory mark-downs involved will be charged to profit and loss.
- 2. The Company's full resources and years of experience are intensively aimed at bringing about still further reductions of the in-between costs of distributing foods. This is the way in which Safeway increases its productivity with consequent hanafits to consumers, producers, employees and stockholders.
- 3. Small profits on large volume will continue to be the keystone of the Company's operation. In 1946, net profits were 11/3c per dollar of sales.

*Safeway maintains incentories of a few commodities which must be purchased during the harvest and stored for later consumption.

Why Is There a Telephone Strike?

In recognizing its responsibility to the public, to the workers in the business, and to the owners, the management could not in good conscience accede to the Union's excessive demands. The Union refused the offer to continue the present liberal contracts, and has refused the Company's offer to submit wage issues to arbitration.

What Were the Demands?

There were over one hundred items and the pay roll cost would a mount to over $27,000,000 a year. That is about five times the Company's net earnings last year. If added to the present payroll it amounts to more than all the revenue collected last year by the Company.

Why Doesn't the Company Grant an Increase?

The Company's earnings in relation to its investments are at the lowest point in its history of operations. It is in the process of seeking increases in its charges for service based on 1946 costs, the largest element of which was wages. A further increase in wages will make it necessary to seek additional telephone rate increases in areas where recent increases have been made, and larger increases than otherwise would be necessary in areas where rates have not yet been increased.

The Company feels, therefore, that if present wages are fair and just, it should not increase them and thus increase the cost and eventually charges for the service.

The Company __12.25 suggests that a board com-posed of impartial citizens of this area who are not associ--- 9.25 ated with either the Telephone Company or any union, and who are mutually agreeable to the Union and the Company, should decide the question. Arbitration is simply a means of letting an impartial person or group of persons settle a dispute after reviewing the facts and giving full consider-ation to both sides. The arbidition there are overtime and Premium payments for evening and night work.

There are other advantages to working for the Telephone Company, including eight holidays a year with pay; vacations with pay, of one, two or three weeks, depending on length of service; liberal sickness and death benefits; pensions, with full cost paid by the Company—and telephone work is STEADY WORK.

Arbitration--What Is It?

trator acts as a judge or umpire. We think this method of having an unbiased party decide the wage question would be fair to the employees and the Company. It would certainly be in the public interest.

It hardly seems logical that the Union should oppose arbitration, especially when the Company is not proposing a reduction in wages if the board should find that telephone wages are above community levels of pay for work requiring similar skill and training.

Should Increases Granted in Some Industries in Other Areas Set a Pattern For Telephone Wages Here?

The Company does not think so. It will be noted that some of these other industries whose business is of a competitive character have stated that it will not be necessary for them to increase prices. An impartial board of arbi-tration would, of course, decide among other things the extent to which recent wage settlements in other industries have a bearing, if any, on telephone wages in the Rocky Mountain Area.

We regret the continuation of this unhappy situation. We are doing everything we can to bring about a restoration of service. In the meantime we sincerely appreciate the friendly understanding and cooperation of the public.
