BRAZILIAN GOVERNMENT FALLS

"Grateful" President Heads For Washington Army Stages Bloodless Coup To Oust Temporary President

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—The Brazilian army under Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott ousted temporary President Carlos Coimbra da Luz today seized the government.

The bloodless coup was carried out so quietly most residents of Rio De Janeiro did not even know it was happening. A special session of Congress was called to decide who would assume the presidency. Constitutionally the post would go to Nereu Ramos, vice president of the Senate.

Luz, former president of the Cabinet ministers, including Minister of Justice Prado Kelly, were reported under arrest.

Only last night Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott, who had been holding the lid down on army elements which wanted to prevent the inauguration of President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek, resigned as war minister in a dispute with Luz.

After resigning, Teixeira Lott went to the central army barracks of the federal district and took command. He issued a proclamation to the nation saying a movement was being made against the temporary president because of his decision in the case of a colonel whom the resigned war minister wanted to discipline for political activity.

The proclamation said the decision had provoked the army and injured its honor.

A special session of Congress was called for 6 a. m. (EST). Gen. Alvaro Fiuza de Castro, formerly chief of staff of the army under the late President Getulio Vargas, had been called out of retirement by Luz to take charge of the War Ministry.

Foes of Kubitschek consider him the politician heir of Vargas who killed himself in August, 1954 after a coup by some elements of the armed forces.

But Teixeira Lott ruled out any coup to prevent the installation of Kubitschek, advocating strict compliance with constitutional processes.

He had attempted to discipline Col. Jurandir de Rizzara Mamede, a member of the staff of the Superior War School, for a speech on Nov. 1 which was interpreted as encouraging Kubitschek's foes.

But Luz, rejected a request to send the colonel back to regular army duties. Luz, president of the House of Deputies, succeeded to the presidency Tuesday when President Joao Cafe Filho took an indefinite leave to recover from a heart ailment. Luz had denied he intended to shake up the cabinet to give extreme elements in the army a chance to stage a coup.

Kubitschek was elected president in last month's balloting. He and

The petition reportedly was signed by all but four of the 233 inmates.

Officials said prisoners presented two main demands:

Business Made in "Aware" of Good People

ERNEST B. VACCARO DENVER (AP)—"An eternal-grateful" President Eisenhower left Denver for Washington today after telling of thanks to all who have helped him in his illness.

Speaking from the ramp of the plane III in raw, damp 36-degree weather, he said that the mission of his illness made him "of how good people are."

The President, looking surprised, well, told an audience of Air Force personnel and a small group of dignitaries, that the "at Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Lowry Air Force Base I learned my eternal gratitude."

"I expressed appreciation too, to the 'messengers of friendship' to the people around the world who 'sent up their prayers' for my recovery when he was in seven weeks ago tomorrow.

He spoke but briefly after he Mrs. Eisenhower drove up to camp of their plane to be greeted by a bipartisan group led by Democratic Gov. Edson and Republican Mayor Nicholson.

The President wore a camel's top coat and a brown hat. Standing on the sixth step of the ramp, he spoke simply and in words about any major domestic or foreign policy.

"I think it is time for Mrs. Eisenhower and me to say goodbye," he said.

"I leave under somewhat unusual circumstances this time," he referred thus to his illness which he said he had been in the hospital had not been a "loss" for it gave him and Eisenhower an understanding of how good people are."

When paid the medical staff, corpsmen, enlisted men others at Fitzsimons Hospital very grateful thanks."

"I have done so much," he said.

The President had a kiss for John S. Doud, his mother-in-law immediately upon his arrival in a car as he left the car in Mrs. Doud rode with him Mrs. Eisenhower from the hospital.

Doud remained behind, waiting to join the presidential fly later.

Chilled around the airport the President left at 9:02 a. m. the temperature dropped from (Continued on page four)

Russ Shift Most Radical In Years

GENEVA, (AP)—The Soviet Union on the basis of impressive evidence here, has made the most radical shift in its foreign policy tactics since the death of Stalin.

Unless evidence of Russian behavior at the current Big Four conference is completely deceptive the softer line of Soviet strategy has been replaced by a return to much harder tactics.

For the first time since the Kremlin started its more conciliatory approach toward the West in early 1953, a Soviet spokesman has been speaking out bluntly, uncompromisingly on great issues.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov has made it unmistakably clear that the major aims of Soviet world policy remain unchanged.

The July smiles at the summit conference here have almost vanished in Molotov's November presentation of Russia's position and aims.

The latest pieces of evidence in this emerging pattern came yesterday when the Soviet foreign minister spoke on disarmament.

There had been speculation here that Molotov might make some gesture toward agreement with the West, perhaps on President Eisenhower's proposal for immediate U. S.-Soviet exchange of military blueprints and reciprocal aerial inspection.

Instead Molotov delivered the hardest blow yet struck by a Soviet spokesman at the Eisenhower plan.

Terming Russia's attitude toward the plan "negative," Molotov rejected it and assailed every American argument advanced in its favor.

He denied it would create confidence or could serve as a first step toward a complete disarmament program. He said it would increase the fear of war.

Molotov said Russia's attitude would be "favorable" if the plan were tailored to Soviet demands for abolition of atomic weapons and prior development of a complete arms reduction program.

Such conditions are contrary to Eisenhower's purpose of getting some action taken immediately as a first step in working out a disarmament program.

Worst Storm Of Winter Moves South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Strong southwest winds whipped the worst storm of winter into New Mexico today.

Gusts of 30 to 50 miles an hour charged into dust billows. The Weather Bureau said visibility over northern New Mexico by afternoon was cut at times to two to four miles.

The wind was expected to shift to the north by late today, bringing snow over most of the northern part of the state by midnight.

The storm, the bureau said, "promised to be the most severe yet this winter as it advanced from the west and spread into Texas."

New Mexicans were warned it would grow much colder tonight and in the southeast quarter of the state Saturday.

The mercury was expected to dip tonight to 15 to 25 degrees in the northern half, ranging up to 45 along the southern border. The high marks tomorrow were expected to range between 30 and 40 in the north and 40 to 50 in the southern half of the state.

Moderate snow was "likely" in the northeast and mountain sections Saturday, the bureau said, as showers turned to snow flurries.

Yesterday's high temperatures ranged from a low of 61 at Farmington to 75 at Tucuman. The coldest place in the state this morning was 26 at Glenwood in the southwest quarter, and the lows ranged up to 55 at Carlsbad.

Optimists Hear Tom Mobley

Tom Mobley, vice president of the Artesia Future Farmers of America, president of the F.F.A.'s southeast district, was guest speaker at a Thursday meeting of the Artesia Optimist Club.

Young Mobley, who is a Junior Optimist, displayed trophies won by the Artesia F.F.A. in state and national contests and discussed methods of judging crops and other F.F.A. projects.

Members of the local Optimist club will journey to Roswell next Thursday night for a joint meeting at which Don Twiss, of Montreal, Canada, International Optimist president, will be guest of honor.

The following regular meeting falls on Thanksgiving Day and has been moved ahead one day.

Middle East Arms Race Takes New Twist—Italy Sells Planes

ROME (AP)—The Middle East Arms race took a new twist today with a report by authoritative sources that Egypt has a contract with an Italian firm for 30 Vampire jet fighters.

If the fighters are delivered—under an agreement reportedly signed six months ago—it would mean Egypt was getting arms from a NATO member as well as from the Communist bloc.

It seemed reasonably certain pressure would be brought on the Italian government to block delivery of the Vampires to check a dangerous arms buildup where Egyptian and Israeli guns are glaring at each other.

The Western Powers favor holding down arms deliveries to both sides, through fear of a major Arab-Jewish conflict.

Egypt already is receiving large shipments of weapons from Communist government Czechoslovakia via Russian Black Sea ports. This deal is reported to cover 200 Soviet-built MIG jet fighters and 100 Russian-made tanks plus a half dozen submarines, all at cutrate prices.

A correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co. in Cairo, Wilson Hall, quoted Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser as saying some of the new Communist-supplied arms already are on the Egyptian-Israeli border.

Informal sources gave this account of the Italian deal: Six months ago Egypt signed a contract with the Macchi Co., which makes Vampires under license from the British designers, for 30 planes to be paid for in cash in Italian currency.

Deliveries are expected to start next month.

Under a previous arrangement, Macchi delivered 16 Vampires to Egypt prior to last February.

Egyptian intelligence sources were claiming Israel received 36 French-made Mystere-3 jet fighters in recent months, six of them passing through Rome only 10 or (Continued on page four)

Texan Charged In Non-Support Case

Firemen Called Twice Thursday

The fire department was called at 8:20 p. m. yesterday to put out a minor blaze behind the Alfalfa Growers Association building on East Main.

Some trash and burrs were reported burning, and with strong winds blowing, it could have developed into a serious blaze, firemen said.

Another false alarm was turned in from the southwest part of town yesterday afternoon and the department made another dry run there.

Stevenson Plans Attack On Republican Policies

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Associates said today Adlai E. Stevenson plans to accuse Republicans of befuddling foreign policy and giving big business too much voice in government.

Stevenson is expected to announce next Tuesday in Chicago he is available again for the Democratic presidential nomination he won in 1952. He will air some of his foreign policy views in a speech tonight at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville.

The speech will be carried by the ABC radio network.

The 1952 nominee conferred with former Secretary of State Dean Acheson, former Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman and Democratic national committee officials in an overnight stopover here.

From these and other conferences came word that Stevenson, who was reluctant to take the nomination in 1952, now is a determined candidate ready for a battle.

Friends said he plans to call on the "old pros" of politics to run his campaign while volunteers are organized for him on a national basis.

Once he is officially in the race, James Finnigan, former president of the Philadelphia City Council, is expected to be called in to take charge of his campaign. Volunteers will be organized under the general direction of Barry Bingham, editor of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal and president of the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times Co.

Friends said Stevenson can be expected to contend that the Eisenhower administration's handling of international affairs has shown too much bluster and talk and not enough accomplishment.

On domestic issues, he is represented as feeling that big business has had too great a share in shaping the administration's policies.

Stevenson already has come out for restoration of high, rigid farm price supports, as opposed to the administration's flexible support program. He apparently agrees with the party national committee that what it calls "tax favoritism for the rich" and "public power giveaways" will be big issues next year.

Stevenson's aides apparently regard Gov. Averell Harriman of New York as one of the greatest threats to their man. Harriman has said he is not going into any primaries but he is expected to seek a "favorite son" designation from New York.

Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee is likely to be a primary contest. The Stevenson camp seems confident of disposing of Kefauver on some battlefield yet to be selected.

In the South, Stevenson's associates believe they are much better off than they were in 1952, when their candidate lost four states to President Eisenhower.

They were reassured by the recent statement by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) that he doesn't see how Stevenson can possibly lose the nomination. Russell was the South's candidate in 1952 but has said he won't run again.

Hartman Wants GOP To Fight Democrats, Not Selves

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Hartman, former state comptroller under Republican Gov. Ed Mechem, says if his party "is to do any fighting, let's fight Democrats."

Hartman, however, has joined former State Chairman Harry Robb to charge that "complicity" "exists" in the Republican party in New Mexico.

The statements came in the wake of rumors that Republican Chairman M. B. Johns of Santa Fe had resigned.

Hartman said yesterday he had offered to resign "to lead party unity" but party leaders told him: "You're the chair-man and you've got a good job."

Hartman charged "the paramount" of the Republicans of New Mexico is a dynamic program and leadership. "If Sonny can fulfill those needs he will not offer his resignation to anyone."

Mechem, in Albuquerque, echoed—at least in part—those sentiments.

"I think he (Robb) meant the party in general is complacent, lethargic," he said. "You have to get out and dig . . . do some work . . . some ramrodding."

Hartman was asked if he would like to see Johns step down. He evaded a direct answer. Instead, he said:

"We can settle any differences at a committee meeting—there probably will be one next month, after deer hunting season is over. "We need a central committee meeting so all parts of the party can decide what to do. I think we need to get organized and get ready for the next campaign so we can build up our ticket.

has an excellent chance to bounce back. It is just a matter of getting organized and picking our ticket."

Earlier in the day, Johns said he hasn't answered Robb's charges because he considered Robb a spokesman for a minority faction within the party.

Johns said he has always contended that the Republican party shouldn't fight among themselves but should unite in an effort to defeat "the mess the present governor has caused."

He also aimed a verbal swipe, apparently at Robb, when he declared that he had been the only Republican party chairman to tour all 32 New Mexico counties.

"And, although that trip was paid for out of campaign money, all the rest of my trips—to Washington, for example—come out of my own pocket," he said.

4-H Club Reorganizes, Elects Officers, Assign 1956 Projects

New officers were elected at a 4-H club reorganization meeting held Thursday night at Fellowship hall of the First Methodist church. Included were Cottonwood, Artesia and Atoka clubs.

Leaders introduced were Mrs. Jack McCaw, Mrs. James Thigpen, Mrs. Russell Rogers, Mrs. Margie Champion, Mrs. Elsie Clark, associate home demonstration agent, and Jack Wallace, associate county agent.

Fifty boys and girls signed up for the 1956 projects which included home living, baking, clothing, text, tile painting, beef, calves, fat lambs, swine, cotton and junior leadership.

The following officers were elected: Marian Hand, president; Donald Thigpen, vice president; Donna Hand, secretary; Mary Rogers, reporter; and Janet O'Neill, song leader.

The following were appointed on the recreation committee: Larry McCaw, Abbie Pearson, Stanley Rogers, Jackie McNeil, and Mrs. Jack McCaw, leader.

Fund raising committee members are Peggy Simmons, Donald Jones, Eleanor Price, Freddie Crawford, and Mrs. James Thigpen, leader.

Meetings will be on Tuesday, and the next meeting date will be announced later.

A number of parents were present and are welcome to all meetings.

A Bucket Full Of Christmas Ideas

The whole family can "get in the act" to make this unusual and easy Christmas decoration. A pair which comes with 25 pounds of a controlled soda detergent now contains a complete pattern for Santa. On one side of the sheet, 25 inches by 38 inches, are stamped the eight pattern pieces and complete directions for putting Santa together, and directions for pasting in eyes, eyebrows, nose, mouth, and beard are plainly marked. The pair and pattern, some bright paper, scissors, and a pot of paste are all you need.

The reverse side of the sheet shows six specific ways Santa can be used as a cheery decoration. Here is a perfect container for a gift of fruit. What to do with Christmas cards? Use Santa. Need a bright new stand for your Christmas tree? Use Santa. The pattern sheet suggests a gold paper wrap-around, blue eyes, a red nose, white whiskers, eyebrows, and cap.

Christmas-spirited Big Sister or Junior home on vacation can join in the fun and have Santa ready in a jiffy. Even Dad-with-a-knack could help Mom with this decoration—and enjoy it.

Mrs. Andrew Lucas Terpening

Virginia Ann Snetzer Weds Andrew Terpening Thursday

The Central Methodist Church in Albuquerque was the setting on Thursday evening for the wedding of Miss Virginia Ann Snetzer of Albuquerque and Andrew Lucas Terpening of Artesia. Rev. R. L. Willingham, pastor officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert E. Snetzer of Sandia Base, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Terpening of Artesia.

Baskets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums and pink carnations formed the background for the wedding. Selections of nuptial music were played by Mrs. S. F. Spahr, organist, who accompanied Rev. T. DePew as he sang "Because" and "Through the Years."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a gown fashioned with long, rounded neckline, long tapered sleeves and long torso bodice of Chantilly lace, with full skirt of tulle over satin falling to form a short train. Her fingertip veil cascaded from a sequined cap of pleated tulle. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Bridal attendants, Miss Sally Smith, maid of honor; Miss Mary Lockridge and Miss Sandra Whitcomb, bridesmaids, were dressed alike in waltz length gowns of pink crystallite. They wore pink velvet hats, and each carried a bouquet of red roses. Their costumes carried out the bride's colors of pink and red.

James Briscoe of Artesia, attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Phil Harris and Michael Snetzer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Snetzer was attired in a Geil Chapman dress of blue peau de soie. The bridegroom's mother chose a two-piece costume of navy silk faille, and both wore corsages of pink roses.

Wesleyan Guild Meets Thursday

Wesleyan Service Guild met on Thursday evening in the home of Miss Esther Ekstrom. Mrs. H. L. McAlester was co-hostess.

Mrs. K. R. Jones, president, was in charge of the business session. Members voted to have a Christmas box for the Navajo Mission at Farmington, and gifts must be brought to the parsonage by Nov. 19. Plans were made to hold a Christmas party on Dec. 8 at the home of Mrs. Glen Caskey and the members will exchange gifts.

Mrs. W. A. Dunn had the program on "The Status of the Woman in Church," and was assisted by Mrs. J. H. Walker and Mrs. Nina McCarter.

Refreshments of pumpkin pie, mints, nuts and coffee were served. Those present were Mrs. Charlotte Burrage, Mrs. W. R. Phillips, Mrs. Daisy Wellborn, Miss Zeina Knoll, Mrs. Nora Coppinger, Mrs. C. A. Stalcup, Mrs. H. L. McAlester, Mrs. W. A. Dunnam, Mrs. J. H. Walker, Miss Esther Ekstrom, Mrs. Leona Gott, Mrs. Ekstrom, Miss Doris Johnson, Mrs. Nina McCarter, Mrs. C. R. Blocker, Miss K. R. Rev. S. M. Morgan Honored With A Surprise Party

At the close of the prayer service at the First Baptist Church Wednesday evening a surprise party was given in honor of the Rev. S. M. Morgan, pastor, and his family.

The Superintendent of Sunday School, J. T. Haile, presided; and Deacon T. E. Brown spoke, presenting a new 35 millimeter camera complete with attachments.

The refreshment table was decorated in fall colors and flowers at which a group of ladies from the W. M. U. presided serving light refreshments to 300 assembled guests and friends.

Pastor Morgan of the First Baptist Church celebrated his 18th anniversary, Sunday, Nov. 6.

On Nov. 1, 1937, the Reverend Mr. Morgan became pastor of the First Baptist Church which met in a $6,000 frame and brick veneer building located on the corner of Roselawn and Grand. During the present pastor's office, the church has grown to include the building on the half block between Roselawn and Fourth streets on Grand Avenue valued conservatively at a little more than a quarter of a million dollars.

From a membership of around 250 in 1937, the church now has nearly 1,600 on its rolls. The Sunday School, Training Union, W. M. U., and brotherhood organizations have grown in proportion.

The First Baptist Church of Artesia is counted as one of the steadily growing churches in the state. It has contributed its share to missions. It has built and helped five other churches on the mission state and is at present engaged

Office Of Education Offers Views On Teacher, Class Needs

For nearly 15 years the National Education Association has called for vigorous action, not only to meet the current shortages in classrooms and qualified teachers, but to avoid the danger of allowing these shortages to continue over a period of years. Now in a release, the Office of Education presents statistics which it says support the long-time views of the association. A study of the Office of Education report highlights the following facts and conclusions.

In 1955-56 the pupil enrollment in public elementary and secondary schools is expected to increase by 1,352,200 over 1954-55.

Public elementary schools will increase 1,123,500; secondary schools, 228,700.

Enrollments in higher education (public and nonpublic) will by 1,352,200 over 1954-55.

The shortage of qualified elementary and secondary school teachers (public and non-public) is estimated at 141,300. The public school shortage of qualified teachers is at least 130,000, not taking into account the urgent need for additional teachers to reduce overcrowding and to enrich the curriculum.

What will be done to meet these conditions? The Office of Education release touches upon some of the compensating factors, which obviously cannot fully meet the current critical conditions.

The states and localities are reported as completing 60,000 classrooms for public elementary and secondary schools in 1954-55.

They will take care of increased enrollment this year. An additional 8,000 (according to previous statements from the Office) should be used to replace obsolete and unsafe buildings. That leaves 2,000 classrooms to apply on the accumulated deficit, which was 300,000 classrooms in February 1955 (according to Office of Education testimony before the Senate Committee on Labor and Public Welfare).

Of the 95,000 persons who completed some type of teacher education in 1954-55, the Office of Education estimates that about 63,400 will actually be available for employment in 1955-56. This new supply totals less than the estimated number of qualified teachers who left teaching in 1954-55.

In 1954-55 the schools employed 91,200 emergency teachers. The office estimates that 25,000 of these qualified for regular certification and employment in 1955-56.

The history of the First Baptist Church has been one of steady growth during these years. Eight years ago the church did not have a single building that they are using at the present time. In 1947 a brick $75,000 educational building was erected, in 1949 the modern parsonage at the corner of Grand and South was built, and lots were purchased completing the half block of property owned at present.

Mission buildings were built in 1953 and the Educational unit that they are using for a temporary auditorium was constructed, and another mission chapel was placed in use. In 1954, two houses and lots were purchased to provide future parking space.

Lots were bought in 1954 for the future Spanish Church. The foundation, basement, heating and cooling systems for the new $3,000,000 auditorium were completed. This basement at present is furnishing six departments with space for continued expansion and plans are underway for the completion of the structure in late 1957.

Services Held For Widow Of Editor

SANTA FE (AP)—Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. E. Dana Johnson, educator and widow of a well-known editor. She died Wednesday in a hospital after a long illness that became critical three weeks ago.

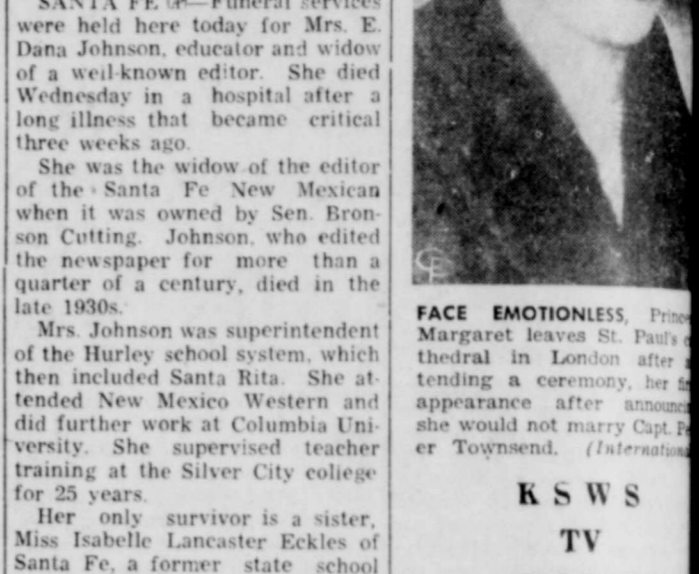

She was the widow of the editor of the Santa Fe New Mexican when it was owned by Sen. Bronson Cutting. Johnson, who edited the newspaper for more than a quarter of a century, died in the late 1930s.

Mrs. Johnson was superintendent of the Hurley school system, which then included Santa Rita. She attended New Mexico Western and did further work at Columbia University. She supervised teacher training at the Silver City college for 25 years.

Her only survivor is a sister, Miss Isabelle Lancaster Eckles of Santa Fe, a former state school superintendent and former Santa

Injuries Force Reese To Shift Starting Lineup

Season records and the doubtful the char field advantage go by the time tonight when Artesia and Roswell lock horns at Roswell in a cross-district grid battle which will be a preview of the Class AA championship game.

Although slowed somewhat by injuries, Coach Reese Smith has lined up this starting lineup:

Ends — Bill Jones and Larry Potts — Bob Cerny and Jerry Scott; guards — Marshall Martin and Jimmy Campanella; center — James Holcombe; quarter-back — James Battliff; halfbacks — Don Max George Price; fullback — [Name obscured]; back — [Name obscured].

Shuffling his lineup because of injuries, Coach Smith is starting in place of Bill Mayes, Haney place of Charles Saverance at [Name obscured] and switching Campanella into the guard post.

The starting lineup for Roswell is:

In other action these developments took place last night:

Roswell and Santa Rosa today wearing bright new football uniforms long but light schoolboy style with playoff victories last night.

Leland's Warriors from Ruidoso topped the Class C state title game by defeating Central at Kirtland. It was Ruidoso's 10th straight title in an unopposed season and the warriors a total of 308 points to their opponents' 13.

Santa Rosa kicked off Lordsburg 21 in a see-saw bi-district Class B playoff battle at Lordsburg. Lordsburg held a 13-7 halftime lead but Santa Rosa came up with a point last half to take it. Santa Rosa next week will host the Class B state finals.

Twelve games—three of them of crucial variety — spot today's schedule while a lone match will be played Saturday.

Most of the Class AA teams, in the four district races already had, have "traditional" matches for today and tonight, while the action centers in Dist. 2B and the Cathedral of Gallup-EI Rito B playoff match.

Dist. 2B—the last title to be won—three teams are still in the race. Clayton, Raton and Los Alamos. Clayton will be at Raton. Espanola is at Los Alamos. Clayton is currently leading the race, while Los Alamos and Clayton each have 2-1 league records.

The other crucial game sends the IB champ Cathedral of Gallup against 2B boss EI Rito in a bid to settle who will take on Santa Rosa in the Class B finals next week.

The schools have important records to uphold, while the rest of the schedule is spotted with "traditional" matches.

Golden of Anthony, already holder of its 3A title, will seek glory No. 31 in a row against Battlers at Tucuman. Las Cruces will risk its unbeaten 7-0 record against Cathedral of El Paso Las Cruces. The Bulldogs are Class AA champs.

Albuquerque will visit Farmington in a cross-district game. Albuquerque will be looking for a

Firing Range Looks Like A Venison Farm

By The Associated Press

If deer could read, a 400,000-acre military reservation in southern New Mexico probably would look like a venison stock ranch today, the first of the state's big game hunting season.

Inside the Ft. Bliss firing range, patrols from the Texas base were watching for hunters who might make the mistake of stalking deer therein.

Outside was a smaller army of New Mexico Game Department men and State Police to keep errant hunters' ambitions in check.

The deer inside the bounds of the big military reserve probably were the safest in New Mexico for the moment—all because of a barrage of words between Ft. Bliss and state authorities over who might have been able, but now can't hunt in the area.

Maj. Gen. P. W. Rutledge, commander of Ft. Bliss, said yesterday that until a legal opinion is reached in Washington, there would be no hunting inside the firing range which he commands. He had said the state had no right to demand 35 military men he was going to allow to hunt pay the $50 New Mexico license.

Elsewhere, the state rocked with the shots of the equivalent of four combat divisions—73,000 hunters looking for meat a lot more expensive than beef.

That army of civilians shivered in what the Weather Bureau called an "arctic air mass," but that was the only drawback they met.

Game Department officials said game and hunting conditions were "excellent," with plenty of deer in top shape.

In addition a department spokesman said hunters should not be compelled to stray far from their own backyards for success with the exception of those in southeast New Mexico.

The season opened at sunrise and closes at sundown Nov. 20. Sportsmen can bag one deer, one bear and one turkey with certain local exceptions in some areas.

Artesia's B Team Drops First Game of Year to Carlsbad 14-13

The Carlsbad B team got a measure of revenge yesterday as it handed Artesia's B team its first defeat of the year 14-13.

Earlier in the year the Artesia second team took a 13-0 verdict over the junior Cavemen.

After a scoreless first half in which Artesia threatened once from the four-yard line, Carlsbad took advantage of a Bulldog fumble to rack up its first score.

About three minutes into the fourth quarter, James Mitchell ran a T.D. from Carlsbad's 12 yard line to give the Bulldogs their first score, but the Dogs failed to kick the point.

Carlsbad scored again in the fourth with a long pass.

Texas-TCU Go Out For Gold; A&M - Glory

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
The Associated Press

Texas A&M goes after the glory and Texas and TCU will be fighting for the gold in Southwest Conference stretch games Saturday.

The Aggies, atop the league by a half game, can get close to the championship if they whip suffering Rice at Houston.

At Austin, Texas and TCU will be thinking about New Year's in the Cotton Bowl when they struggle for second place. The runner-up could be better moneywise than champion this year because if the Aggies win it they won't get to play in the Cotton Bowl due to their probation.

SMU, hoping all three of the teams above it—A&M, Texas and TCU—have trouble, meets eliminated Arkansas at Dallas. SMU has only a glimmer of hope. By winning its remaining games it might earn a share of the title.

More than 150,000 are due to see the three games, with Houston expecting 79,000. The Texas-TCU struggle may get 55,000. At Dallas the cavernous Cotton Bowl might be almost half-filled, with 30,000 due to turn out.

The Aggies, who haven't lost since the season opener, will be playing a Rice team that hasn't won one in a month. It would be the upset of the season for the Owls to take down the opportunists of Aggie land. But Rice is in better shape to play a ball game than it

New Mexico Loop In Final Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Mexico Conference goes into its last week of play this afternoon with a full slate of inter-sectional opposition lined up.

All six teams will take on non-conference competition in an effort to improve its poor 6-9 record in non-league play. After this weekend's play, only two more games are scheduled, one the following week and one on Nov. 26.

Panhandle A&M, New Mexico Western and New Mexico Highlands wind up their season play. Highland is currently leading the chase with a 4-1 league mark, but will have to wait until second place New Mexico military closes its season Nov. 26 in a league game, to be sure of the title.

This week, the Cadets take on Eastern New Mexico in Roswell in the continuation of a long-standing rivalry.

In other games this week, Panhandle, of Goodwell, Okla., will visit Hastings, Neb. College. Western takes on Westminster in Salt Lake City, Arizona State of Flagstaff, still winless in seven starts, tries George Pepperdine in Los Angeles, and Highlands hosts East Central Okla. State, in Saturday's action.

Adams State of Alamosa, Colo., opens the play this afternoon against Southwestern Oklahoma in Alamosa.

Opponents Planning Surprises For Leading College Elevens

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

There's supposed to be something about playing at home that makes so-so teams come up with superhuman efforts.

If that's the case, then several of the nation's leading college football powers, including Maryland and West Virginia, had better be on their toes tomorrow.

Not that Clemson, which will face the Terps, and Pittsburgh, which takes on WVU, are fair-to-middlin' clubs. They're a lot better than that.

It's just that there's a lot at stake in both games and maybe a little of the whoop and holler will spur the underdogs.

Maryland, the nation's second-ranked team, is heavily favored to move further along the Orange Bowl road.

Word from the South Carolina school, however, is that it is ready to spring a surprise and knock Maryland from the ranks of the unbeaten. Each team is 3-0 in Atlantic Coast Conference play.

Pittsburgh stands smack in the way of a possible Sugar Bowl bid for West Virginia, which is No. 6 in the country and already has won the Southern Conference title. Should West Virginia win this one, an invitation to New Orleans may be in the mail next week.

Besides Maryland and West Virginia, other teams playing important games on the road are Yale, Duke, Texas Christian, Notre Dame, Auburn and Oregon State.

Yale, on the strength of its surprise victory over Army, is favored to knock off Princeton and clinch the Ivy League crown.

Duke, though beaten twice and tied in nonconference play, still will have a shot at the ACC crown and the Orange Bowl bid if it can get by South Carolina and Clemson trips Maryland.

Texas Christian meets Texas in a game which will go a long way in deciding the Southwest Conference winner. Texas A&M leads the league, but it's ineligible for post-season action. The Aggies play Rice tomorrow.

With three straight victories since being upset by Michigan State, Notre Dame is rated about a four-touchdown favorite over North Carolina. The Tarheels, however, showed improved form in thumping South Carolina last week.

Emotions Add Interest To Skyline Tilts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Skyline Conference football games Saturday—Colorado A&M vs. Utah and Utah State vs. Denver—pose some interesting emotional situations.

At Salt Lake City, Coach Bob Davis will be sending his title-hungry Rams against Utah's Redskins, the team on which he played more than a quarter of a century ago.

At Denver, Coach John Roning leads the Pioneers against the team he coached before moving to Denver early this year. The Utags are coached by Ev Faunce, who was backfield coach there during Roning's regime.

The day's third league game matches second-place Wyoming against the winless New Mexico Lobos at Albuquerque. The Cowboys, in their best physical condition in many weeks, are heavy favorites.

Montana's Grizzlies, through with league play, go to Tucson for a meeting with Arizona of the Border Conference. BYU has a date at Provo with winless Idaho of the Pacific Coast Conference.

QUESTION: I know an awful lot of people are buying some form of burglary or theft insurance but it seems to me this is not because the big insurance companies are doing a better selling job. Is the risk actually any greater than it was twenty years ago?

ANSWER: Actually the reason people buy more burglary and theft insurance is because crimes against property are readily increasing as shown by FBI statistics. Your own home is in much greater danger of being burglarized than it was ten years ago.

You'll address your own insurance questions to this office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind.

Confidence In Courts

WE recently had a trial in one of our district courts in the state of charges of a defendant in a suit in which he contended the court records had been falsified, padded and changed.

Those, of course, are serious charges. They are especially serious charges when the one making the charges is not in a position to prove them.

In this case the defendant did not prove any of them and there was little for the court to do but to sentence him for contempt. That was done. He had previously been charged with contempt but was given an opportunity to prove why he should not be found guilty of contempt.

We believe that our courts can be accused of a good many things but it is a pretty serious charge when we get around to accusing those in charge of the records of falsifying them or padding them.

We can accuse the courts of wasting time; of being slow about getting cases underway; about holding jurors who may be busy; of failing to halt the practices of trying plaintiffs or prosecuting witnesses but when we charge one particular court of falsifying the records—that is a serious charge.

Some of the failures or short comings of our courts also are the fault of citizens rather than the court officials. Miscarriages of justice do prevail but that is usually a jury that has failed to perform its duty. Failure to provide evidence and testimony often times halts the conviction of an individual and this may be our own failure as citizens to serve or volunteer as witnesses or even to offer our services as witnesses.

There are probably a good many things we could do and perhaps we should do to improve our courts; speed up trials; halt delays and the wasting of time; requiring better jury service and better service as witnesses on the part of citizens but we do not believe the records are falsified or that there is any padding of the records.

The success of our courts depends to a great extent on our confidence in the court and when we reach the point where we no longer believe we can get justice in our courts then our courts will no longer be of service to us as a people.

Politicos See Election Results In Different Ways

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Kirwan (D-Ohio) said yesterday Tuesday's election results indicate Democrats will boost their House majority next year by even more than the 30-seat gain he previously predicted.

But Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) saw only "local issues" as having decided the vote. He still predicted a Republican pickup of 32 seats to take command of the House in 1956.

The sharp contrast in views of the chairmen of Democratic and Republican congressional campaign committees underscored the split between leaders of the two parties over what the election signified. The voters themselves gave the Democrats a clear net gain over the GOP in the city and state contests.

Democratic Sens. Kefauver (Tenn.) and Humphrey (Minn.) in separate interviews claimed the outcome forebadowed continued control of Congress and capture of the White House by their party.

Kefauver, expected to run for the Democratic presidential nomination, said "it's good news for the Democrats next year." Humphrey, who is willing to run for vice president, called it "just another step forward to return of Democratic control in the national capital."

But Sen. Curtis (R-Neb.) said the Tuesday vote was "not significant" as far as next year's national elections are concerned, because the 1956 contests "will depend on conditions prevailing next year."

"The presidential race will be the main factor next year in contests for the Senate, the House, governors and other offices," Curtis said. He did not indicate who he expects to head the party tickets, but declared "the Democrats are hard put for any candidate who would be a real threat."

Kirwan, who recently predicted after a grass roots survey that the Democrats would gain 30 House seats in 1956, said the new elections indicate that might be conservative. The present House lineup is 231 Democrats, 203 Republicans and one vacancy.

Many of the new Democratic gains, Kirwan told a newsman, came in areas which were part of congressional districts where the GOP barely won last year.

Simpson said "I do not find anything in the elections to indicate the loss of any GOP congressional seats. All were settled on local issues."

"In some cities, the Democrats got fewer votes than their candidates got in the last congressional election," he said. "I see nothing to indicate that I should revise my estimate that we will get 235 House seats in 1956."

Meanwhile the farm issue got another whirl with statements from the chairman of the rival national committees.

Democratic Chairman Paul M.

Butler said a poll of 1,600 party leaders, from county chairmen to former President Truman, showed 1,279 believing that falling farm income will be the greatest issue in the 1956 campaign.

Butler said the poll, in which the Democrats were asked to check off 10 of 20 subjects listed as controversial under the Eisenhower administration, also resulted in "tax favoritism for the rich" running second with 1,059 votes and "public power giveaways" third with 977.

Republican Chairman Leonard W. Hall said in San Juan, Puerto Rico, where he is visiting. "We have the present farm situation because of laws passed by the Truman administration. The only answer they have now is a return to those same laws."

"The President promised a fair share of income for farmers and that promise is being fulfilled."

The Big Four foreign ministers were to continue their discussion on disarmament today after a 30-minute private meeting on how the remaining work can be handled and the conference concluded, probably late next week.

Molotov's outline of Soviet disarmament policy came as no particular surprise to Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Minister Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay after hearing his precise enunciation of hard Soviet policy on the future of Germany the day before.

The Soviet statement on Germany did astonish the Western ministers and their advisers, because it completely abandoned even any pretense of trying to entice the West to keep up negotiations on German unifications.

Carmelo Costa, Joey Lopes Meet

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—If Carmelo Costa could punch, he might be the featherweight champion of the world. Instead of fighting for the title, the flashy Brooklyn boxer takes on Joey Lopes, the No. 8 lightweight, tonight at Madison Square Garden in a rematch of their March 18 bout.

Ranked No. 4 among the 126-pounders, the slick Costa owns a classy left and trigger-fast hands. Instead of forcing a match with Saddler, who is overdue for a defense, Costa has been standing still despite an elimination victory over Lulu Perez and two decisions over Bobby Bell.

The bare facts tell the story. Costa, 21, has lost only twice in 33 pro starts for a 27-2-4 record. He never has been knocked out. The catch is that he has knocked out only three. In fact, he had to go hard in the 10th round to pull out a split decision over Bell, one of his conquerors, in his last start, Sept. 2. Bell and Rudy Garcia both outpointed Costa late in 1954.

Saddler hasn't put his crown on the line since Feb. 25 when he thumped Red Top Davis in 15 rounds. He lost to Lopes in an over-the-weight match at Sacramento, May 24 and was beaten by Flash Elorde at Manila July 20. Elorde was to have met Costa but Lopes was given the match. There was talk by the International Boxing Club that Flash wanted more time to get ready.

Schwartz Lawyers Ask Supreme Court For New Hearing

SANTA FE (AP)—A motion for a re-hearing in the State Supreme Court has been filed by attorneys for Rudolph Schwartz, who was denied the right to take a state bar examination.

The motion was based on six points of error. The high court recently upheld the Board of Bar Examiners, which refused to permit Schwartz to take an examination because of admitted former Communist activities.

Among the points on which the motion for rehearing was filed were:

- 1. That the court erred by failing to pass on Schwartz's moral character at the time of his application in 1954 and based its opinion on his activities 14 years before.
2. That the court did not directly pass on whether membership in the Communist party until 1940 was the basis for refusal.
3. That the court erred in approving action of the board when the board had access to investigations and files which the board refused to let Schwartz see.

Accused Sandia Bank Robbers To Be Tried In State

PHOENIX (AP)—Officials say two Phoenix men accused of taking $47,000 from the Bank of New Mexico branch at Sandia Base will probably be tried in Albuquerque. FBI agents, who had been watching their house for a reason not yet revealed, closed in on the two after they scuffled briefly with deputies summoned by Anderson.

They are held in Maricopa County jail in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Father Issues Plea For Blood For Burned Son

SANTA FE (AP)—A plea went out today for more blood for transfusions to help a 13-year-old Santa Fe boy recover from burns he suffered from head to toe in a gas line explosion last summer.

Young Manuel Marquez came a long way in contradicting predictions he would live only a short time, but he's a long way from recovery and needs more blood.

His father, Pedro, says Manuel has been given 29 transfusions and the list of friends and relatives who have donated blood is running out.

"We're five pints behind at the blood bank now," Marquez explains. "If you know of anyone who can help us out we'll be forever grateful."

Manuel was burned when a can of gasoline ignited in the family garage. He led some younger children to safety and dashed back to try to put out the fire. He picked up the flaming can, but it was so hot he dropped it, and burning gasoline drenched him.

Upper Colorado Authority Receives Another Threat

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A possible new threat arose this week to early congressional authorization of the upper Colorado River project.

The Supreme Court on Nov. 7 announced that it wished to hear arguments on California's request that the upper basin states of New Mexico, Colorado, Utah and Wyoming be joined in the suit brought by Arizona over rights to waters of the Colorado River system.

The court set the arguments for the week of Dec. 5.

Proponents of the big project—one authorization bill already has passed the Senate—hope to win final congressional approval for it soon after Congress meets next January.

However, should the Supreme Court decide before then that the upper basin states should be made parties to the litigation, some opponents of the project are expected to take the stand that the project should be delayed until a decision is reached in the water suit.

It could be years before the suit is brought to a conclusion.

"Southern Californians would use such a ruling by the court as one of their main arguments," one upper basin congressman said. "It would give them quite a lever to postpone a start on the project. They will take the position that there should not be any development till the whole thing is settled."

The upper basin states have resisted being made parties to the Arizona-California water controversy, and the late George Haight, who was first appointed as special master by the court to take testimony in the case, upheld their objections, except that he said New Mexico and Utah should participate insofar as their interest in lower basin waters are involved.

Haight, in his recommendations on California's request, said in part:

"There is presently no legal or equitable reason for this court to disturb the operation of the Upper Colorado River Basin Compact, which result might come by joining these upper basin states as parties to this case."

"To join them would be backward and retarding step with respect to the solution of problems relating to the Colorado River system."

Haight died soon after his recommendations were made to the court, and a second special master Simon H. Rirkind of New York City, was appointed.

Richard Robinson, New Mexico attorney general, and Fred E. Wilson, special attorney for the state, joined with attorneys for Colorado, Utah and Wyoming in a brief filed with the Supreme Court just two days before arguments on the California request were ordered.

This brief noted that the upper basin states divided their share of the Colorado River waters by negotiations, whereas failure of the lower basin states to do likewise has resulted in the present court case.

"The lower basin states were not necessary parties to the division of the upper basin's apportionment and the upper states, in their upper basin capacities, are not necessary parties to a division of lower basin waters use, whether that division is by agreement and compact or by litigation."

Stating that the upper basin's present use of Colorado River waters is only about one-third of its apportionment under the over-all Colorado River Compact, the brief added:

"There is no allegation in the pleadings, and the facts warrant no allegation, that the upper basin is exceeding its apportioned use or is depriving the lower basin, or any user in the lower basin, of any water or right under the Colorado River Compact. Clearly the scope of the present court action and the justifiable issues therein

BIOFF DIES IN GANG-STYLE BLAST

THE BODY OF WILLIE BIOFF, 55, former filmland labor racketeer, lies under a blanket before the wreckage of his pickup truck outside the garage of his $40,000 home in Phoenix, Ariz. Bioff (inset) was killed by a dynamite blast as he stepped on the starter of the vehicle. His body was buried 25 feet and the wreckage was strewn 300 yards around. Investigators believe that the thoroughness of the "job" done on Bioff was evidence his killing had a gangland revenge motive.

Old Glory reverently waves over the tombs of thousands of our heroic dead. Little white crosses mark the graves of brave men who paid with death for you and for me. But war is a terrible tragedy unless Peace lies beyond its sacrifice and death. We all had a share in paying for the last war. Some paid in toil, some in taxes while others profited greatly. But we need to look at the cemeteries of the world to know the supreme sacrifice that war calls for. War requires the giving of life itself for many a man; and it calls for sorrow and heartache for many a mother and father. War cost enough for some of us.

Today is the day for heroism in the cause of Peace. It must be shone by every woman and man in our country and in the world. We must oppose, with all our might, the antagonisms that are growing between peoples of the earth. We must become ambassadors of tolerance and spokesmen for kindness and generous treatment of every man. We must say the truth when and where it will count most. Peace calls for courage and well informed effort for making the world into the Kingdom of God. We must practice Democracy which makes every man our brother and gives to him the freedom that we demand for ourselves. We must remember Iwo Jima. Yes, we must be Christian in thought and in speech and in deed for He is the Prince of Peace. "Blessed are the Peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God."
