City, School Elections Slated Saturday

Texas Child Abuse Statistics Gruesome

A lot of people do not think much about 'child abuse' -- and in fact, stunned Rotarians heard statistics Tuesday at noon from a

Tonight, Thursday, at 8 p.m., the first meeting of the Muleshoe Area Hospital District Board of Directors will conduct their first official meeting in the Muleshoe City Hall.

Items on the agenda include execution of oath of office to temporary board of directors; organization of temporary board of directors, including election of officers and establishing a regular meeting date; and, calling an election as to whether the Muleshoe Area Hospital District will be created and established pursuant to Article IX, Section 9 of the Texas Constitution and HB 1467, Acts of the Texas Legislature 1989.

Army Staff Sgt. Robert B. Perez Jr., son of Francis Perez, Muleshoe, has arrived for duty at Fort Hood, TX.

Perez is an armor crew member with the 67th Armor.

His wife, Maria, is the daughter of Hector Flores of Muleshoe.

The sergeant is a 1981 graduate of Muleshoe High School.

Calvary Baptist Church will sponsor skating Friday night, tomorrow, 7-9 p.m. at the Bailey County Civic Center.

Admission will be $1 per skater and refreshments will be available.

Sam Feagley, a Muleshoe native, and son of C. J. Feagley and the late Teresa Feagley, has been elected member at large of the executive committee of the Faculty Senate at Louisiana State University.

Feagley, who has his doctorate in agronomy from the University of Missouri at Columbia, is an associate professor in the LSU Department of Agronomy.

His research includes work in the reclamation of drastically altered lands such as strip mines and the effect of acid precipitation and non-hazardous recyclable materials on crops and soils.

special guest speaker that they found a little hard to digest with lunch.

Jess Winn introduced Roger Garms, district manager for Energas, of Littlefield, who is a former member of the Lamb County Child Protective Services. Garms gave a lot of statistics that left the Muleshoe Rotary Club with a lot to think about.

Garms said statistics show that as many as one million cases of child abuse happen each year -- and these are just the reported cases.

For instance, in a 15 county region that includes both Bailey and Lamb Counties, 1063 cases of child abuse were reported. This excludes Lubbock County, which has an enormous amount of reported cases of child abuse each year.

In 1987, the figures were up to 45 cases in Bailey County, with 1108 cases in the same region.

Bailey County had 29 reported cases in 1985, with 13 confirmed. In 1986, 35 cases were reported in Bailey County with 17 confirmed and in 1987 there were 46 cases reported in Bailey County.

According to statistics quoted by Garms, four out of five convicts were abused as children. With all the prison overcrowding, Garms asked, "Do we build more prisons?" He believes if child abuse can be stopped, the results will reduce prison populations and reduce the need for more prisons.

He also said that abused children may never be able to show the love or trust they need and have a poor self-image.

Garms asked, "Have you praised a child lately? It has been proven that praising must occur more than five times more often than punishment for inappropriate behavior."

According to the speaker, state law requires everyone who suspects child abuse to report it. It is a misdemeanor not to report such instances. He said that 'often' this is a child's only cry for help.

Reports on suspected child abuse should be reported to the local police or child protective services. Cont. Page 6, Col. 3

Extension Service Celebrates Birthday

The Executive Board of the Bailey County Extension Program Council announces an open house in the Bailey County Extension Office on Monday, May 8, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The open house is part of the nationwide celebration of the signing of the Smith-Lever Act which created the Extension Service.

The nationwide Cooperative Extension System originated in 1914 with the passage of the Smith-Lever Act, and a year later the Texas Legislature instituted the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to be a part of the state's land-grant university, Texas A&M University.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service is the off-campus educational arm of Texas A&M University and the U. S. Department of Agriculture in programs related to agriculture, home economics, community development and 4-H.

Extension's purpose is education for action--educating men, women and youth to help them make sound, day-to-day decisions, explained Spencer Tanksley, Bailey County Extension Agent-Ag. He said the Extension system of informal education has been called the most distinctive invention of American education. It is a system whereby resources are mustered to help people pursue an interest or a problem, he added. Educational psychologists have said that the Extension method creates an almost perfect teaching situation.

Extension educational programs are directed toward "helping people to help themselves" in solving problems they encounter on their farms or ranches, continued Tanksley, in their homes in their businesses or in their communities.

These educational programs are based on the application of proven research findings. Extension programs revolve around a field staff of educators called county Extension agents, who live among and relate to the people they are commissioned to serve. Cont. Page 6, Col. 1

Association of Retired Persons. She was selected by the chapter's board of directors for her outstanding volunteer contributions to the community. Mrs. Creamer has always been active in Muleshoe and Bailey County, and several years ago, headed up a drive to obtain senior citizen housing in Muleshoe, now known as the Harmon Elliott Senior Citizen Housing Complex.

To obtain names on a petition asking for the housing, Mrs. Creamer and her late husband, W. F. 'Buck' Creamer, walked all over Muleshoe obtaining signatures on the petition, drove all over the county getting signatures and drove to a number of Senior Citizen Housing complexes in Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma, obtaining information about such complexes.

During her terms as president of the local AARP chapter, she headed up successful luncheons and suppers to benefit West Plains Medical Center, and helped provide food and refreshments for volunteer workers who cleaned the hospital prior to its reopening.

School Board Members, Council Members Sought

Saturday, May 6, is election day in Muleshoe. Two new board members will be elected to serve on the Muleshoe Independent School District Board of Trustees, and two new city council members will be elected.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. for both elections.

Those voting for the two new school board members will vote at the Muleshoe High School Cafeteria.

Two new members will be elected to the Muleshoe City Council. Polls will be open at the city hall 7 a.m.-7 p.m. for the city election.

Outgoing council members are A. V. Wood, who is seeking re-election and Tommy Gunstream who elected not to run again. Filing for his position was Troy Stegemoeller.

For the school board, the terms of Julie Cage and Rex Harris are expiring. Mrs. Cage is seeking re-election, but Harris elected not to seek re-election.

Five other candidates have filed for the two positions.

Candidates include Terry Hutto, Edwin R. Cox, Danny Noble, Gary Hugg, and Max King.

Each of the candidates has given a brief statement, some at a recent Rotary Club meeting, as to why they are seeking a position on the school board.

In alphabetical order, here are their comments:

JULIE CAGE
"Education is a serious business, and for the past several years, the MISD has been working toward and looking forward to improvement.

"We use a pay as you go policy, and have made improvements with no bond issues. We keep an ongoing priority list."

Mrs. Cage talked about teachers and their professional growth and the need to stay aware of trends and legislation.

"We are looking at being the 'very best' school in Texas," she said.

EDWIN R. COX
"As a businessman, I'm affected. And as a homeowner I am affected by taxes, by my customers and the people I hire.

"Things that are happening in education are 'real good' and I have no opinion on how the job is being done in the Muleshoe schools, as I am not there seeing how they're done.

"I'm not seeking election to run the school. The board's job is to set policy for those who run the schools."

GARY HUGG
"I am running for the Muleshoe School Board because I would like to be involved in my children's education. I have two children in school. One is a fourth grader and the other is an eighth grader. My wife is a secretary at the high school.

"I graduated from Caprock High School in Amarillo and from Texas Tech University in May, 1989 with a Bachelor of Science degree in engineering.

"I am employed by Southwestern Public Service.

"I support a 'well balanced' school system consisting of a strong academic program as well as effective extra curricular activities.

"I believe a good education is one of the most important tools we can give our children to help build their future. I also believe extra curricular activities provide an excellent outlet for our

FARM TO MARKET ROADS TO BE COMPLETED IN BAILEY COUNTY SOON

Completion by May 15 of the last stretch of paved road being constructed under a bond issue voted by the people of three precincts of Bailey County is predicted by Tom Smith, county commissioner of Precinct 2, in which the new road is being built.

It is a stretch of nine and half miles across the sandhills, running from the pavement to West Camp school to an intersection with an east-west road running from the Morton Highway.

Approximately 76 miles will then have been constructed out of bonds voted. It is estimated at the time that the bonds would pay for about 75 miles. Cost of construction was higher but the county was able to complete 76 miles because the state helped with construction of 17 and half miles of the program.

SOPHIE DROWNED

Sophie is dead. She was the only casualty during the recent flood water this week which included the southwestern to eastern areas of Muleshoe.

If you never met Sophie, you missed the possible beginning of the Muleshoe Zoo. Sophie was a lion that Victor Cox obtained when she was a cub some five or six years ago.

Cox kept Sophie in a cage at his place on Highway 84 at the east edge of Muleshoe. Many times in the still of the night, you could hear Sophie roaring in the darkness.

Assistant Chief of Police Ray Cline and Ken Angeley finally got a boat into the raging torrent around the cage Tuesday afternoon in an effort to check on Sophie, but it was to late. The cage was completely covered with water.

Bailey County Deputy Sheriff Corky Green and Texas Highway Patrolman Joe Young made another attempt Thursday to get into where the cage is located, but could not get in because of high water.

Since Cox went to Oklahoma recently, local police have been caring for Sophie.

Making Mom's Day Extra Special

Mom's the word: Mother's Day is coming up and now's your chance to make a special lady feel like a queen for a day. Give Mom a break from kitchen duties and have the rest of the family pitch in to whip up a delicious dinner. "A special meal doesn't have to be difficult to prepare," says Donna Higgins, director of Del Monte Kitchens. "With adult supervision, kids can be of help in the kitchen. Just show them the safe and proper way to prepare food and handle kitchen utensils."

Start with Chicken Napolitano, a main dish with a savory topping of Italian style stewed tomatoes, mushrooms and thyme served over boneless chicken breasts. "The tomato, often referred to as the Love Apple centuries ago, is an appropriate ingredient for a Mother's Day menu."

Chicken Napolitano

- 4 half chicken breasts, skinned and boned
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder
- 2 Tbsp. olive oil
- 1 can (14-1/2 oz.) Del Monte Italian Style Stewed Tomatoes
- 1/2 lb. small mushrooms, sliced
- 1/4 cup chicken broth
- 1/2 tsp. thyme

Place chicken between waxed paper; pound to 1/2-inch thick. Combine flour and garlic powder; toss with chicken, coating well. In skillet, cook chicken in oil 3 to 5 minutes on each side or until well browned. Remove to serving dish; keep warm. To skillet, add tomatoes, mushrooms, broth and thyme. Bring to boil; cook over high heat 5 minutes to reduce sauce. Pour over chicken. 4 servings. Total Time: 25 minutes Preparation Time: 10 minutes Cook Time: 15 minutes

Fruit Filled Papaya

- 2 Del Monte Bananas, sliced
- Lemon juice
- 8 strawberries, halved
- 1 kiwi, peeled, sliced and halved
- 2 Del Monte Papayas, halved and seeded
- 4 Tbsp. orange juice, pineapple juice, almond flavor liqueur or orange flavor liqueur

Moisten banana with lemon juice to prevent browning. Combine fruits; spoon into papaya halves. Just before serving, top each papaya with 1 tablespoon juice or liqueur. 4 servings. Total Time: 15 minutes

Concern Increasing For Latchky Children

Today many children come home from school, not to loving arms and a warm smile, but to an empty dwelling because their parents are at work.

Concern is increasing across the nation for these youngsters, often referred to as "latchkey children."

This growing concern has prompted a national outreach program by the American Home Economics Association and Whirlpool Foundation called Project Home Safe.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, there currently are about 2.1 million latchkey children in this country although some projections are much higher.

In Texas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with the Texas Home Economics Association, is launching a full-scale program directed toward Project Home Safe by training home economists and other concerned individuals.

The initial training effort involves the South Central Texas area, with Dr. Sarah Anderson, Extension family sciences specialist, and Mrs. Irene Keating, Extension district director for South Central Texas, coordinating the training.

A total of 54 individuals are enrolled in the training. Upon completion, each participant will contract to do a minimum of 40 hours of volunteer service by September 1989 to improve the welfare of latchkey children, Anderson said.

"Many latchkey children must take responsibility for their own care," Anderson said. "They do cooking and cleaning and operate major appliances on their own."

A recent study by Whirlpool Corporation found that in 71 percent of all American homes that fit the latchkey category, children under 14 are regularly using major home appliances. In all households with children 14 and under, 56 percent are operating appliances.

"While most home appliances are safe to operate, problems can occur with misuse," Anderson said. "That's a major concern as far as child safety is concerned."

Along with proper use of home appliances, parents must help their children learn other self-care skills, Anderson said, including good use of time, planning and preparation of nutritious snacks, and various emergency procedures.

The training sessions on Project Home Safe are dealing with a wide range of issues and concerns regarding latchkey children and working parents, including emphasis on self-care programs.

"We are particularly concerned about assessing community needs regarding child care programs and how those needs can be addressed through Project Home Safe," Anderson said. "We want to help home economists and other community leaders focus on programs for the growing number of latchkey children."

Project Home Safe offers a nationwide toll-free hot line for professionals, parents and other concerned individuals to call for resources related to both supervised and self-care programs for school age children. That number is 1-800-252-SAFE.

Also, a resource center on school-age child care has been established. Contact: Project Home Safe, 2010 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036-1028.

County Extension agents, through Extension Program Councils, serve each of the state's 254 counties and involve a broadly representative group of citizens in developing programs tailored to meet the needs of the people of that county, said the local county agent.

Tanksley continued, "Involvement of lay leaders in developing and implementing programs enables Extension to reach large numbers of people. At the same time, this process insures that Extension programs are focused on the problems which the people consider most important. It also enables Extension to adjust its programs to meet the changing needs of people, thereby keeping educational efforts current and

State Returns

Mixed Drink Tax Rebate

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Wednesday sent checks totaling $10.8 million to 221 counties and 440 cities that tax mixed drink sales.

The checks represent the counties' and cities' share of the state's 12 percent mixed drink tax collected during the first quarter of 1989.

Bullock said that the state collected $44.9 million in mixed drink taxes for the first quarter, compared to $43.8 million collected during the same period in 1988.

Bailey County received a check for $798.53 on reported taxes of 6,388.21; while the City of Muleshoe's check was for $474.64 on taxes of $3,797.15.

In Cochran County, the check was $99.14, on sales taxes sent in amounting to $793.11.

Littlefield reported taxes of $2,039.22 and received a check for $254.90; while Lamb County got a check for $672.13 on taxes of $5,377.00.

Parmer County's check was the least at $43.58 on reported taxes of $348.60.

Under state law allowing the sale of mixed drinks, Texas cities and counties receive a 12.5 percent share of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries.

Of the total $44.9 million in state collections, counties received more than $5.6 million, up from $5.4 million received in the first quarter of 1988. Cities received more than $5.2 million, slightly up from the $5.1 million received last year during the first quarter. The state's general revenue fund received the balance.

Bullock said $34 million was deposited into the state's general revenue fund from first quarter collections, compared to $33.2 million collected in the first quarter of 1988.

The mixed drink tax is collected by the Alcoholic Beverage Commission. City and county rebates are sent out quarterly by Bullock's office.

Three-Way School Sets Registration

Three Way ISD requests that any family with children that will be four (4) years old by September 1, 1989, inform the district by either coming by the Principal's office or calling 927-5315. The principal said the purpose of this request is to determine the number of pre-kindergarten age children for the 1989-90 school year.

To be eligible for pre-kindergarten, children must be four years old by September 1, 1989 and must be either eligible for limited English proficient or qualify for free lunches. If fifteen or more children are identified as pre-kindergarten age, the program will be offered at Three Way during the 1989-90 school year.

Parents are asked to please inform the Three Way ISD by May 12, 1989.

Three Way School will also have pre-registration for all kindergarten age students on May 16, 1989. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. in the kindergarten room at the school. Students must be five (5) years old by September 1, 1989 to be eligible for kindergarten.

Tanksley explained, "While Extension programs have been most prominent in rural areas over the years, the Extension process is equally effective in urban areas. Modern Extension programs encompass every facet of the total agricultural industry and of family living.

"The ultimate aim of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is to further develop the state's economic and human resources.

"The public is invited to attend the open house at the Bailey County Extension Office in the Bailey County courthouse on Monday, May 8, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.," concluded Tanksley.

Educational programs as conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, serve people of all ages, regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

 "I want to be procrastinated at the next corner," said the passenger to the bus conductor.

"You want to be what?" demanded the conductor.

"Don't lose your temper. I had to look in the dictionary myself before I found out that 'procrastinate' means 'put off.'" hospital gowns which were then donated to the hospital.

She has always been active in her church, and for many years, was part of a quartet, who sang gospel music.

She says her 10 children are "the light of my life."

The AARP award was established to coincide with National Volunteer Week, April 9-15, and to recognize the contributions of thousands of volunteers in nearly 2,600 local units of retired teachers associations and 3,700 AARP chapters nationwide.

Their motto is "To Serve, Not To Be Served."

With more than 30 million members, AARP is the nation's largest organization of Americans age 50 and older. Headquartered in Washington, D. C., the non-profit, non-partisan organization offers a wide range of membership benefits, legislative representation at federal and state levels, and educational and community service programs carried out through a national network of volunteers.

Shame!

"You complain that you have had to support your wife's family?" the court questioned the man seeking a divorce.

"Yes, your honor."

"How much of a family has she?"

"Four children, your honor."

"Who is their father?"

"I am, your honor."

1903 Farm Demonstration Starts Extension Service

In 1903 a unique farm demonstration was established on the Walter C. Porter farm near Terrell, Texas, in Kaufman County by Dr. Seaman A. Knapp, a special agent with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Knapp provided Porter with precise instructions on seed selection, fertilization, planting and cultivation for some 70 acres of corn and cotton.

On May 5, 1965, the National Park Service of the Department of the Interior designated the Porter farm a Registered National Historical Landmark as the place of origin of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The demonstration on the Porter farm was so successful that additional "demonstration agents" were employed -- first in counties along railroads and later in all parts of the state.

W. C. Stallings was the first county agent to serve a single county. He was employed by Smith County in 1906 and was headquartered at Tyler, Texas.

Texas' heritage in the Cooperative Extension Service was enhanced further when County Agent Tom Marks of Jack County organized a "Boys' Corn Club" in 1908, the forerunner of today's 4-H clubs. Currently more than 380,000 Texas youths are active in 4-H.

In 1912, Mrs. Edna W. Trigg was appointed the first county home demonstration agent. She served in Milam County with headquarters at Cameron, Texas.

On May 8, 1914, the U. S. Congress passed the Smith-Lever Act which established a "Cooperative Extension Service" in agriculture, home economics and related subjects as a part of the land-grant university system in each state and territory of the nation.

Taken together, the state Cooperative Extension Services make up the largest system of informal continuing education in the world and have been cited as America's most distinctive contribution to higher education.

The Texas Legislature on Jan. 29, 1915, accepted provisions of the Smith-Lever Act, and the new agency (the Texas Agricultural Extension Service) was assigned to Texas A&M University (the state's land-grant institution) for administration.

A "Memorandum of Understanding" between the (then) Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, approved first in 1915 and revised in 1955, formalized the concept agreement that all off-campus educational programs in agriculture, home economics and related subjects be conducted through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and reciprocally that the USDA conduct educational phases of programs it is authorized by law to conduct in Texas through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Enabling legislation provided for cooperative financial support by three levels of government--federal, state and county; hence the title "Cooperative Extension Service." This arrangement provided incentive to county agents to be responsive to local, state and federal objectives. Direct administration, however, is vested in the land-grant university system of which the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is an integral part.

The unique land-grant university system, with research conducted on a continuing basis by the State Agricultural Experiment Stations and research results being taken to the people by the Cooperative Extension Services, is a major reason why our nation enjoys the most efficient and productive agricultural industry in the world.

DOES IT MAKE YOU WANT TO GO FISHING?--If so, you may want to check with Lee Magby, pictured with a 57 and a 54 pound yellow cat. He said he caught the yellow cats on the same trot line, the same morning at Lake Stamford a couple of weeks ago. He said he set up his line at the Marina, near the barge. (Guest Photo)

Cliff Black's Etchings Are Well - Recognized

(Editor's Note: The following story was written exclusively for The Journal by Linda Rabb, a student in the School of Mass Communication at Texas Tech University, Lubbock. These special articles are made possible through a grant from the Reader's Digest Foundation.)

Although Cliff Black started creating brass etchings about six years ago, his work's popularity might cause one to think he's been doing them for decades.

Black, a lifetime resident of Muleshoe, has made a hobby out of this unique art form.

Black began his hobby after a man in East Texas taught him how to work with metal. He said he thought brass etchings were unusual, so he pursued the art as a career for about two years.

Black's start in brass etchings came along about the time he bought a picture frame manufacturing business. Black said this business allowed him to travel across the country to arts and crafts shows. He estimated that he was gone 40 weekends out of the year.

Unfortunately, the Texas economy turned sour, so Black returned to his job at Barrett's Produce and continued his etchings as a hobby.

"I don't ever want to do it (etchings) for a living; it gets to be something you have to do, not what you want to do," Black said.

Most of his etchings consist of calligraphy verses, windmills and wildlife. Black said eagles are his favorite thing to draw.

The size and detail of the etchings determines the time

Black spends on each one. First, he paints a heavy enamel finish on a sheet of brass. After the enamel has dried, he uses handtools to etch and engrave through the paint and into the brass.

All of Black's etchings are drawn free-hand which takes more time and detail.

"You spend a lot of hours under a real bright light," Black said.

He finally completes his work with frames he has made.

Black said he averaged between 200 to 300 different etchings during the holiday season.

Black sells his work at arts and crafts shows and has developed a large following. Many people seek out Black and make special requests.

Black sells his art at reasonable prices so that more people can enjoy them. He said, "I don't do things for the money; I do things for the enjoyment."

When Black isn't etching, one can find him at Barrett's Produce where he works as an operations manager, making sure everything runs correctly.

Barrett's Produce grows and ships about 250,000 sacks of potatoes each year. Black said this figure is equivalent to 25 million pounds of potatoes.

Having been with Barrett's Produce for 12 years, Black said, "I've always enjoyed my job, because it's a new world every-day."

No matter what he is doing, Black said he lives by one phrase, "Your imagination is your only limitation."

Extension Programs Focused On Education

In the early going, educational programs of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service focused mainly on the state's agricultural industry. While agriculture is still the mainstay of this state agency that was created in 1915, its programs now reach out to a much broader audience. In fact, its objective is to help all Texans achieve a better way of life.

Educational programs of the Extension Service today can generally be categorized as dealing with the following: food and fiber production, natural resources, horticultural products, plant and livestock protection, marketing and management, family and consumer sciences, youth development and community development.

In the broad area of food and fiber production, educational efforts relate to the animal industries such as beef, poultry and swine and to food, feed and fiber crops, including grains and cotton.

Programs in the natural resources area deal with water use and conservation, energy conservation and management, soil conservation, rangeland and forestland management, wildlife and fisheries management, and parks and recreation.

Gardening and landscaping programs as well as the commercial production of horticultural commodities such as fruits and vegetables comprise the bulk of the work in the horticultural area. Current emphasis relates to diversifying agricultural operations with horticultural crops and the value potential of such crops.

Programs in plant and livestock protection span a wide range of audiences as they deal with plant and animal diseases and pests, pesticide application and safety, and Integrated Pest Management (IPM) for major enterprises.

The area of marketing and management includes educational programs for agricultural producers, agribusinesses, small businesses and consumers. Among specific areas of instruction are wholesale and retail food marketing, agribusiness management, rural revitalization, cooperative management, and computer applications in agricultural management and family finances.

Family and consumer sciences programs deal with such areas as family life, nutrition and health, and consumer concerns. Efforts include training for home day-care providers, adult sitters and family caregivers of the elderly. Other issues that are addressed include diet and exercise, wellness at the worksite, nutrition education, food safety, family financial management, home maintenance, and home buying and selling.

Youth development has long been a major program area of the Extension Service. Through the 4-H program supported by a large contingent of volunteer leaders, youth between the ages of 9 (third grade) and 19 learn leadership and life skills to prepare them to be productive citizens and tomorrow's leaders.

Programs in community development relate to economic and business development, assisting community leaders with needs assessments, and continuing education for local government officials.

Senior English Class Writes Family Characterization

Senior English classes were assigned to write a characterization over a family member or friend. Jimmy Cisneros chose to write about his dad, and has given permission to print it in the school paper.

ON FAMILY AFFAIRS

The boy was about nine and this was the day of his second big Boy Scout trip. This was his chance to earn an illustrious badge. He eagerly awaited the arrival of his father, who happened to be on a truck making his family's life easier. The time for departure was close at hand, it was almost 5:00. The boy waited and hoped, but the time just would not slow down. Finally at 5:45 the boy lost all hope. Just then the father walked in and a new flame of hope appeared in the boy's eyes. Then I heard the same words which I heard in my childhood, "I'm too tired right now...I'll make it up to you later." This boy is my brother and the father mine.

My dad shows enthusiasm in everything he does. He is an excellent mechanic and has the family car purring like a content baby kitten. He does not procrastinate. He is out early every summer morning doing something. Often he waters the yard and chops down the unsightly weeds in our back alley. He loves a green yard and knows how to get it and keep it. He even installed a Maytag dishwasher in our home once. Within a few hours he had it down pat. Everything he does is as close to perfection as could be expected from normal man. But he does not always achieve his perfection on the first try.

My brother and I were fighting one day and just then my dad walked in. The situation was simple, I did not spill the Coke on the couch so I didn't think I had to clean it up. We were fighting because the drink just happened to spill on my new clothes. My dad, with his infinite wisdom, implied that since I was the one wearing the evidence it was obvious I had done it. Reluctantly, I cleaned up the mess. Later, my brother admitted to the truth, but due to his stubbornness, he refused to apologize. I guess he felt bad about it later because the next day he apologized; however, Dad never did.

Tessellated: My father is as tessellated as the rainbow itself. He concerns himself in our life decisions. When I enlisted in the U.S. Navy, my father went down to the recruiting office and made sure I got the best deal. When it comes to school he always makes sure we do our best and tells us stories of his hard luck when he did not finish school. He also reminds us that we are very lucky. "There are people in boxes." He tells us about people he sees while on the road. My father risks his health for the betterment of his family. He moved a storage house all by himself once. He was determined to get it in our back yard. (The storage house was once an old farm hand house.) Well, as sure as the sun shines, he got it here and began to unload it. In the process he hurt his back and was in the hospital for about two days. Like a stubborn mule, he finished the job as soon as he got home.

My dad's compassion runs much deeper than I first thought. I left home for the first time and went to band camp. While there I met this girl and I guess you could say one thing lead to another and I fell in "love." When it came time for her to leave she broke my heart. I felt like a new born baby. I cried so much but dad helped me out and with time I got over it. This was the first time I remember feeling comforted by my father. He understands fad or phases teenagers go through as well. I once wore a shirt that was green, blue and yellow. This shirt put the "U" in ugly. My father commented on how tacky it looked, but I thought he didn't know anything. My friends also commented on my shirt and Dad was right, again.

In my world I must find excitement and adventure and my boundaries are far reaching. In all of this adventure I must often return to my natural environment. Like the flying fish, I can only stay out of water for so long before I must return. They say the world is 2/3 water and the only thing holding me back is that 1/3 of land which I can never see. Every leap I take out of water is the search for adventure. I must stay within my boundaries for if I left I would surely die without family, friends, and, of course, my father. But sooner or later the fish will take the last leap onto land and find that without water and its natural environment he too will die.

My life can be measured by family and friends. My father's can be measured by material goods and wealth. I earn my respect by giving respect. My father earns his through wealth and prosperity. It is not difficult to see why my father and I are like the sun and the moon. I, like the moon, could not shine without the warm soothing rays of my father.

Through this I found adventure can lead to death, by leaving my natural environment I can only hope that the water will wash up and bring me back home to family, friends, and best of all, to my parents.

DECA-HERO Cook-Out

DECA-HERO Employer-Employee Appreciation Cook-Out Held

Muleshoe High School DECA and HERO students honored their employer Tuesday night, April 18 with a cook-out and evening of recognition and fellowship. Approximately one hundred students, employers and families were in attendance.

Following the meal, Mrs. Lola Pylant, DECA sponsor presented the outstanding DECA award to Raymond Martinez, and Outstanding Marketing Education to Carrol Copley, DECA's scholarship went to Shelly Berry and the DECA Diamond winner was awarded to Richard Ring.

Mrs. Linda Tanksley, HERO sponsor presented awards to her students including: Justine Hanes was the recipient of the Outstanding HECE student award, Claudia Posadas was awarded the Outstanding HERO Club member, and Jermy Carpenter received the HERO Scholarship.

Games including softball, volleyball, and horseshoes followed the awards session. For all the evening was enjoyed by all that attended.

FHA/HERO State Convention

By Justine Hanes

Mrs. Linda Tanksley and four of her students, Justine Hanes, JoAnn Gutierrez, Claudia Posada, and Tessa Akens, traveled to Houston for the 1989 FHA/HERO State Convention. The girls shared a charter TNM&O bus to Houston, along with eight other schools. Thursday began very early, at 3:30 a.m. the group met at the school and traveled to Littlefield to meet the bus.

On the way to Houston the bus stopped at the Blue Bell Creamery in Breanham, TX. Tour guides from the creamery gave tours of the plant and the students got a real taste of the wonderful Blue Bell ice cream. Students bought souvenirs from the gift shop there and then were back on the road again.

The skyscrapers broadened the horizon and Houston was in full view. We arrived at the downtown Holiday Inn at 6 p.m. We unloaded the bus and checked into our rooms. After freshening up a little, we were off to the Galleria for an evening of the rich and famous. The Galleria was filled with wonderful sights, sounds, and glorious smells. Some of the more daring group tested their skills at the ice skating rink.

Friday brought the competition of Star Events. My morning started early with an orientation for the contestants. The rest of the group spent the day at the Johnson Space Center. That evening began with Lights, Camera, Action and the first general session was in the making. Throughout all of our meetings we had exciting and interesting guest speakers that spoke on such things as positive self images, teenage pregnancy, and drugs and alcohol. After the meeting it was Dance Fever time. All of the students went to the dance and some competed in the dance and contest.

Saturday morning was the second general session and then the students enjoyed a country style barbeque on the lawn and entertainment was provided by a live band. The International Arts Festival was also in Houston that weekend and so during our afternoon break we attended the event. This year's theme centered on the French Revolution. Many of the French customs and art works were exhibited. A real gullotine was set up and actors portrayed an execution.

The evening brought forth the final session and the awards assembly. The moment that I had definitely been waiting for finally arrived with the announcement of the Job Application/Job Specific winners. "Justine Hanes" was called and I had placed sixth in the state of Texas. After the awards the final event was the installation of new officers. We loaded the bus around 9:30 p.m. for our long bus ride home. The ride home was restful as for almost everyone slept all the way. We arrived in Muleshoe at 10:00 a.m. Sunday morning very weary but happy due to such an exciting and eventful weekend.

standing accomplishment for Carrol and for Muleshoe High School. A follow-up article will appear later.

These national competitions focus on marketing and management skills as taught as part of the student's local Marketing Education classes and Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) chapter activities. They are judged by business people from major U.S. corporations. The skills tested are those identified as critical by the business community.

More than 10,000 DECA members and 1000 business executives participated in the conference.

More than $100,000 in stock awards, scholarships, and stock awards were provided by the more than 60 major U.S. corporations and associations supporting DECA activities by serving on its National Advisory Board. These business leaders view DECA as an opportunity to work directly with the education community, expanding understanding and appreciation of the Free Enterprise System among today's youth.

Gordon Green Named Citizen Of The Month

Recognition of the April Citizen of the Month and the selection of the new 1989-90 members were top priority at the Student Community Action Club meeting. The meeting was held Tuesday, April 19, 1989 at the Old Corral Restaurant. The breakfast meeting began by Mary Lou Bastardo leading a prayer. Lisa Noble read the minutes of the March meeting. Amy Montgomery gave the treasurer's report which was approximately $300. She also announced that the club had raised $269 through basketball concession stands.

Gordon "Corkey" Green, the Citizen of the Month was introduced by his daughter, Amber. He was presented a white boutonniere by Debbie Brown. The club members asked Mr. Green to tell about his interesting career in law. Mr. Green was born in Muleshoe, graduated from Muleshoe High School in 1964, and went on to attend the school which is now the University of Texas at El Paso. Mr. Green had not originally planned on becoming a lawyer, but he went on to graduate from the law school at the University of Houston. He first began practicing law in 1971. He has served his hometown community well, as county attorney and county judge. He currently is a general law practitioner. He is a big supporter of the school and community. For several years he has assisted, government teacher and mock trial sponsor, Mrs. Jean Allison, with the mock trial teams. SCAC would like to thank Mr. Gordon Green for his outstanding service to Muleshoe and surrounding area.

Christy Mata recognized and thanked the fourteen SCAC members who worked at the Janes' Ranch House on April 11. The next order of business was the selection of next years members. Interested students had completed questionnaires which were then reviewed by the current officers. Nominations were made at the meeting. Twenty-three nominations were voted on and accepted. The nomination committee was impressed by the questionnaires but regrets that a limited number of membership places can be filled. The new members will be informed by invitations to the new member party-cookout. The party-cookout will be held May 16 at the home of Lisa Noble.

'Visions'

Time, memories, and ideas pass through my mind as if I were on a merry-go-round. I can see them yet when I reach to touch them I can not feel them. I feel as if I am trapped within a glass bubble that can not be broken. I am able to hear and see things but yet not able to understand and grasp things that I want so dearly to keep. My mind swirls in the endless sea of thoughts and I feel that if I am not pulled out soon I will drown within.

I sit bobbing up and down, up and down in the college when suddenly another gush of thoughts rush in on top of me.

'Time'

Time, thoughts, and memories often ramble through our heads leaving our emotions in darkness. Many teenagers of today are faced with pressures and problems that today's society must face in order to survive. Teens not only have to face the pressures of fitting in with the "right" group but also the "right" clothes to wear, the "right" way to act, and the "right" decisions to make.

My editorial "Visions" focuses on the feelings and thoughts that I have experienced with such pressures in my life. Eventhough the darkness may seem unbearable at times I know that I can survive through the ability, willingness and desire I have to succeed in my life and through the faith I have in Christ.

Time and issues sometimes become a dark hole in the minds of today's teenagers. Each is faced with so many decisions and pressures. Common concepts become a huge weight on the shoulders of teens. Pressures not only to do the right thing but also to be in the "right" group and to have the "right" clothes and to act the "right" way become a continuous nightmare. In my editorial, "Visions" I focus on the darkness that is shared by teens of today in some circumstances.

gagging my senses. I suddenly come back to my original senses and glance at my watch; the hands that should normally be there are gone. What is this deadly trap that I have been sucked into? In this phase is there no time?

I grow frantic after a short while and begin kicking and fighting in hopes to save my mind. I kick continuously for what seems to be hours without any success. I pray to God to give strength enough to pull myself out of this disaster. I decide that I can not take it anymore and give up. I let my feet sink to the bottom and they mysteriously find the land beneath. I stand and walk out of the sea of despair as I walk I notice that I am dripping from head to toe. A gust of wind crosses my face and I begin to shiver with cold. I stumble dumbly in the darkness searching desperately for each step before me. My glass bubble has become ice cold and filled with the darkness of death. I no longer can envision ideas and concepts.

I feel the deep pulling of my heart as if it too has reached death. My senses are so disoriented that I can no longer distinguish whether my eyes are closed with darkness or opened to darkness. Darkness: cold, wet, despair, death, darkness...

Good Fruit Harvest Depends On Caring

With a good fruit crop in the making, growers need to take precautions against insect and disease problems.

Timely spraying is necessary to assure that the fruit crop develops to maturity, reasonably free of blemishes, said Spencer Tanksley, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. This means a diligent, season-long effort.

Here are spraying guidelines for various fruit crops.

—Peaches, plums, nectarines and apricots: Main pests are the plum curculio, which causes wormy fruit, and catfacing insects (stink bugs and leaf-footed plant bugs), which cause misshapen fruit and oozing puncture wounds.

Scab is the chief disease problem. It causes freckle-like spots that are unsightly but that do not affect fruit quality.

To control these problems, spray every 10-14 days with a mix of diazinon 25 percent EC (2 tsp. per gal.) and benomyl 50 percent WP (1 tsp. per gal.).

—Apples and pears: Black rot is a major disease problem on

Mildred Standefer Graveside Services Held At Morton

Graveside services for Mildred Lee Standefer, 82, of Washington were conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday, May 3 in Morton Memorial Cemetery with the Rev. Dale Hartley, pastor of the First Missionary Baptist Church of Morton, officiating.

Burial was under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home of Morton. Mrs. Standefer died at 1:45 a.m. Monday in Spokane, Washington.

Born Aug. 23, 1906, in Eldorado, she had been a resident of Ford, Washington since 1986, having previously lived in Lovington, N.M., Morton and Bledsoe area from 1932 to 1972. Her husband, Tom Standefer, died in 1972.

Survivors include a brother, Robert L. Scott of Ford, Washington and several nieces and nephews.

apples, and spraying with Captan must begin even before blooming. The problem is characterized by brownish-black spots that begin small and quickly expand. Fruit becomes brown and mushy beneath the spots.

Insect pests are the same as those attacking peaches, plus aphids and the codling moth, all of which cause damage early in the season. The codling moth is the major cause of wormy apples.

Another problem with apples is cork spot, which is caused by calcium deficiency. The disorder shows as small greenish depressions on the fruit surface, with the fruit beneath the depression becoming brown, firm and corky. The problem is associated with early season water stress, excessive tree vigor and poor nutrition. Deep watering plus mulching will help reduce the problem. In serious cases, apply at least three sprays of calcium chloride or calcium nitrate at 10-14-day intervals beginning two weeks after bloom.

For a good apple spray, mix Captan (3 tsp. per gal.), diazinon 25 percent EC (2 tsp. per gal.) and calcium nitrate (3 tsp. per gal.). Spray with Captan now and add diazinon and calcium after bloom. Spray the mix every 10-14 days in April and May. Omit the calcium if cork spot has not been a problem.

The same spray mix for apples can be used for pears, but many pear trees also have a serious problem with fire blight, a bacterial disease. Spray pear trees with a fire blight problem with Kocide 101 or Agristrep at weekly intervals through the bloom period. Trees that have had a severe problem with fire blight should be destroyed since they can infect other nearby pear and apple trees.

Fruit growers can get more detailed information on controlling diseases and insects from the publication, "Homeowners Fruit and Nut Spray Schedule," available at the county extension office, Tanksley said.

Caprock Officers Plan Annual Snake Hunt

On Thursday, May 11, the sound of gunfire will echo again through the rolling hills surrounding old Clairemont, home of the Caprock Peace Officers Association.

The occasion will be the 41st Annual Peace Officers Meeting and Rattlesnake Rodeo.

This year's event is dedicated to Johnnie Holbrooks, Lake Ranger for White River Municipal Water District in southeast Crosby County. He has served his community for 16 years, and has been an officer in the Caprock Peace Officers Association for 15 years.

Directors of the Association express their hope for a record crowd this year. Guests and visitors are welcome and are eligible to compete in the Rattlesnake Shoot in a special group reserved for visitors and guests only. The officers and directors of the Association extend a sincere welcome to come and observe and participate in the day's activities.

As in the past, the highlights of Rodeo will be the Rattlesnake Shoot, for trophies and prizes. Top prize for this year's winner will be another $150.00 pair of boots.

Another event which certainly draws attention each year is the riot-gun trapshoot, in which riot-guns are furnished by and through the Association. Also there is to be horseshoe pitching contests.

Registration begins at 9 a.m., which includes a membership card, an Association decal, and a barbecue dinner. The shooting competition is to begin at 10 a.m.

Other officers from Crosby County serving as Officers and Directors of the Association are: Sheriff Red Riley-Vice President, Deputy Jimmy Isbell-Director, Deputy Stanley Hash-Director, Texas Highway Patrol Sgt. Glenn Fant-Director, Texas Highway Patrolman Robert Bybee-Director, Ralls Chief of Police L.T. Starkey-Director, and Lorezo Chief of Police S.E. Braly-Director.

TDH Stops Illegal Sale Of Peroxide

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) has warned that a highly concentrated solution of hydrogen peroxide, illegally sold as a treatment for numerous ailments, including AIDS and cancer, can be extremely dangerous, even lethal, to the user.

TDH stopped sale of the solution in February, after learning that at least one death and several severe injuries were linked to the product.

Sold in health food stores and through direct mail in Texas, the solution often has been labeled, "35 Percent Food Grade Hydrogen Peroxide," "Biowater," or "H202," although TDH officials said some retailers may be substituting other labels. Similar products have been found for sale in other states.

Ken Davis, chief investigator for the TDH Food and Drug Division, said, "The products we embargoed were repackaged in Brownsville from larger quantities brought in from Mexico. The company, called 'LIGH202-USE' was distributing the solution in gallons, quarts, pints-down to four-ounce bottles with medicine droppers."

According to the literature the manufactures included with the product, the solution is useful against more than 60 illness and disorders. "But the truth about this concentration of hydrogen peroxide is that it is about as caustic as lye. No one should consider ingesting this solution any more than they should drink drain cleaner," Davis said.

Davis said that although there are no warnings on the label about the dangers even of handling the product, "One of our people had serious burns on his hand after handling a leaky sample of H202."

Davis advised anyone who has purchased hydrogen peroxide in a higher concentration than the common three percent solution recommended as a disinfectant should return the product to the store where it was sold.

"I would recommend that people who have this 35 percent concentration in their homes should handle the stuff only with rubber gloves, and seal it in a strong plastic bag before transporting it," he said.
