State D.A.V. Commander Frazier Stresses Strength Of Veterans' Groups

Lake J. Frazier of Roswell, New Mexico department commander of the Disabled American Veterans, paying an official visit to Donald S. Simons Chapter 19 Monday night stressed the importance of strong membership in the D.A.V. and other veterans' organizations, in order to carry weight with Congress in the presentation of bills designed to better the welfare of disabled veterans. The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars are the "big brothers" of the D.A.V., the state commander declared and without their support there is little chance of legislation introduced by the Disabled American Veterans to put it over. The D.A.V. is smaller than the other two and therefore needs not only its own strength but theirs, he said. Most of the bills introduced by the D.A.V. have to do with disabled veterans, which is the main objective of the organization, Commander Frazier said.

LAKE J. FRAZIER

Of approximately 75,000 veterans in New Mexico, only about 12,000, or one in six, belong to a veterans' group, the commander pointed out. And he declared every veteran should belong to at least one or to all three, if he is eligible.

He said the D.A.V. has two national service officers in New Mexico, working for the welfare of disabled veterans and assisting them in making claims and obtaining justified compensation or other services to which they are entitled. The commander said these men are supported through the annual sale of forget-me-nots, which was carried on in Artesia last Saturday and through the annual sale through national headquarters of "idento tags," the small key-chain tags bearing facsimiles of motor vehicle license plates. He said it is important that everyone support these two annual campaigns.

'Braceros' May Wish To Attend Church Services

An Artesia clergyman has suggested that the Mexican nationals who are in the valley picking cotton might be happier and turn in more work in the long run if they are permitted to attend church services on Sundays.

Although the "braceros" are not employed in the fields on all farms on Sundays, some farmers are insisting that they work on that day, it was understood.

As most of the Mexican nationals here this year are family men and are not "wet-backs," as has been used here for cotton pickers in past years, it is probable they are church goers and wish to attend services regularly.

Las Cruces Will Tussle Artesia Starts 8 Tonight

It will be Bulldogs vs. Bulldogs on Morris Field at 8 o'clock tonight, when the visiting Las Cruces and Artesia teams tussle on the gridiron, with prospects that anything can happen—and probably will.

Many years have passed since the two schools met on the football field and it is hard for sports fans to figure just what to expect. Association this week would indicate Artesia might be the favorite, for Artesia placed ninth in the weekly selection of the 10 top teams in the state, whereas Las Cruces did not make that select group. However, Cruces was in the list of honorable mentioned schools. And two weeks ago that school was rated 10th, one below the Artesia Bulldogs.

Both teams lost their games last week end, Las Cruces to Cathedral of El Paso 26-14, and Artesia to Alamogordo 18-6. The week prior the Artesia Bulldogs defeated the Clovis Wildcats 40-7, while Deming beat Cruces 19-13. At the same time, a news dispatch from Tucumcari Thursday speaks highly of the Artesia team, although the Rattlers defeated Artesia 21-14 on Sept. 16. The news release declares "Artesia is the team that has given the Rattlers their toughest ride thus far," and still Tucumcari rates in third place in the top 10 in the state this week.

So far, this season, the Artesia Bulldogs have won three, lost two, and tied one, whereas the Las Cruces Bulldogs have won three and lost two.

It's anybody's guess on tonight's game, but it is certain that if there is not a tie final score, the Bulldogs will win.

Liaison Group Named By Mayor Is Headed By George Currier

Operation of Artesia Municipal Hospital in behalf of the city was turned over to a citizens' hospital board headed by George E. Currier at a meeting in the council room of the city hall Thursday morning by Mayor Oren C. Roberts.

The mayor said at the meeting provision for the board was made some months ago, but that turning over of the operation was delayed because the City Council desired to iron out some things first and to place it in the hands of the board members in good physical as well as financial condition.

There is no indebtedness against the hospital at this time, Mayor Roberts said, and the board will have at its disposal immediately about a thousand dollars.

Mayor Roberts said provisions for the board is made in the city's contract with the Sisters Adorers of the Most Precious Blood, operators, and that appointments of members over a period of years are to be made for three years of service on the board.

Chairman Currier was appointed for a three-year term. Named by Mayor Roberts to serve with him were Mrs. Raymond Bartlett and Dr. C. Russell, two years, and Rex Wheatley and B. G. Robinson, one year.

Mayor Roberts said he considers the hospital, in which the city has an investment in excess of $300,000, without a fault, and is

Farmers Voting By Mail Now On ACA Committees

Eligible agricultural producers in Eddy County have been mailed ballots for the election of community committees, which will close at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 25, by which time all ballots to be counted must have been delivered to the Agricultural Conservation Association office in the court house in Carlsbad by mail or in person.

Ballots will be opened and counting will start at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, Oct. 26, by at least three persons, including the ACA secretary, a member of the current county committee and a member of the community committee concerned. All eligible voters were invited to witness the counting of ballots for their communities.

A nominating committee composed of the county committee and representatives of the various community committees met last week and selected the names of 10 men from each of the communities to be placed on the ballots.

Eligible voters who might have been overlooked in the ballot notices may obtain ballots at the ACA office. Any owner, operator, tenant or sharecropper on a farm in the county on which any Agricultural Conservation Association office (Continued last page, this section)

Artesia Bulldogs Maintain Ninth Place In State

The defending champion Hobbs High Eagles jumped into the lead in the sixth weekly poll of the New Mexico Sports Writers Association, but the Eagles face a dogged battle with unbeaten Albuquerque High and Tucumcari to retain their title, while Artesia High School remained in ninth place.

Hobbs, ranked third last week, jumped into the lead by virtue of its decisive 20-0 victory over Carlsbad. The Cavemen, who led the poll for four successive weeks, dropped to fourth.

Hobbs polled nine of 22 first place votes. Albuquerque High and Tucumcari were tied with five each, Deming had two and Carlsbad one.

Hobbs led the voting with 187 points—only 21 more than last week. The Albuquerque Bulldogs also gained five points to place second with 174 and Tucumcari jumped from 120 to 171 points for third. Tucumcari made the biggest advance in points in the top 10.

All of the six unbeaten high schools are ranked in the top 10 this week. The six unbeaten squads are Hobbs, Albuquerque High, Tucumcari (Continued last page, this section)

Dr. J. J. Clarke, Sr., of Artesia was elected president of the American Association of Dental Examiners Sunday at the organization's 66th convention held in San Francisco.

With him at the time of the election to rejoice with him in his election to the head of the national organization were his three children, all dentists, Dr. John J. Clarke, Jr., of Artesia and Drs. Catherine and L. R. Clarke of Albuquerque.

DR. J. J. CLARKE, SR.

Prior to that meeting, the Drs. Clarke attended the annual convention of the American Dental Association Monday through Wednesday of last week, also in San Francisco.

Winners In Fire Prevention Essay Contest For Students Announced

Winners in the essay contest for students in connection with the observance of "Fire Prevention Week," Oct. 9-15, were announced this week by Walter G. Short, principal of Park School and contest chairman for the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored it.

Patricia Clark, ninth grade, was awarded a $25 U.S. Savings Bond for having written what the judges considered the best essay submitted by a high school student, with first prizes of $5 each and second prizes of $2.50 each were given winners in the grades from the third through the sixth.

They were: Third grade, Danny Jack Colvin, Park School, first and Linda Lorang, Park, second; fourth grade, Jimmy Cook, Park, first and Sharon Aston, Central, second; fifth grade, Mary Whitson, Central, first and Lonnie Giles, Central, second; sixth grade, Opal Flournoy, Park, first and L. B. Swinford, Park, second.

All of the first-place grade winners, except Jimmy Cook and the high school winner read their essays Tuesday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club and were presented their prizes by J. D. Smith, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The winners are to read their essays on a program over radio station KSVP at 7:15 o'clock Monday evening, it was announced by Principal Short. Jimmie Cook and the second-place winners are expected to be present at that time to receive their prizes.

At the Rotary Club meeting Tuesday President Smith of the Chamber of Commerce said several hundred essays were submitted by students and that all were good, presenting quite a task for the judges in selecting the winners for the different grades and the high school.

Here are the winning essays, with the titles, all having to do with the general theme of fire prevention, as selected by the students writing them.

'Fire Prevention'

By Danny Jack Colvin Grade 3, Park School

Many people lose their lives and homes every year from fires. We should all help prevent fires; we can clean up loose paper and trash in and out of our homes. Be careful with matches and electric wires. Watch trash or prairie fires that they do not spread too far.

Everyone should be careful to put out camp fires. Do not use gasoline or kerosene to build fires; it might explode and set fire to houses or other things.

Boys and girls should stay away from open fires. You could get your clothes afire. Let's all work to prevent fires.

'A Little Match'

By Jimmy Cook Grade 4, Park School

I am proud that I'm a little match. Just like the millions of other little matches that are used every day, I too, can be your friend. I am always happy to light your fires on a cold morning, to keep you warm and to cook your food. It always makes me sad to think how many ways I can help little boys and girls, then find myself in a (Continued last page this section)

Shrine Carnival Tickets Will Be Sold On Streets

Members of the Artesia Shrine Club, assisted by Rainbow Girls will conduct a sale on the downtown streets Saturday of tickets for the big carnival dance, to be held at the Veterans Memorial Building Saturday night of next week in connection with the fourth annual Shrine carnival in front of that building Thursday through Saturday nights, Oct. 27-29.

The Shriners and Rainbow Girls will have on display a Ford automobile, which will be given away in connection with the dance.

In the meantime committees in charge of the many various games, concessions, and stunts for the carnival are busy getting them ready. Members have disclosed some new surprises are in store for the public by way of new games and concession. However most of those used previous years (Continued last page, this section)

Price Support Is Vital To Nation, CCC Man Declares

Price support to farmers or 90 per cent parity is vital to the nation, according to Carl Hinton of the Commodity Credit Corporation, who spoke Tuesday noon at a rural-urban meeting of the Artesia Rotary Club, at which a number of farmers were guests.

He said every depression in the past has been preceded one to three years by a collapse of farm economy, which if stabilized should have prevented collapse of national economy.

It was with this in mind that the program of the CCC was set up and the corporation was chartered, Hinton said.

He pointed out that contrary to general belief the CCC must not operate at a loss, that if a loss is shown on one commodity, this must be made up on another. Hinton said that when Clinton P. Anderson, now a United States senator from New Mexico, was secretary of agriculture, a net profit of $208,000,000 was shown on cotton carried by the CCC.

Hinton said there are hundreds of cases which show the co-operation of the CCC and how it operates through the regular channels of trade and shows a profit.

The speaker said bankers generally are greatly in favor of the CCC program because it stabilizes the farmers, who are their neighbors and friends and are the backbone of the community. Bankers realize, Hinton stressed, that if farmers collapse the community and then the nation will collapse.

Hinton was introduced by W. Leslie Martin of Artesia, chairman of the New Mexico State Production and Marketing Administration Committee, who likewise was a guest of the club.

Strong Arguments Presented CAB In Air Stop Case

Strong arguments were presented last week in Washington, D. C., at a hearing before the Civil Aeronautics Board on petition of the Pioneer Air Lines and the city of Artesia for a continuation of the Amarillo, El Paso flights and addition of stops at Artesia, according to Luther E. Sharpe, secretary-manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce, who represented the city and chamber.

He said Congressman Antonio M. Fernandez and John E. Miles of New Mexico appeared before the board in behalf of Artesia and made strong pleas for an immediate decision by the CAB.

Likewise, Gen. Robert J. Smith, Pioneer president, made an excellent plea, asking that the airline be permitted to serve Artesia. Manager Sharpe said.

The chamber manager said it appeared a decision should be reached within the next 30 days, inasmuch as Continental Air Lines, which has a flight crossing the Pioneer segment at Roswell and Pioneer and the city all concurred on the urgency of the stop at Artesia.

Manager Sharpe said all arguments in the case are now in and there should be no further hurdles. General Smith assured Manager Sharpe that 30 days after the CAB renders a favorable report Pioneer will be ready to start serving Artesia.

Pioneer, whose temporary certificate, under which the airline has been operating, has made application for an extension.

Manager Sharpe said at the hearing all arguments in the Artesia case were combined with the Continental case regarding the El Paso-Albuquerque segment.

Dr. Hinshaw is remembered as having practiced osteopathy in Artesia many years, prior to moving to the West Coast a few years ago.

She was the widow of the late Tom Hinshaw.

History Of Oil In State Is Recalled

By ART McQUIDDY Secretary New Mexico Oil & Gas Association

As thousands of New Mexicans celebrate "Oil Industry Week" this week, it is fitting that the history of the production of oil in our state need not be overlooked.

While there are many other industries in New Mexico that are older than the oil industry, none can boast of any earlier start of history.

As early as 1882 the record indicate prospectors were in the Territory of New Mexico looking for oil. Members of a prospecting party of the New Mexico Bitumen & Oil Company logged the discovery of a flowing oil spring in the extreme northwestern portion of the territory in what is now San Juan County.

However, hostile Indians hindered development of this territory for many years and interest in the oil industry shifted to the southeastern part of the state at the turn of the century.

But in spite of the change in activity from the northwestern part of the state to what is now Eddy and Lea Counties, it was a gas well in the northwestern part of the territory that first brought commercial production to New Mexico. And this well was not completed until after many years of exploration and disappointing unsuccessful wildcat drilling.

This first gas well was drilled by the Midwest Refining Company in what is now known as the Ute Dome Gas Field in San Juan County. It was completed in June, 1922, with initial production of 37,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

The same year found the first commercial oil well completed in New Mexico with the Midwest Refining Company's discovery on the Hogback structure in San Juan County on Sept. 25. The second oil field discovered in New Mexico was the Rattlesnake Field, also in San Juan County. The discovery well for this field, which is still producing today, was completed Feb. 27, 1924.

It was just a few months later in 1924 that the pioneer oil firm of Flynn, Welch, Yates & Dooley completed the first commercial oil production in the southwestern part of the state. After drilling two dry holes in Eddy County, this group of men found production which attracted considerable attention and encouraged operators to acquire acreage in the vicinity. The ensuing drilling by various companies and individuals rapidly developed what is now known as the Artesia Field.

It is interesting to note that the first oil royalty check received by the state of New Mexico was from Flynn, Welch, Yates & Dooley, dated July 2, 1924, for the sum of $125.

Three years later the first commercial well in Lea County was completed by the Texas Production Company. This well was the discovery well for the Jal area.

It was two years before the fabulous Hobbs Pool was discovered. The Midwest Refining Company completed the discovery well in this pool for 700-barrels of oil daily on April 25, 1929. The discovery of the Hobbs Pool attracted the attention of oil operators all over the United States to the possibilities of Lea County and in a short time the Eunice, Cooper and Lynch Pools were brought in.

Since that time the development of oil has progressed at a steady rate in New Mexico until the state ranks seventh in the United States in the production of oil and natural gas.

All over the state today one can see geophysical crews at work looking for new formations and in eight different counties wildcat drilling rigs light up the sky at night as New Mexico oil men continue the search for new pools and new oil and gas fields. For the oil industry in New Mexico is and has been a progressive stabilizing part of New Mexico's development. It will continue so because it is based on the democratic principle of competition and free enterprise.

BY OIL INDUSTRY INFORMATION COMMITTEE
This is the story of the fish that didn't get caught and of the beginning of an era of progress. This is the story of how the oil industry was born 90 years ago.

According to the best records of the petroleum industry, a blacksmith and well driller by the name of "Uncle Billy" Smith had planned to go fishing with his sons on a Sunday in August, 1859.

But that morning they found oil when they made a cursory examination of a well they had drilled to a depth of 69 1/2 feet. That discovery cancelled Sunday's fishing expedition and marked the beginning of the petroleum industry.

This week, "Oil Progress Week" in communities all over the country (Continued last page, this section)

POT POURRI

There will be one less buck for the hunters to go after when the season opens Nov. 10, for it was killed last week on Highway 83 eight-of-way above the Bryan Run place, undoubtedly hit by a car or truck.

But there's still plenty of the big boys. And there probably will be a prize for the hunter who kills the biggest. We know there will be a prize for the one with the widest spread, but don't want to announce yet who has offered that prize.

However, the managers of at least three Artesia stores are kicking the idea of contests around and probably will make definite announcements in the near future.

Christmas gifts for members of the armed forces in foreign lands should be mailed no later than Nov. 15 to be assured they will be delivered in time.

That means shopping early. As far as that is concerned, do all your Christmas shopping early. There's little more than two months remaining.

The Eddy County Board of County Commissioners has written an update with reference to improving the Artesia-Hope highway, especially as to replacing the narrow bridge over Eagle Draw.

We have been spouting off for years about that dangerous one-way bridge. In fact, we have pointed out numerous times, it is very easily could be a one-way ticket for a carload of motorists, or even two cars, if both should happen to want to use the bridge at the same time.

There was a porcupine story in this column Tuesday, so the one about the skunk was saved for today. After all, that would really be something to get a skunk and a porcupine tangled up.

At any rate, F. L. Green and family took the conductor of these efforts and his family to the mountains Sunday and we were on the way home after dark, when the two men in the party spotted a striped cat standing guard in the middle of the lane.

Thinking fast and unable to get far out of the kitty's way and not wanting to hit it with a wheel, Green decided to straddle it—and he made it!

The kitty just couldn't think fast enough to get on the job, while the car, moving at about 65, approached and whizzed over him.

Great improvement, these modern contraptions, over the old hoss and huggy!

But we'll bet the occupants of that car taling us by about 200 yards knew that the kitty knew that we had buzzed him!

At the time this was written, there was a blob of something near the geographical center of the intersection on Roswell at the north end of the Artesia Municipal Hospital property, which has been there three weeks to our knowledge, for we have been watching it closely, just to see what happens.

Every driver we have observed has carefully avoided it, treating it as though it were a center marker. Every city department probably thinks another department put it there for some reason. And nobody has bothered to do anything about it, inasmuch as it is in such a prominent place everybody seems to think it belongs there.

The "thing" looks as though it consists of asphalt treated gravel mixed with pieces of tar paper.

Dave Button informs us that when he puts cards up in store windows plugging his soap and saddle Sinitra operas, he makes managers the same offer as does Ray Bartlett, when he puts out show cards: two passes.

The Amarillo News-Globe, which will erect a splendid new building, has chosen this inscription to be emblazoned on the front: "A Newspaper May Be Forgiven for Lack of Wisdom, but Never for Lack of Courage."

Give that one a little thought!

Principle Of Self-Reliance

WHAT CAN BE DONE through co-operation in a community was demonstrated by an experiment sponsored by the American Legion in Burnet, Texas.

The experiment was a sort of trial run on a program the American Legion plans to carry forward in a nationwide campaign for a return to the basic American principle of self-reliance.

At Burnet, a community of only 2500 population, under the leadership of the local post community groups came together over a period of 20 months, as a result of which 59 new businesses were established and 325 new jobs were created.

And this was done without federal aid or federal advice!

It was individual and community enterprise that turned the trick.

The American Legion has a program calling for a nationwide community development, something which the fruitful experiment at Burnet indicates should be of great benefit in those communities where the people are willing to get behind it and co-operate, something which we will watch with much interest.—A.L.B.

Write And Sign 'Em

MANY INDIVIDUALS have some very fine ideas and opinions worth of being written and printed. And many individuals have the courage to write these items or articles or letters, sign them and then have their names published.

Signed letters, articles and items are always twice as effective as the unsigned letters or at least the letters published with the request that the name not be printed.

Unsigned letters, of course, sent to this paper or to the editor are never published. And regardless of how many times we may repeat this statement and remind our readers that we never run or publish unsigned articles or letters, we continue to receive them.

We feel that in many instances those who could write a good letter fail to do so feeling that perhaps it is not wanted. Others feel if the editor does it then it is more effective. Some, of course, do not write letters and sign them because they do not want to get involved. But don't expect the editor to voice your opinions or views. If you don't want to do it and feel you might get into trouble or it might cost you a little business—what about the editor? And after all it is your idea and your opinion.

Frequently the publishing of letters that are signed by local individuals is more effective than anything the editor may say. The fact is that oftentimes it helps the newspaper in promoting a movement, an undertaking or in boosting a project or undertaking. The view of the individual or the citizen adds weight to what has already been said.

And you not only exercise and enjoy the freedom of the press, but you also help keep this freedom alive. That which we do not use we soon lose, so we are told.

But sign your letters and your articles. And have your name published with your letter. It makes the letter more effective. But if you don't want your name published, it will be withheld, but your name can not be withheld from the newspaper.

This newspaper, if it publishes your letter, is just as responsible for what you say as you are. And in order to protect itself it requires that all letters or opinions written to the editor be signed.—O.E.P.

Halt The Rackets

THE RACKETS AND SCHEMES for making money, raising money and working the business and professional people are on the increase. They will continue to increase during the days and the weeks ahead.

As things tighten up and it becomes a little more difficult to find jobs and to make money, the promoters get into action. They come along with most every type of scheme to raise funds and to make money.

And far too often they employ and use local people to promote these undertakings. They find individuals not familiar with the various rackets and get them to act as their front. They endeavor to convince local people that the movement or undertaking is for a local cause when if the truth is told some 50 to 75 per cent of the proceeds go to the promoter and the local organization or movement only receives a small percentage of the funds.

Institutions and organizations over the nation have made a very careful check of some of the movements and undertakings. They have investigated them thoroughly and they know just how little the home town group receives from the movement.

But the tie-in with the local organization oftentimes helps put the movement over. All of us are always willing to go along and aid and help local groups, local schools, local churches and local organizations. We are happy to aid these individuals in the work they are doing.

But what is really bad about these schemes is the fact that local business firms would rather make a real contribution to the local organization—a contribution which the local organization actually gets and can keep.

But we can help stop and halt these schemes and rackets if we will stop participating in them or if we will just stop and ask a few questions when the proposition is submitted to us. When we as a community of individuals refuse to take part in these schemes and rackets and refuse to aid and help in these movements then they will die a natural death.

But as long as we continue to contribute and donate and as long as we encourage these rackets then just that long will we continue to have them.—O.E.P.

If it keeps on, some day everybody will be on the public payroll and we all can stop worrying about taxes and such.

Skillful backfield football players soon will be earning their way through school by weaving.

A college professor says the rich are inclined to accept things as they are. Well, keeping on accepting is one way to stay rich.

POKER WITH THE JOKER

Adding Sunshine to the Sunshine State

By Dr. G. Ward Fenley
 Tom Dabney, sage of Socorro, has a terse, expressive gift for writing headlines in his Socorro Chief.

Wrote Tom last week: "Increasing number of fireballs get U.N.M.'s La Paz's goat." Well, Brother Dabney, what with the presence of Los Alamos, Sandia Base, strange rockets, space ships, White Sands and the Roosians in possession of the bomb—a few New Mexican phenomena tend to get a lot of people's goats.

Lotta Ways to Get Goats
 I was reading last week about a parson (not in New Mexico) whose inadvertent pun on words boomeranged into a goat-getter.

Said parson was expounding on people's good intentions: "Almost all folks want to do good—they try their best to follow the Good Book—and he paused to capitalize on his key word—BUT . . . He trailed off fleaving them to think a minute.

Then picking up the trail to drive home his argument: "We all want to do good, BUT. My good friends," he concluded, "50,000,000 Americans are sliding to Hell on their butts."

With parson's goose cooked, the meeting broke up immediately.

But What Gets Me
 Personally, I like slang. It's vigorous, expressive, hard-hitting. But a lotta this running words together in our common parlance smacks me square dab in the eye.

And don't lay it onto the kids.

You and I are the ones to blame. Take for instance:

"Gotta" (probably Pennsylvania Dutch origin) meaning "have you a . . . ?"

"Jeet" (Polish extraction) for "did you eat yet?"

"Java" (evidently from Javane) as in "Java good time?"

"Swati" (unknown origin and "swat eye") as in "Swati thought."

And "Harry" (from Hopi) a form of salutation "how are you?"

Worst Goat-Gettin'
 It would be unpardonable to call the name of a prominent Texico traveling man who, unaccustomed to having his wife along on trips, got clear to Cline's Corners before he realized he had left his wife in Albuquerque.

And then, instead of cooking up some excuse for being detained, the guy admitted outright that he plumb forgot her.

And was his bacon fried!!! and for weeks at that . . .

Some men, you know, Mr. Texico resident, wonder how they could get along without women . . . and the answer is . . . cheaper.

Speakin' o' Goats
 H. B. Martin of Amarillo says his little boy was writing a composition on goats. The boy asked the teacher if a goat had a tail. The teacher said that a goat had a tail of sorts, but none to speak of.

The boy concluded his composition: "A goat has a tail but you musn't talk about it."

Chinese Nationalist Tactics | Seizure of U.S. Merchantmen
 Ruffling Washington's Temper | May Bring Diplomatic Leap

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The seizure of three American merchantmen by the Chinese Nationalist navy is expected to be followed by tough diplomatic representations. Officials are generally silent on the problem, due to the pro-Nationalist China sentiment at the Capitol. When Congress quits, a more aggressive policy will be shown. Officials are irked primarily because the Nationalists have refused to use their navy and air force, all obtained on lend-lease and military aid from the United States, to fight the Communists.

Chiang Kai-shek had promised to bring these forces to bear when the Communists crossed the Yangtze river in their drive on Shanghai. Instead, they were noticeable by their absence. Now these naval vessels have been used against American ships.

It is feared momentarily that one of the Nationalist bombers will attack an American vessel. The United States is not especially eager to help the Chinese Communists in Shanghai. They do resent the Nationalists imposing hardship on the Chinese people, who may put the blame on the United States.

One official argues that the Nationalists are creating more Communists than they are curing by their bombing of rail, ship and dock facilities: in Shanghai. These are more serious than generally realized.

● CIVIL RIGHTS AND 1950 CAMPAIGNS—Sources close to the White House say that President Truman welcomes the opportunity, to postpone the slam-bang battle for civil rights legislation until the next session of Congress.

Mr. Truman, they declare, wants to make civil rights what he believes will be a dramatic, vote-getting issue in the 1950 congressional campaigns.

The President has known for about two months that there was no chance of getting any sort of civil rights measure passed by the Senate during the current session.

However, he would not have hesitated to direct Senate Democratic leader Scott Lucas, Illinois, to carry on the fight until just before Christmas, if necessary, had the President deemed it politically expedient.

Now, the controversy appears to the President to be made-to-order for next year's congressional battles—with the Democrats seeking to retain control of both houses and the Republicans challenging desperately to defeat the "ins."

If the Senate blocks civil rights at the next session, the chief executive can go to the country and blame the Republicans for teaming up with the southern Democratic bloc in the Senate.

This he expects to do. In the south, the southerners are safe enough, for the anti-civil rights sentiments of the Dixie voters are behind them. In the north, Mr. Truman figures he will have an issue strong enough to lead to the defeat of many Republican candidates.

● SUPER-CARRIER CAMPAIGN—Admirals are still pushing with missionary zeal their campaign to revive the scuttled super-carrier. Chances are they might succeed since they have partly converted Navy Secretary Francis Matthews, who came into the Navy when the super-carrier went out.

There has always been a tacit understanding that Matthews would never raise the super-carrier issue. However, when he was asked for his views on the matter at a closed meeting recently, he hesitated. Then he said it was a "closed issue, for the present."

"For the present" more than suggested that he might be persuaded to bring up the matter at a later time. No reconsideration is contemplated by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, however. To a reporter's question about the super-carrier, Johnson replied tersely: "Not a chance."

Pardon Me, Sir—This Ain't Hay
 Down at Portales last week, Elmer Turner felt a tap, tapping and finally a downright biting on his leg as a bale of hay passed through the baler.

The spelling, Mr. Greaves, is baler—not balier.
 It was a bull snake that was doing its silent best to warn Elmer that he had not been too careful what he tossed in with a pitchfork of hay.

Gordon Greaves of The Portales News is wondering just what a flock of turkey buzzards is doing hovering just south of town. We could—but won't—answer Gordon's inquiry. If we did, probably E.N.M.U.'s President Floyd Golden would get our goat.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ARTHUR DALEY, New York baseball authority, has statistics to prove how seldom ball players' spring holdouts result in better contracts from the management. One of the few times the player won out was when Hi Myers, of the old Brooklyn Dodgers, out-foxed Prexy Charles Ebbets.

The letterhead on which Myers wrote that his proffered contract was inadequate bore the flamboyant heading "Myers' Championship Stock Farm." Ebbets didn't know that the stationery had been printed specially for the occasion, and that Myers' elaborate holdings consisted of one spavined horse, one cow, and a couple of chickens. "This fellow must be independently rich," thought Ebbets. "I better go right down to his farm and placate him."

Now it was Myers' turn to grow panicky. But when Ebbets arrived he saw a fine herd of fat cattle in the north pasture, and dozens of sleek horses in another. Obviously, Myers' Stock Farm was flourishing. Ebbets gave him the raise he demanded and departed. Myers spent the next two days returning cows and horses to friendly neighbors within a radius of fifty miles who had come to his rescue when the need was greatest.

Arrangements Of Flowers Given At Club Meeting

Russell Floore was in charge of a program at the regular monthly meeting of the Junior Woman's Club held at the club house Wednesday afternoon.

Floore presented the program which consisted of making several flower arrangements. There was a mixed bouquet of fall flowers made first. Many interesting pointers were presented.

An unusual autumn arrangement was made from the very unpopular weeds taken from vacant lots. At the end of the program it was given away. The lucky recipient was Mrs. A. E. Jernigan.

Other arrangements consisted of a beautiful red carnation triangle pattern and a surprise and clever mixture of empty cones and pink carnations.

Mrs. Lloyd Dorand and Mrs. James Monroe were co-hostesses for the afternoon. Mrs. Orville Durbin, president, presided at the punch bowl. The table was decorated in orange and black for Halloween and pyracantha trimmings were used as a table centerpiece.

Plans were made for a wicker roast Wednesday night. Each member is requested to bring a covered dish.

A benefit dessert bridge will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16. Tickets may be purchased from the members.

Exum's Trips Will Combine Purposes

J. I. Exum left Thursday morning on a combination of trips with several purposes in view, including a vacation. From here he went to Amarillo, Texas, where he was to see the Sandies play Lubbock tonight, and from there he was going to Santa Fe to attend the state Baptist Brotherhood convention, which will be held next Monday through Wednesday.

Then, after seeing the University of New Mexico and Arizona State play at Albuquerque Saturday of next week, Exum is to pause briefly at home before taking off Nov. 8 to attend a meeting for agents of the American National Life Insurance Company at Galveston Texas Nov. 10-12. He will return from there about Nov. 16.

Exum said the agents at a meeting will be taken on a deep-sea fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico. He has been an agent of the company 13 years and has won a trip to every convention. In addition he was awarded a diamond pin last year.

ARTESIANS ATTEND PARENTS' 50th ANNIVERSARY

All 12 of Mr. and Mrs. Foust's children were present, as were 38 grandchildren, and eight great-grandchildren. The couple was married by two sons who are Baptist ministers. A reception was held for 200 friends and relatives.

 crowd of little boys who are trying to burn something up just for fun. That is very dangerous. Sometimes I want to cry when I'm left all alone on the floor, or in a clothes closet because I'm afraid a mouse will strike me and cause a big fire. So little boys and girls, please remember I'm your friend. I am here to serve you, not to burn your home and maybe yourself. So, every time you see me say to yourself, "I will help prevent fires by using the matches the way they should be used and never, never, play with them."

'Stop For The Fire Truck'

By Mary Margaret Whitson
 Grade 5, Central School
 You should always stop when you hear the fire whistle. Stopping for the fire truck may not prevent the fire that has already been started but it can keep that fire from spreading.

This is a story about two teenagers that caused many deaths.

"Come on, Roy, let's follow the fire truck," said James.

"Alright, look, turn here and we can head him off."

"Yes and get to the fire before old hose and truck himself. Ha, ha!"

"Yes and this should prove to Jan and Betty that Bob isn't so smart because he drives the so-called fire truck."

The whistle blew and people stopped on either side of the street for that whistle meant "Stop." But Roy and James went around the corner, the fire truck came rushing by and crash! Both autos were badly smashed. The other truck was quickly called.

While that was going on, the fire-

Mission Accomplished

A U. S. Skymaster touches her wheels down at Templehof Airfield, Berlin, to become the last U.S. plane to fly the famed airlift. The pilot is Capt. Perry D. Immel, who made more than 400 flights to Berlin during operation of the airlift. The Lord Mayor of Berlin, Ernest Reuter, with high American officials, was on hand to witness the end of the lift. The group, standing around a gag poster, are left to right: Lord Mayor Reuter; Col. J. E. Barr, Templehof Commandant; Gen. William H. Tunner; Adm. John Wilkes, USN; the plane crew with Capt. Immel, extreme right. Poster states: "For Sale—Slightly Used Airline—Present Owners Going Out of Business."

spread rapidly and trapped people in two and three-story buildings. People losing their heads tried to rescue their belongings and were killed. Before the fire truck got there, 26 lives had been taken and 35 injured. So please, please, remember that that whistle means "Stop."

'Fire Prevention'

By Opal Flournoy
 Grade 6, Park School

One time there were three little mice named Dick, Tom and Harry. They lived in the attic. They were nibbling on a little round thing. When they got to the end of it there was a red and blue thing. Then they went out and got some feathers and things. They gnawed on this red and blue thing and put it on the feathers. This started a red fire. It caught the attic on fire and it burned the whole attic. It caught the house on fire before the people knew it. They didn't have time to put it out and it burned the poor little mice. We never heard of Dick, Tom and Harry anymore.

To prevent fires, you should never have matches in your attic or your house where mice can get to them. You should always be careful about fires. Always be sure your water heater and your stove is in perfect condition. Don't have your matches low if you have small children, where they can get hold of them. Be careful about outside fires because they can blow and get anything on fire. Be careful and not let your children get in a fire because it can burn them very badly. Always burn your garbage in a trash container.

'Fire: Public Enemy No. 1'

By Patricia Clark
 Grade 9, High School

As everyone knows, fire is one of the most harmful and destructive occurrences in the world. In the United States alone there has been a loss of about $50,000,000 annually and a death rate of nearly 10,000 persons. This shows that although our native country is highest in its standards of living, there must be carelessness somewhere. The waste on fire alone is 10 times greater than that of any other country. Almost every community celebrates the "Fire Prevention Week." It is celebrated with campaigns given by people of all ages, colors and creeds. Every person is responsible for learning and carrying out the set of laws governing fire prevention. These laws are the first step in conquering the dreadful fear of all people. They are made by the government's law-making body and are repeated over and over throughout every campaign and program.

Education might be the next method in combating the fire hazard. Every school has fire drills and many have regular assemblies to discuss the rules of fire prevention. There is usually an officer that speaks to the children and quite often the children themselves take part in the programs. This might give them an opportunity to feel more like obeying what is taught them, for they feel that they are actually taking part in teaching others.

No matter where they learn, children should be taught that their country or their homes might be at stake. No matter what their age, they must realize that they might lose their neighbor, their family or even their own life to this dreadful enemy of all people.

And then, just to show she is still on her toes and has that old twinkle in her eyes, she pasted on a clipping from The Advocate, the caption of which announced to the world: "Son is Born to Mr. and Mrs. Quarles."

To which she quipped, "Just wondered if Artesia is becoming more querulous, as I see by the paper the number of Quarles has increased."

"Distasteful is fortunate in a case like that. You can't swat me for that one."

Ain't it the truth!

History—

 try, oil men are re-telling the story of how "Uncle Billy" brought in America's and the world's, first oil well.

They tell how it was the dereliction of some other well drillers that placed "Uncle Billy" in the pages of history. Or, they explain, maybe those other well drillers just had no confidence in the idea that petroleum could be found by drilling a well like those which they drilled for salt.

A retired railway conductor, Col. Edwin L. Drake, had been commissioned in 1858 by the Seneca Oil Company to drill a well for oil at Titusville, Pa., near where oil often appeared on the surface of streams and pools of water. Never before had anyone proposed that oil existed in such fashion underground that it could be found and brought to the surface by drilling a well.

When Colonel Drake arrived in Pennsylvania, he decided that he should hire some of the local experts who were drilling salt wells. A crew of three that he employed never showed up. Their dereliction was the chance that made "Uncle Billy" famous.

When his drillers didn't report for work, Colonel Drake borrowed a horse and headed for Pittsburgh and Tarentum, Pa., to talk to William A. Smith, a blacksmith, whose reputation as a well driller was highly spoken of by salt well people.

The colonel hired "Uncle Billy" on the spot, but was greatly chagrined when the driller insisted that he could not come to Titusville before the late spring of 1859. He had too many jobs already lined up in and around Tarentum, he told the colonel.

Smith arrived as scheduled on April 9, 1859. Drilling started in May. Work progressed slowly. The drill was down only a few feet when quicksand was struck. They drilled through the sand readily, but when the drill was withdrawn, the sand filled the hole.

It was Edwin Drake who came up with the solution. He suggested they push down a heavy pipe through the quicksand until rock was struck. They they could remove the sand from the pipe and continue drilling operations through the pipe.

This held up drilling until financial arrangements for the pipe could be made. The pipe arrived in August, 1859 and they quickly drove it through the sand to the rock below.

On that historic Aug. 27, 1859, the cursory inspection had revealed, just a few feet below the surface was the black, magic liquid, petroleum.

A new industry had been born and a new era in man's progress began. "Uncle Billy" cancelled his plans to go fishing that day with his sons, James and Samuel, who had helped drill the well.

The 90 years since that first well was drilled are significantly the 90 years of the greatest progress in America. Along with the discovery of oil fields and the subsequent development of new uses for oil products have come the machine age, the automotive age, the flying age, the communications age and many modern marvels unknown to us less than 90 years ago.

He said the city has had no money to build one, but that it is indicated such a building is needed, as in the past there have been times when it was difficult to hold nurses, as they had no place to live.

Mayor Roberts said another physical addition which should be attended to in the next few months is a chapel for the use of the Sisters.

Councilman Brainard explained a function of the hospital board is to serve as liaison among the Sisters, city and hospital staff for the benefit of the community.

DOG SHOOTS MAN
LaGrande, Ore. (AFPS)—When a dog shoots a farmer, that's news. It happened when Floyd Hylton was trying to shoot a chicken hawk over his barn. His dog jumped up, knocked down his gun, nervously pawed at the trigger—and drilled farmer Hylton in the hand that feeds him.
MUST'VE FORGOTTEN
Sharon, Pa. (AFPS)—"Annual deadline coming up," garage owner Theodore Rogalyn told his customers. "Don't forget to have your car inspected for a state safety certificate." As a result, business boomed. He inspected 250 before the deadline came around. He should have inspected 251. Forgetting his own automobile cost him a fine of $5.50.

48 lb. HEAVIER CALVES TO SELL... than on cake
The big difference was proved by Purina in a ranch feeding test. 50 cows winter-fed on Purina Range Breeder Checkers weaned 48-lb. heavier calves than 50 cows fed on cake. Both groups were fed exactly the same amount. The 48 lbs. difference in weight per calf meant about $9.60 extra income per head.
Here's why Purina Checkers do the job—correct protein percent (not too high)... more carbohydrates... more calcium and other minerals... more vitamin A. See us now for your winter feeding needs.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Here's "Mr. Courtesy!"
It's all over and Andy's the winner! He beat out Smiley Roberts, manager of the Rialto, by just four votes. What am I talking about? Our "Mr. Courtesy" election!
The idea was for folks to vote for the most courteous person in town... the most polite man or woman who "meets the public" every day. The balloting went on all last week at the post office.
It's this kind of community spirit that has made our town grow so fast... has made it so attractive for so many people to come to and shop in.
From where I sit, Andy deserved the title most. All the people in our stores are pretty polite, but Andy always has a big smile on his face. He keeps his Garden Tavern clean and law-abiding—a good example of the kind of tavern owner that's making the Brewers' Self-Regulation program work so well. The Garden Tavern is one real "court-teous" place to enjoy a sparkling glass of beer or ale!

Sports Notes

By Sam Johnson
Football fans are a faithful flock and football is a fine natural sedative for them. It takes their minds off their ingrown toenails, gout, income taxes and even the atom bomb.
Once in a while they even know who carries the ball or makes a tackle. Actually, they are entitled to a little better dish than they get on the average Friday night: Both in the way of coaching and the type of football they see.

While coaches as a lot are intelligent, many of them seem to require a whole season to determine whether Pinky, Rollo or Button-head is really the best left end, to take a position at random. High school players now awake on Saturday or Sunday morning to reflect and ponder: Was it the second minute of the first quarter and the first minute of the second quarter they played? Or was it the fourth minute of the third quarter and the third minute of the second quarter?

Between the stampedes from bench to field and back and the seemingly constant flutter of the ref's red penalty cloth, the high school game is losing spectator appeal.

And the coaches are not gaining much in imagination, which is for them the asset with the golden touch.

For example, take Coach X. He goes into a tight ball game with a close-to-the-buckle type of play, plus great hope. With five minutes to go he finds his team two touchdowns in the ruck. At this point he orders a frantic flurry of passes. It is do or die in five minutes. His team loses by three TD's.

Coach Y, on the other hand, is that rare imaginative specimen. At the start of the game, with four full quarters to go, he shoots the moon. "We have to get the jump on this outfit to beat 'em," he tells Quarterback Pinky.

That, for Pinky's money, is fun. First thing you know, Pinky's team wins itself a game. In a year or two, Y, that sly rascal, has moved along to a bigger job. Imagination is worth a load of silver to the coach and a barrelful of enjoyment to the fans.

Settlement Values For Cottonseed Loans Announced

Settlement values for cottonseed loans not redeemed by producers prior to maturity will be based on grades delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation, the Eddy County Agricultural Conservation Committee announced.

Roy Forehand, committee chairman, points out that the loan rate of $49.50 per ton is based on the average grade for the last five years, which was 97.7.

As 100 is the "basic grade" and grades may range from 40 to 125, the settlement value of basic grade 100 will be $50.65 per ton. The settlement value for cottonseed grading above or below basic grade 100 will be $50.65 per ton plus or minus a percentage of such price equal to the percentage by which the grade is above or below 100.

As an example, should a producer's cottonseed grade 60 at the time of delivery to CCC, the settlement value would be 60 per cent of $50.65, or $30.39 per ton, Forehand explained.

Price-supporting loans on cottonseed from the 1949 crop will be available through Dec. 31 and will mature April 30, 1950 or earlier on demand. Loans will be made on cottonseed with a moisture content of 11 per cent or less placed in approved storage on or near the farm.

Growers interested in the loan may contact the county ACA office in the court house at Carlsbad.

ACA Committeemen Find It Difficult To Adjust Acreage

County and community ACA committeemen in cotton counties are finding it extremely difficult to adjust farmers' cotton acreage reports to meet rigid limitations established by the Department of Agriculture, according to W. Leslie Martin, chairman of the State PMA committee.

"Lack of definite acreage measurements of cotton produced during recent years has resulted in excess of official acreages as determined by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics," Martin observed. He expressed the hope that cotton farmers realize the difficulty of this task and will co-operate with the committeemen in every way possible. "I'm sure that all committeemen are making every possible effort to make these adjustments in a fair and impartial manner," Martin concluded.

How 'Boss Rule' Menaces America's Democracy

'Dictator' equals 'political boss' which an individual may develop in many respects.

Yet some Americans who boil indignantly at the thought of dictatorship sit calmly by, according to Armed Forces Talk 295, while a boss takes over their community.

The inconsistency of such a position is illustrated by the Talk's explanation that bosses and dictators use the same methods both to gain and exploit power. Both flourish when citizens just "aren't interested" in who runs things.

Both follow the principle of divide and conquer, knowing that one of the commonest ways to defeat democracy is to turn groups against one another so it is nearly impossible to get a majority vote in favor of anything.

Both make false but glowing promises, bribe voters by offering special privileges and run crooked elections.

For those who maintain that despite these similarities bosses aren't to be compared with dictators because a boss controls only a limited area instead of a nation or group of nations, the Talk warns:

"From the existence of local boss rule, corruption on a more frightening scale—at the national level—is possible."

Some Americans, the Talk continues, "are willing to 'play ball' with any local regime so long as they have a good job and life in their community seems to be the same. They fail to see that this is leaving the door ajar for the entry of boss rule."

"If we really believe in democracy, we must begin it at home—on the streets and in the local communities where we live. From the ability to run our towns and cities well and honestly stems the ability to run our States and the Nation the same way."

"If we cannot solve the problems of community living in a free nation," the Talk concludes, "we can never prove to the rest of the world that the freedom of democracy is the best atmosphere in which an individual may develop his full abilities."

AF'S 'FLYING CLASSROOM' COMPLETES FLIGHT TESTS

San Diego, Calif. (AFPS)—An Air Force "flying classroom" has been successfully flight tested here.

The plane, a Consolidated-Vultee T-29 twin-engine navigation trainer, is a modification of Convair's Model 240 transport aircraft. It is a high speed, all metal towing monoplane resembling current model commercial passenger aircraft.

The flying classroom has 14 stations for student navigators, each equipped with a loran scope, radio compass, altimeter, air speed indicator, drift meter, and map table. Four instructors will be assigned to the craft on each flight to instruct students in on-the-spot observation during "live" navigation problems.

SCANDALUM MAGNATUM

Milwaukee (AFPS)—Theft of two books wouldn't be news except for two things. Their title is "Alcatraz Island Prison." And they were lifted from a display at the convention of wardens who belong to the American Prison Assn.

'HYGIENIC' MOUSETRAP SET TO CATCH MICE

Washington (AFPS)—Stand by, England! The world is about to beat a path to your door . . . in search of the "better mousetrap."

The super mousetrap, recently described by the Commerce Department's Office of International Trade is "all metal, rustproof, self-setting, hygienic, will not trap careless fingers—but will catch mice."

The mouse eradicator is being offered here as part of the British program to attract more American dollars.
