Hill Top Mayor Propose Hope By-Pass Route

(From the Alamogordo News)
Mayor Ray Daniels of Cloudcroft this week was advocating to the Highway 83 Association an alternate route around Hope. The by-pass plan was brought to Mayor Daniel's mind, he said, after he had been fined on April 12, on a charge of speeding at the rate of 35 miles per hour through a 15 mile per hour zone. He was arrested by Deputy Sheriff B. L. McElroy, and in police court at Hope, Police Judge W. E. Rood, assessed the Mayor of Cloudcroft a fine of $10.00 plus $3.00 as the cost of holding court. In commenting on his treatment at the hands of Hope officials, Mayor Daniels said, "There ought to be an alternate 83 route around Hope. There are too many right angle turns there anyway." Mayor Daniels said he notified the court he wished to appeal the decision of the Police Judge, but was offered no facilities for doing so. He paid the fine and received in return a receipt for $13.00.

After reading the above item one of the readers of the Penasco Valley News handed in the following comment.

"Our apology to you, Mr. Ray Daniels, Mayor of Cloudcroft, for the inconvenience caused you in Hope, on April 12, 1951. We are trying to protect our children by enforcing the speed law in our school zone and main thoroughfare. We suggest that you be a more considerate driver and remember to have a drivers license with you in case you may be asked again to show one."

Basketeer Boys Given Banquet

The Pep Squad honored the basketball boys with a banquet held April 27 at 7 o'clock in the home economics room. The speaker was Coach Harve A. Oliphant of Western New Mexico College. He brought with him M. E. Harter, Jr.

The program was: Prayer, Mrs. W. A. Young; welcome, Reeva Wood; response, Clarence Forister; toast, Mr. Lea; song, Pep Squad; address, Coach Harve A. Oliphant who was introduced by Coach Toyobo.

The meal was furnished by different ladies of the community and the pep squad girls. Mrs. Anderson Young furnished all the chickens, which were prepared by other people of the community.

We would like to thank Mrs. Roy Bell, Mrs. Raleigh Newbill, Mrs. Anderson Young, Mrs. Ralph Lea, Mrs. Lincoln Cox, Mrs. Bob Wood, Mrs. Luke Toyobo, Mrs. Tom Harrison, Mrs. Joe Young and Mrs. Bill Jones for the help they rendered in preparing for this banquet.

The room was decorated with huge streamers of orange and black and a surprise package full of balloons which fell over everyone's head at just the right moment.

School News

3rd, 4th and 5th grade news: We are sorry that Johnny Hidalgo had the misfortune of breaking his arm last Saturday while he was trying to crank a tractor. Jackie Stephen and Barbara Nell Seeley are at home with the mumps. The 5th grade pupils have drawn a picture of the arm and the muscles of the arm. They are also learning the bones of the body. The 4th grade pupils have completed their Spanish reader. Ann Teel from Junction, Tex., visited our room last Friday.

We are working on our gifts for Mother's Day but we don't want to tell what we are making and you mustn't ask us either. Both grades have finished their number books and are now drilling on number combinations. The second graders finished their science books but the first graders have about three weeks more to go. (Shirley calls them "sinus books") English books will be next to be finished and we are trying to get ahead on our spellers so we may do lots of studying for our final exam. We like to have Mrs. Lea read us stories while Mrs. Young sings with her children. Mrs. Henderson says she hears almost as much about Mrs. Lea and Mrs. Young now.

Drillers Plays in Artesia Next Week

After a road trip the Artesia Drillers come back home on May 10 and play Vernon, Texas, on Thursday and Friday, May 10 and 11. On May 12 and 13 the Drillers will tangle with Sweetwater. The game on the 13th will be at 2:30 on Sunday afternoon. On Monday and Tuesday, May 14 and 15, Midland will come to the Municipal Stadium for a two-game series. Wednesday and Thursday, May 16 and 17, Big Spring will be the team opposing the Drillers. After a few days on the road the Drillers will come back to their home park and tackle Odessa on May 24 and 25.

San Angelo, the league leaders at present, will be in Artesia May 26 and 27, the second game being on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Then on May 30 and 31, the Roswell Rockets will invade the neighboring city of Artesia. This is truly an interesting schedule for the month of May. We hope the wind will subside and that the sun will be a little warmer for this month.

As this is written, which in Tuesday, May 1, the San Angelo team is leading with a percentage of .667. They have won 6 and lost 3. Midland is right on their heels with a percentage of .600, having won 6 and lost 4. Vernon has also won 6 and lost 4, which gives them a percentage of .600. Sweetwater has won 5 and lost 4, giving them a percentage of .556. Roswell has won 4 and lost 4 with a percentage of .500. Then comes Big Spring with .375 having won 3 and lost 5. Artesia has won 3, and lost 6 giving them a percentage of .333. Odessa is sharing the honors with Artesia in having a percentage of .333 having won 3 and lost 6.

By this time next week we predict that several of the teams in the Longhorn League will change places. Artesia is due to climb higher in the percentage column. You can't keep a good ball club down, especially with a good ball park like the Artesia Stadium and a loyal bunch of fans behind them. Just watch and see if my predictions come true.

By July 6 half of the games scheduled will have been played. By that time the baseball fans can get an idea of who is who and what is what. By July 6, we are predicting that the Drillers will be up in the first division. In the month of May and June, the weather will warm up and the pitchers will be in better shape. A baseball team can't play good baseball when the north wind is blowing down the back of their necks.

Baptist Project For New Mexico

New Mexico is to have a $4,000,000 religious leadership camp at Glorieta. Its location within New Mexico has been largely inspired by a gift of a camp site, made by New Mexico's 50,000 Baptists to Southern Baptists' 7,000,000 affiliates. The Southern group is sponsoring the movement with the Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn., building and administering the project.

This will be the second assembly of its kind under Southern Baptists' administration. The first is located at Ridgcrest, N. C., an area that has been described as the "Land of the Skies." Glorieta, a 20-minute drive east from Santa Fe is in the heart of what is indeed an "Enchanted Land" easily a match for any spot in the Southern Baptist territory, extending from Washington, D. C., to the Golden Gate of the Pacific.

Of concern to every citizen of the state is the fact that vital materials, such as is necessary in a building movement so large, were obtained before restrictions were imposed. The camp, therefore, is well on its way to becoming a New Mexico visitor's attraction, second only to Carlsbad Caverns. It is estimated that a season's trainees will run into the hundreds of thousands with as many as 50,000 present in a single ten-day session. While the camp's business will be, primarily, that of training and fellowship, the recreational feature, will by no means be neglected. In front of the auditorium, shown here, there will be a large artificial lake and the 1300 acre camp tract will provide many activities for those who desire to mix study with play.

It is alleged that Rita will seek a divorce from Aly. If she does it will be just like we thought all the time. She will probably get a million or two in alimony which should keep the wolf away from the door, at least until another fairy prince arrives.

General Douglas MacArthur has received an invitation to "rest and relax" in the picturesque Black Hills of South Dakota and an aide said that the deposed Far East commander would give it his deep consideration. The invitation was presented in person by two South Dakota editors.

We are glad to read that General MacArthur has said that he is not interested in politics. We are glad to hear that. The general is 71 years old, he had been active in military affairs for the past 50 years and we think he is entitled to retire and live in peace and happiness the balance of his life.

The summer season was opened in Hope last week by Bill Weddige having his head shaved. And then this cold spell came along and Bill has had to wear a night cap when he goes to sleep. In order to make the opening of the summer season official the mayor of Hope should issue a proclamation designating a "Straw Hat Day."

Major General William Curtis Chase, who commanded a division under Gen. MacArthur in World War II, has been named chief of the military commission which is being sent to Formosa to train Chinese Nationalist soldiers in the use of modern weapons and equipment. This mission may be increased to 500 or 600 men in the near future.

More rain was in prospect for some of the flood areas in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. So far the floods have made 7500 persons homeless and threatened another 24,000. If you would ask us what we think about it, we would say that we would rather dry up and blow away as to live in a place where you are flooded out and washed away.

The merry month of May is going to be a big month for the baseball fans of Artesia and surrounding communities. On May 2 and 3 the Drillers played Roswell; May 10 and 11 Vernon; May 12 and 13 Sweetwater; May 14 and 15 Midland; May 16 and 17 Big Spring; May 24 and 25 Odessa; May 26 and 27 San Angelo; May 30 and 31 Roswell. There will be two Sunday afternoon games in May—May 13 against Sweetwater and May 27 against San Angelo. The afternoon games start at 2:30 p. m.

Bryant Williams with the help of a few assistants vaccinated 5,000 turkeys preparatory to turning them out on the range. He expected to receive 3,000 poulters from Texas this week. We hope that the turkeys that are being turned on the range will fatten up soon, this jack rabbit diet is getting monotonous. The turkeys that Mr. Williams raises are sure good eating, we know, because we had one last week.

Defense Mobilizer Wilson has predicted that Russia will attack the U. S. before 1953 or not at all because by that time Joe Stalin will "be a dead duck and he knows it." Wilson said that the U. S. will have everything they need to prosecute the Korean war by the end of 1951, will be in a position to fight an all out war by 1952 and will be able to aid American allies as well as fight a global war by 1953.—Maybe so, anybody can do a lot of predicting, but we would like to ask, What Does Wilson Know About War?

The St. Louis Star-Times is asking for the return to Korea of General MacArthur to serve as "General Emeritus" and advisor to Gen. Matthew Ridgeway. This newspaper stated that President Truman's action in relieving MacArthur from his Far East command "may turn out to be disastrous." There is no necessity to change the command. Let able Gen.

First and Second Grade News—We are being rather hard hit with a wave of sickness. Leon Alexander, Betty Seely and Helen Hardin have the measles. Spencer Henderson, Marta and Trudy Hibbard and Mary Baca have just recovered. Helen also has the mumps as do Marilyn Kasulka and Roy Young. One day we had only 12 in our room. That makes it hard to carry all our classes right along and to practise our play. But maybe the worst will be over in a week and we can get things done yet. We will have our Achievement tests the very day every one gets back.

Not since the cow jumped over the moon has beef ever been so high as it was when 13-year-old Andrew Tatsch (right) sold his champion steer to B. B. McGimsey (left) for the world's record price of $21,000. The steer weighed 1,000 pounds. The sale was made at the San Antonio livestock show where the steer, "Shorty," won the great championship. Young Tatsch plans to buy a ranch with his money. He hails from the Crabapple community, near Fredericksburg, Texas.

Cancer in Large Animals Is Difficult to Detect

Difficulty of detecting and treating cancer of the stomach in horses is pointed up by the death of Cacique, a notable stallion of pure Arab bloodlines. Reporting on the case, the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association said that early diagnosis of cancer of the stomach in large animals is "practically an impossibility at present." Symptoms are not clear-cut and death may occur quickly.

MacArthur Given Hero's Welcome; Divided Nation Questions Issues

AN AROUSED NATION—No one event in the recent history of the United States has caused as much comment among the people on the Main Streets of the little towns and big towns of the nation as that of the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his commands in the far east. It was a shocked and angry nation that gathered on Main Street when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. It was a happy nation that demonstrated at the end of World War II. But it was a divided nation that questioned the removal of MacArthur!

New Commanders

Lt. Gen. Ridgway

Lt. Gen. Van Fleet

With the removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his commands in the Pacific, Lt. Gen. Ridgway has taken over MacArthur's posts in Tokyo. Lt. Gen. Van Fleet assumed command of the 8th army in Korea, succeeding Ridgway.

means less chance of total war . . . ; Bonn—"Most Germans believe that at worst General MacArthur's impulsiveness would involve the United States in a general war."

THE PRESS—Back of the national scene the home town press took a more temperate view of the incident than expressed by the thousands of telegrams that were received by senators and congressmen. The home town editors were concerned about constitutional rights and which is more important to world peace, Asia, as believed by MacArthur, or Europe, as believed by Truman.

A survey of 78 leading newspapers in the daily field showed this division of opinion: Truman right, 38; Truman wrong 26; neutral, 14. The daily press, too, was deeply concerned over issues concealed in the first blast of tempers.

THE CONGRESS—And while the Truman-MacArthur controversy raged along the Main Streets of the nation, the debate reached the boiling point in the house and senate. It can be said with all truthfulness that the dispute reached the stage where those two bodies of men, representing the people of the United States, stripped themselves of what little dignity remained after three years of battling over domestic and foreign issues.

The debate, for the most part, was along party lines with the Republicans backing MacArthur and the Democrats plugging the President. Both sides hurled the label of "war party" at the other. There were indications, however, that the two parties might get together for a sweeping investigation of the administration's far eastern policy.

ANOTHER LONG WAIT—While the nation talked of the Truman-MacArthur controversy, the house passed its version of a draft bill. But the mothers and fathers in the small towns of the nation appear in for another long wait before they learn the fate of their sons.

The measure now goes to a house-senate conference committee that has the senate version of a draft. The conferees face a long and hard struggle to work out a compromise. Long-range training features of the two measures pose the greatest obstacle to quick agreement. There are, however, numerous other conflicts that will require time to adjust.

At the moment it appears very likely that a compromise bill might not become law much before July 9, the expiration date of the present selective service act.

FARM MACHINERY OUTPUT—The long-awaited cutback in farm equipment output is expected during the next three months, industry spokesmen reported, with production of about 75 per cent of the industry's capacity. Production of farm tractors for the first quarter of this year was higher than in 1950, but material shortages are expected to reduce schedules.

From January through March, 152,260 farm tractors were produced. In the corresponding months of 1950 the total was 147,972 units. The increase was attributed to use of materials stockpiled during last fall's strikes. Accumulated materials have been used up, however, and manufacturers are having difficulties securing quantities to keep pace with production schedules.

DEFENSE JOBS GO BEGGING—The people of the home towns of the nation are not rushing into defense jobs as fast as some government agencies desire.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the bureau of employment security, reported that 50,000 unfilled jobs clog the rolls of state employment offices as the nation's defense program shifts into second gear.

The unfilled jobs are for workers in professional, managerial, skilled, service, clerical and sales, semiskilled, and unskilled fields. Thirty-six states reported openings.

DECISION SOON—Since March 5, when deputies of Great Britain, France, Russia, and the United States began meetings in Paris in hope of agreeing on an agenda for another foreign ministers' conference, the people in the home towns of America have waited patiently for an announcement that perhaps the big four could get together.

A decision should be reached any day now and the democratic nations believe the Soviet Union will agree to the conference. U.S. diplomats believe the Russians will agree for three reasons: (1) To stall, or at least put a brake on the accelerated defense programs of the free nations of the Atlantic alliance; (2) To exploit and widen whatever difference may still exist among the western powers and to divide them on important policy issues, if possible; and (3) To use the proposed conference, bound to be one of the most widely reported events in recent history, as an organ of propaganda for Soviet "peace aims."

Restaurants Have Important Role in Home Town Economy

Restaurants are so much a part of the daily American scene that people in the home towns more or less take them for granted. But all during May, which is "Restaurant Hospitality Month", local restaurateurs have an opportunity to make the home folks sit up and take due note of the role the restaurant industry and the men and women who are a part of it play in the Main Street and national economy and well being.

"Eat Out Today—It's Convenient! It's Fun!" is the slogan that has been chosen to set the theme of the month. People on Main Street will see it displayed on front doors and windows, on mirrors and counters in their favorite restaurants throughout the nation.

Many local and state restaurant associations, perhaps the restaurateurs just up the street, have planned programs by which they will bring to your attention the services they offer. Some will sponsor cooperative newspaper or radio advertising, while others plan luncheons, parades, parties, or similar festivities to honor their outstanding civic leaders, underprivileged children, or other citizens in the public limelight.

On a national scale members of allied industries will publicize Restaurant Hospitality Month through their advertising.

One of the amazing things about the restaurant business is that the average home-towner does not realize what an important part the restaurant on Main Street plays in his community.

In an indirect manner he is the official host of your town. That is where the tourist stops to be fed, to ask a few questions, and to relax. And on whether or not he gets a good meal depends the length of time he will spend in your community, and possibly the amount of money he will leave behind. A good restaurant has caused more motorists to drive out of their way than possibly any other industry in the country today.

But aside from the outside trade a good restaurant brings into your own community, just what is the economical relation of the restaurants in your home town upon the population?

Count them up. Maybe there's only one restaurant in your town—maybe four. How many people do they employ? How much food do they buy? How much do they pay in taxes? Total them up and you have a good part of your home town retail business.

On the national level, 25 per cent of all the food consumed in this country is consumed in public eating establishments. All kinds and types of meals and ways of serving them have been devised to suit the convenience, tastes, pocketbooks and nationalities of the people who make up America. Twenty years ago only 18 per cent of the food was consumed outside the home.

Today the public feeding industry has become the third largest retail industry in America, doing an annual volume of $10 billion a year. Over 2 million people are employed in the public feeding industry. In retail trades, eating places rank third in the number of persons gainfully employed throughout the year with no seasonal slump. One out of every six workers in retail trades is employed in the public eating industry.

It has been estimated that 7.1 per cent of the consumer's disposable income for food and beverages in 1950 was outside the home. This includes any establishment serving food to the public for a consideration: lunchrooms, cafeterias, table service, hotel dining rooms, fountains, variety store counters, department store operations, industrial feeding operations, school lunchrooms, drive-ins, and inflight food service.

Long-trend changes in the consumption habits of the public that have taken place since World War II and the increase in travel are cited as the reason for this great increase in away-from-home eating.

National and Inter-American Music Week (May 6-13) will be observed this year in more than 3,000 cities, home towns and small communities. For the 28th annual observance the basic aims of Music Week continue, as they have been from the beginning: to advance the love of music and impress upon the consciousness of the people its value in modern life; to increase performance of music by groups and individuals; to multiply opportunities for young talent and widen acquaintance with good music by American composers.

Perhaps your home town has planned special musical programs. If not, it is not too late to arrange a program that will bring to the attention of your community the value of music.

Church and church-school participation has been increasing in recent years in many small towns. Sermons on music and special programs by organists and choirs are being supplemented by concerts and hymn singings designed to revitalize the entire musical side of the church service. Inter-church and inter-denominational events are using music to strengthen the cooperative as well as the religious spirit.

Youth groups of both boys and girls have been coming to the fore in Music Week with demonstrations of what they are doing in music. Many adult groups—women's clubs, parent-teacher associations and rural groups, like the Grange, Four-H and Homemakers Clubs, are taking advantage of the observance effectively to climax their season's musical activities and sometimes to arrange public programs.

Men's luncheon clubs, service clubs, and civic organizations are not only taking part more prominently, with music for their own members, but are furthering movements for the general musical development on the local level.

Schools and clubs have a unique opportunity in Music Week to focus attention on the musicians of the community, professional and amateur. In some communities observances will feature programs to bring out the contributions of local musicians toward making the town a better place in which to live.

From the inception of Music Week on a synchronized national basis in 1924 the schools have had a prominent role in the participation and have used the opportunity to make local communities more conscious of their increasingly effective work in music. The week gives school orchestras, bands and glee clubs an opportunity to appear before service clubs and civic organizations to demonstrate their achievements.

Thousands of small towns across the nation find in Music Week the opportunity for self-expression that stresses their mutual interests and achievement. It is another means by which the people in every town can create their own entertainment.

SPRING CLEANING

Modern Housewives Should Take Advantage of Cleaning 'Helpers'

Spring cleaning—that time is here again for thousands of small town housewives across the nation—more than ever brings a challenge to American women to keep things spotless clean and shining bright in spite of problems on the home front. It means taking good care of household furnishings to extend their period of use and thus eliminate costly repairs and replacements.

Perhaps the family dreads the announcement that it's house-cleaning time again, but this problem can be simplified if the job is well organized. By taking advantage of modern cleaning "helpers" the home town housewife can lighten household tasks.

It's a wise housewife who first checks the supply of household products on hand to see what must be obtained before cleaning starts. And a well-planned housecleaning schedule extended over a two or three week period and not crammed into a few days of exhausting work eliminates tearing up the house from top to bottom and also saves family tempers. One room completed at a time before going to the next will make every husband happy.

Why not prepare a spring house-cleaning campaign like a general and first make a helpful list of basic housecleaning needs.

WHILE this year's Academy Awards are still news, Paramount has been holding advance screenings for the press of "A Place in the Sun," which will certainly be among the strongest contenders for the best film of 1951. Elizabeth Taylor, never more beautiful, Montgomery Clift, giving a performance that could not be bettered, and Shelly Winters head a suberb cast. Miss Winters, wearing no make-up and rubbishy clothes, should easily walk away with the Oscar for the year's best actress. George Stevens' production and direction are outstanding. "A Place in the Sun" will take its place among the best motion pictures ever produced here or abroad.

Joan Blondell will play a fading musical comedy star in RKO's "The Blue Veil," a role which is more dramatic than those she usually draws, and one which also gives her a chance to sing. She will continue to star in the road-show company of "Happy Birthday" up to the minute when she is needed in Hollywood; was in Birmingham, Ala., when given the part.

"The Man from Planet X," United Artists science-fiction film, reverses the usual plot in which earthmen journey to distant planets; in this one eerie beings from a mysterious planet stage the first invasion of this world.

The day Gene Nelson left home to begin work in Warners' "Goldiggers of Las Vegas" his wife gave him a healthy kick and his small son threw an old shoe at him—just obeying an old theatrical superstition which is supposed to bring the best of luck to the victim; the Nelsons are dyed-in-the-wool show folk. But "Miriam swings a mean right," said Gene ruefully.

Jackie Kelk, who is being tested for a role in Loretta Young's forthcoming movie, is no newcomer to films. When "Homer" of the radio and television "Aldrich Family" was 10 he was in "Born to Be Bad"—as Loretta's son.

In a deal that calls for two of his song hits to be included in the picture, Hoagy Carmichael has been signed by RKO for a featured role in "The Las Vegas Story." He will introduce his new "The Monkey Song," and Jane Russell will sing his old "I Get Along Without You Very Well." She heads the cast with Victor Mature and Vincent Price.

At one point in C. B. DeMille's "The Greatest Show on Earth" there is an aerial duet between Betty Hutton and Cornel Wilde, during which the camera focuses on the faces of the circus spectators. If you look quickly, as it swings from one person to another, you will see two countenances that are all too familiar—belonging to Bob Hope and Bing Crosby.

For a scene with Jon Hall in Columbia's "China Corsair," Lisa Ferraday wears an evening gown with a 12-inch slit from the neck down, held together by a large pin. Director Ray Nazarro told Hall to try to appear inconspicuous in that scene. "Listen," said Hall, "the audience wouldn't notice me if I wiggled my ears; all eyes will be focused on that pin!"

Bert Parks, unlike most people who sing in the show, does his vocal rehearsing for his daytime "Bert Parks Show" while driving into New York from his home in Connecticut—leaves a trail of startled drivers as he whizzes past.

Paramount has acquired the screen rights to "The Sad Sack," George Baker's famous cartoon character of the appealing little GI, as a starring vehicle for Alan Young, to be made after "Aaron Slick from Punkin Crick."

OUTLAW GUNS

BY E. E. HALLERAN

THE STORY SO FAR:
Dan Frazer, undercover government agent, and Helen Bartell arrive in the border town of Mesa Verde on the stage-coach. A third passenger on the stage is a dead man who was killed by bandits.

Among the crowd that gathers to meet the stage Frazer sees his old friend, Marshal Carson Emery. Deputy Ed Delaplane and Derek Bartell, Helen's father. Helen and Frazer explain the circumstances of the shooting. Frazer meets and talks to two suspicious-looking men, a big blond man and a little Mexican, who query him about the murder. He checks in at the Mesa Verde hotel where he is greeted by a red-haired girl.

CHAPTER IV

"And what would ye be wantin'?"

He smiled at the brogue. "Sure and it's a bed I'm after," he told her. "Would ye be havin' one fer a man what's come a long ways?"

"A dollar for the room. Would ye be wantin' supper?"

"Why not?"

"Then come along. It's ready now."

He followed her into the gloomy dining room, still more than a little puzzled about her. In spite of her war paint she seemed like a decent little thing—and she was quite attractive with her sparkling green eyes and red hair. What bothered him most was the fear he had seen lurking in the depths of those green eyes. What was bothering this girl—and why?

When the meal was over he caught the red-head's eye and asked, "Now what about the room?"

Before she could reply a burly man stuck his head into the dining room, his voice practically a snarl as he addressed the girl. "Sal! Stop your damned folly and git on with yer work. Git them dishes into the kitchen."

Emery Informs Frazer Of His Suspicions

"And who might ye be?" he demanded abruptly.

The girl hastened to reply. "This is the man who was on the stage this afternoon, Father." Then she added hastily as the stocky man started to growl uneasily, "He wasn't robbed. He's already paid his bill."

Instantly the landlord's expression changed. He even put on the trace of a smile as he nodded toward Frazer. "Glad to meet you, brother," he acknowledged. "I'm Ben Chew. Make yourself to home. We'll try to keep you comfortable while you're with us. Won't we, Sal?"

The girl's cheeks flamed, but she managed to ignore him as she headed for the stairway. "I'll show you the room now, mister," she said crisply.

Nearly forty minutes passed before a light footstep in the hall brought Frazer to instant alertness. His six-gun was in his hand, but he shoved it back into his belt when the opening door disclosed the small form of Carson Emery. The marshal was a little embarrassed at his own attempts to play the stealthy game, but the embarrassment had the effect of making him keep his voice down.

"What job is it, Dan?" he asked.

Frazer smiled. "I guess you know me well enough so that you're not expecting me to say very much."

"That's right. I'll do enough buzzin' fer both of us. Let's get a couple o' things straight, though. Am I right in figurin' that you're out here because somebody's almighty worried about a lot o' guns and ammunition what disappeared from these parts?"

"You could be."

"Then I aim to figure on that bein' the case. I won't ask you what the government's angle is because I figure you won't tell me. I'll just guess that Washington is afraid their guns are intended for some kind of a two-bit revolution in Mexico. Maybe there's even been word that the Yaquis are gettin' kinda restless over in the Sierra Madres."

Frazer chuckled at the little man's whimsy. "It seems to me I will hear mention of the Yaquis," he acknowledged.

"Awful restless critters, the Yaquis," Emery complained. "They're plumb ongrateful about the blessin's bestowed on 'em by the American miners. Right now it looks like they might bust out in a real ruckus and try to chase the miners outa the Sierra Madres. There's plenty copper mine folks who wouldn't like that."

"You mean the guns are intended for use against the Yaquis?"

"It could be either way. This dangd town is plagued by all the troubles o' most border towns as well as a lot o' cussedness that the other ones don't have. We're branded by all the usual border miseries—and then we got Derek Bartell besides."

"What's his angle?" Frazer asked.

"The man's plumb crazy patriotic. He's got a few shares o' stock in a couple of these local copper mine companies, but I don't reckon he's out fer the money. With him it's almost like a religion but the other boys are playin' it up for what it's worth in dollars and cents. Bartell's promotin' a filibuster invasion of Mexico, the object bein' to saw Sonora off from the rest of the country and add it on to Arizona. Bartell figures it's a patriotic idea, but I reckon his partners are thinkin' mostly about how they could control their minin' interests better if they was all under United States control. Anyway, that's what seems to be underneath all the restlessness. That's what the guns are for."

"Sounds possible," Emery exclaimed. "Gale useta be around Bartell's quite a bit. Stuck on the gal, I reckon, although she never give him much of a tumble."

Frazer Asks Marshal To Investigate Gale

"What's the government's an-drupt change of subject. "Name's Vince Gale. He had a prospect shaft just south of town for a spell, but he ain't been workin' it lately. I dunno what he's doin' for a livin' now."

"See if you can't find out. He's just the right size to be one of the bandits. Not the one who shot our friend; the other one, who was afraid Miss Bartell would recognize his voice."

"We'll keep that in mind. Now, have you run across a fellow named Archie Scott lately? It isn't likely he would be using that name but I can give you a description of him. He's in his early forties, weighs about one-eighty and is a bit bow-legged. Sandy hair and mustache. I've never seen him, so all I can give you is the description that was handed to me. Except for the bow-legged part it seems to fit this Gale hombre pretty well."

Emery shook his head. "Don't know him. Where does he fit in?"

"He's one of our men. Sent out here to get a line on these missing guns. I'm supposed to find him, get the facts from him, and carry on from there."

There was a brief silence and then the marshal asked, "Did you recognize the gent who got plugged this afternoon?"

Frazer shook his head. "No—but I've passed the word that I did. By this time I'll bet the whole town has heard gossip to the effect that the dead man was a government agent."

Emery stared. "But he wasn't. I know who he was."

"Who was he?"

"A gambler name of Oliver Repeke, generally known as The Duke. He was one of the best bottom dealers in the business and his usual game was to act so damned respectable that the suckers couldn't believe he'd trimmed them even when he put their money in his pocket."

Frazer Reviews Problems In Mesa Verde Mystery

"Did he ever work this part of the country?"

"Not that I know of. I knew him in Kansas."

"Then I think we've got the beginnings of an explanation. Archie Scott has run into something important, something so big that certain people can't afford to have him report it. Somehow there's been a leak. Somebody knows that today is the day Scott is to meet another government agent here in Mesa Verde. To prevent that there's an attempt to kill the new man before he gets here. Unfortunately for the plotters—and most fortunately for me—they don't know who the agent is. So they kill the man who looks the part."

Your friend the Duke got shot because he was looking so confounded important—and because I was being my usual self."

"That could be it. If it is—where's this Scott gent?"

"I'd like to know. I'd figure he was dead, only there wouldn't seem to be much reason for this other killing if Scott is already out of the way."

A series of shouts from the street made Marshal Emery stand up quickly. "I'd better get outa here," he said briefly. "Just one reminder. Don't wear a gun when you start to prow the town. I'm educatin' this here hamlet to a no-gun ordinance. Don't mess me up by totin' one."

Before Frazer could reply the little man was out of the room. His hasty exit left a lot of questions unanswered, but a large part of the picture was beginning to be pretty clear. There must be three or four different factions in town, each one planning to avail itself of the munitions in the hands of Derek Bartell and his friends.

More alarming than the complicated nature of the mess, however, was the fact that someone had already committed a murder to forestall government interference.

"I begin to understand. Now tell me this: who was the fellow I pointed out to you on the street?"

THE -WEEK In Religion

INSPIRATION Wasting Time

A CELEBRATED SURGEON was once said to have turned to a group of students gathered to witness a critical operation, saying "Now, gentlemen, don't let's hurry, because we have no time to lose."

There is an old saying about "more haste, less speed." The person who is always in a hurry is generally a time-waster rather than a time-saver. The man in a hurry tends to be slipshod; what he does often has to be done over. Wasting time through fussing and flurry may ordinarily be a minor fault of character. But it can be physically injurious because of the tension involved. In the spiritual life it may be an even more serious weakness.

The hurrier seems to get things done. That is why we hear the expression, "If you want a favor, ask a busy man." But where is the busy man or woman in whom one finds the calm and peace of mind which is the characteristic of the deeply spiritual soul?

The above editorial and other material appearing in this column were prepared by Religious News Service.

Truman Asks Nation Find Religious Faith

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Truman said here that only a living allegiance to a burning religious faith can carry this nation through the trials which confront it in the years ahead.

He made this statement to a throng of 10,000 persons as he laid the cornerstone for the new $1,200,000 edifice of New York Avenue Presbyterian church.

"Religion should establish moral standards for the conduct of our whole nation, at home and abroad," he said. "The democracy we cherish, and our free institutions, depend on the observance of the moral code—in private and in public life."

The president said that Americans talk about freedom, but that freedom soon degenerates into selfishness and license unless there are moral restraints.

Mr. Truman took note of disclosures made by the Kefauver Senate crime investigating committee, although he did not mention the committee by name.

Minister Queries Members on Beliefs

RICHMOND, Va. — The Rev. W. Leigh Ribble thinks that the average clergyman has little idea of what his church members really believe.

He decided that the best way to find out was to ask, so he sent questionnaires to the 550 communicants of Grace and Holy Trinity Episcopal church here.

Following each question were multiple answers from which the communicant was asked to choose the one which best expressed his own view. The answers ranged all the way from strict orthodoxy to atheism.

About 150 of the questionnaires have come back. Mr. Ribble is not yet ready to make any of the findings public, though he does say "a few" indicated that the persons who filled them in are atheists.

The rector does not think this is a condition peculiar to his church, but that it is "fairly typical of Protestantism." He feels that the church has been neglecting doctrine while putting great emphasis on "teaching people how to be good church members."

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Yes, here is why FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, flush away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You feel weak, worn out.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel where it removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. Use FEEN-A-MINT and feel your "peppy," energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 25c, 50c or only 10c.

RED ARMY SPEARHEADS THE MENACE OF COMMUNISM
... would MacArthur's policies have brought total war? ...

THE GREAT CONTROVERSY

History Shows That the Symptoms Underlying MacArthur's Dismissal Have Existed for Many Centuries

By W. P. SCHOENTGEN
WNU Managing Editor

There is a kind of universality about Douglas MacArthur that communicates itself to many men, something of the same stuff that leads nearly everyone to believe in his own heart that he can run a newspaper and play Hamlet with a deathless genius.

Was MacArthur right or wrong in his belief in the strategic priority of Asia, the bombing of Manchuria, the utilization of Chinese Nationalist forces?

Did he, in public and private rejection of administration and United States policies in the Far East, express a subconscious desire to achieve "martyrdom" for his principles?

Did President Truman take the right action but at the wrong time in relieving MacArthur of his multiple command?

It doesn't make any difference who you are — you undoubtedly have your own strong, definite and perhaps impassioned answer to each of those questions. And according to your answers, you align yourself on one side or the other of the MacArthur controversy—the great American schism of 1951.

It is a basic division, a schism of the soul and spirit; and the rock upon which the split has occurred is a military man, a soldier, yea, even a 71-year-old general.

Military Men's Drama

That in itself is not unusual. It is, in point of fact, a fairly sound historical tradition that great epochs of man's development are likely to turn upon the personality of a military leader, probably because it is easy for the public to focus its attention upon a man who can be identified with the drama of danger and physical action, and with the glamour of military triumphs.

General MacArthur follows vigorously in that tradition. It has been his peculiar destiny to help lead this nation in smiting tyranny both right and left within the past decade, striking to the right at Japanese imperialism in World War II and to the left at Communist efforts at domination in Korea and the Far East.

Thus he has become a political symbol, having stood as the spearhead of America's often inept and fumbling but always intense desire for peace that patently will not be had for the asking but which may come if we fight hard enough for it.

Whether the principles he has advocated are right or wrong, it is MacArthur the symbol, not MacArthur the man, around which the very real, very basic foreign policy quarrel has gathered.

From that point of view, the MacArthur controversy is an old and elemental form of domestic strife that has occurred and recurred within this or that national community ever since man has been able to formulate and defend an opinion.

Without attempting to make any invidious comparisons, a number of historic parallels to the MacArthur case become apparent from a quick glance at the records.

There is a superficial resemblance, for instance, between the firing of MacArthur by President Truman and Calvin Coolidge's dismissal of the late General "Billy" Mitchell for defying orders. Mr. Coolidge made it clear, however, that he was in sympathy with the cause of aviation which Mitchell was personifying. But he also made it plain that, sympathy or no sympathy, he could not overlook the insubordination of which General Mitchell was found guilty.

An Assist to Air Power

The violent closing of Billy Mitchell's career, we know now, marked the turning point of the controversy over the future of military aviation, and the pioneering fight not only the enemy but the torpor and passivity of his own generals in the field. The military issue at stake that time was whether or not Meade, Hooker, McClellan and others in the string of Union generals were right in fighting a defensive war, avoiding battles wherever possible, and choosing more often to retreat than to fight.

General Grant

Grant favored action and offensive contact with the Confederate armies. Over the protestations of his subordinates, he decided to attack wherever possible and carry the war to the enemy.

The ultimate surrender of General Lee and the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox proved the rightness of Grant's strategy. But Grant, who went on to become President of the United States, albeit not an especially popular one, remained the center of a maelstrom of violent opinions all his life.

So the MacArthur story is by no means a new one. Call his actions and utterances in Korea insubor-

he went his own way

dination, or call them an honorable defense of his own principles, they have basic meaning for us as a dramatic illustration of the grim fact that the United States has to choose between two basic and different courses in this battle against the evils of communism.

One way is going to be right, the other wrong. We say that the nation, in its collective mind, has

he loved the boom

split over the issue of which is the best way to deal with Communist aggression in the Far East.

But it is not, it cannot be, a fatal split. The doubt that has been lurking behind our thinking and our attitude on the question of how best to fight the monstrosity of world communism has been brought plainly into the open and is clearly defined.

There is no longer any reason for anyone—be he statesman, military man, farmer, storekeeper or factory worker—to deny the existence of that doubt. Now it can be talked about and it can be eliminated.

That is the great service that President Truman and General MacArthur have unwittingly performed for the nation and the free world. They have managed to get all the cards on the table.

The answer, still to be found, is there somewhere.

MacArthur's Father Had Troubles, Too

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's father Gen. Arthur MacArthur, embroiled himself in a bitter dispute with civilian authorities 50 years ago when he was military governor of the Philippine Islands, which the U.S. had just acquired from Spain.

William Howard Taft arrived in the islands as head of a presidential commission charged with establishing a civilian government in the Philippines.

Although President William McKinley was under heavy pressure in Washington to establish a civilian government as soon as possible, Arthur MacArthur's command took the point of view that only the army could do a proper job of restoring order and control.

When Taft arrived, MacArthur coldly refused to see him.

What Is Greatness?

Lesson for May 6, 1951

WHAT is a great man? Some men have been called great who were not so; they were only prominent. Hitler, for example, was certainly prominent enough; but he was not great. Men can truly be called great for various good reasons. Some may be artists; some may be soldiers, others statesmen or prophets. Once in a while a man is born who is great in more ways than one.

Dr. Foreman

David the Ideal King

SUCH a man was David, King of Israel and one of the world's most famous men. The United Kingdom of Israel had a short history, only three kings reigning over it—Saul, David and Solomon. Of the three, David was by all odds the greatest man and greatest king.

Neither Saul nor Solomon was capable of holding for a lifetime to a high ideal. Neither was capable of whole-hearted devotion to God. Neither one could gain and hold the loyalty of the nation.

It was only David who could do these things.

Military Genius

DAVID was great, in part because of his power in battle. What no one since Joshua had been able to do, David did; he welded the quarreling, jealous, weak tribes of Israel into a "single sword." The times called for military genius, and David had it.

So, often since David's time, there have been great soldiers who have used their military genius not for conquest in itself but in order to win some place in the sun for peace-loving nations. One thinks of Charles Martel, who saved Europe from barbarian conquest; of William of Orange who set the Dutch free from Spanish tyranny; of Washington, "father" of a great nation; and of many others.

The great soldiers of history have been more than professionally skilled and successful killers of men; they have been like David, men whose skill was used to preserve nations, not to destroy them.

Lovable Leadership

IN OUR times Hitler brought the word "Leader" under a shadow, because his leadership was in the wrong direction. But there is such a thing as noble and wise leadership, and David had this quality in a high degree.

It is true, success has something to do with it. Men will flock to a winner who would have nothing to do with him if he were a loser. But still it is a fact that most of the world's great leaders who have come up from obscurity, as David did, have arisen at the head of groups of devoted men who have followed them loyally through the darkest times.

So it was with David. During his years as leader of the "underground" (literally so, since for some time his headquarters were in a great limestone cave), he developed the hard core of the army he commanded at a later time.

Leader in Faith

DAVID had yet another quality of greatness, and for this he is perhaps best remembered. He was a man of deep religion. But religion for him was not merely a personal matter; he carried his faith into public life, he made his faith contagious.

Religion for him was not a stick with which to beat other people about the head, but a rod and staff to lean upon. It was not a secret locked in his own heart but something he desired to share with all his people.

And though he sometimes slipped and terribly fell, he could always rise again, for his religion gave him that rarest of all qualities in great men; humility before God and man.

Gems Of Thought

The picture of a woman one knows is never so agreeable a companion as the picture of a woman one has never seen.

Most women do not weep for the loss of a lover to show that they had been loved so much as to show that they are worth being loved.

Insanity in individuals is something rare—but in groups, parties, nations, and epochs it is the rule.

Marriage is a lottery in which men stake their liberty, and women their happiness.

National Farm Safety Week
Scheduled for July 22-28

If farm residents adopt safe practices throughout 1951, accidents may not kill an average of 47 farm people every day as they are now doing.

This will mean an important saving of America's manpower and production, especially vital now in view of the national emergency.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, recently urged this method of strengthening America's defense measures in announcing that the eighth annual National Farm Safety Week will be observed July 22-28.

"The purpose of this week is to encourage all farm people to adopt safe practices on the farm and in all phases of farm life the year around," Mr. Dearborn said.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmer's Union, the National Grange, the Farm Equipment Institute and many other organizations interested in farm life and agriculture have joined with the council and the U.S. department of agriculture in promoting the observance of National Farm Safety Week.

ARMED FORCES NEWS IN PARAGRAPHS

The first woman physician to be commissioned in the Air Force Medical Service, Dr. Dorothy Armstrong Elias, was sworn in recently as a captain in the USAF Medical Reserve (MC). She will be assigned to the new Air Force Indoctrination Center at Sampson Air Force Base, Seneca, New York.

The Department of the Army has announced plans to order into the active military service during July, August, and September, 1951, all ROTC students who will be graduated from colleges and universities and commissioned in the Organized Reserve Corps at the close of the academic year. It is estimated that about 10,000 students will be affected by the program.

The Department of the Army announced that 1,500 field grade Organized Reserve and National Guard officers of Infantry, Armor, Artillery, Signal Corps, and Chemical Corps will be ordered into active military service by June 29, 1951. Included are 1,100 officers in the rank of major and 400 in the rank of lieutenant colonel. All will be given 30 days before reporting for duty.

The United States Air Force has accepted delivery of its first navigator-bombardier training version of the Boeing B-50 "Superfortress," which has been designated the TB-50D. Designed as a "Flying Schoolroom," the TB-50D, will be used to train students in navigation and visual and radar bombing. Upon completion of training these students will serve as combined navigator-bombardier-radar operators on high-speed jet bombers.

The first production-built Walker Bulldog, the Army's newest tank, was completed three months ahead of contract schedule. It is a fast maneuverable vehicle, classed as "light" because of its 26-ton overall weight, and its cavalry and reconnaissance mission. It carries a new high muzzle velocity 76-mm gun.

Nine-Ounce Egg

Rufus Jennings of Oak Knoll farm is shown with a nine-ounce egg laid by one of his 5,000 New Hampshire hens recently. Jennings found no dead bird indicating that the hen survived. The egg is the largest to be weighed on an ordinary egg scale and tops previous U.S. mark of eight and one-half ounces set by Windham, N.H., hen. The Windham hen died.

Nebraska Radio-Active
Phosphorus Test Planned

Oat fertilizer tests with radio-active phosphorus are slated for several places in Nebraska this spring. Robert A. Olson, who will be in charge of the tests, said the investigation will be made to find how much phosphorus delivery power there is in several Nebraska soils. Tests will also show what proportions of the phosphorus which is used by oats comes from the soil.

Serve Family Breakfast That Tastes Wonderful, And Looks Good, Too

COULD YOU RESIST a breakfast that smelled irresistible, looked good and tasted wonderful? Could you pass up a well-balanced meal that someone cooked with enthusiasm, and hummed happily while they did it? No, chances are you couldn't, and neither will your family if you set this pleasant pace every morning.

Almost everyone agrees they should eat a good breakfast, but they have all sorts of reasons for not doing so: a few more minutes of sleep, lack of time, lack of appetite and interest. What's more, they know it would do them good, but they just don't get around to it.

Every homemaker can help her family off to a good start by planning this first meal as they do the others. When delightful odors come from the kitchen early in the morning, they can do more good than an alarm clock. If the meal is varied and interesting, she can have the family practically tumbling over each other getting to the table.

Start things off with a peppy eye-opener: plump, luscious strawberries, tall glasses of tomato, grapefruit or orange juice, juicy halves of grapefruit, colorful cranberry or refreshing pineapple juice.

Follow this with a bowl of steaming, fragrant cereal served with raisins and brown sugar and cream or crisp, already sugared prepared cereal with fruit-in-season.

If the family likes a hearty breakfast, try bacon rings with eggs or poached eggs in sausage nests. Maybe they'd like fried mush with apple rings, pancake drizzled with hot syrup, French toast with cherry preserves or plump omelet with Canadian bacon.

Fluffy Scrambled Eggs
(Serves 4)

- 6 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup light cream
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, if desired

Combine eggs, cream and seasonings. Cook in double boiler until just lightly set, or in a lightly greased skillet, stirring frequently. Serve on buttered toast with crisply cooked sausage, Canadian bacon circles or broiled bacon.

Golden Mush

PACKED COOKED cornmeal mush in tin can which has been rinsed in cold water. Cover and chill thoroughly. Slice and brown in hot fat in skillet until golden brown. Serve with sausage patties, glazed apple slices and hot syrup. The mush may be prepared the night before to chill thoroughly.

Slow cooking gives the patties the desired crispness.

Crisp Bacon and Eggs
(Serves 4)

- 6 slices bacon, chopped
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 3 eggs, beaten

Fry bacon until crisp. Remove lean; add bread crumbs to the drippings and heat until the crumbs are crisp and brown. Add milk and seasonings to eggs. Scramble in bacon drippings. When nearly set, add crumbs and bacon.

Wake up to a really good morning and get a running start on the day's work with a breakfast of fruit, cereal, appetizing hot bread, eggs and beverage. With a fresh and attractive table setting, you can enjoy breakfast and take time to enjoy it.

Whiffs of fragrant pineapple kuchen will send the family running to breakfast. A bread such as this which uses nonfat dry milk, rich in protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose is a good way of adding nutrients to the daily diet.

Sugar-Coated Cereal with Strawberries
*Fluffy Scrambled Eggs
Canadian Bacon *Popovers
Beverage
*Recipes Given

IF YOU WANT your popovers to be crusty and crisp, use the oven for them alone. If anything else needs baking, do it first. You'll like these for a gay breakfast with strawberry preserves or honey:

Crusty Popovers
(Makes 6-8)

- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon melted shortening

Beat eggs thoroughly. Add milk, then sifted dry ingredients. Add shortening. Beat until smooth with a rotary beater. Fill oiled custard cups one-half full. Bake in a very hot (450°) oven for 15 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350°) and bake until firm, about 30 minutes. Two or three minutes before removing from oven, prick to let steam escape.

Pineapple Kuchen
(Makes one 8"x8"x2" cake)

- Cake:
2 1/4 cups sifted flour
3 tablespoons nonfat dry milk
1/2 cup sugar
3 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup water
1/2 cup shortening, melted
- Topping:
1/2 cup coarse graham cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons nonfat dry milk
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup crushed pineapple, drained

To make cake, sift together flour, nonfat dry milk, sugar, baking powder and salt. To beaten egg, add water and slightly cooled, melted shortening. Make a well in dry ingredients. Add liquid ingredients all at once to dry ingredients. Mix lightly just enough to combine dry and wet ingredients. Do not beat. Pour into well-greased 8"x8"x2" cake pan. Sprinkle pineapple topping evenly over top of batter. Bake in a moderate (375°) oven until golden brown and firm when pressed with finger, about 40 minutes. Serve warm.

To make topping for cake, combine graham crackers, nonfat dry milk, flour and sugar. Cut in butter with two knives or pastry blender to make crumbs. Combine pineapple with crumbs. Spread evenly over batter.

Bacon Muffins
(Makes 12)

- 2 slices bacon
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 cup cornmeal

Cut bacon in small pieces and fry slowly until crisp. Add sugar, milk and egg. Sift flour with salt and baking powder. Mix with cornmeal. Add first mixture and stir until dry ingredients are moistened. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Bake in a hot (425°) oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

Editorial . . .

Mr. Truman has said that his Administration will not appease communism anywhere. But the fact remains that the British, who were most eager for MacArthur's dismissal, have shown what many people regard as an alarming desire to achieve a Far Eastern settlement on a Munich basis. They have proposed that Formosa be turned over to Red China. They bitterly opposed MacArthur's desire to enlist Nationalist China in the Korean war—and on this Mr. Truman and Secretary Acheson are squarely with them. In the view of defenders of the MacArthur type of thinking, the British policy, along with that part of the policy which is shared in top quarters in this country, cannot help but give communism victory after victory and endanger the whole East—Japan, the Philippines, and so on.

It must also be recorded that MacArthur's firing was received with great enthusiasm by the Communist Party in the United States—and that party, of course, has followed the Kremlin line like a tight rope walker.

The question of what shall be done about ending the Korean war remains unanswered. It certainly seems that the communists will not agree to a cease-fire except on terms dictated by them, terms which would amount to absolute appeasement by the UN powers. General MacArthur said that it was militarily impossible to win a decisive victory in Korea so long as Red China herself could not be attacked. His successor, General Ridgway, said practically the same thing some time ago.

Reports from the Korean combat zone indicate that the majority of the troops were shocked and dismayed by MacArthur's dismissal—not only because of the General as a personality and as a soldier, but because they feel it means they must go on and on, fighting and taking their casualties, in a useless and hopeless war which may last indefinitely. The General, they feel, was their great spokesman and now has been forced to leave them.

In any event, and regardless of one's personal sentiments on the MacArthur matter, it seems inevitable that a showdown is coming. The cork has blown out of the bottle. It does not seem possible that the indecisiveness which has characterized the handling of critical foreign affairs can last much longer. Congress, bolstered now by the high tide of public feeling, will demand that a straight course be steered in one direction or another.

To prevent bruise injuries to cows inside dairy loafing barn, a number of dairymen have suspended cut tires at hip level with three pieces of rope.

To prevent fighting among hens and to check egg breakage, a movable section of nests has been devised by a number of turkey raisers. The entrance guards are carefully balanced and rotate on pipe. When a hen enters a nest, the guard closes, giving privacy until she leaves. The top is removable and the nests are sometimes built on low runners so they can be moved easily.
