

Community Chest Opens Many Drives In Red Feather Campaign

More volunteer workers than ever will spread across the community chest next week, seeking a quick conclusion to the Community Chest campaign with a goal of $9,317, for participating agencies.

The Red Feather as its symbol and the motto, "Campaigns in One." Community Chest is anxiously making its campaign an over-the-top drive this year. Such success in the joint fund-raising project is expected to attract other agencies to the Community Chest and to reduce the number of fund campaigns conducted.

The fourth annual drive this year seeks funds to operate the North Eddy County Tuberculosis association, the United Defense Fund, Artesia Council of Social Agencies, and the Social Agencies welfare fund.

A share of the Girl Scouts in the fund drive is $3,000. The Tuberculosis association, which sends Christmas Seals through the mails as its major fund effort, receives $200 to pay for cost of printing the stamps so that all its proceeds may be directed for research and treatment.

United Defense Fund, which operates the USO and other agencies to benefit servicemen, will receive $621. Artesia Council of Social Agencies will use $300 for educational material and publicity, and will use $2,196 to operate the North Eddy County Health and Welfare Center on W. Texas including $936 for rent and utilities, $900 for half salary of welfare worker, and $360 for miscellaneous expenses, etc.

Local charity will receive $3,000 if the community chest budget is met. Officials of the Council of Social Agencies point out that Artesia's welfare problems have become worse in the past few years. Administration of the fund through the Health and Welfare Center.

All budgets for agencies in the Community Chest drive had been approved by the budget committee of the Council of Social Agencies, which has reviewed all requests submitted by the agencies.

Community Chest is seeking to consolidate as many fund drives as possible into one annual effort. Its officials point out that

Each annual drive can cut down tremendously on the number of collectors seeking funds continually from agencies, who have counted as many as five or six agencies in a year from various agencies, some of which are not participating.

It can reduce the drain on campaign workers, for the same civic-minded worker is called to help out in several drives held each year. A concerted drive would allow workers to devote their main energies to the campaign field in the fall, and then be free from the pavement-pounding job of hat-passing.

3.—Various social and welfare programs are coordinated through this joint enterprise, cutting red tape.

4.—There is an end to handing down of budgets from centralized agencies in Washington or New York—the local community through its budget reviews is given some control over its enormous annual contribution.

5.—Money is spread evenly among participating agencies, rather than one worthy organization receiving more than an equally worthy organization.

6.—Money can be saved for actual social and welfare work by reducing administrative overhead involved in the various fund drives, including campaign expenses, which may reach as much or more than $1,000 a year in Artesia, money which might well be spent for another purpose.

Arguments against Community Chest mainly involve its inability from lack of community support over the past (Continued on Page Six)

Community Chest Drive Asks Support-

 three years to meet its budgets. Agencies which conscientiously set up a budget cannot operate on less than that fund without curtailing their program.
 It is up to the community to study the Community Chest program, and to realize it can be developed into an even more comprehensive fund drive rather than the scattered efforts now dominating our social and welfare work today.
 Remember when you make out your Community Chest pledge or check that you are not giving just for one agency, but for many.

 Second complaint of the assault was given at 2:33 a. m. by a Walker Air Force base man, who came to the police station "badly beaten," according to officers' reports. Two men of the same description as in the first complaint had stopped the airman as he was leaving the Ranch House, also assaulting him with brass knuckles.
 Still a third complaint against the pair was filed by another victim, who said they did not use brass knuckles on him.
 Police identified the two suspects who have pleaded not guilty to the first two charges, as Herbert A. Halterman and John T. Sachaczanski.

Housewife Hints On Home Safety
 Fall housecleaning is a tiresome job and may be dangerous, too. Avoid accidents while doing the cleaning and at the same time clean and refurnish the home with an eye to making it safe as well as attractive.
 Begin with the stepladder used for reaching high shelves, ceilings, high curtain rods and the like. Be sure a stepladder is used and not the edge of a chair, box or table which might slip or collapse. Make sure the stepladder itself is safe.
 Besides getting the home clean, you may at this time be getting into good repair for the coming winter season. This includes checking electrical equipment and its wiring, furnaces, stoves, heaters and other mechanical appliances. Make a light inspection of your home. More light in the halls or on the stairways may save someone in your family from a dangerous accident.

More Effective Conservation Course In Schools Needed, Official Declares

By OLIVER STOCK
Chairman, Education Committee
New Mexico Association of Soil Conservation Districts

Farmers and ranchers who are serving as supervisors of soil conservation districts in New Mexico have found that conservation is being taught in many schools, but that a much more effective job of conservation education is needed.

The future of our soil productivity lies in the hands of the generation now in school. If these children leave school well informed and with the correct attitude and necessary determination to see that our soil is saved, the present serious rate of soil erosion can be reduced to a trickle.

It is true that progress is being made in this field. Curriculum revision are beginning to include more attention to soil and water conservation concepts. Some textbooks are providing chapters on the subject. Educational associations are devoting their yearbooks to it.

But this alone does not result in the kind of informed, inspired teaching which is needed. Becomes Crusaders

We have come to believe that special training for school teachers in the subject matter of soil and water conservation is the answer. Almost invariably, teachers who receive such instruction become crusaders for conservation.

Once they learn the facts about our soil losses and water wastage, they become inspired to awaken our children to the danger and to the urgent need for getting the soil conservation job done as soon as possible.

Conservation workshops for school teachers in summer schools at New Mexico Western college, New Mexico Highlands university, the College of St. Joseph, and Eastern New Mexico university have already provided this kind of training for several hundred teachers over the past several years. Practically without exception, the teachers who completed these workshops have gone forth and done an inspired job of conservation teaching.

It is the opinion of those of us who are donating our services to the soil conservation movement in New Mexico that these conservation workshops should be expanded and offered also by the other colleges and universities in the state.

Reach More
We feel, too, that provision should be made for reaching still more teachers by asking colleges to send professors out to the local communities to give extension courses in conservation education with residence credit. With a visit to the community one evening a week for several months, the subject matter can be studied very carefully. The teachers could then prepare teaching units in soil conservation for their own grades and the best of these could then be reprinted for use by other teachers. Credits earned by the teachers could be applied toward renewal of teaching certificates or toward the Master's degree.

The soil conservation service has specially trained technicians available to help with planning, setting up and conducting such soil conservation training programs. They also have many motion pictures, free teaching outlines, and other materials to help teachers obtain correct information about soil and water conservation. Similar assistance is also available from other conservation agencies, such as the state game and fish department, forest service and extension service.

Many of the soil conservation districts in New Mexico are setting up soil conservation education committees to help local schools do a better job of conservation education. These committees are made up of local farm and ranch leaders, educators and civic officials, who contribute their services.

Guide Teachers
One of the things these local soil conservation education committees are anxious to do in New Mexico is to guide groups of school teachers on field tours in the areas surrounding their communities. We believe that when the teachers become better acquainted with the local soil and water conservation problems they will be able to use subject matter on this subject to a much better advantage.

I want to urge that any and all school teachers in New Mexico who would like to go on such tours get in touch with their local soil conservation district board of supervisors, the local soil conservation service technician or county agent.

I'm really thankful for my automatic Gas Range

No wonder today's housewife appreciates her modern Gas range! It's equipped with every automatic device to make cooking easier—even holiday meals are a snap! The automatically controlled oven starts roasting the turkey while Mom's still at church. Her spice cake is light, even-textured, because automatic oven temperature controls provide exact, constant heat—no off-and-on operation. While Mom visits with guests, her Gas range's automatic timer "watches" cooking food, signals when it's done. Automatic-lighting top burners give instant heat, save time in top-of-stove cooking. And when the meal is over, the clean-up job is easy, quick. A few rubs with a damp cloth and the beautiful Gas range gleams like new.

No wonder Mom's thankful—three times a day—for her dependable automatic Gas range!

in the field of travel

WHEN was the last time you priced the new cars?

When was the last time you matched feature against feature, size against size, horsepower against horsepower — and discovered for yourself which car really tops the value parade?

We'll tell you this—

If you put any Buick—SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER—against other cars of comparable cost, you'll find it the buy-word in the automobile market today.

Not alone on room, and power, and ride — and equipment included in the list price.

But also—and this is where your senses must be judge—in the thrill per dollar you get in a Buick.

There's no other way to know the lift in spirit you get when a great Fireball 8 Engine is pouring out its high-mileage power, when Dynaflow Drive* is at its silky work, when a million dollars' worth of ride engineering is cradling your travel in ever-level comfort.

We'll tell you this too—

If you can afford any new car you can afford a Buick. For Buick prices start way down where the so-called "low-priced three" really worry.

Drop in and let us show you the big-thrill buy called Buick.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Cranbrook Club Coupe in Plymouth's 1953 Line

Dash and distinction are combined in the flowing lines of the Cranbrook Club Coupe, one of nine outstanding body styles in the new 1953 line of fine Plymouth cars. The new styling is combined with increased power and improved performance to make it more than ever the big car value in the low-priced field. Power has been increased to 100 horsepower with 7.1 to 1 compression ratio for finer response and efficiency. New suspension gives virtually gyroscopic stability under varying road conditions. Engine and rear axle relocation, coupled with easier riding, angle-mounted rear springs, provide the utmost in comfort. Plymouth engineers have designed more headroom, legroom and hip and shoulder space into the 1953 models.

New 1953 Plymouth Goes on Display in Artesia Thursday

The 1953 Plymouth is the most completely new Plymouth to be presented to the public in the quarter century since the original model rolled off the assembly line.

The new Plymouth will go on display Thursday in Artesia at Hart and Cox Motor companies.

Plymouth Motor Corp. executives predict motorists will be delighted with the new, streamlined exterior, luxuriously tailored harmonizing interiors, increased horsepower and scores of engineering innovations in the 1953 line.

"This year Plymouth is introducing a new concept of automobile design in the low price field," Pres. John F. Mansfield declared in describing the 1953 models. "Superb styling is co-ordinated with radical engineering developments to produce the truly balanced car for easier, safer and more comfortable driving."

Height of the new Plymouth has been reduced for improved appearance, yet engineers have designed even more room into the car's interior and luggage compartment. The 1953 model has more headroom, greater legroom, and more hip and shoulder space than ever before.

The lively and dependable Plymouth engine has been given greater power. For the 1953 the horsepower has been increased to 100 and the compression ratio stepped up to 7.1 to 1.

Easier riding, two-inch wide angle mounted rear springs absorb small road shocks and in combination with time-tested Oriflow shock absorbers complete the car's truly balanced suspension system.

The 1953 Plymouth is lower and completely streamlined. Chrome trim is integrated as part of the design to further enhance the long, low, wide appearance of the car. Horizontal character lines are incorporated into the sheet metal of front and rear fenders. Chrome trim strips are available as special equipment at slight extra cost.

"Control tower" visibility is provided through a one-piece, more uniformly-curved windshield and a new, larger, one-piece rear window which extends into each rear quarter panel. Total glass area has been increased almost 16 per cent for virtually 360-degree vision range with minimum distortion.

Interior styling of the 1953 Plymouth is entirely new. Box type seat trim gives both front and rear seat backs a smart appearance. Cushions are divided into thirds. The triple division adds a new style note with its more pleasing proportions.

Upholstery, interior molding and trim are available in a wide variety of harmonizing hues to blend with the buyer's choice of exterior body colors. Sparkling chrome hardware and bright plastic accessories set off the luxurious tailoring.

A clever innovation on all two-door models is the front seat which is divided, not in the traditional manner at the center, but at one-third of its width to permit easier entrance and exit for rear seat passengers from the curb side. Two can sit comfortably on the wider portion of the front seat while the remainder is tilted forward for easy back seat access.
