Remember to Vote Tuesday, Nov. 4

(EDITORIAL)

For the past three months the citizens of this country have been listening over the radio and reading in the newspapers about the various candidates who are running for office, from president down to the constable job. Everyone should be well informed on who are the candidates. By Tuesday morning, Nov. 4, everyone should know who they are going to vote for. Don't wait until the last minute and have someone tell you how to vote. Use your head, figure things out for yourself. Vote for the candidate whom you think is best fitted for the office. Four years ago about 50 per cent of the people didn't vote. That is a situation that is very bad. Some did not register, some of these were registered but were too busy to go to the polls. Others said, "My one vote don't make any difference. Why take the trouble to vote." Let's change all this on Nov. 4, 1952. Let us see if we can't get out a 90 per cent vote or better. This is a free country, let us go to the polls and vote and keep it free, for you and future generations.

Strictly Personal

Never in my life was I so near to indulging in self pity as I was one day last week when Bonnie began early in the morning to tell each guest in turn as they came into the coffee shop how old we were, how we couldn't hold out at hard work any more. I began to feel like an old horse ready for the soap factory. I stood it till noon and was about as low as a snake on the ground. I got to the point where I just had to have something to lean on, so I asked a friend to bring me out a walking cane from Artesia. Along toward night I began to brace up. I hung that cane on a nail, went out next day, bought myself a new hair set, a new dress, then stepped out to dinner at the Elks club and I defy anyone to intimate that I have just reached the stage where a cane is a comforting assurance. Well, I felt much better but Bonnie felt worse when he thought about the spending spree I went on. Women may be the weaker sex but as usual men are the sucker sex.—E. A.

Card of Thanks

The undersigned wishes to thank all their good friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our beloved husband and father. Also for the many beautiful floral offerings.—Mrs. W. W. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Parker and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fine and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Coates, Dwaine and Linda Howard.

Mack Watkins and George and William Watkins of Corsicana, Texas, were here for the W. W. Parker funeral.

Study Your Ballot Before Voting

Beatrice B. Roach, secretary of State, has sent a letter to all county clerks where voting machines will be used, warning them of the possibility of voters taking too much time when casting their vote on Nov. 4.

In the May 6 primary, the first statewide election to witness the use of any voting machines, numerous citizens had to wait an unreasonable time to vote, Mrs. Roach said. This was because voters in some precincts were allowed to remain within the machine's curtained enclosure for as much as 10 minutes or more, in violation of the law.

"If that same infraction of the law is allowed to occur in the general election of Nov. 4, it can result in prolonged trouble for all concerned, from the precinct and county officials to the state canvassing board," said Mrs. Roach. She is a member of the board.

The law sets a 2½ minute maximum for use of a voting machine. It is the responsibility of the polling place personnel to enforce the provision and this is not a matter open to the judgment of any official, Mrs. Roach said.

"The operation of the voting machine is quite simple even for those who wish to split their votes several ways. If a citizen requires longer than the legal maximum of 2½ minutes to cast his vote on a machine it must be presumed that he was not sufficiently familiar with the method of voting when he was permitted to enter.

"Unless the precinct election officers make sure that every citizen understands the operation of the machine before he enters and closes the curtain, we face the danger of post-election difficulty, contests and lawsuits. This danger is very real unless the polling place officials clearly understand their duties and responsibilities in that connection."

Mrs. Roach said her memorandum was not intended to alarm anyone unduly, but because of the primary election experience and possibility of close results in all Nov. 4 contests proper caution should be taken to prevent a recurrence in the general election.

Her office has estimated that voting machines will be used in about 10 per cent of the state's 900 voting divisions on Nov. 4.

HOME EC NEWS—

The Home Ec girls are very proud of their new "Royal" vacuum cleaner which they received Tuesday. They sold Christmas cards to get the money. Now the girls are practicing in two plays which we hope we will be able to put on before very long. This year the Home Ec girls are making aprons, which we have almost finished. When we finish them we will put them away until we start cooking and then we will use them for cooking.—Ruth Ann, reporter.

Funeral Services For W. W. Parker Held Tuesday

Funeral services for Wiley William Parker, 75-year-old Cottonwood farmer, were held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon from the First Baptist Church in Artesia with Rev. S. M. Morgan officiating.

Mr. Parker, a North Eddy county resident since 1926, died early Sunday morning at Artesia General hospital. His death was unexpected.

He was born Oct. 31, 1876, in Alabama, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Parker. In 1894, in Alabama, he married Emma J. Nomon, who survives her husband.

Four children were born to the couple and three survive their father. Mr. Parker came to Artesia in 1926 from Texas.

Children surviving are a son, H. V. Parker of Cottonwood; two daughters Mrs. Anna Bell Fine, of Ruidoso and Mrs. C. E. Coates, Hope; a sister, Mrs. Dollie Henderson, Trion, Ga. Four grandchildren and eight great grandchildren also survive.

Burial was made in Woodbine cemetery. Funeral arrangements were conducted by Paulin Funeral Home.

Mr. Parker farmed for 14 years at Barry, Texas, near Corsicana before settling in North Eddy county, north of Artesia.

He farmed until 1944, when he retired and moved to Artesia, where he and Mrs. Parker have resided at 508 N. Roselawn.

Hope News

Mr. and Mrs. George Ray of Lubbock, Texas, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Weddige over the weekend.

Mrs. L. F. Kapner, of San Gabriel, Calif., is here this week visiting her sister, Mrs. Andy Teel. She will be remembered by Hope friends at Alline Powell.

Mrs. Cy Bunting returned last week from El Paso, Texas, where she had been receiving medical treatment.

Mrs. George O. Teel returned Monday from El Paso where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Francis Yearwood.

Mr. Ed Kinney of Artesia visited friends and a few Republicans last Tuesday afternoon.

The election judges and clerks from Hope who attended the school of instruction in Artesia on how to vote on the voting machines were Mrs. Jim Carson, Mrs. Alline Bell, Mrs. Jane Pitt, Charlie Cole, Anderson Young, Bob Barley and two or three Republicans.

Thomas E. Young Called By Death

Thomas Elbert Young was the third child of 11 children born to Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Young of Elgin, Texas. He was born Sept. 4, 1868. He was the last member of his family, all others having preceded him in death.

He married Mary Ellen Ayers Nov. 1, 1893. To this union were born 11 children, eight boys and three girls. An infant son died in 1898 and one daughter, Jewel, passed away in 1930.

He is survived by his widow and nine children: Anderson Young of Hope; Lella Young of Hope; Tom Young of Hope; Jesse Young and Mrs. Lora Young Cisco of Patterson; Emmett Young of Whittier, Calif. and Foy Young of Los Alamos. He also leaves 20 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mr. Young became a member of the church in early manhood and was an active member as long as his health permitted. His joy was in the church and its welfare.

Today's Meditation

"Thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.—Matthew 1:21 Read Acts 4: 5-12.

Man cannot save himself. It is God who saves. At the time of the Advent, God came to the rescue of man, revealing Himself through His only begotten Son, Jesus. It is all so wonderful and yet so true. Jesus lived among us. He was full of grace and truth.

Many people living today have experienced the reality of Jesus and His saving power. It is He that saves, redeems, and brings a new, real life.

The human race cannot enjoy peace and security unless it recognizes Jesus as its Saviour. To solve the problems which confront humanity today, men filled with the spirit and power of God are needed. In God's will is our peace. The problems will find solution only in Jesus. In Him alone and in His Gospel freedom and justice are united by the bond of love. How wonderful that God in His merciful goodness has sent Jesus among us. Have you accepted this Peacemaker?

PRAYER

O God, we thank Thee from the depths of our hearts for Thy revelation in Christ Jesus. We walked in darkness, and Thou gavest us the Light; we were lost, and Thou gavest us a Saviour. Make us true witnesses of Thy salvation, and thereby give us peace. In our blessed Redeemer's name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

"There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."—Renato Tulli.

Ezra Teel attended the round-up and branding at the M. C. Teel ranch last Tuesday. After the first calf threw him he went to the house for a rocking chair and gave orders from the sideline. Not by a long shot was the calf to blame. Ezra was just clumsy and got in the calf's way.

Rabbit Industry Growing Rapidly Bunnies Abounding All Over Nation

A new industry has appeared on the agricultural horizon in recent years that may in time rival the poultry industry. The industry is the production of rabbits for the family tables of the nation. Its growth has been due, in large part, to the increased costs of meats that the average American family traditionally buys and serves.

The economic impact of the rabbit extends beyond the meat business, however. Their skins go into fur coats in huge quantities.

Rabbits are raised commercially in all of the 48 states—most every large city has a few rabbitries on its outskirts. And California, which last year slaughtered some six million bunnies, is the biggest single producer, with about one-third of the nation's annual output.

In the southwestern part of the country—Texas and Oklahoma—the industry is growing fast. It is estimated there are over 3,000 commercial breeders in the two states.

One small town in Oklahoma—Durant—is now claiming the title of rabbit capital of the nation. A plant in that community, which sells its product under the trade name of "Hop Chop," is capable of processing 40,000 rabbits weekly.

Rabbit breeders report they are able to produce a "fryer" rabbit for the American table cheaper than the average broiler chicken, that is, on less feed and in less time.

The natural result is more meat for the American table at less cost.

Hormone for Cows Boosts Milk Output Possible to Increase Marketing "Quotas"

Feeding dairy cows a hormone this fall may help farmers solve the "surplus milk" problem which cuts their milk checks in the spring and summer.

The hormone, synthetic thyroxine, works like the natural secretions of the cow's thyroid gland. Cows getting thyroxine in their feed give 10 to 20 per cent more milk, says Dr. W. R. Graham, Jr., of Chicago. Butterfat production also jumps.

Dr. Graham, research director of The Quaker Oats company, pioneered experiments in hormone feeding. Hormone dairy feeds are specially profitable in the fall and early winter when marketing "bases" or "quotas" are being set, he says.

Under the quota system of milk marketing, a farmer's "base" for the year is determined by the number of cans he ships daily in the fall and early winter, when milk output is low. If he ships 10 cans a day now, he is assured of full price for only 10 cans next spring and summer—although he may be shipping 13 cans then.

Chart shows comparative lactation curves of cows fed on standard rations and those whose feed contains a hormone supplement as a lactation stimulant.

By feeding a hormone supplement now, Dr. Graham explains, this same farmer can raise his base as much as 20 per cent—or to 12 cans instead of 10. So only one of his 13 cans next spring would sell at the half-price rate.

Heat Farm Homes
More Easily Now
Appliances Available
To Meet Most Needs

Farm houses no longer need be chilly or "hard to heat." A wide variety of liquefied petroleum gas heating appliances are now available to provide cozy warmth in every room, even under the most difficult conditions.

For older farm homes, handsome LP-gas panel heaters can be easily installed between wall studs. They save floor space and blend neatly into wall backgrounds, features that modern homemakers have found particularly appealing. They are also available in dual units to warm rooms on both sides of a wall.

Noted for economy in operation and installation, floor furnaces have proved ideal for basement-less farm homes. These compact units fit beneath the floor and are covered by a metal grill through which instant heat emerges.

Circulating heaters designed to look like modern television sets are available in a variety of colors and finishes to harmonize with room settings. They draw off cold air from the floor, heat it and then re-distribute it evenly about the room.

Latest model central heating plants are so compact and efficient they can be unobtrusively installed in the basement, a closet or even the attic. One manufacturer has a unit with a white cabinet finish so it can be placed in the kitchen.

Corn Insect Damage Often Exaggerated

Blame Nutrients Deficiency in Soil

Insect damage is often blamed for poor corn yields and weak, floppy stalks, whereas the real cause may be a lack of plant nutrient balance in the soil, reports P. E. Johnson, University of Illinois soils specialist.

Poor corn yields and excessive lodging are particularly pronounced where soil potash levels are low, according to Johnson.

In soils that are tight and where clay pans come close to the surface, says Johnson, the potash is quickly pumped out.

He reports that this potash starvation is only aggravated by side dressings of nitrogen or applications of phosphate. But when a complete soil treatment including nitrogen, phosphate and potash is added, invariably the corn plants show large clumps of healthy roots and stalks stand up stiff and straight.

If a corn plant is starved for potash some time in its life, says Johnson, damage occurs to the node where the leaf comes out on the stalk. This causes a clogging of the corn plant's interior network of pipe lines. Plant food can't move up and down the stock. Root development is slowed down.

I PLEDGE TO Build New Mexico

I pledge to work unceasingly for the improvement of the health, prosperity, and welfare of all the citizens of New Mexico; to develop and protect our valuable resources, especially to conserve our precious water, both surface and underground.

I pledge to bring more industry and commerce to our State and to help obtain for New Mexico better roads, better schools, and additional defense installations.

Nationally, I pledge to give unstintingly of my time to rid our government of Communist infiltration and corruption; to evolve a positive foreign policy worthy of the men who have died in our wars; to return our nation to a support of the principles which have made it the greatest unit on the face of the earth — the principles of individual liberty, regulated free enterprise, self-government, and justice.

I pledge to work tirelessly for that goal which should be our paramount objective internationally — a permanent world peace.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

(UNDER REPUBLICAN RULE)

I am an 80 year-old business-managed tax paying cotton farmer, I have been around for a long time, I can remember some thirty years ago when Republican rule was in evidence, I remember Harding, Coolidge and Hoover especially well.

When cotton was selling for 5c a pound.

When potatoes were 75c a sack.

When red beans were $1.00 a sack.

When wheat was selling for 20c a bushel.

When corn brought only 10c a bushel.

When livestock was selling for 5c a pound.

When a bank went broke, brother you were broke.

When no farmer had rural electrical service.

When bankers and Chamber of Commerce were fighting these benefits.

When Social Security was unheard of.

When the Valley had thousands of visitors. But they all came on freight trains hunting jobs.

When you could get a room at any hotel for 50c a night, but no one had 50c.

When we were told to sell apples—but we had no apples.

When Chicken Dinners were 20c, but no one had 20c.

When we were promised a chicken in every pot, but we didn't even have a pot to put it in.

When we were promised a car in every garage, but we didn't even have a garage

When Prosperity was "just around the corner" (How did he know the Democrats would win in 1932?).

When farmers didn't have 90 per cent parity for crops.

When jack rabbits were known as Hoover Hogs.

When they told us "prohibition was a noble experiment." It was.

Don't Let Them Take It Away

Don't be a sucker, I hear a lot of you complaining that you want a change. If a Republican is elected, you'll get a change but you won't have any change in your pocket.

Again, they are promising you anything you want to vote Republican.

You can't live on promises, we tried it.

Don't let them change our production lines to soup lines.

Don't let them force you to change that farm tractor for an Ox team.

Don't let them make you change that Cadillac for a one horse shay.

Don't let them make you change that TV set for a magic lantern.

Don't let the Mortgage Bankers take your home and farm again.

Don't let them hide Tea Pot Dome behind a Mink Coat.

Don't let them put another DULLES in Our State Department.

Don't let them turn the clock of progress back a half Century.

Don't let them tell you that a cheap dollar won't still buy more than no $$.

Don't let them make you believe that it is immoral for the farmer and laboring man to have a decent standard of living.

Don't be deceived by Republican propoganda they even accused "Ikey" of being a Communist before the convention.

W. C. (Rube) GEERS,

McAllan, Texas.

Freeze 'Egg Cubes,' Farm Wives Told

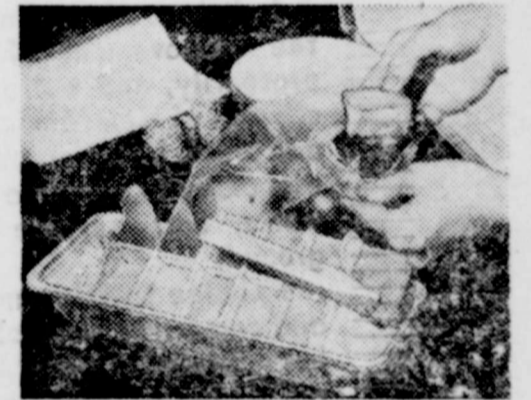

An Economical Trick When Supply Is Up

Egg cubes are a product of the farm-home freezer.

Farm wives may profit from the suggestion that "egg cubes," prepared in the farm home freezer will make cooking with eggs easier and more economical.

Mrs. Jessie Cartwright, director of the Norge Home Institute, advises freezing fresh eggs in ice cube trays right in the freezer. The trays make handy measuring units. If your tray holds 14 cubes, use 14 eggs, then one cube will equal approximately one egg. You can thaw one or more of the cubes as needed.

Here is the Norge Home Institute's method for preparing egg cubes: Use absolutely fresh eggs when they are low-priced or when surplus production on the farm makes them plentiful.

Eggs should be removed from the shells. Break the required number for one ice cube tray into a bowl and mix with a fork until yolks and whites are well-blended. Do not beat nor make frothy.

Pour the mixture into ice cube trays, leaving about one-half inch at the top of the tray for expansion. Place on racks in the freezer immediately, allowing ample space for air circulation around each tray. Freeze at zero degrees, and when the eggs are frozen, remove from the tray and put into polyethylene bags. Twist top of bag and put a freezer rubber band around it. Return bag to the freezer for storage.

If you wish, freeze whites and yolks separately.

'Mastitis Control' Results in Record

A barnyard story of rags to riches, with a world's champion milk production record the payoff, has been reported by veterinary medical authorities.

The heroine of the story is a cow—Barnes' Chief Sally—a Guernsey owned by Allen Meyer, Fargo, North Dakota.

As a two year old, Sally started off on a promising milk producing career only to have mastitis, a common udder disease of dairy cows, to cut in on her production.

Then a herd mastitis control program was launched. In her following lactation as a four year old, her production jumped from 420 pounds to 846 pounds of butterfat, a world's record for a four year old Guernsey.

The mastitis control program also paid off for the other cows in the herd. Butterfat production for the 20 milk cows increased from an average of 375 pounds to 485.4 pounds.

This increased production amounted to approximately $2,000 worth of additional milk marketed annually.

Farmers Pay Millions Yearly to 'Robbers'

Farmers not only pay their share of taxes but also shell out millions of dollars each year in tribute money to three "robbers"—livestock diseases, parasites, and carelessness, the American Veterinary Medical association claims.

A recent report from that organization said that annual losses from just two dairy diseases, brucellosis and mastitis, run close to 200 million dollars a year, not to mention losses from the host of other livestock diseases.

In terms of numbers, 24 per cent of all dairy calves born never live to reach maturity. Of those that do live, only 17 per cent are still in the milking line at 10 years of age.

It is estimated that 10 per cent of all baby chicks and 15 per cent of all poults will not live 56 days.

Only 60 per cent of the spring pig crop will live to reach market.

Additional millions of dollars of livestock losses also result each year from external and internal parasites.

Finally, a heavy loss is said to be caused by injuries and deaths resulting from careless loading and hauling of livestock to market. Such losses point to the need for greater disease control consciousness on the part of the livestock industry and renewed efforts by farmers to stop this drain on their resources.

High-Cost Beef

This glowering Aberdeen, "Prince Sunbeam 249th," is the world's most valuable bull. One-half of the 1,800-pound animal sold for $100,000, highest price in history. Dr. Armand Hammer sold a half interest in Sunbeam to Muchison and Jungdahl of San Antonio.

But most of that bazzoo will subside like a bromo seltzer in a few days. half of them will be in the class of the also run, and be like the little boy the bull butted—have no say coming. then we can get the news of the korean war and how many has been killed on the football skirmish line. this is sure a funny world, but I sure like it. we are all suffering on account of too much comfort and dont know it.

Beef on the hoof going down, and over the block going up. In a butcher shop now all you get for a dollar is a smell of the block. Where is the slack going? And old Bushy Brow (john L Lewis) has humped up again.

Mrs. Dave Butning of Artesia returned this week from Globe, Ariz., where she had been visiting relatives. Her mother, Mrs. Zone Inman, accompanied her home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bunting of Henrietta, Texas, were guests of Mrs. C. B. Aalman last Tuesday. Frank is an old friend of high school days many years ago in Roswell.

The K. J. Williams trucks moved the rotary oil rig to Elk last week to replace the cable rig which they have been using for the past few months.

Floyd Jones spent Sunday with Edward Hollomon at the Joe Young home.

Eugene Bates went to Roswell Wednesday to visit his sister, Mrs. Luther Ragsdale.
