CAP Squadron to Plan Tonight for Statewide Search-Rescue Mission

Extensive plans for the participation of the Artesia squadron of the Civil Air Patrol next Saturday and Sunday in a statewide maneuver as part of a nationwide operation of SARCAP—Search and Rescue—Civil Air Patrol are to be made at an important meeting of the squadron at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Artesia municipal airport, it was announced by Maj. Mervon Worley, commanding officer.

He said the two-day operation by the squadron and other units of the New Mexico CAP wing will include problems involving two or more search targets within the state.

Major Worley said the mission is to be a joint training operation of search and rescue teams of the Air Force and CAP.

Squadrons will be rated by Air Force observers on efficiency and completeness of operation.

The local commanding officer said each squadron in the state is to be assigned an area out of a larger predesignated area in which to search. The area assigned to the Artesia squadron by the New Mexico wing headquarters covers more than 4000 square miles.

Major Worley said all available members of the CAP will be needed for the operation.

He explained that SARCAP will be alerted by the CAP by radio or telephone and that the entire communications facilities of the New Mexico CAP wing will be put into use.

First Lt. Bob Ehle, operations officer, and First Lt. Herman Fuchs, assistant, will be in charge of operations, while First Lts. William C. White and Ernest C. Morgan, will be co-ordinators.

Staking of Three Deep Tests Mark Observance 'Oil Progress Week'

Coincidental with the observance of "Oil Progress Week" throughout the nation this week, it has been disclosed here that three new tests are to be drilled in this area in the near future, at least two to the granite, with hopes it may bring more oil progress for Artesia.

At the same time announcement was made of the completion of two producing oil wells and the staking of five new locations in the Eddy County fields.

The three tests are to be widely scattered, one northeast of Artesia, one west of Hope, and one at Texas Hill in the foot hills of the Guadalupe Mountains southwest of Lake McMillan. The first and third are contemplated by Continental Oil Company and the other by Magnolia Petroleum Company.

The Continental well northeast of Artesia is to be on the Diamond Mound Unit in NE NE 11-16-27. It is to be a granite test and should go down 8500 to 9000 feet, it was understood. Operations on this well probably will start before the first of the year.

Drilling of the other Continental wildcat is likely to start sooner, for a contract for roads has been let.

It will be drilled on a surface anticline at Texas Hill in SE SE 5-22-21. This will be a 7000 to 8000-foot granite test, it was learned.

The Magnolia test will be on the Black Hills anticline, also surface, not a great distance from a wildcat drilled in that area by the same company in 1947. The exact location was not learned.

This will be a 5100-foot test, which should put the bit in the Fusselman formation.

It was understood the contract for the drilling has been let and that operations should start within the next month.

Wells completed in the Eddy County oil fields the last week: Nunn & Geiser, Hastie 8, SE NW 18-17-28; total depth 552 feet; flowed 50 barrels of oil per day, after acid.

Travis & Featherstone, Travis 1, SW SE 12-17-27; total depth 440 feet; pumped 25 barrels of oil per day.

New locations: American Republics Corp., Robinson 28-X, SE SW 27-17-29; Travis & Featherstone, Travis 2, SE SE 12-17-27; Nunn & Geiser, Hastie 9, SW NW 18-17-28; Beddingfield & Featherstone, Brooks 16, NW NW 19-17-28; Skelly Oil Co., Dow 20-B, NW NE 21-17-31.

Watch for Prowlers,
Prowlers

Because of numerous cases of petty larceny from motor vehicles and prowling in cities throughout Southeast New Mexico, Artesia Police Chief Earl D. Westfall on Monday urged the co-operation of citizens of this community in avoiding the experiences of some of the other cities.

He said the Police Department urgently requests that all motorists take proper precautions in safeguarding their cars and contents at night, by making sure they are locked. If possible, he said, they should be parked close to windows or in locked garages.

In case of prowlers or unnecessary noise, or on suspicion there may be prowlers, Chief Westfall asked that police headquarters be called at once.

He said when there are prowlers or thieves are pilfering and they are detected, one should make his way as quietly to the telephone, without turning on any lights, and quietly call 198, police headquarters.

If this is done, the chief said, officers in patrol cars, who cannot be everywhere at once, may have a chance to catch the prowlers.

Bulldogs All Eligible for Cruces Game

All members of the Artesia High School Bulldog varsity team are eligible and will be eligible to play against Las Cruces Friday night.

So said T. Stovall, principal, Monday, thus scotching a groundless rumor which was gaining headway in Artesia that day.

He said that under the rules of the New Mexico Athletic Association, eligibility of every player must be checked weekly, and that the eligibility list must be mailed in. The Artesia list is always mailed in on Saturday or Monday.

Explaining further, Principal Stovall said that a player is permitted to be failing in one out of four solids and remain eligible the next week, but that if he is failing in two, he automatically becomes ineligible.

This system works on a weekly basis, the principal said. Thus, if a player becomes ineligible one week, it is possible he may have brought his grades up the next week to where he is eligible.

But at this time, all of the Bulldogs are eligible and will be on the job Friday night.

Forget-Me-Not
Day Proclaimed
By Mayor Roberts

Artesia residents were asked to observe Disabled American Veterans "Forget-Me-Not Day" on Saturday, Oct. 21, in a proclamation issued Monday by Mayor Oren C. Roberts.

The proclamation urged the purchase of forget-me-nots, blue flowers of remembrance, that will be sold on that day on the city's streets.

Funds realized from the sale will be used by Donald S. Simons Chapter 19 in its local welfare work among disabled veterans and their dependents. All of the money will be used in the D.A.V. work in Artesia and New Mexico.

In his proclamation, Mayor Roberts said:

"Numbers of disabled veterans and their families often find themselves in temporary financial distress.

"This emergency arises because a disabled veteran has as yet not had his claim for government benefits approved by the Veterans Administration.

"Other disabled veterans who are partially disabled sometimes find their illness or handicap a barrier from full time employment."

The mayor commended the D.A.V. for providing this much needed emergency welfare service to the disabled veterans and their families.

He asked all citizens, interested groups and societies to participate in the day.

Plans for "Forget-Me-Not Day" are being formulated under the direction of L. A. Wittkopf and Wade Cunningham, chairmen.

Mayor Roberts' proclamation: Whereas, numbers of disabled veterans and their families often find themselves in temporary financial distress; and

Whereas, this emergency arises because a disabled veteran has as yet not had his claim for government benefits approved by the Veterans Administration; and

Whereas, disabled veterans who are partially disabled sometimes find their illness or handicap a barrier from full time employment; and

Whereas, the Disabled American Veterans, chartered by Congress as the official voice of the nation's wartime disabled veterans, is to be commended for providing much needed emergency welfare assistance to disabled veterans and their families; and

Whereas, in addition to its welfare.

Carlsbad Man Is Fatally Injured
South of Here

David C. Parker, 29, of Carlsbad, was fatally injured about 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon 14 miles south of Artesia, when his car overturned.

He died at 6:20 o'clock Saturday evening in Artesia General Hospital, where he was brought in the Paulin Funeral Home ambulance.

State Police Patrolman Bill Lewis of Carlsbad, who investigated the accident, said evidence at the scene indicated Mr. Parker lost control of the car when it left Highway 285 about two miles north of the Moutray Brothers farm.

The patrolman said the car traveled 520 feet after it left the highway and turned over four and a half times, indicating it was being driven at a fast rate of speed.

Forrest Lee, special deputy sheriff at Lakewood, who was the first officer to reach the scene, told Patrolman Lewis Mr. Parker was lying alongside the car when he arrived, but was not certain whether he had been thrown out or had been removed by someone there ahead of him. He was alone.

Death was believed to have been from internal injuries.

Patrolman Lewis said the Parker car was demolished.

Mr. Parker was a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Parker of Carlsbad.

Funeral arrangements were pending in Carlsbad.

Collegians Discover Crash
Miss Jacobs Writes of Find

Some days ago press dispatches from Kansas City told of the finding of a wrecked twin-engine Cessna and the bodies of a man and woman in a densely-wooded area adjoining the campus of Park College, Parkville, Mo., by five Park Students, one of whom was Miss Mary Jo Jacobs, 20-year-old senior from Artesia.

Now Miss Jacobs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jacobs, have received from their daughter the complete news story as related in The Kansas City Star for Oct. 9 and a letter giving further details.

The Star's account tells of the finding of the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford H. Hand of Kansas City, who had been missing since the night of Aug. 13, when they had left Amarillo, Texas, for Kansas City, a flight ordinarily taking a plane a matter of three and a half hours.

When Mr. and Mrs. Hand did not arrive, an extensive search extending to Sept. 11 was made for the missing plane and its occupants.

But it was not until Oct. 6 that the original discovery was made which led to the finding of the wreckage and bodies three days later on Oct. 9.

Miss Jacobs in her letter to her parents and The Star related that on Oct. 6 Miss Rosemary Haynes of Joplin, Mo., a senior was walking alone about a mile east of the main campus of Park College, when she came upon part of the wreckage.

The new rule cuts out farm employees. Upon application a training program can be set up adapted to fit the farmer's situation in regard to acreage and type of livestock.

'National Business Women's Week' Being Observed Throughout Nation

More than 150,000 women all over the United States and territories are united in thought during this week, "National Business Women's Week," which has become a nationwide institution and is now celebrated simultaneously in every one of the 48 states, District of Columbia, Hawaii and Alaska by 2500 Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

It is observed each year in October to pay tribute to the accomplishments of business and professional women. The president of the United States, governors and mayors, officials and businessmen pay tribute to the federation and its service to the community, state and nation.

President Harry S. Truman, in a letter of praise and encouragement for "National Business Women's Week," sent to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., on their 23rd anniversary of this occasion, commended members for their theme, "Measure Up for Full Partnership."

"I know that the members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs wish to be judged on the basis of competence in doing their jobs," his message said. "They do not wish to be the objects of adverse discrimination or the subjects of special favoritism because of their sex."

"I am happy to give encouragement to the theme, 'Measure Up for Full Partnership,' which you have chosen for 'National Business Women's Week.' I believe that the steps which lead to success on the job are basically the same for both men and women. The most successful men and women I know have set their goals high and have worked hard toward them. Successful people know that creative imagination as well as technical ability is necessary to adequate preparation for real partnership in the world's work.

"I am glad that American women are rising to their opportunities for work in business and the professions. Their participation in the activities of offices, conference rooms and legislative halls is good for the country. I am sure that the members of your organization will be increasingly successful in the everyday job of living up to your theme for 1950."

"National Business Women's Week" was conceived by Miss Emma Dot Partridge, executive secretary of the national federation from 1924-1927, to call attention to the achievements of women in business and professions and to give the community at large an opportunity to become acquainted with program of the national federation.

Dr. Kathryn Behnke, Mrs. C. L. Stogner, Mrs. Lola Woods and Mrs. Drew Davis, members of the Artesia club were to attend a dinner Monday night at Roswell, with Mrs. Hattie McCrary of Wingate, president of New Mexico Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, addressing the group on "Measure Up for Full Partnership."

The Artesia club will sponsor a radio program, the time to be announced later.

Plan Membership Campaign By AL Auxiliary

Increased strength for greater service to America and to those who have defended the nation will be sought by the American Legion Auxiliary in a membership campaign beginning Nov. 1, it has been announced by Mrs. Ralph Rogers, president of Clarence Kepple Unit 41.

An invitation to come into the auxiliary and take part in its activities during the coming year will be extended to all eligible women, Mrs. Rogers said. Eligible for membership are wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of American Legion members or of deceased veterans of either World War, and women who themselves were in war service.

The campaign will be directed by Mrs. Earl Darst, unit membership chairman, assisted by the other members of the membership committee, Mrs. L. E. Francis, Mrs. John Lively, and Mrs. Calvin Dunn.

"We believe that at this time all women of war-service families want to serve actively for our country and its defenders," said Mrs. Darst.

"In the American Legion Auxiliary we can offer them opportunity for effective service in many fields. We are well organized and already in action. Nearly one million women already are serving in the auxiliary's 13,500 units throughout the country. But the situation today calls for even greater strength. We have places for two million women in our work. Every woman who joins gives us that much more strength to carry out our activities for the security of American and for the welfare of our war veterans and their families."

Other guests present were Louis Gill, Thomas and Jimmy Tucker, and Zaida, Wayne and Donna Gray.

Old English festivals were called "ales" whenever ale was the chief drink used, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

State President Paton Reports On National AL Auxiliary Convention

Mrs. H. R. Paton of Artesia, New Mexico department of the American Legion Auxiliary, New Mexico, returned Saturday night from Los Angeles, Calif., where she attended the national convention of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary, Oct. 9-12.

On Sunday, Oct. 8, Mrs. Paton and several hundred legion and auxiliary members were guests at the First Methodist Church in downtown Los Angeles, the largest Methodist Church in the West. National Commander George N. Craig, Brazil, Ind., was guest speaker, taking "Faith," as his message. After the services, Dr. J. Richard Sneed, pastor and members of the church were hosts at a silver tea for the guests.

The American Legion Auxiliary national convention was called to order Monday morning by the national president, Mrs. Norman L. Seehe of Rockford, Ill. In the beautiful dining room of the Ambassador Hotel, Hollywood, national headquarters for the auxiliary, about 3000 delegates answered roll call by states.

Mrs. Paton said the most outstanding event of the convention was the states dinner held in the famous Cocoanut Grove, Hollywood with Actress Dorothy Lamour as toastmistress.

On Tuesday, one of the largest parades in the history got underway with the legion members of World Wars I and II parading for five and a half hours, with sad hearts while their buddies of War III were fighting. Mrs. Paton said, Mrs. Wallis Reed of Enid, Okla. was elected to serve as national president of the American Legion Auxiliary for 1950-51.

Earl Cocke, Jr., of Dawson, Ga., 25-year-old World War II hero, was named national commander of the American Legion. In his acceptance speech he demanded a shake-up in the State Department.

Commander Cocke is making a tour of the states on membership, as the legion and auxiliary in these critical days of war must have strength, Mrs. Paton said.

Commander Cocke plans to make two stops in New Mexico, at Albuquerque on Oct. 23 and Santa Fe on Oct. 24, where he is to be guest speaker at a banquet in his honor at La Fonda Hotel.

All legionnaires and auxiliary members are requested to attend the Santa Fe meeting and friends of the legion are invited as guests to hear National Commander Cocke Mrs. Paton announced.

Mrs. Paton said this was one of the outstanding national conventions of the American Legion Auxiliary, having attended the national conventions in 1947 in New York City, in 1948 in Miami, Fla., and in 1949 in Philadelphia.

The governor of Florida spoke to the joint meeting of the legion and auxiliary at the legion headquarters held in the beautiful Shrine Temple in Los Angeles and invited the legion to hold its 1951 national convention in Miami, which was accepted by the delegates.

Mrs. Paton said the slogan for

Bulldogs Mobilize For Mid-Season Classic Against Las Cruces

Dona Ana County Gridsters Dig in to Repulse Invasion

An Artesia eleven that reversed the procedure of being a second half team to win over Alamogordo 20 to 7, scoring in the first and third periods, will settle down to tough practice this week as the schedule hits the half-way mark.

While the Bulldogs were defeating the strong Class B team from Otero County, another brand of Bulldogs, those of Las Cruces, were having all they could handle in tying Cathedral of El Paso, 12-12.

At 8 o'clock Friday night, Oct. 20, the Bulldogs of Artesia clash with the Bulldogs of Las Cruces on Quesenberry Field at New Mexico A. & M. College. Stadium capacity is 6500.

Last year the Artesia team whipped the Dona Ana county eleven 14 to 7. Las Cruces is primed for the game and their Bulldogs are eager to strut their stuff against the invaders from Eddy before the Las Cruces folks in the big-time stadium.

The trip will be the longest of the season for the Artesia team, 178 miles. Coach Timson's aggression is to leave here late Friday morning for the trip, traveling in a chartered bus.

To date the Artesia team has scored 174 points to its opponents 35 in six games played to date, is undefeated and untied. Las Cruces likewise is undefeated, but has the tie with Cathedral to dim its record.

After the battle on Quesenberry Field the Bulldogs come home for a three-series stand on Morris Field against St. Mary of Albuquerque, Thomas Jefferson of El Paso, and the always powerful Eunice Cardinals.

Biggest threats of the season, Carlsbad and Hobbs, will be played on foreign gridrons, Nov. 17 and Nov. 23, respectively.

Tigers Were Tough

Although the Bulldogs outgained the Tigers on the ground and in the air, the Alamogordo team tackled hard and furiously and gave the Artesia team more trouble than the score indicates.

The Tigers, given the break of a few recovered fumbles, could have whipped the Artesia team, but the breaks didn't come. Artesia got off to a quick start with a pair of touchdowns in the first period that boosted Bulldog morale to a new high.

Gallant Doyle Cole, still not fully recovered from a leg and knee injury, was one of Artesia's standouts in the game.

He scored the Bulldogs final tally, broke up three Tiger passes, stopped Bobby Lee after the latter's 65-yard dash. Cole also was goalward bound and in the clear for a second touchdown when his leg seemed to weaken, making him an easy target for a Tiger tackle.

Joe Harbert, who can handle a football like a baseball, was the passer on all three of Artesia's markers. Bill Brown was the receiver on the first, Bobby Morgan, an all-state caliber end on the second, and Cole on the final.

The Bulldogs second touchdown was set up by recovery of a fumble on the Alamogordo 34.

Another fumble accounted for the setup of the Tigers lone touchdown, when, in the fourth period, Cedillos recovered Herb Traveno's fumble on the Artesia 25.

A pass, taken by Henderson, netted the invaders 20 yards. Some plays later Lee, 142-pound back, sprinted for 65 yards and was stopped from making a touchdown by Cole.

But the Tigers came back, pounded their way to within two feet of the Artesia goal, and this time Lee got to paydirt with B. Garcia adding the extra point. Sonny Garner made the Artesia conversions.

The game was played at 8 o'clock Friday night, Oct. 13, on Morris Field here.

Warriors Defeat Artesia B, 20-2
Artesia B lost its third game in four starts here Saturday night when the Ruidoso Warriors, an A outfit, swamped the locals, 20 to 2.

The Artesia team scored early in the game. On the first play after kickoff the Warriors were deep in their own territory. A low pass from center got loose and an alert Artesia player fell on it for Artesia's lone marker.

Late in the third quarter the Artesia team battled its way to the Ruidoso 2 but were held by Ruidoso.

The win was the sixth straight for the Warriors.

Model T Tosses Two Mile Pass

More than two miles of passes good for 50 touchdowns. That is the passing record of John (Model T) Ford, Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy quarterback, who has completed 221 passes good for 2.13 miles over the last two years and through the first four games of 1950.

The Model T, 5 feet 8, 160 pound owner of an all-time record for 26 touchdown passes in the 1949, season, cranked out his 50th touchdown Oct. 1 against the University of Arizona Wildcats.

Ford is well ahead of his 1949 passing record. In four games this year, the Model T has cranked out 29 passes in 61 tries for 502 yards and five touchdowns.

In the first four games of last season, Ford, who has made the All-Border Conference team twice, completed 19 out of 37 passes for 330 yards and five touchdowns.

Ford completed 94 passes out of 163 in 1948 for 1,364 yards and 19 touchdowns. Fifteen of the Model T's passes resulted in tying a national mark of five touchdown passes in one game. He completed five TD tosses against Wichita, Loyola (Los Angeles) and Trinity (Texas).

Athletic Association Ends Search To Identify Gridiron's Mystery Men

Morris W. Ward, secretary of New Mexico High School Athletic Association, Box 1268, Roswell, has come through with a register of the 1950-51 certified football officials, just as he promised.

Thanks, Secretary Ward. It is with joy that I can now find out the first name and College of the Smith, Jones, Brown, and White, who heretofore have been men of mystery.

The roster lists the officials by districts, name, in most cases their college, and their mailing address. It is contained in four single-spaced mimeographed pages.

Most of the officials are from New Mexico but there are some from as far away as Trinidad, Colo., and Kermit, Texas. In all there are 158 names on the list, 22 of them for District 5, comprised of Artesia, Carlsbad, Roswell, and New Mexico Military, all in Class A; none in Class B; and Captain, Carrizozo, and Ruidoso in Class C.

Here are the District 5 officials: Noble M. Armstrong, Sam Houston Teachers, Box 217, Roswell; Ray Barton, New Mexico, Dunlap; William S. Bennett, Northwest Missouri, Box 1113, Artesia; Robert L. Brewington, Vanderbilt, 806 1/2 South Richardson, Roswell.

scoreboard button-pushing Miller, the other a husky brown-suited man back of the radio boys.

Learned the identity of the man who operates the miniature pancake size record player, who introduced himself to me. He is O. R. Loving, Lions Club member, who kindly gave me a lift back to town after the game.

Bill Keys (and this time I put in the correct and final letter) was going full blast at the mike and Fritz Crawford was keeping his engineer-sharp stats. Bob Meeker was there on the engineering stint for KSPV.

From out of town was R. L. Westfall, Alamogordo elementary school principal, who said 350 from the Otero capital had come over for the game. Pot Bert, Advocate editor was in the box and before the game started Shirley Hagar and T. Stovall, high school principal, made the rounds.

On the perch underneath the press box were the radio men of KALG, Alamogordo. Never did I learn their names.

Miller pointed out to me a bird nest in corner of the subway I hadn't noticed before. Also saw on the table some copy paper I had loaned out to the p. a. the week before, with the same scribbled notes, and copies of the program of the New Mexico Military game.

Glittering Show
Dazzling, brilliant, super-duper. That was the way the fans saw the magnificent two-school pep squad and band demonstration at the half. The Alamogordo band, black and gold uniformed, went through a quartet of formations in rapid fire order, spelling out hello, Artesia, Alamo, and fight.

White shoes, black slacks, white sweaters was the pep squad uniform. The Tiger band was led by Drum Major Harry Dale, towering 6 foot 5. Director is Bill Rhoads, a University of Michigan grad.

There were 80 in the Tiger band, equal number in pep squad. Major-ettes were Mary Ann Snyder, Jo Ann Anderson, Reba Thompson, Martha Jean Bennett, in gold uniforms, and Lou Snyder, in black uniform.

Not to be outdone by the visitors, the Artesia High School band, of which Russell Lewis is director, put on a brilliant show with its electric lights on caps flashing as the lights were turned off, its soap bubble pipe stunt, and the extra attraction of the guest baton twirler, R. E. Mead, formerly of Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

The high stepping Texan, garbed in a uniform of gray trousers with black stripe, green coat with gold embroidered front, put on an act as full of pep as a whole flock of U.S. high schools.

His baton twirling was a masterpiece of balance and timing. Spectacular was his twirling, while blindfolded, a lighted baton, the dual baton balancing on his chin other side of the pistol-firing act.

H. Floyd Davis wasn't there, officiating at the Eunice-Jal game I was told. In the place of One-Gun Davis was Howard Miller. Two in the box I didn't know, one on the other side of the pistol-firing act.

the ground and still keep a baton moving.

Artesia High School still leads others as its band is the only one I've seen to date carry the New Mexico flag as well as the Stars and Stripes. Carrying the state banner is Wayne Westerman; while Old Glory is the custody of Travis Zeleny.

It was a dual A demonstration for both schools, with A representing both Artesia and Alamogordo. The Bulldog band formed two squares each with an A in the center.

Cleaning Out The Tray
Hugh Ross Burch, 10, Park School fifth grade pupil and a Bulldog mascot for the Tiger game. Found that out when met him Saturday a. m. Hugh was proudly wearing his football uniform while pedaling his bicycle toward the high school.

Looks like, to be tech-nickel, they may have to change some signs around the high school when the Hornet home is completed. Hidden by a tall bush as southeast corner of senior structure is a metal marker labeled "Artesia Junior (hyphen) Senior High School, Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works, Project N. M. 1074-DS."

Anybody know where students can purchase pennant-shaped Artesia stickers, and other insignia? Had a request last week for a student for this information.

These days you can't tell from the price tag how much quality a car holds. Ford, for example, is still priced with the lowest... yet in other respects it's in the fine car class. Take its styling, for example for two years in a row Ford has been the recognized fashion leader.

Experiments Show Grain Sorghums Almost Equal to Corn in Gains

Animal husbandmen at the New Mexico Agricultural Experiment Station have proved that kaffir, a grain sorghum, lacks only 6.6 per cent of being as good as corn as a feed for beef cattle.

Tests by Kansas, Nebraska, and Texas experiment stations have shown that cattle fed ground milo, another grain sorghum, gained as rapidly as other cattle fed ground corn and required only a trifle more feed per 100 pounds of gain.

The Florida Experiment Station has reported that ground shullu heads, a grain sorghum, were fully equal to ground ear corn for fattening yearling and 2-year-old beef cattle.

A lamb feeding test by the Texas Experiment Station showed that 2052 pounds of good quality threshed hegarri were equal in feeding value to one ton of shelled corn. Based on current New Mexico prices, the 2000 pounds of corn would cost the feeder $56, while the 2052 pounds of the grain sorghum would cost $39.99—a saving of $17.01 for the hegarri feeder.

Poultry feeding experiments have also proved that there is no great difference in the feeding value of corn and grain sorghums. When workers at the Texas Experiment Station compared milo and corn pound for pound in broiler rations, they found that as long as adequate carotene was supplied by including 5 per cent of good quality alfalfa leaf meal, ground milo was just as good a feed as ground yellow corn.

In an experiment with chick starter rations, the Texas Experiment Station concluded that "ground milo maize can be relied upon to produce approximately the same gains in body weight as ground yellow corn." This confirmed earlier findings by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Later, Kansas state experimenters found that ground milo maize could replace either ground white or yellow corn, pound for pound, in poultry rations, and USDA workers in 1945 reported that the feeding value of the two grains was approximately the same.

In many tests with swine, grain sorghums have also been proved to be nearly equal to corn for fattening pigs and breeding stock. Work by the Nebraska Experiment Station has revealed that the quality of pork from sorghum-fed hogs is equal to that from corn-fed swine.

A well-known textbook, "Feeds and Feeding" (21st edition), by F. R. Morrison, says grain sorghums has a net energy factor of 97.3 based on grade No. 2 yellow dent corn as 100—a difference of only 2.7 per cent.

No experiments have shown that corn is more than 10 per cent more effective than grain sorghums as feed. Therefore, the feeder cannot profitably pay a premium of 10 per cent more for corn, if he can pay that much. That is, if grain sorghums are selling for $1.90 a hundredweight, the feeder should not pay more than $2.09 a hundredweight for corn.

All these experiments indicate that New Mexico livestock feeders who buy corn from neighboring states are paying a premium for which they receive little or no feeding value. On the other hand, as grain sorghums are one of New Mexico's chief grain crops, the feeder who buys them instead of corn not only benefits himself, but also helps the agriculture of the state.

Lower prices for grain sorghums also make it more economical to feed them instead of corn. Not so long ago in Eastern New Mexico, corn was priced at $2.80 per hundredweight, while grain sorghums were selling at $1.90 per hundredweight—a difference of 90 cents, or 47 per cent.

In other words, to feed a 900-pound steer to 1200 pounds, a livestock producer would need 1900 pounds of corn, costing $53.20 at the above prices. But the same amount of grain sorghums would cost only $36.10—a saving of $17.10 a head, or $5.70 for each 100 pounds of gain. In other words, while the producer who feeds grain sorghums realizes a profit of, say, $55 a head, the corn feeder on the other hand nets only $37.90. And that $17.10 premium is too much to pay for a personal preference in grains.

The price relationship between grain sorghums and corn in New Mexico has always favored grain sorghums as a livestock feed. During the 31 years ending in 1947, the price received by New Mexico farmers and ranchers per pound of grain sorghums averaged 72 per cent of the price received per pound of corn, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. This has varied from a low of 57 per cent in 1940 and 1941 to a high of 82 per cent in 1943. The lower this percentage, the more favorable it is to feed grain sorghums.

At no time in the last 10 years could livestock producers feed corn in preference to grain sorghums without raising their feed costs and cutting their profit by so doing. Even assuming a difference of 10 per cent feeding value does exist between corn and grain sorghums, which is not the case, the increased cost of feed would still vary from 8 to 33 per cent. In no year during the last 31 years was it more profitable to feed corn, even though there was a difference of 10 per cent in feeding value. This increased cost of feeding corn reduces the producer's net profit on his feeding enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry E. Casey, operators of Casey's Ice Cream at 307 South First Street, phone 660-W, came to Artesia five years ago from Robston, Texas, where they were in the cafe business 14 years.

to Casey's Ice Cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey make their own ice cream, which they call and advertise as "Home Made Ice Cream." They do both a wholesale and retail ice cream business, have 16 different fruit and nut flavors at all times, and use strictly pure fruits in their ice cream.

Casey's Ice Cream also serves sundaes, banana splits, malts and other ice cream dishes and drinks, either in the shop or to take out.

They also have a "picnic shelf," where you can buy many kinds of lunch items for unexpected lunches or picnics. And they carry candies, cigars and cigarettes.

Mrs. Casey carries personalized cards and stationery, and a wide variety of cards for special occasions.

Casey's Ice Cream at 307 North First Street is open from 8 o'clock in the morning to 10 o'clock at night on week days and on Sunday, afternoons and evenings.

Evans Hardware Carries Complete Line of Gifts

At Evans Hardware, 118 West Main Street, phone 180, which was founded by the late L. P. Evans in 1910, one finds Mrs. Evans in her complete gift department, personally in charge.

The gift department carries Brooks California dinnerware, Franciscan ware, and Vernon Kilns ware.

The fine china includes Shelly English bone, Franciscan fine china and Syracuse fine china.

To go with these beautiful items, Mrs. Evans carries complete lines of Heisey crystals, Imperial candlewick and Bryce crystals.

An interesting line to be found at the gift department of Evans Hardware is the Westernmoreland milk glasses, manufactured by one of the oldest glass companies in the country. Westernmoreland, in order to meet the revived interest in old glass and designs, has resurrected many old molds and designs and is making these patterns, even painting them in exact duplicate of the original colors.

Mrs. Evans is always happy to show Sarton's solid jewelers' bronze, on all pieces of which the enamel is baked, so no polishing is required.

Other items in the gift department include Rogers 1847 and Community silver, both of which are available in your favorite patterns; traditional picture prints, lovely for gifts; all kinds of odd cups and saucers in fine china, collectors' items, Chinese brass cigar accessories and planters and authentic Chinese work from China.

Of course, one thinks of Evans Hardware, 118 West Main, for a complete line of hardware, as well as for the sheet metal shop, but don't forget the gift department.

Why Discrimination?

THERE ARE A GOOD MANY DISCUSSIONS going the rounds today regarding the drafting of individuals into the Armed Forces.

Apparently we are at last going to build up our Army, Navy and Marine Corps so we will have the men trained for any emergency.

We believe that most of us agree this is the wise thing to do. We believe that Americans not only want such an armed force developed but they want it maintained.

But those of draft age and those being drafted should be treated the same; should receive the same consideration and should be handled the same.

The exceptions are already underway. There are exemptions for this and exemptions for that.

There are cases of certain labor not being called; there are cases of certain skilled and trained individuals not being called; there are certain ones not to be inducted.

There is no question, of course, but what these individuals are needed in a particular field but they can still be drafted and be used in that field. We don't believe anyone can justify the taking of one youth into service, paying him the average salary paid, let him do the fighting, take the chances of being wounded and killed while another can remain at home, draw a high salary, enjoy home life, and safety merely because he comes in some classification.

Why haven't ways and means been worked out so all can be drafted and all can receive the same consideration?

We have argued before that when we can and do draft human beings into service we should also be able to draft labor and dollars just as we do men. It is the only fair thing and honest thing to do. If one individual offers his life, others should be willing to offer their skill or to offer their money.

In the last war, Uncle Sam paid a tremendous price for the labor he used. Many of military age stayed at home and made good money while others went into service, drew the regular army pay, many of them were killed and others suffered injuries and are handicapped for life. It isn't fair, it isn't right and it isn't democratic.—O.E.P.

'Oil Progress Week'

THIS WEEK WE SALUTE the oil industry throughout the nation, as this great business in all of its branches has its special week—"Oil Progress Week," Oct. 15-21.

The week is well named, for the petroleum industry in America is less than 100 years old, for it was in 1859 that one Colonel Drake drilled the first oil well at Titusville, Pa.

When one considers the vast reaches of the oil industry less than a century after that event, it certainly reflects progress.

Today we hear much about the American way of life, and it is all to the good. It would be difficult to think of another subject so infinitely varied or so richly rewarding. Yet it is not enough to go on simply talking about it. But before we can live it we must understand it.

The men and women in the oil industry have set aside this time to report to their fellow citizens and the consumers of their products on their contributions to our well being and their plans for the future.

From a single hole in the ground less than a century ago, the oil men of this nation have helped change the face of civilization. They have given us the power for mobility and flight.

Not only have they provided us the lubricants for our vast industrial machine, but today they are providing more than half of the total energy used in this country.

They have helped make possible untold numbers of good things, from road oil to wonder drugs, from lubricants for precision machinery to cigarette lighter fluid. And they have established comfortable reserves of oil which add greatly to our national security. In short, they have done miracles to transform the drab existence of yesteryear to the abundant and good life of today.

"Oil Progress Week" is designed not only to remind us of what the oil industry has produced, but what has produced the oil industry. Gasoline, plastics, and wax for bread wrappers are simply the evidence of a deeper, driving force—the force that has made possible our whole industrial structure.

This is the American way. It reflects freedom and democracy, the determination, initiative, and opportunity to create more and better things for all of our people.—A.L.B.

You Ready to Ballot?

REGISTRATION OF VOTERS for the November election, of course, is now closed, but it will take just as many reminders to get the folks who are registered to go to the polls and ballot as it did to get them to register.

For a good many years now we have permitted the election of un-qualified individuals to public office because we refused to go and ballot. We have elected bad office holders by refusing to vote.

For far too many years less than half of the voters of the nation have taken the trouble to go to the polling places and cast a ballot on election day.

If we were denied the privilege of voting we would be arguing loud and long. If someone tried to stop us from exercising our right to ballot we would start a fight immediately. There are people over the world still working and trying to win the right to vote in their election. There are others seeking the privilege of voting for whom they please. They can vote but they are told how to cast their ballot and for whom they must vote.

We in America are free. We can either go to the polls and enjoy the right of franchise or we can stay away from the polls. If we go to vote we can vote as we please and for whom we please. No one can tell us how to vote unless we are controlled and dictated to by a party machine.

CARDS ON THE TABLE

For so long that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, it has been popular for a candidate for a king's throne, or a seat in our Congress, to attack somebody or something, all in the interest of the "dear people." In late years big business has been the popular target. The fact that our nation and little business couldn't exist without big business is never mentioned by the attackers.

We are now entering an era where business is explaining in detail to its employees, consumers and stockholders, who gets the dollar it takes in. Today government is in most cases the biggest beneficiary of the earned dollar of industry. The share that government takes in taxes adds tremendously to the cost of all products, thus boosting the cost of living.

A typical example of a company that is laying its cards on the table is the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. In an easy, informal, shirt-sleeve manner, it is presenting to its 97,000 stockholders, 47,000 employees and 30,000 dealers the story of the company—its history, earnings, expenditures for taxes, wages, development expansion, new facilities, etc. Employees have been astounded to learn that in 1949 taxes took 17.2 per cent of every customer dollar against 16.4 per cent for wages, salaries and benefits. Raw materials, transportation, etc., took 52.7 per cent and the stockholder who puts up the money that makes the business possible got 2.9 per cent in dividends in 1949.

The politicians who keep hammering away to break up the oil industry, steel industry or the utility industry, should be made to show that the government itself takes the lion's share of the earnings of private enterprise and therefore drives up prices.—Hot Springs Herald.

PROLETARIAN 'PROTECTION'

Communism is generally assumed to appeal to the propertyless and dispossessed of the earth. In Korea, as elsewhere, the bait dangled before the landless was a share (probably through a collective farm) in acres to be taken away from their owners.

But this appeal is not the only recruiting urge apparently exploited by the avowed enemies of "capitalist exploitation." Lee Soo, a former instructor at Seoul University who directed English-language broadcasts from the Seoul radio during the North Korean occupation, gave a surprisingly candid explanation of why he threw in his lot with the Reds.

"My motive," said Mr. Lee, "was a desire to protect my property." His broadcasts probably helped to deprive many other Koreans of theirs.

A few days prior to his confession Frederick Vanderbilt Field of New York registered with the Department of Justice as a foreign agent representing financial interests in communist China, including three banks, an aviation corporation, and an export corporation which he heads.

Mr. Field was described recently as "America's millionaire communist" in the Saturday Evening Post, which listed Red Front organizations for which he has handled funds as well as American corporations in whose stock he holds an inherited fortune.

THE BANISHED NUDE

This business of the banished nude is getting sillier and sillier.

Now a "Committee for the Preservation of Cultural Freedom in New Mexico" has been organized to "safeguard freedom of public expression of cultural activities."

In Santa Fe, Dr. Rudolph Kieve, chairman of the new high-sounding committee, says his group's immediate aim is to rescue the terra cotta panel of a reclining nude woman symbolizing "Earth," which an architect has ordered removed from the state's new capitol annex. A Baptist preacher and others have protested that the plaque is "immoral and indecent."

The committee declares in a statement of policy: "We unanimously take the stand that infringement upon the right of expression in any cultural field is to be regarded in the same light as suppression of free speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religion."

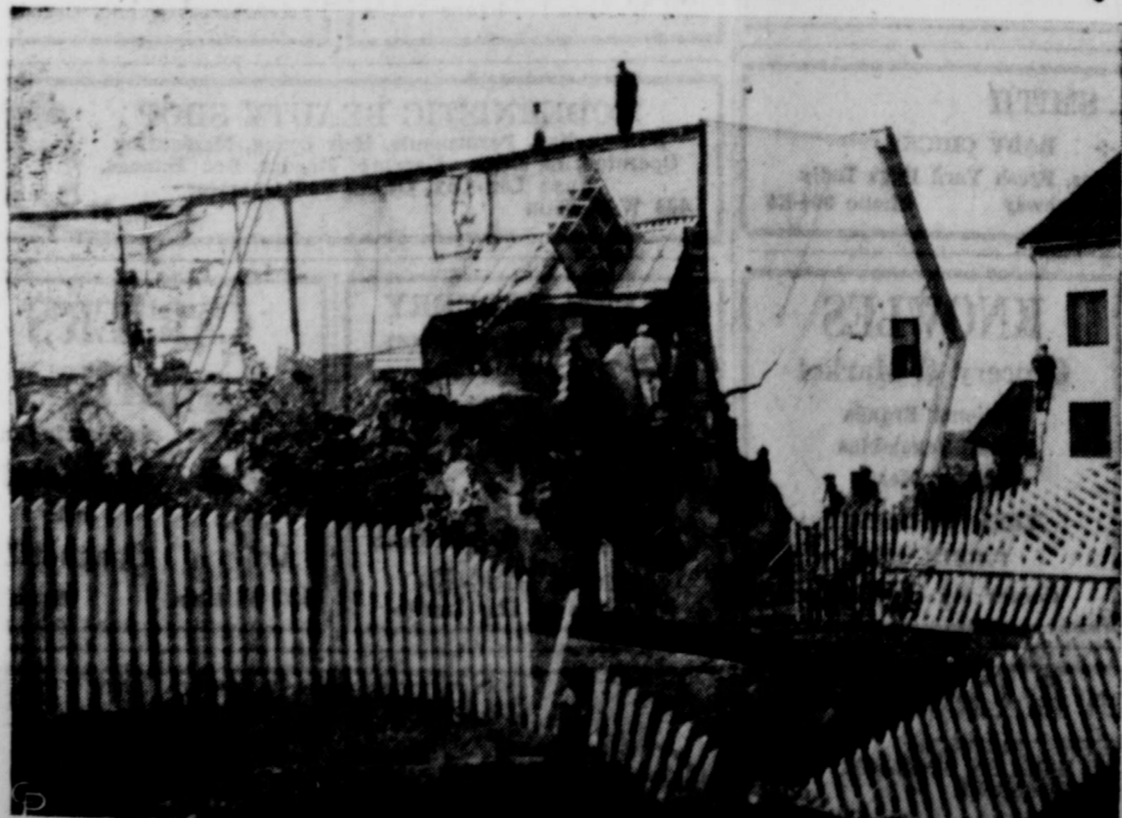

We can't quite go along with this bushy-haired view. Any artist has to please his patron if he is going to sell his work, no matter how little the patron may know about art. A carpenter may be an artist with hammer and saw, but if he doesn't build the house to suit the owner he likely will get the sack. It's the same with sculpture, and that is all there is to that.—Carlsbad Current-Argus.

NEW YORK—Miss Jane Froman is not the world's greatest singer, and I hold no brief for her as such. She is a good one and she has that intangible asset of personality that most of the good entertainers in any field have. If you have it, talent isn't terribly important. For example, Lena Horne, with a mediocre voice, has it and I would like to have 10 per cent of Lena, financially speaking. Katharine Hepburn, about whose ability there have been monumental quarrels, has it and she is somewhat removed from the poorhouse. And Pearl Bailey has it and has talent, too, making for an overpowering combination.

Miss Froman is a big, good-looking brunette with a build roughly resembling a lightweight boxer—only roughly, mind you—and a warm voice, rich in tonal quality, that she keeps under control most of the time, but not always. She uses a microphone when she works in a nightclub and, like most other singers who do, she looks a little offbeat as she glides around the floor holding the thing, like a candle that has gone out. She dresses well and she has nice white teeth and all in all she presents a pleasant act. The other night in the Persian Room of the Plaza it was pleasant enough to make me look away occasionally from Miss Ella Raines, who sat at the table next to me and appeared to be as fascinated by a ring I was wearing as I was by Miss Raines' hair, which surely is the American head of hair Most Brushed Each Night.

This is what I am getting at, however: it didn't make a great deal of difference whether Miss Froman could sing, dance or stand on her head, and even the impact of her personality was not important. All Miss Froman had to do was to walk out on the floor, and she was home by six lengths.

THE SPORTS WRITERS will know what I mean. Last spring they experienced the same kind of thing when little Bobby Fermane, the jockey, got into the saddle of a horse named, I believe, Navy Flash, at 25 to 1, and brought him in third after leading most of seven furlongs. Over a year before, Bobby had been all crunched up by a horse in a bad fall. At first they didn't think he would live and later they knew he would live but would spend the rest of his days in a wheelchair. It took around 10 operations and $10,000 of the Jockey Guild's treasury to prove "they" were wrong and to get Bobby into that saddle last spring, but there wasn't a sports writer who saw it happen who could keep the wonderful feeling from spreading inside of him.

A little later a golfer named Ben Hogan made about the same kind of impossible comeback. I remember following him around the course at Greenbrier last spring, watching him hit those incredible iron shots to the pin, and just mumbling to myself, Oh, brother. The guy had you will forgive a little corn, had spat in his eye. The doctors had taken care of the technicalities, but it was Hogan himself who had snarled at death like a mutt hit by a truck and said, Get away, old man. They had picked him out of an auto crash, shaking their heads, but he beat the rap and when you saw him out there on the golf course in the spring sun, it made the hair go up on the back of your neck.

Well, a lot of you know about Jane Froman. It was in the middle of the war—seven and a half years ago—and the big plane in which she was traveling plunged in the dark of night in a terrifying shower of glass and fire and water, into the Tagus river near Lisbon. Two dozen passengers were killed, and a pilot named John Curtis Burns, whose back was broken, held Miss Froman's head above water and help came. When they got her back to a hospital and tried to piece her together, they found she was pretty badly beat up. I would like to bet that at least one doctor said, "Well, this one'll never walk again."

FOR HOGAN AND FERMANE, it took a year or two. For Jane Froman, it took seven. For five years she couldn't even stand without crutches. She had more than 25 operations on her left leg. The big one kept her in bed for six months. But she was going to walk again or, if you will pardon a gruesome gag, break a leg trying. I saw her during those seven years; she did a Broadway show called Artists and Models, she made USO tours, she played benefits. At first she did these things in a wheelchair. Later she used crutches and then she did a turn at the Copacabana when they wheeled her onto the floor in some kind of a movable scooter. I didn't like it. I know it was the only way she had of earning a living, but you couldn't enjoy it; you couldn't sit there and forget about the movable scooter or the crutches. She was happy, because she was working and because she married Captain Burns in one of those fairy-tale stories, but I didn't like it. The other night I saw her again at the Plaza. She was all mended and, like Hogan and Fermane, she had made the old man get away. This time I liked it.

'Petroleum Peggy Says'

Every fall, with the kids back in school, I can't help but think about the wonderful educational facilities we have today. They are far superior to any thing our parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents ever knew. Just think, for example, how different a child's life was about 100 years ago.

Then it was mostly hard work, with little time for school, and even less time for fun. Child labor was widely accepted as necessary. There were no radios, no motion pictures, and no television. Indian wars were raging. Buffalo Bill's adventures were still around the bend. Custer's last stand was 25 years in the future.

Good education was very rare. Books were scarce. Most schools were one-room affairs, and the children had to trudge miles in all kinds of weather to reach them. High schools were mostly unheard of, and there were only 296 colleges, mostly for boys.

One of the things that helped boost the lot of youngsters from that low level of 1850 was the discovery of oil in 1859. The two subjects seem unrelated, but the role of oil in the progress of education is real and substantial.

Lubricants obtained from oil in abundance and at low cost made possible the development of machinery and mechanized production, which helped to do away with sweat shops and child labor. As the nation's standard of living rose with increased industrial activity, public interest in better schools rose with it. The advent of kerosene and the kerosene lamp stimulated a great advance in home reading.

Today, America's children are free from the yoke of factory labor. They are provided the best educational system in the world. Those in rural areas no longer have to walk to a one-room school. A gasoline-powered bus carries them to a modern centralized school. There are nearly 2000 colleges and universities—most of them coeducational. In quite a few, forward-looking businessmen, many from the oil industry, assist students and researchers with scholarships and endowments.

There's Going to Be One Turkey For Every Family

There's going to be at least one turkey for every household this year!

Right now, fattening on the ranges, is an all-time record crop of 44,550,000 turkeys—6 per cent more than last year and 1 per cent above the previous peak production of 1945. The figures are taken from the latest turkey report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. In every region except the West, turkey numbers have risen over last year—up by regions as much as 18 per cent for the South Atlantic States, and statewide as much as the 73 per cent recorder for Arkansas. Western states, however, have 7 per cent less than last year. Total production of turkey meat is expected to be at a record level. While marketings of the 1950 turkey crop will depend to a considerable extent upon later developments, turkey producers expect to continue the move toward earlier marketing. If growers' intentions hold, 65 per cent will be marketed before the end of November, 28 per cent in December, and 7 per cent in January or later.

Stamp of 1939 Salutes Famed Pony Express

By C. GOTTFRIED FINKE

In 1859, Senator Qwin conceived the idea of fast mail service and approached Russell of Major, Russell and Waddell with the proposition that they handle the mail. In this bold scheme was to come the famous Pony Express, through mail from Sacramento, Calif. to St. Joseph, Mo. Up to this time mail was carried around the Cape and up the West Coast to San Francisco. This took weeks.

Some went by stage coach across the southwestern part of the country.

Since the telegraph and trains were not yet running in the western part of America this would tend to make communication quicker.

On the morning of April 3, 1860, everything was ready. At Sacramento a rider and horse was waiting. And at St. Joseph, Mo., Alec Majors stood at the railroad station. With him was Johnny Frey, a slim, wiry, dark haired boy of 18. He was holding the reins of the first pony to leave St. Joseph.

It was obvious the boy was nervous although with shoulder erect and head high he was making a determined effort to appear calm. Small flags were in the horse's bridle. The rider was dressed in a distance of 2000 miles. Plenty of Horses

Each of these stations was well stocked with fine fast horses. Most of these were California mustangs, with stamina enough to gallop full speed without stopping for 10 to 15 miles. By this unique method, Russell, Majors and Waddell was to make one of the outstanding contributions to the rapid development of the expanding west.

This method also required rugged boys for the job. In the papers appeared ads:

Wanted—Young, skinny wiry fellows, not under 18. Must be expert riders, willing to risk death daily. Orphans preferred. Apply to Russell, Majors and Waddell, St. Joseph, Mo.

With one exception riders were over 18. This one is a famous name in American Western history, Buffalo Bill. William Cody, at the age of 14, because of his outstanding horsemanship was able to convince the owner of the line to put him in service with the company.

Russell told his partners the plan of Senator Qwin. At first they were reluctant to go into such a bold venture. One of the drawbacks was financial. Russell told them he had given his word they would go through with the plan. His partners then went ahead and backed him.

For months stations were set up along the way. These stations were at 15 mile intervals across the mountains and plains, from St. Joseph, Mo., into Sacramento, Calif.

buckskin with two pistols in his belt, a Spencer rifle in its scabbard and a knife in his belt.

A large crowd was milling around and now and then someone would step up and jerk a hair from the pony's mane or tail as a souvenir.

When the train arrived Alec Majors had a difficult time getting the special mail sack or machias as it was called, due to the pushing of the crowd.

New Milestone
Securing the pouch he flipped it across the pony and the rider mounted. Spectators cheered. The band played. The rider's quirt popped and the shouting died as the rider raced away.

In the Far West the same sort of scene was being reacted but this time the rider was headed east. Somewhere in the 2000 miles the riders would pass, shout halloo at each other and speed on to their destinations.

Thirteen months later the Pony Express was disbanded due to the completion of the telegraph. The company lost over $23,000 but they had helped to bring the west in closer with the east. All mail sent on this run was handstamped with the words Pony

POINT OF VIEW

For the last decade or so the trend in home decoration has been increasingly toward an uncluttered simplicity. The fundamentalists whose point of view is based on a belief that color, light and function are all that really count are in a large measure responsible for this trend. Yet, regardless of what the fundamentalists say, many of us still cling to our idea that it is the small, individualized innovations that personalize our homes—give them a touch of glamour, charm and hominess.

The window ringed with ivy gives the small living room in the sketch above a distinctive air all its own. Sectional bookcases and cabinets along window wall and corner unit in traditional mahogany companion amiably with modern chairs and lamp table. The keynote of the room's charm lies in the subtle blending of colors. Pale gold broadloom rug, coffee-colored walls and rosy glow of mahogany are in striking contrast to the sapphire-blue chairs. Ivy motif on lamp shade ties in with window decor. Porcelain figurines harmonize with blue chairs. Here is a room dramatically simple combining the charm of modern and traditional, with every inch of precious space satisfactorily accounted for.

We have many decorating ideas that will enhance the beauty of your home. Do come in and let us tell you about them.

WE'RE FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

EDWIN L. MECHEM

WE'RE AGAINST THE DINERO-CRATS

● A free, non-political judiciary is the backbone of our government.

By forcing candidates for district and supreme court offices to run under political labels, we tend to obligate judges to certain political organizations.

The only way you can get complete judicial freedom from politics is to select judges without party designation.

This means judges won't have to seek office by waging a political campaign.

Judges will be allowed to remain on the bench as long as their records are acceptable to the people of the state.

This is another part of our program to take as much politics out of state government as we can.

There's no place for politics in the judiciary.

● Ed Mechem has a unique conception of how the governor's office should be run.

"It should be handled as a trusteeship for the use and benefit of all citizens of the state," he believes.

The governor, he feels, should direct his energies to meeting the basic needs of the state . . . transportation, health and welfare, land and water development, etc.

● A political machine can control the selection of candidates to a great extent.

When the machine agrees to back a certain person's candidacy, that person realizes he will sooner or later be called upon to do the bidding of the machine.

To place the judiciary in this situation is unfair to our judges. They must be and they want to be independent of political considerations in their work.

To help them do a good job and to defeat the efforts of the state machine to run the bench, we propose to allow judges to run solely on their record, without any political party next to their name.

If the people approve the judge's record, he is re-elected. If not, he is out. His only opponent in elections is his own record.
