Seek Protection From Lightning, Riererson Warns

Lightning—nature's artillery—is one of the greatest causes of farm fires, County Agent Dallas Riererson warned. Each year, lightning destroys approximately $20,000,000 worth of farm property, takes the lives of 500 people and injures 1300 others in the U.S., he said.

"Farm and rural districts suffer 90 per cent of the damage done every year by that fiery menace from the sky. Lightning is one of the greatest single contributors of the country's annual $100,000,000 farm fire loss," he said.

"We can protect our buildings by keeping those hoards of electrical charges from swarming over them. We can do this by building plenty of roads over which these charges can travel and they must be so made that the charges will use them in preference to walls, roof tops and chimneys of our buildings. Our farm structures will be protected if there are enough of these roads."

When an electrical storm approaches, certain precautions are recommended by the National Safety Council to insure safety. Do not go out of doors or remain out during thunderstorms, unless it is necessary. If there is any choice of shelter to enter, choose shelter in the following order: Large metal frame buildings, dwelling or other building which is protected against lightning, large unprotected building, small unprotected building.

Riererson called attention to the fact that if unavoidably out of doors, keep away from isolated trees, wire fences, hilltops and open spaces and small sheds and shelters in an exposed location.

Try to reach thick timber, a cave, a depression in the ground, a deep valley or canyon or the vicinity of a steep cliff, if any of these are nearby.

Air Force Will Reserve Places For Graduates

College graduates interested in pilot training are being informed by the U.S. Air Force that places will be reserved for them in the summer and early fall aviation cadet classes, Captain Clarence B. Dane, in charge of Army and Air Force recruiting station at Roswell, has announced.

Seniors being graduated may apply now and take their preliminary examinations, the officer explained. Then, if qualified and selected, they will be ready to begin training after completing college work.

"The mission of the U.S. Air Force involves problems of research, management, flight operations and leadership," said Captain Dane. "Efficient solutions to these complex problems depend upon a competent officer corps composed of college-trained men and women." While the Air Force advises men to complete their undergraduate studies before beginning careers as officers and pilots, Captain Dane explained that the aviation cadet program is not limited to college graduates.

To be eligible, he said, men must be between the ages of 20 and 26 1/2 years, with at least two years of college or the ability to pass an equivalent examination and with high physical and moral qualifications. Either single or married men may apply. Applicants must pass an examining board and then be selected for one of the classes that begin every six weeks.

Aviation cadets receive a year of thorough training, combining the finest pilot instruction, academic work and leadership training. Food, clothing, housing, pay, medical and dental care and athletic and recreational facilities are provided. A $10,000 insurance policy also is provided, with all premiums paid by the government while the aviation cadet is in training.

Air Force Radar Unit to Be Moved to Alaska

An advance party of the U. S. Air Force's 531st Aircraft Control and Warning Group, now assigned to Continental Air Command will leave McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, Washington, for permanent assignment to Alaskan Air Command. The remainder of the unit will leave McChord AFB this month.

The 531st will be stationed at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Anchorage, Alaska. Approximately 675 officers and men will be involved in the move.

An aircraft control and warning group operates radar equipment to track approaching planes and to control fighter aircraft intercepting approaching planes.

The Air Force has previously announced that the 319th All Weather Squadron, coming out of the Caribbean area and numbering about 400 officers and men, will be assigned to McChord Air Force Base.

Use Care When Handling New Hopper Poisons

Care should be used by farmers in handling the new grasshopper insecticides, warns County Agent Dallas Rierson. Chlordane and toxaphene are the best grasshopper killers developed to date, says Rierson, but they should be used with the caution that ordinarily applies to any insecticide. Chlordane and toxaphene, the grasshopper killers recommended this year, are, like most insecticides, poisonous to man and livestock. The chemicals should not be applied to parts of fruits and vegetables that will be eaten or marketed unless residues can and will be removed by washing or stripping, the county agent advises. Forage treated with the new insecticides should not be fed to dairy animals or to animals being finished for slaughter. Although neither chlordane nor toxaphene, when used according to recommendations, appears to affect the health or development of livestock, the chemicals may accumulate in the fatty tissues of dairy animals or be given off in milk and butterfat. Meat animals fed for long periods of time on treated forage may accumulate enough of the chlordane or toxaphene in their tissues to make the meat unfit for food. If no treated vegetation is fed during the last two months before slaughter, it is much less likely that the meat will be affected.

If spraying is necessary during the period when legumes are in bloom, it should be done in the early morning or late evening while bees are inactive. Sprays are less harmful to bees than dust. Instructions for using the new insecticides (Mimeographed Circular 400-J2) may be obtained from the county agent's office.

Range Shelter For Pullets Will Pay For Itself

A range shelter to house pullets from the time they are 8 to 10 weeks old until they are ready for the laying house will more than pay for itself the first year, says County Agent Dallas Rierson.

If constructed on runners, the shelter is very light and can easily be moved to clean range. Selecting the proper location for the range shelter is important, Rierson explains. Do not locate it near grown stock and move it to clean ground each year. Clean ground is that which has not had poultry on it for the two previous years. Drainage should be good around the shelter. There should be plenty of shade and green feed. Vaccinate birds for fowl pox at the time the pullets are moved to the range. This will save rehand-

During the last six years, more than 94,000 disabled World War II veterans have been fully trained under Public Law 16 to earn a living. Many of them are severely handicapped, VA pointed out. A great many of them started their training with little or no previous work experience. The purpose of the training is to restore ability to earn a living lost because of an injury or ailment caused or made worse by service in the armed forces. Service must have been between Sept. 16, 1940 and July 26, 1947.

Disabled veterans, training under Public Law 16, are given a series of scientific tests by trained VA

"Old-age and survivors' insurance under the Social Security Act provides a means whereby a worker puts up a portion of his wages as a saving when he becomes old and as a protection for his family upon his death.

"Just as our forefathers had to take care of their savings so that they would be available when need-

Many Vets Take Institutional On-Farm Training

Thirteen per cent of all veterans training in schools and on-the-job under the GI Bill and Public Law 16 (the latter, for disabled veterans) are taking institutional on-farm training and other agricultural courses.

This proportion was disclosed in a Veterans Administration study, made during the last school year, of the principal courses and employment objectives of 2,535,385 World War II veterans enrolled in all types of training under both laws at that time.

Total number of farm trainees at the time the study was made was 340,876. Nearly 90 per cent of these or 302,416, were enrolled under the GI Bill. These include 1073 taking agricultural engineering courses in colleges and universities, 3679 taking on-the-job training in occupations related to farming, and 297,064 taking other agricultural courses including institutional on-farm training.

The 297,064 GI Bill farm trainees include:

Agronomy and soils, 1005; animal husbandry, 5160; dairy husbandry, 3205; farm management,

Good Clean Pasture Helps Poultry Men

Home Grown Feeds Cut Operating Cost

Good clean pasture and plenty of home grown feeds for your pullet crop pays dividends in more eggs, lower production costs and bigger poultry profits. The use of range shelters, range feeders and barrel waterers makes such a program easily possible.

Missouri university tests show that pullets on well-fertilized alfalfa pasture consumed 17 per cent less feed than birds on bare range. The pasture-fed pullets needed less feed for each pound of gain. Birds on clean pasture were healthier and more energetic. Mortality rate was lower and there were fewer culls. Out of 100 pullets at four weeks of age, 94 of the alfalfa-ranged birds later went into the laying house, compared to 70 of those raised on bare ground. Purdue university tests showed that ladino clover with corn and small grains provided a complete ration for laying flocks.

Getting good pasture and a cheap and plentiful supply of grain is a matter of putting farm soil in shape to produce bigger yields per acre. For this you need a rotation in which deep-rooted legumes and grasses are keystone. You need to build up the organic matter supply via plowed-under legumes, crop residues and manure. You need to feed the soil a good ration of plant nutrients, so it, in turn, can feed the crops. In such a program, fertilizer is an important member of the soil-building team.

At current prices, eggs will buy nearly twice as much fertilizer as 10 years ago. It takes only 90 dozen eggs to buy a ton of 3-12-12 fertilizer today, whereas it took 177 dozen back in 1939.

An additional 38,460 disabled veterans were farm trainees under Public Law 16. Of these, 388 were training as county agents and farm demonstrators, 1134 were taking on-the-job training in agricultural occupations and 36,938 were enrolled in a variety of agricultural and horticultural training courses.

Household Hint

If you don't want curtains at your kitchen windows, use a scalloped valance, and then place a row of potted plants on a glass shelf above the window.

If your cake is coarse-grained, did you use too much baking powder or too much fat? Possibly you did not mix it sufficiently, or baked it too slowly. All these procedures will cause a coarseness of texture.

USDA Announces Grain Storage Farm Program

"Distress" loans on wheat stored in temporary ways, loans for construction of farm storage and emergency purchase of bins by the Commodity Credit Corporation are all parts of the government's recently announced program to develop more adequate storage for farm commodities. Details of the plan were released upon the enactment into law of the bill restoring CCC's authority to help farmers store grain and other products. Highlights of the program as summarized by W. Leslie Martin of Artesia, chairman of the New Mexico Production and Marketing Administration Committee, are: The grain loan program will be liberalized through the immediate granting of distress loans to farmers in all areas where the climate permits storage of wheat for short periods on the ground in the open, or in other temporary ways. These loans, at 75 per cent of the full support level, will later be converted into a regular loan when the farmer builds or acquires approved farm storage, which must be within 90 days. The farmer will receive the balance of the full price-support loan (90 per cent of parity) when the grain is in his new storage. Where wheat may not be left in the open or in other temporary storage and adequate storage is not available to farmers, CCC will undertake to find suitable emergency storage, such as government-owned war-surplus facilities, thus enabling farmers to take advantage of the distress loan program.

Farmers should check with their local County Agricultural Conservation Committee before taking steps to qualify under the distress loan program, Martin said.

CCC will make loans to farmers for the purchase or construction of farm storage to the extent of 85 per cent of the cost. Loans will be payable in five annual installments or earlier at a farmer's option.

Manufacturers and suppliers of on-the-farm type of grain storage will meet with Department of Agriculture officials to help pave the way for early delivery to farmers of the largest possible amount of storage and storage materials.

When other storage is not available, CCC will contract for bins for storage of CCC-owned or controlled grain stocks, thus helping farmers, grain dealers and the railroads to handle the volumes of grain coming in at the peak of harvest. This is regarded as a temporary measure to supplement existing storage only as necessary to meet urgent current needs. The bins will be placed on leased or purchased sites at strategic points throughout the country. When not needed by CCC, the bins will be subject to lease by farmers or groups of farmers.

Super-Highways Are Solution To Traffic Deaths

Foolproof highways are an "important part of the answer" to the 37,000 automobile deaths of 1948 which President Truman deplored in his address to the recent President's Highway Safety Conference.

It was asserted by Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders' association. Pointing out that such an alarming number of fatalities amounts to more than half the annual death rate of World War II, Upham called the 253 Memorial Day holiday week end highway deaths "the latest evidence of need for better highways," and said: "The struggle to educate the average driver that his life is too valuable to risk is a losing battle and the best solution is to give him an almost foolproof road to drive on. In the years since V-J Day, surveys have been made on the accident rates on super-highways as compared with the outmoded highways the motorist is forced to use and the death rate has been found to drop as much as one-fourth to zero. In Sacramento, Calif., the North Sacramento Freeway built to supersede the old route, has had no fatalities during its first year of operation and accidents were reduced 73 per cent compared with the old road statistics. New Jersey produced a drop in fatalities amounting to three-fifths, when a number of three and four-lane highways were rebuilt into divided highways. An example of the need for access control is the Detroit Industrial Expressway, which parallels U.S. 112 for about 15 miles westward from Detroit. U.S. 112 is a divided highway for much of its length, but is without control of access as on the expressway. Per 100 million vehicle miles in 1946, U.S. 112 had a total of injuries and fatalities of 625.3 while the expressway with access control had only 91.1. Westchester County in New York State presents a perfect example between the "Old Post Road" and the Merritt Parkway. The Post Road travels through several small towns, while the Merritt Parkway skips them all, has access control and overpasses. The fatality rate from collisions between vehicles was almost four times greater on the Post Road than on the parkway."

AF Note: Here They Come!

This charming quintet, with arms all bandaged from "shots," is shown studying a map of the world and picking out the spots where they will entertain Air Force personnel. They will be among a group of twenty scheduled to put on shows for Air Force men in Newfoundland, England, France, Germany, Italy, Greece and North Africa.

Center Stripes On Highways Cut Collisions

Head-on collisions, the deadliest and most gruesome of all traffic accidents, are averted many times a day by a simple line of paint on a highway pavement, Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the American Road Builders' Association, pointed out in discussing safety measures in connection with the opening of the 1949 touring season.

He stressed the psychological effect of the center stripe in saving thousands of lives by keeping motorists in their proper lane.

"Separating traffic streams removes one of the greatest hazards of the road," Upham continued. "The center median or stripe is the best method, but where it cannot be provided, as on two-lane highways, the painted or inset center stripe offers a valuable substitute which all states are now using on their heavily travelled roads."

Studies based on these estimates show that in spite of all efforts to secure uniformity, center striping is still widely diversified. Some states use solid lines, others broken lines. Widths vary, as do colors, with white and yellow predominating. One state is using a built-in black center line on new concrete pavements. This is done by working in black iron oxide before the pavement sets.

A slightly raised separation obtained by concrete slabs or bars is being tried out in other states at special points such as curves, intersections where prohibition of passing and left turn is especially important. However, this offers disadvantages in snow removal. The high cost of painting the center stripe is causing considerable experimentation by state highway departments, the study shows. Several states have developed motor driven striping equipment of special design in an effort to cut costs. Tests are also being made with different types of paints. Effectiveness, however, is still the prime consideration, despite the expense, Upham commented.

"Wherever he may be this summer, the tourist cannot mistake the meaning and purpose of the center stripe," he said. "If all tourists will regard this simple warning, we will go far toward reducing the annual death rate of 32,000 deplored by President Truman in his recent safety conference in Washington."

Hangar Flying

Bob Ehle, aircraft and engine mechanic at the airport, passed his commercial pilot flight check Wednesday of last week, when Robert Wisener, CAA examiner, visited Artesia. Those who took written examinations were Bob Collins, "Red" Davidson and Orville Luttrell.

Claude Withers and H. P. Termain flew to Dallas last week, remained overnight and returned the next day.

Farmers south of Artesia all cooperated with one another and had their houses and barns dusted after the dusting of the city of Artesia. Many farmers on the Cottonwood have done the same.

Hank Widemeyer took his dual cross-country flight Sunday with "Sug" Hazel. They flew to Odessa and Brownfield, Texas.

Pilots who donated their services for the dusting of Artesia were H. P. Termain, J. D. Roberts, Bob Collins and A. H. (Sug) Hazel.

Herman Fuchs and family left last week on a vacation. They planned on spending the entire time in the Black Range and Mogollon Mountains in the western part of New Mexico. A card received at the airport this week was postmarked Quemada.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. (Chubby) Wilson left Monday for Iran, Texas, where they plan to stay over the Fourth of July.

Grayburg Oil Company had the entire oilfield camp dusted the day after the dusting of Artesia.

Marvin Sanders took his dual cross-country flight to Dumas, Texas, where he visited his mother. He was accompanied by Bob Collins, flight instructor.

New applicants for flight trainings at the airport are Harvey Marshall and Fred Baker. Gene Sherwood flew to Hobbs Monday.

E. D. Callens visited the airport in Artesia Saturday in his Mooney, a new type aircraft, single seated with retractable gear.

Other guests at the airport the last week included Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Wintheiser, formerly of Artesia. Mr. Wintheiser has been a pilot a number of years and always takes an interest in aviation in every community.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ehle and Bill Morgan spent the week end at Ruidoso. They reported that the fishing is fine.

Governor Mabry Endorses Cancer Society Program

Governor Thomas J. Mabry has endorsed the American Cancer Society program being conducted in New Mexico and urged support for the funds raising campaign. New Mexico's quota for the 1949 program of education, research and limited treatment is $30,000, according to information supplied by the New Mexico division of the American Cancer Society.

"Despite the mounting cancer deaths, we have reason to be optimistic," the governor said. "During the last four years, the American Cancer Society has organized a large group of scientists to devote full time to the problem of conquering this disease."

"There is evidence that 1949 may well be the most important year of our lives in the progress against cancer. We are fast reaching a climax in this conflict. If enough funds are made available to push forward the work of research and to bulwark the frontal assault of detection and treatment, we can be most optimistic about the outcome."

ARTICLES CONCERN PASTURING IN VALLEY

Two articles concerning alfalfa pasturing in the Pecos Valley, written by H. B. Pingrey of the New Mexico A. & M. College agricultural economics department, were recently published in Country Gentleman.

Pingrey's articles told of the experience of two farmers of the Pecos Valley area in pasturing both sheep and beef cattle directly in the alfalfa fields. This new method effects a tremendous saving in feeding costs, he declared.

Olean, N. Y. (AFPS)—This city did not consult the canine population in deciding to substitute orange paint for the traditional red on the city's 560 fire hydrants.

Reason for the change, explained Myron Klink, Water Dept. Secretary, was because studies have proven that orange is more readily seen in the evening and after dark.

The first bicycle was made in Scotland in 1840.

Experimenting with Jet 'Copter

Washington (AFPS)—The Air Force is sponsoring experimental work designed to create a jet-powered helicopter that will lift heavy loads.

It was recently announced that the first stage of the experiment, construction of an experimental non-flying test rig, is now being completed at the Howard Hughes Aircraft plant in Culver City, Calif.

The Air Force also reported that the projected helicopter, built from the plans of the Kellett Aircraft Corporation and purchased from the organization, will be designed to lift tanks and artillery weighing up to ten tons.

Cincinnati, Ohio (AFPS)—Chas. McClees, 25, is the type of fellow who, if he tires of something, gets rid of it.

McClees drove his 1947 convertible automobile into the Ohio River. His explanation was he "got tired of the car."

Check Work Stock

Owners of the 55,000 horses and mules on Maryland farms have been urged to "check intake valves, remove carbon from the cylinders, and adjust the carburetor."

Those terms aren't as mixed as one might think. Joseph M. Vial, extension animal husbandman, explained that a horse's mouth and teeth may be compared to intake valves on a tractor. The teeth need to be floated—just as the intake valve needs to be properly seated; if they are to meet evenly and let the horse chew his feed properly.

Just as tractors are troubled with carbon in the cylinders, horses may have trouble with internal parasites. These may be removed by any competent veterinarian and the horse will be a better worker during the coming summer.

The carburetor on the tractor adjusts fuel supply to the work load. For horses, this is accomplished by getting them in proper condition before the heavy work load comes. Vial recommends this be done by "feeding the horse a handful of oil meal with his grain at this time of year to keep him in good condition and by giving him as many jobs to do as possible, such as spreading manure or hauling logs."

Other recommendations include: "Keep water in his cooling system, keep his tires in good condition by having him properly shod and see that his harness fits."

Farm Record Keepers Told of "Short Cut"

"It's easier to keep up than to catch up," advises Clara Leopold, extension home management specialist at the University of Nebraska, to the home and farm account record keeper. Another hint, she says, is to keep a pencil attached to the account records.

According to Mrs. Leopold, a certain time each day should be set aside to jot down the daily transactions.

VA Hospital At Albuquerque Is Getting Addition

New Mexico veterans are assured of one of the finest Veterans Administration hospitals in the country. D. K. Dalager, manager of the Albuquerque VA Hospital, declared after the opening of bids for the 250-bed tuberculosis addition at the Albuquerque institution.

A corrected low combined bid of $3,102,733 was announced for the project after bids were opened in Washington.

The Albuquerque addition for tuberculosis treatment will be erected north and east of the present tuberculosis building and will provide the hospital a total of 400 tuberculosis beds, Dalager said. The hospital also operates 105 general medical and surgical beds.

While the manager could make no estimate of additional personnel to be required for the new addition, his hospital now employs 360 workers and professional help. The Fort Bayard 225-bed hospital now has 280 employees and most VA general medical or tuberculosis hospitals average about one employee per bed.
