

Bonding Firm to Decide Feasibility of City Water, Sewer Plan

Whether the second phase of Artesia's water and sewerage improvement project can be carried out as a unit depends on decision of bonding company officials on feasibility of issuing $160,000 in general obligation bonds, City Engineer Doug Fowler said today.

Improvements and purchases to be covered by the proposed bonds, as outlined at the last council meeting, are: 1—New and replacement water mains, including valves and fittings at an estimated cost of $116,201. 2—Completion of a sewer project lying mostly north and east of the municipal ball park at an estimated cost of $31,850.

3—Purchase of a new ditching machine to be used on the project at an estimated cost of $11,950. The water project includes replacement of the 12-inch main in Grand St. from Thirteenth to Fifth Sts., connecting with a new 10-inch main from the N. Fifth St. and hospital wells. A new 8-inch main would be laid from First St. through the Hope highway addition west of the city and thence to the new 2 million gallon reservoir. This auxiliary line would supplement existing pipeage and would constitute an emergency supply main in the event of failure of the larger main. The improvements, as provided for in the proposed bond issue, would be achieved without increasing water rates. In urging purchase of a new ditcher, City Engineer Fowler and members of the council water committee said it would be paid for from the saving on labor costs on the project.

Craziest Lookin' Hats Blossom Out For Jubilee Days

Artesians began really to get that pioneer look today as they started wearing newly-arrived oldtimer hats to break them in for Golden Jubilee time.

Some gents with burgeoning beards put on high hats. Others chose gaily-ribbed straw skimmers. The ladies flocked for poke bonnets and there were Davy Crockett coonskin caps for the boys. Later, a consignment of derby hats is due.

The hats are on sale at $1 each at the chamber of commerce.

The chamber was a beehive of activity this forenoon, what with arrangements for the regional tour of Co-ordinator Bill Bennett and G. E. Kaiser to distribute cards publicizing the Jubilee in Artesia Aug. 10, 11 and 12.

Word Is Spread

Wednesday's placard-spreading will include Carlsbad, Lovington, Hobbs, Eunice, Lovington, Amar and Loco Hills. On Thursday, the team will post the colorful announcements in Lake Arthur, German, Dexter, Roswell and Tablets proclaiming the Golden Jubilee will be dropped on all those towns about a week before the big start from an airplane, pending permission of the towns and counties can be obtained. Bennett announced today. The plane distribution team will comprise J. B. Chamberlain and Carter Izard.

Additional publicity for the gala event will be obtained in the mountain localities through distribution of placards and leaflets by Price's trucks.

Old Timer Plans

L. L. Paris, chairman of the committee to determine the oldest oldtimer at the Jubilee, sought to simplify things for the oldtimers by arranging so they can register in advance at the chamber of commerce and obtain badges entitling them to admission to the Old-

Local Guard Readies for Summer Camp

Crack units of the New Mexico National Guard here are refurbishing up for their 15-day training tour at Fort Bliss, starting Aug. 14.

Together with other units of the 697th Anti-Aircraft Artillery automatic weapons battalion from Carlsbad, Hobbs, and Roswell, the Artesia guardsmen will spend six or seven days on the range and undergo an army training test. They will be equipped with their own weapons—40 mm anti-aircraft guns and .50 caliber machine guns.

Among the officers who will make the tour will be Lt. William J. (Jack) Whitaker, assistant S-3 operations and training officer with the battalion, who has just returned from attending an AAA officers transition course at Fort Bliss. The course is designed to qualify officers for promotion.

Theft of a diamond-studded watch valued at $125 from her home was reported to the police today by Mrs. C. Tribble, 1006 Ray ave. She believes it was taken some time last week.

Funeral Rites Held Here for City Woman

Funeral services were held at 10 this morning for Mrs. A. B. Coll who died at 9:30 a. m. Sunday at her home east of town.

Mrs. Coll was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dawson. Born Dec. 27, 1891 at Raymond, Ill., she married A. B. Coll in Artesia in 1912. She moved to Artesia in 1911 and Coll moved here in 1904.

Mrs. Coll was a member of the First Christian church and a member of the Eastern Star.

Cards Explain Face Foilage On Artesians

Bewhiskered Artesia salesmen and businessmen can stop worrying about explaining those whiskers to customers and clients when they go on out-of-town trips.

Alibis such as, "I don't look like this all the time," and "I'm hiding behind this brush in a good cause," can be forgotten.

W. S. Bennett, co-ordinator for the Golden Jubilee, came up with a happy solution today in the form of special "alibi" cards for salesmen and others who must wear their beards for afield. Not only do the cards explain the beards, they explain and publicize the Golden Jubilee.

Anyone needing an alibi card can qualify for one by displaying whiskers at least three-fourths inch long. They're available at the Chamber of Commerce.

A PILLAR of intense black creamy smoke pouring up and flattening out in the sky northwest of the city Monday afternoon brought a rash of telephone calls from excited observers wondering where the fire was. The smoke proved to be coming from a pit of waste oil being burned near the crusher of the Longenbaugh & Coe contracting firm, which is constructing the First St. widening project. (Advocate Photo)

Roofed Ripped From Gallup Stadium

Thundershowers, High Damaging Winds Due Over Most of New Mexico in Next Two Days

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers which have peppered New Mexico for days will increase in number and intensity during the next day or so.

The District Weather Bureau said the scattered afternoon and nighttime showers and thundershowers—some accompanied by high, damaging winds—will become numerous and in some places locally moderate tonight and Wednesday.

One such squall Monday ripped off 100 feet of planking in the roof of the Indian ceremonial stadium at Gallup. The damage, as yet unestimated, is covered by insurance and the rebuilding will begin immediately so it can be finished by opening of the ceremonial Aug. 11.

The rains—mostly measurable in amounts of less than half an inch—are falling in places in New Mexico with considerable sound effects. In Albuquerque winds accompanied a .08 inch shower with velocity reaching 44 miles per hour.

Hobbs received the greatest amount reported by the Weather Bureau with 1.4 inches. Glenwood had .09. Greatest majority of the showers were in the southeast and north central portion of the state and were quite widely scattered elsewhere.

Moisture and winds naturally, dropped mercury readings. The high yesterday was only 90 degrees, reported at Roswell, Glenwood, Tucumcari, Truth or Consequences and Alamogordo. The lowest high mark reached was 75 at Las Vegas. All in all, afternoon temperatures Monday ranged from 6 to 13 degrees below normal for most reporting stations.

Tough Problem On Agenda as Russians Cast Slight Shadow

GENEVA (AP)—President Eisenhower appealed directly to Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov today to accept the idea of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to help speed the unification of Germany.

GENEVA (AP)—The Big Four agreed today to take up first the thorny question of reuniting Germany.

This is the central issue of the summit conference, in the view of Western leaders. It was first on the agenda as President Eisenhower and his three fellow heads of government got together at 4 p. m. today for their first working session of the conference, following up the session yesterday when each four made a preliminary statement.

Shortly before the meeting convened Eisenhower indicated he was not discouraged by the developments so far despite what some American officials called the "negative" attitude of Soviet Premier Bulganin on the German problem.

IKE HOPEFUL

"I feel pretty good about it so far," the President said when asked by a reporter how things were going.

The four leaders—Eisenhower, Soviet Premier Bulganin, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure—began their closed session in the council chamber of the Place de Nations. European headquarters of the United Nations.

The foreign ministers of the four powers agreed unanimously this morning on a four-point agenda, with German unification as the No. 1 item. Diplomatic observers cautioned however against overoptimism of the German problem.

The aspect of the talks which has apparently impressed Eisenhower so far is the cordial atmosphere, which was demonstrated once more in the quick agreement on the agenda.

So Far, So Good

"So far, very friendly," is the way the President described it. The decision of the foreign ministers to place the German problem at the top of their work sheet apparently was a concession to Western demands since the Western foreign ministers had agreed in Paris last week that this was

Chicago Youths Held in Hobbs For Kidnaping

HOBBS (AP)—Police Chief Earl Westfall said today kidnaping charges would be filed against two youths held here for the alleged abduction of a 19-year-old Chicago girl.

Harry G. Piniz, chief of Chicago detectives, wired Westfall that warrants were being prepared for Raoul Martinez Vargas, 23, El Paso and Abel Flores Acosta, 21, Chicago.

The two were taken into custody after being stopped in Hobbs for speeding. City Policeman Monty Phillips asked for and received identification papers from the two. But when he asked Josephine Rodriguez, who was in the back seat, for papers, she said she had none and told her story of abduction.

She said Acosta Friday asked her to go to California with him, and she refused. He then carried her to a car and, with Vargas as the driver, they sped away, she related.

She said she pleaded with them several times to let her call her mother. They finally complied, she said, somewhere in Oklahoma. She told her mother she was being taken against her will. Her mother notified police.

Registration, discussion of present conditions, credit trends, problems confronting the credit grantor in credit selling, and definitions of credit terms will be on the program of the first session.

Instructor of the credit course is Sterling S. Speake, retail credit specialist, of the educational staff of the National Retail Credit Association, St. Louis, Mo.

Indications are that many Artesia retailers and credit personnel will attend the school. It is of high educational value, covering as it does, all phases of retail credit operation.

New ideas and recommended practices in the handling of credit and collection matters are covered in this 10-hour short course, according to George W. Keys, manager of the Credit Bureau of Artesia, which is sponsoring the credit school.

Registration, discussion of present conditions, credit trends, problems confronting the credit grantor in credit selling, and definitions of credit terms will be on the program of the first session.

Instructor of the credit course is Sterling S. Speake, retail credit specialist, of the educational staff of the National Retail Credit Association, St. Louis, Mo.

He Pays the Other Fellow

THIS paying of our accounts, bills and obligations is just about as important as the idea of trading and buying at home.

A good many of us forget or overlook this fact but it is true that the other fellow is waiting on us to pay him before he pays the other fellow.

The average firm or business concern which does a credit business has a large sum in accounts at the end of the month. They, of course, have invested in these accounts labor costs or salaries they have paid; they have merchandise costs; they have all of the expenses involved in the operation of their business.

And over a period of time a tremendous amount of money can be out in accounts. Sometimes they are good accounts and other times they are not so good.

Credit, of course, is a convenience to those enjoying credit as well as to those extending it. It is a method of doing business over a period of 30 days or longer depending on the arrangements. It is a fine thing when we respect our credit and when we extend consideration to those who have extended credit to us.

But when we fail to pay our bills promptly and on time; when we refuse to keep our credit good by paying our bills; and when we fail or refuse to even pay something on our account we are not only destroying our own good credit rating but we also are destroying credit for others.

Most of us do appreciate our credit rating. We are proud of the fact we are extended credit by those with whom we do business. We can and will continue to enjoy this credit just as long as we meet our obligations promptly and on time.

The payment of our own bills not only keeps our credit good but it helps to establish the fact that our community is one where credit ratings are good because he people residing in the community pay their bills promptly and on time.

Whether we use our credit or not there usually comes a day and a time in some emergency when we need that credit. It is then we appreciate a good credit rating and it is then we are very happy we have always paid our accounts promptly and on time and have made for ourselves a reputation for prompt pay.

The first phase of the current improvement project was completed with the construction of the new reservoir west of the city and the laying of new mains in Grand St. west of Thirteenth. It was financed through issuance of $130,000 in general obligation bonds.

Also to be considered at the next council meeting is a trailer park regulation ordinance recently under discussion. As proposed, the ordinance would provide that existing and new trailer park boundaries be at least 100 feet from the nearest residence, unless all adjacent residents approved modification of the requirement. It stipulates a minimum width of trailer space of 25 feet, adequate sewage and water facilities, and necessary drainage. Occupation tax rates would be $25 for the first four spaces and not to exceed $5 for each additional space.

Scheduled to be opened at the meeting are bids on a carload of 4-inch water pipe and 8-inch sewer tile. Bids will be requested for purchase of a new garbage truck and bed.

milling about the open yard instead of lining up for dinner as is customary.

They demanded an interview with Gov. Charles Russell and declared they would not return to their cell blocks until they talked with him.

Among the inmates demands were "more variety in food... discharge of a prison doctor and captain of the guard... twice yearly personal appearances before the State Parole Board... more work for inmates... no reprisals because of the rebellion... lower prices at the prison commissary."

"I'm not promising anything. Most of the grievances are unfounded," Warden Art Bernard said.

Floodlight was turned on around the 30-foot-high walls of the 60-year-old brownstone prison as dark fell over the milling prisoners. Fifty heavily armed highway patrolmen and prison guards patrolled the walls.

The prisoners had not eaten since noon, Bernard said, and could not take over any of the prison works or storm the walls.

She left her hat in Tennessee. That is what the old timers tell on Mrs. Mollie Brown's mother, the late Mrs. D. L. Smith, who thought the wind would blow her hat away if she brought it to Artesia in 1905.

Somebody could use it now for the jubilee. But the Chamber of Commerce has a solution for those who left their hats in Tennessee; brought them and let the wind blow them away, or the Apaches take them off.

Golden Jubilee hats will go on sale this week at the Chamber of Commerce, Bill Bennett, coordinator of the celebration, said yesterday.

There will be five types of hats arriving from New York. Among them are Davy Crockett con skins, high hats, felt derbies, and skimmer hats for the men. For women there are half-a-Century ago straw poke bonnets.

Flags and window decorations will be sold to Artesia merchants starting today and continuing thru July 27 by members of the Hospital Auxiliary.

NEWS for FARMERS for RANCHERS

Improved Dairy Cow Herd Needed in Next 10 Years

Not more, but better, cows may be the answer to the greater demand for milk that will face the nation ten years hence as population continues to increase, according to County Extension Agent Richard Marek.

Right now, he says, the nation's annual milk production is estimated at about 124 billion pounds, which leaves a relatively small, but troublesome, surplus. However, with the population increasing at the rate of two and one-half million annually and figuring a slight increase in milk consumption per capita, the demand by 1956 will be somewhere between 138 and 140 billion pounds of milk.

During each of the last ten years, milk production of all cows has increased about 85 pounds per cow. If this same rate of increase can be maintained, and Marek believes it can through use of good sires and better feeding and management, present cow numbers would just about take care of the increased demand for milk.

The 1,226,588 cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations in 1953 averaged 9,253 pounds of milk or about 3,500 pounds above the national average for all dairy cows, the county agent says. Average production of cows in these associations has increased nearly 100 pounds per year for the past ten years even though production is already on a high level.

Marek points out that the general average for all cows might well be maintained over the coming ten-year period.

County Agent Warns Against Farm Injuries

The week of July 24 to 30 is proclaimed National Farm Safety Week as a reminder to prevent and avoid accidents that week and throughout the year.

"Only one other industry exceeds agriculture in deaths and injuries in New Mexico," points out County Extension Agent Richard Marek. "Practically every farm accident could have been avoided either by removal of the hazard or correct training or education of the persons involved."

Rusty nails, broken ladder rungs, rotten stair treads, belts, chains and gears and mower knives lie in wait for the unwary and careless.

Those hazards, however, do not jump out at you or grab from afar says Marek. It takes a bit of thoughtlessness a careless move, or a second's lapse in attention, or the tired lack of alertness, to set the stage for an accident. Children must be taught to recognize hazards and condition their habits to avoid accidents, according to the agent. Adults must realize that such training is their responsibility, to the children and to all other workers on the premises.

If only we could persuade every one around the farm in the home to ask themselves, "Can I get hurt doing this, this way?" we could save most of the 4000 farm residents killed and the million or more injured each year in the United States.

Garden Pest Handbook Is Now Available

"Insects and Diseases of Vegetables in the Home Garden," a new publication, was issued today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Its four color plates, 45 black-white drawings of insects, and text briefly describing more than a hundred insects and diseases that attack vegetables, are expected to help home gardeners recognize the more common pests.

To control them, the publication recommends insecticides and fungicides that recent research has found most effective, safe, and economical — the ready-mixed dusts and easily-prepared sprays that are most generally available and most widely useful in home gardens.

Farmers and market gardeners also will find the publication useful, particularly in identification of pests. However, certain insecticides ordinarily recommended for use by large-scale, experienced growers are not included.

4-H'ers Eliminate "Accident Havens"

How many hazards can you find?

SAFETY, a crop to be harvested on every farm and in every home, is receiving special attention from more than one-half million 4-H Club members taking part in the 1955 National 4-H Safety Program.

As a part of their 4-H Club work, members in all 48 states are correcting hazards such as those seen in the above drawing. They are attempting to reduce the Nation's annual farm toll of 14,500 lives, 1,250,000 injuries, and an economic loss of about a billion dollars.

4-H'ers, working as individuals or in groups through their local clubs, conduct surveys to locate hazards, then correct the unsafe conditions. They give demonstrations on hundreds of topics pertaining to farm, home and highway safety. Members present talks before group meetings and over radio and television; put displays in store windows; and build booths at fairs.

To assist the Cooperative Extension Service in conducting the 4-H Safety Program, General Motors has just published a new "4-H Safety Handbook for Local Leaders," which provides how-to-do-it ideas for carrying out successful safety programs. Copies of the manual will be distributed to volunteer 4-H leaders through County Extension Offices.

In addition, GM provides incentives in the National 4-H Safety Awards program which is arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. Medals are made available to four county winners; an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago is given to the state winner; and $300 college scholarships are presented to eight national winners.

"In the drawing, there are more than 45 accident hazards or unsafe practices shown. Don't let them occur on your farm or in your home.

Governor Proclaims NM Farm Safety Week July 24

Governor John F. Simms has proclaimed the week of July 24 as Farm Safety Week in New Mexico.

The Governor's proclamation reads as follows:

WHEREAS, the accident and death rate of farm and ranch residents are the second highest among the rates reported for all types of industries in the state, and

WHEREAS, human carelessness and failure is associated with nearly all of these deaths and disabling injuries, and

WHEREAS, these accidents and deaths interrupt the happiness and tranquility of farm and ranch life and weaken our economic structure, and

WHEREAS, it is the social and economic responsibility of every resident of our state to join in a campaign to reduce these tragedies and losses, now

THEREFORE, I JOHN F. SIMMS Governor of New Mexico, do hereby proclaim the week beginning July 24, 1955, as and urgently request that all rural people institute a campaign to locate and eliminate all accident hazards and to cultivate careful work habits on their farms, ranches, and in their homes.

I also request that all persons and organizations interested in farm life and welfare join in this campaign to make New Mexico a safer and happier place in which to live.

Fall Best Time For Cauliflower, Broccoli Crops

Fall crops of broccoli and cauliflower usually are more successful than spring plantings, says County Extension Agent Richard Marek. These crops belong to the cabbage family but are more adversely affected by hot weather than cabbage.

Home gardeners can start these plants by sowing seed in a vacant spot in the garden during early July. The seed should be planted 1/2 to 3/4 inches deep in moist soil, the agent says.

Later, the plants can be transplanted to another area in the garden. Some gardeners sow the seed where they want these crops to mature and then thin when the plants are 3 to 4 inches tall. Plants should be far enough apart that they do not crowd each other when maturing.

Ants Will Soon Be on March, Expert Warns

Ants are likely to march on the home food supply any time now, says County Agent Richard Marek. "Some ants like sweets, some fats, while some seem to attack any food available," advises Marek. "Whatever their size or kind, they can be killed by chlordane or dieldrin."

The first step is to locate their nests in the ground outside, the county agent advises. If this can be done, control is easy. Simply apply the dust or spray to the nest and runways. Usually one treatment will do a thorough job if all the nests are treated. In the cupboards and food storage areas, use 2 per cent chlordane or an emulsion of one part 15 per cent dieldrin to eight parts of water. First remove all food and apply emulsion with a paint brush. Let the liquid dry before food is replaced.

Oil solutions of insecticides (household spray) are inflammable. They should not be used near an open fire or hot stove. Insecticides are poisonous and should be used with caution. Don't store where children can reach them.

If chlordane or dieldrin are not available substitute a 5 per cent DDT spray or dust. Further information on control of household pests is given in Extension Circular 226 "Protect Your Home Against Household Pests," available at your county extension office.

Six Artesia Youths To Get Degrees At FFA Convention

Jay Wright, Alamo, Nev., National vice-president of the Future Farmers of America, will be the principal speaker at the twenty-seventh annual New Mexico FFA Convention, July 31-Aug. 2, L. C. Dalton, State FFA advisor, has announced. No wonder this Hardtop is the HIT OF THE YEAR!

IT'S 4-DOOR HANDY
—and priced for action!

This one you'll just have to see. It's a beauty. It's a brand-new kind of car. It's a Buick Riviera with four doors. And to top it all — it's a SPECIAL — the lowest-priced of all Buick Series.

Know what that means? It means you can have the newest hit in hardtops — the most advanced new body design yet — and you can have it in the price range of America's smaller cars.

It means you can have a steel-roofed car with the long, low, sweeping sportiness of a convertible — with no center posts in the side window areas — and with two separate doors to the rear.

And you can have all this hardtop beauty with sedan comfort and convenience at the easy-to-take modest extra cost of a 4-door model over a 2-door model.

But if you think that's all — listen: This gleaming grace of automobile is a Buick through and through — a '55 Buick, from the hottest-selling line of Buicks in all history.

So here you have the soft, firm steadiness of Buick's all-coil-spring ride and torque-tube stability. Here you have Buick brawn, Buick solidity, Buick handling ease, Buick styling and visibility and interior luxury.

And here you have the lift and life of vigorous new V8 power of record might — and coupled to the spectacular performance of Buick's Variable Pitch Dynaflow.

Why wait a day longer — when you can come in right now and try the first true hardtop with the extra comfort, room and convenience of a full-sized 4-door sedan?

Drop in tomorrow, first thing — for a look at the price, and an idea of the whopping-big trade-in deal our huge sales volume permits us to make.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on ROADMASTER, optional at modest extra cost on other Series.
