Farm Bill Issue Blazes Hot Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The farm issue blazed hotter today after former President Harry S. Truman labeled Eisenhower's agricultural policies as "political betrayal" and the Democratic-controlled Congress passed a farm aid bill containing features Eisenhower strongly opposes.

"At the moment, at least, the farm controversy promises to figure prominently in the coming presidential campaign—overshadowing the contest between Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee in the Democratic presidential nomination."

Stevenson, given "new heart and vigor" by his strong showing in the Illinois primary, went to the polls in the Miami, Fla. area to open a three-day extension of his own in Florida.

The two are pitted in the final May 29 primary.

Supporting veto warnings by administration farm leaders in Congress, the House, followed by the Senate, yesterday approved the farm bill and sent it to the president.

The measure would give the soil bank the administration sought. But it also would provide high, rigid price supports for this year's crops of wheat, cotton, rice and peanuts.

It is opposed by Eisenhower. He has been critical of other sections of the bill, too.

In Augusta, Ga., where Eisenhower is vacationing, press secretary James C. Hagerty told members of the President "still does not think the bill meets the test of a good bill."

Truman cut loose at Eisenhower's cutting him a "do-nothing president"—during a speech at a democratic fund-raising dinner last night in Des Moines, Iowa.

Gen. Eisenhower has personally been doing all he could to keep Congress from raising the support prices farmers get," Truman declared.

"This is one of the most amazing records of political betrayal I have ever seen in all my years of public life."

Truman said he doesn't know what Ike is going to do with the farm bill. But, he suggested, Eisenhower "may well decide that the better part of valor is to get out of this bill in an effort to get elected."

Politicians and political analysts are trying to assess the significance of the Illinois primary today in which Eisenhower outdistanced Stevenson by about 20,000 votes on the basis of returns from about a few precincts. The latest publications showed Eisenhower with 723,267 votes and Stevenson 291.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), the Democrats' 1952 vice presidential pick, said in Washington he predicted a trend in the Illinois primary which he said "bodes well for the Democratic party" in November. Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National committee got out a statement saying "Illinois has now joined Arizona and Wisconsin in exposing this myth . . . that Mr. Eisenhower is indispensable."

But the Republicans dismissed the Democratic optimism as unfounded. Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said that cause there were separate Democratic and Republican ballots in Illinois "the vote did not reflect strong support Mr. Eisenhower has among Democrats who will be voting for him in November."

Kefauver—who has exchanged sharp words with Stevenson long range—characterized as "splendid" his rival's Illinois performance against Eisenhower. As has before—Kefauver described (Continued on Page Four)

City Election Results Made Official Here

The April 3 municipal election became an official act when city councilmen attached to minutes of their Wednesday night meeting the officially canvassed and certified election returns.

Mayor Bill Yeager, four council members and newly elected City Police Judge F. F. (Doc) Elvin will be sworn into office at the next regular meeting of the council, Wednesday April 25.

An official resolution announcing that voters here approved a $125,000 library building and equipment bond issue at the election by 491 favorable votes and 261 "against" votes, also was passed and filed.

Officials to take oath of office and to begin serving new terms May 1 are Mayor Yeager, J. L. Walker, Ward 1 councilman; Joe H. Alvarado, Ward 2; H. A. Campbell, Ward 3; Dr. John J. Clarke, Jr., Ward 4; and Elvin, city police judge.

Only change on the present council is J. L. Walker who replaces Clayton Menefee whose term expires April 30.

Request for office space was made by retiring City Judge John Ellicott, who will continue until the end of the year as local justice of the peace. Councilmen Clarke, Campbell, Menefee, Ferriman and Gilmore took the matter under advisement.

Conference On Distributive Education Here

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, April 19, for the Fifth Annual State Conference on Distributive Education in Room 13, Artesia High school, William Bennett, coordinator, said today.

Speakers for the two-day conference include Paul Scott, manager of Artesia Chamber of Commerce; W. B. Runge, state supervisor of distributive education in New Mexico; and George White, curriculum director for Artesia schools.

Continuing the conference on Friday, there will be a tour of one of Artesia's oil refineries, Bennett said. Discussions will continue until 4 p.m.

State To Get $400-Million Construction From New Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An era of water works construction in New Mexico costing about 400 million dollars has been opened by President Eisenhower's signature on the upper Colorado River project bill.

The state's only major untapped source of surface water, the San Juan River, which flows through the northwest corner of New Mexico, will be the heart of the New Mexico portion of the project.

Water experts say they expect a significant part of the program affecting New Mexico to be in operation within 10 years. The project will permit irrigation of more than 220 square miles of land much of it now arid and barren.

Additionally, they expect a large amount of water to be made available from the Colorado tributary for Santa Fe, Albuquerque and other communities in New Mexico's section of the Rio Grande Valley.

Here are the New Mexico projects involved: Navajo Dam — Key to New Mexico's part of the project. Hammond irrigation project. Animas-La Plata irrigation project.

Two Men Bound Over For Trial On Bribery Charges

Earlie Ross and Elmer (Booker T.) Adnandus were bound over to the district court for trial today in preliminary hearings in Justice of the Peace John Ellicott's court. Both men were released on bond set at $1,000 each.

The two are charged on counts of bribing a public officer for city protection to operate gambling, liquor and prostitution establishments here.

They will be arraigned before District Judge C. Roy Anderson in Carlsbad April 23.

"There has been shown probable cause to believe that a crime here has been committed," Judge Ellicott said as he bound the two men, who pleaded innocent to the charges, over for trial by jury in district court.

Sheriff Hartsill Martin, Deputy Ike Funk, Carl L. Wadley, Max Sanders and others testified in the cross-examination by District Attorney Pat Hanagan and by Defense Attorneys D. D. Archer, for Ross, and Fincher Neal for Adnandus.

Conflicting testimony emerged from the witnesses which led to a motion for dismissal of testimony in the Adnandus hearing. The testimony was offered by Max Sanders, who pleaded guilty last week to a like charge and also is out under $1,000 bond pending trial before District Judge Anderson.

Defense Attorney Neal had Sanders stating that he knew nothing about the Adnandus case except "hearsay." Sheriff Martin also, under Neal's cross-examination, gave conflicting statements and the district attorney sought to refresh his memory with bits from his briefs of signed statements from witnesses.

P-TA To Grant Scholarship To Teacher To Be

A graduating senior who is planning teaching as a career will be recipient of a P-TA scholarship. The student will be selected by a committee made up of the High School principal, P-TA Council president and the high school counselor, according to a report accepted at a special meeting Wednesday night of Artesia Council of Parents and Teachers.

J. Burr Stout made the report of the Scholarship Regulations committee.

The selection committee will take into consideration the following factors when making their choice: adequate scholarship (married students are ineligible).

Scholarship money will be sent to the college of the student's choice where it will be made available at the time of enrollment, the report indicates.

The P-TA Council endorsed need for a Civic Improvement commission in Artesia and appointed a committee to select the official representative and alternate to serve on the commission.

Appointed were J. Burr Stout, J. C. Heffley, Mrs. A. R. Haralson. (Continued on Page Four)

Sinfonietta To Be Here Next Monday

The current season of the Artesia Community Concert series closes Monday evening, April 16 with the St. Louis Sinfonietta, a 20-piece little symphony orchestra, under the baton of Paul Schreiber.

Termed as a "new experience in orchestral music," the Sinfonietta has brought musical entertainment to people in 22 states and several provinces of Canada.

Paul Schreiber, founder and conductor of the St. Louis Sinfonietta, conceived the idea some years ago of creating a small concert orchestra for the purpose of bringing symphonic music to audiences everywhere. String orchestras had already been touring limited sections of the country.

The unique contribution of Schreiber was, however, the conception of an orchestral group which would have not only the delicacy and refinement of the stringed instrument, but a reasonable degree of orchestral color and (Continued on Page Four)

Ike To Begin Re-Election Campaign With Tuesday Talk

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower will start his re-election campaign with an address to 800 Republican party leaders at a Washington dinner next Tuesday evening.

The President's vacation headquarters announced this today as White House press secretary James C. Hagerty hit back at former President Truman's charge that Eisenhower has been a "do-nothing president." Truman said further in a Des Moines speech last night that the President has compiled "one of the most amazing records of political betrayal" on farm matters that he (Truman) ever has seen.

"I don't believe that Mr. Truman, by his own standards, can recognize accomplishment when he sees it," Hagerty told newsmen in response to a request for comment.

Truman's criticism and the White House rejoinder came as Eisenhower pondered whether to sign or veto an omnibus farm bill on which Congress completed action last night. The President has let it be known he doesn't think it is a good bill, but Hagerty declined again today to speculate about the possibility of a veto.

He said Eisenhower's political address at a Washington hotel next Tuesday evening will be made in response to an invitation by Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The President will speak to party state chairmen and vice chairmen, national committee members from all the states, Republican members of Congress, party finance leaders, and chairmen of "Salute to Eisenhower" rallies which were held throughout the country last Jan. 20.

Band Calendar Sales To Close Here Saturday

The slate of Artesia Community Birthday Calendars for the coming year will close Saturday with a big house to house canvass by students of the Junior High School bands, under the leadership of Herb Beasley.

The sale of Artesia Community organizations and clubs but many people who are not contacted through the clubs may purchase one of the Birthday calendars from the students.

Proceeds from the Calendar goes to help defray costs encountered by the instrumental program of the Artesia Schools, costs which cannot be paid for out of the budget of the Board of Education.

Besides birthday listings and wedding anniversaries, the Calendar will list school events, information for which can be obtained at this time, and includes High School and Junior High athletic events, class plays, opening and closing of school, vacations, and many others.

Israel Claims First Blood In Air Clash

JERUSALEM (AP) — Warplanes of Egypt and Israel clashed today and Israel claimed first blood.

An Israeli army spokesman announced two Israeli fighters intercepted four Egyptian jets in a noon flight northward over Israeli territory and shot down one—a British-made Vampire jet—on Israel's soil.

"The other three planes escaped," he said. "Our planes returned safely to base."

This announcement of air-to-air combat in the current Arab-Israeli crisis developed on the heels of claims by Israel of five new attacks by Arab commando raiders aground last night, in one of which three Israeli school children and a teacher was killed at prayer.

Angered Israeli security forces pressed a hunt for the raiders and public clamor for retaliations mounted.

Egypt, too, registered a complaint. A military spokesman in Egyptian-held Gaza said Israelis opened automatic fire today on an outpost in the Beit Hanou area northeast of Gaza City and an Egyptian soldier was wounded. He said the outpost did not return the fire.

The newly established Egyptian Middle East News Agency reported last night that 300 Arab combatants (Continued on Page Four)

Four Selected For Recreation Positions Here

Added to the city's summer recreation program personnel Wednesday night were seven positions, as approved by the City Council.

Leo Witcher, city recreation director, said four of the positions will be filled by Carl Buckner, Bill Brown, Morris Heden and Coy Motley. These men will supervise playgrounds, girls' softball teams and will work with the Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball clubs.

The three other positions will be filled as soon as people are available, Witcher said.

Other programs for the summer include a teenager canteen operated with cooperation from a civic organization, arts and crafts, workshop, tennis, swimming and dancing projects.

Witcher said he intends to set up a calendar which will tie in the city's recreation program this summer (Continued on Page Four)

Each International Crisis Has Helped The Democrats

CARLSBAD (AP) — Sen. Anderson (D-NM) says a series of recent international crises has bettered the chances of his party.

He listed a number of what he called "brinks" of disaster after which his party won more public offices from the Republicans.

Anderson spoke before about 400 Democrats at a Carlsbad rally.

It was noted that a prolonged ovation greeted that introduction of Gov. John Simms at the meeting. A second thunderous ovation greeted an announcement by Dick Westaway that sometime in the near future Gene Lusk would be a candidate for governor.

Seen attending the rally from Artesia last night were, State Democratic Chairman Tom Brown and Mrs. Brown, Precinct Chairman J. B. Mulcock, State Representative Fred Cole, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Halderman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Key, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dungan, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Funk, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Archer, Miss Phoebe Welch, Vance Halderman, Milford Estill, Julius Chandler, Bob Seigel, Mrs. Louise Gott, and Gilbert Alania.

With him on the speakers' platform where Gov. John Simms, Corporation Commissioner Ingram Pickett and Robert S. Stephens, opponents for Democratic nomination for governor, and 14 county candidates.

The senator listed the Korean situation in 1953 as the first "brink" and then said the Indochina situation in 1954 was the second and that fall "we won 25 of 38 Senate races and eight more for governor."

He said the third "brink" was the Formosa Straits situation last year, after which came Democratic (Continued on Page Four)

Roswell Firm Bids Low On Well Pump

A $3,077 bid to furnish and install a deep-well turbine water pump for the West Chisum street well was awarded Wednesday night by city councilmen to Smith Machinery Co., Inc., of Poswell.

Only other bid submitted for the pump to produce city water at 1000 gallons per minute was the Bristow Pump Co. of Artesia which failed to meet specifications at the lower bid of $2,728.76. (Continued on Page Four)

Grace Grooms Her Prince Upon Arrival In Monaco

MONTE CARLO (AP) — American film star Grace Kelly greeted Monaco's Prince Rainier III with a big smile and "darling" today as they staged a romantic reunion on the blue Mediterranean.

Grace and the man she will marry next week were reunited on Rainier's yacht Deo Juvante II just offshore from his tiny Riviera principality. The 32-year-old bridegroom-to-be sailed his gleaming white, 138-foot craft out to tie up beside the liner Constitution, which had brought his bride and a shipload of relatives, friends and reporters from America.

The only immediate kissing was a light one Rainier quickly planted on the future princess' slender hand.

Five minutes later, as the yacht steamed toward shore and the couple stood on the bridge, the prince wrapped his arms around the fiancée. Holding her big white hat with one hand, Grace snugly glued up and put an arm around Rainier's shoulders.

Anderson Would Cut Surpluses

EL PASO (AP) — Sen. Anderson (D-NM) said today disposal of surplus cotton now is "the very first thing that is going to be of interest" to producers and shippers.

Anderson made the statement in an address at the annual convention of the Western Cotton Shippers Assn.

He told the group the prime interest in the cotton industry today "is whether or not the secretary of agriculture intends to dispose of about five million bales of cotton per year in some sort of surplus disposal program."

"If he does not," Anderson went on, "we will continue to accumulate oppressive stocks of cotton. If he does, you will see cotton markets stiffen and cotton prices reflect the result of his program of stepped-up disposal."

Anderson, agriculture secretary under former President Truman, said, "The second problem is to bring our expanding agricultural production under control. Let me say to you that we now know enough about the production of cotton so that we have the technology to raise the average yield per acre across the United States on a harvested acre basis of 700 pounds per acre."

"Do not cross off that figure too lightly. The average for 1950 and 1951 on a harvested acre basis was a yield of 269 pounds, 1952 was 379 pounds, 1953 was 324 pounds and 1954 was 411 pounds. (Continued on Page Four)

Firm Requests Exception To City Fire Code

Arles McKnight and Bill Bailey of Humble Oil company, Roswell, requested exception to the Zone 1 fire code for construction of their newly proposed service station at the corner of Sixth and West Main streets. City councilmen Wednesday took the request under study and promised action by the April 25 meeting.

McKnight told the mayor and councilmen that because their building would be 25 or 30 feet away from any property line that they would like permission to waive the city fire ordinance ruling which requires 13-inch building walls.

"We plan to construct an 8-inch solid brick structure, painted on the outside, which we believe will be better, stronger and more attractive than one of the 13-inch brick tile," McKnight said. The oil men based their request on the isolated position of the building from any other structures at any time.

The building will be solid fire-resistant brick inside and out, slushed with mortar, it was said, and will cost only slightly less than the 13-inch wall building. Large 5,000 or 6,000-gallon storage tanks will be used at the station to cut down the frequency of gas truck trips in and out.

Bids on the structure were let yesterday, Bailey reported, and are due for consideration April 24. The Humble company acquired about six lots at the corner. The station will occupy a space 100 by 125 feet, it was said.

Appointed by Mayor Bill Yeager to study the request in order to avoid setting a precedent of making exceptions to the fire code were Councilmen Clayton Menefee, George Ferriman and Clarence Key. Bailey and McKnight were asked to attend the next meeting for the council's decision.

Former Mayor Too Old For Wild Life Week

A Mayor's mail comes bearing my salutations and addresses, according to Mayor Bill Yeager who reads a letter at Wednesday night's bi-monthly council meeting, addressed to him as "Mayor of the whole darn city."

The letter read in part: "I like in the paper your promise for a whole week of old life. I am indeed sorry to inform you that I cannot comply with your instructions. In January, I reached my 70th year and when comes to spending an entire week of wild life, I just can't cut it anymore."

D. I. Clowe, of 1062 West Missouri and a former mayor who served in 1930-31, signed the letter.

Bob Thomas Comments On Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — Memoirs on movies. Wonder if anyone in Hollywood realizes what the flood of big studio films on TV will mean to theaters. Wouldn't citizens rather stay home and see a good old movie than get out and see a mediocre new one? Folks are wondering if Marilyn Monroe is pulling a Garbo. Dodging reporters, photos, etc. Never thought we'd see that. Humphrey Bogart is feeling much better since his throat operation. He's growing at reporters again. Youngster looker at the Mary Pickford silent stars party: Laura LaPlante, Handsomeest: Bill Boyd, Liveliest: Jack Oakie, despite rumors he was dead. There's plenty of life in those oldtimers still. Seeing those wonderful reminders of Hollywood's past makes you realize how the town missed the boat in letting plans for a movie museum fall through. The Jeanne Crain-Paul Brinkman split refutes the boosters who claim that Hollywood is just like any other town. A shocker. "The Man in the Gray Flannel Suit," won't upset the TV-advertising crowd. The book's sting has been taken out of the movie. It's heavily-plotted, engrossing film fare. Seeing Fredric March in two recent films makes me realize anew he's America's best actor. He deserves more starring roles. "Moby Dick" will be the controversial film of the year. Critics will praise its pictorial beauty and literary style but will audiences dig its 19th century speech? Most gracious Oscar winner in many years: Ernest Borgnine. The ancient film theme of "A boy and his dog" gets new life in "Goodbye, My Lady." Walter Brennan, Brandon DeWilde and a talented "basenji" that's a dog make it a charmer. Customer

Mesilla Park Woman Elected 'Mother Of Year' At Portales

PORTALES — The New Mexico Federation of Womens' Clubs has elected Mrs. R. W. Goddard, Mesilla Park, "Mother of the Year." And the organization has elected Mrs. James D. Turner, Portales, president. She was unopposed. Other officers elected as the group ended its annual convention yesterday. Mrs. E. N. Crossett, Anthony, vice president at large; Mrs. L. B. Stephens, Albuquerque, recording secretary; Mrs. G. H. McMahon, Santa Fe, re-elected treasurer; Mrs. B. J. Edwards, Portales, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ben Ware Jones, Las Vegas, auditor. Mrs. Goddard, born in England, has been a charter member of the Las Cruces Progress Club 41 years. She is the mother of four sons and was chosen for outstanding work as a homemaker and in civic and welfare fields and in educational and religious activities. The Carriazo club won a $200 prize as outstanding organization in the small club division and a $100 sweepstakes prize as outstanding club in the state. It was elected for a campaign to clean up the town and sponsoring a bond issue to rebuild the community's sewage disposal system. The Albuquerque club was awarded $200 for a "number of projects" in the division for clubs of more than 75 members. The honors for those two organizations was supplied by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. The Captain and Hobbs club

Women's Club Holds Discussion Group Here

Various subjects were discussed by the Study Group of the Artesia Women's club which met Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. Roy Richardson. Mrs. J. R. Miller opened the meeting with a prayer poem by Charles Francis Richardson; Mrs. Albert Richards spoke on the "Challenging Task," from the national president of the American Legion Auxiliary Mrs. Ed Thompson's subject was "When Men Find God." Mrs. Carl Lewis gave two short topics, "Mrs. Porter's Famous Town," and "Mrs. Sprangler's Easter Tree." Mrs. F. L. Bays' topic was "God Speaking To Us in the Needs, Distresses, and Sorrows of Others." Mrs. Ray Fagan's subject was "The Secret," by Ralph Cusamson, and Mrs. George Teel spoke on "The Miracle of the Spirit," by Henry LaSossitt. Mrs. E. Jeffers was present but had no topic for the meeting. Personal Mention Mr. and Mrs. James Hendrix of Long Beach, Calif., arrived this week to visit her nephew and family. Mr. and Mrs. Carter Izard. Mrs. Hendrix will be remembered as the former Jerry Beulah James of Artesia. H. W. Shepard of Los Alamos, Colo., spent last week end here visiting his brother and family. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Shepard.

Prices Inch Up; But Still Under 1955

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Food prices, especially for meats have been inching upward lately and shoppers in food markets this week will notice still further advances. Despite these increases, prices are well below those of a year ago. Housewives with long memories will still consider many items at bargain and near-bargain levels. With beef, pork and lamb carrying higher price tags, the most widely featured special on meat counters is chicken, and in some sections, turkeys. Friers are selling in a number of communities from 2 to 8 cents less than a week ago. Pork is still a plentiful item and government and industry efforts to increase its sales continue. Over the past month, however, its price has climbed steadily from the lowest levels since the start of World War II and there are indications that reduced shipments from farms will raise the price even higher. Lower beef production for the next few months is also expected and might well bring some further increases. Outside of southern growing areas where local markets benefit from new vegetable crops, onions remained the only outstanding buy among vegetables. Texas has started shipping its new onion crop causing a drop in prices in sections where last year's onions are still in good supply. Spinach, one of the early spring crops, has become a good buy as the growing area moves northward. Other good buys are potatoes, cabbage, carrots, sweet potatoes, peppers and iceberg lettuce. Among fruits the best buys are oranges and grapefruits. Apples were still good buys in some sections, depending largely on their condition after winter-long storage. Those in top condition bring fairly high prices, while the need to move others quickly puts them in a better buy category.

Hagerman News

Cindy and Lynn Welborne, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Welborne are ill this week and unable to attend school. Mrs. Jewell Garner stepped on a nail and was unable to teach in the Hagerman Elementary School on Monday. However, she resumed her duties Tuesday. The W. S. C. S. District Meeting was held at Carlsbad Thursday with a good representation from the Hagerman group, and Mrs. Gordon Bennett, vice president of the Northwest Texas Conference (sister of Mrs. A. A. McCleskey of Hagerman) was guest speaker of the day. Mrs. Bennett spoke on "What Is In Thy Hand?" The theme of the day was "Rejoice In The Lord" and the program included a memorial service for the deceased members of each church, conducted by Mrs. Ward of Roswell. Mrs. C. P. Bunch of Artesia, district president, presided over the business session. An election of officers was held, all being re-elected with the exception of two new officers, Mrs. John Martens of Roswell and Mrs. Owen Haynes of Artesia, being elected Secretary of Christian Social Relations and Recording Secretary, respectively. Mrs. L. E. Hinrichsen of Hagerman was re-elected district secretary of student work. The officers were installed in a candle-light ceremony, conducted by Mrs. Frank Greathouse of Inez, New Mexico. A luncheon was held by the Presbyterian Church followed by various work shops. A report of the officers in a Rejoicing Ceremonial was held, interspersed by music by a vocal trio. A dramatic choral presentation was held by the W. S. C. S. choir under the direction of Mrs. Martin, "A Prayer For Peace." This was participated in by Mrs. McCleskey of Hagerman. Those from Hagerman who attended the all-day meeting were the Rev. and Mrs. A. A. McCleskey, Mrs. A. D. Menoud, Mrs. J. C. Ridgley, Mrs. A. A. Bailey, Mrs. Flora West and Mrs. L. E. Hinrichsen.

Poorest Crop Of Amateur Fighters Seen In Years

BOSTON — Uninspiring performances in the National AAU boxing championships indicated today the United States faces a rugged task in retaining supremacy in this year's Olympics in "Australia." "This was the poorest crop of amateurs I've seen in 40 years," said one veteran fight follower shortly after the windup of the 68th national tournament last night at the Boston Garden. The performances definitely were not the same calibre seen in 1952, when this country had a team which captured 5 of 10 titles in the Olympics. The U. S. Air Force, which conducted a world-wide tournament and has had a squad in training for several weeks, captured 5 of this year's 10 AAU championships to win the team trophy by a wide margin. Most Unique Event Slated, In The Annual Wide-Open FORT WORTH — The seventh annual Wide Open Golf Tournament, one of the world's most unique sporting events, will be held here April 24, heralding the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation. This tournament is for press, radio and TV, pays nothing so it won't impair anybody's amateur standing, and gives prizes for the worst score as well as the best. A look at the records indicates there's difficulty in determining which is the best and the worst. After the tournament the press folks will be guests of Colonial for dinner at which time all information on the Colonial National

Rainbow Girls' Meet Features Roswell Guest

Miss Ruthe Owens of Roswell grand worthy advisor of Rainbow for Girls of the state of New Mexico, made her official visit to the local assembly Monday night at a regular meeting held in the Masonic Temple. A banquet was held in her honor preceding the business meeting, which was presided over by Bobbie Jo Hanson, worthy advisor of Artesia Assembly No. 32. Miss Owens gave an interesting talk on "The Things That Money Can't Buy." Miss Owens was accompanied by Mrs. Watkins, mother advisor of the Roswell Assembly, and Mr. McCarter, Rainbow Dad of the Roswell Assembly. Miss Rosemary Stinnett, Rainbow Girl of the year, of the Artesia Assembly, was introduced. Shirley Staggs, Glenda Johnson, and Charlene Safeley were initiated.

Opening Day To See Pets On The Mound

By JOE REICHLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Despite the emergence of an unusually large number of rookie pitching prospects, it's a cinch the opening day major league games next Tuesday will be monopolized by tried and true veterans of the mound.

The most promising freshmen pitchers uncovered in the spring training camps include Cincinnati's Pat Scantlebury, Brooklyn's Don Drysdale, the Chicago Sox' Bill Fischer, Boston's Sinner, Philadelphia's Jim Aronson, Kansas City's Bill Herold and Washington's Hal Lanier. However, it is said that no pitcher, however, has a chance to make an opening day assignment.

Managers are keeping their opening day choices a deep, dark secret, but it's a safe bet that when the curtain is raised, the likes of Alvin Dark, Bob Lemon, Jerry Ford, Johnny Antonelli, Newcombe and Bob Rush will be out on the hill sizing up the opposition.

The most exciting mound duel is expected to be in Brooklyn where the Dodgers' right-hander, and Newcombe of the Dodgers probably will renew their personal rivalry.

St. Louis had a 4-4 record against the Yankees last year but two of his decisions were dramatic 3-2 decisions over Newcombe. Those were only losses charged to big decisions in seven decisions against the Yankees.

There are the probable opening day pitching assignments based on the pitchers' past performance, reputations, their showing in the spring and their previous records against the opposing clubs this year's records in parentheses.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Philadelphia at Brooklyn—Robinson (23-14) vs. Newcombe (20-5)
Pittsburgh at New York—Friend (10-7) vs. Antonelli (14-16)
St. Louis at Cincinnati—Haddix (16-6) vs. Nuxhall (17-12)
Chicago at Milwaukee—Rush (11-11) vs. Buhl (13-11)

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Baltimore at Boston—Wilson (18-8) or Wight (6-8) vs. Sullivan (13-13)
New York at Washington—Ford (27-7) vs. Stone (6-13)
Kansas City at Detroit—Kellner (1-8) vs. Garver (12-16)
Cleveland at Chicago—Lemon (18-10) vs. Donovan (15-9)

Sneed Favored At Greensboro Opening Today

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Sam Sneed's annual spring golfing tonic, the $12,500 Greater Greensboro Open tournament, opened today with the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., pro the "people's choice."

Sam won the inaugural in 1938 and came back to win the event for the fifth time last spring. Regardless of how he has fared during the winter, Sam's game suddenly begins to click when he hits Greensboro.

In the last seven years he never has finished worse than third. Sam played only a few winter tournaments before finishing in a tie for fourth in the Masters Sunday. He hustled here from Augusta to begin practice over the par 71 Starmount course, a 6,723 yarder.

Professional golf's youth movement, which made major advances during the winter tour, was represented by Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill.; Mike Fetickich of Mahopac, N. Y.; Gardner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla., and Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N. Y., all tournament winners in the last month.

Other major money winners this year who are in the field of 150 are Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dow Finsterwald of Odessa, Tex.; Art Wall of Homesdale, Pa., who was a stroke behind Sneed last year; Jay Hebert, Sanford, Fla.; George Bayer, Cincinnati, and Doug Ford, Mahopac, N. Y., the 1954 Greensboro winner.

The Starmount course opens with four rugged holes, which Sneed describes as "among the meanest anywhere. The sluggers like Sneed and Bayer get their chance on the 600-yard seventh hole, the first par five on the narrow, well-trapped layout.

One 18-hole round will be played daily, with the field out at half on Saturday and Sunday.

Fights

Racer Says Drivers Should Have Extensive Training

By STEVE LOWELL
ALBUQUERQUE (AP)—A member of a big family of auto racers says all adult drivers, as well as kids, should be run through an intensive training course.

In addition, he says they should be given driving tests every time they renew their licenses and they should be required to meet physical standards in periodic checks—like airplane pilots.

"If more stress were placed on driver training programs," says Jerry Unser, "there would be a lot less accidents on the highways. Officials should run adults through those courses—not just the kids."

Unser ought to know what he's talking about. His father, a Colorado Springs, Colo., butcher raced motorcycles before autos got a good start. Jerry and his two brothers, Joe and Louis, raced cycles and then cars. Now Jerry has introduced his four sons to auto racing, and they are making names for themselves.

A good deal of their training, of course, is what to do in emergency situations like surprise skids and blowouts, one of the prime causes of highway accidents.

"Driving courses should include intentional incidents like blowouts," Unser says, "and they should include training in controlling skids. Two things are causing most of the highway slaughter—lack of driver knowledge and fatigue."

Unser, who operates a garage for sports and race cars, used to have a filling station in connection with it, and he's seen his share of heavily-lidded drivers.

"I used to watch these tired drivers come in, throw water on their faces and brag about driving two days and two nights with no rest. They were so dazed they were almost blind."

"Driving courses should include intentional incidents like blowouts," Unser says, "and they should include training in controlling skids. Two things are causing most of the highway slaughter—lack of driver knowledge and fatigue."

Unser says there are two primary rules to good driving—"keep both hands on the wheel and your eyes on the road."

Although he has driven the rugged Pike's Peak race and the more rugged Pan-American race across Mexico, and rigged movie auto "accidents," Unser says, "I've never had a broken bone except when I fell over a gas-pump hose once and broke my hip."

He attributes his "luck" to knowledge of how to control skids and other accidental incidents and to good driving habits.

"It takes quite a while to get a hand back into position on the wheel," he says, "so leave both of them there. You have instant control with one hand through only about one-quarter of a turn on the wheel, but with both hands on it, you have control through almost two-thirds of the turn."

"And don't take your eyes off the road. That's the reason I object to disconcerting things like roadside advertising. It distracts the driver, and a driver that looks around is the one who usually gets in trouble. In an emergency, you've got to bring your eyes back to the road, and you'd be surprised how long it takes."

After Hitters' Year, Signs Hurlers Are Back From Exile

By The Associated Press
After a hitters' year in which there were only two 20-game winners among major league pitchers in 1955, there are signs this spring that the hurlers are back from exile.

Detroit and Milwaukee spotlighted the evidence as six pitchers breezed through 14 scoreless innings before the managers called it quits at Terre Haute, Ind., yesterday. There were 16 hits—all singles—but nary a runner got past second base.

Virgil Trucks, Dick Marlowe and Pete Wojey checked the free-swinging Braves on six hits. The Tigers got 10 from Lew Burdette, Red Murff and Humberot Robinson.

At Washington the Senators' Camilo Pascual and Pete Ramos duelled the Brooklyn Dodgers' Carl Erskine and Don Newcombe on even terms for eight innings before Pete Runnels lashed one of Newk's fast ones for an inside-the-park home run in the ninth to edge the world champs 2-1.

Newcombe, who paired with Philadelphia's Robin Roberts as the only 20-game winners in the majors last season gave up only one other hit in his 3-1-3 innings and fanned the side in order in the eighth. The pitching foursome struck out 15 despite 48-degree temperatures.

Elsewhere, Johnny Antonelli, bidding to return to the 29-wins group after a 19-16 disappointment in '55, struck out eight while scattering five hits and walking three in his seven innings as the New York Giants whacked the Cleveland Indians 5-1. Bob Lemon and Gail Harris made homers off Earlly Wynn and Mike Garcia.

Baltimore's Orioles beat the Chicago Cubs 5-4, shutting out the Bruins until the ninth when Monte Irvin opened with a homer and Jim King came through with a three-run clout. Jim Wilson, the Birds' starter and winner, and Dave Pope homered off loser Russ Meyer.

The St. Louis Cardinals provided the big hitting of the day with Wally Moon, Stan Musial and Hank Sauer tagging Jack Harshman for homers to overhaul a three-run Chicago lead and beat the White Sox 5-3.

Dale Long drove in three runs, two on a homer off Art Ditmar, as Pittsburgh beat Kansas City 5-3. Bob Friend gave the A's a scattered seven hits and struck out Gus Zernial four times.

The New York Yankees and Cincinnati hooked up in a shabby, eight-error scuffle won by the Redlegs 7-5 with the benefit of five unearned runs on five Yank errors—three by rookie shortstop Jerry Lumpe. Bill Skowron and Al Silvera homered for New York.

Texas Coaching School Officials Announced Today

EDNA, Tex. (AP)—Officials for the all-star football and basketball games at the Texas Coaching School in Lubbock Aug. 5-10 were announced today.

All of the officials are being furnished by the South Plains Officials and Coaches Association at Lubbock. L. W. McConachie, executive vice-president of the Texas High School Coaches Association, said.

In football the officials will be: Quinn Connelley, referee; Ed Haley, head linesman; George Philbrick, field judge, and Curtis Barrett, back judge.

Pheasant Quandary Confronts Arcaro

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Arcaro is in a quandary. But it is a pleasant problem that confronts the nation's best known jockey.

He must decide sometime before May 5 whether to ride Nashua, America's glamor horse, in the $50,000 added Grey Lag Handicap at Jamaica or Head Man in the $125,000 Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. Both will be run in the same day.

A victory aboard Nashua would give him the distinction of being astride the world's leading money winning horse on the day he passed Citation's earnings of $1,085,760. A triumph with C.V. Whitney's Head Man would be Eddie's sixth Kentucky Derby success. No other jockey has more than three.

"I would rather win the Derby," said Arcaro. "There are not too many shots left for me at it." Eddie is 40 years old and has been riding for a quarter century.

"Actually I have not made up my mind," Arcaro added. "First I want to talk to Mr. Fitz (Trainer James Fitzsimmons) of Nashua."

Earlier, Mr. Fitz said "Arcaro is Nashua's jockey and I expect him to ride my horse in the Grey Lag." But the 31-year-old trainer added "It is a matter that Eddie will have to decide himself."

Syl Veitch, trainer of Head Man, said he was going ahead on the assumption that Eddie will be on his horse, who is expected to be one-third of the powerful Whitney entry which also includes Career Boy and Born Mighty.

Arcaro himself is high on Head Man even after seeing Career Boy come from last place to win the mile and a sixteenth of the Gotham Stakes by 3 lengths at Jamaica yesterday.

"My horse never has been over a distance of ground," said Eddie, "but at a shorter distance he looked as good to me as Career Boy."

Head Man came from off the pace to beat Nail, Mrs. A. A. Bigelow's Derby hopeful, by a neck in the 6 furlongs of the Experimental Handicap 10 days ago. Yesterday, over the longer route, Nail was third as Career Boy put on his great stretch drive under Eric Guerin.

Evening to reduce the field to 40 for tomorrow's semifinals. Championship bouts are scheduled for Saturday night.

Idaho State, with four undefeated boxers and one defending champion, is picked to unseat Michigan State—defending team champion. However, the Spartans are given a chance to repeat. Louisiana State and Wisconsin are rated as the darkhorses.

Sluggers From Twenty Schools In NCAA Tourney

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A star peppered field of 67 student sluggers began swinging today in the 19th annual NCAA Boxing Tournament.

Two defending champions, 12 undefeated punchers and several high overed team entries were among the representatives of 20 colleges and universities that opened action at the University of Wisconsin field house.

At stake were the team title and 10 individual championships plus an automatic berth in the Olympic tryouts next October for the title winners.

Today's program included 11 bouts this afternoon and 17 this

Big State League Features Drastic Opening Changes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Class B Big State League, one of the most drastically changed circuits in professional baseball, opens its tenth season Thursday night.

It's virtually unrecognizable from the league that was organized in 1947. Only two clubs that were in it then—Waco and Wichita Falls—are in the circuit this season.

Only three that were in it last year are back. They are Waco, Port Arthur and Corpus Christi. New members are Victoria, Lubbock, Abilene, Wichita Falls and Beaumont.

Opening the race Thursday night will be this schedule: Corpus Christi at Victoria. Lubbock at Abilene. Wichita Falls at Waco. Beaumont at Port Arthur.

Hal Sayles, the new league president, predicts a marked attendance increase over last year when the circuit hit it's all-time low with 415,211.

Corpus Christi is anticipating 150,000 for the season. Lubbock and Abilene think they'll draw better than 100,000.

It's the maiden voyage of Victoria in professional baseball. And this city is being picked as the one to beat in the battle for the pennant.

Sports Briefs

NEW YORK — Career Boy ($4.30) came from last in the last half mile to score a 3-length victory in the Gotham Stakes at Jamaica.

BOWIE, Md. — Roman Rocket (016) led all the way to win the Barclay Purse at Bowie.

MIAMI, Fla. — All ($11.30) gained a half-length decision in the Oleander Purse at Gulfstream.

SAN BRUNO, Calif. — Fathers Boy ($8.40) held on in the stretch to beat off the late challenge of Getawayway to capture top event at Tanforan.

Remember When...

50 years ago
B. F. Henry and family, who arrived in Artesia about two months ago, returned Wednesday to their home in Bentonville, Ark.

Grant Sooter, in company of about half-a-dozen friends of Oklahoma Territory, are here to pick up some nice bargains with a view to locating.

Mrs. Ella Davidson, landlady of the Gibson Hotel, has returned after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. J. O. Church and others at Roswell.

20 years ago
The most destructive fire to occur here in several years swept the huge Bullock warehouse at an early hour Friday morning. E. F. Bullock, owner said he estimated the loss at about $15,000 or better.

Mrs. W. C. Gray left Saturday for Arp, Tex., to visit her daughter, Mrs. Carl Joiner.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Coll and Mrs. Reed Brainard visited their daughters, Miss Marion Coll and Miss Peggy Brainard, who are students at C.I.A., Denton, Tex.

10 years ago
Mrs. C. L. Anthis was elected president of the Volunteer Class of the First Christian Church. Mrs. W. T. Halderman was elected vice president, and Mrs. C. E. Johns, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Key of Idaho, Tex., are visiting their son and family, Clarence Key.

Sparkman and Sen. George (D-Ga.) also said they thought Stevenson now is out in front for the nomination. Sparkman said the Illinois primary results gave Stevenson's candidacy a "tremendous shot in the arm."

Stevenson himself said in Sanford, Fla., that "in view of the fact that Illinois is normally a Republican state, I regard the returns as reflecting significant gains for the Democrats."

Eisenhower offered no comment on the Illinois results, except to extend what press secretary Hagerty said was the President's "deep appreciation to those in Illinois who expressed their confidence in him and his administration."

Cost of the San Juan-Cham project will be about 135 million dollars. It will include a tunnel under mountains between the San Juan and the Rio Grande. Each year, 235,000 acre feet of water would be diverted into the Chama and thence into the Rio Grande from the San Juan.

The Navajo Irrigation Project would cost about 140 million dollars and supply water for Navajo land in New Mexico, taking water from Navajo Reservoir.

The Animas-LaPlata irrigation project would cost 80 million dollars and irrigate 66,000 acres in Colorado and 20,540 in New Mexico, 10,000 of which would be newly irrigated land.

We are on our way, and 700 pounds per acre is not an impossible yield.
"Therefore, if we are to have high cotton production per acre we have to have some device to bring our expanding agriculture production under control. The soil bank since it was first advocated by Henry Wallace in 1937 and as it was again advocated by President Eisenhower and Secretary Benson in 1956, is the best single device that can be used to bring where it may strike.

Anderson opened his talk with a defense of the battle-scarred farm bill. Congress passed it yesterday and sent it to the White House.
Anderson said:
"This is a difficult time to be talking about farm problems and particularly about cotton. The Senate took weeks to pass a farm bill. About a year ago the House passed a farm bill also. The two bills were far apart. Now the conferees have spent two weeks trying to bring them together into something that will receive presidential attention.
"You will notice I did not say 'will receive presidential approval.' I have not been able to determine accurately for myself whether the program was to produce a bill that the President would veto in the hope that some slight political value may result, or whether it was planned to work out a bill that the President could sign."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. Anderson and Chavez (D-NM) were announced as paired yesterday when the Senate passed the compromise farm bill 50-35 and sent it to President Eisenhower. Chavez was announced as for the bill, paired with Sen. Robertson (D-Va.) and Anderson against it, paired with Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.).

Also appearing before councilmen was Maurice Phillips, Civil Defense director of the Artesia district, who requested the city try to secure federal and state funds earmarked for community civil defense.

A Ground Observer Corps observation tower will have to be constructed here, Phillips said, and volunteer labor is available but donation of materials for the tower is not. He said the only money presently available is $30 contributed by the Lions club for first aid equipment in Corps' headquarters. He pointed out that $943,000 in federal Civil Defense funds were spent in the State last year.

Mayor Yeager said he would get off a letter today to the State CD director requesting that Artesia also be allotted funds for the project.
A siren for Civil Defense operations which would not be confused with the city's fire alarm will be necessary, councilmen decided. A steam and air signal or a moaning siren was suggested.

"Now that we have joined the brink of the year club," Anderson said, "no one knows where the 1956 salvation will take place. I can only predict that it will probably result in the same political disaster as have these past endeavors."
"We have won the cities after one of the brinks. We won the legislative after another brink. We won the governorship and control of the House and Senate after a third brink."
"What can the fourth brink bring us except the presidency itself?"
The senator reviewed cases of government officials leaving national offices and said they "all left Washington under a cloud." He said therefore the present administration's "great crusade has failed the people. It promised them

Signs Vary For Cancer Of Respiratory Tract

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
LEARNING to recognize cancer's various danger signals might save your life.
Maybe you already know the seven general signals. That's fine as far as it goes. But I think all of you should be acquainted with the specific symptoms of cancer wherever it may strike.

Warning Signs
Warning signs vary greatly even when the cancer is confined to the respiratory tract.
Like most cancers, those of the respiratory tract are likely to develop in later life—particularly after 40. Men seem to be more susceptible than women.
Cancer of the larynx—the area where the nose passages enter the back of the throat and where the throat enters the gullet—may be signaled by lumps or sores. Maybe swallowing will be painful or the victim will have a prolonged sore throat.
Heavy Nosebleeds
Frequent and heavy nosebleeds that are difficult to control and often seem to occur without cause, especially in young adults, may be an indication of cancer of the larynx. Another clue is a heavy foul-smelling drip at the back of the throat.
Cancer of the larynx or voice box may be indicated by a persistent hoarseness, change in voice or an obstruction to breathing. A persistent cough may be another sign.

And extra mucus in the throat, accompanied by a frequent desire to spit, may indicate something seriously wrong. Better see your doctor also if eating or drinking frequently sends you into fits of coughing with a feeling that "something went down the wrong way." This might be the beginning of cancer of the esophagus.
Because early detection of bronchogenic (lung) cancer is difficult, you should be especially alert for the following symptoms.
A hacking cough which hangs on longer than the usual cold cough, especially if it produces blood. Obscure chest pain, unexplained fever, hoarseness or night sweats.
Of course, these symptoms do not necessarily mean you have cancer. But they do mean you should see your doctor quickly.
QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. T.: Is there any value in eye exercises of the muscles of the eye in cases of nearsightedness?
A.: Although certain eye exercises can train a person who is nearsighted to see a little better, the actual deformity in focusing is not corrected.

Candidate Charges 'Politics' In Ferguson-Steere Matter

ALBUQUERQUE (Special)—Charges that the Corporation Commission is withholding a decision on the vital Ferguson-Steere matter for "political reasons" was made Tuesday by Mrs. Evelyn Robinson, a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the Corporation Commission.

Declaring that the Corporation Commission should come to decision and either exonerate or fix the blame on the company in question, Mrs. Robinson said that just postponing the decision is neither helping the public nor the industry at large.
By delaying the decision, she mandos had returned to their base in Gaza after staging a series of 50 raids. Official confirmation was lacking in Cairo, which has disclaimed responsibility for the attacks, but an Egyptian Embassy spokesman in Damascus said the group had headed back after making its retaliations for the Israeli shelling last Thursday of the Gaza Strip, in which 64 Arabs were killed and 102 wounded.

In Cairo, U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold held a three-hour meeting with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi, his fourth with Egyptian officials since arriving there Tuesday on his Middle East peace mission. Then another shift in his plans was reported.

An informed source said Hammarskjold will remain in Cairo until Saturday, but spend the rest of today and tomorrow in conferences with his own staff. The original schedule called for a probable second meeting with Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser tomorrow and then Hammarskjold's departure for Beirut, Lebanon, his temporary headquarters.

"The reason is a good one," the informant said.
There was no other elaboration. A Foreign Ministry spokesman added Israel takes a "grave view of the Egyptian planes' penetration into Israeli territory."
"The incident must be seen against the background of uninterrupted Egyptian aggression which reached a new peak in recent days," he said.

Primary Month Away

THE New Mexico primary election is only a month away and although pleas have been sounded for months there will be those not registered and not qualified to vote.

It is also true there will be those who forget, neglect or refuse to go to the polls on May 8 to cast their ballots. It is true, of course, only those registered as Democrats or Republicans can vote in the primary because only these two parties have primaries.

The voter registered as an independent can not ballot in a primary although he or she certainly can vote as they please in a general election. They are only denied this right when the parties are selecting their nominees.

There are being some predictions made as to the number of votes that will be cast but we expect everyone will agree that only about 50 percent or a few more of the registered voters will take the trouble to go to the polls and cast their ballots.

It has frequently been said there are always sufficient votes at home to change an election. Often times candidates or party leaders win elections with the votes at home.

We appreciate fully it is not always convenient or easy to go and vote. We realize there are times when it seems like more trouble than it is worth. There are times when it seems that we have merely wasted our vote.

But all of us reserve the right and are entitled to the right to criticize party nominees and party candidates and public officials. We have a perfect right to voice our complaints about their attitudes, their actions, the manner in which they serve the public or their lack of service.

These complaints, however, accomplish very little when they are voiced in a letter to the editor; to a friend on the street corner; or even in the place we work.

The only voice we really have in our government affairs is the ballot box and when we refuse to take advantage of that—then we have about sacrificed any right to complain.

We are hoping we will not only go to the polls in record numbers for the primary election but we also hope we will set a new high for the percentage of registered voters balloting in the general election.

Long discussion by councilmen centered around a gas line which was damaged in early March by city maintenance men when they were installing a ground wire near rental property of Joe Allen.

Gas Bills were said to have doubled for the renter from $12.68 on Feb. 14, to $25.90 March 14 because of the damage.

The gas line was "taped" on the same day workmen cut the line. City Supervisor Doug Fowler said, but plumbers were sent out later to repair the line to eliminate leakage. Councilmen sought to determine the liability of the city or the gas company to pay the difference in the tenant's March 14 gas bill.

The line was "taped" by the gas company and the city paid the plumbing bill which finally repaired the line. Mayor Yeager was asked to consult with both Allen and the gas company and advise the council at the next meeting.

Bills were signed for payment and the city supervisor was advised to save the city's money by long-range or wholesale purchases where possible.

Re-assessment at $237,000 valuation of the municipal hospital was said to require higher payment of $29.66 for the final premium on a 3-year fire insurance policy to expire in February, 1957. The present hospital insurance payment was termed "too low" for complete coverage on out-moded valuation at $87,000. Councilmen did not officially act on the recommendation.

Amendment to the ruling regarding salary payment to sick or injured city employees was discussed. Councilmen felt some ruling is needed for continuing the pay of long-service and supervisory personnel for temporary illness or injury which keeps them off the job beyond the 15 days which is presently allowed. The amendment will be studied and presented to the council at the next meeting.

Mrs. S. P. Yates, Mrs. M. G. Goodwin and Mrs. E. E. Kinney. Each council representative offered suggestions for civic improvement to be presented to the Commission meeting April 19.

Another committee was appointed to select a person to receive Life Membership certificates which will be given to participating P-TA units for issuance. It is composed of Mrs. Ray Fagan, Mrs. Wallace Beck and Mrs. Harry Hasebly.

All council chairmen were reminded to have their annual reports filed with the president by May 1.

Mrs. S. P. Yates, program chairman, urged a large attendance of P-TA members at the evaluation meeting May 7 at Hermosa school.

order, that unless "all of it" could be introduced no part of it should be. He requested Hanagan allow him to read the entire statement of Sheriff Martin. Judge Ellicott refused the request.

Definite names of any public officials to whom the alleged bribes were paid were not forthcoming in witnesses' statements, under cross-examination.

Archer demanded dismissal of the charges against his client on grounds of insufficient evidence. Judge Ellicott denied the motion. Amounts of $40, $30, $20 and $15 allegedly paid at various times to an Artesia police officer by the accused were cited in confused sequence by Martin while on the witness stand. He said he had been told by parties questioned in the investigation of the case that a total of $150 to $200 for police protection had been paid over a period of months to "the Chief," by Adnanandus.

Former Police Chief Frank Powell's name was used at various times by witnesses, defense and State's attorneys. Powell was suspended by city councilmen last week following a break of the alleged bribery case. He faces charges of accepting bribery on four counts pending his return here from a Durant, Okla., hospital, where he is ill with diabetes.

Gambling and illegal sale of women and liquor was cited at Adnanandus' home on Silver Street by witnesses, as well as at a cafe run by Ross and Sanders. Adnanandus was said by witnesses to be "running girls," "gambling parties" and "selling liquor" at an Artesia hotel where he has been a bell hop for several months.

Wadley, who is held on breaking and entering charges in Chaves county, frankly admitted on the witness stand that he is a professional gambler and that on numerous occasions he bought and sold liquor in the defendants' places.

Councilman George Ferriman was appointed by the Mayor to consult with the Library Board to determine when money will be wanted for the new building so the bonds may be readied for sale to the State or to private bond buying firms.

In Jordan: An Unnatural Calm Like A Lull Before The Storm

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of five articles by the Associated Press, exploring the plight of the Middle East.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP)—Here on the edge of the volcano there is an unnatural calm like the lull before the summer storm.

"Israel has humiliated the Arabs again," leading Arabs are saying, "but we must wait. We are not strong enough yet."

There is clearly a feeling among leading Jordanians that time is running out for Israel.

"Why did they attack in the Gaza Strip?" one Arab leader asked me. "It was because Israel is desperate. She knows we are getting stronger every day. She must provoke us to action that will bring Western intervention and freeze the status quo so she will be safe. But we will not fall for this trick."

Yet the situation here is full of danger. In stone huts, tin shacks and tents on the Jebels hills around Amman there is far less calm.

Passions among the half million Arab refugees in Jordan run higher with each report of an Israeli attack.

This confused little nation has been thrust suddenly to the forefront of Middle East power politics. The entire Western defense position is linked up with its future. That is why pressures bear down so heavily on the shoulders of the young king who would rather think about dual carterburtons, jet planes and thrills than politics. But the threat to Hussein's throne is implicit in today's situation.

Jordan has become the prize of the political tug of war between Egypt's Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and Iraq's Premier Nuri Said.

Since the September Czech arms deal, Nasser has been the hero here. Suddenly, overnight, there was a drop in his stock among the refugees—who are a powerful political force in this country. Palestinians were killed in the latest attacks and there was wrath among fellow Palestinian refugees here. They are asking loudly why Nasser is not using his shiny new Communist arms.

Jordan today has a million and a half people. A third of these are refugees from Israel. Another third are of that part of Palestine annexed by Jordanian King Abdullah in the Arab-Israel war and what was the poorest part of Palestine became the richest part of Jordan. The rest are "east bank" Transjordanians of whom three quarters are nomad Bedouins whose way of life is virtually unchanged from Bible times.

From a nation which was hardly more than an unsinkable British aircraft carrier in the Middle East, it is developing into a country with a split personality. It is under terrific pressure from other Arab states to break all ties with Britain and the West.

Today this kingdom—dependent on Britain for its economic and military survival—typifies the ferment of the whole Arab world. Young King Hussein considers he has a mission. He still hopes he can help lay the foundation of Arab unity and is making earnest gestures toward Syria. But circumstances are against him.

The price for even a semblance of unity with the Syrians and Egyptians is to break with Britain. Hussein in Western-oriented and educated.

Britain is connected with the Baghdad Pact, Jordan is linked in a pact with Iraq—thus Jordan willy-nilly has a link with the Baghdad treaty, the target of immense propaganda by the Egypt-Saudi Arabian-Syria bloc. The influence of Egypt's Nasser complicates the situation here. He has been a hero since the arms deal. Informed opinion here is that Israeli attacks are aimed at ealling Nasser's bluff and shouting him off his white horse as Arab liberator.

Trimming Nasser down will not help Hussein. It is bound to breed disillusionment and anger among Palestinian refugees. Inaction in face of Israeli attacks carries for Jordan a threat that mobs will be turned out on the streets of Amman with outraged Palestinians shouting that the time has arrived for "fire and iron."

Ferment of this sort, such as that stirred up the time Britain tried to force this country into the Baghdad Pact, poses a threat to the throne itself. Hussein has been enjoying a wave of popularity since he dismissed Gen. Sir John Bagot Glubb, but the influence and example of Nasser is a heavy influence, even in the Arab Legion. There even is talk of a possible rise here of a strong man from the Legion ranks. One of those mentioned in this respect is Lt. Col. Ali Abu Nawar, a young officer who was the king's aide-de-camp. The so-called Free Officers' group reminds an observer of Nasser's revolutionary committee. But the king remains friendly with Nawar and apparently feels things are under control since he bowed to demands for the Arabization of the Legion.

The danger of the West here lies in the Nuri-Nasser struggle for Jordan. If Cairo wins and Jordan becomes "liberated," Iraq will be isolated and her position will deteriorate. Iraq is no stronger than 68-year-old Nuri, whose health is beginning to fade. It is unlikely Iraq could long withstand the terrific pressure to pull out of the Baghdad Pact.

In the light of British withdrawals and troubles elsewhere, Jordan is the last real toehold in the Middle East. Pressure on Hussein from Saudi Arabian money and Egyptian strategy is constant for a complete break with Britain.

There are some possible breaks in the generally gloomy outlook. First, the Arabs are unready for war and do not want war at this moment, though they can be forced into it by an Israeli attack.

Second, there is some feeling the Soviet Union might have outsmarted itself in upsetting the arms balance, making it an urgent matter of Western economic survival for positive action to keep the situation from exploding into a full war.

Tomorrow: Israel.

Cole Believes Hoodlums' Attack Has Backfired

CHICAGO (AP)—Negro singer Nat (King) Cole, attacked by some white men while performing in Alabama, today said "It will do a lot of good for the cause of integration."

"I was a guinea pig for some hoodlums who thought they could hurt men and frighten me and that way keep other Negro entertainers from the South," Cole said.

"But what they did has backfired on them—because those thousands of white people in the audience could see how terrible it is for an innocent man to be subjected to such barbaric treatment."

Cole, one of the nation's most popular vocalists, was singing before a white audience of 4,000 in Birmingham's Municipal auditorium Tuesday night when a group of white men charged on the stage. Cole was hit and fell against a piano stool. He flew to Chicago where a doctor ordered a short rest to recuperate from minor injuries to his back, right arm and left leg.

The 37-year-old Alabama-born singer said "Those men who attacked me were trying to start a riot. I don't think there was anything personal—that is, that they were against me as Nat Cole—but I do think that it was meant to be a demonstration against integration."

"When you think about it," Cole said, "there was integration as far as having a mixed group perform on stage. Some people are against that. Well, at the other people on stage with me—Ted Heath and his orchestra and the Four Freshmen and June Christy—are all white."

Asked whether he would continue performing before segregated audiences in the South, Cole said: "Sure I will. I'm not a political figure or some controversial person. I'm just an entertainer, and it's my job to perform for people. I owe to my Negro fans as well as my white fans to perform for them. If I stop, because of some stateraw, I'm deserting the people who are important to me. In any way, I may be helping to bring harmonious relations between people through my music."

"As for challenging segregation, it's foolish to think that a performer like me can go into a Southern city and demand that the audiences be integrated. The Supreme Court is having a hard time integrating schools, so what chance do I have to integrate audiences?"

World Today How U. S. Would Act To Keep Peace In Mid-East

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nothing this government has said actually pledges it to get into Middle East fighting—in order to stop it—if war breaks out there between Israelis and Arabs. If war starts, the United States may go in.

How would it go about it? In the first place, President Eisenhower almost certainly would seek approval by Congress, just as he got advance approval in 1955 to try to stop any Red Chinese attempt to take Formosa.

He would also almost certainly seek approval by the United Nations, just as President Truman got U. N. approval for sending troops into Korea.

On May 25, 1950—one month to the day before the North Korean Communists attacked South Korea—the United States, Britain and France were concerned with keeping peace in the Middle East.

The Israelis and Arabs had fought a bloody war there. The three big powers on May 25 announced an agreement to take immediate action if either Israelis or Arabs violated the armistice.

They said they would act "both within and outside the United Nations to prevent such violations." They undoubtedly were thinking of the U. N. Security Council, where the Russians were in a good spot to block action in the Middle East.

This is why: Under the U. N. Charter the members—there are 78 now—pledge themselves to take collective action to keep peace and stop acts of aggression.

Under the charter, as originally set up, the 11-member Security Council was supposed to make any such decision for the U. N. to act collectively. But such a decision requires unanimous approval of the council—the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

If one of the big five vetoed such action, there presumably could be none. And Russia, as it had demonstrated often, might use the veto.

So, by saying they would act within or outside the U. N. to stop any Middle East aggression, the United States, Britain, and France seemed to be saying they'd act if Russia casts a veto.

On June 23, 1950, the day the war began, the Council met. With Russia absent, it approved a cease-fire resolution that paved the way for Truman on June 27 to send American forces into Korea to stop the war.

That same day, June 27, the Council passed an American-authorized resolution calling on U. N. members to help South Korea repel the North Korean (Communist) attack.

That incident made it a cinch Russia wouldn't be absent from the council if such circumstances arose again. If then it cast a veto on U. N. action to stop fighting, the world organization would be paralyzed.

The United States took steps to make that impossible. On Nov. 3, 1950, it got the U. N. General Assembly—all members take part and there is no veto—to approve this plan:

If in the future the Security Council did not make a decision to stop the outbreak of war by throwing U. N. forces into it, the General Assembly could vote by a two-thirds majority for U. N. action.

So if war should break out in the Middle East—and if Eisenhower wants to put American forces into the area to bring peace—he will probably first get congressional approval, then seek Security Council approval. If he fails there, he then could seek approval by the General Assembly where the Communists are outnumbered.

Former ECA Head Urges A Committee For Overseas Aid

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Paul G. Hoffman, former head of the Economic Cooperation Administration, today urged formation of a committee of top civilian experts to develop an expanded program of overseas aid to counter new Kremlin tactics.

In an address prepared for delivery at the opening session of the third national study conference on the church and economic life, Hoffman said:

"Such a committee would appraise the needs and resources of new nations, analyzing the capacity of new and underdeveloped countries to administer economic programs and offer recommendations as to which U. S. agencies are best qualified to carry out the programs."

Hoffman, now chairman of the board of Studebaker-Packard Corp., said the new leaders in Moscow "put their stress upon trade offers and offers of economic aid."

"To counter this," Hoffman said, "we must have an all-out effort for peace. We must wage peace with imagination, boldness and dedication."

He estimated the cost of "waging the peace" over the next five years in the "neighborhood of 200 billion dollars," and declared: "But sharing our wealth is no solution. It would beggar rather than help. If, however, we as a nation, and we as a people are willing to accept leadership in an all-out effort to achieve a durable peace, that commitment carries implications which may generate the answers we seek."

More than 400 clergy and lay protestant leaders are attending the four-day conference sponsored by the National Council of Churches, in cooperation with major protestant denominations. The theme of the conference is "The Christian conscience and an economy of abundance."

The average American of 60 can expect an average 15 years of life but only 9 years of work.

NEW MEXICAN ELECTED DETROIT (AP)—Melvin G. Fort Sumner, N. M., has been elected vice president of American College Apothecary. He was elected yesterday morning at the meeting of the group in conjunction with the convention of American Pharmaceutical Association.
