Record Number Hunters To Go Into Mountains

With the biggest day of sales to go yet today, Artesia had already sold a record number of big game and hunting licenses by noon Thursday, an Artesia Advocate reveals.

Already advance scouts reporting back from the mountain areas have described a large number of deer this year awaiting the hunter smart enough to bag one.

A threatened postponement of the season which loomed throughout this week has not materialized, and State Game Warden Elliott Barker said Thursday the season will proceed as scheduled.

Dry forests posed a serious fire threat due to the small army of hunters bound for the hills, but rain in many areas has relieved the situation, and extra patrol personnel are being added to spot fire as soon as possible.

North Eddy county will send an estimated 2,250 to 2,500 hunters into the mountains. From $70,000 to $85,000 has been estimated as the outlay for the group in car preparation, miscellaneous equipment, and supplies.

Most hunters from the Artesia area will be in the mountains for only a three-day period beginning early tomorrow and ending late Sunday, or in many cases, late Monday afternoon.

Selling licenses in Artesia are Russell Auto Supply, Brainard-Corbin and L. P. Evans hardware stores, Paul's newstand, and Gambles-Western Auto store.

Hunters will have spent between $8,000 and $10,000 alone in the Artesia area for hunting licenses.

Also opening Saturday are turkey and bear seasons, for which big game licenses allow the holder to hunt, also.

Many stores in Artesia will close Monday to give their bosses and employees a three-day vacation and many a three-day sojourn in the mountains. Most larger businesses will remain open, however, on Monday, including both local banks.

Business Standstill—Whether most stores are open or not Monday, business will grind to a virtual standstill Monday.

All indications in the Artesia area point to a much bigger turnout than even in record-breaking 1951.

Legal target for deer hunters is buck only in this area, and the buck must have a forked horn at least one inch long.

Because of dryness in the forest areas where most North Eddy hunters will pursue their nimble targets, hunters have been especially successful.

Armistice Day Observance Set Tuesday

All leading Artesia businesses, including banks and larger retail firms, will close Tuesday to observe Armistice Day the Chamber of Commerce has reported.

The same firms now plan to be open Monday, C of C Mgr. Bob Koonce has reported.

Reports that some small firms will close Monday and open Tuesday have been received, but the C of C manager said this is against chamber policy and advice, since the legal holiday is Tuesday.

Braceros Begin Annual Exodus From County

Braceros have already begun their exodus from Artesia as cotton picking draws into its final month in North Eddy county, Carl Foster, manager of the New Mexico employment security commission office in Artesia, reported Thursday.

Foster said Artesia Alfalfa Growers association had 2,444 Nationals at the end of October. Already 743 have voluntarily terminated their contracts, one has died, and 25 have absconded.

AAGA had 3,218 at the start of the month. Eddy county members had 949 braceros at the end of the month. Thirty-three have absconded, from a total of 982 in the city at the first of the month.

Foster urged growers who intend to use Mexican Nationals on a year-round basis as farm and ranch employees to contact his office in Artesia at the earliest possible moment.

At Least Two Autos Pilfered; Warn Motorists

Theft from at least two cars and probably several more have brought a warning to Artesia motorists to lock their cars, especially if there is any valuable, easily-detached shopping or accessories inside.

This week, Tommy Joy of Flying H ranch reported theft of a new headstall and reins from his car, parked in the 100 block of N. Second. Jim Knauf of 1407 Yucca said his car parked at Fourth and Texas was also robbed of several packages.

Knauf added several other cars parked in the same area had been pilfered.

Artesia Shows Surprising Republican Trend In Five Of Six Divisions, Demos Win Many

New 70 Per Cent Vote Record Set

Artesia achieved a record voter turnout of almost 70 per cent across the city as a whole in Tuesday's presidential election. Voter turnout in only two precincts fell below 70 per cent.

Many officials say that if poll books were corrected to remove names of citizens who have moved away or have died, the percentage would actually be higher.

Of 4,880 registered voters, 3,411 went to the polls Tuesday, an average for the city of 69.90 per cent. Previous record for the city was attained during the presidential and gubernatorial election of 1948, when 2,297 voters went to the polls for a 59 per cent record.

Voter turnout in only the City Hall and Roselawn school precincts fell below that anticipated by officials. At City Hall, 304 of 491 registered voters cast ballots for a percentage of 61.19.

At Roselawn school 550 of 882 voters turned-out for a percentage of 62.36.

Other percentages for Artesia divisions: Masonic Temple (6-A)—783 registered voters, 558 ballots cast, 70.24 per cent.

Central school (6-C)—1,252 registered voters, 936 ballots cast, 74.76 per cent.

Veterans building (6-D)—833 registered voters, 641 ballots cast, 72.50 per cent.

Senior high girls' gym (6-E)—580 registered voters, 422 ballots cast, 71.65 per cent.

In the city as a whole, there are 4,880 registered voters. A total of 3,411 went to the polls for an overall percentage of 69.90.

Intensive get-out-the-vote campaigns were conducted through the Artesia Chamber of Commerce and by Artesia Boy Scouts.

Chamber of Commerce, in addition to localizing national publicity on voter turnout, also organized a residential block check system in which 75 housewives asked their neighbors if they had voted. Boy Scouts hung Liberty Bell replicas on hundreds of doorknobs in the city, urging voters to go to the polls Tuesday.

Democratic strength in Eddy county outside Artesia piled up Tuesday to give a strong majority, but the party's showing was cut down over that displayed in previous years.

The county gave Adlai Stevenson 1,300 votes more than Dwight Eisenhower, and Sen. Dennis Chavez almost 2,000 more than Republican opponent Patrick J. Hurley.

Artesia and three northern Carlsbad precincts showed surprising Republican strength, but this was effectively countered by traditional Democratic strength in other divisions.

GOP Cuts in On County's Democrat Vote

Democratic strength in Eddy county outside Artesia piled up Tuesday to give a strong majority, but the party's showing was cut down over that displayed in previous years.

The county gave Adlai Stevenson 1,300 votes more than Dwight Eisenhower, and Sen. Dennis Chavez almost 2,000 more than Republican opponent Patrick J. Hurley.

Artesia and three northern Carlsbad precincts showed surprising Republican strength, but this was effectively countered by traditional Democratic strength in other divisions.

Almost 13,500 votes were cast in the county out of a registration of 19,000, setting a record of almost 3,500 votes more than cast in the 1950 state elections.

Both Gov. Edwin L. Mechem and Patrick J. Hurley lost in the county, but both made better showings against their Democratic opponents than in 1950.

Average strength of Democrats over Republicans in the county for states races was 8 to 5.

The county voted: President — Stevenson 7,306 Eisenhower 6,055.

U. S. Senator — Chavez 7,721, Hurley 5,703.

Representatives — Dempsey 8,098, Fernandez 8,004, Guthmann 5,222, and Berkshire 5,072.

Governor — Grantham 7,394, Mechem 3,980.

Eisenhower went ahead of Gov. Mechem.

District officers will attend the session from across the eastern part of the state, also scheduled to attend today's session is Mrs. Aaron Margulis of Santa Fe, state president.

Ticket deadline for a noon luncheon was Wednesday noon. The luncheon will be held in Methodist Fellowship Hall at 12 noon today.

On the morning agenda are reports from all PTA presidents in the district following a welcoming address by Tom J. Mayfield, Artesia superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Eaves will read the roll call, followed by presidential reports and a short business session. Special luncheon music today will be provided by Miss Jean Rogers as vocal soloist, with accompaniment by her sister, Miss Peggy Rogers. Both are music teachers in the Artesia school system.

Next Advocate To Be Mailed Wednesday

Your next copy of the Artesia Advocate will not reach you until next Wednesday morning, due to the Armistice Day holiday next Tuesday, Nov. 11.

Post office closing on the holiday makes mailing of Tuesday's paper impossible. Rather than have a completed Advocate held up in the mails for a day, the staff will prepare next week's first issue on Tuesday, rather than Monday, so that it may be as timely as possible.

Advocate offices will be closed Monday, as will many other businesses, in the city.

Sheldon Wins in Hometown, But Falls in County

V. P. "Bill" Sheldon, Artesia's only candidate in Tuesday's election, carried his hometown by a small margin, but lost against overwhelming South Eddy county strength and Democratic force.

Sheldon won 1663 to 1587 in the Artesia precinct over his Democratic opponent, T. E. "Gene" Lusk of Carlsbad, who will be state senator in the next legislature from the county.

He failed to carry any other voting precinct in the county, and lost in the over-all county total 8390 to 4842.

Some observers had anticipated Sheldon would lead his party in losing in the Carlsbad precinct because of county split memories.

Season tickets for Artesia REA Traveler home games will go on sale tomorrow in the offices of Central Valley Co-Op, 115 W. Quay, Mgr. Paul Frost announced Thursday.

Tickets will cover 18 games to be played by the Travelers in Artesia at Junior high school gym. Seven of the contests are National Industrial Basketball League games.

All season tickets are in the reserved section, Frost pointed out.

Site of REA home games has been moved to Junior high because of better and larger playing floor and improved audience seating with greater capacity, Frost said.

New bleachers have been installed at the gym through a campaign carried on among REA backers in which enough cash was raised to buy the new seating.

Central Valley Co-Op hours are from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday. The season ticket sale will continue through November.

First home game of the season is slated for Dec. 8, when Ada Oilers of Houston will play here in an NIBL league contest.

Roselawn Stems Reversal, Total Vote Is Split

Only the staunch Democratic Roselawn division on Artesia's North Side kept the city from going overwhelmingly Republican in Tuesday's general election.

But for the Roselawn division, Artesia would have elected a clean slate of Republicans. Strong Democratic strength in the North Side precinct gave Democrats the bulk of the state ticket below lieutenant-governor.

Artesia voted for Eisenhower over Stevenson 1,841 to 1,455, swung to Hurley over Chavez 1,703 to 1,584, and split on U. S. representatives, favoring Republican Ed Guthmann (1,641) and Democrat John J. Dempsey (1,644) over Republican Homer Berkshire (1,615), and Democrat Antonio Fernandez (1,593).

Gov. Edwin L. Mechem was given the nod by almost 200 over Democratic contender Everett Grantham, who polled 1,538 in Artesia against 1,749 for Mechem.

Artesia then went Democratic down to the contest for four-year corporation commissioner, where the city reversed and went Republican in the last three offices, including state senator, supreme court justice, and four-year corporation commissioner.

Frank Ortiz edged Tibo Chavez by 5 votes, 1,629 to 1,624 in the lieutenant-governor race before the Democratic strength asserted itself.

Democratic Beatrice Roach won 1,653 to 1,506 over Mrs. Gray for secretary of state, and Democrat Bob Castener was a 1,665 to 1,587 winner over the Republican contender for auditor.

Grissom, Democrat, won over Cooper 1,661 to 1,592 for state treasurer, and Robinson narrowly edged Kastler 1,636 to 1,614 for attorney general. Democrat Tom Wiley was favored in Artesia as superintendent of public instruction over Brown, 1,641 to 1,612.

Johnny Walker went over his Republican opponent, G. W. "Dub" Evans 1,647 to 1,606 for commissioner of public lands.

James Lamb was favored 1,641 to 1,608 over George Beach, the Republican nominee, for six-year corporation commissioner term.

The Republican reversal asserted itself in the last three offices, with Kellahin winning 1,635 to 1,602 over Block for four-year corporation commissioner, Shipley over Lujan 1,675 to 1,580 for supreme court justice, and V. P. Sheldon of Artesia 1,663 to 1,587 over Gene Lusk of Carlsbad for state senator.

Without the Roselawn precinct, five other Artesia divisions gave all Republican candidates a 200 to 300 majority in the city, but overwhelming Democratic strength on the straight ticket in the Roselawn precinct edged many offices into

Scorps Decline Challenge

Because of a previous game, Farmington high school has declined to play a Thanksgiving Day football game with Artesia, Senior high school Prin. Travis Stovall announced Wednesday.

Stovall contacted Farmington school officials by phone Tuesday. Farmington informed the Artesia principal a previous date with Durango, Colo., for Thanksgiving Day made an Artesia game on that date out of the question.

Farmington's decision on this second proposal will be learned next Monday, the principal said.

Two Pro Ball Films Slated Monday Night

Two films on professional baseball will be screened for Artesia fans at 7:30 p. m. next Monday, Nov. 10, in Veterans Memorial building.

In announcing the two pictures, Artesia Driller Mgr. Earl Perry said fans will see "Batting Stars of Baseball" and "Inside Baseball," an account of stand-out plays, especially infield.

There is no charge for the general public to see the two sound films, which will make up the first of four or five baseball shows scheduled this winter.

Boy Scout Fund Drive Lags Under Unofficial Goal

Artesia has contributed about $4,500 to the current Boy Scout fund drive, auditor Charles Hammett reported Thursday noon. Goal of the Artesia campaign has unofficially been set at $7,000.

Hammett's report includes $3,200 collected in the advance drive conducted early in October.

No final date on the drive has been set by Charles K. Johnson, campaign chairman, and it is expected the drive will continue until an amount closer to the unofficial goal has been raised.

McGuire Elected Head of ENMU Alumni Group

Artesian Orders Crew to Jump From Burning B-29

Capt. J. D. Roberts of Artesia, commander of a B-29 caught near New Orleans with a burning engine in mid-October, was one of four men to stay with the ship after ordering 10 crewmen to bail out, friends here have learned.

Capt. Roberts ordered 10 of his crewmen to parachute when one engine caught fire. Crewmen bailed out over McNeill, Miss., but a half hour later the big bomber, with four still aboard, landed safely at New Orleans.

The plane was on a routine training flight from Randolph Air Force base at San Antonio, Texas.

The senior instructor aboard the plane, Lt. Col. R. E. Hale, said "Things looked bad when the engine caught fire and we were ordered to jump. We were at about 17,000 feet and it was doggone cold up there."

Capt. Roberts said the pilot, navigator, and engineer stayed with him to safely land the plane. The No. 4 engine had caught fire and burned through the engine nacelle, he reported.

He immediately gave an order for the 10 men in the rear of the plane to bail out, and they did so in less than a minute, he reported. The plane was flying over a high overcast at the time.

The flight engineer cut off fuel and pulled engine switches, dampening the fire. Five minutes later the blaze was brought under control.

Halloween Prank Causes Accident At Lake Arthur

White Artesia police reported a Halloween free of major vandalism in the city Friday night, Lake Arthur sources said pranksters putting a long wooden bench on to U. S. Highway 285 caused an auto to turn over 1 1/2 times.

A long wooden bench had been taken by vandals from Hart store and filling station and placed across the highway. A passing motorist in attempting to dodge another motorist swerving to miss the bench turned his car over 1 1/2 times.

Officers arrested juveniles responsible and obtained a confession.

The wreck at the junction of U. S. Highway 285 and Lake Arthur's Main street was the only major Halloween accident reported in the Artesia area Friday.

Anthropologist Recreates Ancient Eras in Address

On Wednesday afternoon members of Artesia Woman's club and their guests were privileged to hear a talk by Dr. Frank C. Hibben, associate professor of anthropology at the University of New Mexico and curator of the university anthropological museum.

Dr. Hibben is a writer of distinction in his field. In addition to many magazine articles, he has written a number of books, among which are "Treasure in the Dust," "Hunting the American Lion," and "Hunting the American Bear." The last named is this month's selection of the Book of the Month club in France. His books have been translated into several foreign languages.

Knowing his audience would be interested in the background of this section of New Mexico, Dr. Hibben set out to trace the path left here by the ancient settlers. It was a fascinating journey on which he took his listeners, highlighted by his accounts of ancient hunters, their travels, their weapons, and their prey—the huge ferocious animals of the Ice Age.

From discoveries of vast piles of bones of animals, the weapons used to hunt them, and the remains of camp fires of the hunters, the anthropologists have re-created the eras of 10,000 to 25,000 years ago. These discoveries have been made at Folsom, at Clovis, and in the caves in the Sandia Mountains, near Albuquerque. Consequently, these ancient hunters are classified as "The Folsom Man," and "The Sandia Man." Apparently these tribesmen roamed up and down the Pecos Valley also, as their spear points have been located near Roswell.

Dr. Hibben told of back-tracking ancient man by the trail he left, through Colorado, to the northern boundaries of the United States, Canada, Alaska, and the Bering Straits. It is surmised therefore, that Mongolians crossed the Straits many thousands of years ago and came down through this continent; and were the ancestors of the present North American Indians.

Following Dr. Hibben's talk, the group enjoyed a social hour. Mrs. Burl Sears and the hostess committee served refreshments. Mrs. S. M. Laughlin, president of the Artesia club, presided at the tea table. Colorful arrangements of fall flowers were placed throughout the club house.

Special guests at the meeting were members of the Dexter Woman's club.

County Politics Discussed in Rotary Address

Extensive comments and questions followed a political background talk by Bill Dunnam before Artesia Rotary club Tuesday night. The meeting was held in First Christian church rather than the Masonic Temple because of the political situation.

Dunnam stressed Eddy county's political situation, starting with personal experiences of a fiery nature in Carlsbad in 1940, when Dunnam resided in that city.

Dunnam pointed out the present trend in government to bigness and dominance poses a grave danger to the nation. Following the meeting and talk, Rotarians exchanged views with Dunnam in a spirited discussion.

Rotarians were notified by Pres. J. D. Smith that the Carlsbad Artesia pre-game banquet will be held at the Carlsbad Country club and will start promptly at 5:45 p. m. Friday.

Pres. Smith also pointed out there will be no Rotary meeting next Tuesday, Nov. 11, because of the holiday.

Visiting Rotarians at Tuesday's meeting were Jack M. Campbell, Clifford G. Smith, Hugo Anderson, and Kenneth Smith, all of Roswell, and Yorel Harris, Carlsbad.

Canova Roars in 'Oklahoma Annie' At Landsun

Judy Canova, quick with the six-guns and a boisterous song greets audiences as "Oklahoma Annie" in a new Republic production today and Saturday at the Landsun.

Filed in the magnificent new 3-color Trucolor which authentically captures the striking western locale in vivid hues, and balanced with an outstanding cast which includes handsome and rugged John Russell as the modern frontier sheriff, this is Judy's most entertaining and outstanding production to date.

The story which packs plenty of action, suspense, hilarious comedy and tuneful melody, concerns Judy as a small town storekeeper on the western frontier, who, when things get too rough in the town, attempts to emulate her two-gun grandmother who was the first woman sheriff in the west, and clean out the varmints.

Continual flies in the ointment are Paydirt and Blinky, portrayed by Emmett Lynn and Houseley Stevenson, a couple of well-meaning, grisly prospectors, who spend Judy's money as fast as she makes it, and are continually getting her into hot water.

When handsome Dan Fraser comes to town as the new and modern Sheriff, things really start to happen. First, Judy falls blindly in love. Second, Fraser starts to clean up the town including Bull McCready, portrayed by Grant Withers. Third, Judy enlists all the housewives in sort of a Carrie Nation campaign to bust up the gambling houses. Fourth, when the frontier ladies discover Judy is in love with handsome Dan, they temporarily leave her to her own devices.

Artesia Is Rated Favorite Over Cavemen Tonight

Artesia Seeks Second Win in Fifteen Years

Artesia and Carlsbad will be renewing an ancient and sincere rivalry when the two teams meet to slug out this year's installment at 7:30 on Caveman Field at Carlsbad.

Advance ticket sales in Artesia indicate heavy attendance for the game, despite community disappointment over apparent loss of another chance at A-conference honors.

Coach Cal Hall reports a two-week rest for the Bulldogs since the Hobbs victory has allowed the team to mend many injuries. Only two and possibly three "Dogs are still nursing injuries severe enough to drop them from action.

Coach Hall said Wednesday "we're expecting a hard game—period. The Carlsbad game, no matter what either team has done before in the season, is always tough."

Coach Hall gave this account of injuries on the Bulldog squad:

1—Jimmy Dew's injured knee places a question mark over his starting or seeing extensive action tonight, depending on how the injury may have responded to treatment since earlier this week.

2—Roy Johnson is due to have the fast removed from his foot this week, but will not be ready for action until at least the St. Mary's game next week-end.

3—Doug Whitefield has a cold which may hamper his effectiveness tonight, although the hard-driving back has been resting through the week.

4—Perhaps most seriously, pulled ligaments in Larry Beadle's ankle during the Hobbs game may seriously limit his action tonight, removing this hard-working back from much of the game and especially valued kicking maneuvers.

General spirit of the team was reported "high" by Coach Hall.

Artesia will be seeking its second win over the last 15 years in tonight's encounter against Carlsbad. In 1949, the Bulldogs broke a Carlsbad win streak extending 12 years in the traditional rivalry. But in 1950, the championship Cavemen licked Artesia 14-7, and followed up with a 14-0 win in 1951.

Paper facts seemingly favor the Bulldogs in tonight's encounter, but as fans and players well know, the rivalry is never played according to the books, and promises one of the season's top football attractions.

Carlsbad last week-end defeated St. Mary's of Albuquerque 20-0, but were not spectacular in doing so. The Cavemen season record shows a 20-0 win over Bowie, defeat by Las Cruces 19-0, defeat by El Paso 32-19, a tie with Tucumcari 7-7, a 28-7 defeat by Clovis, and a 21-13 win over Albuquerque High.

Carlsbad will enter tonight's fray with few if any injuries; last week-end all first stringers were on the bench for the St. Mary's fray, and Carlsbad Coach Ralph Bowyer experimented with a two-plot system which seemingly proved effective.

Farm Household Furnishings Value Increases

Household furnishings and equipment on U. S. farms increased seven per cent last year. During World War II, farmers wives just couldn't get a lot of the things they needed in the kitchen and other parts of the house. Since the war, with more income and more furnishings available, they've been able to buy more.

More than half of what farm families have spent for household

Local Football Coaches Unofficially Favor New Mason-Dixon Line Football Division in A-Loop

Artesia's football coaches at first thought favor a new proposal to create a North-South New Mexico football division with post-season play-offs over proposals to form an AA conference including only the state's top 8 to 12 teams.

The newest plan, advanced by Bill Bailey, sports editor of the New Mexican at Santa Fe, calls for organization of 14 to 18 of the state's top prep schools in a new league.

Bailey's proposal, one of several offered following a tumultuous A-conference season which finds comparatively weak Farmington the only team undefeated in league play, U. S. highway 66 the Mason-Dixon line of New Mexico football.

Teams north of the line would play each other exclusively in loop play in the new conference, and teams in the southern section would do likewise. Winners of the two divisions would play off, preferably on Thanksgiving Day and not later than the first week-end in December.

The new proposal by the New Mexican sports editor seemingly has gained favor across the state among coaches, who find it more attractive than AA conference proposals recently advanced.

Coaches Reese Smith, Cal Hall, and John Daugherty when contacted Wednesday in Artesia individually expressed preference for the North-South set-up over the double A, although each stressed he spoke as an individual and of course not for the school.

Smith pointed out travel distances would be less under such a proposal, a real champion would be chosen, and above all, the inequity of the present system corrected.

Hall said the AA system would impose a hard schedule on the teams in such a league, seriously sapping reserves.

As far as can be learned, only Hobbs school superintendent Charles L. Mills favors the AA conference, speaking as an individual. He said a plan calling for play-offs would be second best to the AA round robin.

"However," he said, "we need a system that will not place a premium on making a weak football schedule."

Hobbs Coach Duane Fisher said he would like to see either a play-off or AA conference program initiated.

The north-south plan advanced by Bailey is the same used for the annual North-South football game in which top stars from each section are chosen to make up teams.

Under Bailey's tentative proposal, entries would be:

South — Artesia, Hobbs, Roswell, Clovis, Portales, Carlsbad, Las Cruces, and perhaps New Mexico Military Institute or Alamogordo.

North — Albuquerque High, Albuquerque Highlands, Santa Fe, Tucumcari, Raton, Gallup, Farmington, and either Clayton, Los Alamos, or Las Vegas if more than seven teams in the south.

Basketball, track, and baseball, as well as football, would be included in the plan.

Advantages of the North-South plan are said to be:

1.—Determination of a real state football champion.

2.—Elimination of the present, confusing point system.

3.—More attractive schedules for the larger New Mexico schools.

4.—Tightening of schedules in each division, elimination of long and expensive road trips.

5.—More competitive football games with fewer unequal games and high-scoring runaways, plus less injury to players.

6.—Higher interest among fans through the more attractive schedule.

THE ARTESIA ADVOCATE SPORTS

Only Weak Belen Stands in Way of Farmington A-Crown

Even the enduring Carlsbad-Artesia rivalry tonight on Caveman Field may take a second place to the Farmington-Belen tilt up north, which almost beyond doubt will give Farmington New Mexico A-conference championship honors for the 1952 season.

Weak Belen is expected to offer little resistance to the Farmington aggregation, which has parlayed a weak schedule into virtual assurance of uncontested A-league laurels.

Belen this year has lost to Highlands 51-6, Socorro 13-0, St. Mary's 13-0, Gallup 34-0, and St. Michael's 20-0. Belen has tied 14-14 with Espanola and won over Deming 27-14.

Farmington is expected to go uncontested to the A-conference throne by virtue of its undefeated season, which has included victories over New Mexico powerhouses St. Mike's 18-0, Santa Fe 13-0, Gallup 27-6, St. Mary's 38-6, Los Alamos 45-20, and Highlands 21-14. The Scorpions have also downed Cortez, Colo., 20-0.

The Scorpions are generally rated a three or four touchdown favorite over little Belen, and even over confidence is seen as a trifle factor in tonight's contest.

The weird championship game is being played at Farmington, where Scorpion Coach Lou Cullen may be sure of his lads doing their best.

Protests across the state have arisen over Farmington's virtual mailing of the title, but protests have been directed against the system which permits this year's farce rather than the win-ing school itself.

Plans to form new league set-ups have been receiving growing attention, and interest among fans may be aroused to a point where pressure enough will be brought to discard what many consider the state's out-moded point system.

Interest in the A-conference has shifted from the first place snafu to a genuine battle for second, in which Artesia, Hobbs, and Las Cruces are the remaining contenders.

Other games on tap in the A-loop tonight in addition to the Farmington-Belen tie party, the traditional Carlsbad-Artesia game, are Albuquerque at Roswell and Highlands at Los Alamos.

Hobbs goes to Plainview, Texas, in a non-conference tilt, and Las Cruces is idle.

Stasey Lease On Roswell Tightens Loop

What effect would Pat Stasey's take-over of the Roswell Rockets have on Longhorn league baseball?

Driller Mgr. Earl Perry views a acquisition of the Rockets by Stasey, now waiting only final ink of contracts, as another indication of a tight race in the Longhorn loop in 1953.

Final arrangements on Stasey's deal to take over the Roswell Rockets are expected at the club's annual meeting Nov. 12.

Unsigned contracts provide Stasey would bring his Big Spring team to Roswell—the players he owns and his affiliation with the Washington Senators — and would lease the Rocket franchise and ball park for three years, when it would revert back to the stockholders.

Stasey, in addition to his prowess as a business manager, brings an outstanding player performance to Roswell. He has been in the league since its organization in 1947. In 1952 he batted .344.

drove in 120 runs on 167 hits, including 34 doubles, three trips and 34 doubles.

As a fielder, Stasey has a fielding mark of .971—third in the league—and is tops among the fielders.

Under his management Spring has captured three pennants in six years, finished second twice, and third once. He has captured a play-off championship.

According to indications in Roswell, Stasey would keep the Rockets now under contract, possibly more, and mix them together with his Cuban-dominated aggregation.

While no contracts have been signed and cautious Rocket stockholders state arrangements are only tentative, penning the documents is expected to be only a formality after thorough examination of the proposal by the stockholders, Nov. 12.

The annual meeting must prove the lease to Stasey. Because of relief of financial burden on individuals, it is believed Roswell fans are ready to take that step under which Stasey would assume all financial losses—and profits for the club in the next few years.

The battleship was in port visitors were being shown around. Before a bronze plaque on main deck the guide bowed head and said: "This is where gallant captain fell?"

A little old lady answered: "Well, no wonder. I nearly tripped over the darned thing myself."

Mike Wasn't Talking—

Sports Writer Hails Rodriguez' Record of 22 Wins for Drillers

Mike Rodriguez' accomplishments in winning 22 games for the Artesia Drillers in 1952 have won him a sincere accolade from Jim McKone, sports editor of the Valley Evening Monitor at McAllen, Texas.

McKone's column was sent to Driller Mgr. Earl Perry, who pointed out many such clippings have brought favorable publicity for the Drillers and the community especially throughout the Southwest, but in other parts of the U. S. also.

McKone's story of Mike Rodriguez, taken from his "Out on a Limb," is as follows:

An unassuming young man from McAllen won 22 games for a professional baseball team this year, but keeps so quiet about that many acquaintances don't know of his feat.

He is Mike Rodriguez, who finished with a 22-8 record for the Class C Artesia Drillers of the Class C Longhorn league. Mike has an impressive stack of clippings, which tells among other things how he pitched and won a double-header and saved many of his other decisions with timely hitting.

Unlike most athletes who have ever accomplished as much as one strikeout or home run, Mike doesn't go around showing his press notices to everyone who will look at them. It was a mutual friend, Henry (Junior) Guerra, who borrowed the clippings and brought them to me.

Mike used to play for the now-disbanded McAllen Palms and later for the Harlingen Capitols. The Caps sold him to Artesia, which took its spring training here, when the Drillers left the Valley this year.

At the time, Artesia Manager

Earl Perry told me that he liked the way Rodriguez looked in a couple of practice games with Harlingen. I paid little attention, remembering what usually happens to hot prospects in the spring. Besides, Mike had not set the world on fire when I used to watch him with the Palms, a team so bad that only rarely did any single member of it looked good.

Events proved Perry right and me wrong. Mike was just coming into his own, it quickly developed, and marked up a brilliant record at Artesia this summer.

One of his most outstanding accomplishments was to successfully pull the iron-man trick of pitching and winning two complete games in one night. Mike did it against San Angelo July 29 winning the opener 8-1, on a seven-hitter, then coming back for a 3-2 squeak in the nightcap on a five-hitter. Both games lasted seven innings.

Rodriguez, who was named to the All-Star team lineup along with Artesia team-mates Rudy Briner, a catcher, and slugging first baseman Joe Bauman, earned his selection with numerous other top performances. One of his best games was a two-hit, 9-0 shutout of Vernon in which he struck out eight and walked only one. He had a no-hitter until the seventh inning.

Mike won his share of the close ones, going all the way in several one-run thrillers. The right-hander also lost some heartbreakers, including one in which wild pitches let in the deciding runs. But he was consistently near the top all season in what widely known as a "hitters' league."

He did all right in batting himself. He was the first Artesia hurler to homer, and once against Vernon hit two consecutive homers and drove in four runs in a 7-2 victory. The night Rodriguez won two games he hit a three-run double which sewed up the first victory.

If McAllen ever gets a pro team again, it should try to latch onto Mike at any price. But if he keeps going the way he is now, he might be out of reach with a higher-classed club by then.

After death, the human body cools at an average rate of about 1.5 degrees an hour.

Recipe for

PILGRIM'S PRIDE PUMPKIN PIE

Pie Crust: Cut 1/2 cup shortening into 1 cup sifted Kitchen Craft Flour until particles are the size of coarse corn meal. Add 1/4 c. chopped nut meats. Add about 8 tbsp. cold water, a few drops at a time; mix with a fork only enough to dampen flour evenly. Press gently into a ball. Roll out to 1/4 inch thickness on lightly floured surface. Fit into pie plate; trim and flute edge. Bake in hot (450°F.) oven about 12 minutes, until golden brown. Filling recipe below.

1 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 tsp. ground ginger
3 tbsp. corn starch 1/4 tsp. salt
3 tbsp. Kitchen Craft Flour 3 eggs separated
1 tsp. ground cinnamon 2 cups milk
1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg 2 cups canned or cooked pumpkin

Combine 1 cup of the sugar with the other dry ingredients in top of double boiler. Combine slightly beaten egg yolks, milk and pumpkin. Add gradually to first mixture, stirring constantly. Cook over hot water (about 15 minutes); stir frequently. Cool. Beat egg whites until they hold soft peaks; add remaining sugar and beat until stiff. Fold into pumpkin mixture. Fill baked pie shell. Garnish with nuts.

Girl Scout Leaders Form Plans to Aid Chest Drive

Girl Scout leaders made plans to help with the coming Red Feather campaign at a meeting Monday night at the Park school music room. The leaders themselves will help collect funds during the drive. Girl Scouts are preparing a "Get Acquainted With the Community Week" Nov. 17 to 22, during the Red Feather drive and will visit various business houses during that time.

"A Growing Force for Freedom" was the theme of the recent regional conference held in Albuquerque, it was brought out in a round table discussion led by Mrs. C. P. Bunch. The panel told that the purpose of the meeting was to acquaint the field with the new trends and developments in the Girl Scouting field and to inform National Girl Scout office of the needs and problems of the areas.

Speakers at the conference emphasized the importance of volun-

Audio-Visual Club Seeks Old Magazines

Junior high school Audio-Visual club is composed of boys from the seventh and eighth grades for the purpose of operating the audio-visual equipment. The majority of their work has been with a 16-mm motion picture projector. During the first six weeks of school 21 films were shown a total of 106 times for 16 teachers.

Boys are gaining mechanical knowledge while at the same time performing a definite service to the school. Emphasis is placed on promptness, courtesy, and efficiency.

Boys who are operating machines this year are Verble Baker, Jimmy Bynum, Darvin Hatch, Ismael Lara, Joe Mathis, Glen Plentons, Eduardo Navarette, Charles Parham, Bill Wright, Dwayne Young, Charles Hogsett, Bobbie Ferriman, Kenneth Wade, Jack Coopedge and Stephen Kelly. During the first six weeks these boys worked an average of 14 periods.

Other machines besides the movie projector are record players, a 35-mm filmstrip projector, and a tape recorder.

Ordinary pictures are valuable for teaching and the audio-visual club would like to collect and file pictures for use by the teachers. Copies of picture magazines such as Life, Post, Holiday, National

Development of New Crops Is Boosted in NM

Development of new crops from native plants for dry farming areas in New Mexico may receive a boost from the new plant introduction station established this month at the State College at Pullman, Wash., says Dr. W. P. Sappenfield, assistant agronomist with the agricultural experiment station at New Mexico A&M college.

The new station, one of four in the U. S., will serve as a "bank" of plant characteristics for scientists of the 11 western states. Seed from plant specimens carrying desirable characteristics are being gathered from all parts of the world to be stored in the "bank" until needed by a plant breeder in the Western region.

In New Mexico, two groups of plants, devil's claw (Martynia parviflora) and wild gourds (Cucurbita sp.), have shown promise in tests as potential oilseed crops in sandy, arid areas of the state. Devil's claw produces large yields of seed containing as much as 36 per cent edible oil comparable in quality to cottonseed oil. Gourd seeds have yielded 30 per cent semi-drying oil comparable in quality to linseed oil. The oilseed cake of both plants in relatively high in protein and could be used as a concentrate feed for livestock.

There are many hitches to converting wild plants into cultivated crops. Dr. Sappenfield points out. Devil's claw, for example, has a spreading growth habit which prevents harvesting problems, and tough, fibrous pods which are difficult to trash. It may be possible to correct these troubles by breeding and selection.

Breeding material possessing the desired characteristics might be obtained from the new plant introduction station for crossing and combining with the desirable characteristics already found in the devil's claw. Thus a high-yielding, upright plant bearing easily threshed pods may be developed to provide an entirely new crop for production in the dry land areas of New Mexico.

Egg Producers Have Opportunity To Make Market

This is a good time of year for egg producers to establish a reliable egg market, says Charlie Whigham, extension poultry marketing specialist at New Mexico A&M college.

"Right now, the supply of eggs is pretty short and many retail grocery stores and restaurants are looking for fresh, locally-produced eggs," Whigham explains. "If poultrymen can set up satisfactory outlets at this time of year, when eggs are scarce, the benefits will probably carry over through next spring, when the prices are lower.

"Most retail outlets will pay a premium for fresh eggs if they are packaged in attractive-looking cartons, he small amount of time spent grading and cartoning these eggs means more profit to the producer."

At present, the 1953 outlook for egg producers is favorable, the marketing specialist points out. With fewer laying hens on farms to start the new year off, he says that it's very unlikely that the slump in spring prices will be as great as in 1952—and the poultryman who establishes a good market now will stand to profit more during 1953.

State Game Newsletter—

Special Pecos Bow Season Nets 16 Deer for Archers

The 115 bow hunters who checked into the Pecos special either-sex deer season last week accounted for sixteen deer, a kill percentage of 13.9 per cent. Some observers believe this may establish a new record for special bow seasons.

Spokesmen for the New Mexico Field Archers' association have said that 11 per cent was the highest kill recorded by deer hunting bowmen before the Pecos season.

Deer were plentiful during the first days of the hunt and a majority of the bowmen got in some shooting. A number of them cited their inexperience or nervousness, rather than a lack of game, as the main reason for returning home empty-handed.

Of the 16 deer taken, 13 were does, the others, a doe fawn, a buck fawn, and a four-point buck. In addition, the bowmen reported a total of 13 deer crippled and never found. To date, Pecos Patrolman Henry Galegos has found three of the crippled deer in the forest.

Albuquerque led the list of resident addresses reported at the checking station. Forty-nine of the 115 hunters came from the Duke City, another 26 were from Los Alamos and 13 hailed from Santa Fe. The remainder represented communities well scattered around the state. Only one non-resident turned up—from Texas.

As specified in the regulation drawn up for the hunt, those bowmen who brought home a deer are through for the season so far as deer are concerned. They may hunt bear and turkey during the regular season, but with their bows only. The unlucky hunters are compelled to stay with their bows during the regular season and may revert to a rifle only if they apply for, and win, a special deer permit for one of the post-season hunts.

Game Department Patrolman Tod Keith and Game Farm Superintendent Guy Newton were releasing farm raised quail near Los Lunas the other day when this episode took place.

The two men were some distance from the road, releasing the birds. Just as the quail took flight, someone started shooting into the flock with a .22 rifle. While the astounded game wardens watched, Bonifacio Aragon of Los Lunas killed one quail and wounded another. Abenicio Aragon, same address, was earnestly trying to bring down the cripple with a rock.

In order to continue the plantings without further interference from the over-eager hunters, both Aragon were placed in the Los Lunas juggedo for safe-keeping while the game wardens were finishing their work. Later, Keith returned with District Warden Peckum of Albuquerque and hailed the hunters before J. P. Henry Salazar in Belen. Bonifacio paid $50.00 and costs and Abenicio paid $25.00, plus costs.

One good way to singe your hair off or start a forest fire is to shoot telephone and power line insulators off pole cross-arms. When the insulator is shattered by a bullet, oftentimes, the line itself is clipped and the loose ends fall to the ground, resulting in short circuits.

The Seaman Electric Co-op advises us that these insulator-plinkers are going to get killed or find themselves trapped in a forest fire one of these fine, dry days if they persist in their destructive sport. Wing Shots—

We'd like to know the whereabouts of a Winchester carbine, Model 94, .30-30, Serial Number 1531090. The gun belongs to Pecos Patrolman Henry Gallegos and was stolen from a pickup parked in Santa Fe recently.

If you're doubtful about bagging a deer during the regular big game season, then you'd better get your application in for one of the special hunts. To date, the special hunt (300 permits) on Mount Taylor has been the most popular. More than five hundred applications have been received and the deadline is 10:00 a. m., Oct. 31. Fifty-two applications have been turned in so far for the 100 doe permits on Burns Canyon, 104 for the 400 permits on the San Andres Federal Refuge and a mere 16 have applied for the Organ Mountain hunt. Application deadline on the Burns Canyon, San Andres, and Organ hunts will be 10:00 a. m., Nov. 13. Be sure to include your big game license number when applying.

Special Pecos Bow Season Nets 16 Deer for Archers

The 115 bow hunters who checked into the Pecos special either-sex deer season last week accounted for sixteen deer, a kill percentage of 13.9 per cent. Some observers believe this may establish a new record for special bow seasons.

Speakersmen for the New Mexico Field Archers' association have said that 11 per cent was the highest kill recorded by deer hunting bowmen before the Pecos season.

Deer were plentiful during the first days of the hunt and a majority of the bowmen got in some shooting. A number of them cited their inexperience or nervousness, rather than a lack of game, as the main reason for returning home empty-handed.

Of the 16 deer taken, 13 were does, the others, a doe fawn, a buck fawn, and a four-point buck. In addition, the bowmen reported a total of 13 deer crippled and never found. To date, Pecos Patrolman Henry Galegos has found three of the cripples dead in the forest.

Albuquerque led the list of resident addresses reported at the checking station. Forty-nine of the 115 hunters came from the Duke City, another 26 were from Los Alamos and 13 hailed from Santa Fe. The remainder represented communities well scattered around the state. Only one non-resident turned up—from Texas.

As specified in the regulation drawn up for the hunt, those bowmen who brought home a deer are through for the season so far as deer are concerned. They may hunt bear and turkey during the regular season, but with their bows only. The unlucky hunters are compelled to stay with their bows during the regular season and may revert to a rifle only if they apply for, and win, a special deer permit for one of the post-season hunts.

Game Department Patrolman Tod Keith and Game Farm Superintendent Guy Newton were releasing farm raised quail near Los Lunas the other day when this episode took place.

The two men were some distance from the road, releasing the birds. Just as the quail took flight, someone started shooting into the flock with a .22 rifle. While the astounded game wardens watched, Bonifacio Aragon of Los Lunas killed one quail and wounded another. Abenicio Aragon, same address, was earnestly trying to bring down the cripple with a rock.

In order to continue the plantings without further interference from the over-eager hunters, both Aragon were placed in the Los Lunas juzgado for safe-keeping while the game wardens were finishing their work. Later, Keith returned with District Warden Peckum of Albuquerque and hailed the hunters before J. P. Henry Salazar in Belen. Bonifacio paid $50.00 and costs and Abenicio paid $25.00, plus costs.

One good way to singe your hair off or start a forest fire is to shoot telephone and power line insulators off pole cross-arms. When the insulator is shattered by a bullet, oftentimes, the line itself is clipped and the loose ends fall to the ground, resulting in short circuits.

The Seaman Electric Co-op advises us that these insulator-pinkers are going to get killed or find themselves trapped in a forest fire one of these fine, dry days if they persist in their destructive sport.

We'd like to know the whereabouts of a Winchester carbine, Model 94, .30-30, Serial Number 1551090. The gun belongs to Pecos Patrolman Henry Galegos and was stolen from a pickup parked in Santa Fe recently.

If you're doubtful about bagging a deer during the regular big game season, then you'd better get your application in for one of the special hunts. To date, the special hunt (300 permits) on Mount Taylor has been the most popular. More than five hundred applications have been received and the deadline is 10:00 a. m., Oct. 31. Fifty-two applications have been turned in so far for the 100 doe permits on Burns Canyon, 104 for the 400 permits on the San Andres Federal Refuge and a mere 16 have applied for the Organ Mountain hunt. Application deadline on the Burns Canyon, San Andres, and Organ hunts will be 10:00 a. m., Nov. 13. Be sure to include your big game license number when applying.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hinrichsen attended funeral services for Mrs. Wamble Sunday at Hereford, Texas. Mrs. Wamble was Mrs. Hinrichsen's step-mother.

John D. Franklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Franklin who has been stationed in California, is enjoying a furlough this week which he is spending with home folks.

Hallowe'en was celebrated in a big way by Hagerman children and youth groups. Various parties were held at the school house on Saturday afternoon and the PTA sponsored an evening of fun at the school.

Small fry skated free from 6 to 7:30. Remaining part of the program was a PTA benefit which netted over $50. Among the diversions of the evening were the haunted house which proved to be a "barrel of fun." Mrs. J. Vedder Brown was chairman of the committee in charge of this feature. Other members were Mmes. Hampton, Byron Oglesby, D. P. Brown, and Max Wiggins.

Mrs. Nathan Cleek and Mrs. Lindell Andrews were fortune tellers, another popular feature. Games on skates were very popular. Prizes were awarded to Priscilla Brown and Truman Menefee for the funniest identical costumes; to Sharle Rae Menefee for the most original, her costume being that of an elf, and to Terese Oglesby for the scariest—she was dressed as a witch. Plans are being made by the PTA to hold a party of this kind for the children about once a month as everyone enjoyed the evening very much.

Miss Helen Ruth Curry of the Eastern New Mexico university at Portales spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Curry.

Mrs. Jack Krattiger and son, Billy, of Clovis visited her aunt, Mrs. J. V. Brown, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Foster and children attended a show at Roswell Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Watford, daughter Betty, and Mrs. W. P. West motored to El Paso Sunday to attend a meeting. While there they were joined by their son, Spurgeon who enjoyed dinner with them.

The Dorcas Welfare society of the SDA church met on Wednesday afternoon at the workroom of the church. The afternoon was spent in quilting.

Those attending were Mmes. M. C. Brown, Tom McKinstry, Marlin Sartin, Tom Baker, J. W. Greer and Edward Greer.

The Election

TUESDAY'S ELECTION in our thinking vindicated the American voter from charges he is uninterested—or only half-interested—in the welfare of his country, as expressed by his willingness to take part in elections.

As this is written, national percentages are only beginning to come in, but precinct after precinct indicates a remarkable increase in percentage. Artesia averaged more than 70 per cent turn-out of registered voters. Were the polls books completely purged of those who have died or moved away, we believe the percentage might be even higher.

For years we have heard the charge the electorate is lackadaisical, is disinterested, apathetic, carefree, ignorant, etc. Despite exhortations, only half or less of the electorate has gone to the polls in the last few presidential elections. The percentage has been even less in state and local contests.

That may not be the fault of the voter. For years the Republican party has fumbled to present a constructive platform and slate of candidates, and seemingly has not done so. It is apparent that in the present election, the presentation of clear campaign issues together with resentment against the Truman whistle-stop campaign and the simple desire for an overdue change aroused the interest of voters. A mighty get-out-the-vote campaign capitalized on that interest.

In our own region, voter interest in a one-party type of politics is appreciably low, but when in fact a two-party choice does exist, the voters come to life.

Professional political concentration on vote-getting rather than creative politics has degenerated the caliber of candidates and of platforms and ideas advanced. Across America we have seemingly become obsessed with the form which politics has taken, rather than the end for which the form is designed and without which it is only a form, meaningless and uninteresting.

As we know them, voters up to Tuesday's election were sick of artificial issues, tired of popularity polls rather than voting on issues, disgusted with one party's inability to gather itself into a positive organization rather than be a group of defensive apologists. Because no choice was offered, the voter continued with that which he knew, with that which had ostensibly bettered his position, which offered a continuation of the status quo—after all, nothing the other side offered was tempting enough to create a strong desire for a change.

Voters cast their ballots selectively in the nation as a whole Tuesday. Only one precinct in Artesia closely hued to dominant party lines. In five precincts political boundaries seemingly meant little.

Across the world in other national elections, especially in Europe, issues have been matters of national welfare, more clearly than in our country. Ostensibly, only this year has that situation arisen in the United States.

To our way of thinking, the great wisdom of the American electorate, irregardless of the outcome in terms of parties and people, has again forcibly asserted itself, vindicated from charges of apathy, and reasserting a vigorous assurance of the inherent rightness of our constitutional form of government.

Nice Going, Scouts

CUB SCOUTS of troop 18, den 1 put off the usual tricks or treating Halloween night in favor of activity a little more constructive—and just as much fun.

These Cubs met with their den mother, Mrs. Withrow, at 1412 Yucca last Friday afternoon for their regular meeting. Then after supper the den gathered again for Halloween evening. The 10 Cubs went house-to-house after food all right, but it wasn't candy.

Those lads were gathering food for Thanksgiving baskets, thinking ahead to the time when some Artesia families will enjoy solid food a lot more than stale candy. The youngsters, under leadership of Ross Simmons, collected 75 cans of food to kick-off their Thanksgiving drive.

Now the Cubs of den 1 invite you to take part in their project. Send a card to 1412 Yucca so a Scout can come pick up your food contribution, or if you're out that way, drop a few cans of food there. You'll be glad you did, for you will help the Scouts in achieving a mighty fine project, and those they are trying to help in their generous way.

Somebody Paid It In

AN HONEST and a sincere effort is being made in our state today to halt those who want to get on the unemployment check line and stay there drawing $20 a week for 24 weeks without giving anything in return.

For some years there was no department to help eliminate this practice. But today the state office has an enforcement agency and thorough checks and investigations are conducted.

However, this enforcement of this regulation depends to a great extent on the willingness of those familiar with these cases to provide names and addresses so the investigations can be checked.

And without this information little can be done.

Under the unemployment program those who have been under the program and who are out of employment through no fault of their own and who are unable to find work are entitled to receive compensation.

However, it was not set up to provide a vacation period for anyone; it was set up to help make it possible for individuals to draw compensation and then work for someone for less; it was not set up to protect some individual because he can not find the kind and type of a job he wants at the pay he wants to receive.

Instances are being found today, however, when individuals are actually encouraging others to apply and accept their unemployment compensation; they tell them they think they can get away with it; and that others do this.

Since farm labor does not come under the program individuals can actually be on unemployment compensation and still be working on a farm and continue to receive their checks. This, of course, is fraud and a misrepresentation.

Farmers may not be as concerned about it as they would be if they were paying into the unemployment compensation funds.

But they should remember those who have been under the unemployment compensation program have had an employer who paid in a per cent of that employee's salary to this fund. The employee has contributed nothing at all.

And the rate of this per cent the employer must pay into the fund is determined by the amount of funds he has on hand. If this amount is drawing against and is reduced his rate can be increased. If the sum is large and has not been drawn against then his rate can be decreased and it means a saving to the employer.

We also should be willing to aid the state, which seeks to reduce those who may be practicing fraud, by giving all information and data we have to the local office and to assist those who are seeking to further reduce the number receiving this aid.

estimation of their worth. The old "water witch" of not so long ago used a peach tree limb. But maybe Albuquerque doesn't have any peach trees.—Roswell Daily Record.

MORE RUSSIAN TRICKERY

The U. S. has kissed off various Russian proposals as a snare and a delusion. That has been right. But we cannot brush off the effect, on small nations particularly, of Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky's appeal before the UN to the mind of the world on the Korean question.

It is obvious that the small and comparatively unprotected nations are strongly in favor of exploring any avenue which might lead to peace—any sort of peace.

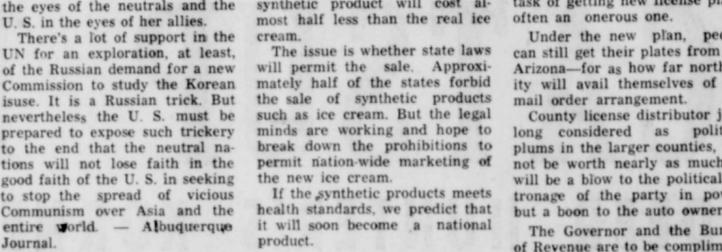

Vishinsky's suggestion for an organization of a new commission composed of the directly interested nations and others to study the Korean question sounds very reasonable to many, both among America's allies and the neutrals.

Considerable support of the Russian proposal must necessarily allies keep their skirts clean in the eyes of the neutrals and the U. S. in the eyes of her allies.

There's a lot of support in the UN for an exploration, at least, of the Russian demand for a new Commission to study the Korean issue. It is a Russian trick. But nevertheless the U. S. must be prepared to expose such trickery to the end that the neutral nations will not lose faith in the good faith of the U. S. in seeking to stop the spread of vicious Communism over Asia and the entire world. — Albuquerque Journal.

AN ICE CREAM ISSUE

Now that the political issues have been expounded fully and will be settled in today's balloting, it will be a relief to get on lighter subjects. One of those that received little attention during the campaign was the news of progress being made in several Midwestern and Southern cities in the sale of synthetic ice cream.

The term synthetic ice cream is enough to make most persons wary of it as not real, and an imitation that would not be palatable to anyone. But it is a product that from the standpoint of health and nutrition is said to be all right. Instead of butterfat in the ice cream that contains 80 per cent by weight of milk products, the synthetic product uses oils from soybeans, peanuts, or cottonseeds. The same content of milk solids are used.

GOOD NEWS FOR AUTOISTS

You can buy new auto license plates by mail starting Dec. 1.

That is the announcement of Governor Mechem who says the motor vehicle division of the Bureau of Revenue has completed its plan for putting a new system in effect.

An application already filled out will be mailed to each registered car owner. All the owner will have to do is to sign the application before a notary public, mail it back with the license payment, and the plates will be returned by mail.

This system will save people from going to the county auto license distributors, and of having to wait in line for long periods during the rush hours to get their new license plates. It will be especially appreciated in a county like this where there are thousands of auto owners and the task of getting new license plates often an onerous one.

Under the new plan, people can still get their plates from the Arizona—for as how far north as they will avail themselves of the mail order arrangement.

County license distributor jobs, long considered as political plums in the larger counties, will not be worth nearly as much. It will be a blow to the political patronage of the party in power, but a boon to the auto owners.

The Governor and the Bureau of Revenue are to be complimented for putting this new system into effect.

HOOPER COMMISSION

According to the National Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report which was presented to Congress, work is being done on the final report. In this report will be included suggestions by all the agencies of the Federal Government in a special analysis of management improvements which might be brought about which are based on the Hoover Report. It is stated by the committee that "It will show that some 200 of the Hoover Commission's 300 recommendations have been adopted, largely through enactment of nearly 90 pieces of legislation, and that the annual savings in Federal operating cost will eventually be between three and four billion dollars a year."—New Mexico Tax Bulletin.
