Serve Salads for Afternoon Snacks
(See Recipes Below)

Entertaining Easily

Wartime brought back a simplicity of entertaining which will last for some time. We learned that an elaborate meal need not be served for a gathering to be successful. In fact, the simplest of food well prepared and nicely served will bring cheers from any crowd.

A salad with tiny sandwiches served with tea is ample refreshment for an afternoon meeting of the club. A mouth-watering coffee cake with coffee is ideal for an evening get-together. Chocolate milk and sandwiches or a casserole is perfect fare for the children's party.

With sugar still among the scarce items, it's a good idea to conserve on this precious foodstuff whenever possible. Judicious use of sugar substitutes will pull you through many a scarce period, and salads and sandwiches served with beverages will take care of the other times.

When selecting a recipe, check over the amount of sugar required before starting to mix so that you will not be caught short-handed. Consider also whether it is wise to use, say two cups of sugar for a cake, or whether a cake with half or less of that amount couldn't do just as well. It often will.

Many cookies and dessert sauces can be made just as sweet without sugar. These little economies will save sugar for the times when you really need it.

Here are two versatile salads which can easily meet entertaining needs. Both can be served with thin strips of sandwiches to act as a main dish.

Molued Main Dish Salad.

- 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
- ½ cup cold water
- 1 cup tomato juice
- 1 small can salmon, flaked
- 2 diced, hard-cooked eggs
- ½ cup chopped celery
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- Salad greens

Soften gelatin in cold water. Heat tomato juice to boiling. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Chill until partially congealed. Flake salmon; add. Add remaining ingredients. Place in individual ring molds or one 8½-inch mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on bed of lettuce greens and serve with french dressing or mayonnaise.

Lynn Says:

Keep well-groomed: Art gum or wall paper cleaner may be used on light-colored felt hats and kid gloves for cleaning.

Light-colored furs may be cleaned and much improved in appearance by rubbing well with corn meal or flour. Shake out thoroughly and then brush well.

To prevent blisters from new shoes, cover irritated surface or place where shoe is most likely to rub with a small piece of adhesive tape.

To mend woolen garments, ravel a thread from the cloth itself and use for darning.

Lynn Chambers' Menus.

- Roast Loin of Pork
- Candied Apples
- Sweet Potatoes, Baked
- Buttered Brussels Sprouts
- Biscuits with Jam Beverage
- Pineapple Cole Slaw
- Citrus Chiffon Pie

Frozen Fruit Salad. (Serves 8)

- 1 cup cottage cheese
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup pineapple, finely diced
- 1 cup cherries, pitted
- 1 cup peaches, sliced or diced
- 2 oranges, diced
- 8 marshmallows, quartered
- 1 cup whipping cream
- ½ cup mayonnaise

Combine cheese, salt, fruits and marshmallows, tossing together lightly with a fork. Chill. Whip cream until stiff and combine lightly with mayonnaise. Fold in cheese mixture. Place in freezing tray for three to four hours; or, pack in equal parts of ice and salt for four hours. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with additional whipped cream blended with mayonnaise.

Sandwich Fillings

1. Combine 2 cups ground ham, 5 tablespoons mayonnaise, 5 tablespoons prepared mustard and use on whole wheat or rye bread.

2. Mash 3 ounces of cream cheese with 1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce and 2 tablespoons finely cut chives. Use with rounds of whole wheat or white bread.

3. Combine chopped hard-cooked eggs with minced celery, onion juice, chopped sweet pickle and mayonnaise to moisten. This is good on any type of bread.

4. Combine cottage cheese with chopped dates and preserved ginger and spread on white bread.

5. Mix cottage cheese with chipped, crisp bacon and add salad dressing to moisten.

A fruited coffee cake is always delightful because it has flavor and is appealing to look at. Here is the quick type which uses an easy method with a choice of fruit.

Fruited Coffee Cake.

- 2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ cup fat
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup milk
- 8 apricot halves or
- 4 peach halves or pineapple slices

Sift flour once, measure. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Cut fat into dry ingredients until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Combine egg with milk. Add to dry ingredients. Stir only until mixed. Pour into a greased 8-inch square pan. Leave apricots whole and cut peaches or pineapple in half. Arrange fruit over top of dough. Mix 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, and 1 tablespoon fat together. Sprinkle this mixture over the top. Bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 30 minutes.

Creating a Modern Air About the House

NEW BOOK SHELF LAMP SHADE AND GAY CHINTZ MAKE THIS CHANGE - CURTAINS HANG OVER WALL FROM THE PICTURE MOULDING

WINDOWS SEEM SMALL AND ROOM LACKS COLOR

HOUSES of glass are realities today and, if you want to give any house a modern air, try to make windows seem important.

An inexpensive chintz with grey-green ground and a flower pattern is used for draperies and to trim the couch cover of heavier gray-green cotton material which is also used for the cushions. The glass curtains are hung on rods suspended from the picture moulding with picture wire and hooks. The side drapes are unlined but the valance is made over buckram. Both are tacked to pine strips and are hung with picture hooks. One end of the book shelves is closed in to make a head for the couch. The outside is painted grey-green and the inside dark green. The parchment lamp shade has green bindings.

Man's Brain Proves to Be Superior to Brawn of Jungle Champions

Nature fairly bristles with "Sandows" whose capabilities in the way of strength are almost unbelievable. The fighting strength of a full-grown gorilla is estimated to be equal to that possessed by four strong men.

Once an alligator gets its teeth into anything it never lets go. One investigator proved this in a convincing manner. He thrust a piece of steel, two inches thick, between the jaws of a large alligator. The animal's jaws closed so forcefully on the metal that two of its teeth shot through the top of its jaw.

The tremendous strength of such beasts as the elephant, the bear,

Man, compared with the lower species, is a creature of puny physical power. But in the struggle for survival brains have proved themselves infinitely superior to brawn. Man's strength, intelligently directed, has made him the master of the world.

OVERNIGHT GUEST

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE STORY THUS FAR: Adam Bruce, FBI operator, and Inspector and Mrs. Tope met while on vacation in the North-eastern wilds. Tope discovered the body of a murdered man at the auto camp of Bee Dewain, a friend of Bruce's. Bruce, State Trooper Quill, Nat Cumberland, D. A., and Dr. Medford were called. They decided to keep the murder secret during investigation. Mrs. Tope told her husband that she recognized the body as that of Mr. Ledforge, head of New England utilities. However, New York reported that Ledforge was at his office. Doctor reports showed that man died of ruptured appendix, while tied up. A car believed used by murderer was found.

CHAPTER VI

He looked at Joe Dane in mild triumph. "So that was pretty good for a stab in the dark, Mr. Dane!"

"What's that about heel-plates?" young Dane demanded.

"Well," said Tope, "somebody with heel-plates has walked through the woods near Faraway; and a man with heel-plates left some tracks up at the quarry; and Kell, Holdom's chauffeur, had a pair of shoes with heel-plates on them. They're in his closet down at Holdom's right now."

"Then we want Kell!" Dane exclaimed. "And—Mrs. Kell? Was she running around with Ledforge? We've got to find her too!"

Tope nodded. "It would help a lot," he assented, "if we could talk to her." He took Mrs. Tope's arm. "Let me know when you're ready to salvage the car, Mat. I want to be there. I'll be at the Mill if New York calls."

When Mrs. Tope and the Inspector reached Dewain's Mill, Tope himself went indoors, but she stayed outside. The camp seemed deserted, till Adam Bruce and Bee Dewain, hearing the car arrive, came together from the direction of Faraway.

"Well, you located the car. That's good."

Adam said: "Yes. And I don't know when I've ever had to do anything that scared me more than diving down into that gray water; but I felt the axle, and a wheel." He added: "And while I was doing that, Bee found the man's tracks. What do they mean?"

"You're as bad as Joe Dane, always asking questions. Son," he countered, "how long are you going to hold out on me?"

Adam protested: "Hold out?" But his face was red.

"Why, yes—just that. Why, for instance, does Balsler Vade dislike you?"

"He's just a harmless crank," Adam insisted.

The Inspector relaxed in his chair. "All right, son," he said. "You do as you like about telling me."

Adam hesitated in some distress. "Any idea yet who the dead man may be?" he asked at last.

Tope answered mildly: "Yes, in a way. Mrs. Tope thinks he's Ledforge, the Utilities—Why, what's the matter, Adam?"

For at that name, young Adam Bruce had come to his feet in quick astonishment, stood now leaning over Tope, and cried out:

"Ledforge?"

"Mrs. Tope says so," the old man insisted. "She saw Ledforge once at a stockholders' meeting."

Adam relaxed; he chuckled. "You startled me for a minute," he confessed.

"Yes, I noticed that!" said Tope dryly. "Matter of fact, I meant to!"

"But Mrs. Tope is wrong, Inspector," Adam declared. He hesitated. "I telephoned our people in New York this morning, from Ridgcomb, to ask about Ledforge. He's in New York! I checked on that!"

"Yes, so did we," Tope assented. "Ledforge is in New York, all right. But Adam, how did you happen to think it might be Ledforge?" He looked at the young man shrewdly. "I'm wondering," he said, "if Balsler Vade—you said he was a letter-writing kind of a man—ever wrote a letter to Ledforge?"

Adam surrendered. "All right," he yielded; and he grinned. "I give in. Here it is. But I think Vade's harmless, Tope. Only, Ledforge ruined him, ten years ago, in a water-power project. Since then Vade has been a little cracked on the subject of brooks and streams. I told you about that. He blames Ledforge for spoiling the rivers. Ledforge's office sent over to our people half a dozen letters, pretty wild and extravagant, from this society for the protection of rivers, signed by Vade as secretary, and threatening Ledforge with—fire and brimstone! One of them said something about snatching him up in a fiery chariot, like Elijah or whoever it was; and that suggested kidnaping, so I came up here to see Vade."

He added: "Vade admitted writing the letters, and he dared me to arrest him. He seemed to want to be persecuted, seemed to want publicity, and a chance to tell the world what sort of man Ledforge is. I think he'd like to play the martyr, but Ledforge didn't want to prosecute." He added: "I suppose Ledforge was as anxious to avoid publicity as Vade was to get it."

Tope nodded understandingly. "But after that, naturally you thought of Ledforge—"

"And I checked up," Adam agreed. "And Ledforge is in New York."

Tope beamed. "So this can't be he," he assented. "And Mrs. Tope's mistaken." And he went on to recite to Adam the discoveries of the day. He told the tale of the stolen car, and of Whitlock's inquiries, and of the visit to the Holdom place, and of Miss Nettie Pineyard.

"And Mrs. Kell and Kell have disappeared," he explained. "Holdom was expected home Friday, but he didn't come. Kell came, in the limousine, and drove away in it afterward; and Mrs. Kell drove the coupe away."

Adam ran to quick conjecture. "And Kell joined her later, came

"No, the dead man isn't Mr. Ledforge."

with her here? Then they dumped the coupe in the quarry and headed for Canada?"

"Well, maybe," Tope admitted. "What was it? Jealousy? Is Mrs. Kell—the flighty kind?"

The Inspector said reluctantly: "Well, it looks as if she spent last week-end—ten days ago—with Ledforge somewhere. And if she'd go away with him, maybe she'd go with others. Maybe this dead man—long as he's not Ledforge—was one of them." He slapped his knee in sudden recollection. "We ought to have sent a tracer out after the limousine that Kell drove away in. Adam, do that, will you?"

Adam nodded. "Yes. What else?"

"Why, it just might be that Ledforge is really missing, and they're covering it up in New York."

"I'll find out," Adam promised.

"And one other thing, Adam: May not have any connection, but I'd like to know. Holdom had a plane—pilot named Bob Flint—and it crashed in Long Island Sound on Saturday morning. Flint, he was killed. I'd like to know what made that plane crash. Maybe you can find out through the Department of Commerce."

Adam said: "Sure."

Then they heard voices outside; and Mrs. Tope and Bee Dewain appeared in the open doorway. Bee had sandwiches wrapped in a napkin, and a glass of milk.

Tope chuckled, and looked at Mrs. Tope. "I declare," he exclaimed, "I forgot all about food!" He took the sandwiches and began to eat them comfortably.

Adam said: "Bee, I've got to do some telephoning; don't want the neighbors listening in. Want to run me to town?"

"Take our car," Tope suggested. "No need to bother Miss Dewain. I want to tell her what's been happening." He added with a chuckle: "You'll get back quicker if I keep her here!"

So Adam drove away alone; and Tope told Bee what there was to tell. The girl listened silently till he finished. Then she said:

"No, the dead man isn't Mr. Ledforge. I had a letter from him this

Proper Handling of Insecticides Urged

Best Safety Methods Suggested to Farmers

Simple rules for handling of insecticides include:
Take extra precautions in handling and using the more poisonous insecticides, such as the arsenicals and fluorine compounds.

Do not keep insecticides where foods are stored, and see that they are properly marked.

When mixing or applying, take extreme care to keep ingredients out of the mouth and eyes.

Keep the body well covered. Do

Heavy gloves and goggles are part of safety spraying program.

not spray or dust with legs or arms and shoulders bared.

Burn empty bags which contained insecticide materials.

Guard against leaving residues of insecticides on harvested product.

Most of the insect controls are not good for humans or for farm animals, and some are dangerous. Precautions must be taken in using them, in order to get the best results with maximum safety.

Improved Equipment Water Heater

A portable water heater will be a welcome addition to the farm.

A new portable electric water heater, which needs no water pipe to feed it, has just been announced by Rheem Manufacturing company, San Francisco. It is designed for farms where there is limited or no plumbing.

The new unit can be moved around at will. All it needs is an electric outlet near by. It holds 17 gallons and has automatic control. It can be connected to a water pipe and thereby converted into an automatic heater if plumbing is installed.

Ultraviolet Rays

Bacteria Killer

Invisible bactericidal rays sprayed by a new U-shape ultra-violet lamp can reduce the bacteria count in washed milk cans 96 per cent in one minute, according to a recent Westinghouse research report.

The tests were conducted under conditions of contamination more extreme than ever would be encountered in normal service. The unit consumes less electricity than a 25-watt electric light bulb, and should prove of real value in the milk house and dairy plants. Milk cans, although thoroughly cleaned, often pick up infectious organisms from rinse water and air.

This bactericidal rays lamp can be used in many ways about the dairy. Its main purpose is to kill the bacteria in the milk cans. By proper use of the lamp the quality of the milk can be raised and maintained. The cost of operation is very little and its effectiveness great.

New 'Gold Rush' On in Colorado

It's Hottest Oil Strike in History of the Rocky Mountain Region.

DENVER.—A new gold rush is in full swing in Colorado. For excitement and get-rich-quick possibilities it is reminiscent of the famous stampede to Cripple Creek in the 90s.

Rich oil seeps out of the sandstone and bubbles over the surface of the basin, nestling between lofty plateaus not far from the Utah-Colorado border, according to the Chicago Tribune.

The Rangely oil field is a brand new baby, but geologists already are comparing it with the Oklahoma City pool, which roared into existence with 25,000-barrels-a-day gushers in the 20s, petroleum's flush and fabulous era.

It's the hottest strike in the history of the Rocky mountain region.

Only a few score wells have been completed to date but the United States geological survey estimates there will be at least 800, one well to each 40 acres, and adds that the limits of the field still have not been defined.

Speaking conservatively, major companies with a stake in Rangely predict that the field ultimately will produce 418,000,000 barrels of oil. The Salt Creek field in Wyoming, previously the biggest in the Rockies, had produced 281,500,000 barrels at the start of this year.

Wide Spot in Road.

Before last summer, when the oil industry began sending in thousands of men and huge quantities of drilling equipment, the Rangely basin was a quiet, sparsely settled region where herds of fat cattle and sheep grazed with wild deer on purple sagebrush-covered mountainsides.

The town of Rangely was just a wide spot in the road that meanders across the basin, with a post office, school, general store, and half a dozen scattered dwellings.

A few weeks later heavy oil field trucks had churned the main street into a sea of mud. Frame business buildings of every description sprang up overnight.

J. W. Hays came to Rangely to open a liquor store and "started doing a land-office business right away."

The lumber used in the flooring of his shop was green, and it kind of shrunk, Hays said.

"I had to put linoleum on it so the boys wouldn't drop any thousand dollar bills between the cracks. I never saw anything like this before," he said.

High Rent on Prairie.

Out on a bald prairie far from town, the owner of a dilapidated one room log and mud cabin rented it to a desperate house-hunter—for $75 a month.

At the junction where U. S. highway 40 turns onto the Rangely road an entirely new town—Artesia—blossomed like magic on a few acres of sagebrush, boasting two theaters, stores, pool halls and the inevitable liquor dispensaries and beer emporiums.

On up highway 40 a couple of miles toward the line lies Wiley's resort, the property of Wiley Baucum, whose real bonanza is an artesian water well, from which flows the only pure drinking water in this arid territory. Wiley's water supplies the oil field and the town of Rangely—for a price—and it's generally understood that his water well is more valuable than any oil well around.

But Wiley isn't just standing waiting for the profits. He's building a $75,000 night club which he says will be the finest "between Denver and the West coast."

The boom has echoed all the way to Craig, an established town 110 miles southeast of the field which had 2,000 satisfied souls before the upheaval and now has about twice that many. Craig is the nearest railroad point to Rangely and the funnel through which flows all the massive quantities of drilling equipment headed for the field.

Britain Still Owes U. S.

6 Billion From Last War

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Aside from any new loans, Britain still owes about $6,400,000,000 to the United States on its World War I debt. This figure was supplied by the treasury recently in reply to a reporter's question.

The original loans, made both before and after the 1918 armistice, totalled only $4,277,000,000. Accumulating interest has brought the debt to $6,400,000,000 despite the fact that Britain paid more than $2,000,000,000 before ceasing payments in 1933. In fact, interest is still accumulating and the debt rises every year.

The new financial agreement announced recently does not cancel the World War I debt.

AROUND THE HOUSE

When laundering woolens, be sure to use plenty of soapsuds. It minimizes the rubbing, and therefore preserves the garment longer.

When the family tires of the usual breakfast food, serve big bowls of freshly popped corn with milk or cream, and sugar. It is a swell change.

Book shelves should be cleaned and painted, and books frequently dusted, to prevent the breeding of moths, silverfish, or other book devouring insects.

You can make dress and apron pockets more sturdy by laying a piece of tape on the underside of the garment in line with the pocket top. Stitch it in with the corners.

Remember how you fenced baby in with a flexible gate? Look the old thing up and put it to a brand new use in your garden or at the side of the house. Fasten securely as usual with fastenings at top and bottom instead of at opposite sides. Paint it the color of your house and let a climbing rose grow over it.

Flying Kilometer Is Most Dangerous of Ski Contests

Of the five kinds of skiing contests, the most dangerous is not the Jump but the Flying Kilometer, the object of which is to attain the highest rate of speed between two points on a steep hill usually iced for the event, says Collier's.

Wearing especially built skis, extra wide and loaded with 20 pounds of lead to accelerate descent, the contestants race in a crouched position, steering themselves with handles attached to their skis.

Serenade Cows

In the Swiss Alps, herdsmen call home their cows by playing on an alpenhorn any one of 50 different melodies, called ranz des vaches, which are traditionally used for this purpose.

So Easy! No Cooking. Quick Relief.

Even if you're not interested in saving good money, you surely want a really effective relief for coughs due to colds. So try mixing it yourself in your kitchen, and be ready for a surprise.

It's so easy to mix, a child could do it. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Then fill up with your syrup. This makes a pint—about four times as much for your money. It tastes good—children really like it. It lasts a family a long time, and never spoils.

But what you'll like most is the way it takes right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness, and let's you sleep. You'll say you've never seen its superior.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Try it, and if you're not really delighted, your money will be refunded. —Adv.

Proper Handling of Insecticides Urged

Best Safety Methods Suggested to Farmers

Simple rules for handling of insecticides include:

Take extra precautions in handling and using the more poisonous insecticides, such as the arsenicals and fluorine compounds.

Do not keep insecticides where foods are stored, and see that they are properly marked.

When mixing or applying, take extreme care to keep ingredients out of the mouth and eyes.

Keep the body well covered. Do

Heavy gloves and goggles are part of safety spraying program.

not spray or dust with legs or arms and shoulders bared.

Burn empty bags which contained insecticide materials.

Guard against leaving residues of insecticides on harvested product.

Most of the insect controls are not good for humans or for farm animals, and some are dangerous. Precautions must be taken in using them, in order to get the best results with maximum safety.

Improved Equipment Water Heater

A portable water heater will be a welcome addition to the farm.

A new portable electric water heater, which needs no water pipe to feed it, has just been announced by Rheem Manufacturing company, San Francisco. It is designed for farms where there is limited or no plumbing.

The new unit can be moved around at will. All it needs is an electric outlet near by. It holds 17 gallons and has automatic control. It can be connected to a water pipe and thereby converted into an automatic heater if plumbing is installed.

Ultraviolet Rays

Bacteria Killer

Invisible bactericidal rays sprayed by a new U-shape ultra-violet lamp can reduce the bacteria count in washed milk cans 96 per cent in one minute, according to a recent Westinghouse research report.

The tests were conducted under conditions of contamination more extreme than ever would be encountered in normal service. The unit consumes less electricity than a 25-watt electric light bulb, and should prove of real value in the milk house and dairy plants. Milk cans, although thoroughly cleaned, often pick up infectious organisms from rinse water and air.

This bactericidal rays lamp can be used in many ways about the dairy. Its main purpose is to kill the bacteria in the milk cans. By proper use of the lamp the quality of the milk can be raised and maintained. The cost of operation is very little and its effectiveness great.

New 'Gold Rush' On in Colorado

It's Hottest Oil Strike in History of the Rocky Mountain Region.

DENVER.—A new gold rush is in full swing in Colorado. For excitement and get-rich-quick possibilities it is reminiscent of the famous stampede to Cripple Creek in the 90s.

Rich oil seeps out of the sandstone and bubbles over the surface of the basin, nestling between lofty plateaus not far from the Utah-Colorado border, according to the Chicago Tribune.

The Rangely oil field is a brand new baby, but geologists already are comparing it with the Oklahoma City pool, which roared into existence with 25,000-barrels-a-day gushers in the 20s, petroleum's flush and fabulous era.

It's the hottest strike in the history of the Rocky mountain region.

Only a few score wells have been completed to date but the United States geological survey estimates there will be at least 800, one well to each 40 acres, and adds that the limits of the field still have not been defined.

Speaking conservatively, major companies with a stake in Rangely predict that the field ultimately will produce 418,000,000 barrels of oil. The Salt Creek field in Wyoming, previously the biggest in the Rockies, had produced 281,500,000 barrels at the start of this year.

Wide Spot in Road.

Before last summer, when the oil industry began sending in thousands of men and huge quantities of drilling equipment, the Rangely basin was a quiet, sparsely settled region where herds of fat cattle and sheep grazed with wild deer on purple sagebrush-covered mountainsides.

The town of Rangely was just a wide spot in the road that meanders across the basin, with a post office, school, general store, and half a dozen scattered dwellings.

A few weeks later heavy oil field trucks had churned the main street into a sea of mud. Frame business buildings of every description sprang up overnight.

J. W. Hays came to Rangely to open a liquor store and "started doing a land-office business right away."

The lumber used in the flooring of his shop was green, and it kind of shrank, Hays said.

"I had to put linoleum on it so the boys wouldn't drop any thousand dollar bills between the cracks. I never saw anything like this before," he said.

High Rent on Prairie.

Out on a bald prairie far from town, the owner of a dilapidated one room log and mud cabin rented it to a desperate house-hunter—for $75 a month.

At the junction where U. S. highway 40 turns onto the Rangely road an entirely new town—Artesia—blossomed like magic on a few acres of sagebrush, boasting two theaters, stores, pool halls and the inevitable liquor dispensaries and beer emporiums.

On up highway 40 a couple of miles toward the Utah line lies Wiley's resort, the property of Wiley Baucum, whose real bonanza is an artesian water well, from which flows the only pure drinking water in this arid territory. Wiley's water supplies the oil field and the town of Rangely—for a price—and it's generally understood that his water well is more valuable than any oil well around.

But Wiley isn't just standing waiting for the profits. He's building a $75,000 night club which he says will be the finest "between Denver and the West coast."

The boom has echoed all the way to Craig, an established town 110 miles southeast of the field which had 2,000 satisfied souls before the upheaval and now has about twice that many. Craig is the nearest railroad point to Rangely and the funnel through which flows all the massive quantities of drilling equipment headed for the field.

Britain Still Owes U. S. 6 Billion From Last War

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Aside from any new loans, Britain still owes about $6,400,000,000 to the United States on its World War I debt. This figure was supplied by the treasury recently in reply to a reporter's question.

The original loans, made both before and after the 1918 armistice, totalled only $4,277,000,000. Accumulating interest has brought the debt to $6,400,000,000 despite the fact that Britain paid more than $2,000,000,000 before ceasing payments in 1933. In fact, interest is still accumulating and the debt rises every year.

The new financial agreement announced recently does not cancel the World War I debt.

AROUND THE HOUSE

When laundering woollens, be sure to use plenty of soapsuds. It minimizes the rubbing, and therefore preserves the garment longer.

When the family tires of the usual breakfast food, serve big bowls of freshly popped corn with milk or cream, and sugar. It is a swell change.

Book shelves should be cleaned and painted, and books frequently dusted, to prevent the breeding of moths, silverfish, or other book-devouring insects.

You can make dress and apron pockets more sturdy by laying a piece of tape on the underside of the garment in line with the pocket top. Stitch it in with the corners.

Remember how you fenced baby in with a flexible gate? Look the old thing up and put it to a brand new use in your garden or at the side of the house. Fasten securely as usual with fastenings at top and bottom instead of at opposite sides. Paint it the color of your house and let a climbing rose grow over it.

Flying Kilometer Is Most Dangerous of Ski Contests

Of the five kinds of skiing contests, the most dangerous is not the Jump but the Flying Kilometer, the object of which is to attain the highest rate of speed between two points on a steep hill usually iced for the event, says Collier's.

Wearing especially built skis, extra wide and loaded with 20 pounds of lead to accelerate descent, the contestants race in a crouched position, steering themselves with handles attached to their skis.

OVERNIGHT GUEST
By BEN AMES WILLIAMS WNU FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Adam Bruce, FBI operator, and Inspector and Mrs. Tope met while on vacation in the North-eastern wilds. Tope discovered the body of a murdered man at the auto camp of Bee Dewain, a friend of Bruce's. Bruce, State Trooper Quill, Nat Cumberland, D. A., and Dr. Medford were called. They decided to keep the murder secret during investigation. Mrs. Tope told her husband that she recognized the body as that of Mr. Ledforge, head of New England utilities. However, New York reported that Ledforge was at his office. Doctor reports showed that man died of ruptured appendix, while tied up. A car believed used by murderer was found.

CHAPTER VI

He looked at Joe Dane in mild triumph. "So that was pretty good for a stab in the dark, Mr. Dane!"
 "What's that about heel-plates?" young Dane demanded.
 "Well," said Tope, "somebody with heel-plates has walked through the woods near Faraway; and a man with heel-plates left some tracks up at the quarry; and Kell, Holdom's chauffeur, had a pair of shoes with heel-plates on them. They're in his closet down at Holdom's right now."
 "Then we want Kell!" Dane exclaimed. "And—Mrs. Kell? Was she running around with Ledforge? We've got to find her too!"
 Tope nodded. "It would help a lot," he assented, "if we could talk to her." He took Mrs. Tope's arm. "Let me know when you're ready to salvage the car, Mat. I want to be there. I'll be at the Mill if New York calls."

When Mrs. Tope and the Inspector reached Dewain's Mill, Tope himself went indoors, but she stayed outside. The camp seemed deserted, till Adam Bruce and Bee Dewain, hearing the car arrive, came together from the direction of Faraway.
 "Well, you located the car. That's good."
 Adam said: "Yes. And I don't know when I've ever had to do anything that scared me more than diving down into that gray water; but I felt the axle, and a wheel." He added: "And while I was doing that, Bee found the man's tracks. What do they mean?"

"You're as bad as Joe Dane, always asking questions. Son," he countered, "how long are you going to hold out on me?"
 Adam protested: "Hold out?" But his face was red.
 "Why, yes—just that. Why, for instance, does Balsar Vade dislike you?"
 "He's just a harmless crank," Adam insisted.

The Inspector relaxed in his chair. "All right, son," he said. "You do as you like about telling me."
 Adam hesitated in some distress. "Any idea yet who the dead man may be?" he asked at last.
 Tope answered mildly: "Yes, in a way. Mrs. Tope thinks he's Ledforge, the Utilities—Why, what's the matter, Adam?"

For at that name, young Adam Bruce had come to his feet in quick astonishment, stood now leaning over Tope, and cried out:
 "Ledforge?"
 "Mrs. Tope says so," the old man insisted. "She saw Ledforge once at a stockholders' meeting."
 Adam relaxed; he chuckled. "You startled me for a minute," he confessed.

"Yes, I noticed that!" said Tope dryly. "Matter of fact, I meant to!"
 "But Mrs. Tope is wrong, Inspector," Adam declared. He hesitated. "I telephoned our people in New York this morning, from Ridgcomb, to ask about Ledforge. He's in New York! I checked on that!"
 "Yes, so did we," Tope assented. "Ledforge is in New York, all right. But Adam, how did you happen to think it might be Ledforge?" He looked at the young man shrewdly. "I'm wondering," he said, "if Balsar Vade—you said he was a letter-writing kind of a man—ever wrote a letter to Ledforge?"

Adam surrendered. "All right," he yielded; and he grinned. "I give in. Here it is. But I think Vade's harmless, Tope. Only, Ledforge ruined him, ten years ago, in a water-power project. Since then Vade has been a little cracked on the subject of brooks and streams. I told you about that. He blames Ledforge for spoiling the rivers. Ledforge's office sent over to our people half a dozen letters, pretty wild and extravagant, from this society for the protection of rivers, signed by Vade as secretary, and threatening Ledforge with—fire and brimstone! One of them said something about snatching him up in a fiery chariot, like Elijah or whoever it was; and that suggested kidnaping, so I came up here to see Vade."
 He added: "Vade admitted writing the letters, and he dared me to arrest him. He seemed to want to be persecuted, seemed to want publicity, and a chance to tell the world what sort of man Ledforge is. I think he'd like to play the martyr, but Ledforge didn't want to prosecute." He added: "I suppose Ledforge was as anxious to avoid publicity as Vade was to get it."

 Tope nodded understandingly. "But after that, naturally you thought of Ledforge—"
 "And I checked up," Adam agreed. "And Ledforge is in New York."

Tope beamed. "So this can't be he," he assented. "And Mrs. Tope's mistaken." And he went on to recite to Adam the discoveries of the day. He told the tale of the stolen car, and of Whitlock's inquiries, and of the visit to the Holdom place, and of Miss Nettie Pineyard.
 "And Mrs. Kell and Kell have disappeared," he explained. "Holdom was expected home Friday, but he didn't come. Kell came, in the limousine, and drove away in it afterward; and Mrs. Kell drove the coupe away."
 Adam ran to quick conjecture. "And Kell joined her later, came morning. Or rather Mr. Eberly did!" And she explained: "You see, Mr. Eberly and Mr. Ledforge are old friends. The bank had some Utilities bonds, and that was one reason it had to close; but Mr. Eberly never blamed Mr. Ledforge. Mr. Eberly left Saturday morning to go fishing in New Brunswick, and—I used to be his secretary—he arranged to have his mail delivered to me so I could take care of it. He's not married, so he often does that when he goes away."

 Tope listened without questions, and she went on:
 "This letter came this morning from Mr. Ledforge. He wants Mr. Eberly to come over and fish with him in the trout-pond above his summer place, tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Ledforge wrote the letter himself."
 "You sure?"
 "Yes, of course. I've never seen him, but I know his handwriting. I'll show you the letter."
 Tope said mildly: "Why, I'd like to see it." And he asked: "Any way you can get in touch with Mr. Eberly, Miss Dewain?"
 "Telephone," she said. "Or telegraph."

"I wish you'd call him up, tell him about this invitation." And he added disarmingly: "If he doesn't want to come back to fish with Mr. Ledforge, ask him to fix it so I can go in his place. I like to fish."
 "All right," she assented, amused; and Tope asked:
 "Mr. Eberly seen Ledforge lately, has he?"
 She shook her head. "No. Mr. Ledforge called him up about ten days ago—Saturday, I think it was. Wanted to see him; but Mr. Eberly was in Boston over that week-end. The operator knows I handle some things for Mr. Eberly so she shifted the call to me."
 "Where did Ledforge call from?" Tope wondered.
 "Up here, I think," Bee replied. "He said something about 'dropping in.' Something casual. Not as if he were in New York."
 Tope nodded, and then they heard a car turn in and stop by the Mill, and Bee looked out and said: "It's Mr. Cumberland, and Joe Dane."
 "Call them up here," Tope directed sharply. "Before the whole world knows they're here!"
 He came to the door as Bee made haste down the drive; but she was too late to avert the danger Tope foresaw. Joe Dane was inflated by the prospect of handling what promised to become a celebrated case. So when they turned in off the road and stopped beside the Mill, where Earl Priddy was working, Joe called in important tones:
 "Hi, Earl! Where's Inspector Tope?"
 Priddy straightened up and scratched his head and stared. "Inspector?" he echoed, his eyes wide. "Inspector of what? What's he Inspector of, Joe?"
 Bee, arriving just then on the spot, hushed him sharply. "Never mind, Earl! It's none of your business. Go on with your work." She summoned Joe away; the car moved on to Cascade, where Tope waited, and the two men alighted there.
 Tope looked at Dane in mild disapproval. "Young man," he said, "you advertise too much!"
 "It's all right," Bee said reassuringly. "I told Earl it was none of his business!"
 Tope chuckled. "Why, that's fine, miss," he assented. "After that, Earl Priddy won't give it another thought, I know! You certainly fixed that." And he added gently: "You go along now and telephone Mr. Eberly. And let me see that letter." And as the girl turned away, he said: "Come in, Mat. Come in, Dane. I guess Earl doesn't matter. We couldn't keep this thing dark much longer."
 And he added slowly: "They've located Holdom. He's in a private hospital down near Hartford with a broken head, a concussion, maybe a fractured skull."
 Cumberland nodded, and he explained:
 "New York says Ledforge and Holdom started up here last Friday, in Holdom's limousine, with Kell driving. They left New York early, about nine o'clock. Holdom went around to pick Ledforge up at his apartment; and the officer on the beat saw Ledforge come out and get in."
 "They don't know when Ledforge came back, but he was in his office Monday morning, and he was at the bank and in his office this morning."
 Tope nodded, and Cumberland went on:
 "Well, today, when they had made sure about Ledforge, they sent a man to Holdom's office, and the staff there was all excited, because they had just had a telephone message from Holdom."

"No, the dead man isn't Mr. Ledforge."

with her here? Then they dumped the coupe in the quarry and headed for Canada?"
 "Well, maybe," Tope admitted.
 "What was it? Jealousy? Is Mrs. Kell—the flighty kind?"
 The Inspector said reluctantly: "Well, it looks as if she spent last week-end—ten days ago—with Ledforge somewhere. And if she'd go away with him, maybe she'd go with others. Maybe this dead man—long as he's not Ledforge—was one of them." He slapped his knee in sudden recollection. "We ought to have sent a tracer out after the limousine that Kell drove away in. Adam, do that, will you?"
 Adam nodded. "Yes. What else?"
 "Why, it just might be that Ledforge is really missing, and they're covering it up in New York."
 "I'll find out," Adam promised.
 "And one other thing, Adam: May not have any connection, but I'd like to know. Holdom had a plane—pilot named Bob Flint—and it crashed in Long Island Sound on Saturday morning. Flint, he was killed. I'd like to know what made that plane crash. Maybe you can find out through the Department of Commerce."
 Adam said: "Sure."
 Then they heard voices outside; and Mrs. Tope and Bee Dewain appeared in the open doorway. Bee had sandwiches wrapped in a napkin, and a glass of milk.
 Tope chuckled, and looked at Mrs. Tope. "I declare," he exclaimed, "I forgot all about food!" He took the sandwiches and began to eat them comfortably.
 Adam said: "Bee, I've got to do some telephoning; don't want the neighbors listening in. Want to run me to town?"
 "Take our car," Tope suggested. "No need to bother Miss Dewain. I want to tell her what's been happening." He added with a chuckle: "You'll get back quicker if I keep her here!"
 So Adam drove away alone; and Tope told Bee what there was to tell. The girl listened silently till he finished. Then she said:
 "No, the dead man isn't Mr. Ledforge. I had a letter from him this

Improved Equipment Water Heater

A portable water heater will be a welcome addition to the farm.

A new portable electric water heater, which needs no water pipe to feed it, has just been announced by Rheem Manufacturing company, San Francisco. It is designed for farms where there is limited or no plumbing.

The new unit can be moved around at will. All it needs is an electric outlet near by. It holds 17 gallons and has automatic control. It can be connected to a water pipe and thereby converted into an automatic heater if plumbing is installed.

Ultraviolet Rays

Bacteria Killer

Invisible bactericidal rays sprayed by a new U-shape ultra-violet lamp can reduce the bacteria count in washed milk cans 96 per cent in one minute, according to a recent Westinghouse research report.

The tests were conducted under conditions of contamination more extreme than ever would be encountered in normal service. The unit consumes less electricity than a 25-watt electric light bulb, and should prove of real value in the milk house and dairy plants. Milk cans, although thoroughly cleaned, often pick up infectious organisms from rinse water and air.

This bactericidal rays lamp can be used in many ways about the dairy. Its main purpose is to kill the bacteria in the milk cans. By proper use of the lamp the quality of the milk can be raised and maintained. The cost of operation is very little and its effectiveness great.

New 'Gold Rush' On in Colorado

It's Hottest Oil Strike in History of the Rocky Mountain Region.

DENVER.—A new gold rush is in full swing in Colorado. For excitement and get-rich-quick possibilities it is reminiscent of the famous stampede to Cripple Creek in the 90s.

Rich oil seeps out of the sandstone and bubbles over the surface of the basin, nestling between lofty plateaus not far from the Utah-Colorado border, according to the Chicago Tribune.

The Rangely oil field is a brand new baby, but geologists already are comparing it with the Oklahoma City pool, which roared into existence with 25,000-barrels-a-day gushers in the 20s, petroleum's flush and fabulous era.

It's the hottest strike in the history of the Rocky mountain region. Only a few score wells have been completed to date but the United States geological survey estimates there will be at least 800, one well to each 40 acres, and adds that the limits of the field still have not been defined.

Speaking conservatively, major companies with a stake in Rangely predict that the field ultimately will produce 418,000,000 barrels of oil. The Salt Creek field in Wyoming, previously the biggest in the Rockies, had produced 281,500,000 barrels at the start of this year.

Wide Spot in Road.
Before last summer, when the oil industry began sending in thousands of men and huge quantities of drilling equipment, the Rangely basin was a quiet, sparsely settled region where herds of fat cattle and sheep grazed with wild deer on purple sagebrush-covered mountainsides.

The town of Rangely was just a wide spot in the road that meanders across the basin, with a post office, school, general store, and half a dozen scattered dwellings.

A few weeks later heavy oil field trucks had churned the main street into a sea of mud. Frame business buildings of every description sprang up overnight.

J. W. Hays came to Rangely to open a liquor store and "started doing a land-office business right away."

The lumber used in the flooring of his shop was green, and it kind of shrunk, Hays said.

"I had to put linoleum on it so the boys wouldn't drop any thousand dollar bills between the cracks. I never saw anything like this before," he said.

High Rent on Prairie.

Out on a bald prairie far from town, the owner of a dilapidated one room log and mud cabin rented it to a desperate house-hunter—for $75 a month.

At the junction where U. S. highway 40 turns onto the Rangely road an entirely new town—Artesia—blossomed like magic on a few acres of sagebrush, boasting two theaters, stores, pool halls and the inevitable liquor dispensaries and beer emporiums.

On up highway 40 a couple of miles toward the Utah line lies Wiley's resort, the property of Wiley Baucum, whose real bonanza is an artesian water well, from which flows the only pure drinking water in this arid territory. Wiley's water supplies the oil field and the town of Rangely—for a price—and it's generally understood that his water well is more valuable than any oil well around.

But Wiley isn't just standing waiting for the profits. He's building a $75,000 night club which he says will be the finest "between Denver and the West coast."

Britain Still Owes U. S.

6 Billion From Last War
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Aside from any new loans, Britain still owes about $6,400,000,000 to the United States on its World War I debt. This figure was supplied by the treasury recently in reply to a reporter's question.

The original loans, made both before and after the 1918 armistice, totalled only $4,277,000,000. Accumulating interest has brought the debt to $6,400,000,000 despite the fact that Britain paid more than $2,000,000,000 before ceasing payments in 1933. In fact, interest is still accumulating and the debt rises every year.

The new financial agreement announced recently does not cancel the World War I debt.

AROUND THE HOUSE

When laundering woollens, be sure to use plenty of soapsuds. It minimizes the rubbing, and therefore preserves the garment longer.

When the family tires of the usual breakfast food, serve big bowls of freshly popped corn with milk or cream, and sugar. It is a swell change.

Book shelves should be cleaned and painted, and books frequently dusted, to prevent the breeding of moths, silverfish, or other book devouring insects.

You can make dress and apron pockets more sturdy by laying a piece of tape on the underside of the garment in line with the pocket top. Stitch it in with the corners.

Remember how you fenced baby in with a flexible gate? Look the old thing up and put it to a brand new use in your garden or at the side of the house. Fasten securely as usual with fastenings at top and bottom instead of at opposite sides. Paint it the color of your house and let a climbing rose grow over it.

Flying Kilometer Is Most Dangerous of Ski Contests

Of the five kinds of skiing contests, the most dangerous is not the Jump but the Flying Kilometer, the object of which is to attain the highest rate of speed between two points on a steep hill usually iced for the event, says Collier's.

Wearing especially built skis, extra wide and loaded with 20 pounds of lead to accelerate descent, the contestants race in a crouched position, steering themselves with handles attached to their skis.

Serenade Cows

In the Swiss Alps, herdsmen call home their cows by playing on an alpenhorn any one of 50 different melodies, called ranz des vaches, which are traditionally used for this purpose.

FAMOUS U. S. ARMY DIVISIONS

3rd INFANTRY DIVISION

THE ROCK OF THE MARNE DIVISION won an immortal name in its baptism of fire on the River Marne in France on July 14, 1918, when it held its ground against the full weight of a furious enemy attack in the final German summer offensive. In the second war against the Hun it gained even greater laurels by its valor and sacrifice. Participation in four amphibious invasions—in North Africa, Sicily, Anzio and Southern France—is just part of the astounding combat record of the 3rd Division. It suffered more casualties than any other infantry division (27,628 troops killed, wounded or missing), 32 of its men won the Medal of Honor, and it has a record of 531 days under enemy fire.

The 3rd was one of only three Regular Army Divisions in existence in this country prior to the commencement of the war in Europe in 1939. During 1939 and 1940 the Division underwent extensive reorganization to conform to the triangularization of all Infantry divisions and in September, 1942, at Camp Pickett, Va., it was trained in amphibious exercise based on the tactical plan for the North African invasion. It moved overseas in October, 1942, its components at that time being the 7th, 15th and 30th Infantry regiments, and the 10th, 39th, 41st and 5th Field Artillery battalions. The Division's amazing record in the war began on November 8, 1942, when, as a part of the Western Task Force, it spearheaded the invasion of North Africa, landing at Fedala. A successful amphibious operation was followed by three days of fighting and the surrender of Casablanca. The winter of 1942-43 was spent guarding the Spanish Moroccan border. In May it participated in the final operations in Tunisia and the rounding up of the Afrika Korps. The next action came on July 10 when the 3rd blasted its way on to the shores of Sicily. Within two weeks it moved across the island and assisted in the capture of Palermo and the Sicilian mopping up that followed.

The Marnemen were on the job again nine days after the unaided invasion of Italy at Salerno and slugged it out with the Germans, crossed the Volturno river and made the first dent in the outer fringes of Cassino where it was relieved after 59 consecutive days in the battle line in which it lost more than half of its effectives. After a short rest it was called to action again and splashed ashore at Anzio, hit up against a ring of enemy steel and for the next four months maintained its toehold in the face of some of the most aggressive counter-attacks of the war. Opening the road to Rome, the Division launched an attack May 23, 1944, that cost 995 men killed and wounded—believed to be the highest loss of any American division in any one day's fighting. Its final victory in Italy was a blast against the famous Hermann Goering division. On D-Day in Southern France the 3rd drove ashore at St. Tropez and soon began a swift pursuit of the Germans. Space does not permit a record of its brilliant campaigns in France and Western Germany. The Division's last major battle was at Nurnberg where on April 20, 1945, it raised the Stars and Stripes over that city.

The shoulder patch consists of three diagonal white stripes on a square field of dark blue.

Red Cross Nurse Reserve at Peak

Disaster Service, Home Nursing, Health Education, Keep Thousands Busy

Washington.—The Red Cross reserve of registered nurses qualified for immediate duty is stronger than ever before, Miss Mary Beard, director of the American Red Cross nursing services, announced.

"We now have a first reserve of 15,000 unmarried nurses under 40 years of age available for duty with the Army, Navy or government nursing services and subject to call by the Red Cross for disaster work," she said. "This is 700 more than any previous first reserve registration."

Miss Beard pointed out that the increase has been gradual and that only registered nurses meeting rigid requirements of training and physical fitness are enrolled. All classes of nurse reservists, including nurses now employed by the Red Cross, bring the reserve corps total to 44,283. During the World War of 1914-18 the American Red Cross mustered nearly 20,000 nurses for duty with Army, Navy and Red Cross hospitals, at home and overseas.

"Maintenance of the Nurses Reserve is provided by our charter and is in line with Red Cross policies of prevention and preparedness, but the peacetime work of our nurses is equally important," Miss Beard said.

The director explained that more than 2,000 nurses, chiefly home hygiene and care of the sick instructors, were regularly engaged in visiting the sick, aiding physicians in examining school children, conducting inoculation programs to stamp out contagious illness, launching trial nursing services in out-of-the-way communities, and carrying on important health education work to qualify family groups to care for sickness at home.

All nurses who are needed for Red Cross nursing activities are drawn from the Red Cross reserve of qualified nurses, Miss Beard said.

Last year Red Cross public health nurses made more than one million visits on behalf of the sick and gave skilled care to 272,729 persons.

Last year, in schools and clinics, nurses cooperated with physicians in examining 695,575 children, and aided in the task of correcting defects. Children examined were enrolled for the most part in rural schools where this type of preventive service is rare. There are 655 Red Cross nurses engaged in this work in 477 communities.

In the field of health education, Red Cross nurses have instructed more than 1,000,000 family members since 1914 in how to care for the sick at home and have set new standards of hygiene for the family. Last year the Nursing Service held 4,505 classes in home hygiene and care of the sick and awarded certificates to 61,296 persons who passed examinations on the subjects taught.

"Because the nucleus of all Red Cross nursing activity is our nurses' reserve, it is a source of great satisfaction that each month the list of applicants increases," Miss Beard said.

This service to the public is supported by the men and women who join as members of the Red Cross, through their local Chapters, during the Roll Call, November 11 to 30.

WHEN an actress decides to free lance it's a gamble, even if she's famous. Barbara Britton decided to take a chance, a while ago, and her success will probably inspire many another girl to do likewise. Before leaving Paramount she'd done "Till We Meet Again," with Ray Milland, and "The Virginian," not yet released, so she couldn't tell how the public would like her in that one. Her first picture on her own was "Captain

BARBARA BRITTON

Kidd," with Charles Laughton and Randolph Scott. Now she's signed for a comedy, Republic's "The Fabulous Suzanne," in which Rudy Vallee will also appear. Vallee will have the comedy lead; Steve Sekely produces and directs.

A stray sailor became technical advisor for a few moments on "One Exciting Week," at Republic. Pinky Lee and Shemp Howard, as a pair of phoney marines, had a scene showing them changing their uniforms. And they couldn't get out of those skin tight navy jumpers. The sailor, who goes down in history—AMM 3/c Donald Wardwick, stepped forward and showed them the way.

"Going My Way" has just begun a four-theater run in Paris, one of its first European engagements. But Americans there may be misled by the title; it's been translated into local idiom, and is called "The Road Strewn with Stars."

When he began directing "Calcutta," John Farrow said, "The one thing I want to do in this picture is to get the flavor of the real India. I'm not after that Arabian Nights stuff that is usually seen." So we'll see Alan Ladd, Gail Russell, and the rest of the excellent cast against a background of India as it really is, and we'll all owe John Farrow a debt of gratitude.

Arthur (CBS) Godfrey went into a New York restaurant for a steak and came out with a tenor. It was Frank Saunders, the bartender. Godfrey took him to the studio to sing on his program—couldn't get Saunders away from the mike before he'd sung three songs to the delight of the studio audience. Godfrey, too, was delighted, and has asked the singer to appear with him again.

Bartlett Robinson, "Walter Manning" of "Portia Faces Life," has bought an island in Long Island Sound, between Darien and Stamford; connected with the shore by a causeway, the island boasts a 125-year-old house. Robinson says he's going to spend all his spare time for years fixing it up. He'd better—I remember that house, and the neighbors claim it's haunted!

It's Van Heflin's sister, Frances, who plays the part of "Nora Holiday" in the new CBS air show, Holiday and Co. But Frances doesn't have to rest on her brother's laurels; till recently she appeared in the Broadway stage hit, "I Remember Mama."

Remember Paul Lavalley's famous "Society of Lower Basin Street"? It's rumored that he may revive it—the rumor's been growing since the appearance of the jiving "Memphis Five" on Lavalley's "Highways in Melody," on NBC recently.

Shortly after Ginny Simms arrived in New York, her husband, Hyatt Dehn, contracted pneumonia. Ginny rode to the hospital in the ambulance with him, returned to her hotel and came down with flu. But her regular Friday CBS broadcasts went right on, and Ginny went right on with them.

TRUE TO A GREAT HERITAGE

LESSON TEXT: Deuteronomy 4:1, 32-40. MEMORY SELECTION: He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered.—Psalm 111:4.

A goodly heritage is the gift of God to his people. By faith they must enter into it and possess it. Thus they honor him who has promised, and they witness to all the earth that he is a great God and a loving heavenly Father. It magnifies his name to believe on his word and to act on his promises.

Israel, having failed God and plunged themselves into years of wandering by their unbelief when they just came up to the Promised Land, were now ready to go over Jordan and take the land.

A new generation had grown up, and for their instruction Moses rehearsed the history of the people, repeated the promises of God, and renewed their remembrance of his law. The book of Deuteronomy gives that "second law"—actually a review of what had been given before.

As they entered upon God's rich heritage for them they were admonished to

I. Hearken to God's Law (v. 1).

To hearken means more than to hear and forget. It carries with it the giving of attention to what is heard with the purpose of doing something about it.

God's law, his statutes and judgments are for the good of his people. They are not designed to limit their freedom, but to provide the channels through which they shall be most free to live and to accomplish that which is good and noble and useful.

Two things were assured to Israel if they hearkened to the law of God. They would first of all "live." This does not mean only that they should escape death, but that they might enter into the fullness of life.

The second result of obeying God's law would be their going into and possessing the land which God gave them. There is victory and attainment, as well as blessed fellowship for the one who obeys God. That is true today as it was in the time of Moses.

II. Remember God's Love (vv. 32-40).

The loving mercies of God toward his people had revealed his infinite greatness and glory.

He revealed himself in the fire—and they might well have been consumed by it—yet he graciously spoke to them instead of destroying them. They were to recall, too, that he had done a mighty and wonderful thing in taking them out of the powerful hand of Egypt and making them into a people for his name.

Sad is the state of the soul of the man who has lost his sense of the miraculous. To live in the midst of the constant demonstration of God's power and his mercy, and to see and feel nothing but the commonplace touch of humdrum daily life, is to be blind and deaf—yes, to be dead spiritually.

Is he any less powerful today? Certainly not! He is still the God of the miraculous and nowhere is that divine energy more evident than in the spiritual life of man.

The wonders of God in creation were rehearsed for Israel. They learned of his care for his people. "But far more wonderful are the works of God in the new creation and his infinite care for his people redeemed from a ruined race, and made inheritors of eternal residence in the heavenly Canaan" (Hight C. Moore).

III. Depend on God's Promise (vv. 37-40).

The Promised Land was before them, but it was for them to go in and possess it. There were warfare and struggle ahead, mighty warlike peoples to overcome. Were they able for it? No, not in their own strength!

How were they to accomplish this formidable task? By counting on God. He had promised to drive out the nations now holding the land. He is a God not only in heaven, but also on earth (v. 39). The people who believe him may go forward expecting miracles to happen.

Obedience to God's law brings fellowship with the eternal and omnipotent One, and the confident assurance that he will bring victory and the full accomplishment of his will for the obedient believer.
