The humble TODAY that makes TOMORROW GREAT...

You could see this scene in a hundred thousand churches next Sunday—but would you grasp its mighty import?

If you saw a lump of iron ore would you envision bridges of steel spanning America's rivers... if you saw a gushing oil well would you envision a million cars speeding along our highways... if you saw a bag of seed would you envision golden acres awaiting the harvest?

It is the humble today that makes tomorrow great. For few gifts have come to us ready-made. God has made every blessing a challenge... every resource a responsibility.

Our children are our greatest challenge—our paramount responsibility. For God's—and the world's—tomorrow will spring from their humble today. The Church understands that!

Your child—every child—needs the Church!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

"We were surprised to find out how little we knew about good lighting. We learned a good lesson from the Public Service Company's lighting specialist. He had several constructive suggestions to make.

"They won't cost much to carry out, either. Some won't cost a thing, and we honestly feel that we'll have much better lighting after we carry out his suggestions.

"All we did was call our nearest Public Service Company office and name a convenient time for a lighting specialist to come to the house. He did the rest."

Artesia's Ministers Speak

(Rev. Cyril Stone)

Are you going to take a vacation this year? Haven't had one for many years did you say? Really wonderful to be able to get away again? But with all these questions, there is just one that must be asked, and that is what do you expect your vacation to do for you? My respects you will likely be trying to get away. Get away from people, get away from the same old grind, get away from some of the problems which are constantly confronting you as a person living in a highly-gear society. But, vacationing successfully is an art. It reminds me of the football quarterback who, when his team is being pushed back on the defensive until it is dangerous to let the other team advance any farther, calls time out, if that boy is a smart player. So with vacationing, we are calling time out.

It is a good time to take a personal inventory. When you are out on the bank of the stream and the fish are just a little slow biting, then stop for a minute and see yourself as others see you. There is no businessman who does not at intervals give attention to seeing what sort of merchandise he has and what condition it is in, yet too few of us will do the same for our own selves. We need to reflect on what sort of husband or father, or wife or mother we have been for the past several months, and how could we have saved the feelings of a friend or a member of the family when we needlessly acted spitefully, or spoke sharply. We must always be aware of those personality defects which are a part of our personality, yet which keep us from being the biggest sort of person that we might otherwise be. When I stop to think on such things, I always remember what one of my high school teachers told us as we worked out for basketball. He wanted a good game but he wanted good sports too, and he told us that any day we could go home and look ourselves straight in the eye in the mirror, and tell ourselves that this day had been a great day and that this day we had been really good fellows, and mean it, it was indeed a great day in our personal history.

We need to take time out to renew our minds. It is no task to get stale mentally, but it is always our duty to remain mentally awake. What kind of amusement have you been allowing yourself lately? What kind of books and literature have you been giving your mind as food? If it hasn't been something that is worth satisfying and at the same time uplifting, you've been cheating yourself. This is one of the most important things that your vacation can do for you, for you can take time now to improve your thinking and renew your mind, and think on higher things. Here is your opportunity to regain the peace of mind through communion with nature, and through God's greatest creations understand better what is this place we have been given to fill, and how we are to meet our personal responsibilities. This is the time when we can see new beauties and come to a larger appreciation for life itself.

Last, but largest in importance, it is an opportunity to take time to be held, to speak, as perhaps we have not for time past, "oft with thy Lord." There are a good many places where we can take our time out that this will be impossible, but if you and I are thinking in terms of letting our vacation do us the most good, we cannot miss this opportunity for the renewing of our inner life. Youth will point itself towards church-directed encampments, where all three of these things can be done, but what of those who must direct the lives of these young people and their friends for the other weeks of the year? Where will they go, and what will their vacation mean for them? These are days when optimists are at a premium, but real optimists grow only from an increasing faith in their fellow men, and themselves. Will your vacation be for you the making of a greater faith, or another "lost week-end?"

tions, although the exact sites are not yet chosen by the quartermaster general and the American Battle Monuments Commission.

Three new national cemeteries to be established under the plan are Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands; Guam in the Marianas, and at San Juan, Puerto Rico. These national cemeteries will provide final resting places for any armed forces personnel or honorably discharged veterans who may wish to be buried in Hawaii, Guam, or Puerto Rico in addition to those who died during World War II.

Representative Of Red Cross Assists Chapter

Samuel J. Black, home service field representative for the American Red Cross, was in Artesia Monday through Wednesday of last week working with chapter members to improve the local program.

While here he helped a home service committee, which is to assist the home service secretary in an advisory capacity and in developing a financial assistance policy.

Black is holding a claims institute in Roswell today and Friday for representatives of 12 chapters in Southeast New Mexico, including Artesia.

The representatives of the Red Cross chapters were being invited in order to give them a more complete picture on the program of veterans' benefits and to bring them up to date, Black said.

fluid may be marked "non-explosive" and still be flammable. Do the cleaning outside of the house, where all toxic and other vapors will be quickly dissipated. Keep hands out of the solvent—use a suction washer. Dry the garments outside and be sure to keep children and pets at a safe distance.

According to records kept by the Bureau of Dairy Industry, the number of herds of cattle enrolled in artificial breeding groups has expanded fast. On Jan. 1 there were 140,571 herds with 1,125,000 cows in this breeding plan, and compared with a year previous, the increase amounted to 67,278 herds and 545,563 cattle.

Farm flocks laid more than six billion eggs in April—7 per cent less than in April of last year, but 12 per cent more than the 1936-45 average. Egg production was lower in April, 1946, in all parts of the country. Decreases from a year ago were 2 per cent in the South Atlantic states, six per cent in the North Atlantic and East North Central, 7 per cent in the West North Central, 8 per cent in the West, and 11 per cent in the South Central states. Egg production for the first four months of this year was 5 per cent less than in this period last year. This decrease was because of a smaller number of layers on farms.

In urging wise management of farm woodlands as a source of continuing profitable returns from tree crops, the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture notes that progressive farmers are accustomed to applying modern scientific knowledge to their field crops and in livestock management, but many fail to do the same with their woods.

The reason for the poor quality of timber on many woodland properties can be traced to the continuous removal of the best trees, the foresters pointed out. Over a period of years, if only the highest grade of trees are cut, the remaining stand will consist of inferior kinds, they say. This, the Forest Service experts add, is exactly the reverse of what progressive farmers have learned to do with their poultry flocks and dairy and meat herds.

Wiser culling in the forests is good management that leads to profitable production, the foresters declare. Removal of the least desirable trees for fuel and pulp wood leaves the more desirable trees to grow more rapidly to profitable size for lumbering and to provide seeds for a profitable replacement crop in the farm woodlands.

More Dependent Parents Eligible For Survivor Pay

A larger number of dependent parents will be eligible for monthly survivors' payments under the Social Security Act because of two changes that were made in that act, effective last Jan. 1. This announcement was made by Perry A. Webb, manager of the Roswell field office of the Social Security Administration.

Under previous provisions of the law the parent could not become eligible for benefits if a widow or an unmarried child under 18 survived. Under the law the survival of such child or widow will not bar the parent unless such child or widow can be entitled to monthly payments either immediately or at a later date. The parent thus may be eligible in cases where the widow was not living with the worker at the time of his death, and in cases where the children were not dependent. Monthly payments cannot be made unless the parent was dependent, and proof of such dependency must be filed within two years of the date of the worker's death, although the monthly payments cannot be made until the parent becomes 65.

The 1946 amendments also change the wording of the law to read "wholly dependent" instead of "chiefly dependent." The parent must still have received the major portion of his support from the son or daughter who has died, but this change will make a number of parents eligible who could not otherwise qualify.

Slash In Farm Program Will Cut Payments

The Agricultural Appropriation Bill passed by the House of Representatives drastically curtails conservation payments to farmers and ranchers and practically wipes out other features of the national farm program which was started 11 years ago, according to C. V. Hemphill, chairman of the State Production and Marketing Administration Committee. Unless funds are restored by Senate action, payments for practices carried out in 1947 will be less than 50 per cent of the payments made in 1946.

Mexico have already indicated that they expect to carry out four million dollars worth of conservation work in 1947. Much of this work has already begun. Some has been completed. According to previous plans, government payments to New Mexico farmers and ranchers for this work would have amounted to $2,621,000. But according to the bill passed by the House of Representatives, less than 50 per cent of this amount will be forthcoming.

Huge slashes have not only been taken in conservation payments but also in appropriations for the school lunch program, which was reduced from 75 million dollars to 45 million dollars, and crop insurance, which has been wiped out, Hemphill said.

Appropriations which have always been the sole source of funds for price supports on most perishables were reduced from 148 million dollars. Hemphill pointed out that if the appropriation bill is finally enacted in the form passed by the House of Representatives it will mean that no agricultural program can be formulated for 1948.

He added that as a result of this legislative action, 90 per cent of the state PMA employees have been issued notices of dismissal and it is expected that county ACA offices will be required to reduce their personnel by approximately 50 per cent. Many of the services performed by county offices have been ordered discontinued.

'Bee Wise' Is Tip To Producers Of Seed Alfalfa

"Bee wise!" is County Agent Dallas Rierson's tip to alfalfa seed producers. "Protect and increase the number of bees in your alfalfa fields if you want to make more money," he said, "for the honey bees and wild bees are the only effective trippers of alfalfa flowers. And the alfalfa flower must be tripped or no seed is produced."

When dusting with DDT for lygus bug control, apply the dust in the bud or pre-bloom stage, when bees are not gathering pollen, Rierson said, adding that one who has an acre will materially step up seed production.

"Don't underestimate the part the bees play," he said. "They work hard for the farmer. So be bee wise!"

ADVOCATE WANT ADS GET RESULTS

Read Label When Buying 2,4-D To Insure Strength

"When you buy 2,4-D for weed control, read the label on the container to be sure you're getting your money's worth, for the amount of 2,4-D equivalent in the various products offered for sale ranges from as low as 2 per cent to as high as 90 per cent," said Dallas Rierson, Eddy County agent.

"So look at the label to find the percentages of 2,4-D and the net weight or volume of the contents. Of course, your best buy is the one which gives the most 2,4-D acid equivalent per dollar. Most weed killers used in general spraying, however, are about the same per unit of acid contained."

"There are many different 2,4-D compounds on the market. These fall generally into three classes: Powders, usually sodium or ammonium salts, which dissolve in water; concentrated water solutions, usually made with an amine salt of 2,4-D, and oily liquids, usually containing an ester of 2,4-D. "When using all these products, follow the printed directions of the manufacturer. A solution of one part 2,4-D to 1000 parts of water is strong enough to kill most weeds. A preparation which contains 10 per cent 2,4-D should therefore be used in the proportion of one part of the preparation to 100 parts of water."

"Many things remain to be learned about the best methods of using 2,4-D. Its use on field crops and on deep-rooted perennials should be regarded as still in the experimental stage."

Farmers Join In Conservation Of Water Plans

Community projects under the Agricultural Conservation Program are enabling New Mexico farmers to get together to plan improvements that will give them more efficient use of water in irrigated areas. Main practices carried out under "pooling agreements" were construction of irrigation ditches, small irrigation and "overnight" reservoirs, and construction and installation of concrete and metal pipes.

One of the biggest problems of Southwestern irrigation farmers is to decrease water losses and increase the amount of water for their crops. As one farmer pointed out, "We turn in a good stream of water at the head of the ditch and by the time it gets down to our farms there is not enough to water a cow."

Pooling agreements are offered under the Agricultural Conservation Program because there are many conservation problems that cannot be met on an individual farm basis. Operators of more than 1000 farms and ranches participated in New Mexico projects which benefited more than 29,000 acres in 1946. Agreements were first offered to New Mexico farmers and ranchers in 1944 and that year there were 19 agreements in the state. In 1945 the number went up to 25. Then in 1946 it jumped up to 60.

New Mexico farmers and ranchers who took part in these agreements to help conserve water put up a portion of the money required to complete these projects to supplement the amount which was made available under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

New Food Record Is Possible During 1947 Ag Department Says

U. S. farmers may produce even more food this year than in any of the last three years, says the Department of Agriculture. Present outlook is for a food production total which will be 41 per cent higher than in the 1935-39 prewar period.

Production of individual commodities, however, will differ from 1946. Smaller output is predicted for poultry products, fresh and processed vegetables, potatoes, and sweet potatoes; sales of milk and cream also will be smaller. More production is expected for vegetable oils, lard, butter, evaporated milk, wheat, rye, sugar and dry peas. Production of other major food commodities will probably be about the same.

Foreign trade outlook is for more imports of sugar, more exports of grain, and less exports of meats, lard, eggs and dairy products.

Second Smallest Cotton Crop Is Being Estimated

The second smallest crop in 23 years is estimated for world cotton production in 1946-47. C. V. Hemphill, chairman of the State Production and Marketing Administration Committee, said. Production is now expected to total 21.5 million bales and this compares with 20,650,000 bales in the preceding year and the prewar average of 31 million.

World acreage planted to cotton, he said, increased about 4 per cent over a year earlier but unfavorable weather conditions resulted in lower yields in some major producing countries. Greatest percentage increases in acreage were reported in Egypt, Brazil, and the Soviet Union.

Hemphill said New Mexico cotton farmers experienced one of their greatest cotton production years in 1946 with acreages and yields per acre ranging far above normal. He pointed out that other states in the central and eastern parts of the Cotton Belt were less fortunate, however, their crop being considerably damaged by excessive rain and heavy boll weevil infestation.

Drought, followed by heavy rainfall in Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas helped to reduce the U.S. cotton crop to the smallest since 1921. The 1946 crop of 8,640,000 bales was 375,000 bales less than in 1945.

U.S. IS BUYING MULES FOR MEXICAN GOVERNMENT The U.S. Department of Agriculture has started a program under which mules will be purchased for the Mexican government. While final arrangements have not been made as to the number of animals to be purchased, the initial plans indicate 20,000 or more mules will be brought under arrangements similar to those used for buying draft animals for UNRRA in 1946.

The Livestock Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration will carry out the purchase operations of the program for the account of the Mexican government.

Series Of Wash And Lubrication Jobs Is Offered By Boyd-Cole

Boyd-Cole Motor Company last week announced the start of a unique "get-acquainted" stunt, whereby someone will receive a free wash and lubrications job each week, as offered in a classified advertisement.

The initial recipient of the free offer was Mrs. W. E. Patterson, whose name was selected at random by a stranger in the city, who pointed it out from the list of visitors to the company's new garage on opening day several weeks ago.

Not only was Mrs. Patterson entitled to a free wash and lubrication job, but she had the privilege of naming the winner for the next week, with her selection restricted to persons other than relatives. That winner in turn will name the next one.

Proper oiling of electric motors will add years to their lives. Now is a good time to make a spring-time check on the alignment of the bolts and to clean dirt and dust away from the ventilation holes of the motor. If you don't have a delayed-action fuse to protect the motor against overloads, it might be a good idea to install one. All in all, a motor check-up right now may save you hours of time and trouble later on.

Cockburn Corporation Is Being Formed To Do Business In Oil, Gas

A legal publication last week disclosed the formation of Barney Cockburn, Inc., the purpose of which will be to buy, own, sell, and lease petroleum lands, to locate petroleum, gas, and other mineral lands under the laws of the United States and the state of New Mexico, and to drill and bore wells, for oil, water, gas, or any other substance.

Named in the publication as incorporators are Barney Cockburn, J. G. Wright, and John E. Cochran, Jr.

The new firm is incorporated for $2,500,000, with 25,000 shares having a par value of $100 each, but is starting business with $100,000 issued.

Kincaid Sells Eddy Ranch And Buys 70 Sections On Rio Felix

M. B. Kincaid, who has ranched a number of years about half way between Artesia and Hope, has sold his 37 sections there and has purchased 70 sections on the Rio Felix west of Hagerman from the Diamond A Cattle Company.

The ranch west of Artesia was sold to Hazel Collins of Rotan, Tex., for an undisclosed consideration.

Kincaid is now living on his new ranch, but is not to receive complete possession until July 1.

FARMERS ASKED TO RAISE MORE PIGS

Hog producers have been asked to boost production of pigs this fall to provide adequate meat supplies next year. Nationally, the Department of Agriculture is recommending that farmers keep 15 per cent more sows than they kept to produce the 1946 fall crop now coming to market. The requested increase for the West is about 18 per cent. The Corn Belt is asked to farrow 16 per cent more sows.

Reaching the goal would result in a fall crop of nearly 35 million pigs, compared with the 1946 fall crop of about 30.6 million head. This year's spring crop is expected to be about 53 million. So total pig production recommended for 1947 is nearly five million more pigs above the 1946 level. A strong consumer demand is indicated for next spring and summer when 1947 fall pigs will be marketed. If corn yields are at least average, feed supplies are expected to be ample.

State goals will be reviewed by state USDA councils before final goals are submitted to farmers.

You bet we are—and in everything else connected with farms, because we've got a big job to do in the rural communities we serve.

The job is going well. We're adding better than 1,000 rural telephones a month. However, catching up with accumulated orders for rural telephone service means that a lot more wire must be strung—often new buildings must be built and central office equipment installed.

There's still a short supply of such things as lead, copper, cotton yarn and steel. But we know how much the telephone means to farm families, and we're getting those telephones in just as fast as we can.

MEMO TO CARTER'S CAFE THE FLYING CHICKEN Copyright 1946

Dear New Flying Chicken: Congratulations to you at Carter's Cafe on adding The Flying Chicken convenient service to your wide-awake business. We are sure you are really pleasing your discriminating Artesia patrons with the delicious chicken dinners you deliver right to their door. There isn't every town that offers such convenient dinner delivery service, and we think Artesia can be mighty proud that you can give it to them. We can tell from our experience that people really go for that luscious golden brown fried chicken, to say nothing of also getting tantalizing waffle-fried potatoes, hot rolls, and honey. All that for only $1.25 per dinner, plus nominal delivery charge of 35 cents for one or a couple of dinners. It has been popular for club or party, as well as with the lady who has in last-minute emergencies. Just like going out to eat, but at home. We predict smooth and successful flying in Artesia. Our number, 221, is easy to remember, and of course Carter's Cafe, 328 West Main, almost next door to the bank. And just of all, you are right in the heart of a fine and growing town. With congratulations and best wishes, THE FLYING CHICKEN Albuquerque, New Mexico General Office 1920 W. Central Other Locations: Carlsbad, New Mexico 815 N. Canal
