Local Ground Water Level Emphasizes Need For Conservation

Expert Defines Issues In State Special Election

Do you want Indians to have liquor?
Do you want state legislators to get more money?
Do you want the nomination of judges in your own hands, or do you want them picked by the New Mexico bar?

Artesia and other New Mexico voters will get a chance to answer these, and other questions, too, when you go to the polls Sept. 18 to vote on proposed constitutional amendments.

An analysis of the amendments, as a guide, was released today by New Mexico University's government research division. The study is "Proposed Constitutional Amendments in New Mexico - 1951" by Dr. Charles B. Judah.

Analysis of Proposals
Amendment 1 would allow the sale of liquor to Indians. The argument against it is the belief that Indians can't hold their liquor as well as white men. But the experts - sociologists, anthropologists, and Indian officials - and the Indians themselves - think Indians should be allowed to buy liquor.

Amendment 2 would make the state school superintendent appointive instead of elective as at present and would require that he have a master's degree. He'd be appointed by and responsible to the nine-man state board of education, with one member from each of the state's nine (now ten) judicial districts.

The board members would be appointed or elected, and that's where the possible rub comes in, for it would be up to the legislature to pick the method of selecting them. And if the legislature decided on appointment, it would move the school system farther from the people.

Might Be Smoother
However, the amendment probably would bring smoother operating of the school system at high levels in the organization and result in its better serving the state.

Amendment 8 would take judicial candidates out of partisan primaries and have them nominated by a five-man commission made up of two lawyers, two non-lawyers and the chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Advantages claimed for the amendment are that it:
1.-Provide for a more thorough appraisal of the necessary qualifications of a prospective judge.
2.-Will encourage better men to accept judicial office.
3.-Will remove judges from political activity.
4.-Will enable judges to do a better job.

5.-Will keep a good judge in office and at the same time provide the public with means of removing the unfit.

But on the other hand, "the voter should fully realize that the adoption of the amendment will eliminate the people of New Mexico from effective participation in choosing the judges of the state."

Judges, in making such important decisions as on constitutional laws, frequently reflect the social, economic, and political convictions of the group from which they come.

And so this amendment boils down to this question: Do you want judges who reflect the social, economic and social convictions of the people or of the New Mexico bar?

Judges Salaries
Amendment No. 3 and 4 would stop the fixing of judges' salaries by constitutional provision and would let the legislature do it. Judges' salaries couldn't be slashed during their terms of office.

What this amendment would do - and this is the government research division's view - would be to give judges only one salary instead of the two they get now, thus limiting the chance of confusion on judges' salaries in the public mind.

At present, the constitution limits supreme court justices to $6,000 a year and district court judges to $4,500 a year. But because of supplementary jobs they've been given to get around the constitution, justices really get $11,000 a year and judges, $9,000.

Amendment 5 would throw out the requirement that bond elections in cities, towns and villages be held only at regular local elections.

This amendment might make it easier to carry out local government.

In Washington, the Question is: Who'll be Nominated?

THE CAPITOL is echoing with presidential nomination talk nowadays, and everybody here is regarded as a possibility to carry the Democratic, Republican and Dixiecrat banners. But there's no mistaking that eager speculation among Democrats and Republicans is directed Europeward. Warning Sounded On Torrid Checks Artesians were warned to be on the lookout for a man who goes by the name of H. E. Hill, who has been passing forged checks, by Bob Koonce, manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce.

One of these checks drawn in the amount of $127 was recently cashed at the local J. C. Penney Co. store, according to M. G. Schulze, manager.

The checks made payable to Hill and signed by D. C. or D. E. Wood, are green, standard size safety type with a Gulf water mark, drawn on the Melton National Bank, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The checks are numbered from 1700 to 1750.

The checks were apparently lost or stolen in Northern New Mexico or Durango, Colo., according to information relayed to the Chamber of Commerce, by Arnold Spoor, on Friday, Aug. 10.

Spoor is party chief of a local seismograph crew of the Gulf Research and Development Company.

All businessmen have been warned by the Chamber of Commerce to carefully scrutinize all checks passing through their hands.

The local group becomes one of 5000 Methodist Men organizations which the board plans to charter by 1952 and 10,000 by 1956. Presbyterian Picnic Location Changed To Dexter

Worship services, swimming, horseshoe pitching, baseball, and hiking will be some of the activities young and old alike will be able to engage in at the annual Sunday School picnic of the Presbyterian Church, slated for Aug. 26.

Location of the picnic is on the ground of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service hatchery near Dexter, which contains several lakes.

This represents a change from earlier plans which called for the affair to be held on the Walnut Grove picnic grounds, west of Hope.

You Could Get a Meal in Eddy For 35 Cents Away Back in 1894

Meals 35 cents; meal tickets $5. Pants made-to-order, $5 per pair. Want to cash in on these bargains? Sorry we can't oblige, as these prices appeared in the Semi-Weekly Current, dated Friday, Sept. 14, 1894.

This paper which is marked Vol. II, No. 68, and was published at Eddy, New Mexico, (now Carlsbad), was dug up among a bunch of envelopes by C. Gottfried Finke, local sign painter.

The paper is made up in six columns, tabloid size, and carries advertisements on the front page. Among the ads we find a closing out sale put on by S. T. Biting, featuring materials for dresses, men's clothing, custom work shoes, men's furnishings and hats.

The store also featured a laundry service for white and colored men's shirts.

This ad which is five columns by four inches appears on the top of the front page.

On the bottom of the front page appears a five column by six and a half-inch ad by the Pecos Irrigation and Improvement Company of Eddy, N. M.

The ad lists names of persons in Eddy and Roswell who had large sheafs of oats, millet, stalks of cane. Eddy growers of millet are Ed Scroggins, Hodge Wilson, George Blankenship is cited for his stalk of cane, 5 feet 15 inches tall. J. W. Gould, for his stalk of corn, 13 feet, two inches, and I. T. Franks for his cluster of cane, 12 feet three inches tall.

The ad challenges growers unable to duplicate these feats to send for the company's illustrated pamphlet.

Lawyers Advertise
Also on the front page we find the following Eddy names: J. O. Cameron, John Franklin, attorneys at law; John Rodman, M. D.; Louis Coleman, owner of the Toilet Barber Shop; J. F. Beals, dealer in windmills, pumps, and galvanized iron.

Walter P. Douglass, architect; A. D. Wallace, and the Wing Lee Laundry. These all occupy one column by one inch boxes.

Among other goods for sale we find Columbia bicycles which are sold by E. D. Bean, who is also salesman of clocks, watches and jewelry.

The paper also lists arrivals and departures of Roswell and Eddy Stage Lines and Pecos Valley Railway departure times.

The railway times are given as Central time.

Politics Big Item
County and national elections also get prominent play; announcement being made for county sheriff, assessor, probate clerk, on the county scene.

Miss Texas Title Awarded Cousin Of Artesia Man

A member of the numerous Holcomb family, the subject of a story in The Advocate of July 13, when one of the missing brothers, J. Murray Holcomb, was found after a 30 year lapse, is the subject of a story in the El Paso Times of Aug. 11.

She is Janie Holcomb, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Holcomb, Odessa, Texas, who recently won the title of Miss Texas at New Braunfels, after winning the title of Miss West Texas in Odessa, July 4.

Winning the title of Miss Texas qualifies her to enter the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, Sept. 3-8.

Jack Holcomb, 1114 Merchant, could not give the relationship of the beautiful Miss Holcomb to him, other than to say she was a distant cousin.

Jack's brother, Murray Holcomb, who first established the fact that all Holcombs were related could probably discover the exact relationship of the handsome Texas University coed, but right now it remains obscure.

The most important town in Asia Minor, and a principal port of the Turkish Republic, Izmir is one of the earliest homes of the Christian Church. Many Churches in the United States now bear its ancient name of Smyrna. Tours of the city enable the crew of the ship to see many Roman ruins that dot Izmir.

The Oriskany is attached to the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Chaves Capital Seeking Name For New Park

Roswell, like Artesia, is having name-trouble. The deal is to pick a name for a new city park in the Chaves capital.

When the park now used by the Drillers was under construction, names of persons were suggested as a name for the park but the affair simmered down to the routine Artesia Municipal Park.

Likewise, location is the factor in deciding other names, such as Central School and Central Park, Roselawn School, formerly known as Northside, adhered to the same rule in the new name, taking the new title from the street on which it is located.

So far, only one name has been suggested for Roswell's new park located on East Second Street. The site was formerly Anderson's Gardens.

The name proposed by Alderman Max Littell, according to the Roswell Daily Record, is Elizabeth Garrett. She was the daughter of Pat Garrett, famous sheriff credited with ending the bloody career of Billy the Kid. She died after a fall on some church steps three years ago. The woman was blind and was always seen with her seeing eye dog.

Roswell citizens have been invited to submit proposed names. This can be done by turning in the names in writing to the clerk at the city hall. "Name for Park" is the marking specified for the outside of envelopes mailed to the clerk.

Personalized Checks Offered By First National

A new customer service will enable holders of checking accounts to obtain pocket checks imprinted with their name (and address) in a matter of a few minutes was announced today by the First National Bank.

Procedure for customers in obtaining these insured personalized checks at nominal cost is so fast and simple that it will enable a person opening a new checking account to obtain his checks while opening the account. Present depositors can obtain them just as speedily.

This extremely fast service is an innovation in banking, it was pointed out by Fred Cole, vice president of the First National Bank. Hitherto, he said, imprinting of pocket checks has necessitated sending a customer's order out of the bank, which meant that a delay from several days to two weeks had lapsed before it was possible to deliver the checks to the customer.

Bulk Job

Another advantage of the new service lies in the fact that as few as 50 or 100 checks can be economically imprinted at one time. In the past, minimum orders of 200 checks have been customary, and banking research indicates that 200 checks last the ordinary depositor one year or longer.

The advantages of the new service are made possible through use of the Todd Imprinter, a revolutionary new imprinting machine developed by The Todd Company and introduced only a short time ago. Simplicity of operation and cleanliness of the machine mean that for the first time it is feasible for a bank to do its imprinting on its own premises.

Insurance Feature

As additional protection for depositors' bank accounts, the checks are insured against fraudulent alteration and are of patented design, representing the most modern scientific defense against would-be "check artists."

Mechanical erasure leaves a tell-tale white mark which cannot be successfully retinted, and use of acid ink eradicator develops hidden reproductions of the word "VOID" which cancel the check forever and destroy its usefulness to a would-be forger.

These defenses against check crime are so effective that the manufacturer has provided insurance up to $10,000 against losses by alteration, covering the bank and its depositors. This new service will be made available to old and new depositors.

The imprinted checks produced by the machine offer numerous benefits over ordinary checks, in addition to the insurance and anti-alteration features.

Besides the prestige value and distinctive appearance of a personalized check, the imprinted name insures payments made are

Bulldog Pack to Bare Fangs Season Workout Opens August 18

Now the time of year has arrived for the good cheer to the Bulldogs.

At 9:30 a. m. on Thursday and at the Artesia High School barracks dressing rooms, the season will be issued for the hopefuls of Coach Jack Reese Smith, and Coach Hall.

Those who will be issued those are all for then. Along with the first practice, the date is the first of which football practice under New Mexico High School Association rules. They will report at 8:30 a. m. ready to show their gridiron.

Head coach, said Monday.

They will build an entirely new season. Positions open. Every boy has a chance to be on the squad. It is going to count on the boys who will "play" will be getting their legs in shape now for the grind ahead. They will have a lot. While there will be workouts a day most mornings and evenings, there will be some days when they will be upped to three.

Tri-drills the squad will be in the afternoon, polish the edge. Cards, and a little with the Pledge Card.

In Shape

Bulldog grid mentor isn't about boys being in shape. He hasn't kept in training and the ordinary rules of the grid. This summer, he will not report to get a job.

It will be a tough job building a team." Coach Tinson said. From the squad will be 18 of them seniors last year, others eliminated by averages. In all there were 40 for A and B squads last year. Coach Tinson estimates the number of candidates this year at 60.

Coaches

During the season, Coach Reese will have three assistants: Coach Smith, Cal Hall, and Bud Smith, the latter from New Mexico, who will be coach of the high school and Hall will be on the line while, for three weeks, William will be on the backs, and Tinson on the backs, going back to his junior year.

School authorities will handle the football season ticket sales. Tickets for the eight home games, out of 11 on the schedule, plus reserved seats, go on sale at 9 a. m. Monday, Aug. 27, at the high school gym. Price is $10.00. No one person can buy more than six tickets.

Dixie Wins

Coaches Smith and Hall saw the South-North All-Star High School football game on Saturday, Aug. 11, in Albuquerque, won by Dixie, 19-7. Artesia players on the Stars and Bars squad were James Briscoe, changed from right tackle to right guard; Bobby Morgan, right end; and A. L. (Prince of Punting) Terpening. The latter, however, did not see much action.

The South used the single wing and balanced line, while the North used the T.

Coach Hall was impressed by the faster tempo of South play, the larger size of its players. The North was good on quick opening plays. The South outgained the North.

1951 Schedule

Socorro and Albuquerque Highlands are new names on the Bulldog schedule. The season opens here with a game against Socorro on Sept. 7, ends with a game here against Las Cruces on Nov. 22.

The Carlsbad Cavemen, 1950 champions, and traditional foe of the Bulldogs, will come to Artesia on Nov. 9, while the Hobbs Eagles also play on Morris Field on Oct. 27.

Square Head Junior Among Elliott-Steiner Bulls In Veterans Rodeo September 13-15

Now, there's a lot of bull... better than a ton of twisting, plunging, bellying, high-powered dynamite; and in less than a split second after this shot was made, he was seriously on the pro and cowboys broke all speed records getting over that fence! This iron-grey Brahma bull, one of the few that has never ridden to the whistle, is none other than "Square Head, Jr. No. 29." He is one of the star attractions of the Elliott-Steiner rodeo to be held Sept. 13-15 at Artesia.

Tommy Steiner, partners in the Elliott-Steiner rodeo enterprises, scoured the entire Southwest to assemble the greatest string of rodeo rough stock ever gathered. More than $30,000 was invested in the Brahma bulls you'll see tossing cowboys all over the arena Sept. 13-15.

There the Detroit Lions play the Washington Redskins in an arc-light game at Amarillo Stadium.

To cope with Slingin' Sammy Baugh and his understudy, Harry Gilmer of the Redskins, Detroit will offer a spectacular one-two punch in Bobby Layne and Fred Enke, Jr.

Baugh, Lane and Enke, the latter a former Arizona star, are familiar to Southwest football fans. Baugh is beginning his 15th season with the Redskins since graduating from Texas Christian, Fort Worth.

Cline was among the top 10 hitters with a percentage of 360.

For the pitchers, Ray Riley of Artesia is in 17th place with a .563.

The Drillers are in seventh place, next to cellar-dwelling Midland, club fielding, with a mark of .930.

The week's leaders: Batting — percentage, Johnny Tayoan, San Angelo, .3793; runs, Leo Eastham, Odessa, 125; hits, Tayoan, San Angelo, 154; home runs, Wayne Wallace, San Angelo, 25.

Pitching — percentage, Indio Beltran, San Angelo, .789 (15-4);

Drillers Bow Twice to Oilers

Three more games on the road are on tap for the Drillers before returning home. Games are scheduled with Odessa tonight, with Midland Wednesday, Aug. 15, and Thursday, Aug. 16.

Odessa starts off a four-day home stand for Drillers, Friday, Aug. 17. Odessa is also the foe for Saturday, Aug. 18. Two games with San Angelo, Sunday, Aug. 19 and Monday, Aug. 20, round out the Drillers' homestand.

Artesia started things off good Thursday night by downing Big Spring 16-1 in the first game.

Ten of Artesia's runs came in the third inning. The Drillers managed to snare 19 safeties, including six doubles, from the Broncs.

However, starting with the second game Thursday night, which Big Spring took 10-5, the Drillers hit the skids.

The Big Spring Broncs again took their measure Friday by the score of 15-1.

Five Driller errors coupled with 16 Broncs' hits did the damage in Friday's game.

The Odessa Oilers triumphed over the Drillers 10-1 Saturday. Only three of the Oilers runs were earned. The others came on 11 bases on balls and seven Driller errors.

On Sunday, Artesia again fell innings pitcher, Eddie Jacome, Midland, 258, also on games, 44; games won, Dean Franks, Roswell, 23; strikeouts, Marshall Epperson, Vernon, 144.

Tons of Fish Die As El Vado Dam Drained

El Vado Dam was drained the night of Aug. 5 of the last 25,000 acre feet of water that remained from the gradual drainage. Many tons of chub, carp and some game fish, mostly trout, perished in the silt and mud below the reservoir. The lake was depleted 12 to 24 hours ahead of the time predicted but game and fish department men were on hand to do all they could to alleviate fish losses in the river below.

L. R. Flock, project manager for the bureau of reclamation, reported that unless heavy rains caused a flood inflow into Elephant Butte and Caballo Lakes those waters would empty by early in September. Irrigation demands, if not met by rains, would necessitate the using of the water. State game warden said if this comes to pass the fish loss would be "terrific."

Range Inspection

Assistant State Game Warden Homer Pickens and Game Technician E. M. Lang have just completed a one week tour of inspection of the big game refuges in the Gila Forest with forest service officials and local ranchers. District Warden Marvin Jones of Reserve assisted them with the investigation which included the proposed Sheep Basin Game Refuge, a valuable area for turkey residence.

Pickens reported that the inspection group was very well pleased with the improved range condition due to the summer rains. He said: "If the rains continue it promises to be a good year for wildlife and livestock."

Large Canyon above Reserve was flooded and the road washed out. The group had its car stuck in the mud on Fremont mountain range but was so happy to see the drought broken that the inconvenience became a pleasure.

This provocative query has nothing to do with the tooties of those who weatherbeaten individuals who charge you five bucks to take you where the fish aren't biting.

The guides referred to are those on your fly rod, and the feet are the flat ends of the guide over which silk thread is wound.

When these feet become caked with line dressing, which in turn picks up minute particles of dirt, it acts as an abrasive. This is rough on good fly lines and it brings on that use of all fly fishermen — a sinking fly line according to Game and Fish Department experts.

They advise a regular cleaning of guide feet, and here's how. Simply brush them out with a small paint brush saturated with naphtha, about every three or four fishing trips.

And, the fishing "know-hows" caution, remember that it's not how much line dressing you put on that counts, but how little you can apply and still give a complete coating to your line.

If a pad comes with your dressing, throw it away for it becomes a dirt catcher. Apply the dressing with your clean, bare hands, after cleaning your line with naphtha and before every fishing trip. If your leader won't sink, try washing it with a small piece of abrasive soap.

In other words, a floating line, a sinking leader and a good fly rod mean enjoyable fishing. (If you keep those feet clean!)

Sixteenth Kids Rodeo To Open On August 31

Junior edition cowboys and cowgirls will pull leather and scratch high in the best traditions of the rodeo world at the 16th Annual Southwestern Championship Kids Rodeo in El Paso, Aug. 31, thru Sept. 3.

This affair, the original kids rodeo, attracts youngsters through 15 years of age from all over the Southwest who are eager to show their wares—and also to collect a share of the $5,000 worth of prizes offered every year.

Top prizes, generally expensive hand-made saddles, go to the grand and reserve champions in both girls' and boys' brackets.

Events in which boys can gain points toward the grand championship include calf roping, team roping, stake races using both horses and burros, and calf riding. Girls' events are calf roping, team roping, clover leaf barrel race, and horse and burro stake races.

Most of the daily event prizes are donated by El Paso merchants. They consist of such items as luggage, boots, watches, radios, and gift certificates.

The kids rodeo was originated here under sponsorship of the El Paso Herald-Post in 1933. The annual performance was abandoned during the war years, commencing again in 1947. At that time the El Paso County Sheriffs Posse joined the Herald-Post in sponsoring it.

The two sponsors say the rodeo is staged "with the desire to promote good fun, clean sportsmanship, fair play, and to give all kids a chance to try to be a cowboy or cowgirl."

RECREATIONAL

AVAILABLE

In Artesia

Artesians do not have to go to other cities to enjoy ideal recreational facilities. There are a number of lakes and ponds within a short radius of Artesia where the fishing is good. Also, the Pecos River affords good fishing. Tennis courts and a swimming pool were built years ago and are left open for the public. A softball field has been cleared at the north end of Morris Field. There is room for track at the east side of the field. And golfers can practice driving in the football stadium.

In all, Artesia has provided the recreational facilities for its inhabitants.

Artesia Park Lights Visible For 20 Miles

You can see the lights of Artesia Municipal Park for 20 miles, according to the Eddy County News of Carlsbad. In "Old Shep's Reflections" in the current issue of that newspaper:

The folks at Hope don't have to have a schedule to know when the Artesia Drillers are playing ball. All they have to do is look over east and see if the lights are on at the field. Driving down from Hope Monday evening, we found that the ball field lights are plainly visible for the 20 miles that intervenes.

Floyd B. Rigdon, Carlsbad publisher, is a member of the state fair commission. Other members are Clyde Tingley, Albuquerque, chairman; Don E. Woodward, also of the Duke City, treasurer; E. Lee Francis, Cubero, John Morrow, Raton, W. P. Thorpe, Las Cruces, H. G. Watson of Artesia, and Albert K. Mitchell of Carlsbad, are members of the fair advisory board.

H & J Grocery To Open Second Store Thursday

H & J Food Basket, which has been serving patrons from their store at 1008 South First street for the past 18 months, will have a second store at Thirteenth and Main, come Thursday, Aug. 16.

Opening ceremonies are planned for 6:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. Patrons will be shown around the store and ice cream and sandwiches will be given away.

The store will open for business on Friday morning at which time orchids will be given to women shoppers.

The store is housed in a brand new building 90 x 100 feet. The interior has tile walls painted sky blue and dusty rose. The ceiling is white, and the back wall has blue wall paper figured with white roses with a touch of pink.

The four checking stands are white.

Construction on the building was started June 1. Knorr-Collins was the contractor.

The store is self-service throughout except for the meat department.

A special feature is a "dietics section" which contains canned fruits without sugar.

How Name Started

The name of the store is derived from the initials of the last names of the partners, J. T. Haile and Burton Jones, who will run both stores.

Haile has been in the grocery business for the last 13 years. He has lived in Artesia since 1944. Prior to setting up the H & J stores he was manager for the local Safeway and Battle Food Stores.

He came to Artesia from Clovis, where he was employed by the Safeway store.

Haile is married and has a daughter, Sylvia, 10.

He is a member of the Baptist Church.

Jones is a relative new-comer to the grocery business, management of the store having been his first venture.

He came to Artesia from the Sooner State and was manager of the local C. R. Anthony store before joining with Haile in setting up the first store.

Jones is married and has two daughters, Barbara Jean, 14, and Margaret Miriam, 12.

He is a member of the Baptist Church and the local Lions Club.

Employees of the new store are Jess Johnson, Mrs. Jess Johnson, No. 1 Checker; Opal Reed, No. 2 Checker; D. D. Souder, Roy Bratcher, Gilbert Kraemer, Herman Mayberry.

line from wells on the High Plains in Lea County to three potash companies.

The article also points out that if the synthetic fuels, benefiting low grade ores and making of plastics is contemplated in this area in the future, the demand for ground water will be stepped up.

Irrigation Major

The largest use of ground water cited in the article, is for irrigation of crops.

The irrigated area in the state comes to 300,000 acres which consume 700,000 acre feet of water per year. The number of acres under irrigation has increased sharply in the last few years, due to the high prices received by farmers for their products.

Sextet of Districts

Ground water outranks surface water in six of the state's irrigation districts.

They are the Carlsbad District, Elephant Butte, Middle Rio Grande, Conchas, Fort Sumner and Maxwell.

There are seven major irrigated areas over the state, one of the chief of which is the Roswell basin, which covers 120,000 acres, using Artesian wells drawing water from the San Andres limestone formation, and water table wells drawing water from the Pecos River.

Second in importance is the High Plains in Lea County, where wells irrigated 100,000 acres last year.

Other major irrigation areas are the Portales Valley and the House area on the High Plains, the Mimbres and Animas Valleys in the southwest corner of the state, the Estancia Valley, the Grants-Blue-water area, and the Carlsbad area.

In most of these areas pumping has not lowered the water level to an alarming extent; however, the figures on the water level supplied by the chamber of commerce, makes conservation measures imperative.

Some areas served by the Bonito Dam, located 12 miles southwest of Captain in the White Mountains are already feeling the pinch and plans are under consideration to change the system of allocation of water to towns in the area, according to a story in the El Paso Times of Aug. 10.

The plan under consideration would involve purchase of Bonito Dam from Southern Pacific by the City of Roswell.

Take Over for S. P.

Under this plan Roswell would get control of the 600,000,000 gallon supply of the dam, of which 100,000,000 would be allocated to the towns of Carrizozo, Vaughn, and Corona, and the unincorporated villages in the area.

Giving control of the dam to Roswell would enable it to supply the towns now served by Southern Pacific, and allow for their expansion, and would also increase supplies of artesian waters in the Roswell area.

This would serve as insurance against future shortages, according to Roswell officials. At the present time Carrizozo allotment is insufficient to allow for watering of lawns and gardens.

Rain-Making

The dearth of water for various purposes brings up a topic about which a lot has been said and written lately, namely artificial rain-making, which is the subject of a letter by Bob Koonce, manager of the Artesia Chamber of Commerce to E. L. Harp.

Harp who now resides in Atlanta, Texas, was formerly band instructor in Artesia High School. He is filling a similar position in Atlanta.

While artificial rain would not increase the supplies of ground water, according to information now available, it would of course cut down on the need to use ground water for such purposes as watering lawns.

Spearheading the rain-making movement in this area have been the Precipitation Research Corporation, E. O. Moore, Carlsbad, president.

Other officers of the organization include: Bryan Runyan, Hope, Chaves County director, and W. M. Snyder, Lovington, Lea County director. All three men are ranchers.

The organization which has no permanent headquarters, but usually meets in Roswell, is comprised of Eddy, Lea, Chaves, Roosevelt, Otero, and five other southeastern counties.

This group worked out a deal with the Water Resources Development Corporation, Dr. Irving P. Krick, Denver, president, to conduct rain-making experiments in this area, but arrangements have not been completed to date.

Precipitation Research, which uses silver iodide, exclusively, for seeding purposes has generators at Carlsbad, Cloudercroft, and other points in the area.

A generator originally set up at Hope was moved to Carlsbad.

Results of cloud seeding have been spotty. Last year heavy rains came to the Pecos Valley as a result of seeding at Socorro, and points west.

Report from Arizona

Several other cases of rain far beyond the area being seeded have also been reported. This is due to a shift in cloud formations.

Sometimes results can be quite startling as a release from Dr. Krick's Water Resources Development Corporation indicates.

It reports rainfall 700 per cent of average in portions of our neighboring state of Arizona.

One commercial rainmaker has claimed that cloud seeding can prevent hailstorms like those experienced by Hagerman and Lake Arthur this year.

The seeding would change potential hail into rain by "knocking down" cloud-buildup, according to the rainmaker.

While artificial rain-making is still highly experimental, developing it to a stage where control would be possible would definitely improve the water picture of Artesia and the surrounding territory.

ment in some cases, and it might help take the question of bond issues out of partisan politics.

Amendment 6 would provide for absentee voting. "The present lack of an absentee ballot has the effect of disenfranchising the large number of New Mexicans whose occupations compel them to be away from home on election day," Judah says.

Legislators Pay

Amendment 7 would boost the pay for legislators attending sessions in Santa Fe from $10 to $20 a day. A more-pay proposal for legislators was soundly beaten by the voters two years ago.

However, "it should be noted that even a high rate of pay for members of a small legislature would not bulk large in the total cost of government. It is notable also that many legislators serve at a financial sacrifice to themselves; than an increase may help to allow wage earners and operators of small businesses to serve in the legislature without undue personal sacrifice," according to the Judah bulletin.

Roswell SSA Agent To Be In Artesia Monday, August 20

Ralph H. Yowell, field representative of the Roswell Social Security Administration office, will be in Artesia Monday morning, Aug. 20 to assist Artesia residents to file claims for old age or survivors insurance benefits. He will be at the New Mexico Employment Service office from 10 a. m. to noon.

According to Yowell, women now have a greater stake in federal old age and survivors insurance, resulting from the 1950 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Most important changes enable children of women workers to draw benefits, in addition to dependent husbands and widowers. Children under 18 may receive benefits based on their mother's wage record, provided the mother was employed about one-half of the three-year period prior to her death.

Stepchildren may qualify for benefits if they were receiving at least one-half of their support from their stepmother.

Women and children now benefit from another amendment giving wage credits for military service during World War II. A credit of $160 may be given for each month of active service in the armed forces between September 1940 and July 1947, even if death occurred in service.

These credits toward social security insurance will qualify many widows and children who otherwise could not have qualified for payments.

Full-Color Booklet Issued To Promote Oil Progress Week

An attractive full-color booklet which describes the workings of the American petroleum industry in easy-to-understand language, has been produced by the Oil Industry Information Committee for distribution by oil companies during Oil Progress Week, Oct. 14-20.

The booklet is entitled "Oil Serves You." Sixteen pages in

Auto Dealers Fighting New Tax Measure

If Congress enacts into law the proposed increase in excise taxes on new automobiles, passed by the House last month, the price of automobiles will rise $50, Clyde Guy, local area chairman for the National Automobile Dealers Association, said today.

The present discrimination is made far greater by the House bill which would raise manufacturers' excise taxes on new automobiles from 7 to 10 per cent. The bill lowers non-automotive tax levies and raises automobile levies," he pointed out.

"In order to raise treasury revenues by $412 million, car and truck owners would be taxed an additional $502 million more annually than under current rates. Automobile dealers do not object to the reduction in manufacturers' excises on non-automotive products but dealers do object to increasing the obviously discriminatory excises which will be paid by car buyers and owners," he added.

Guy estimated that taxes take from 24 to 28 cents of every automobile dollar and, in the case of gasoline, amount to about one-third of the retail price. If this dangerous trend is carried to excess, he emphasized, the purpose of automotive taxation will be defeated, production crippled and the automobile returned to its early status as a product only for the wealthy."

The National Automobile Dealers Association has urged the Senate finance committee, which has just concluded public hearings on the proposed law, to consider other types of taxation, to curtail need-length, it tells the story behind the story—the work that must be done and the amazing total of men and materials employed in moving oil from subterranean depths to America's 150,000,000 consumers.

A foreword points out that the task of siphoning oil from the ground, processing it and transporting it requires 2,000,000 men and women working at some 4000 different jobs. In six basic steps, the operations of the industry are explained under such headings as "What It Takes to Drill an Oil Well," and "What It Takes to Run a Refinery."

The final phase is "What It Takes to Keep You Comfortable," a report of particular interest to women on the research work done by oil companies in producing new conveniences and comforts for the home.

Distribution of the booklet, "Oil Serves You" is expected to exceed 1,000,000 or more copies. Press proofs are now being distributed to thousands of oil companies, trade associations, distributors and others and advance orders are being received.

Summer on Had Students

Albuquerque's worst in many years the University of New Mexico has been a summer session. Classes ended, and the 1952 who enter eight weeks summer are taking their vacations. Among the summer stories was the announcement that the University will begin a $2,000,000 construction program. The expansion plan includes new buildings for chemistry, geology, physics, and law.

Under the Stars six speakers to the camera drew the largest crowds in the history of the summer lecture group of lecturers was by Albuquerque's Erma...

in June, UNM was host to high school band clinic. The university was the National Marble Tour sponsored by the VFW. The Foregin Film Society of the city presented the summer with outstanding French, Swedish, and American...

Song composer Alonzo Elliott, who wrote "There's a long, long Trail A-Winding," enrolled at UNM as a graduate student in music. Capt. A. M. Granum, commanding officer of the University's NROTC unit, was promoted to rear admiral and retired after 30 years service with the Navy.

Americans Gobble Newspaper Supply

Artisans and others are getting hungrier for news, or so it would seem from a study by the National Geographic Society, reported in the Publisher's Auxiliary for July 28.

This study reveals that newspaper production in Canada, which is the chief supplier of U. S. newsprint, is up from 3,235,000 tons in 1939 to 5,279,000 in 1951.

Two principal reasons have been advanced for the growing American demand: more newspapers being sold and many papers are bulkier. Although the United States gets 80 per cent of Canadian production of news print, this is still not enough to supply the 6,000,000 tons used by publishers last year.

Always Breaking Routine

WE DO A GREAT DEAL of talking in these days and times about the 'good old days'.

We talk about the good old days because there are many things about those days we still recall with a great deal of pleasure.

Perhaps we are not so happy when we recall some of the salaries we received but we do appreciate the prices we paid for food stuff and some of the relations we had with the old time grocer were very pleasant. There wasn't the hustle and the bustle of today—we had time to stop, to visit and to talk.

But times have changed and they continue to change. We perhaps would not want to give up our radios, our cars, the modern transportation; the sanitation which prevails today; the modern conveniences we have. We wouldn't want to go back to some of the old ways of doing things and of the old fashioned medical care; the lack of hospitals and of modern facilities.

But back in these days we could do a little planning. It wasn't just a mad scramble to make money. We had some concern for our neighbor and our friends. We had time to go and see them and to visit with them. We could plan our work ahead of time and the unexpected was not all happening. It was back in those good old days, of course, that the operating of a business was much easier and simpler.

We weren't troubled in those days with the sales tax; or the withholding tax; the unemployment tax; the social security (old age) pension levies. We didn't know the meaning of the word income tax.

It also was the time before the strikes were a common practice and a common occurrence. Today we never know from one day to the next what is going to happen and to occur.

Today we never know when we report for work whether we are going to work or whether we are going to strike. Business people never know whether the trains are going to operate to make delivery or whether the employees are going to strike.

No one is sure the telephones are going to operate or whether they are going to be silent because of a dispute over wages or hours or something.

Life was a little more normal in those good old days and seemingly we got along a little better or at least just as good.

But now from day to take we always have strikes confronting us about something or other. And although sometimes we may not feel these concern us—they still do.

It is amazing just how a walkout of the coal miners or the steel workers or the automobile makers affects us in Artesia. But they do because merchandise we offer for sale is not available. Not only the business here is denied the item it sells but its salesmen and workers cannot work.

We are still of the opinion there must be a way to halt these strikes and the stopping of American industry without calling a strike and disrupting our business over the entire nation. There must be a way to reach an agreement without tying up industry and halting our way of life. And surely there is a way these things could be settled for a longer period than just a few months.

Most of us wish that at least we could have at least one full year of peace—peace when business and industry were not halted by walkouts and strikes.

Surely there is a better way to work out our disputes between management and labor than to employ strikes.

Merely Summer Slow-Down

THE FACT THAT the promoters and racket workers have not been much in evidence for the past few weeks is merely due to the summer slow down. They will be back with new schemes of various kinds to try and work the public. And they will be successful.

For years we have seen these outsiders come into our community to business which belongs to the local merchants—belongs to them because they are in business here; pay licenses and taxes to be in business; provide jobs for local people; provide payrolls for our community and make their gifts and contributions to our community.

It is the business firms, the professional people and the citizens of Artesia who make Artesia. The outside salesman who comes in to take the local business takes the money out with him. It doesn't come back and it doesn't continue to circulate here.

But, we say, this has been done for years. And every year the hope is voiced that we will 'wise up' to just what these people seek and want and that we will refuse to patronize them. When we stop giving them business they will stop working our community.

But we can expect some outside photographer to come along sooner or later with some promotion scheme. He will seek to get some local concern to work with him and to help him—some local concern which urges and advocates trade at home but which forgets that he must also practice buying at home. These photographers are here seeking the business which belongs to our local photographers.

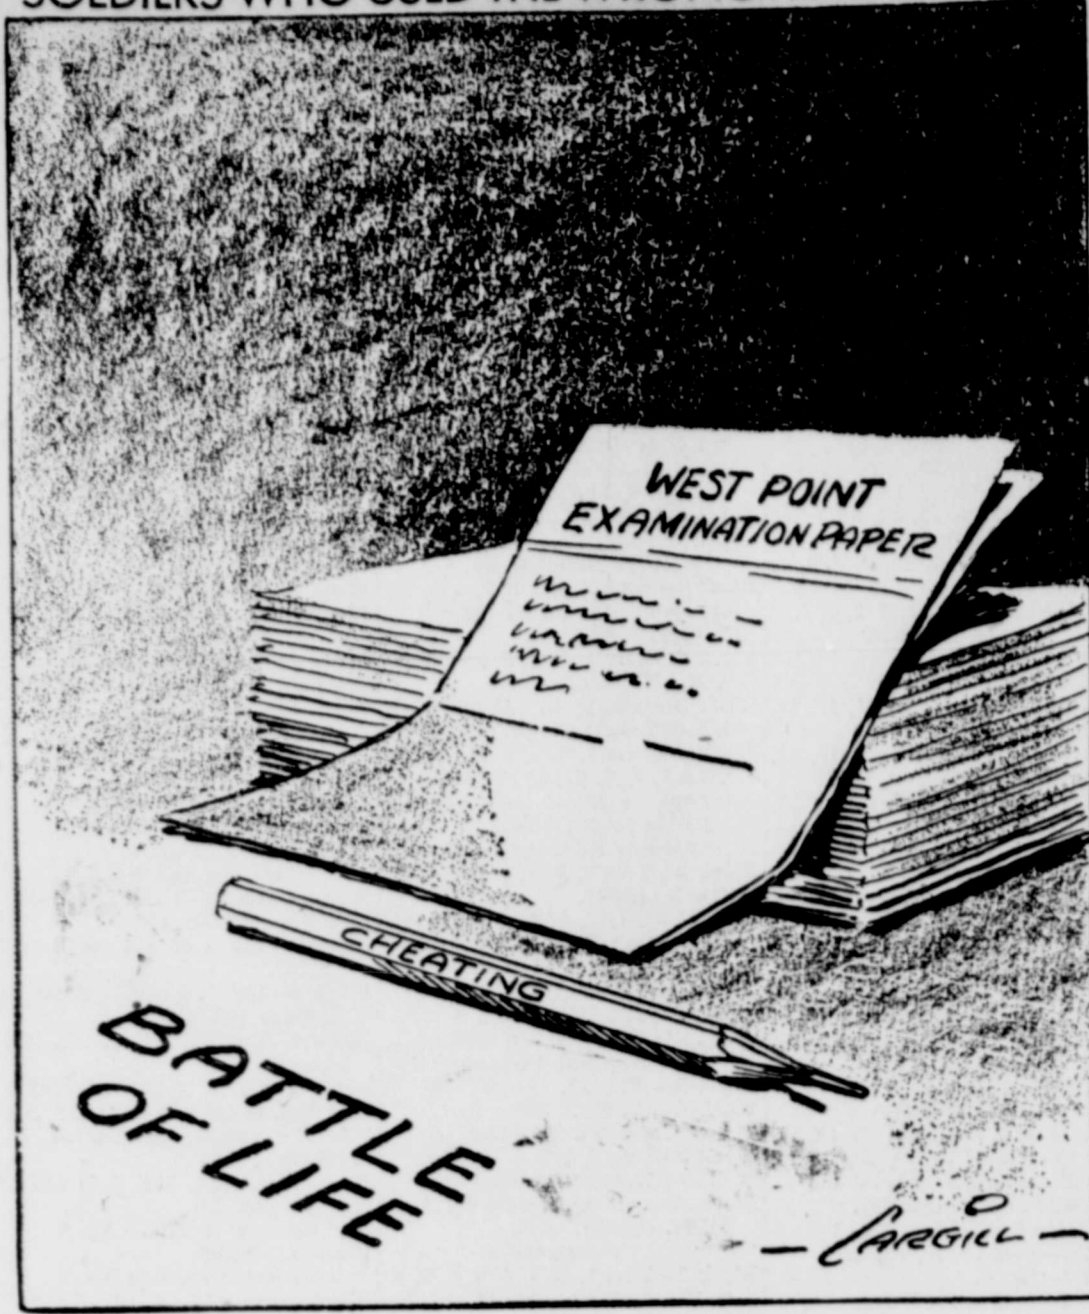

We will have salesmen in selling everything from hose and raincoats to magazines. They are smooth and slick and they will make a good sales talk. They will secure some business, too.

But perhaps the greatest field for sales is that of various kinds and types of advertising. Everything in the way of advertising is sold and unfortunately there are always those ready to put out their money. They will buy something of no value from the stranger when they refuse to purchase legitimate advertising from the local salesman.

We can and will halt these various schemes and rackets when we desire to do so. All we have to do is to refuse to buy and they soon will not be working our city.

The time to get ready for them and to start halting their sales—sales which belong to our local business firms—is now before the campaigns are started again.

AMERICAN RICHES

When is a man rich? When he has a private yacht? Or when he has a pair of shoes?

An American schoolboy might give the first answer, a Chinese peasant the second. Anyway, it's all relative.

And that leads us to the United Nations survey which states that average incomes in the United States are nearly five times more than in Russia, nearly 30 times more than in Asia. One important fact we would point to here is that, according to these figures, the average Russian income is about six times as high as the average Asian.

Does this suggest why American propaganda on that continent may sometimes overshoot the mark? To the average Asian visiting Russia the Soviet standard of living would be very impressive, while still remaining within conceivable attainment by Asian efforts. But the fabulous prosperity and luxury of American life leaves him untouched. Surely, he is apt to think, the democracy preached by Americans can have no conceivable relation to his entirely different needs and problems.

It is not enough, therefore, to point with pride to American accomplishments—any more than one would lead a threadbare workman shopping for bargains to a Fifth Avenue show window. If democracy is not to look like a luxury article—fine for those who can afford it—then it must be presented on terms adapted to the resources and earning power of the Asian masses.—Christian Science Monitor.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

BUFFALO, WYO., BULLETIN: "The first cause of inflation is runaway spending by the Federal government. President Truman has asked for wide control powers over every aspect of the national economy, as a means of 'controlling inflation.' But the chief cause of inflation is already—and always has been—under his immediate and direct control. No emergency powers are needed to curtail his wild spending spree. All that is needed is a will and a determination to stop crazy, reckless, wasteful spending in Washington."

ROSEBURG, ORE., NEWS-REVIEW: "The control propaganda, spread over a long period of years, has weakened faith in free enterprise and free competition. Confidence in our American system of economy has been sapped by continued boring from within by propagandists. Which is better, to have the price of beefsteak advance 10 cents, or to have the ceiling controlled at 8 cents, and then pay 25 cents in taxes to regulate the price, pay subsidies to grain and livestock growers?"

SYCAMORE, OHIO, LEADER: "Representative John Phillips, of California, brings to discussion into every home in the land, the terms of life insurance. It was a struggle to pay for those first insurance policies. Today the $10,000 of insurance paid for in 1913 would buy only $3,800 worth of consumers' goods. It would have needed $26,000 of insurance then to have $10,000 in purchasing power today. That's inflation. Is it not time to think about deflating the inflators in public office?"

RACE "PRIDE"

There is lots of talk about the race question—mostly it is race equality. If I chose to boil it down to an important essence, I would say the talk should be about race "pride" not "equality." I would raise my sights—shoot for something higher versus bringing everybody to an average or medium grade. Who is to say who is the best, bronze, black or white. Let each man prove his metal and superiority. The dark man of Arabia, the darker man of Abyssinia, the bronze Cherokee, the White Russian—all should have pride in his race, and do. In 1,000 years from now, let him who shows ability and honest effort profit in accordance with such. Don't reduce him to a 50-50 average equality.

Today's talk is dragging the race question in against its will by a gentry who hopes to profit from such agitation. Some seem to scent votes in the effort—others profit as professional stirrer-uppers of class confusion.

Such a sensible and upright person as Jersey Joe Walcott does not clutter up the headlines with complaints and laments. Jersey Joe pulls on his gloves—and may the best man win. Jersey Joe is not for equality—he is for superiority. If every man was equal, who would be champion.

Industrial News Review.
Having removed ourselves from participation in government we look upon it as a wealthy old uncle whom it would seem we wish to die that we may inherit mythical benefits. . . . We storm the ramparts of our economy to demand that which will impoverish us. Americanism is a beautiful and a workable thought but it takes people to make it work and to make it beautiful. The same people can destroy it through selfishness.—Silver City, N. M., Enterprise.

Home on the Range

(By Bill Robinson)
The American Legion in New Mexico has started a program through its posts in the state to familiarize every voter with the proposed amendments to the state constitution, which will be voted upon Tuesday, Sept. 18.

The Legion doesn't particularly champion any of the measures, but it does want of the veterans to vote one way or the other, which is good citizenship in its essence.

Only a couple of the amendments are involved, and it is very much to be doubted whether the veterans really attempt instruction upon them one way or the other.

One of the amendments require more than a simple majority, the exception being that one which would allow absentee voting.

This has to have two-thirds, which means that it has two strikes on it to start. There is a very general skepticism of the trustworthiness of New Mexico politicians when it comes to handling this vote. It was this doubt that led to the ditching of this plank once before.

As a rule the proposed amendments are simple enough. It is not difficult to spot those that are supported by special interests. Some are good and a few are vicious. The reader can decide for himself after studying the eight amendments.

1. To repeal the prohibition of the sale of liquor to the Indians.
2. Creation of a non-member state board of education, with power to elect the state superintendent.
3. To permit legislature to set salaries of state supreme court justices, who now legally get $6,000 a year and a couple of thousand more by pretextual allowances.
4. To hold bond elections at any time.
5. To allow legislature to set the salaries of the district court judges, thus elimination excuse for the pretextuals that are now paid the magistrates.

Phil Regan

NEW YORK—The fabulous Monday Regan may be used as the latest vivid example of exactly what it means to these, our United States.

It has been 45 years since the dark-haired Regan blossomed as the first of five children born to an Irish immigrant couple in a coldwater flat.

In the interim, he has been a cop (and one; when he was still a student policeman walked into a pool parlor and arrested a derer), a singer, a movie actor, a successful actor in oil—and a grandfather. If Martrich is the most glamorous grandparent in the world, Phil runs her a close second.

These days Regan keeps himself busy singing the Armed Forces Show, a television aired each Sunday. According to his press agent, he does the chiefly out of patriotism. He has acquired, evidently, all the in the world—after, of course, Bing Crosby took his share.

Along with all this loot, Phil has acquired more acquaintances than Ninon de Lenclous—and none of them holds less of an office, not to mention senator or Speaker of the House. President Truman described him on occasion as his favorite singer, and there was rumor at one time that Regan was going to be named ambassador to Ireland. His credentials, while not visible on the surface, were as strong as those of Pearl Mesta. He didn't get it, though.

EACH WEEK THE REGAN SHOW is broadcast from an Army camp or Navy base, and recently the site was Naval Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball was Regan's guest, retailed by giving Phil a Navy citation for his work for the forces.

Kimball was such a hit on the show that Regan decided to brass—and he used brass to get the brass. On a Monday he took a plane to Washington. At the Pentagon, he made a line for the office of Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall had no appointment with the Virginia gentleman.

"I doubt very much," Marshall's secretary said rather than "that you can see Mr. Marshall today. He has so many meetings, and Admiral Sherman just has died, and—"

"Just tell him Phil Regan is outside," the man with the brass. When Regan speaks, evidently, some men listen. The secretary inside—and was out in a minute. "He says to send you with Marshall, and emerged after a while to proceed about business.

This was the business: In quick succession, and without appointments, Regan saw Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Marine mandant Gen. Clifton Cates, Director of Defense Mobilization E. Wilson, Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Omar Bradley, and his old friend, Secretary Kimball.

IF YOU WANT TO WONDER why all these big wheels concerned with one of the world's great crises, took time out of working day to sit around and talk with a singer who wouldn't do so—and you have a good point there. It does seem they have something better to do.

However, the point being stressed here is that all the brass available. I don't think it could happen anywhere but in this and remarkable land. Can you, for instance, imagine an music hall entertainer pounding on the door of No. 10 Downing and commanding Clement Attlee to be brought out to see his Russian vaudeville juggler barging into the Kremlin for a few minutes' chat with holy Joe?

For Mr. Regan, it must be said that he appreciated the dinner of the VIPs he had barged in on. "Were you impressed, somebody asked him, that evening. "I started being impressed. I met my first precinct sergeant," the ex-cop replied with a modesty.

I wouldn't suggest that Mr. Regan's procedure be followed by everyone who wants to see the high brass. Nervy Irishmen, ever, are free to try. They've had a fine example.

IN BALTIMORE the F. Scott Fitzgerald furore reminded me of a book buyer, Vic Slifer, wanted twenty-five copies of The Night autographed in a hurry and sent a messenger with them in a taxicab to Fitzgerald's home on North Charles street.

Exactly seven hours later the messenger returned, starr-eyed, with nineteen copies duly signed. He didn't know what had happened to the rest of the books. He had no idea he had been gone all day. All he knew was that he had had a wonderful time and that nobody could talk like Scott Fitzgerald or be such a charming host. "One thing he said puzzled me though," admitted the lad. "Just as I was leaving Mr. Fitzgerald said, 'Do you mind if I ask you a question? Which one are you, Mr. Hochschild or Mr. Kohn?'" walking against red lights and not standing on the curb until the light has changed. Upper left inset shows the slogan of the Amarillo Jaycees for their anti-jaywalking campaign during August. The Roswell Daily Record editorial comments on the situation in the Chaves county seat: Any hour of the business day you will find the worst cases of jaywalking and building. Pedestrians stroll across the street in the middle of the block, apparently with no concern for their own safety. Meanwhile drivers double park, scoot out of holes that look impossible, and scare the daylight out of drivers who are attempting to exercise care and drive in their own lane of travel. Of the two, however, the jaywalker is the worst menace, and by far more aggravating.

Mississippi Doesn't Separate Twin Cities

A common geography fallacy of Southwesterners and of others is that the Mississippi River divides Minneapolis and St. Paul. This is not true. The Mississippi does bisect the Twin Cities but only for a six-block section, and that in the outskirts of both municipalities, can one say "on this bank is St. Paul, on the other Minneapolis." Cecil Morgan, now of Hobbs, former advertising salesman for The Artesia Advocate, and a long-time resident of Minneapolis, said the "Mississippi River Division" was one of major geographic fallacies and one difficult to set right, so firmly is it entrenched in the minds of persons who have never lived in Minnesota. AF Regulation 52-3 contains requirements for entrance to Air Force gunnery school and other technical schools.

Jaycees Fight Jaywalking

Ted Lokey, safety committee chairman for the Jaycees, said yesterday that most people jaywalk unintentionally just because "they're in the habit of doing it. It's a dangerous habit," he added. Lokey pointed out that jaywalking consists not only of crossing a street between intersections, but also walking against red lights, not standing on the curb until the light has changed, and stepping out between parked cars. To make Amarillo citizens aware of the campaign, Jaycee members last week stenciled numerous signs on sidewalks in the city. They carry the ominous warning: "Death Stalks Him Who Jaywalks!" Cut lines below a photo read: An unidentified Amarillo pedestrian violates two of the rules of safe walking in this photo, as a News-Globe photographer catches him crossing a street between intersections and stepping out from behind a parked car. Four Million Acres Of Land Grass-Starved

Of the 70,000,000 acres of land in western national forests grazed by livestock, four million are in urgent need of reseeding to grass, the U. S. Forest Service reports.

The national forest ranges provide seasonal grazing for 9,000,000 head of cattle and sheep and in addition support about 2,000,000 big game animals.

Many of the acres have been overgrazed in the past and now grow so little forage they are largely valueless as livestock and game range. Lack of vegetation also exposes them to soil erosion, the foresters say.

To date, about 333,000 acres of the denuded ranges have been reseeded, 13,000 acres in the southwestern region of the forest service, comprising Arizona and New Mexico.

Doing scientific research at the University of Southern California, Hoult will receive his doctor of philosophy degree at the close of the summer session. He showed pictures of college men to more than 300 students in some cases had the men rated in person.

If the judges knew the men, it didn't matter whether they were wearing work clothes or the latest double-breasted suits — the votes were the same for "best looking," or, by the coeds, "man I'd like most to date."

Upon notification of the election Kimball flew to Chicago to participate in the weekend meeting of the International Board of Trustees.

The board is comprised of 17 business and professional leaders from the United States and Canada who direct the policies of Kiwanis International.

such notification does not officially confirm the fact that the individual is actually a prisoner, as the information comes from enemy sources.

The Department of Defense notes that there can be no absolute guarantee of mail delivery to these men, but that every effort toward that end is being made. The letters should be short, and confined to one a month. As yet, there are no announced plans for sending parcels.

The Department of Defense warns that in the past there have been instances of unscrupulous individuals who endeavor to extort money from the families of service men listed as missing in action, by telling them that their son or husband is a prisoner of war in China, and that for a sum of money the necessary arrangements for the release of the prisoner can be made.

This is of course pure fiction, and any such contacts, either by mail or in person, should be reported to the nearest office of the FBI, before any other action is taken.

WHAT'S MY NAME?

Reddy Kilowatt, of course. But doggone it, I've discovered some folks don't know that. What's more important, they don't know that I'm the symbol of dependable electric service, electric service by business — managed, taxpaying electric light and power companies.

Some folks, I've discovered, get confused and think that I represent government power projects, or else they don't know the source of their electric power.

Shucks, I don't think any folks out here don't know who I am, but just to make sure, remember when you see me, you know that a business — managed, taxpaying electric light and power company serves you. You know, too, that you have the best in electric service, Reddy Kilowatt service.
