Section of Main Street to Be Closed

City Ok's Jubilee Plans

will have to be driving a truck, police car, ambulance riding a horse — in order to traverse the length of Main Street for three days during August.

At least that's what the city will decide Wednesday night. State highway department is to be heard from.

All part of the big Artesia Jubilee Celebration to be staged throughout the city on 10 and 11.

Chamber of Commerce Mgr. Scott asked for and got permission to block off three blocks of Main Street from Second to Fifth Streets during the celebration.

During that time the three-block section will be converted into a gigantic "county fair midway" with concession and exhibition booths lining both sides of the roadway.

The council also granted two other requests of the Jubilee committee—waiver of the regular tax on concessions since the booths will be operated by non-profit organizations, and permission to use the municipal swimming pool for a water carnival for one day during the Jubilee.

Scott made it clear that a central lane through the three-block section would be kept open for passage of emergency vehicles—and horseback riders. Booths would also be kept clear of fire hydrants but all parking and travel along the section would be detoured from Aug. 9 to 11. The extra day in advance of the festivities would allow time to construct and erect the many booths planned for the occasion.

A merchants committee meeting is scheduled for Friday to discuss further aspects of the proposed zoning.

State Authorizes Additional Construction at Junior High

Authorization for construction of an additional $77,577 cafeteria project for Artesia Junior High School was granted this morning by the State Board of Finance.

Schools Superintendent Vernon Mills said the approval for the present work contract at the junior high was made by Hannah, state auditor and secretary of the state finance board.

Clough and King are now working on additional classrooms, library, office and rest rooms at the junior high. Cost of work is $239,086, Mills said.

Work on the classroom additions is to be completed by July 15 but with the new authorization the contractors will begin operations and begin immediately on the cafeteria and

Sidewalks Slated On 11th Street To Protect Kids

Property owners along Eleventh Street between Richardson and Bullock Streets will be notified shortly that they must install sidewalks on both sides of the street for the protection of Artesia school children.

The decision to make this order, which has been under discussion for more than two years came Wednesday night when Elmo Naylor appeared before the city council. He presented a resolution from the Eddy County Safety Council recommending the installation of sidewalks and said that the property

Soap Box Derby Racers To Get Inspection Tab

An inspection of the Artesia racing cars entered in the Soap Box Derby in Roswell July 4 will be held Friday evening at Jack's Radiator Shop at 7 o'clock, Jack Staggs, chairman of the Optimist Club soap box derby committee, announced today.

Staggs said those racers which have not been completed by 7 p.m. Friday will be disqualified.

"Of course, if a racer needs only minor work, we will pass it, but if major work on the racer has not been completed, we will have to turn it down," Staggs explained.

The chairman said all cars entered in the derby must be transported to Roswell for a final inspection Saturday, July 2. Staggs said the racers will remain in Roswell for the Fourth of July race.

Artesia has seven entries. The youths entered and their sponsors are Gary G. Knight, Jack's Radiator Shop; Robert W. Benfro, Doss Garage; Charles Castleberry, Guy Chevrolet; Phillip E. Hinkie, Jim's Park-lu Grocery; Marcos P. Renfro, 20-30 Club; Robert G. Betancourt, Midwest Auto Supply, and Covan G. Downs, Artesia Investment company.

Two persons have paid fines in Judge John Ellicott's city court here.

James Raymond Rogers paid a fine for driving while intoxicated and Louis Ortiz Munez paid a fine on charges of reckless driving.

City Dads Set To Meet USAF Inspectors

Artesia city officials and leaders will be on hand Saturday morning at the airport to meet several New Mexico cities in search of a location for a new base.

W. H. Yeager asked all members to be present during the tour in order to best further the city's interests.

While all efforts were being made to try and sell the Air Force base, privately informed sources indicated that the state's "official delegation" were all committed on Hobbs as the site of the new base.

Some sources said that Hobbs might possibly get the base, additional Air Force inspectors are in the planning and

Club, Organization Presidents Meet to Talk Jubilee Planning

A meeting of the presidents of the various clubs and organizations of Artesia was scheduled to be held at the Chamber of Commerce office at 2 p.m. today in connection with the Golden Anniversary celebration slated here in August, Paul Scott, chamber manager, said.

Meeting with club officials, Bill Bennett, recently appointed coordinator for the event, was slated to discuss progress to date and tentative plans. He planned to ask for suggestions from those present.

Following the meeting, Bennett had scheduled a conference

Council Votes $5000 to Pay Hospital Bills

The city's entire emergency fund of $5,000 was put into play Wednesday night to partially meet a $13,329 deficit reported by the Artesia General Hospital.

Hospital administrator Ralph Lennon told councilmen that there were bills 90 days or more overdue amounting to $3,284.43 and another $5,561.89 owed on bills 60 days old, and another $5,435.79 in current monthly debts. To meet this, the hospital has $265.70 in the bank.

Acting unanimously, the council voted to use the $5,000 emergency fund to first meet the 90-day or older bills, pay the cost of the annual audit, now underway, and the rest to apply to the balance of the debts.

Lennon attributed part of the deficit to a lowered patient load during the past couple of months and inadequate county aid.

He said that the hospital hoped to receive a substantial increase in county aid this year and will take the matter up at a meeting of county hospital authorities in September. At present the hospital is receiving but $8 daily for the care of indigent patients and Lennon said that the request will be upped as high as $20 per day in order to meet growing care and administrative costs.

An increase in state aid for state welfare patients is scheduled to go into effect on July 1, he added.

Debated Delivery Zone Ordinance Gets Tabled After Merchant Protest

Artesia Joins in Protest Of State Fire Fund Bill

Artesia city officials Wednesday joined with several other New Mexico cities in a protest of recent state legislation changing disbursing of fire insurance funds to New Mexico community fire departments.

Action came after the matter was brought to the attention of the council by Ruidoso officials and local fire authorities.

Condemning the new measure, city fire officials said the new system of apportionment would virtually cut out funds to the smaller departments and in many cases would force the department to disband.

The council voted a resolution asking that the matter be placed

Rule Fails To Reach Vote Stage

A strong protest by a spokesman for a group of downtown merchants Wednesday night resulted in tabling of a controversial ordinance amendment which would have taxed the merchants for use of parking space for delivery zones.

Thomas Williams, owner of Williams Furniture Store on Main Street, denounced the proposal legislation as a discriminatory move against certain merchants.

Williams pointed out that his business has need of space for a truck to be loaded to make deliveries around the area and that his business is dependent upon that service.

"Whenever you want to add an additional $25 or $50 tax burden, you think up some gimmick to hit the Main Street merchants," Williams charged.

The proposed ordinance would have charged store operators $25 per metered parking space per year to reserve the space for delivery zoning. It would not have affected such establishments as service stations or garages which require access into the building of a vehicle.

Williams' appeal for revision of the proposed ruling got a cool reception at first but when the ordinance itself came up for approval after being presented by city attorney Neil B. Watson, the councilmen decided to give the matter more study.

They tabled the bill until the next meeting of the group next month and in the meanwhile recommended that the parking ordinances of other New Mexico cities be studied to see how the matter is handled by other communities.

ARENA SEATING CAPACITY IS INCREASED FOR RODEO

The seating capacity of the Artesia Roping Arena on West Grand will be increased from about 1,700 to 2,000 with the moving of stands from the high school stadium to the arena in anticipation of a huge crowd Saturday and Sunday for the city's first junior rodeo.

Out of town entries and their families are expected to begin arriving here Saturday morning, and registration will start at the rodeo arena at 7:30 a.m., Jim Williams, rodeo chairman, said. Facilities for the horses will be provided at the rodeo grounds.

Williams said numbered cloth tags will be given each contestant so that they will be easily identified by the judges. Signs, guiding visitors to the arena, will be posted on Main, just past 13th and will be placed through 20th.

To date, Williams said, there are 75 contestants from New Mexico and Texas. They will compete with 40 Artesia youngsters for prizes, trophies and awards.

The prizes were mostly contributed by Artesia merchants, and consist of western shirts, levis, belts, boots, steak dinners, and horse and cattle feed.

The 20-30 and Rodeo Clubs, sponsors of the rodeo, have bought

Fire Eaters Snub Paint Brushes in Favor of Hoses

You can't fight fires and be a good interior decorator at the same time, Artesia fireman Dallas Golden said Wednesday night.

And Artesia city councilmen agreed with him.

Appearing before the council, Golden mildly protested the attempts of the city to save money by having the firemen repaint in the interior of their living quarters in the firehouse during their spare time.

"You paint for about 30 or 40 minutes," he pointed out, "and then you have to drop everything and answer a call. By the time you get back you have to try and pick up where you left off." And besides, he added, the firefighters didn't have proper drop cloths to protect furnishings in the quarters while they were sporadically painting.

The council agreed with Golden that the idea was hasty and voted to accept the previous low bid of a professional painting establishment to complete the job.

Federal Land Swap Proposed by State

By SANKY TRIMBLE
ALAMOGORDO (AP)—New Mexico's chief land officer today proposed a cash-or-exchange trade for a sizeable chunk of land wanted by the military in the southern part of the state.

Land Commissioner E. S. (Johnny) Walker, appearing before a subcommittee of the House Armed Forces Committee, contended that the state should be "fairly and adequately recompensed, either by payment or an equitable exchange of federal lands not needed by the military" if the Army insists on its latest land proposal.

The subcommittee headed by Rep. L. M. Rivers (D-SC) is holding a long-delayed and off-postponed hearing here today on a proposal by the Department of Defense to acquire more than 700,000 additional acres in New Mexico and Texas for an anti-aircraft and guided missile training area.

Representatives of the state, the legislature and leading New Mexico industrial groups were on hand for a campaign of opposition to the proposal.

But one high state official, who asked he not be identified, said the campaign was already lost. He said "the decision has already been made. We're just making a gesture."

Rep. John J. Dempsey of New Mexico, who insisted on the public hearing before approval of the Army request, and a representative of Rep. Antonio Fernandez of New Mexico's other member of the lower house, were on hand for the session.

Gov. John F. Simms sent as his personal representative Chief State Tax Commissioner Clarence Forsling. Groups on hand to levy protests included the New Mexico Cattle Growers Assn., the New Mexico Mining Assn., the New Mexico Taxpayers Assn., the New Mexico Oil and Gas Assn., the New Mexico Education Assn., and others.

The land commissioner in a statement prepared for reading before the committee, said he believes that the rest of the nation should shoulder part of New Mexico's burden in providing for defense needs.

"We believe this committee should recognize the fact," Walker said, "that the national defense and national security is a responsibility of the entire nation and that it would be unfair to ask the State of New Mexico and its citizens to bear the burden of this military action alone."

Walker pointed out the military already controls more than 3 million acres of land in Southern New Mexico alone.

He said the area now asked by the military is "greater than the combined areas of the states of Delaware and Rhode Island within the District of Columbia thrown in. The area is the same size as the total acreage of the state of Connecticut."

He said that the interests of the state must "of necessity be relegated to a position of importance secondary to that of the welfare and security of our country," but added:

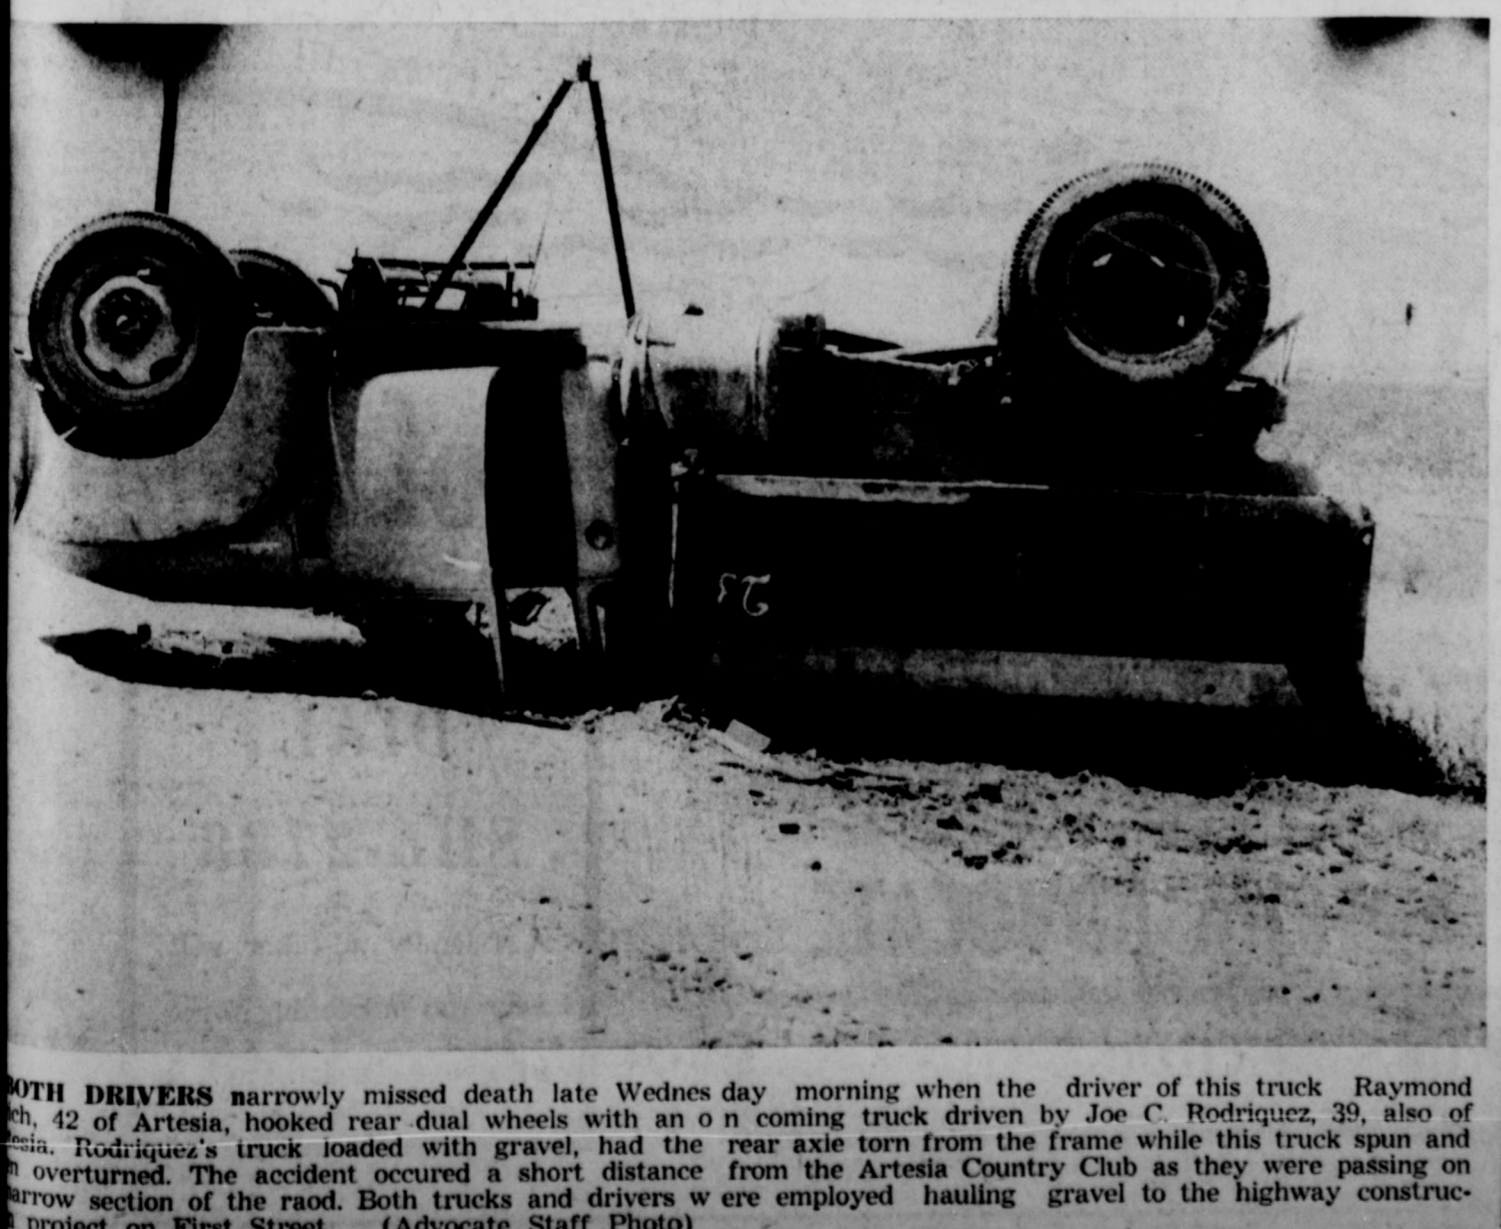

"We believe that it is the obligation of the military to prove that the best interests of the nation will be served and that their request is necessary for the proper defense and the security of the United States to the complete satisfaction of this committee."

Walker said that the land in question has been referred to as "unproductive land." He added however that "it is the land upon which our people make their living and it is the income from such land as this which guarantees our children an education."

The land officer said requisition of the land by the military will result in:

Loss of a certain amount of "our already small taxable area."

Fair Queen To Be Selected

ALBUQUERQUE - (Special) - Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who is the fairest of them all?

Somewhere in New Mexico—perhaps in your own county—there's a mirror that can answer that question. Undoubtedly, the mirror belongs to an unmarried girl, aged 16 to 19 years inclusive, who excels in both beauty and horsemanship. She must be a permanent resident of one of New Mexico's 32 counties, too, because these are the rules of the State Fair queen contest.

Contest will soon be held at rodeos, community celebrates and county fairs around the state to decide who will represent each county. Then, these county queens will meet at the New Mexico State Fair Sept. 24, for the opening day ceremonies and the statewide contest.

The competition between counties is keen. Curry County's Wilma Vaughn was the first State Fair queen in 1950, and last year honors were brought home to Curry again, this time by Barbara Hendricks.

The honor was won by Charlene Mann of Bernalillo County in 1951 and by Frances Woolfer of Socorro in 1952. Joanne Shoemaker of San Miguel County was New Mexico's Fair Lady in 1953. Some of these young ladies have since changed their names by marriage and are queens of New Mexico households.

All the queen candidates this year participate in the big State parade, the rodeo and other ceremonies and events. Win or lose, they may remain as guests of the Fair at Youth Hall for the nine days of the Fair.

The winner receives a beautiful silver belt buckle as token of her reign. Usually it is presented by the governor. Then, she presides at many events of the Fair.

A score of counties sent representatives to the finals last year, and State Fair Manager Leon Harms hopes that all 32 counties will participate this year.

RUIDOSO SUMMER theatre players rehearse—Curtis Kennedy, Springer, and Patsy Cobble, Artesia, rehearse in the pines at Ruidoso, southern New Mexico playground, for the first production of the Ruidoso Summer theatre sponsored by Eastern New Mexico University. The company opens its 1955 season with "Blithe Spirit," a comedy. The first play will be presented Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of two successive week ends—June 24-25-26 and July 1-2-3.

HER HEART STOPPED TWICE

PRONOUNCED fit to resume normal life, Mrs. Lorraine Mackowiak, whose heart stopped twice during a double operation, leaves hospital in Chicago with her husband William a month after her skirmish with death. The surgery was performed on a heart pumped dry of blood in a "freezing hibernation" technique. After the first operation, a 4½-minute job, the heart ceased its beating. It was massaged back into action. Then a rest of 45 minutes, and the second operation, 3½-minute surgery. Again Mrs. Mackowiak's heart conked out. Again the massaging, and successfully. She has a year old child. (International Sunphoto)

Artesia Holds Slim One-Came Lead Over San Angelo in Longhorn Play

Artesia held on to its slim one-game edge in the Longhorn League Thursday, losing one contender for the top spot but still feeling San Angelo's hot breath.

The two leading teams start a three-game series Thursday night which might decide the issue on the Colts' home field.

Midland, which also was trailing by only a game going into Wednesday night's play, dropped its contest with last-place Big Spring 9-7.

Both Artesia and San Angelo kept the status quo, the NuMexers beating Roswell 9-8 and the Colts topping Odessa 3-1. In the other game, Carlsbad stopped Hobbs 3-2.

Artesia built its win over Roswell on a six-hit, six-run outburst in the second inning. Rocket starter Dean Franks set the first three batters down in order in the first frame, but they caught on and sent him from the mound in the second after six singles were rapped out.

Elias Osorio led San Angelo batting at Odessa, pounding in two runs with a pair of doubles. Gill Guerra was credited with the win on his five-hit pitching, his 10th victory of the year against five losses.

Midland's loss came mainly from the hands of Frank Billings, who clubbed out a homer in the eighth inning with two aboard.

The improving Big Spring club now has won its last five games in a row.

Neither Hobbs nor Carlsbad could score more than one run in any inning. Bob Weaver pitched five-hit ball to take credit for the win.

AGING ARCHIE DECKS BOBO IN THIRD

Victory Gives Moore Shot at Marciano Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Moore's explosive punches have accomplished what all his oratory could not—earned him a shot at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown.

The 38-year-old light heavyweight champion did it with three punches. The right, right and left to the jaw demolished middleweight king Bobo Olson in 1:19 of the third round at the steaming Polo Grounds last night and set aging Archie on the path to a September heavyweight title scrap.

That's it:

"I guess that's it, the end of my long campaign," he said.

"They can't duck me now. Marciano is a great fighter. But any man I can hit, I can lick—and there's not a man I can't hit. That goes for Marciano. I think I can beat him and knock him out."

There's still a little dickering to do but promoter Jim Norris left no doubt as to what's coming next.

"It's got to be those two," said the president of the International Boxing Club. "It will draw three-quarters of a million dollars. I'll sit down and talk to Al Weill, Marciano's manager, and Charley Johnston, Moore's manager in the next few days."

Marciano, who watched the fight on television at his Brooklyn, Mass., home, said, "There's no question that arrangements will be made for me to defend my crown against Moore in September."

Bobo Silent

While Moore was looking ahead to the "climax fight of my career," crestfallen Bobo, beaten for the first time in over three years, moved back into his own division. He didn't even wait around long enough to talk to newsmen but rushed from the ballpark to Idlewild Field for a plane to San Francisco.

The first real hard blow of the fight started the blow-up middleweight king on the way out. It was a jarring right to the jaw. Another swift right thudded against Bobo's jaw and then a left hook dropped the giggling Hawaiian on his back.

He turned sideways and tried desperately to get to his feet. But his brain was numbed and his legs wouldn't respond as Referee Ruby Goldstein tolled the full count.

Nothing much had happened in the first two rounds except that Olson, heaviest of his career at 170 1/4 pounds, backed and sidestepped away instead of piling on the pressure as he normally does. Archie went after him, but he didn't catch solidly until the fatal third.

It appeared an easy win for the 175-pound Moore, but he said, "No it wasn't. It was experience that did it. I trapped him; it was the fault of my 20 years of experience."

Olson had his 21-win streak snapped but he had about $74,745 from the $306,784 gross gate and $100,000 radio-television fee to console him. The crowd was announced as 27,435.

Archie, the 12-5 favorite, received about $81,540, the biggest purse of his 19-year-old career.

That Fight Is On Way

There apparently is shaping up in this nation of ours a rather interesting and what can prove to be a real battle on the question of whether we have "pay as you go" television shows or whether we continue to have advertising sponsors pay for the entertainments.

A good many large corporations interested in making and producing the television sets are interested in the matter and are very much concerned about the cost of television shows; about the amount of money that has and is being invested in television advertising; about the losses being suffered by other advertising mediums; and about the efforts of two large companies dominating the television airways as they have dominated the radio waves.

They emphasize the fact that the airways belong to the public but they are being employed by private companies for private profit and they are seeking to control television just as they have controlled radio.

This, they point out, is not good for the public, the country or for our way of life.

One large company favors a definite plan calling for individuals to buy and pay for the television programs they want. It favors a system which calls for antennas to be erected to pick up and re-televises the programs in the various communities not served by television.

They argue this would be better for the country; would provide better programs; would prevent the dictation and control that rules in radio and will rule in television if the present situation continues; and it would halt the tremendous sums that now are being invested in television advertising—sums which they feel are unreasonable and unfair to the other advertising mediums.

But the two large companies, they point out, and other interests are definitely opposed to the public buying and paying for their television shows. But these, they emphasize, are selfish interests.

But anyway from all appearances the fight seems on the horizon and there are indications that perhaps the people may have a voice in their own affairs and they may determine just how they want television handled in the future.

There is little question but what if the public is buying and paying for their TV programs there definitely would have to be some improvement in some of the shows they are getting now and they definitely would not be willing to pay for some of the repeat shows, three or four times, they get now.

Plummer termed the levy an "illegal and unconstitutional confiscation of private property and money."

He says he will have legal assistance but "will plead my own case." The case has been filed against "other unknown persons" in addition to the government tax agency.

Plummer said when the suit was filed for the astronomical sum that he thought he might as well "put it in figures the government can understand."

U. S. Dist. Atty. Paul Larrazolo said he will file a petition for removal of the suit to U. S. District Court here from district court in Carlsbad.

Just An Ordinary Day on Busy Farm Teaches a City Girl About Life

By HAL BOYLE

LONG VALEY, N. J. —It was an ordinary Sunday outside the big cool dairy barn. The dressed up farm people came and went to church. The less dressed up people from the city enjoyed the sunny countryside.

Inside the big cool dairy barn it was even more of an ordinary day. Cows have no Sunday. The daily drama of life and death among the herd went on unchanged except for one thing.

There was a young girl present who saw the drama for the first time. The events of the day changed her. I am sure, forever.

The three cows involved were numbered 204 and 140 and 219—and the first was old and through, the second was young and having her first calf, and the third was middle-aged and having maybe her third or fourth calf.

No. 204 was at the head of the barn and lying, too weary to get up, at the front of the barn with her head in its stallion. She was 14, very old for a cow. Her milk had fished a thousand distant children she had never seen. But now she lay there, unprotestingly, waiting for the slaughterer's truck to come and take her way.

During the morning No. 140, the young heifer, delivered her first calf after a rugged ordeal. Worn out by the struggle and oblivious to the responsibilities of motherhood, she wandered away from her sprawling weak tan calf.

A group of summer residents who came down to see the calf found that No. 219, the middle-aged cow, had taken up the duties of the confused young mother. She was carefully and methodically cleaning the sprawling calf with her tongue, as animals do.

Suddenly it became apparent the middle-aged cow's own ordeal of maternity was at hand. One of the men turned to a young girl, his niece, and said:

"If you're going to get back to the city before the traffic ties you up you'd better leave now."

"I've never seen anything born before," she said. "I want to stay."

"But is many be hours," he said. "You can't tell."

"Just for a little while," she pleaded. "Then I'll be off."

Her uncle and the others left and the young girl was alone in the filtered light of the barn sweet with the deep rich scent of hay and animal bodies. Old cow No. 204 a factory worn out, danced at her with the idle and placid noninterest or age.

The young girl knelt beside No. 219. The miracle of approaching birth made the two one. She knit her fingers and tugged at them tensely in unconscious rhythm with the laboring cow.

"Please," she whispered. "Try again. Harder."

All at once they were three—or almost three. The calf was half-born. Then something was wrong.

"Please, please, please!" cried the girl. She heard a noise Two dairy hands had come into the far end of the dairy barn.

"Quick!" she cried. "The calf is strangling!"

The two men ran up. One grabbed a rope. With it they completed the rough obstetrics of the farm, and the calf was delivered; its forehooves raised to its muzzle in the posture of a prayer.

The calf lay there—warm, wet and motionless. One workman bent and wiped its muzzle to clear the nostrils, then massaged its ribs in an attempt at artificial respiration. The calf lay still.

"But I saw its eyes move," said the girl. "If I could have called you in time—"

The rough workmen looked up at her, puzzled. A calf is $20, more or less, and they come often on a big dairy farm.

"I don't think so," said one of the men, not unkindly. "These things happen, you know."

J. Hassler Strickland, district manager of the Roswell Social Security Administration office, will be in Artesia, Monday to assist local residents in making applications for old-age or survivors insurance benefits and to give general information concerning the Social Security Act.

He will be at the office of the New Mexico State Employment Service, 311 W. Main between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. Announcement was made here today by Strickland that his office was now accepting applications from persons seeking to establish a period of disability under the 1954 amendments to the Social Security Act. He stated that all persons who are now totally and permanently disabled, but who had worked at least five years in jobs covered by Social Security before becoming disabled should contact him to see if this new disability provision of the Social Security Act would be of benefit to them. He added that disability applications do not provide for any immediate cash payments. Such application only makes it possible to exclude the period of total disability from the wage earner's employment record in computing the benefit amount of claims under the retirement or survivors insurance provision of the law.

Workers who are totally disabled by illness, injury or other physical or mental impairment which can be expected to be long-continued and of indefinite duration may file an application to establish a period of disability. This application must be supported by medical records furnished by the claimant. When established, the period of total disability will be excluded in computing the wage earner's average monthly wage at retirement or upon death of the wage earner.

Persons who are unable to contact the Social Security representative because of their disability may have their representative or member of the family inquire on their behalf. A free booklet, entitled "Facts For Those Who Are Disabled" is available for the Social Security Administration, Roswell.

Salvation Army 1955 Fund Appeal Response Is Good

Response to the Salvation Army fund appeal has been good, according to E. B. Bullock, chairman of the organization's activities for the past 37 years.

Bullock said Mrs. Marion E. Salvation Army official from Phoenix, Ariz., is assisting in the drive here.

Bullock said the Salvation Army is the only organization in Artesia which gives immediate aid without the use of tape to those in need.

WASHINGTON AND IKE IN A-BOMB RELOCATION

Tents of agencies. First sign, "Bureau of the Budget," second, "Council of Economic Advisers." THIS WAS THE SCENE as key men and agencies of the government relocated outside Washington for the three-day test evacuation. The site is top secret, a presumably safe distance from the capital. There were some 200 persons at the presidential headquarters, and business went on somewhat as usual during the Civil Defense evacuation.

'News and Views'

By JOHN J. DEMPSEY
Congressman From New Mexico

WASHINGTON, June 23—Development of a new opposition strategy—an apparent desperation move—has resulted from the decision of the House Interior Committee to eliminate Echo Park Dam from the projects given immediate construction authorization under the provisions of the Upper Colorado River Development legislation. The bill now provides for further study of Echo Park Dam by a special impartial group. Opponents of the entire Colorado River program, who had depended on the fight against Echo Park Dam to swing their way, are now deluging Members of the House of Representatives with a flood of propaganda charging that the action of the House committee is a "subterfuge" and stating "Echo Park Dam will never be dead unless the whole poorly planned uneconomical Upper Colorado River Project is voted down."

They reveal their entire strategy in that one statement. They are not fighting the Echo Park Dam on the professed conservationist basis, as they have been contending but are using it to bolster their effort to deprive the Upper Basin States of their rightful share of the waters of the Colorado. They are not concerned with the economic welfare of millions of their fellow American citizens. The plight of drought-ravaged and water-starved New Mexico, for instance, means nothing to them. Yet many of those opponents of a sound investment in development of the Colorado River and conservation of its waters—an investment that will pay for itself many times over—display great enthusiasm about sending added billions of American dollars abroad for so-called foreign economic aid.

The House of Interior Committee is taking a realistic view of the Colorado River bill. The measure to be reported to the House will be closely in line with that passed by the Senate. Echo Park Dam excepted. New Mexico projects are given the same favorable treatment in both bills. Although the opposition has been obliged to change its strategy it still is going to make a determined battle, right down to the finish.

STATE'S DEFENSE ROLE MAY INCREASE

Two events transpiring in New Mexico this week point to an increasingly important role for the state in the nation's defense program.

A survey team of five Air Force officers started yesterday at Las Vegas on a four-day inspection trip to seven New Mexico cities to ascertain the best locations for additional airbase facilities that may be needed in the Southwest to carry out expansion plans. The survey includes Truth or Consequences and Deming today, Las Cruces and Carlsbad tomorrow, and Artesia and Hobbs on Saturday. Next month will be made to Santa Fe, Mountainair, Clayton, Taos, Estancia, Raton and Fort Sumner, and possibly other places the Air Force has announced. Although the expansion plans are at present tentative, the survey trips lend considerable credence to the belief that we will have additional facilities in the state.

Today Chairman Rivers' Subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee is conducting a hearing in Alamogordo on the application of the Army to acquire about 650,000 acres of additional land in Otero County for an anti-aircraft and guided missile training area. I came to Alamogordo with the committee at its invitation, because of my insistence that all parties concerned should be heard before any determination is reached on the army's request to be authorized to acquire 66,000 acres of privately owned, 143,400 acres owned by the state and 438,000 acres of public domain owned by the federal government. In addition the army seeks to extend present lease leases of 130,270 acres.

The Army has advised the committee that the additional area is necessary for training of anti-aircraft and guided missile forces—the only area to be devoted exclusively to this training in the United States. The hearing is intended to give the committee first hand information on which to base a decision that will be equitable to present landowners and lease holders, grazing mineral, oil and gas and, at the same time, not hamper the important Army training plans.

MRS. HOBBY'S "SOCIALIZED NONSENSE"

Appraisal of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare, made editorially by the Washington Post and Times-Herald in commenting on the polio vaccine confusion, seems to me to be so fitting that I pass it on to the folks in New Mexico. The editorial, in part, states:

"Secretary Hobby was her own worst enemy in her testimony before the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. She seemed to regard all criticism of the Administration's handling of the polio program as captious and added that she was 'not embarrassed in the slightest' by it. Then, replying to a question from Senator Goldwater, she charged that Senator Hill's bill to provide free vaccine for all children would lead to 'socialized medicine by the back door.'"

HOUSE RESTORES RECLAMATION, FLOOD WORK CUTS

An irate House of Representatives refused to go along with the Bureau of the Budget and the House Appropriations Committee in agreeing to heavy cuts in funds for reclamation and flood control items in the Public Works Appropriations and restored the amounts that the Bureau of Reclamation and the Army Engineers had said were necessary to carry on the work adequately. As a result New Mexico projects will have sufficient money available to do work as planned, if the Senate upholds the House action, which is deemed virtually certain.

The House action is not due entirely to the curtailment made in the present bill but was prompted to some extent by the continuing efforts by the Budget Bureau in recent years to trim back estimates of reclamation and flood control needs so deeply as to cripple our nation's proper natural resource development. The inconsistency of this policy was emphasized by the continued Budget approval of from $3.5 billion to $5 billion annually for foreign aid. The revolt in the House against the inequity cut across party lines and may be further evident in this session when

SHE FOUND THEIR BODIES

BARBARA HUFF, 12, shown with her pet cocker, is the girl who discovered the bullet-pierced bodies of two school girls in a picnic area near Hyattsville, Md., a mile from the University of Maryland campus. so-called mutual security appropriations are considered.

In New Mexico, the bill passed by the House provides for the full amounts required for the Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District reclamation work and redemption of outstanding bonds, the flood control projects in the Albuquerque area, at Alamogordo Dam, as well as for planning for the Two Rivers project at Roswell, the flood control project in the Sandia Conservancy Area and at Artesia on the Pecos, also for carrying on the work planned at Chamita Dam. The House restored cuts of $33 million for construction and rehabilitation of already authorized reclamation projects and about $48 million for planning and construction on flood works throughout the nation.

INSURANCE PAYS OFF

SUMMIT, Ill. (AP)—Lenena Da 32, a shapely one-time ballet dancer, lived in a home on Chic Sanitary District property along Des Plaines River. She ignored eviction notices and was evicted. Then a crew of the sanitary district burned the house and police guard after removing belongings, including several dollars.

Now her lawyer, Clarence Dunagan, says the company which insured the house has agreed to pay her $2,800 and will then collect a like sum from the sanitary district.

Under an agreement with Chinese Red Cross, the American Red Cross on May 30, made first shipment of food and effort parcels to the 44 American civilians and airmen held in Communist China.

Annual Coaching Clinic at Utah State Considered Best Ever Held at College

The 29th annual coaching clinic at Utah State was considered "one of the best ever held at Utah State. Over one hundred coaches from coast to coast attended the sessions. Many college coaches appeared among the many to sit in on the sessions. From the comments of the coaches attending, much benefit was derived from the lectures by Ivy Williamson, Ozzie Cowles, Clarence Robinson, Pete Couch, Ralph Maughan, "Kickapoo" Logan, George Nelson.

Ivy Williamson proved to be a valuable man as he had the lectures geared to the trend of modern day football. Simplicity progressing to perfection seemed to be the stress on both offense and defense as far as Ivy was concerned. Many defensive points were picked up as Mr. Williamson really got down to brass tacks on this phase of the game. From the coaches that have been attending the clinics here at Utah State come comments such as: "If I pick up one little item at a week long clinic, I feel it has been a success. I have picked up many more than one so far this week and it is too bad this clinic will only be a week long."

Ozzie Cowles brought in some basic basketball points and then proceeded to unfold many of his tried and proven theories that were well received by the group. No Minnesota secrets were to be found as Ozzie revealed all his basic patterns and ideas about the offensive and defensive phases of basketball. Mr. Cowles can be rated as one of the top men in basketball to lecture at this annual clinic. Requests by the attending coaches to "Get him back as soon as possible for another clinic" was indicative of how the entire attending group felt about Ozzie Cowles and his lectures and demonstrations.

Another new section of the clinic that seems to be the type that will have to be put on the annual calendar of the clinic was the track section. Clarence Robinson, Pete

Couch, and Ralph Maughan gave the track coaches many valuable tips to be put into effect on their own high school squads.

Roland "Kickapoo" Logan drove home many valuable points also about athletic training and conditioning of the squad. George Nelson handled the wrestling lectures.

NEW YORK—Things one New Yorker thinks about: Come this autumn, the most statuesque thing in TV viewers' lives will be a 6-foot 1-inch girl named Irish McCalla, who's in the midst of filming a series called Sheena, Queen of the Jungle. I was intrigued by Miss McCalla when I was told that in her late teens she was forced to pawn her saxophone to pay the rent, in Los Angeles, so I met her the other day in her suite at the Madison. She turned out to be a kingsized Katharine Hepburn, with blond hair and physical architecture arranged as Kate's never was—and, like most big, glamorous women, completely relaxed, easygoing and amiable. "One thing men like about me," she said, "is that I'm sexy looking and yet I look like the girl next door." This is wishful thinking and also nonsense. If Miss McCalla looks like the girl next door, I'd never have left home.

SO YOU THOUGHT the days of shanghaiing were done with, eh? Hah! The other day, a federal judge presiding at a narcotics trial here discovered the jury panel was exhausted, and two more talesmen still were needed. So he sent United States marshals out into Foley Square, in downtown Manhattan, and rounded up 13 pedestrians to help complete the jury.

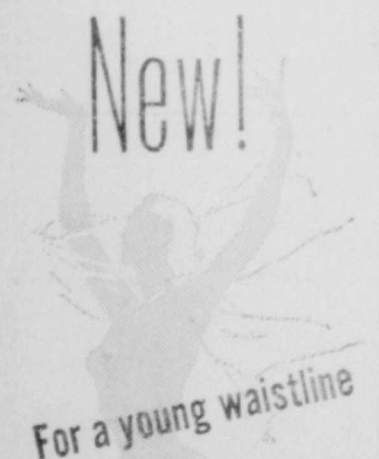

It was legal, at that; the United States Code says the court can "summon a sufficient number of talesmen from the bystanders." Said one melancholy gent who was caught in the dragnet: "It's almost worse than the Army. Before you know it, you're on a truck and you're on your way."

THE RECENT RETIREMENT of Joe Godby, who was a ship-measurer for the Port of New York, set me to thinking anew about strange occupations. Godby, legally supervisory admeasurer of vessels for the collector of customs, used to measure the size of foreign ships to determine their gross tonnage, which determines tonnage taxes paid to customs.

This job belongs right up there with my personal favorite, which is that of the man who stands in the center of local racetracks, a 16th of a mile from the starting gate, armed with a re-call flag to wave in case there's been a false start. As far as I know, he's waved the flag just once in about 19 years.

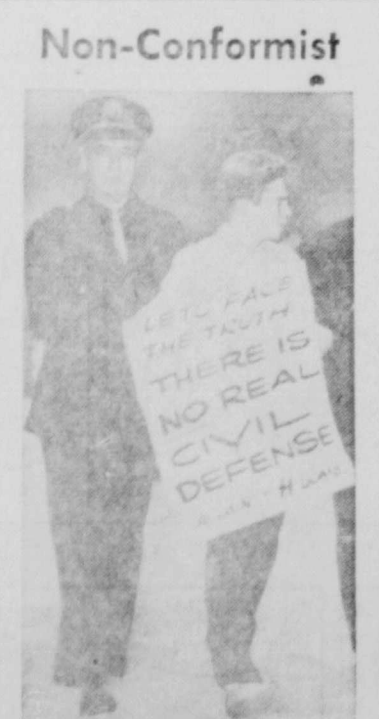

THE GREAT THEATER NEWS these days is that Joyce Grenfell, one of England's great comedienne, is coming to New York in a revue-type show next fall. Miss Grenfell's brother, Tommy Phipps, is one of the top TV scenarists in town here. He also is a man who demonstrated to me the intricacies of London's after-hours bottle clubs some years back. . . . If it's true that Davy Crockett was killed in a bar at the age of three, which New York kindergartners are singing, perhaps it was because he drank the "Davy Crockett Cannonball," which seems popular around town of late: one part applejack, one part Bourbon and a dash of white creme de menthe, stirred in shaved ice.

WHAT'S WITH THIS RECENT CANDOR about women's ages, anyway? I heard Jinx Falkenberg admit the other day on her Peacock Alley radio show from the Waldorf that she was 36, and the same night I dropped in at a preview screening of The Seven Year Itch, where Marilyn Monroe turned up to cut a birthday cake in the lobby of Loew's State—for her 27th anniversary, she allowed. Ten years from now, these beautiful children may be a little sorry. Newspaper files tell me: I am mindful of the time Constance Bennett told me, "I don't see why women fib about their age. Why, I'm such-and-such an age." Back in the office, the files told me she was such-and-such an age—plus three.
