Two Take Leading 'Junior Miss' Role School Budgets For Artesia, Hope Approved

THERE'S JUNIOR MISSES all over the stage in three performances of "Junior Miss," with the first scheduled to open at 8 tonight in Senior high auditorium. Terry McKinley, left, and Gloria Smith, right, are both cast in the title role, while Norton Boyd, center, is Haskell Cummings, Jr., boyfriend to Judy.

Artesia school budgets adding up to $737,570, an increase of $110,000 over last year, were approved this week-end in county school budget conferences with O. J. Holder, state school budget auditor.

In the meeting no mention of the controversial Eddy county school reorganization was made, according to Supt. of Schools Tom J. Mayfield.

The Artesia school board was scheduled to further discuss the question last night in its regular monthly meeting.

Artesia was given increased financial help, especially in its direct charge budget, and some informed observers said the aid to Artesia was designed to hold off this community's campaign for county school reorganization.

Biggest increase in the Artesia school budget was for salaries for new teachers to be added to the school system. The 1953-54 figure is $531,532, compared to $447,438 for last year.

General control budget for Artesia totals $41,759. It includes superintendent, clerical, and business manager salaries and office expenses.

Pre-School Clinic Transportation Offered Parents

Annual pre-school health clinic for Artesia children who will be entering public schools for the first time next fall is scheduled for this Wednesday, April 15.

It will be held from 10 a. m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. Wednesday in the auditorium of Rose-lawn school on N. Roselawn.

Telephone calls to Roselawn school, phone 686, preferably before Wednesday, will bring transportation to mothers who do not have use of a car during the day.

There is no charge for transportation or any phase of the pre-school medical check-up for youngsters.

Doctors will administer, without charge, complete smallpox inoculations, when needed, plus booster shots for tetanus, whooping cough, and diphtheria.

Wednesday's pre-school health clinic is under sponsorship for the fourth year of Park and Central school Parent-Teachers' associations.

Artesia medical doctors will take turn in manning the clinic staff, which will be responsible for complete examination of every child.

General purpose of the pre-school clinic is to make sure that all children scheduled to enter the schools next fall are physically ready for school.

Doctors can detect certain physical handicaps, such as weak eyes, or poor hearing, which if promptly remedied now will permit a child to keep up with other children during the important first years in school.

Farmers Union Says Artesia Batting 100, Carlsbad 0 In Hospitality

National farmers Union was mighty impressed with Artesia during a visit of its highest officials here last month to view potash production possibilities.

At least that's the impression given in the National Union Farmers' official publication.

Under a headline, "Artesia Wins FU's Favor as Carlsbad Pines," the National Union Farmer ran this article:

In Carlsbad, N. M., the home of the cave and the bats, western hospitality flickered, faded and then went out in March when it was learned that a group of Farmers Union leaders might descend on the town from Denver.

Farmers Union should choose Carlsbad as the site of any future operations. In their innocence, FU representatives thought that was what chambers of commerce were for.

Doesn't Like Co-ops—But it seems that the Carlsbad C of C was told not to like co-operatives, nor any one who likes co-operatives, and that included Farmers Union. In fact, the president of the chamber announced

How promising are National Farmers Union potash-bearing mineral leases in Eddy county? The National Union Farmer, official publication for the co-op, says in its latest issue that from limited exploration thus far it is estimated "there is at least a 15-year supply of the stuff."

If estimates are correct, adds the Union Farmer, the presently proven deposits should yield at least $4 million gross profit yearly. Geologists now coning say they hope to double or even triple their 15-year reserve estimate. Analysis shows, the publication states, that 2 million tons of ore a year at least can be taken for the next 15 years.

When Artesia chamber of commerce officials heard of the cold rebuff Carlsbad had handed FU, they got on the phone and called C. E. Huff, general manager of Farmers Union's insurances and services in Denver. They invited Farmers Union to come to Artesia, assuring the organization a royal welcome and every possible courtesy.

By then, some of the more enlightened citizens of Carlsbad apparently awoke to the fact that their anti-co-op chamber of commerce president had lost their city a fat plum.

Mr. Huff was soon besieged by calls begging Farmers Union to come to Carlsbad and explaining that the cold courtesy treatment was all a mistake. Mr. Huff politely but firmly turned down the belated invitation and made plans for the tour with Artesia serving as the base of operations.

Kids Are Urged To Get Little League Forms

Artesia youngsters who want to play in Little League baseball this year had better hurry to pick up forms their parents must sign before any youngster is permitted on the playing field.

Little League will open within the next two weeks with a baseball clinic with the Artesia Drillers as coaches.

But Little Leaguers must first pick up releases for their parents to sign. The forms release Little League from responsibility in case any youngster is injured in Little League activity.

The forms must be in the hands, properly signed and notarized, before youngsters will be permitted to work out.

The forms are now at Central Valley Electric Co-op, Russell Auto Supply and the state employment office. Youngsters are advised to pick them up now, have them signed and notarized and returned to the place where they picked them up.

"If kids get that done now, they will be all ready to go when we announce the baseball clinic with the Artesia Drillers," according to Carl Foster, Little League president in Artesia.

This year's forms are good for as long as a child shall play baseball in Little League. Forms signed last year applied to last year only and are not good this year.

Artesia Takes Host of Trophies at Alamogordo

Artesia took an easy first Saturday in annual White Sands Relay, scoring 67 points to win decisively over second place Las Cruces, holder of 46 points. In posting the win, Artesia captured five firsts, two seconds, three thirds, six fourths, and three fifths. High winds at White Sands moved the relay to Alamogordo high school. As a result, times and distances were better due to the cinder track and will not be posted on permanent records of the relay.

James Baker and Freddie Sanders between them score 44% of Artesia's 67 points. Baker captured 22%, Sanders 22. Los Lunas was third with 38.

Alamogordo fourth with 29, Deming fifth with 27. Artesia's win Saturday seemingly assured it of a high place both in district competition at Roswell and in state track competition. Artesia has been first place winner in all track events to date. Trophies won by Artesia Saturday include the Tom Charles memorial traveling trophy for first place winner, and 880-yard relay trophy. Baker received a trophy as highest individual point man. Artesia placed in all events except the high jump, 880 and javelin.

Artesian Recalls Jim Thorpe Aid With Grid Team

M. A. Sams, visiting teacher for the Artesia schools, this week recalled a phase in the life of Jim Thorpe, America's greatest athlete, which adds another memory to the constantly growing Thorpe legend. During Sams' superintendency of the Pawhuska, Okla., schools from 1909 to 1913, Thorpe, then in his early twenties, was a resident of Pawhuska. Sams recalls that Thorpe assisted "very materially" in coaching the Pawhuska high school football team. Thorpe volunteered his services at many practice sessions, and coaches, according to Sams, would give the great athlete complete charge of the session. Thorpe was the idol of every boy on the squad," Sams recalls. "The starting eleven were all Indian boys except one, Harold Hurley, a near relative of New Mexico's Gen. Patrick Hurley. "Thorpe's training won many games for the Pawhuska team," concludes Sams.

Tenth Grade Leads Attendance At Senior High

Tenth grade in Senior high school was first with 96.9 per cent in attendance for March. Ninth grade had an average of 96.7 per cent; the eleventh grade had an average of 95.4 per cent; and the twelfth grade had an average of 93.2 per cent. The eighth grade was first in attendance with an average of 95.3 per cent in Junior high school. The seventh and the sixth grades tied in attendance with an average of 95 per cent each.

ROUNDTABLE CHANGED
Gateway District Boy Scout leaders roundtable, originally scheduled for April 16, will be held April 17 during district camporee. Thad Cox, district committeeman, has announced.

Former Artesian City Engineer In California

N. B. Smith, a 1920 Artesia high school graduate and brother of Mrs. Otice H. Brown, 113 W. Missouri, has become city engineer of South Gate, Calif. Smith, top man on civil service system as of July 1, start of the school fiscal year. What action Artesia and North Eddy county schools may take as a result of the county and Carlsbad schools ignoring the school situation was not immediately learned. Supt. of Schools Mayfield said the matter will probably be lengthily discussed by North Eddy school boards before action is taken.

University Coach Asks for More New Mexico Boys to Be at UNM

"From New Mexico high schools will come the boys who will be the nuclei of future University of New Mexico athletic squads—and that is as it should be." So spoke newly-appointed University of New Mexico head football coach Robert A. "Bob" Titchenal in expressing his view of the future of athletics at the university. "I think the university very definitely has a future in athletics," he went on. "It is embarked on a difficult program of readjustment in athletic values at present, but I feel that if the school is given the support it deserves from its own state, the future can be bright, and not dark as has been so often forecast."

Former Nazarene Pastor Returns As Guest Speaker

Dr. Erwin O. Benson of Kansas City, Mo., field secretary for the department of church schools of the Church of the Nazarene, will be the speaker at the local church located at Fifth and Quay, April 16 at 7:30 p. m. Dr. Benson is editor of the Church School Builder, a promotional magazine for church schools in the Church of the Nazarene. He is also national president of the Christian Service Training Guild of the Church of the Nazarene.

Prior to entering the field of Sunday school promotion, Dr. Benson served as executive field secretary of Pasadena Nazarene college for 11 years and taught a number of courses in Christian education. The Church of the Nazarene, with international headquarters at Kansas City, Mo., has over 500,000 pupils enrolled in some 4,000 Sunday schools. Dr. Benson was pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Artesia from 1931 until 1934.

The 35-year-old former Wash-ton Redskin professional and coach of 18 years of playing and coaching football plans to visit with as many New Mexico athletes as possible before he falls. Seek New Mexicans—"We are very interested in having as many boys from New Mexico as we can get," he says. "The University is a school, one of the best in the nation, and we feel that we can offer educational opportunities and chances for a good future that stack up with those anywhere."

Saturday is the most dangerous day of the week in traffic. "The athletic material in New Mexico's high schools is as good as any in the nation," he said. "The boys all get good coaching, and I think they can hold their own with any group in the country." In backing up his statement, Titchenal pointed to the record of a group of top boys from the state's prep ranks who joined the Lobo football squad two years ago. "Practically every one of those boys made the varsity in their first try," he said. "Last year, some of them made All-Skyline Conference

Keys Men's Wear Expands; TV Service to Open Here

Keys Men's Wear have enlarged its store, making more room for customers and enabling it to add a greater amount of merchandise. Chuck Brown, contractor, designed the new room, which adds about 576 square feet to the original store on the north end. A new dressing room and a new alteration room was also added as well as additional lighting. The addition has well-designed carpeting and has the same Western-style black wrought iron hardware as the original store. This is most effective against the light colored walls. The store now has plenty of room to display its Florsheim and Crosby Square shoes, which were not displayed before now. J. Paul Audet of Albuquerque, was here Thursday, April 9, preparing to open a television installation and repair service at the old A and D grocery store location at 704 N. First. Audet went back to Albuquerque to move his family here this week. He plans to be ready to open his office about May 1. He has had training in electronics and operated a television service before coming here. The firm will service the valley—Artesia, Roswell and Carlsbad, as well as the surrounding area, possibly going as far as Hobbs. John Mathis, Sr., made a business trip to Farwell early Saturday morning.

Gateway District Scouts Slate Overnight Campout April 17-18

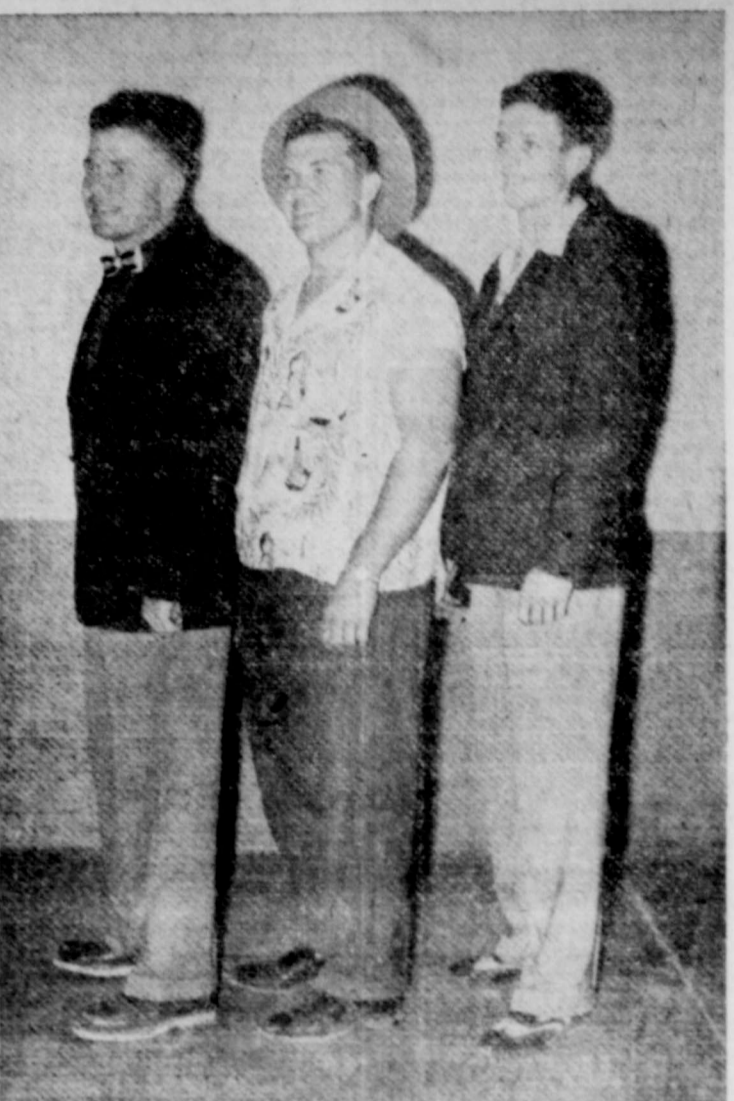

Gateway district Boy Scouts will hold their annual camporee this coming weekend in a two-day camp-out on the Pecos river east of Artesia, according to Wayne Truett, camporee chairman. General theme of the camporee is "Camping is Fun." Scouts will begin arriving at the camporee site between 5 a. m. and 5 p. m. Friday afternoon, when they'll immediately begin to pitch tents and prepare camp, then ready their evening meal. Campsite for the camporee is just south of the Pecos river bridge six miles east of Artesia on the Lovington highway. It will be located on the east side of the river. At 7:30 Friday night Boy Scouts will join in a council fire in the headquarters area. Taps will sound at 9:45. Reveille is 6:30 Saturday morning. Following camp clean-up, Scouts will launch on the business of the camporee with contests and problems from 8 to 11 a. m. Saturday. After lunch and a rest period, there'll be an award ceremony at 1 p. m. Scouts will begin to break camp and clean up the campsite at 2, and will leave for Artesia at 3 Saturday afternoon. Training at the camporee will give emphasis to participation of troops as a unit. Every Scout, regardless of age or experience, is being encouraged to participate in it.

when the collision occurred. The police car was 18 feet into the intersection, the police car was going south on Sixth. Miss Sanders' car west on W. Main. The youngster received eye lacerations. He was taken by ambulance to Artesia General hospital. Miss Sanders' car skidded 22 feet after the accident, the police car 31 feet. Both cars were heavily damaged as a result of the accident. Williams sustained shock and a knee injury.

tion, both from class B teams. Perry said Monday "We are 50 per cent ahead of last year all the way around—in our organization, in our team, and in our ball park. "I'm looking forward to a great season this year. The quality of Longhorn baseball is up all the way around. Several teams are off to a slow start, but fans are going to see some fast baseball before very much time goes by." Perry disclosed as a sidelight that seven of his ballplayers are 6 feet 3 inches tall—or over.

ers. Cars provided transportation for the tour. The visitors were served both lunch and dinner by the civic-minded citizens. President Jim Patton made a speech thanking the Artesia citizens for their courtesy and the Artesia Chamber of Commerce president, Stanley Carper, made one back thanking the farm leaders for coming to his fair city. A very fine time was had by all. No Tour for Them— Only one incident marred the tour: Elwood Brooks, president of Denver's fourth largest bank, had come along on the trip to view the potash deposits. A group of Artesia businessmen accompanying Mr. Brooks thought it would be nice to tour a potash mine and they picked out the one operated by Potash Company of America. The tickets were made out, the guide was assigned, and then suddenly the man in charge asked: "Where's this party from?" "From National Farmers Union in Denver," Banker Brooks proudly answered. "Can't Let You In"— The man in charge went around the group, collected the tickets, and then tore them up. "Orders," he said, "Can't let you in." It seems that Carlsbad's anti-coop chamber of commerce president owns a piece of the mine and had left orders not to admit any Farmers Union representatives. The score at the end of the tour: Artesia 100, Carlsbad 0.

'Junior Miss'—

Marilyn Saikin and Ruth Faulk, who also are in charge of properties. Make-up is done by Mrs. Bonnie Milne, Barbara Chadwick, and Mimi Stroup. "Junior Miss" is a favorite of professional and amateur theatrical groups. The story of a giddy and colorful adolescence, it is based on Sally Benson's satires in the New Yorker magazine. The play was written by Jerome Chodorov and Joseph Fields. Judy Graves, the 13-year-old Junior Miss, plunges the play straight from Judy's Hollywood turn-of-mind. With thinking reminiscent melodrama, she concludes her father is in love with his elder daughter, and that her uncle, accountably missing for several years, has spent those years in jail. Judy, of course, must do something about it, and in the end brings her family to the edge of poverty and madness. But just as easily and with the same Hollywood turn-of-mind, Judy brilliantly salvages the mess in a surprise plot twist that comes up with the happy ending seemingly lost by the end of act two.

District Scout Meeting Stated For Tonight

Boy Scout Gateway district committee will meet this evening for a meeting described by district chairman S. P. Yates as "highly important." Tonight's meeting will be at Yates' home, 808 Clowe. Subjects for discussion will include operating committee reports, institutional sponsor reports, complete reports on the campout April 17-18 and Scout Circus 1936.

Adults Study Typing Course Two Hours Weekly

Teaching Adult Typing Is Rewarding Work for Teacher

Editor's Note: Miss Margaret Harston, typing instructor at Artesia senior high school, also instructs adult education typing classes in the evening sessions. Her articles on typing are written from the students' angle; the one below reflects the teacher's viewpoint.)

By MISS MARGARET HARSTON
It is seven in the evening and I have before me two hours of the most interesting and appreciative work a teacher can find. This work is the teaching of typewriting to adult students in the Artesia high school. The students come from different walks of life with a single purpose, to take advantage of the opportunity which slipped by three, five, ten, fifteen years ago, or maybe longer.

Where is the noisy conversation of the students? Where is the customary, "Now children, please be quiet and get to work." It is not there. Of course, we have a healthy noise, but there is no hilarious, boisterous chatter.

Seven o'clock finds some students already at work. Some arrive three minutes late and some a little later, because they have jobs, or house work to do.

The question is often asked, "Don't you find teaching adults rather dull? They are so slow." I do not agree, for dull adults do not come to night school. Only the cream of the crop is there, demanding a reason for every move. If you are not prepared to give the reason, you cannot hold the attention of your class. The class demands results and the instructor must produce them.

You may ask, "Do you conduct your class as if you were teaching a regular day school class?" No, far from it. Of course, I follow the fundamental principles of a regular textbook, but I deviate as much as is required to produce results.

Each student has an individual problem to solve and it is up to the instructor to analyze the problem and to suggest a solution. The word suggest is the proper word for with adults a suggestion is all that is needed.

A great deal of emphasis is not placed on speed, however we have a set goal to reach. The most important thing is to produce a presentable manuscript.

Resignation Opportunity To Overhaul Administration

MANY AND COMPLEX are the reasons which led to the resignation of J. D. Josey, Jr., city supervisor and city engineer for the past five years in Artesia.

Rather than dwell on that resignation, however, all of Artesia might better direct its thinking, while the opportunity presents itself, to a thorough study of day-to-day supervision of the city's affairs.

While there are many other factors involved, part of the difficulty Josey encountered was due to a pile of work thrown on his shoulders that ranged from laying out water and sewer lines to setting up the city budget every fiscal year.

The man who could do well to the satisfaction of everyone all the jobs assigned the city supervisor or city engineer would be a rare person, certainly entitled to a salary much greater than any Artesia could offer at the present.

It does seem that merely to hire a man to succeed Josey is not the answer to his resignation. It would be inviting a repetition of the difficulties which have made both Josey and the city administration unhappy.

Answer to the problem of supervising day-to-day city affairs is not easily or readily available. It requires study and discussion; Artesia's current group of city fathers with its smoothly-functioning committees and efficient administration are capable of finding the answer, once they are convinced of a need to do so.

There are many in the city, including Josey himself, who would have suggestions to offer. With Artesia's rapid expansion and constant effort by the city to keep pace with or even anticipate growth, problems arise on many fronts, for the methods which operated a community of 5,000 are not readily flexible to encompass the needs of a town of 12,000 or 15,000.

Our present city administration has shown foresight in dealing with many problems. We believe they can seize the opportunity offered at the present to set-up a city organization which will function smoothly to everyone's satisfaction.

Who Renders Service?

MOST OF US in making purchases of some kind or type of equipment or machinery never give much thought as to just who is going to take care of it and render service after we buy it.

The value of a good many items today depends on the kind and type of service we can have after the purchase and not so much on a saving in the original price.

When we purchase something out of the mail order catalog—well you can be sure there will be no service rendered on the item or merchandise bought.

It is also true that an out-of-town salesman who ships in the merchandise or equipment or machinery from many miles from here, in most instances isn't going to return to render service on the machinery sold.

Yet the worth of any piece of machinery depends on the service available. If we haven't service, then chances are we will not have or receive the maximum from the machinery or equipment. It is true, of course, many pieces of machinery and many items of equipment operate at great length perhaps without service. On the other hand, oftentimes service is needed within a few weeks or a few months after an article item or piece of machinery has been purchased.

So when you think about buying something—also consider the service needed. And if we do that, the chances are we are going to give more consideration to the local dealer or the local merchant. They are in business and they expect to remain in business. They are here to serve us and to give the care and attention needed when it is needed.

We certainly want to buy automobiles from the local dealers because we want those dealers to service those cars. The same is true about everything else we buy where service is involved.

So we are not only buying at home, keeping our money at home, but we also are protecting ourselves and insuring better service if we make that purchase from the local dealer.

He is interested in making a sale but he is also interested in a satisfied customer and interested in rendering service.

And when we buy at home we can be sure that the local merchant or the local business man is going to take care of us, render the service we need and help us to get complete satisfaction from our purchase.

Better Reduce the Budget

WHILE THE TALK continues as to whether the budget will be reduced and whether Americans are going to receive a cut in income taxes, we find the discussion underway of spending $1,300,000 to provide a home for the United States delegate to the U. N.

The proposal calls for the buying of a $300,000 home and then spending $1 million in furnishing the home. This seems to be in line with the state department's idea of spending money following the disclosure they spent some $25 million in Bonn, Germany, providing fine housing for some of the government representatives there.

There is just one way we are going to be able to reduce the budget and cut taxes and that is to do it. And the means that the Congress is going to have to go through the various department's request for funds and to cut these to the very core.

While we clamor for lower taxes and a reduction in the budget we continue to clamor for various public building projects over the nation.

We are convinced we can't continue to improve rivers and harbors, spend money on so called flood control projects, spend billions for hospitals and public buildings, work out something for this state or that state and at the same time reduce the budget. Likewise, we don't think we can continue to provide funds and money for foreign nations to arm themselves, take care of their people, and to prepare for war.

If we are honest and we are sincere about reducing the budget and cutting taxes—then we have to start. And there is no doubt but what we could get along with a great deal less in every department of the nation.

We know that government contracts during the Korean situation have brought about wealth to many Americans—Americans who at times appear more interested and more concerned about making money than they are in seeing us come out victorious in the Korean situation.

We are going to have to change some of our ideas about spending. We are going to have to get away from the idea that the government is buying and paying for it so it does not matter what it costs.

We are going to have to demand the same business practices prevail in the spending of the government's money that large corporations follow in the spending of their money.

Seemingly we have experts or so-called experts in every line in our nation's government except in the field of finances. We have authorities for everything except to see that we get a dollar's value for every dollar we spend.

The day and time of spending money wastefully, of hiring too many people who only want the pay and do not want to do the work, and the time of just talking about cutting the budget and reducing taxes is gone.

There is only one way to do it—cut the budget and then cut the taxes and spend wisely the money we have. If we do that the budget will be ample—yet probably will do a better job than the tremendous budgets we have been spending when half the money has been wasted.

Report of False Plane Crash Near Roswell Sends Chaves Deputies on Wild Chase

CHAVES COUNTY DEPUTIES were sent on wild and fruitless goose chase the other day when someone turned in a false report that an airplane had crashed 18 miles northeast of Roswell.

The caller said two men stationed at a point along the route would direct deputies to the accident.

There were no men, no signs of a crash, and no signs of the pranksters who had turned in the false alarm that had alerted Chaves law enforcement officers.

LOVINGTON MAY SOON have a 40-acre housing development. Officials of Cicero-Smith Lumber Co. said the plan is yet to be drawn pending city approval.

LOVINGTON IS LOOKING, incidentally, for a $5 million total in its building permits this year. First quarter reports showed a total of $1,160,000 worth of building already authorized, with only three months of the year gone by.

The town will get a considerable boost toward the $5 million figure if a high school bond issued is passed and the 40-acre housing tract mentioned above is developed.

GREASED PIG?

NEW MEXICO EDITORS ARE SAYING—

Rainmaking Season Almost on Quay County Attentive Ears Ready for Promise of Water

RAINMAKING AGAIN

Rainmaking is almost upon us again in Quay county. Maybe the professional wetters won't be as successful this year as they were last year and the year before, but there will always be attentive ears cocked to the story that someone can bring water from the clouds.

In the old days the pioneers used the Indian rainmakers. Now they shabby over to the fellow with theories, high sounding degrees and self proclaimed reputations for making it rain where rain ain't.

Rainmaking is not a mute subject in New Mexico and the West. Even on the streets and highways in Quay county the topic is continuous interest.

The controversy over the capabilities of cloud-seeding, or rainmaking, continues. The latest shot comes from Dr. Gerald Lieberman of Stanford University. The statistician told a regional group of the American Geophysical Union meeting in California that seeding operations recently investigated in California produced no significant increase in total rainfall for the season, nor for any single storm.

University of California statisticians agree with Dr. Lieberman and a group of them, which investigated several seeding operations, reported to the Geophysical Union group in the same vein as did the Stanford officials. Thus the debunkers or rain-making claims registered several good clicks.

The controversy will, of course, continue. However, these two disparaging reports will put added responsibility on the shoulders of those who claim to be able to increase rain-fall with seeding operations. The proof of this method of rain production is not yet established, or an accepted, conclusion, by any means.—Tucumcari American-Leader.

MORE COVER-UP

This business of penitentiary scandals is getting to be almost old hat. If there isn't a fresh blow-up, word of a past scandal leaks out, as it did yesterday when Columnist Will Harrison disclosed a raid on the prison hospital, theft of narcotics, a sit-down strike by convicts who demanded removal of "tough" Deputy Warden Charles Mead obliged by the transfer of Mead to the prison farm and the immediate resignation of the prison steward. Those who raided the hospital and stole the narcotics were not apprehended, and the narcotics were not recovered.

These "incidents" were carefully covered up, of course. The chairman of the penitentiary board apparently got some kind of report but other board members apparently were in the dark. The governor, it seems, was just formed of the incident, but just how much he was told cannot be learned. The press heard rumors of trouble at the prison, but inquiries were met with evasions and denials. It was the same old cover-up that has kept the penitentiary in hot water for years. Governor Mechem and his subordinates have adopted and are clinging to a "public be damned" attitude which makes it plain they believe the citizens and taxpayers have no right to know what is going on in the trouble-ridden state institution.

The cover-up in this particular instance went so far as to deny to a special joint House-Senate investigating committee any information on the Sept. 18 narcotics raid. Not one word about it is to be found in the transcript of the hearings conducted by that committee. Now Hugh Horne, Republican representative from Albuquerque, chairman of the joint committee, seems to have his dander up and will reconvene his committee in special session to find out the details of the incident. Horne, understandably wonders why Warden Morris Abram neglected to mention the sit-down strike and narcotics raid in his testimony about disturbances at the prison.

The American public can forgive almost anything except being deceived. Honest mistakes, errors in judgment, difficulties due to lack of facilities or manpower, all may be expected and understood. But the public feels it has a stake in its institutions, and has right to know what goes on in them.

When the Mechem administration becomes aware that it is only heaping discredit upon itself by attempting to fool the public and withhold information that the public has a right to know, it will find it has much smoother sailing.—New Mexican, Santa Fe.

COACH HIRED

The University of New Mexico took another step yesterday in its program of putting intercollegiate football in its proper perspective.

An assistant coach from New Mexico high school ranks will be employed soon.

We think the University can have good athletics and a better school spirit at the same time with its athletes enjoying the same privileges as other students, and no more Albuquerque Tribune.

THOUGHTS IN PRINT

Communism Outdated Medieval, Brutal Force, Harper's Editor Thinks

ONE MAN'S VIEW OF COMMUNISM in the United States—from an address by Fredrick Lewis Allen, editor in chief of Harper's magazine:

I speak as one who believes that communism, as we see it today, is an outdated medieval, slavish, brutal and inimical force; that its few remaining stooges in the United States should be diligently watched, as potential spies and saboteurs, by trained people who know what they are doing; but that communism is now so utterly discredited in this country that the harrid American Communists have become a very minor influence in swaying American opinion; and that it is high time that we shake off the vague and pervasive fears that possess so many of us today.

It is time for us to realize that the strength of America lies in its diversity, its resistance to conformity, its traditional horse and unexpected; in the American sense; in its welcome for the new and better food. They were quickly obliged by the transfer of Mead to the prison farm and the immediate resignation of the prison steward. Those who raided the hospital and stole the narcotics were not apprehended, and the narcotics were not recovered.

This nation has a mighty part to play in today's troubled world. We have effective leadership. We have vast resources. We have brilliant technological capacity. We have as a body of people, essential good will—a very great long-range asset in a contest for the minds and hearts of men. What we need is a renewal of faith in ourselves; in one another; in the free Western civilization of which we are the last, best hope; and in our future.

THE TAFT FAMILY HAS AN impressive record of public service going back 77 years, as this

St. Patrick's day editorial in the Louisville Times pointed out: Seventy-seven years ago this month—in March 1876—Alphonso Taft of Cincinnati entered national public life. That was when President Grant made him secretary of war. Alphonso's son, William Howard, became one of Grant's successors in the White House. William Howard's son, Robert Alphonso, became what he is today, the most powerful member of the United States senate. And now Robert's son, William Howard III, appears upon the stage.

President Eisenhower will send him to Eire as the American ambassador. He gets the job primarily on account neither of his distinguished heritage nor his father's present position (though these things of course, could not have hurt). He gets the job because he up and asked for it and because he could present exceptional credentials strictly of his own. He is a Gaelic scholar, having achieved a teaching job in that field at Yale. He has been three years (1948-1951) in Dublin as our representative under the Marshall plan. Manifestly he likes the Irish, and by all accounts they like him.

A COLLEGE PRESIDENT comes out against "deals" in general, Dr. V. Raymond Edman of Wheaton college writes in an essay directed toward the White House:

We have need of new hearts more than any "New Deal"; a fair opportunity to be ourselves and to provide for our own, and not some "Fair Deal." As a matter of fact, Mr. President, we don't need a "deal" of any kind. "Dealing" is a gambler's expression, with implication of deceit and dishonesty, something under the table or up the sleeve.

OUR READERS WRITE—

Teenager Thinks Conduct of Certain Few Discredits Entire Age Group

To the Editor, Artesia Advocate:

May I start out by asking one simple question? Just what do you think the people of this town judge the teenagers by? Is it their appearance? Partly. Is it their respect? Partly. Is it their all-out attitude? Partly, but mainly it is their conduct. Yes, that common, everyday habit of conduct.

We may not realize it, but every every move we make is commented on by some knowing adult. This may seem a trivial matter to us and we may not think much about it. But this is a very important factor to us in our lives. Mainly because we are just starting to mature. Every time we make a false move we are doing the same as putting a black mark on our records as students in high school.

May I please put forth one example to you on this subject. Not long ago a friend and I were downtown in one of the popular meeting places of the high school set. There were also a younger group of high school students present. While we were there, one of the girls tipped over a Coke and made a very large mess. The waitress, having seen the accident, brought a cloth to clean off the table. When she did so, the group got awfully smart and made the table even worse. The waitress then left the cloth for the group to clean the table themselves. The girls got even smarter and refused. And to top it all off, they moved to another table and started acting cute again. People who are old enough to be in high school should be enough to act decently in public place.

Now, may I ask you one question? Just what do you of the older people present think of the high school students? It wouldn't be half as bad if I thought detrimentally to that group alone, but chances they thought badly toward the population of high schools not all.

This type of person is a person who cares only about self, and thinks not of the things or position of other people concerned. To this type of the high school student, their disrespect, and their should also.

I think this sort of thing and should be stopped. After we, as students, want to be of our high school and we want our parents and people to be proud of it. There are many ways of doing it and we can do so with the effort. We can do so by being good manners, being thoughtful, and proper conduct.

Are we going to be making our high school a material type of school, in which upper classmen monitor the lower classmen?

Here's hoping we succeed in making our school one to be proud of.

Cause of Disease Discussed By Local Doctor

This is the actual case record of a Chiropractic patient, who states: "For many years I have been ailing. Finally I submitted to the removal of a toxic inward goitre. The effects of this resulted in paralysis of my left side, and had no use of my left arm and hand. In addition to this, I suffered with severe headaches.

"After a year of being handicapped in this way, I decided to take the advice of some good friends. I placed myself under the care of a Chiropractor. After two months of scientific Chiropractic care, the use of my left leg and arm was restored; my nervousness and headaches subsided, and I was happy to discover that I needed to wear my glasses only when reading, whereas I had worn them at all times previously.

"I have worked steadily now for three years and I look and feel younger now than I did ten years ago."

It is not right to say "everything possible has been done" unless Chiropractic is included! For further information about Chiropractic you are invited to consult Dr. Kathryn Behnke, Palmer Graduate Chiropractor, 408 W. Richardson, phone 361. —Adv.
