Friends report that Lewis Dale, Needmore community resident, who had a stroke last week, is showing improvement at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock. He is talking, although he has not regained use of his left arm and left leg at presstime.

Jennifer Sue Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Earl Green of Muleshoe, recently was named to the Dean's Honor Roll at Abilene Christian University.

To be listed on the honor roll, a student must be enrolled for a grade in at least 12 semester hours and earn a 3.45 grade point average or higher.

Have you ever wished you could do something to improve the future? Ever wish you could make someone's life better and by doing so enrich your own life? You can!

Consider being a foster parent. As a foster parent you can give abused and neglected children a temporary home -- your home. You'll help children and their families turn their lives around.

There will be an orientation on the foster parent program on March 6.

The session will be held at the office of the Texas Department of Human Services, located at 210 Marshall Howard Blvd. in Littlefield.

The session usually lasts about an hour and will begin at 7 p.m.

Remember -- it does not take a lifetime to change a life -- be a foster parent!

County Judge Candidates Speak At Rotary Club's Tuesday Meet

It was 'political day' for the Muleshoe Rotary Club on Tuesday, when all four candidates for Bailey County Judge were asked to speak briefly to the Rotarians.

Although it was Don McElroy's program, he was absent, so his program was introduced by his daughter, Stacy, the Rotary Club Sweetheart.

She called on incumbent Bailey County Judge Jim Watson as the first speaker.

He reminded the Rotarians that the administration of the county is 'big business,' citing that it currently has an annual budget of $1,680,000, with 17 departments and four precincts.

He explained the duties of the county judge, and outlined his accomplishments since being in office for 14 months.

He cited several areas where he said he was responsible for improvements, including a savings of $5,000 per year in janitorial services; $50,000 savings per year in county insurance; more than $10,000 per year in the ambulance service and a vast improvement in fines levied in county court.

He asked for the people's support and vote to put him back in office.

Marilyn Cox was the next speaker. She first thanked Rotary for sending her daughter, Stephanie, to Rotary's Camp Ryla, telling the Rotarians that the experiences her daughter had at the annual Rotary Camp would benefit her "down the road."

She told a story of owning a little donkey when she was a girl.

She said the donkey was stubborn and refused to go anywhere if it didn't want to, regardless how much you tugged or pushed, or pulled or yelled at it. But, she said her cousins had some horses, and the little donkey really 'liked' one of the horses.

She said that when the horse would go by, the little donkey would stand up and follow the horse everywhere.

"We can reach our desired designation with the right leader," she said. "A leader serves the people, and a dictator expects the people to serve them.

"I want to serve the people, all of the people, no matter what their race is, or their position in life.

"I don't claim to know it all," she added, "but I have studied and can learn. As a judge, I would always listen to you, and will be fair to each of you," she added.

She talked briefly about the budget, and said that as judge, she would always listen to the people which would be approved by the commissioners, and will remember that it's the people's money.

"I ask for your trust, your

Jennyslippers Planning Ceremony At Mule Lot

Tomorrow, Friday, will be another 'B-I-G' Day for Muleshoe and the entire community is invited to help Muleshoe 'Toast' Texas at 2 p.m. at the Mule Memorial Lot.

Texas Independence Day is March 2, and a statewide 'Toast' will be conducted, joined by ex-patriated Texans all over the world. At precisely 2 p.m. -- wherever they are -- 3 p.m. in New York City -- 12 noon in California, etc. Texans will raise a glass of pure, clear Texas water and offer the following toast:

TO TEXAS - Joyous and sparkling.

Evergreen when it rains, enduring in drought.

Timeless, endless in boundaries, exciting.

Home to the adventurous of yesterday and today.

With shrines from the past And space and spirit for the future.

TO TEXAS, EVERLASTING IN THE HEARTS OF YOUR PEOPLE!!

Muleshoe will be joining in that international celebration under auspices of the Jennyslippers, who have a big day planned.

Vivian and T. R. White will be manning a booth at the Mule Memorial Lot from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. greeting tourists and travelers who stop by, and urging them to Toast Texas. They will be assisted by the Toast To Texas Committee, and other Jennyslippers throughout the day.

Shortly before 2 p.m., local residents will start arriving for a 2 p.m. 'Toast.'

Everyone is asked to be at the Mule Memorial Lot before 2 p.m. at the 'Toast' will be held promptly at 2 p.m.

At least two out-of-town TV stations are expected to be in Muleshoe to cover the celebration.

In case of inclement weather, the Toast to Texas will be moved to the Bailey County Coliseum, according to chairman, Nelda Merriott.

Included will be members of the AARP, who will turn out in their period costumes, long dresses, levis and boots, and bonnets. Probably, the Senior Citizens group will also come attired in the same manner.

Joy Stancell will be bringing a group from Muleshoe Area Health Care Center.

Cliff Allen will be on hand with his fiddle to play while the visitors sing The Eyes Of Texas -- and the Muleshoe Girl Scouts are making Texas-shaped cookies to give away during the rest stop.

Brochures and information will be available. John Cagle from Texas Highways sent Nelda Merriott 4800 colorful Texas brochures to distribute during the day.

It is expected that probably there will be a future write-up in an issue of Texas Monthly about the unusual and unique celebration in Muleshoe this Friday.

Signs will be on the highways on all approaches to Muleshoe telling about the day-long rest stop and the Toast To Texas planned for the afternoon.

SOUVENIRS FOR TEXAS TOAST--Nelda Merriott, chairman of the Toast to Texas celebration to be held in Muleshoe, tomorrow, March 2, is shown with a poster 'boosting' the celebration, as well as a couple of decorated mule shoes which will be on sale by the Jennyslippers. Other Texas memorabilia will also be on sale during the day at the Mule Memorial Lot. In case of inclement weather, the 2 p.m. celebration will move to the Bailey County Coliseum. (Journal Photo)

LITTLEFIELD TO GET GAS BY
FEB. 22: MULESHOE
ON LINE

Monday the South Plains Pipe Line Company had the gas main laid from Lubbock to within seven miles of Littlefield, and it is thought that if the weather does not prevent, the line will be completed into town by Saturday of this week, a gate placed in the line and ready to turn over to the West Texas Gas Company.

The West Texas Gas Company has yet to build its own border station, which when completed, will then be ready to turn gas into the local lines for citizen service, which will probably take another week longer or by Saturday, February 22.

BAILEY COUNTY STILL HEALTHFUL SECTION
There were 69 births and 15 deaths in Bailey County during 1939, according to Judge R.J. Klump, vital statistician, who further stated these figures were not all-inclusive as there were several births in hospitals of adjoining counties, also a few deaths of citizens outside this county whose homes were within it. However, he said, the probabilities of such outside births and deaths would increase the ratio of total births over deaths.

It goes to show that Bailey County still enjoys a delightful climate and health condition here are above par.

are from checking and savings accounts, utility deposits, oil royalties, and corporate stocks.

Most accounts must be dormant from three to five years before they are turned over to the state.

"There is no set time to make a claim on these accounts," Treasurer Richards said. "Money turned over to the State Treasury can be claimed at any time in the future by the original owner or his or her heirs."

Persons who find their names on the list can call the Texas State Treasury on its toll-free telephone line at 1-800-654-3463 or they can write the State Treasury at P. O. Box 17728, Austin, Texas 78760. The toll-free line opens at noon on March 4.

During the first few weeks after the list is published, the toll-free line is often tied up by the volume of calls. The lines, however, are kept open for an extended period and there is no time limit for making a claim.

The telephone hours are 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday

Toast...

The celebration will range out of Texas to Reno, Nevada; to Riyadh, Saudi Arabia; to Korea; to Conogal, Africa; to New York and London England.

Also, Australia, Washington, D. C. and California.

During the day, the Jennyslippers will be offering for sale, unique mule shoes and Texas T-Shirts, showing "Muleshoe Pride - Texas Proud" and other memorabilia.

When Texas declared its independence, Sam Houston was elected president of the New Republic. He appointed Stephen F. Austin as Secretary of State; Thomas J. Rusk as Secretary of War, and Henry Smith as Secretary of the Treasury.

Texas is known as the "friendly state," taking that designation from a Caddo Indian word - Tejas - which means friends.

Also known as the Lone Star State, Texas has had six flags flown over the state, including Spain, France, Mexico, Confederacy, Republic and the United States, since December 28, 1845.

Show your Texas Pride and be at the Mule Memorial at 2 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, March 2.

from March 5 through April 6. After April 7, the hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Unclaimed Money Fund List was first published shortly after Richards took office in 1983 and she has made collecting and returning unclaimed money one of her top priorities.

Since she took office, the Treasury has collected more than $273 million in unclaimed funds, which is almost 86 percent of all such funds ever collected in the State of Texas. About 96 percent of all funds returned in the 28-year history of the program has been returned during the seven years of the Richards Administration.

Money that is not claimed by owners is used by the state for education and general state services such as highways and law enforcement. Last year, for example, $40 million in non-tax revenue was turned over to the Foundation School Fund and the General Revenue Fund.

Texas Hospitals Lose Millions In Medicare

The Bush administration's proposed $5.5 billion reduction in Medicare for 1991 will cost Texas hospitals more than $192 million in new cuts, above and beyond $283 million lost due to previous cutbacks in the prospective payment system, according to the Texas Hospital Association.

Based on preliminary data analysis, the THA's Health Care Finance Division estimates that the Bush proposal will reduce Medicare payments to Texas hospitals as follows:

- * $63 million in capital cuts;
- * $54.4 million in underpayment of annual inflation (market basket) updates;
- * $29.1 million reduction in indirect medical education payments;
- * $12.75 million graduate medical education cuts; and candidate on the ballot. "County government is a big responsibility," he said.

He talked about the big budget involved, and said, "I would like to praise my opponent for his collections."

Then Alanis asked several questions, such as "If the ambulance service is losing $10,000 per quarter, or $40,000 per year, 'What does that do to the budget?'"

He also talked about the increase cited by the incumbent judge in fines levied, and the lack of representation of a deputy in southern Bailey County.

According to Alanis, this could be "allowed by the budget" if the county would levy costs of housing prisoners back to the prisoners. He then gave an example of a man who was arrested, booked, spent 11 days in jail before going to court. When he went to court, he had served enough time to pay his fine, so the county had to, in a sense, pay for his incarceration, and the man walked off free.

He also objected to starting to 'nip' at the budget. "If we start nipping at it, we're all going to be in trouble," he added.

He said he would be impartial, fair to everybody and would represent the county north to south to east to west."

Final speaker was James Warren, Republican candidate for Bailey County Judge.

He spoke briefly of his background, and told Rotarians and guests about spending a term as a Bailey County commissioner.

He advocated putting a constable in southern Bailey County instead of a deputy sheriff, and said they could do as much, if not more, than a deputy sheriff could do there.

He also spoke out against what he termed "35 meals for commissioners."

Warren said he had heard a candidate say old ladies from the south end of the county are afraid. "I think they could move to Muleshoe, to Morton, or to Levelland," he said. "I think they are probably not as afraid as they make out to be."

He also talked about 'cutting' existing programs from the budget to possibly effect a tax cut.

Warren concluded, "If you elect me, I will work for you for the next four years."

Before the candidates talked, President Terry Hutto reminded Rotarians of the Jennyslippers' Texas Toast scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday, March 2 at the Mule Memorial Lot.

He also asked for volunteers to help with the Mule Track Meet here on March 10.

President Hutto also asked for continued contributions to the Bob Stovall Paul Harris Fellow award, and said Rotarians had helped Eva Nell Stovall move into her new home last weekend.

Bill Liles was winner of the Polio Plus drawing.

Visitors at the meeting on Tuesday were Don Carter, Mary Hicks, Marilyn Cox, Julie Cage, Annette Bonds, Judy Watson, Robert Alanis, Connie Alanis, James Warren, Brooks Hilliard, Frank H. Ellis, Jim Watson, Delbert Watson, Beth Watson, Eric Dixon, Phil Millender and Harry Sheets, Rotary member from the Texico-Farwell Rotary Club.

* $34 million in reduced out-patient care reimbursement.

"Due to changes in regulations and previous reductions, Texas hospitals will lose $283 million on Medicare in 1991, even if the President's proposed budget had no cuts in Medicare," said Jim Houdek, senior vice president for health care finance.

Texas hospitals lost an average of $591 per Medicare patient during the first 11 months of 1989, according to DataPulse, an information collection/reporting program implemented by THA in 1989. "The Bush proposal is a serious blow to the continued survival of our current health care system," Houdek added.

The Administration has proposed $16.5 billion in reduced spending in its 1991 budget. "In effect, the Administration's $5.5 billion Medicare cuts would achieve fully one-third of its entire 1991 savings, even though Medicare represents less than 10 percent of federal spending each year," the hospital association reports.

With reductions of $3.4 billion, in-patient hospital services will bear the brunt of the recommended $5.5 billion in cuts. "The cost of new technology and physical plant maintenance are paid through capital payments. The Medicare program is paying only 85 percent of its share of the cost of hospital facilities and equipment in 1990," Houdek said. "Under the President's budget proposal, these capital payments would be reduced to 75 percent of cost for urban facilities, and remain at 85 percent for rural hospitals. This generates $1.3 billion of the $5.5 billion proposed cut," he noted.

Teaching hospitals receive additional Medicare funds for medical education. "Although these teaching hospitals will continue to have the expenses of providing classrooms, additional labs and specialized equipment, they will be paid less under the budget proposal.

Nationwide, hospitals would lose approximately $640 million in unreimbursed costs due to the inadequate payment adjustment for inflation" Houdek said.

President Bush has targeted out-patient services for a 10 percent reduction below the cost of providing services to Medicare patients, the association notes.

"The Texas Hospital Association and its members are already working with the Texas Congressional delegation and other Congressional leaders to minimize cuts to the Medicare program for 1991," the association said.

Solicite todas

las exenciones que usted puede recibir en la oficina local del distrito de valoracion en la direccion que se cita abajo.

Si usted recibio una exencion para su residencia actual en 1989, usted no necesita solicitarla para 1990 a menos que el jefe de valoracion pida que haga una nueva solicitud.

Sin embargo, si usted cumplio 65 años o quedo incapacitado antes del primero de enero haga una nueva solicitud para recibir exenciones adicionales.

Si usted no ha recibido una exencion para su residencia actual o si se cambio de casa haga una nueva solicitud para 1990.

NOTICE OF TARIFF CHANGE TO CENTRANET® SERVICE

GTE Southwest Incorporated gives notice of its proposed tariff changes to CentraNet® service, which is a Central Office-based service that provides PBX-type features to multi-line business customers and is currently being offered in all company wire centers where such facilities exist to provide the service.

The Public Utility Commission of Texas approved a generic tariff for CentraNet® service up to 100 lines in Docket No. 7652. The proposed tariff revision would establish specific rates for CentraNet® service involving 101 to 400 lines. Other proposed revisions involve the rate applicable to changes, additions, or deletions to the data bases and a new rate is proposed for additional trunks.

The names of the three CentraNet® packages have changed from Standard, Premium, and Deluxe to CentraNet® 1000, CentraNet® 2000, and CentraNet® 3000, respectively. Direct Call Pickup has been added to the three CentraNet® packages while Multiple Call Park and Shared Speed Call 30 have been added to CentraNet® 2000, and Speed Call 30 and Call Forward Busy/No Answer Split have been added to CentraNet® 3000. Flexible Night Answer and Automatic Route Selection also have been added as new optional features.

The proposed changes and new service offerings have been assigned Docket No. 9251, and pursuant to Section 43(d) of the Public Utility Regulatory Act will become effective June 23, 1990. Rates for service will be applicable to customers who subscribe to the service as well as existing customers. Therefore, there will be no effect on any other rates of the company. The company's gross annual revenues will increase by approximately $399,600, or less than one percent annually.

The proposed rates are on file with the Public Utility Commission of Texas, and are available for public inspection at the offices of GTE Southwest Incorporated. Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission. The deadline to intervene in this docket is 3:00 p.m., March 19, 1990.

A request to intervene, participate, or for further information, should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. Various Credit Types Outlined For Users

In the first part of this series, we discussed how credit worthiness is determined and building your credit record. In this part, the types of credit will be discussed. In the third installment of the series, the credit contract, credit limits and credit costs will be discussed. In the final installment, credit histories and preventing credit problems will be discussed.

The dictionary defines credit as: a) trust in one's integrity in money matters and one's ability to meet payments when due; b) one's financial reputation; or c) the time allowed for payment.

Understanding that there is more than one meaning for the word 'credit' is very important. There are also many different kinds of credit available in today's marketplace.

Shopping for credit is as important as shopping for the items you purchase or how you use the money you borrow. There are several factors that you need to explore before you can make your choice: the type of credit, contract agreements and all costs involved.

Basically there are two types of credit: sales and cash.

Sales Credit

Sales credit purchase goods or services. These credit agreements are usually made with department stores, furniture stores, appliance stores and car dealers. With a sales credit agreement there are three basic ways to pay for the goods purchased.

A regular 30-day account allows you to take the item with you and pay for it within 10 to 30 days after the billing date. There are usually no finance charges with this type of account unless payments are not made on time. The most common services that use this billing form are utility and telephone companies.

A revolving or open end account allow you to make repeated purchases up to a predetermined limit. You can pay the balance in full at the end of the billing period, or you can pay a minimum amount at that the creditor specifies. You can pay any amount between the minimum and the total balance due, but you must pay the minimum.

An important consideration is how the balance of your account is figured. There are three types of balance computations: Adjusted Balance Method-you pay interest on the opening balance after subtracting payments or returns made during the month.

Average Daily Balance Method-you pay interest on the average balance owed during the month. The creditor figures the balance in your account on each day of the cycle, then adds together these amounts and divides by the number of days in the cycle.

Previous Balance Method-you pay interest on the opening balance on the bill regardless of payments you make during the month. (This is rarely used.)

The average daily balance method is the most exact method of balance computation. It encourages you to pay the bill promptly since finance charges go up daily. The other commonly used method, the adjusted balance method, does not encourage early payment. Whether your payment is made on day five or day 20, the finance charge would be the same.

Realize, however, the consequences of rolling over unpaid balances on accounts. Interest will accrue again on the unpaid balance.

The last form of sales credit is the installment or closed agreement. You agree to a contract for a specific item purchased, such as a car, furniture or appliances. A new contract will be written for each additional purchase. The payment amount and length of the repayment period will be predetermined at the time of the purchase. The finance charge will vary depending on the amount of the purchase, the amount borrowed and the length of the repayment period.

Cash Credit

Credit loans involving cash are usually made by commercial banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, finance companies, life insurance companies or a cash advance through your bank credit card. The cost of borrowing money will depend on how much you borrow, the length of the repayment period and the source of the loan.

Antarctic Treaty is a legal framework that works, says researcher

COLLEGE STATION — The coldest reaches of the Earth have enjoyed one of the world's warmest peace treaties — where superpowers like the Soviet Union and the United States toil beside Chile, Belgium, Uruguay, Greece and other nations on a continent no one owns.

The Antarctic Treaty System binds 39 nations — three-fourths of the world's population — to preserving the frozen continent and promoting cooperative scientific research, says Texas A&M oceanographer Dr. Sayed El-Sayed, long-time Antarctic researcher. The simple six-page treaty forged in 1959 also has kept the military and the nuclear bomb out of the 6-million-square-mile area, he said.

"The genius of the Antarctic Treaty is not what is in it, but what is left out," El-Sayed said. "Seven countries claim the continent with many overlapping shares, but they and the other signatory nations skirt around the issue of sovereignty — who rules Antarctica — in order to keep the treaty."

The 12 original signatory nations, or consultative parties, meet every other year to consider pending issues and problems in the Antarctic, El-Sayed said. One of the biggest issues is "an alarming increase in tourism," he noted.

"There have been criticisms that tourists are creating quite a problem by disrupting the fragile ecosystems there and disrupting scientists' work," El-Sayed said.

Farm Bill May Affect Five Issues

Discussion is heating up on possible provisions in the 1990 federal farm bill, and cotton producers should watch proposals which could affect five major issues, an agricultural economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says.

The 1985 farm bill, as a whole, did what most of the involved parties wanted it to do and will act as a base for the 1990 legislation, said Stan Bevers, extension economist in Vernon. He made his prediction during meetings conducted at Anson and Vernon by the Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to

Mice with AIDS symptoms may help scientists learn how the virus works

COLLEGE STATION — Laboratory mice that suffer many of the same symptoms as advanced AIDS patients may give scientists a better understanding of how the virus attacks its human victims.

Virologists and cancer specialists at the Texas Veterinary Medical Center and the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston are using a special strain of laboratory mice to study how an AIDS-like virus attacks its victims' central nervous systems.

The researchers say the five-year project, funded by the National Institutes of Health, is designed to give researchers an analytical tool they can use in such investigations.

The mice used in the work by Dr. George Stoica, an oncologist in Texas A&M University's Veterinary Pathology Department, and Dr. Paul Wong of M.D. Anderson's Smithville Science Park facility are genetically susceptible to infection by Maloney urine leukemia virus.

One strain of the virus, known as TS-1, produces poliomyelopathy, an infection of the grey and white matter of the brain, brain stem and spinal cord, and brings on progressive muscle weakness, paralysis and weight loss — symptoms similar to those experienced by humans with later-stage AIDS.

He said the relatively rapid progress of the disease — clinical symptoms usually appears within a month of infection, followed by death in 45 to 60 days — makes studying the disease mechanism easier in mice than in humans, where the AIDS virus can lay dormant for years before symptoms appear.

U.S. calls for restraint in handling Soviet turmoil.

update Rolling Plains cotton producers.

News stories already indicate the new farm bill will probably address such things as market orientation, budget balancing under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollins Bill, environmental concerns, flexibility of base acres in commodity support programs and international competitiveness, Bevers said.

Marketing loans will be one of the major issues for cotton farmers, Bevers said. "Specifically, for cotton, we have to find ways to improve the marketing loan," he said. The marketing loan is based on the international price and is designated to make U.S. cotton competitive in the world market.

The second issue, Bevers said, is to find ways to reduce the adverse impact of supply management strategies on agribusiness, the consumer and rural communities. "For the most part the government hasn't managed the supply of stocks the way it should have," he said. He said the government would like to keep the cotton stock under four million bales.

Cotton farmers' third concern, the economist said, is for the new farm bill to find ways to reduce costs while maintaining price and income support at politically acceptable level.

Environmental concerns, including pesticide use, is a fourth area of the new bill of vital interest to cotton growers, Bevers said.

"The last thing, we're going to have to increase flexibility in planting, thereby allowing producers to respond to market-allocating signals," Bevers said. That means allowing flexible base acres in crop support programs, he said.

"If we've got so many acres in cotton, and we decide that the wheat market looks more attractive to us than cotton does at this point, is there a program that will allow us the flexibility to change our base acres from cotton to wheat?"

It's a good idea that could work, but would be difficult to police and very difficult to administer, the extension economist said.

TAXPAYERS' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities

Want to learn more about the property tax system? That's possible by reading a pamphlet the State Property Tax Board has written and made available at the local appraisal district office.

It's called "Taxpayers' Rights, Remedies, Responsibilities" and it may help you save money. Learn about tax relief available through

- homestead exemptions
- disabled veteran exemptions
- special productivity value for farm, ranch, and timber land
- tax deferral for over-65 homeowners

You'll learn how your property is appraised. That way, you can decide if the appraisal district's value is reasonable.

If you think it isn't, the pamphlet tells you how to prepare an appeal to the appraisal review board. You'll learn the types of protests the appraisal review board can hear and useful evidence to bring to your hearing.

Important dates in the tax year are listed. You'll know what your responsibilities are and when you are obligated to satisfy them.

Neels Attend Satellite TV Convention

"You absolutely must attend the annual satellite TV convention just to keep up with this rapidly changing industry," said Merlyn Neel of Muleshoe Antenna Company in Muleshoe after returning from the recent SBCA/STTI Satellite Convention in Las Vegas, the industry's largest trade show.

According to Neel, there's lots of big news for Muleshoe area television fans.

Here's the latest, straight from the convention floor in Vegas:

• Compatibility: All of the new technologies are compatible with current equipment, which means consumers can upgrade at their own pace.

• Programming Package Deals: While many programmers offer packages or "bundles of services," only Showtime Satellite Networks' Extraview package contains MTV, Nickelodeon, and VH-1.

• Pay-Per-View Fever: Pay-per-view is all the rage in home viewing. Networks such as Choice provide instant entertainment gratification with hit movies, sporting events and musical concerts.

For more information about satellite TV, Muleshoe area residents can get the scoop by contacting Merlyn Neel at Muleshoe Antenna Company, 220 West 2nd, Muleshoe, TX 79347.

New Research Farm Being Established

A fullscale research farm, which will give agricultural scientists a chance to test new technology under conditions in which farmers grow their crops in the South Plains, is being established in Lubbock in a cooperative effort by the Lamesa Cotton Growers, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Called the Agricultural Complex for Advanced Research and Extension Systems (AG-CARES), it is believed to be the only such fullscale farm in the country for validation and incorporation of crop research and extension programs, said Dr. Bob Robinson, district extension director at Lubbock.

The 160-acre farm is on U.S. Hwy 87 two miles north of town. It will include both dryland and irrigated crops, said Dr. John R. Abernathy, resident director of research for the Experiment Station at Lubbock.

The support of the Lamesa Cotton Growers, in providing the land and other facilities, makes it possible to carry out research which cannot be adequately evaluated in small plot areas, Kent Nix, president of the growers' association, said.

Research at the farm will include conservation tillage, effects of wind on cotton, environmentally sound management practices, sustainable agriculture, use and management of plant residue cover, precise water and fertilizer application, optimal varietal response, insect interaction within farming systems, week management, computer and economic modeling, and alternate crops.

Initial plantings at the farm will include cotton, wheat, grain sorghum and other crops, such as sesame.

In addition to the site, the producers also are providing a low energy precision application (LEPA) center pivot sprinkler system; farm equipment, utilities, seed, fertilizer and chemical costs; and financial support for a technician to be located in Lamesa.

The Experiment Station and Extension Service will provide a research plan, technical expertise of research scientists and extension specialists and specialized equipment for special studies; will plan, conduct and evaluate the research, conduct tours and demonstrations, and disseminate results of the work.

All income derived from the operation of the farm will return to Lamesa Cotton Growers.

Operation of the farm for the next five years will be guided by a steering committee. Members of the committee are Dr. William Lyle, professor of irrigation engineering, and Dr. Wayne Keeling, assistant professor of systems agronomy, with the Experiment Station; Donald Vogler, producer, Lamesa Cotton Growers; Dawson County Extension Agent John Farris and Dr. James R. Supak, cotton specialist, the Extension Service.

Experiment Station scientists at Lubbock initiated farming systems research in 1985 in an effort to increase farm profitability, reduce wind and water erosion and maintain agricultural sustainability.

Since then, components of farming systems tests at Wellman, Lubbock and Halfway have increased cotton profitability by 20 to 40 percent, Abernathy said. The AG-CARES farm will allow movement of this technology to a "real world" situation, he said.

"There are many components of our farming systems research, such as effects of wind, that we can't adequately evaluate in small plot tests," Abernathy said. "At the same time, agricultural technology has become so complex that individual farmers have neither the time nor finances to justify extensive farm experimentation.

"This research validation farm gives us a unique opportunity to bring our best technology forward to develop a farming systems operation to benefit the growers of the sandy soil areas."

Components for the LEPA system have been ordered and intensive planning has begun for operation this season, Abernathy said.

Fasten Your Seatbelt

Chamber Corner
By Nancy Kidd

The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture has been busy and it looks like we're going to stay that way. And that is O.K.

We now have a full Board and slate of officers. Leon Logsdon is the newest director and Lonnie Adrian is the new president. We welcome Leon. We are looking forward to a great year.

We have the monthly employee/business of the month. Don't forget to call your favorite in to the office, 272-4248.

March starts very busy. On the 8th at 7 p.m. will be the first meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Special Events Community Committee at the Muleshoe State Bank meeting room. If you've received a letter concerning this, please be at the meeting.

People leaving for the mountains, have fun, but please be careful.

I will be at the Spelling Bee on the 22nd at the Muleshoe Independent School District Administration Building. This will be exciting!

The 15th of March will be regular meeting for the C/C and Agriculture.

The Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture's famous membership meal will be from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on the 29th. We will be serving at the Bailey County Coliseum. Also, there will be "light" entertainment. Just have to come, eat and enjoy. Meet your friends there.

The 4-H Club and KMUL would like for all to meet them at the Bailey County Coliseum on the 31st for a Maines Bros. concert and dance.

We will be going to Lubbock to Estacado High for the Area 17 Special Olympic Track and Field Events. Muleshoe will have ten Special Olympians this year. We get so excited! Lots of ribbons and trophies come home, but most important is the good time and the kids have mixed and mingled and participated and competed. Meet us in Lubbock April 7th.

The circus comes to town April 14th with all the big animals and the trapeze. And I am told there will be rides on the elephants. (oh, yeh!!)

We should never forget Easter and what that memorial event has on our lives. We should keep this fresh in our minds and actions all year, not just once a year.

Then, save yourself for a fantastic evening at the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture annual banquet on April 26. We'll be served at 7 p.m. at the high school cafeteria. Blue Goose will cater deliciously prepared food.

Then we'll go into the auditorium for awards and program. What class and enthusiasm our guest speaker, Mary Marxen has. She comes from Naples, Florida; Florence, Kentucky; and Cincinnati, Ohio. She needs exposure to the South Plains of Texas. She's a delightful person and very talented. I promise you an exciting evening.

Well, here we are and it's the end of this week! We will end with these words: TAKE COUNSEL OF YOUR CONFIDENCE-NOT YOUR FEARS.

Texas police promotions based on test scores, not leadership abilities

COLLEGE STATION — Most police supervisors in Texas are not selected or promoted based on their leadership abilities — and most receive little supervisory training, according to a Texas A&M University survey of police agencies.

Larger police departments depend on written civil service promotional examinations to upgrade supervisors while smaller agencies rely on selection by chief, says Dr. Morgan Robnett, who conducted the study for his Ph.D. degree and who heads the law enforcement and security training division of the Texas Engineering Extension Service at Texas A&M.

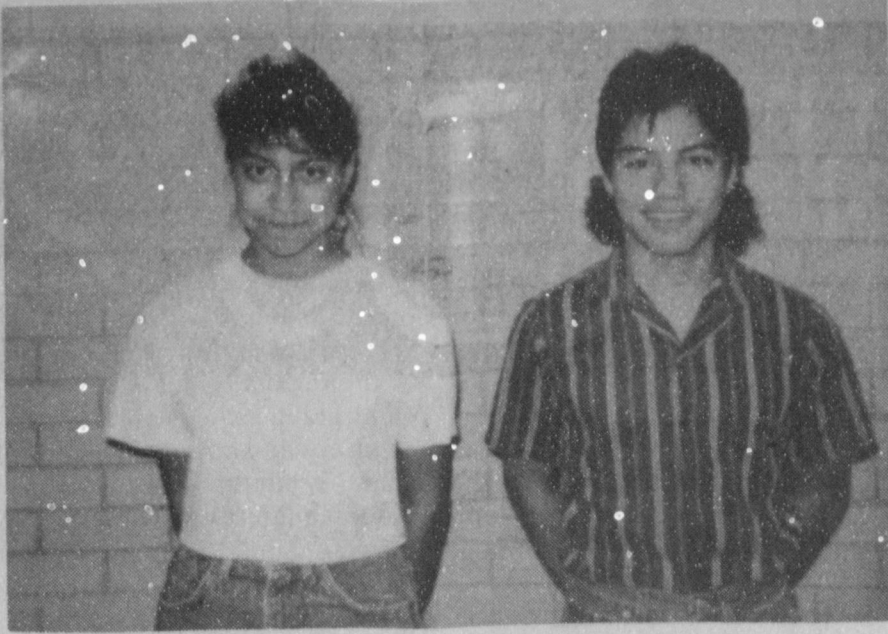

"No job-related criteria are used for promotion in most Texas police agencies," Robnett said. "The civil service exam is rigid and quantitative, and it's an easy way out for the administrators who do not have to justify promotions. Whoever gets the high score on the test is promoted."

Robnett, a retired Dallas police sergeant with 20 years experience, surveyed 121 Texas police agencies for his doctoral dissertation.

Arctic photosynthesis counteracts global 'greenhouse effect'

COLLEGE STATION — The photosynthetic process removes carbon dioxide from the atmosphere in Arctic waters near the ice cap thus counteracting the global "greenhouse effect," a Texas A&M University oceanographic team found during a recent international expedition.

Although scientists have known for decades about the Arctic deep water sink, researchers had not realized the potential of the Arctic process for removing carbon dioxide, says expedition participant Dr. Gilbert Rowe, also head of the Texas A&M Oceanography Department.

Rowe was part of an interdisciplinary program studying carbon cycling in the North Atlantic deep basins.

Half of the world's photosynthesis occurs in the ocean, Rowe notes.

Sleep Disorders Reasearch Study

Glen Rosier's Doberman had it all figured out. The dog had learned that, if Rosier was angry and about to discipline her, she had only to keep her distance for a few moments, long enough for his cataplexy to take hold. After that it was safe to lick him in the face again. Rosier, 53, suffers from narcolepsy, "excessive daytime sleepiness," said Dr. Simon Farrow who heads the sleep disorders clinic at The Methodist Hospital in Houston and is a neurologist at Baylor College of Medicine. Narcolepsy is an incurable sleep disorder often accompanied by a loss of muscle function called cataplexy. It is a condition that has caused Rosier problems considerably more serious than the inability to discipline his dog. Farrow said, "People can be very sleepy for a variety of reasons. One reason could be that they are on a lot of medication. Another could be sleep apnea, in which they wake up frequently because they briefly stop breathing; however, people with narcolepsy are sleepy for no apparent reason.

"They get so sleepy they literally cannot stay awake," Farrow said. "When they go to sleep, they usually wake up within 15 minutes refreshed and ready to go on about their business."

The affliction creates significant problems in the lives of people like Glen Rosier.

"I got to the point that I could not drive for longer than five or 10 minutes without becoming a hazard on the road," said Rosier.

Farrow said that people with severe forms of narcolepsy can spend several hours a day sleeping.

"It may make it so that a person cannot go shopping, cannot get the housework done, cannot hold a job," he said.

The situation may be complicated further, Farrow said, "by the presence of a set of symptoms generally called cataplexy. What happens to people with cataplexy is that, usually provoked by some strong emotion, they just collapse."

It was cataplexy that frequently provided Glen Rosier's Doberman with a reprieve from punishment, and it is cataplexy that Rosier finds more difficult -- and more embarrassing -- to deal with than excessive sleepiness.

"I lose control of my muscles in any emotional situation, such as when I get angry, fearful or joyful" Rosier said. "I'll have to lean up against a wall, sit down in a chair or squat down on the floor."

Rosier said his head falls forward, his eyes close, his speech becomes slurred and there is a slight jerking of the body. Throughout the episode, he is aware of what's going on. Control of his body usually returns in about 30 seconds, he said.

Now he takes mild doses of Ritalin, a physician-prescribed stimulant, to help him stay awake, and he is active in the Gulf Coast Narcolepsy Support Group which covers the area bound by Houston, Beaumont-Port Arthur, Bryan-College Station, Wharton, Pasadena, La Porte and Baytown.

"Just because people have narcolepsy and get sleepy does not mean they cannot hold down jobs -- and it certainly does not mean they are lazy," he said.

Glen Rosier is completely open about his narcolepsy, but many other people are "closet narcoleptics" who spend a great deal of time trying to hide their problem, Farrow said.

"People with narcolepsy should be honest about it, whenever possible," Farrow said, "so they can enlist the support of employers. Then they can get on with being reasonable citizens, being productive and being happy."

MICROWAVE TIPS

Microwave a roast beef? It's possible but only if you're desperate for time is it advisable. It's highly important, if you must microwave a roast, to get one that's quality meat, not too tough--especially if you eat a medium or medium rare roast.

If you microwave, it's best to cook it well done; some rub a seasoning mixture (salt, pepper and herbs or onion), and perhaps liquid smoke too, on the outside. You can also use seasoning salt and bacon wrapped on the outside to give flavor.

If you use a temperature probe, cook to 90 degrees first, turn over and cook to 130 degrees (Medium) for medium rare or 200 degrees for well done. Probe cooking requires a plastic wrap around the roast, vented.
