Two-Year Delay In Sewer Plan Speedily Ended

A protest on a long-overdue sewer-laying job got quick action Wednesday night from Mayor J. L. Briscoe.

E. P. Tatman appeared before the council to say that in September 1950 the city council had passed an ordinance providing for installation of a sewer on 10th Street.

"Here it's two years later and my cesspool is overflowing," Tatman stated.

Supervisor J. D. Josey, Jr., said the previous council had delayed the sewer while studying an "overall sewer program."

Mayor Briscoe asked Josey if the sewer could be laid Thursday. Josey asked the mayor whether he wanted the sewer or pipe to the new city water well laid first. The mayor turned to Tatman and said the sewer would be laid Thursday.

Police Magistrate Collects $1,037 In June Fines

Fines totalling $1,037 were collected by police magistrate John Ellicott during June, according to the monthly report issued by the judge.

Judge Ellicott also reported $469.50 collected in parking meter fines.

Carlsbad Ground Water Levels Hit New Low

Ground-water levels in the Carlsbad area were more than 20 feet lower in January 1952 than in January 1951 under an area of about 4 square miles lying east of the airport and west of the Southern Canal, according to information obtained by the geological survey, United States department of the interior, in cooperation with the New Mexico state engineer.

A maximum decline of more than 23 feet was observed. Declines of more than 16 feet occurred under about 7 square miles in this area, where water for irrigation is obtained solely by pumping of ground water.

In the area east of the Southern Canal and between 1 and 7 miles south of Carlsbad, where ground water is used for supplemental irrigation of lands to which surface water normally is furnished, ground-water levels were 2 to 8 feet or more lower in January 1952 than in January 1951. They were 6 feet or more lower under about 7 square miles.

Greatest in 1951
The net annual declines in water levels in the area west of the Southern Canal were greater in 1951 than in any previous year since records were begun in January 1947. The net declines in the area

Council Debates Paving Plans

"When you offer property owners a deal to pave streets at $1 a property foot and they turn you down, what are you going to do," Sam Sanders, paving contractor, queried the city council Wednesday night.

The council didn't know, but decided something would be done about it.

Discussion of paving city streets began when Hugh Kiddy and W. E. Ragsdale, Artesia realtors, appeared before the council to point out that "our streets are going to pieces."

"We wonder if streets can't be improved," Kiddy said. "We don't want to jump on you, but we would like some explanation."

Sam Sanders told Kiddy the council had instructed him to investigate a paving program for the city, and that "we are trying to get these streets paved."

But, Sanders said, where six months ago a $200 per block paving program on thirteenth street would have repaired that thoroughfare, about $600 a block is required now—and the street is getting worse.

Sanders asked the city council for help in getting the city's paving program lined up. He said he had other jobs offered, but would like to do his work "at home" before leaving.

Mayor J. L. Briscoe told the council that "it is possible, in fact probable, that in the very near future Thirteenth street will be attended to at very little cost to the City of Artesia."

Artesia streets will receive much needed patching "as soon as possible," according to city council action Wednesday night. The city authorized purchase of 150 yards of hot mix patching material to be purchased at $6 a yard.

City Supervisor John D. Josey, Jr., said patching would begin very soon on all city streets needing work.

W. E. Ragsdale, Artesia realtor, had appeared before the board to protest the condition of city streets, especially a chuck hole at Fifth and Texas streets.

City Council Approves $125,000 Revenue Bonds

Chamber of Commerce Studies Community Promotion Program

A program to make Artesia attractive to new citizens was lengthily discussed by a Chamber of Commerce membership meeting held Thursday night. Discussions by members speaking from the floor and by C of C President Ralph Hayes turned to a community-wide sales job on "selling Artesia."

Tax Commission To Hold City Hearing Tuesday

A state tax commission hearing on a budget proposed by Artesia city council to operate the city from July 1, 1952 to June 30, 1953 is scheduled for 9 a. m. next Tuesday, July 15, at City Hall.

Hearings on city budget for Hope will also be held in Artesia, with commissioners slated to hear protests on city budget proposals for that community at 10 a. m.

Later in the day budgets for Lake Arthur at 2 p. m., Hagerman at 3 p. m., and Dexter at 4 p. m. will be held in the city hall buildings of those communities.

In the Artesia budget are proposals approved by the city council which provide for across-the-board salary increases for all city employees, as well as three-months emergency operation of Artesia General hospital.

The budget as proposed and passed by the city council also provides money to finance first year debt service on up to $350,000 in revenue bonds.

In making this provision, councilmen felt that it would be better to provide for bond issues than to be without funds in case the city is suddenly called upon to rapidly expand its water and sewer service systems.

About $300,000 in the proposed budget is earmarked for paving of and maintenance of city streets in the coming year. The money is raised from a cent-a-gallon gasoline tax and is earmarked for that purpose only.

Traffic Survey Is Scheduled for Artesia 'Soon'

A traffic survey in the City of Artesia to be conducted by the state will be provided at no cost to the city, Mayor J. L. Briscoe has announced.

Mayor Briscoe said that "within a short time" about 15 young men will undertake the traffic survey here. Procedure calls for the young men to stop all traffic units to find out their destination, plus other pertinent information. The survey men will also quiz pedestrians.

"This will provide valuable information to businessmen about people's shopping habits," the mayor said, "and won't cost anyone a cent."

Lions Slate Turtle Derby For July 25-26

The second annual terrapin derby to be sponsored by the Artesia Lions club has been set for Friday and Saturday, July 25 and 26, Lions project chairman Charles Johnson has announced.

Johnson appointed Floyd Springer as chairman of the project.

Springer reported that more than 500 turtle have already been captured by boys at Loco Hills in anticipation of the derby. The prize winning turtle catcher tracked his quarry to capture them, Springer observed.

Named to work with Springer was Clayton Menefee, designated as chairman of the turtle arrangements committee. Menefee will supervise construction of a stout pen to house the fleet-footed racers.

Springer also stated that new rules call for turtles entered in the terrapin derby to measure 2 1/4 inches across the undershell in order to qualify.

Turtles which have been collected throughout the early summer by enthusiastic youngsters will soon be brought into Artesia in preparation for the derby, Springer said.

The derby is set up to run two nights, with contestants purchasing turtles to use for the night's racing event.

Changes in ground rules for the Terrapin Derby are being considered by the Lions committee, and will be announced in ample time to inform all contestants.

Hospital Rates Are Outlined Before Council

Despite "adjustments" in charges at some rooms in Artesia General hospital, rates are still lower than in most hospitals, Miss Margaret Hughes, administrator, reported to the city council Wednesday night.

Miss Hughes made a statement on hospital rates in answer to a question from Councilman Marshall Rowley, who asked that the administrator "clarify" rumors a hospital rate increases.

"The Sisters charged from $5 to $12 a day at the hospital," Miss Hughes reported, "but we had no idea how much they charged for which rooms. The Sisters were reluctant to outline their charges."

"Therefore, the hospital board set up the schedule which seemed most fair. We were guided by number of patients in a room, and whether there was a private bath or not."

"There are two private rooms with private baths for which the Sisters had charged $12 a day. We raised this to $15 a day. This is the only actual increase; otherwise the hospital room rates are in the same category as that used by the Sisters," Miss Hughes noted.

The administrator added that an investigation of new hospitals in the East revealed $10 a day was about "the lowest" charged for any room.

"I feel that our rates are very reasonable here," Miss Hughes added.

Then you have not doubled the rates," Councilman Rowley said. "Very definitely not," Miss Hughes replied.

Advance Ticket Sales Indicate REA-LoCo Hills Softball Crowd

Heavy advance sale of tickets indicating at least 500 persons will attend the REA-LoCo Hills All-Stars softball game at 8 p. m. Friday night has been revealed by Artesia Kiwanis club, sponsors of the exhibition.

The game will be played in Driller park tonight as a benefit performance, with proceeds going to aid Kiwanis club civic projects. Indications are that tonight's softball game will have an excellent attendance.

Kiwanis members said tickets will be on sale tonight at the gate. Admission is set at 50 cents for adults, 30 cents for children. Kiwanis members will also man concession stands, which will be in full operation.

LoCo Hills All-Stars have won 8 games, lost five to date for a .615 average. The Artesia REA's, under direction of Red Goodwin, have won two, lost none, giving a 1.000 win average.

Close-mouth LoCo Hills All-Stars coach Jack Case changed plans about announcing the probable All-Stars lineup for tonight's game.

"They have a secret pitcher in Don Heathington," Case declared, "so we're going to have a few secrets too. In fact, no one knows what we are going to do when we get on that field. We'll have nine men there."

Tonight's game will provide a preview of the 1952-53 REA Travelers basketball team, which tied for sixth place in its first year of National Industrial Basketball league play during 1951-52.

In the REA lineup are Don Heathington, Darrel Davis, Don Holt, Clyde Bratcher, Dee Nutt, Willie Hamm, Bill Lee, Jim Juarez and Roger Stokes.

Car Collision Results in Minor Skull Fracture

Linda N. Hemler, 14, of 606 Washington street was hospitalized at 7 p. m. Tuesday after the car she was driving collided with another machine at the corner of Seventh and Bullock.

Miss Hemler was reported to have sustained a minor skull fracture. Crouch clinic officials said her condition is "good."

She collided with a vehicle driven by Melba D. Duke, 21, of 1004 Mann. With Miss Duke were Linda Carol, 4, and Dianna Gay, 2.

Police gave this account of the accident:

Miss Hemler was going north on S. Seventh street. She stopped at a stop sign at the intersection of Bullock on Seventh. Police said she then proceeded into the intersection.

Police said Miss Hemler failed to give right-of-way to the car driven by Miss Duke, which was traveling west on Bullock.

The car driven by Miss Hemler reportedly damaged the lawn of the F. E. Waltrip home at 702 Bullock, where the machine came to rest.

Both vehicles were damaged heavily.

City Resolution Favors Stop-Go On West Main

A resolution favoring erection of a traffic signal light at 13th street and Main was voted by the city council Wednesday night.

The resolution was proposed by Hugh W. Kiddy, Artesia businessman, who pointed out that crowds from the drive-in theater and baseball game often hit the intersection at the same time, creating a traffic problem.

Kiddy proposed that a stop-go traffic light be erected, and told the council he believed it could be done if carried through "the proper channels."

TO FENCE SWIM POOL

Artesia municipal swimming pool will have a fence erected about it, according to a city council motion passed Wednesday night. The city has on hand 6-foot cyclone fence which will be used to fence the pool. The action was taken at the request of an insurance company, and in answer to complaints that children were using the pool at night.

Bond Issue to Finance Disposal Plant Building, Water Cleaning

Artesia city council Wednesday night unanimously adopted a motion to authorize issuance of $125,000 in water and sewer revenue bonds to rehabilitate and enlarge the city's disposal plant and to clean water mains clogged by mineral deposits.

The water and sewer revenue bonds will be designed for retirement from revenue received by the city from increased water rates. The council will also start proceedings to call in the city's three previous bond issues for refinancing. New bonds will be issued for the old so that all city bonds will be on a first lien basis, drawing a more attractive rate of interest.

Motion authorizing the city to begin the bond issuance process came after lengthy discussion, and after reports by several councilmen that the city disposal plant east of town "is in terrible condition . . . a menace to health."

The new bond issue will be designed as an open end issue so that further revenue bonds may be issued if the city experiences a sudden growth and is called on to make immediate expansion of its water and sewer bonds.

City Attorney Neil B. Watson pointed out to the council that the body may issue revenue bonds as long as revenues are 1 1/2 times the debt service required for principal and interest payments on the bonds.

Lengthy Debate
The city council has debated re-vamping of the disposal plant for several months, and has previously at times been on the verge of issuance of the bonds for at least re-contruction of the plant.

According to statements in Wednesday night's meeting, the city will probably closely follow the recommendations of Harkenhoff & Turney for the disposal plant. The Santa Fe engineering firm has suggested a $93,000 improvement program for the disposal plant, which was designed to serve a population of 5,000.

The vote to authorize the bonds Wednesday night was precipitated by reading of a letter from a bonding company by Mayor J. L. Briscoe. The bonding company expressed an interest in reports of city interest in an improvement program.

Mayor Briscoe, after reading the letter, asked the council "Well, what are we going to tell these bond people. Are we interested in bonds or are we not?"

Disposal Plant
Councilman Marshall Rowley then asked "What about the disposal plant. We have got to do something about it."

Mayor Briscoe said the present disposal plant is "exactly like having nothing at all. The pumps are broken so that for the past few days none of the sewage has been treated."

When some councilmen expressed the observation that public reaction would probably be against spending of $93,000, Mayor Briscoe said "we would have to consider that the people elected us to make decisions as we see fit, in the best interests of the city. If we cannot do that, we might as well fire everyone . . . who wants to make America grow."

J. D. Josey, Jr., city supervisor, took the floor to recommend improvement of the disposal plant and cleaning of water lines, which are now plugged by calcium and other mineral deposits, cutting flow from 30 to 60 per cent.

Josey said, "We don't have to 'I think we should do this now,' make a decision here on the water part of the improvement program. That will be forced on us when the city grows. For the present we can easily take care of the city's water needs with the help of our new well."

Attorney Instructed
Attorney Watson was instructed to notify all bonding companies which have expressed interest in proposals at Artesia for improvement of the water-sewer system of the city council action. The letter, according to instructions, will call for written proposals to be submitted when the council next meets July 23.

It was tentatively agreed to hire Harkenhoff & Turney as the engineering firm to design disposal plant improvements, since that firm had already conducted preliminary investigation to prepare a comprehensive report given the city three months ago.

The motion to authorize the bonds was unanimously passed, with councilman Harry Gilmore absent.

Refinancing of the city's existing bond issues will take an estimated 60 to 90 days, according to conversations at the council meeting. Preparation of plans for disposal plant improvement will take an

Miss Hughes pointed out that some accounts receivable are bad accounts and must be charged by the hospital as charity. Some of the accounts receivable, she added, are covered by insurance policies, which take time to process.

She pointed out that the hospital will receive $1,800 a month from six Artesia doctors. Under arrangements by the city council, the doctors are to pay $300 a month apiece.

The financial report does not show receipts from the city—a $1,924 transfer of funds—or receipts from doctors, Miss Hughes stated.

Peanut Acreage Is Increased In Two Counties

An additional allotment of 1,884 acres for Valencia and Virginia types of peanuts has increased New Mexico's total peanut acreage to 6,983 acres for 1952, according to a recent announcement from the secretary of agriculture.

The increased acreage allotment will be prorated according to the average acreage of Valencia and Virginia types of peanuts grown on each farm in 1949, 1950, and 1951. Other states sharing the national increase of 32,639 acres for 1952 are Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia.

Half-Million Acres Reforested June 22 Eighth

Reforestation has hit its pre-war stride with 456,370 acres planted in the fiscal year 1951, according to the forest service of the U. S. department of agriculture.

This brings the total acreage of reforested land in this country close to 7.7 million acres, including planting by the forest service, soil conservation service, Tennessee Valley Authority, and the department of interior, as well as states and private landowners.

Although 1951 tree planting showed a drop of 41,000 acres from the 1950 record, it surpassed the highest five-year average of 433,400 acres, established between 1937 and 1941 when the civilian conservation corps and the prairie states' shelter-belt program were in full swing. The discontinuance of large-scale federal planting and diminished growing of nursery stock during the war years cut tree planting almost in half between 1945 and 1949. Federal planting and nursery production are not yet up to pre-war levels.

preservation of our way of life, has been selected for the chairmanship.

"If we are to be successful in this crusade, we should have an Americanism chairman in each club, district and state. These appointments should be made at one before ending club activities for the summer.

"A program will be worked out during the early summer, so that all clubs may commence their campaign as soon as the clubs start functioning in the fall.

Objectives—

"In order for you to understand the type of program being planned, the following objectives are listed:

1.—A campaign to get out the vote next November.

2.—A study of comparative forms of government, showing the advantages of our representative form.

3.—A study to be made of labor-management relations. Women should be cognizant of the damages to our democracy if controversy continues between these two groups.

4.—Clubwomen will be urged to review the background of our early history and the struggle made for representative government.

- 5.—A program to revive interest in Americans who have achieved greatness.
- 6.—A campaign to have American history required for graduation from high schools and colleges.
- 7.—A thorough study of American art, music, literature, and outstanding historical events.

8.—Greater religious participation. Crusade to have entire families attend church together. Emphasis on Bible readings in the home, grace at meals and a study of religious principles as they apply to our democratic way of life.

9.—Campaign for the promotion of women in public affairs.

10.—Urge forums in all groups—club, district, and state—giving all sides of controversial issues, allowing plenty of time for questions from the floor. (A revival of the Old Town Hall.

Concrete Streets can TAKE IT

Concrete streets have built-in strength, stamina and durability—and can be designed for any service requirement. Concrete is an all-year, all-weather pavement because (1) its gritty surface is skid-resistant, wet or dry, and (2) its rigid construction bridges weak spots in the supporting soil. You'll appreciate these facts most when mud holes, ruts and bumps make other streets impassable.

Rodriguez Scatters Four Hits as Drillers Sweep Midland By 6-0

Artesia hurler Mike Rodriguez scattered four hits across nine innings to trimly shut out Midland Indians by 6-0 Tuesday night. Three of the hits came in the sixth inning but the rally was effectively bottled.

Rodriguez allowed no hits for five innings before lowering his sights in the sixth, when Earl Bossenberry, Pat O'Keefe, and Garland Dinkle banged out safeties.

But Driller team play rescued Rodriguez from the trouble brewing when centerfielder Bill Brown hit into a double play between Rodriguez, catcher Rudy Briner, and Joe Bauman at first.

Artesia scored one apiece in the first, second, and fourth, and sewed up its six run lead by knocking out three in the fifth.

Joe Bauman was held hitless by Israel Ten, who allowed every man except Bauman to get one safety. A switch on the Zeke Bonura switch called Water in from left field to pitch to the big Artesia first-baseman. Waters first walked Bauman, then struck him out, hit him with a pitched ball, and forced big Joe to ground out.

Ten then took over for Waters on Bauman's last trip to the plate, walking him to first.

In addition to his sixth inning troubles, Rodriguez faced difficulty with loaded bases again in the ninth inning. Catcher Joe Decker singled and Rodriguez walked pinch hitter Floyd Martin and shortstop Scooter Hughes with two away. But first baseman Earl Bossenberry grounded out to end the Indian chance.

Rodriguez walked seven, gave up four hits for no runs. Ten walked two, allowed eight hits for five runs in nine innings. Waters was credited with no hits for one run in one-third of an inning.

Longhorn Annual All-Star Is Set For San Angelo

The Longhorn league's sixth annual all-star game will be played in San Angelo the night of July 25, loop president Hal Sayles announced this week.

Squads are being picked by ballot among league managers and sport writers, from cities with teams in the league, Sayles pointed out.

On the East team will be players from San Angelo, Sweetwater, Big Spring, and Vernon. Slated for the West are players from Odessa, Midland, Artesia, and Roswell.

The West has won all five games in the all-star contests to date. In 1951 the West won by 8-4 at Roswell under the captaincy of Al Monchak, Roswell manager.

After players for the two squads are elected, they will choose their own managers. Ticket arrangements for the all-star will be announced at a later date.

Midland Downs Drillers 3-2 Wednesday

Midland's Indians turned the tables Wednesday night to edge Artesia's Drillers by 3-2 in the second of a three-game series in the Texas city.

The final game in the series was to have been played Thursday night. Artesia is scheduled to play Sweetwater at Sweetwater in the first of two games tonight, and will then go to Vernon for to more away games.

The Artesians will return here next Tuesday, July 15, against Big Spring for two games, and then two games apiece against Vernon and Sweetwater.

Wednesday night's win shoved Midland back into third place in the Longhorn league. Artesia had won the previous night's game by 6-0.

Artesia's three errors were bunched in the fifth inning, when Midland scored two of the three runs. Rookie Frank Fernandez gave up only five hits for three runs while on the mound for Artesia.

Keith Nicolls, right-handed Midland hurler, allowed seven hits, well spaced across the route. Artesia scored only in the first inning off Nicolls, when both Driller runs crossed the plate.

One of Artesia's runs in the first was a homer by catcher Rudy Briner.

Midland scored its other run in the sixth inning on a base hit.

The Indians committed two errors against Artesia's three.

Public Speaking Program Set By State 4-Hers

The 4-H public speaking awards program will be continued in New Mexico in 1952 for the third consecutive year, according to L. S. Kurtz, state 4-H club leader at New Mexico A&M college.

Thousands of 4-H club boys and girls, realizing that speaking in public goes hand in hand with every type of 4-H project or activity, have taken advantage of the training offered through this program.

As incentives for outstanding records in public speaking in this and 27 other states, gold-filled medals are awarded to the top rating boy and girl in each participating county. The state winning girl receives a beautiful set of silverware, and the outstanding boy gets a 17-jewel wrist watch.

Awards are provided by the Pure Oil Co., which this year also offers two college scholarships of $300 each and two educational trips to the 31st National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November.

Doctor Outlines New Drugs in Kiwanis Talk

Progress in anti-biotics which are designed to combat specific diseases was discussed before Kiwanis club by Dr. Gerald A. Slusser Thursday noon.

"Medicine is an art and statistical science," the speaker pointed out. "It progresses with constant study and experimentation in the laboratory and afield."

Specific drugs designed to combat specific diseases started making their appearance in 1935 with discovery of the first sulfa drug, Doctor Slusser recalled.

Later penicillin was discovered, opening another field of anti-biotic drugs, he added. Discovery of these pioneer drugs was later followed by streptomycin, aureomycin, and a host of other specific drugs, he said.

Spinal meningitis, pneumonia, and other formerly deadly illnesses are no longer deadly, Doctor Slusser declared. Surgery, he added, has been much safer than ever before.

Application and results which may be expected from the newer and little known anti-biotics were discussed by Doctor Slusser. Amazing results are expected from some of these newer wonder drugs, he said.

Many of the specific drugs used today will probably be discarded five or six years from now because of newer and more powerful drugs which will be developed through constant research, the doctor stated.

City to Paint Street Markers On Curbstones

Street markers 6 1/2 feet high which would be sunk into Artesia street corners with 4 1/2 feet left above the ground were recommended to the city council Wednesday night by John J. Clarke, Jr., chairman of the council's street and light committee.

Mayor J. L. Briscoe said he and Councilman Harry Gilmore had found one ton of metal street markers in the city warehouse which had never been erected.

Asked for an explanation, City Supervisor J. D. Josey, Jr., said vandals had torn street signs down as fast as they had been put up, and he saw no use in putting up more signs, only to have them torn down.

Mayor Briscoe proposed that street signs be painted on curb corners at intersections. After discussion, the council favored this method as a temporary measure.

Lions Volunteer Little League Umpire Program

Artesia Lions club voted Wednesday to sponsor an umpire program for Little League baseball games. Lions volunteered to provide two umpires for four games a week through the remainder of the season.

A film on Little League was screened before the club by Lion Tom Brownlee and Bill Hinde.

Lions also discussed the second annual Terrapin Derby, which will be held June 25 and 26.

New members C. M. Van Zandt and Tom Brown, Jr., were welcomed into the Lions club.

Pres. Jack Fauntleroy announced that Vernon Mills, William Siegenzhiler, and Ed Shockley, vice presidents, will announce their standing committees for the coming year at the next meeting of the club.

Closing of Third Street Protested Before Council

Closing of one block on N. Third street from Main to Texas was protested by W. E. Ragsdale, Artesia realtor, before the city council Wednesday night.

"I have property on S. Third street," Ragsdale said, "and I believe the closing would be detrimental to my property. I have paid taxes here for 46 years and believe I am due some consideration."

"You said Third street is blind, but what about Main street. Isn't that blind? That's all I have to say," Ragsdale concluded.

The council took no action on the protests.

Carlsbad—

(Continued from Page One) east of the Southern Canal in 1951 were nearly equal to the declines that occurred in 1947.

The large net declines of water level in 1951 were the result, in part of increased pumping for irrigation occasioned by deficiency in surface water for land of the Carlsbad irrigation district and by deficiency in precipitation, which amounted to about 6 inches as compared with a normal of about 13 inches. Also, the declines were caused, in part, by deficient recharge.

Recharge to the ground-water body in the area west of the Southern Canal is normally, in part, from floods in Dark Canyon and leakage of water from the Southern Canal. Both these sources were deficient in 1951. Recharge to the ground-water body in the area east of the Southern Canal is normally, in part, from return of surface water applied to the lands and leakage from the canals.

The lowest January levels on record in the area west of the Southern Canal were those of this year. Over much of that area they were nearly 30 feet lower than in January 1947 when records began. However, in the area east of the Southern Canal, water levels in January 1952 were still somewhat above the low January levels of 1948.

Long-term declines of water level are likely to occur west of the Southern Canal, the change from year to year being dependent upon the amount from pumping and the amount of recharge, which are influenced by the amount of precipitation.

Game Letter—Pecos Symposium On Wildlife, Conservation Set

State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker said today that arrangements had been completed for a field symposium on watersheds,

The council did not formally make a motion to hire Harkenhoff & Turney, but set only tentative agreements to hire that firm, and to contract the disposal plant construction and water main cleaning.

Calvary Baptist Church to Hear Guest Speaker

The Calvary Missionary Baptist church will have Rev. Graham B. Harvey to be guest speaker at the Sunday morning worship hour.

Bro. Harvey has attended Jacksonville, Texas and also Wayland college at Plainview, Texas.

Bro. Harvey and family are to soon be leaving the states as missionary from the North American Baptist Association to go to Brazil.

The public is invited to hear Missionary Harvey as he speaks to the Calvary Missionary Baptist church, located at Eighth and Washington, Rev. Everett M. Ward, pastor, stated.

Continued significant yearly declines of water level are not expected east of the Southern Canal, as pumping will be materially reduced during periods when adequate surface water is available and irrigation return will replenish the ground-water reservoir.

A small supply has been prepared of tables listing the water levels in about 75 wells in the Carlsbad area in January 1952, the change in water levels from 1951 to 1952, and the highest and lowest January levels on record. Copies are available as long as the supply lasts, from the U. S. Geological Survey, Ground Water branch P. O. Box 443, Albuquerque, N. M.

recreation, wildlife, and range management to be held in the Pecos country, June 29 through July 2.

The session will be co-sponsored by the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish and the local U. S. forest service office who will play host to guests representing conservation agencies from both Arizona and New Mexico. Special invitations have been mailed to livestock associations, resort owners, wildlife officials, water users and others, urging them to attend the meeting.

"The purpose of this symposium," Parker said, "will be to examine the important upper Pecos watershed, analyze its uses, values, and problems and correlate the functions of the watershed with its intrinsic worth."

Headquarters during the four-day gathering will be the old Panchuela Ranger Station at the head of the Pecos. Several field trips to nearby areas are also included for the visitors.

District Warden Tom Holder of

Taos, in cooperation with Colorado game wardens, recently tracked down a group of 11 game law violators who paid a total of $1,550, in fines, plus court costs, as a result of the killing of five New Mexico elk.

The guilty parties, all Colorado residents, poached five yearling elk from a remote area of the fabulous Vermejo Park ranch adjoining the Colorado line early in June and transported the meat back into their home state.

Ernest Casias, a Vermejo cowboy, found the remains of the elk at the head of Number One creek near the Colorado-New Mexico border. He reported the find to John Brewer, a patrolman for the ranch who, in turn, contacted Warden Holder. Calling in Warden Earl Downer and Philip Hawker from the Colorado Game Department, the group visited the scene and gathered what evidence they could locate.

At no time during their investigations did they have more than scanty information to work with, but they knew the guilty parties had been making raids on the Vermejo elk for many years. Acting on a hunch, they obtained a search warrant for the home of one suspect and to no one's surprise, found a large amount of elk meat on the property.

The original find led to a chain of developments that ultimately brought the entire case to light and the guilty parties into court for illegal possession of elk meat. Heaviest hit of the group was Eloy Romero of La Valley, Colo., who paid $250 in fines and faces 90 days in jail for his part in the affair. His ten accomplices, all living in the La Valley, San Pablo and San Luis area, were fined a minimum of $100 each.

In his report of the case, Warden Holder praised the excellent work of the Colorado and Vermejo Park people and added that, in his opinion, it was the best case he has handled during 20 years as a law enforcement officer.

Ed Bishop and H. L. Steele, both Dalhart, Texas, found fishing on the Cimarron and Costilla rivers excellent last week-end. It was so good, it cost each man $100 fine and an additional $6 in court costs. When Patrolman A. C. Ledbetter of Cimarron happened by, the two men had a total of 111 fish in their keep—just nine trout short of four times their legal limit of fish per day or in possession.

By April, 1953, some two million Britons will be in the armed forces or directly engaged in defense work.

Dismissing an Officer

DISMISSAL OF AN Artesia deputy sheriff this week for reasons not known to him or his friends again serves to underline the job insecurity confronting hired New Mexico public servants.

We do not here enter the argument as to whether reasons for firing Deputy Sheriff Ralph Smith were right or wrong; there may have been good reason and there may not have been. We do not know, simply because Sheriff High has not given any reason for Smith's dismissal.

But we do not believe it is just to fire a hired public servant without giving that man a good sound reason for the dismissal. Smith claims he has no idea why he was fired. That is neither fair nor just.

It is this type of hiring and firing that undermines public faith in our state government; it is especially this kind of firing that leads the public to believe politics is involved in the hiring and firing of men for such important positions as that of law enforcement.

We are often surprised to find the public in New Mexico believes its public servants—at least its police officers—are protected by civil service regulations, which do not permit arbitrary firings. This is not the case; there is no civil service protection for police officers, and other public servants, or the public in New Mexico.

Again we state that we are not arguing the right or wrong of this dismissal. We do protest against the method, and against neglect in state law which allows a public servant no recourse in appeal on the decision of a supervisor to fire him.

The dismissal of Smith may have been justified or it may not have been. There is a likelihood that we may never know, for there is no chance of appeal.

A bill which would have given police officers, city, county, and state—civil service protection was killed in the last legislature, largely through the opposition of a city police chief who believed it robbed him of the right to hire and fire.

A civil service law properly drawn can take politics out of law enforcement and many other appointments to positions on the public payroll.

Kiwanis Softball Tonight

ARTESIA KIWANIS Club tonight presents a benefit softball game between the Loco Hills All-Stars and the Artesia REA softball nine at 8 p.m. in Driller Park.

Tonight's softball exhibition will be good entertainment, the public may be assured. It will also benefit the many worthy projects undertaken through the year by Artesia Kiwanis. This club sponsored delegates to both Boys and Girls State, and has consistently chalked up a record of worthwhile projects which have aided the city.

Admission for tonight's game will be 30 cents for children and 50 cents for adults. Proceeds from the game are earmarked for the club's project fund, and will return to the community many times over in the completion of activities which promote the welfare of those most needing aid.

Thus Artesians have a two-fold motive for attending tonight's Kiwanis exhibition game between REA and Loco Hills. It will be an entertaining ball game between two good teams, and the admission proceeds will go into Kiwanis' treasury for use in that organization's worthwhile civic work. We urge Artesians to buy tickets—and to attend.

City Budget Hearing

A HEARING ON the 1952-53 budget set up by the city council to operate Artesia for the next year will be held at 9 a.m. next Tuesday, July 15, in City Hall.

We urge as many Artesians as can find time from the press of business and jobs to attend that budget hearing, to find how and for what their money shall be spent and to criticize those items they do not agree with. That is the purpose of the budget hearing.

Such hearings serve a real need, and they are effective. Protests by taxpayers in past budget hearings have often resulted in changes in budget proposals.

The budget is not final until after the tax commission has given everyone an opportunity to review and discuss it. We urge Artesians to find time to attend that hearing.

Ranchhands' Rodeo

DESPITE THE WORK involved every year in producing the United Veterans' club rodeo, many Artesians were disappointed in that organization's decision not to hold the rodeo this year.

The Artesia Roping club will attempt to bridge the gap on a somewhat reduced scale, however, and Artesia will have three days of rodeo beginning August 14. The rodeo is strictly for non-professionals, and should draw some of the top ranchhands from across the state to compete in the event.

We congratulate the roping club for expanding its field of interests into so ambitious an enterprise as sponsorship of this rodeo. We also would like to add our word of encouragement as the club seeks to give the city a permanent and well-built rodeo grounds.

We trust Artesia businessmen and residents of the city will do everything possible to assist the roping club in successfully staging this first Ranchhands Rodeo.

CONCEALED WEAPONS

In the old days, when the west was really wild and open, when the range wars were at their height, the saloons saw plenty of killings and women had little protection, concealed weapons may have been a necessity. (Though history would indicate that the man who did not carry a gun lived longer than the man who did; if you lived dangerously the odds were against you).

But that era has now slipped into history and lives today only in the movies, for the purpose of getting in box office receipts all over the United States.

And today a concealed weapon is thoroughly dangerous; it doesn't give the other man a fair chance to defend himself. Perhaps we should go back to the old custom that every man in a bar parks his firearm on top of the counter or with the bar-keep, and retrieves it only when he goes home.

Still better would be an extension to every state of the union of the law that concealed weapons may not be carried except by special permit. It would prevent a certain type of unpremeditated crime and save lives.—Taos El Crepusculo.

NO CONVENTION HALL

Albuquerque got only two of the four state political conventions this year, and considering the fact that it has no proper convention hall it is lucky that it got those two.

Civic leaders appear to be unable to come forth with any acceptable suggestions on how to solve the convention hall problem. The bonds voted, and the money derived from the sale of city land lie idle while we continue to haggle and do nothing about an auditorium.

In the meantime the convention visitors that we do get are open in their expressions of wonder at the backwardness of the city.—Albuquerque Journal.

NOT VERY NEIGHBORLY

We wonder if there is any way that the state authorities of New Mexico can tell those of Texas to go to perdition, and make it stick.

Governor Shivers of Texas has voiced objection to the proposal to build the Two Rivers flood control project west of Roswell, that has had the approval of federal engineers, and which may some time or another become something more than a paper project.

The Texas governor also disapproves of the use of the old Hondo reservoir to check the flow of water, declaring that it might affect the amount of water reaching Red Bluff, in which Texas is interested.

The governor of Texas, of course, wants all the water that can be drained from New Mexico sources, and maybe that is the very thing that one could expect him to do. On the other hand, there appears to be a larger element to consider than the small amount of water that finally gets to Texas users from the flood stages that sometimes occur on the Hondo.

That larger consideration is that Texas appears perfectly willing to demand water at the sacrifice of Roswell residents and dwellers in the Hondo valley who may also be flooded at times.

Property damage from the flooded Hondo has run into many thousands of dollars in Roswell in the past, and it has been expected almost annually that some one would be hurt by waters that have been beyond control up to now.

Obviously the governor of Texas is not willing to do that. He is perfectly willing for Roswell to sustain its losses from floods in order to secure a doubtful amount of water. It isn't neighborly to say the least.—Roswell Record.

JUST POOR FIGURING

Backers of Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma claim that eight of New Mexico's 12 delegates to the national convention are supporters for the Sooner state contender for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

Perhaps one might figure that it is a nice gesture to make to a neighbor, but that is not a profitable thing when one is playing the practical political game. Senator Kerr is a fine man, no doubt. We had some association with him when he was elected governor of his home state. And we have a high regard for his personal abilities, character, and so on.

But a high personal regard for anyone doesn't necessarily mean that he has political possibilities above whatever office he might be holding.

That is the case with Senator Kerr. His chances of becoming the nominee are so slim that one can't count them at all now. One must figure, of course, that lightning might strike and that Kerr would be in the way of the bolt. But that is so improbable that it can't be written into the estimate of prospects.

So, the state delegates are aligning themselves with a hopeless candidate, whereas it might be that they would be smarter politically if they expressed no preference, and worked the best deal they could in the convention.—Roswell Record.

WARREN DELEGATES OFF FOR THE GOP CONVENTION

HEADING FOR SACRAMENTO to join the northern California delegation, Chicago-bound delegates pledged to California Gov. Earl Warren, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, swarm around the locomotive of the streamliner "West Coast" in Los Angeles. A total of 96 delegates, alternates, newsmen, secretaries, wives and children left Los Angeles. Gov. Warren, his wife and three daughters accompanied the delegates in a private car. (International Soundphoto)

Cattle Need Dry Roughage, Experts State

Once a locomotive engineer became annoyed at hearing the steam safety valve pop off—tied it down and sat on it.

You, too, may be "tying down a safety valve" if you pasture cattle on young, lush legumes without adequate coarse forage or dry roughage, livestock authorities point out.

Even among blue blooded aristocrats of the cattle herds, belching is not only socially accepted but a real necessity. Gas formation is a constant by-product of the work of micro-organisms which live in the cow's paunch and help her digest feed. Bloat occurs only when that gas is trapped in the paunch and is not relieved by belching.

Many factors related to bloating may not yet be understood. But, nutrition scientists agree that feeding a coarse roughage with sharp edges "tickles" the lining of the paunch and stimulates belching. Dangerous, acute bloat does not occur as long as cattle are belching freely. This is why it is always a good management practice to be sure that cattle are filled well on dry roughage before starting legume grazing, and to feed at least small amounts of dry roughage as long as the legumes are soft and fast growing.

Any palatable dry roughage is usually quite satisfactory. Most feeders in cotton-rowing areas prefer cottonseed hulls because they are easy to feed without waste and appear to be especially well adapted to preventing bloat because of their many sharp irregular edges and their capacity for water absorption.

Also, hulls are easily mixed with cottonseed meal, molasses or other ingredients which add sufficient palatability to insure the cattle eating enough roughage. Special attention is needed the first day the cattle are turned on young legume pasture. Be sure the cattle are well filled on roughage or more mature pasture forage. See that plenty of palatable water is available before the cattle start grazing. Mid-day or early afternoon is a better time to start grazing than early morning.

Always avoid starting grazing when the young legumes are covered with dew or wet from rain. It is sometimes best to let the cattle graze only a short time the first day if they appear to be eating heavily. If cattle are removed from the young legume grazing, the same precautions must be observed in starting them back on the legumes.

Pasture mixtures which contain some grasses are much less likely to cause bloat because the sharp grass blades are inclined to perform some of the same function as that of dry roughage. Some cattle and sheep raisers do not attempt to graze legumes when they are exceptionally tender. However, when bloat may be prevented, early grazing is usually advisable.

Self-feeding cottonseed hulls or other dry roughage usually insure satisfactory consumption to prevent bloat and also avoids the "washy" digestive condition frequently associated with young forage. Five to ten per cent of either cottonseed meal or molasses may be added to increase palatability.

Chronic bloaters and other exceptional cases which do not respond to the usual bloat prevention practices, require special attention. Sticking an animal with a knife or trocar may become necessary to prevent death but should be the last resort. A halter with a stick tied in the mouth may induce belching. A stomach tube or rubber hose may sometimes be passed down the throat to relieve gas pressure. Your veterinarian may recommend other emergency measures.

A&M Professor Is Honored Albuquerque

M. G. Anderson, professor of biology at New Mexico A&M college, has been elected a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The fellowship is based upon recognition of outstanding achievement in scientific research and teaching. Election is by the national council upon recommendation of the sectional executive committee.

Anderson is the author of a biology laboratory manual now in its third edition which is used in several colleges. He is the author of many research publications and has presented papers at sectional and national meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and of the Society of Parasitologists. Anderson has also been honored by having a species of parasite named in his honor, proteromeira andersoni.

Anderson came to New Mexico A&M in 1937 as an instructor in biology, became an assistant professor in 1938, an associate professor in 1946 and was made a full professor in 1951.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YUGOSLAV peasant, high-pressured into subscribing 50 dinars to the ninth state loan of the year, demurred, requiring tartly, "What is the security for this loan?" "Our beloved Marshal, comrade," snapped the solicitor. "And if any ill befalls the Marshal?" "In that case, comrade, there is always the beloved Party." "And suppose something happens to the Party?" The solicitor was out of patience by this time, and exploded, "Holy Stalingrad, comrade, wouldn't that be worth a measly 5000 dinars to you?"

The family doctor had diagnosed old skintint Barrington's illness five times, but the unconvincing patient called in a city specialist for further consultation. Then he told the doctor triumphantly, "That specialist says your diagnosis is cockeyed." "Okay," snapped the doctor grimly, "the autopsy will show who's right."

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti—This is one flight you have undertaken with only the smallest quail. The little man at the controls of your DC-4, with the tanned and genial face and the khaki baseball cap on his head, is Basil Rowe—"the world's most experienced pilot." Pan-Am makes the boast and it is no idle one, for Captain Rowe has flown for 23 years, starting at a county fair in Prattville, N. Y., and ultimately logging enough air miles to take him around the world 150 times.

The good captain lives up to his reputation and except for a brief period off the Florida coast where the Air Force is holding maneuvers and invites us firmly to drop from 9,000 feet to 7,000—into the middle of a storm—the flight is smooth. We touch down at Haiti at 4 p. m., punctual to the minute—and there it is again, just as you left it... the warm, lush, endlessly lovely paradise, with its riot of flowers, its sleepy natives, its mountains wreathed in laundry-white clouds, its timeless peace.

Technically you have come this time for the world premiere of a movie called Lydia Bailey, fashioned from Kenneth Roberts' novel—an hilarious idea, of course, when you think that one of these days the movie will be playing at the Roxy.

However, these are things the movie people like to play with, so you grin and go along and welcome the opportunity to return to this island Eden, with which you fell in love back in 1950 during President Magloire's inauguration.

ONCE HERE, THE DAYS GO BY SWIFTLY and softly. Was it Saturday you met the mayor? Sunday when the president had you over for champagne, at the striking and rooco palace? You can't remember. The hours, the days mean nothing here. The native women still make their two-day trips to the mountain tops by foot, to return to the village with their three dollars' worth of produce in baskets on their heads. The men still sleep in the sun, and because you are a relaxed-type New Yorker, you soon see the merit in their attitude. You, too, become startlingly adept at sleeping in the sun.

There is spearfishing a mile out into the coral reefs of the Caribbean one morning—an honestly fascinating piece of business as you slip on goggles and float through the blue water investigating the colorful bottom of the sea—and then the inevitable: you come across Higgins' American bar.

Why does one do it, always, in a foreign land? You drift through the streets, soaking up the native color, and then you suddenly see the sign "American bar" down the street and you go for it like a homing pigeon. So it is in Paris, in Rome, in London, anywhere that you are an alien, thousands of miles from Times Square, which is, naturelement, the heart of civilization.

HIGGINS IS TOM AND MRS. HIGGINS IS GUSSIE, a striking young lady who hails you in your tracks because she looks like Kate Hepburn with blond hair. Talks like her, too, and since you have loved Kate for years, it is easy to just sit there, in the quiet, cool little bar, with the native children peering in through the opened doors on the street, and listen to her. She tells you about life back in New York as a Powers model—"I wasn't very successful, really"—and Tom talks to you about the mechanics of his British sports car, which is all Greek to you even though you owned one.

So the day goes by, and when night comes and you have finished dinner at your El Rancho hotel, high in the mountains, you find yourself sitting by the floodlight swimming pool with another striking blonde—this one imported, being Phyllis Batelle, the woman's editor of a wire service—and yapping champagne and dissecting Life, as of course, you should.

Ultimately you sip politely, watch the lights go out until the pool is in darkness, bid Miss B. goodnight, and go to bed. Champagne, flowers, swimming pools, striking blondes, American bars—there must be more to life than this, you think, but a man must settle for the conditions that prevail.
