Artesia Wins First Round

The county division bill came up before the State Senate Monday and the vote was 13 for dividing Eddy County and 11 against. The bill is now up before the State House of Representatives for action. Should it pass the House (a lot of Artesia people think it will) it must be approved by Gov. Mechem before becoming a law. Voting for the split were 10 Democrats and 3 Republicans.

Voting for the split were Senators Baca, Carpenter, Des Georges, DeVargas, Eager, Ginn, Jaramillo, Marquez, Melody, Miller, Montoya, Roach and Stringfellow.

Voting against the split were Senators Brewster, Espinoza, Gamble, Gottlieb, Morgan, Morrow, Royall, Smith, Wall and Zecca.

Traffic Crime

With all the laws and traffic stops. The state police and city cops. Many arrests and expensive fines. Have failed to stop this traffic crime. Of speeding cars and reckless drivers. Have cost the price of many lives. And now I warn you of your speed. Before you commit an awful deed. If you ignore the public and traffic signs.

And all the laws and commit a crime. You are just as guilty as anyone. That commits a crime with a gun. If you are going to drive a car. Always be sure just where you are. Look straight ahead and use your sense.

And there will be less accidents. I think the laws a bit too loose. To drive while drunk is no excuse. For you may not drive a mile. Before you kill some mother's child. Oh think how sad that mother'd feel. Your fiendish crime to her reveal. You commit a crime "Thou Shalt Not Kill"

To speed your car at selfish will. The most dangerous thing is an automobile.

With a drunk or fool at the steering wheel.

And I beg of you who read this rhyme. That it will have some bearing on your mind.

That you will be careful how you drive.

For fear you will take some innocent life.

Hope Defeats Hagerman in First Round

The Hope Yellow Jackets stung the Hagerman Bobcats in the opening game of the Thursday night session of the tournament by outclassing the Bobcats to the tune of 36-25. The Yellow Jackets had little trouble with the Bobcats once they got their offense in high gear and led the entire game. The score by quarters was 11-7 at the end of the first quarter, 23-12 at the half, 31-19 at the end of the third quarter.

Kent Terry, Junior center, led the Hope five by scoring 14 points with 12 of these points being scored in the first half. Glenn Harrison, Junior forward, scored 8 points, Clarence Forrister, Senior forward, 7; Lynn Harrison, Junior guard, 5 and Ray Jones, Senior guard, 2 points to round out the scoring.

Only five men saw action for Hope in each of the three games played during the tournament. David Sanders, Sophomore guard, usual starter throughout the season had a sprained ankle and saw no action although he was suited out for all three games.

Yellow Jackets Lose To Dexter Demons

Hope dropped a hotly contested semi-final game to the Dexter Demons, seeded number one in District 5, on Friday night in the second game of the night session. Hope's Yellow Jackets played the Dexter Demons on even terms until late in the final period when the Demons pulled to a 7-point lead. The score at the end of the first quarter was 18-13 in favor of Dexter.

At the half it was 28-21 in favor of Dexter. In the third period, the Yellow Jackets narrowed the gap to 31-28 by outscoring the Demons in the third period. The Demons pulled away in the final minutes to make the score 39-32 at the final gun.

Ned Moore led the Dexter five by scoring 19 points to keep the Demons out in front by using his superior height against the smaller Yellow Jacket five.

Lynn Harrison scored 12 points to lead the Hope attack although the scoring was evenly divided with Kent Terry and Clarence Forrister scoring 8 point each, Glenn Harrison scored 4 points.

Many fans remarked this battle between Dexter and Hope proved to be the outstanding game of the tournament up to the final game between Dexter and Carlsbad. Carlsbad easily outclassed Roswell in the upper bracket semi-finals with the lower bracket furnishing the close game of the tournament.

Hope Wins 3rd Place In Tournament

The Hope Yellow Jackets defeated Roswell in a low scoring duel last Saturday afternoon to win third place in District 5. Roswell took an early lead with the score 4-3 at the end of the first quarter. Hope pulled to an 8-5 lead by half time and held the lead the entire second half, although the Coyotes rallied in the final quarter and pulled within three points of the Yellow Jackets. The score at the end of the third quarter stood 18-13 in favor of Hope. The Yellow Jackets played a ball-controlling game in the second half to keep the Coyotes under control. Clarence Forrister led the scoring with 10 points with Lynn Harrison scoring 6. Kent Terry scored 4 points and Glenn Harrison 2 points to round out the Hope scoring.

Clarence Forrister, Senior forward was named to the all-district team at the end of the tournament.

According to all available records, the showing the Hope Yellow Jackets made by placing third in the District 5 tournament is the highest rating a Hope High School team has ever made in any district tournament.

Last year the Yellow Jackets played in District 10 at Lovington and won the consolation championship and sportsmanship trophies which also gives a good account of the Yellow Jackets during their past two years of play.

This is the second year in which the Motor Carriers Association has donated free transportation.

First and Second Grade News: Ira Morris moved to the Clements Ranch Friday. He will go to school at Lower Penasco. On Monday, Manuel and Lupe Cortez moved back from Roswell. Now we have ten in the second grade and nine in the first. We miss Ira very much. Maybe Spencer won't be too lonely though.

Do you get tired of our telling you how many books we have read? Well, the first grade is finishing about one a week now. The second grade finishes one in about three weeks and ar having to drop one reading class a day to keep from finishing all the books before school is out. Oh we will still read, but it will be other things. Mrs. Young gave us another achievement test the other day and is pretty well pleased with our reading scores. Our spelling ran high, too. We lish and Numbers now.

Audrey Dawson wrote to 1000 this week and Mary Baca writes to 100 every day just for the fun of it. Mrs. Lea gives us the problems that Sara May Marlar works in Carlsbad and we write them and work them too. Some of us have a time but Royce likes to work them in his head! He will probably be a banker!

3rd, 4th, and 5th Grade News: We enjoyed the Educational film of the "Little Steam Engine" which was in technicolor. The pupils who read their quote of stories and received prizes this week are: Jerry Harris, Patsy Bush, Georgia Lee Seely, Rose Ellen Madron, Phyllis Bush and J. W. Cox. Mellisa Mae Jones and Phyllis Bush made a new calendar for March for our room.

6th, 7th and 8th Grade News: Sue Ray Summers was absent two days because of a sore throat. Her father, Ray Summers, was hurt in a sawmill accident. Our map display this week shows the territorial growth of the United States between 1783 and 1853. We are giving reports in English on famous stories such as The King of the Golden River, The Great Stone Face, The Man Without a Country and the Legend of Sleepy Hollow.—Letha Mae, reporter.

The great debate continues over whether the President has the legal or moral right to send troops to help garrison Europe without the consent of Congress, and, regardless of current actions, will continue for a long time to come. The president points to the fact that the Constitution specifically states that he is the Commander-in-chief of all the military forces. He holds that the decision as to where troops shall be sent, and in what number, is a military and diplomatic decision, and that can only be made by the Executive. Those who think otherwise bring strong arguments on their side. They say that the writers of the Constitution made the President Commander-in-Chief so that he could immediately rally the nation's defenses in event of attack—in the stage coach days, it took weeks to convene Congress, where now it can be convened over night. They argue that it is very different matter to send divisions of troops to Europe in the face of the Russian menace, than it was to dispatch a few soldiers or sailors to deal the Barbary pirates or Mexican bandits. Their most powerful argument is that if the President can send troops wherever he likes and in any number, he actually has the power to make war with out the consent of Congress.

Looking ahead at the problems to be encountered in the development of New Mexico and the Southwest will be some of the outstanding intellects of the nation when the Third Carlsbad Agriculture, Labor and Industry Forum convenes on March 16 and 17.

"The patterns of social and economic conduct we establish here in New Mexico today will become the traditions we will have to live with tomorrow," said G. T. Harley, general chairman of the Forum, which is sponsored by the educational committee of the Carlsbad Chamber of Commerce.

"If the rapidly expanding economy of New Mexico and the Southwest is to enjoy a productive and fruitful maturity," he continued, "then, while it is still in the formative stage, we must encourage those attitudes among the populace which lead to social peace and economic well-being. We need frank and open discussions among leading citizens who may have diversified views on the method of arriving at this goal."

To spark such friendly discussion and creative thinking, this year's Forum will, as in past years, bring some of the nation's leading thinkers to the Southwest to present their opinions on how these problems can best be resolved.

Eisenhower Reports Europe Will Defend Self Against Communism; Price Control Weaknesses Named

United Nations forces continued a slow advance northward against North Korean and Chinese forces with units of U.N. troops within a short distance of Seoul. Most of the activity was in the west below the capital of South Korea. There were reports of division among Communist troops and numerous casualties.

EUROPE:

The Price Check

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, a man who commands the respect of most Americans today, has just issued a report that the European situation is the most serious in Europe since the outbreak of the German attack.

Since the United States took a stand that the defense of Western Europe was of the importance and that we intended to build a united front against communism, the average American has been taken with shock and awe. The uncertainty about the future of the American people and the uncertainty about the future of the world has been a heavy burden on the mind of the American people.

There was a general feeling of hope in the United States when the report came that the American people were not alone in their struggle against communism. The report came at a time when the American people were feeling that they were not alone in their struggle against communism.

BUDGET:

Little Lines Form

When the question of money, whether it be the budget or taxation, is raised in congress there always develops a bitter battle. Now the lines are being formed in the 82nd congress over President Truman's $11.5 billion budget and his $10.5 billion tax program.

When the President's budget was first announced there was some opposition, but not the kind that indicated major conflict among the legislators. The situation changed radically, however, when the chief executive proposed a quick $11 billion tax bill to be followed by another $1.5 billion bill within a short time.

As soon as the tax program was announced, the legislators began their demands for cuts in the budget. The demands were not being made along party lines. Democrats joined the Republicans.

The conflict centered around aid to education, health insurance and the Truman plan. In these, critics say slashes could be made in non-essential public works and army civil-function projects such as flood control, and in the regular civil-government agencies.

Behind any budget and tax program is adopted the public can expect a bitter battle in congress. But so master how much the legislators dislike the idea, it was also apparent that a tremendous budget must be adopted and some kind of pay-to-charge method found to finance it.

KOREA:

U.N. Drives Northward

United Nations forces in Korea continued a slow and cautious drive northward toward the 38th parallel. The drive developed after limited probing attacks failed to find Communist troops in great concentration.

There were indications of increased North resistance as U.N. forces moved South, but in what strength was not revealed.

There was considerable optimism over the U.N. advance, but no one could say what would happen if and when the 38th parallel was reached. Truman predicted that the U.N. armies would not go beyond that point.

The lack of self-Communist resistance and counter-attacks was a mystery that caused considerable worry among U.N. commanders. It gave credence to reports that Communist armies had suffered heavy casualties from disease and cold.

The U.S. defense department reported 12,000 North Koreans captured in fighting since the war began. The department claimed 5,000 Communist casualties since the present U.N. advance started.

LABOR:

A Complete Overhaul

It has long been apparent that labor and management relations in the rail industry needed a complete overhaul. The fact was highlighted by the unscrupulous manipulation of railroads in southern and central states, which seriously threatened the country's defense effort and thoroughly paralyzed mail and express services.

The "rock and" article captured the attention of the nation's workers. It was the first time during the war that more than 200,000 railroads workers were made idle by blockading rail transport.

Spurred by Charles E. Wilson, federal mediator director, and W. T. Conway, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who themselves had to work, but did not eliminate the possibility of future labor disputes in the industry.

An agreement had remained a complete and final settlement of all questions between labor and management in the rail industry was necessary if the nation's vital defense effort was to go forward during the next few years. It had dragged on too long.

Stella Moore and Cleve Adams, while on a trip to town saw Edward Thorndyke and a "blonde woman" pass in a car. Edward has hired Stella to pose as Dorinda LaCroix, who is dead, in order to help Dorinda's grandmother whom it was feared the shock might kill if she knew Dorinda were dead. But Grandmother Thorndyke penetrated Stella's masquerade and died of what was thought to be a heart attack. A salesman who recognized Stella on the street, Stella's friend, Anne Delahay, and Grandmother Thorndyke all have died under what might be regarded as suspicious circumstances. Stella thought she saw a flash of "yellow hair" at the cliff-top when Anna was killed.

pins, showed in what haste she had dressed.

"I didn't mean to be late," she apologized. "I intended to breakfast with the rest of you, Lana will be down in a minute." She stared at Morrow. "Good Heavens, Mr. Morrow, are you sick?"

He did not answer her. In the bright light, Dorinda could see the thin film of sweat on his forehead. "I'll get my papers—" He stopped, bending over, his arms crossed and pressing against his stomach. "I'm afraid," he said faintly. "I'm going to be ill."

excitement behind the baby blue of her eyes. "If the sheriff should show up, still wanting to know how I spent Tuesday afternoon, just tell him I'm out. And that you don't know when I'll be back." She lifted one hand in a quick gesture of farewell and a few minutes later Dorinda heard the whir of her starting motor from the driveway.

Fay was at the window where she, too, had evidently watched Edward's departure, when Dorinda came into the living room. She turned her head and smiled, that brief smile peculiar to herself which possessed no warmth and left her eyes untouched.

Her hand made a swift movement in the direction Edward's car had gone. "Edward, as usual, running away from unpleasantness," she said dryly.

"I wanted to talk to him," Dorinda looked at Fay uncertainly. She didn't think she had the courage to tell Fay, without Edward's sustaining presence, of the decision she had made in the waking hours of the night before. But, unexpectedly, Fay helped her.

Fay in Agreement That Dorinda Should Leave

The older woman crossed the floor and came close to Dorinda. She looked intently into the girl's face.

"Tell me," she demanded abruptly, "do you ever think of simply clearing out of here without asking permission?"

Dorinda felt her face stiffen in astonishment. Had Fay, in some flash of clairvoyance, discovered what she had been planning?

"It's queer, your saying that. It's exactly what I would like to do. And the reason I wanted to see Uncle Edward. I've decided to tell Mr. Poole that I'm not what he thinks I am and see if he won't let me go away from here. But I thought it only fair to tell you and Uncle Edward what I intended to do before I went to the sheriff."

Fay nodded as if the words confirmed some secret thought of her own. "I guessed you had something of the kind in your mind. But listen to me. Perhaps I'm a traitor in saying this. But if I were you, I wouldn't tell Edward. He'll try to persuade you to keep quiet and stay here no matter what your reasons are for getting out. And I know, if you don't, how plausible he can be when he wants you to do things his way."

"Yes," thought Dorinda. "I do know."

"Then, too, I don't see any particular reason why you should tell the sheriff who you really are," Fay went on.

"And I think I can tell you how to work it." A quick puff of gray smoke obscured her face for a moment. "The inquest on Anne is set for tomorrow morning—Saturday. It was originally scheduled for last Wednesday but was adjourned, the sheriff hoping, I believe, to find some evidence that it was not a bona fide accident. As you know, he's done a lot of prowling around here with that bee in his bonnet. Naturally without success because I'm sure it was an accident just as it appeared to be."

"In any event, you'll have to attend the inquest. You can't get out of that. The coroner's jury will, I'm sure, bring a verdict of accidental death. And I don't see any reason why you can't go wherever you want to as soon as possible after that. I think they've given up trying to solve the mystery of Taylor's death. At least they know you had no connection with it."

"My plan is this. Pack a suitcase with the things you'll need in the next few days. The rest of your belongings can be forwarded to you. As soon as Edward is out of the way—and I can see to it that he is—I'll take you either to Trentville or Westport, which we find most convenient at the time for catching a train."

"You'll get back to Los Angeles with money enough for your immediate wants. The thousand dollars you'll find already deposited to your account in the bank where you once told me you had your savings. Anyway, you can write finis to your adventure. I fancy you're about ready to do that."

"Oh, I am," Dorinda declared fervently. "The only thing is—" She hesitated, ashamed of her fear. "I'll have to spend another night here."

"You'd have to do that in any event," Fay assured her impatiently. "Do you think the sheriff is going to let you walk out when you tell him you're not the real Dorinda?"

CHAPTER XV

Chaos swirled about her, something heavy crashed against her head. She was falling, falling downward in a bottomless pit until sight and feeling ceased.

Eons later, she climbed out of the pit again. Darkness gave way to a rainbow brilliance twisting itself into fantastic shapes which dissolved almost as soon as formed. She opened her eyes and looked up into Carol's anxious face.

She was in her own room, on her own bed. A wet towel lay on her forehead. Carol held a bottle of smelling salts close to her nose.

Morrow, the Lawyer, Suddenly Stricken

"I heard you fall—I still have the little room off Mrs. Thorndyke's, right next door. I heard a heavy thud in here. I decided I'd better investigate though I thought probably you'd knocked something over. I found the door open and you on the floor. For a minute I was afraid—" She stopped, her lips pressed together. "What happened?"

"You didn't see anyone?" Carol looked surprised. "Why, no. Was someone in here? I thought you'd stumbled over the rug and hit your head against the bedpost. You were lying right under it."

"I didn't stumble. There was someone in the room. The light wouldn't go on and when I started back to the hall, I was struck on the head."

Carol's eyelids drooped, hiding the doubt in her eyes. "Of course if you say so, Dorinda," she soothed.

Lying there, unable to sleep, her eyes closed against the glow of the lamp, she made up her mind. "I won't go on like this," she promised herself. "It's too much. I've got to admit it—someone wants to get rid of me. That boulder that killed Anne. . . . But Randy, why would anyone take Randy?" She stretched out her hand as if she still might touch the rough coat of the small dog that had slept at the foot of the bed.

She had expected to make her announcement at breakfast, counting on the probability that Harriet and Lana would not be downstairs so early, but she had forgotten the lawyer who would be there. Lee Morrow was with Edward and Fay when she went downstairs. The three of them were just coming out of the living room when she reached the lower hall.

Edward shot a quick glance at her as she joined them. Something in her appearance seemed to puzzle him and he frowned briefly. But he only said smoothly, "I didn't expect you so early, my dear. It must have been quite late when you came in." One white hand pressed back his dark hair. "Dorinda, this is Mr. Morrow, my mother's attorney, of whom you have heard me speak. He arrived last night."

Breakfast ended at last. Morrow stood, his hand touching the back of his chair, his white-toothed smile upon each one in turn. "I think it advisable to attend to the business at hand as soon as we can," he declared. "If you yourselves and the servants can be in the living room, in say, fifteen minutes—" He raised his brows inquiringly at Fay, who bent her head.

"Fay will attend to it," Edward said hurriedly. "In the meantime, Dorinda, I'd like a word with you. Will you come into my study?"

The girl assented quickly. It appeared Edward had sensed her desire to talk to him.

Morrow's voice claimed her attention again. "In fifteen minutes then." He looked down at his wrist watch, shook his head as if to see more clearly. His smile was gone now. His round face had lost its healthy color and become pinched and white.

Harriet appeared at the door of the breakfast room. She wore a frilled blouse and dark skirt. The crooked buttoning of her waist, the wisps of faded hair escaping its Dorinda looked at Fay uncertainly.

Edward sprang to Morrow's side and caught his arm to support the stricken man.

"Get Carol," he said to Dorinda, his face tense.

Dorinda Fears Attack May Mean More Danger

Carol took charge with characteristic efficiency. By the time they had led the lawyer to his bedroom, and Dr. Evans had arrived, the stricken man was resting more or less comfortably.

"Dr. Evans seemed to think I was a little precipitate in giving him an emetic without a doctor's say so, but any fool could see Morrow had eaten something which didn't set easily. However, he's sufficiently recovered now to make eyes at his nurse and enjoy having his hand held."

She made a little face. "At any rate, I'm removed from my status as house guest—if anyone can be considered a guest who has never been as much as invited to eat at the family table—and am, I hope, back on the payroll. Whether Mr. Thorndyke or Morrow will pay the bill, I don't know. Nor care, so long as I get the money."

Dorinda's returning smile was wan. "He frightened me," she admitted. "That sudden attack. I thought perhaps—"

"You thought perhaps another accident had happened," Carol surmised shrewdly. "You didn't see a phantom hand dropping a deadly drug into his coffee cup, did you?" She went on without waiting for an answer. "No, my dear, nothing so dramatic as that. Little Morrow's trouble is just plain hoggishness. I'm afraid. Too much food, too much liquor—I wouldn't know. Maybe he's just working up to a good case of stomach ulcers."

When she went downstairs, Greer was just closing the front door. Through the lessening aperture she caught a glimpse of Edward at the wheel of his car just starting down the graveled driveway.

As she turned, she saw Lana at the foot of the staircase. She wore a sheer dress of misty gray under her silver fox jacket and a small black velvet hat shaped like a glorified jockey's cap pulled down over her smooth bright hair. A string of pearls encircled her round throat and she carried, her arm thrust through the straps, a big handbag of soft gray leather which seemed full to bursting, so full, in fact, that the clasp sprang open as Dorinda watched. Lana snapped it shut hastily with a quick glance at Dorinda.

"You look lovely, Lana," Dorinda told her in involuntary admiration.

"Thank you," Lana's tone was indifferent but there was a mounting

When an old fashioned top-of-the-stove waffle iron gets greasy-crust and dirty, stern measures are called for. A stiff wire brush is the handiest thing to use. Lacking that, use fine sandpaper or emery cloth, but be sure to work on every little surface of the grids. It's best to keep away from wet cleaning methods, because they may cause sticking when the iron is used again. Even so, once a waffle iron has gotten bad enough to require such a cleaning you'd better use plenty of grease or butter on the grids and in the batter if you are to avoid sticking.

Son-in-Law's Advice Pays

Frank W. Woche, 531 Apache Street, Houston, Texas, can't say enough for HADACOL. A retired steamfitter and plumber, he says that he's really enjoying life these days—for up until a few months ago he was run-down, and just couldn't seem to eat.

Then his son-in-law suggested he start taking HADACOL, and after the first small bottle he picked up energy, and increased his appetite. He's now taken four large bottles, and says that he just wouldn't be without HADACOL. Mr. Woche found that HADACOL helped his system to overcome deficiencies of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Woche's own statement: "I was so run-down and my son-in-law suggested I take HADACOL. I had lost lots of weight and was tired all the time. After the first small bottle I started feeling better right away. I have now taken four more large bottles and wouldn't be without HADACOL. HADACOL has done so much for me. It's wonderful and all of my friends saw how bad I was looking and now tell me how much better I look. I can't say enough for HADACOL."

Materialism

AN EDITORIAL

MATERIALISM is the heresy that man's happiness lies in worldly prosperity. Materialism denies that man has a soul. If it has a god, that god is an economic one. If it has a creed, it is the creed of self-indulgence.

Materialism has other names. One is Secularism which means putting human values on a non-moral and non-religious foundation. Another is Scientism, which denies any place to tradition, faith or theology. A third is Progressivism, which teaches that sin is merely an unrefined animal manifestation which will be eradicated in time through evolution and science. There is no lack of prophets and pundits among the materialists. But their theories do not stand up under scrutiny. If prosperity is the way to happiness, why is there so much frustration among the rich? Does wealth make men more virtuous? Newspaper headlines are daily proof that this is not so. Do rich educational opportunities alone ensure high standards of decency and honor among growing youth? One answer lies in the fact that America today has more juvenile delinquency than ever before.

Science has led to the discovery of atomic energy; but the atom bomb has brought a spirit of pessimism and despair everywhere. There is a grim comedy in the thought that the materialists of America—and their number is greater than one likes to think—are now eyeing the world's pre-eminent materialistic state with keen apprehension rather than admiration.

Materialism is the road to utter disillusion. It is an invitation to catastrophe. When man turns from God, he turns also against nature and thus eventually against himself; for in the end violations of divine and natural laws bring inescapable penalties.

In place of the order, law and harmony designed by God, materialism creates confusion, crime and anarchy. It causes men to prey upon each other; it denies any absolute authority, save that of the State. It leaves the individual disoriented and dissatisfied.

Man needs a purpose in life. He needs something that elevates him above the status of animal.

Lee Fritts, who runs the Fritts farm at Great Meadows, N.J., with his father and brother, prepares to give each cow her ration of brewers wet grains which they have used so successfully for the past 10 years.

DAIRY FEEDING

New Jersey Dairyman Confusing Experts With Own Feeding Plan

A dairyman near Newark, N.J., is confusing the experts and saving money in the bargain by his own system of feeding which features brewers grains.

This by-product of beer making has long been recognized by dairy farmers as an excellent source of fats and especially protein. But practically all dairymen who include either wet or dry brewers grains in their cows' diet, consider it as just a supplementary part of the feed, forming not more than one-third of the total.

Not so Ernest Fritts of Great Meadows, N.J., who for the past 10 years has been using wet brewers grain as the major item of feed.

Mr. Fritts and his two sons jointly operate two farms of 300 acres, of which 160 are tillable, in a small town about two hours drive from Newark. His commercial herd of 60 head is mixed Jerseys, Holsteins, Ayrshires and Guernseys.

Has his unorthodox feeding program paid off?

Mr. Fritts and his sons are enthusiastic on the point.

"Any farmer will tell you that when the butterfat in your milk averages 4.1 per cent as ours does, that you are giving your cows the right feed," says Mr. Fritts. "Our 60 head average between 25 and 30 cans a day, depending on how many dry cows are on hand, a good figure for a mixed herd. In fact, our red cows produce as much as the Holsteins and we are certain it is because of the brewers grains."

"This part of New Jersey is in an area where milk prices fluctuate badly. Our problem is to get maximum production and we think that brewers grains is the answer."

High in Protein

Brewers grains are recoverable from the brewing process in a ratio of about one pound for every three originally used. Total production last year, of which the greatest part was used for feed, amounted to nearly 9 1/4 million pounds. This by-product, according to authorities, contains about twice as much protein as the original barley and is also high in available nitrogen.

The usual procedure in dairy feeding is to give cows plenty of roughage. Mr. Fritts and his sons differ on this too. The brewers grains on their farm constitute maximum feed; hay is minimum. For example, daily roughage allotment for their 60 cows is four Holland and bales of alfalfa-brome, a good legume which they grow themselves.

There are no set rules for feeding the cows on the Fritts' farm. Each cow is given a heaping bushel of brewers grains at the 4 a.m. and 1 p.m. feeding. They are milked at about 4:15 a.m. and at 3:45 p.m. At the time of the afternoon feeding they are given a hay ration.

"We sometimes hear that it is not good policy to milk cows while they are eating," says Mr. Fritts. "However there is nothing in our experience to show that it cuts milk production. Also we have been told that milk from a cow which has had a brewers grain ration, is apt to "taste." That certainly never happened to us.

Brewers wet grains keep well in a tightly enclosed bin or store room. Unique feature of the store room on the Fritts farm is the pump (left hand corner) which constantly draws off excess water.

Mixing brewers grains with molasses and water makes the feed more palatable to dairy cows. Above Lee Fritts (front) and his father sweep the grain into the feed trough.

"Another advantage of our brewer's grain diet," says Mr. Fritts, "is its economy. We find it much cheaper than other grains. Right now we have two silos, a 14 x 40 and a 16 x 40 full of corn silage. We have another 25 tons of corn ears on hand plus that much more in the fields. We're going to cash crop it rather than give it to the cows."

Adds Molasses to Grain

In order to make brewers grains more palatable, Mr. Fritts adds salt and molasses. Only last October a 600 lb. barrel of molasses cost them seven dollars; now the price has jumped to $23 a barrel. So to save money they dilute the molasses with water and can get by with two barrels a week; last fall they used a barrel a day, undiluted. But the cows' production has remained high as ever.

Their cows are kept in stalls all year around and are never out of yoke, except for breeding purposes. Mr. Fritts says that most of his breeding cows have given good milk production for six to seven years. And his non-breeding cows remain good milkers for an average of two years and better.

Mr. Fritts also feels that another advantage of brewers grains as a feed is the excellent prices he gets for his cows after they are through as milkers. The cows which are ready for slaughter average 1300-1500 lbs.

On the Fritts farm the brewers grains used are the wet variety. Twice a week the farm truck is driven to Newark, 60 miles away, to pick up a load of ten tons. At the farm the grains are stored in a bin or "well." Although the load is practically dry when it is dumped at the farm, a drainage pump at the bottom of the well draws off excess water.

The Fritts have tried a number of other feeding experiments, among them hormone feeding. The new experiment, however, did not prove satisfactory and it was dropped. The Fritts found it too expensive and felt that it overstimulated their cows. Until some new dairy feeding method is perfected they will continue to use their old standby—brewers wet grains.

DECORATING WALLS

Question: We live in a new home and it is now a year since it was plastered. How do we go about preparing the walls for paint or wallpaper? Is it advisable to use a resin-base, water emulsion paint?

Answer: Your own newspaper probably has many helpful suggestions on decorating. You can also find many articles in home magazines and books at your public library. If you are going to hang wallpaper, the walls must first have a coat of good glue size. (I assume the plaster is free of dirt and grease.) Some of the wallpaper and paint manufacturers issue printed instructions on how to paper a room, and give a list of tools and equipment that will be needed. If you wish to use water paint, you will not need sizing. If you use an oil paint, you can apply the first or priming coat as a size. Most painters do not care for glue-size, before a paint job.

CRACK BETWEEN WALL AND BATHTUB

Question: Is there a cement made that would not chip and come out of the joint between the top of the bathtub and the lower edge of the bottom row of ceramic tile? I have tried several kinds and brands to plug this small opening but they all shrivel and come out. Maybe you can suggest a type that does not get too hard.

Answer: You can use a light colored caulking compound, which remains flexible, without becoming hard or brittle. This is made into a special product just for this purpose. There is also a metal moulding intended for this use.

Household Hints

If you're wearing shorts around the kitchen, especially during canning season, protect yourself from flying and splattering hot stuff by pinning a turkish towel to your waist so it will hang down in front of your bare legs.

Sliced fingers can be prevented when you pare vegetables if you slap a piece of adhesive tape on your thumb before you start.

A variation of the old colonial custom of spicing bedsheets can be worked in your linen closet and linen drawers by purchasing quantities of toilet soap in advance of your needs and storing it unwrapped among the linens. White, flower-scented soaps go well in the lav and master's shirts and handkerchiefs; green, pine-scented cakes are suggested for bed linens and towels.

Onions are probably the most dangerous vegetable to slice thin because they have a way of slipping out of the knife's way and leaving your fingers there to take the rap. Avoid this by setting the onion on a flat metal grater while you slice it. The grater won't allow the onion to slip out from under at the crucial moment.

Hobby Room Gives Added
Pleasure to Farm Homes

A farm home can become even more livable with the addition of a hobby room. It can be a corner in the basement where a boy can store his wood-working tools with just enough space to put the tools to good use. Or it can be a finished room where the children can have their 4-H club meetings or a get-together of the gang.

Furnishings can be inexpensive by exercising ingenuity and imagination. Built-in furniture, such as book shelves, shelves for knick-knacks, cupboards, a wall seat with a hinged cover in which toys, games and odds and ends can be stored, can be economically made by the carpenter or by the gang of "future farmers" in one of their meetings.

Other ideas for hobby room furniture include a drop leaf table fastened to the wall, a sandwich bar where hot coffee and other refreshments can be dispensed, a bunk on which to stretch out and rest during the day.

Farm living can be pleasantly improved with the addition of a hobby room.

Better Pigs

More than 3,000 Midwest farmers recently viewed pigs raised by Sam and Frank Honegger who have developed a system of vitamin feeding to produce bigger and better swine. The use of antibiotics and minute quantities of vitamin substances, including vitamin B-12, in the daily rations has given growers a new outlook through a lower livestock mortality rate.

The pig above led by the new method gained nearly a pound a day faster than on previous diets at better than five cents less cost per pound of meat.

Feed Costs Reportedly Can Be Cut 30 Per Cent

Hog feeding costs can be cut down as much as 30 per cent with high quality legume pasture, reports the middle west soil improvement committee, in citing a recent statement by University of Wisconsin animal husbandry specialists.

These specialists point out that an acre of good pasture will save 1,500 pounds of grain and 500 to 700 pounds of protein in fattening hogs for market. They say that if you don't want to push your pigs they can eat enough pasture to save 30 per cent in feeding costs. And even if they are fed all the grain they will eat, pasture will save at least 15 per cent in feed.

Good pasture provides hogs with high quality, low cost protein. It gives them needed vitamins and minerals, particularly calcium.

Among high protein pastures are alfalfa, red clover, Ladino clover and rye for late fall and early spring.

How big a pasture yield you get depends on how well the legumes are fertilized. Agronomists recommend adding phosphate and potash to new legume seedings. They recommend top-dressing older established fields in summer or fall with phosphate and potash to help keep the growth thick and vigorous. Top-dressed fertilizer helps the legumes come through the winter in better condition. Moreover, the plant food is there in the soil ready to be used by the roots when spring growth starts.

Aberdeen-Angus Increase In Breeder's Popularity

An increase in the popularity of Aberdeen-Angus cattle among breeders throughout the United States was noted during the past year.

Cattlemen reported that registrations of purebred Angus moved upward 26 per cent this year as compared with 1949 and transfers advanced 32 per cent.

A total of 110,442 Angus were entered in the registry records during the fiscal year. This compares with 87,512 Angus recorded last year and only 38,737 a decade ago.

At public auction sales and by private treaty, 98,591 Angus went to new owners while 74,826 changed hands in 1949. A strong demand for breeding stock marked the 32 per cent upturn in ownership transfers of Angus cattle.

During the past year, 2,431 new breeders were recorded by the Angus breeders' association.

Tuna Fish and Noodles Make Favorite Casserole
(See Recipes Below)

Lenten Casseroles

CASSEROLES ARE an excellent solution to Lenten menus, especially when they're hearty and nourishing. Fish, eggs and cheese, all good protein foods, form a base for these substantial dishes, while sauces and vegetables are added to some of them for extra appeal, color or calories.

Prove to yourself and to the family that Lenten fare can be interesting with some of these new recipes

SPAGHETTI and noodles play an important part in these two recipes to give you a wonderfully filling meal out of a casserole:

Eggs Tetrazzini (Serves 4)

- 4 - 6 ounces spaghetti
  - 1/2 cup diced celery
  - 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper or parsley
  - 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
  - 1 4-ounce can mushrooms, drained
  - 1/4 cup butter
  - 1 tablespoon flour
  - 3/4 cup milk
  - 1/4 pound sharp cheese, finely diced
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 2 teaspoons worcestershire sauce
  - 4 hard-cooked eggs
  - 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Cook spaghetti according to package directions. Prepare sauce as follows: Cook celery, green pepper, onion and mushrooms in the butter until onion is just transparent. Add flour and blend well. Add milk all at once, cook stirring constantly until uniformly thickened. Blend in cheese, salt, worcestershire sauce. Stir until cheese is melted. Set aside several center slices of egg for garnish. Chop remaining eggs and add to the sauce. Heat to serving temperature.

Tuna-Noodle Casserole (Serves 4-6)

- 4 ounces medium or broad noodles
- 1 No. 2 can peas
- 1 7-ounce can tuna
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 1/2 cup liquid drained from peas
- 1 tall can evaporated milk (1 1/2 cups)

Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender, about 10 minutes. Drain the noodles. Melt butter in saucepan. Stir in the flour and salt. Gradually add the liquid drained from peas and cook until thickened, stirring to keep smooth. Stir in the mustard, then gradually add the milk. Continue cooking over low heat until thickened. Arrange noodles, peas and tuna, which has been broken into bite-sized pieces, in layers in a well greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Pour sauce over all and bake in a moderate oven (350°) for 20-25 minutes.

Clam and Eggplant Casserole (Serves 5-6)

- 1 eggplant
- 1 can whole or minced clams
- 1 cup grated cheese

Butter
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
Salt and pepper
Peel eggplant. Cut into inch cubes and fry in butter until clear. Place layer of eggplant in buttered baking dish. Top with layer of clams. Sprinkle each layer clams with salt, pepper and grated cheese. When dish is full, pour canned tomato sauce over all. Bake in hot oven (400°) for 30 minutes.

*American Pizza (Serves 6)
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup butter
1 cup milk (scant)
1 can condensed tomato soup or 1 can tomato puree
1 cup cubed American cheese (about 1/4 pound)
2 tablespoons finely diced green pepper
1 tablespoon minced parsley
2 tablespoons grated onion
1 clove garlic, finely cut

Prepare a drop biscuit dough from the first 5 ingredients; spread dough in bottom of a buttered 8x2-inch baking dish. Pour mixture of tomato soup or puree, cheese, pepper, parsley, onion and garlic over dough. Bake in moderately hot oven (400°) for 20 to 25 minutes.

Baked Potatoes with Cheese-onion Sauce (Serves 6)

- 6 medium potatoes
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1/4 cup flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash cayenne
- 1/2 teaspoon worcestershire sauce
- Few drops Tabasco sauce
- 1 1/2 cups grated processed strong cheese
- 1 bunch green onions (about 18) including tops, chopped

Bake potatoes in moderately hot oven (400°) for 40-60 minutes. Make crosswise gashes in top of each, turn back flaps and fluff up pulp. Pour about 1/2 cup hot cheese-onion sauce over each and serve remainder in bowl. Top with a little chopped green onion. If served with steak or roast, the meat juice, poured on potato before sauce is put on, gives extra flavor. For sauce combine butter, flour and milk as for white sauce.

Scrambled Eggs with Shrimps (Serves 4)

- 4 tablespoons butter
  - 1 small onion, chopped
  - 1 mushroom, sliced
  - 1/2 cup sliced, cooked shrimps
  - 2 tomatoes, skinned, sliced
  - 4 eggs
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
  - 2 tablespoons cream
  - 4 slices buttered toast
  - 2 tablespoons grated cheese
- Melt the butter in a heavy pan, add the onion and mushroom, and simmer 4 to 5 minutes. Add the shrimps and tomatoes. Shake over fire 2 minutes. Add eggs mixed with salt, pepper and cream. Stir over low fire until creamy.

Minnesota Council Launches Project For Church, Labor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—A church-labor project has been launched by the Minnesota Council of Churches in an effort to "encourage more adequate understanding between labor and the church and to explore areas of common interest."

The council's church and economic life committee will sponsor the project. Already the committee has arranged a series of informal conversations between churchmen and labor leaders. It is now completing a pilot survey which will indicate "the extent to which church leaders are related to union activities and leaders of labor unions related to church activities."

Plans for a state-wide church-labor meeting at which preministerial students from Minnesota colleges and seminaries would be guests of the Minnesota State Federation of Labor (AFL) also were announced.

"It is common knowledge that in many European countries following the industrial revolution the church largely lost the support of working people," said the Rev. John W. Wilson, council associate secretary, in disclosing the committee's plans. "This must not happen here but there are some indications that it is happening."

The church council also announced the appointment of William P. Gerberding, Jr., St. Paul, as its legislative information secretary.

W.C.T.U. Warns Against 'Temperance' Society

EVANSTON, Ill.—A warning that the Temperance and Tolerance Association of America having headquarters in Lincoln, Neb., is a "wet organization supported by the alcoholic beverage traffic" was issued here by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

She said the W.C.T.U. investigated the Association after it had named as its founder Mrs. Ida M. Thurber, who claimed to be a "former W.C.T.U. leader." A search of W.C.T.U. records has failed to reveal that Mrs. Thurber was a leader of the temperance movement in Nebraska or any other state, according to Mrs. Leigh.

She said the Association was "endorsed by liquor and beer associations and financially supported by liquor stores and saloons," and that it has operated in several states "to blunt the increasing local option elections, while masquerading in the name of temperance."

Supreme Court Nullifies Religious Meeting Ban

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The United States Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional a municipal ordinance of New York City requiring a police permit for a religious meeting to be held in a park or other public place.

The court also ruled that the city council of Havre de Grace, Md., acted illegally in refusing two members of Jehovah's Witnesses permission to use a public park.

Decision in the New York City case was 8 to 1. In the Havre de Grace case the court was unanimous.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson delivered the court's opinion in both cases, with Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson delivering a vigorous dissent in the New York City decision, and Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter entering a separate concurring opinion.

The Way it Happened . . .

IN HAGERSTOWN, MD. . . . Walter E. Roberts, informed that his wife had just given birth to their 19th child, commented: "This will make things rather crowded."

IN EASTBOURNE, ENGLAND . . . Albert Storey told police that, after 17 years as the keeper of a hotel's liquor cellar without snitching a single drink, he had during the last five years—under the influence and with the assistance of a woman friend—stolen and consumed some 4,337 bottles of beer, 75 bottles of whiskey, 49 bottles of gin, 11 bottles of sherry.

IN JONESBORO, ARK. . . . Theater Manager Earl Young got an anonymous letter: "Enclosed you will find $5. When I was a little girl . . . I bought balcony tickets and sat downstairs."

IN ONEONTA, ALA. . . . The Blount County grand jury held its half-yearly meeting, made only one recommendation: that a better place be provided for the grand jury to meet in. In Norwich, England, a jury retired to consider its verdict, filed back into the courtroom 40 minutes later and asked for tea.

Firearms Still Needed On Most U. S. Farms

Rifle Is Still Effective Way to Control Varmints

Even though marauding Indians and bad men have disappeared, farmers and ranchers still need their guns almost as much as ever. Where the rifle was once needed to preserve life, the rifle and shotgun today help preserve the livelihood of those who live on the land. To many, firearms are still necessary agricultural or ranching "tools."

For pest and varmint control, firearms are often far more effective than traps and less dangerous than poison, and in many cases are the only means to destroy certain birds and animals that damage crops, stored grains and produce and kill poultry.

The farm boy with a .22 caliber rifle is probably the world's champion pest exterminator. For rats, sparrows, rabbits, squirrels, gophers, moles and crows and other small pests that can be shot at close range, he uses .22 short cartridges which are adequate and economical, but long rifle cartridges are much better for longer ranges and far more effective.

One of the best low-priced beginner's .22 that's come out in years is a single-shot bolt action with "an automatic safety that never forgets." This Model 47 is so designed that as the bolt is opened to permit loading, it sets the safety which must be moved manually before the rifle can be fired.

Increased Dairy Product Prices Forecast for '51

Milk and dairy products prices in 1951 will be moderately higher than in 1950, most dairy experts believe.

A stronger demand will more than offset the effects of large carry-in stocks and probably smaller exports. Farm production of milk in 1951 is likely to be little different from the 120.5 to 121 billion pounds in prospect for this year.

Dominant factor in the 1951 outlook is the prospective sharp increase in demand, stemming from larger defense outlays. Both employment and wages are rising. Disposable incomes will reach a new high next year.

Many dairymen expect total cash receipts from marketings of all products in 1951 to increase more than expenditures, thereby giving a net increase in farm income. The increased income will probably exceed increases in expenditures.

Egg Production Depends On Well Balanced Ration

Poultry experts report it requires about one pound of balanced feed for every seven eggs produced. To make a well balanced ration the vocational agricultural service of the University of Illinois advises:

Use at least three feeds from the cereal grains and by-products to make up 75 to 90 per cent of the ration.

Five to 10 per cent of the ration should comprise an animal-protein feed.

Use one or more plant-protein feeds, if available at reasonable cost. Not more than 15 per cent of the ration should come from this group.

Include at least one legume roughage, to make up 5 to 10 per cent. Some carrier of calcium should be included if the ration contains no meat scrap, fishmeal or tankage.

One pound of common salt should be added for each 100 pounds of total ration.

Iowa Farm Earns $4.50 Per Acre Each Month

The average Iowa acre is earning between $4.50 and $5.00 a month, cash, the Iowa development commission reports. Which means that the average 160-acre farm, under good management, is bringing in $768, gross per month.

Last year Iowa farmers made $59.40 for each of the 34½ million acres in farms in the Hawkeye state. That figures out $4.95 per month, per acre, or $495 per month for each 100 acres of Iowa land being farmed.

In the first six months of 1950—the leaner half of the farmer's year—Iowa farm income came to $27 per acre, or $4.50 per month, per acre. That still is $450 a month for every 100 acres of farm land.

The commission hastened to repeat that the figure is gross income. Out of it the farmer must pay for power and machinery, labor, feed, feeder stock and breeding stock, before he arrives at his own salary.
