Rotary Club Hears Program On Economy

Brett McCasland called the noon meeting of Rotary to order Tuesday.

He stated that a Directors and Officers meeting has been called for noon Monday and asked that all officers and directors be present.

Everyone was also reminded of the Meet The Mules Thursday night at Benny Douglas Stadium.

Harvey Bass was in charge of the program and he introduced Scott Mann of Lubbock, who spoke to the group on the economy.

"It's a pleasure to be here in Muleshoe and speak to the Rotarians," Mann said. "They are a special group of people."

After giving a brief history of how the plains got the name of Llano Estacado, Mann stated that what is known as the Llano Estacado was different from than the rest of the country. "There is no place like it."

"My great great grandfather came in the 1880's, and there is no place like it, the people learned to look to each other and not depend on outsiders."

"You might say, there is nothing special about West Texas, Not True, you can see for miles here. We also have the ability to look ahead and see where we are going. Out here if a man says he will do something, you can count on him to do it."

Mann also stated that when the Sales Tax election was held in Lubbock, there was a lot of pros and cons concerning the taxation, and what the people would be doing if the election didn't pass.

"Lubbock is not in competition with Muleshoe or any other of the near by towns," Mann said. "What helps each of the surrounding towns, including Muleshoe, it helps Lubbock and what helps Lubbock helps Muleshoe. We need

Mayor Darrell Turner officially resigned his office as Mayor at the city council meeting Tuesday morning. Mayor Turner will be moving to Plainview.

The following is a statement Turner read to the council:

It is with mixed emotions that I tender my resignation as Mayor of Muleshoe. I have thoroughly enjoyed serving and being allowed to serve as mayor for the past seven plus years.

Bank of America Texas, NA my employer has offered me a promotion to a larger bank in Plainview and I feel that it is an opportunity I can not pass up.

My family will be staying on in Muleshoe for sometime but I will be moving to Plainview Sept. 1st and will not be able to fulfill my duties as Mayor after that time.

With this in mind August 31st will be my last day in office as Mayor.

Many Thanks for all the support and cooperation that has been extended to me. Muleshoe is still a great place to live and raise a family. Signed Darrell Turner.

Turner further commented that someone else yet to be named would become manager of the Muleshoe Branch office.

Mayor Turner called the regular council meeting to order and minutes of the previous meeting were approved as written.

Bill Gooch of Amarillo, who is associated with McMorris Associates spoke to the council members concerning the Landfill.

Gooch stated that Muleshoe has a Type 2 landfill, less than 5,000 people.

"You have to provide a schedule to the Water Commission as well

Lights Stolen From Veterans Memorial Site

"Now who would be low enough to steal the lights from the Veterans Memorial Monument," Nancy Kidd asked the Journal Thursday morning.

This summer the Veterans Memorial Monument Committee has replaced ten of the stolen lights, and at the present time three more are missing. These lights cost ten dollars each and the Memorial Committee doesn't always have the money to replace these lights and individuals bare this expense themselves.

"The person/persons taking these lights need to realize the significance of the monument and the people it honors and when they deface the monument they are taking away from that honor, said Nancy Kidd, president of the committee.

Many hours were spent planning for the monument and still more hours were spent gathering contributions to build the monument. Then came the hard long hours of erecting the memorial and the feeling of satisfaction at the dedication ceremony on December 7, 1991, in memory of those in ALL WARS who gave their life for our continued freedom.

Mayor Turner Resigns, Moving To Plainview

Mayor Darrell Turner officially resigned his office as Mayor at the city council meeting Tuesday morning. Mayor Turner will be moving to Plainview.

Gooch stated that Muleshoe has a Type 2 landfill, less than 5,000 people.

"You have to provide a schedule to the Water Commission as well as an affidavit to the public if you decide to close the landfill," Gooch said.

He also told the council members that if the landfill was closed between now and Oct. 3 the landfill would have to be covered with composited clay with six inches of top soil. After Oct. 3 the council would have to comply with EPA Regulations.

"You normally have to notify the Water Commission one year before closing," he continued.

"You might think this is no big deal, but some are expensive, several thousands of dollars and I need a professional, more than Cleve Bland and I can do, said Dave Marr, city manager.

The present landfill has a life expectancy of five to ten years.

"There are active wells around the landfill and we will have to test the water," said Marr. "This will be our first step. Personally I hope we don't have to close the landfill."

Bland and Mary Hicks, city secretary, reported on an area meeting they attended.

Mrs. Hicks reported that most of the meeting was over job descriptive interviews. She stated that you don't have to hire the handicapped, but you can't discriminate against them. Marr stated that the city used to continually take job applications

Federal Agricultural Appropriations Will Help Texans

Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry applauded actions by the U.S. House of Representatives and Senate to fund programs in the FY 1993 Agricultural Appropriations Bill vital to Texas agriculture.

"The items funded by the bill--the Pesticide Data Program and the Market Promotion Program--are not only crucial to the entire agribusiness industry, but to all Texans. This is why I commend the efforts of the House and Senate to balance agriculture's priorities with the funds available," Perry said.

Approximately $11.5 million was appropriated to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Pesticide Data Program. Since May 1991, this first-of-its-type pesticide monitoring program has been helping establish a thorough and factual database detailing how much and what types of pesticides--if any--are left on the foods we eat.

"With the growing debate on pesticides and food safety and the potential impact this debate will have on agriculture, this is one of the most important programs funded by Congress," Perry said.

Under the federal Pesticide Data Program, inspectors in Texas, California, Washington, Michigan, New York and Florida collect samples of fruits and vegetables from distribution sites and terminal markets in each state. The samples are analyzed for trace amounts of pesticides, and the data are sent to the USDA in Washington, D.C.

"I am proud to say that since the Texas Department of Agriculture began its testing last year, we have analyzed more than 700 samples at our laboratory in Brenham, and all have been well within the tolerance levels set by federal food safety officials," Perry said.

The $147.7 million appropriated for the Market Promotion Program will help state-regional trade groups and American companies corner new export markets. "Expanding agricultural trade holds the greatest opportunity for our farmers and ranchers, and the Market Promotion Program goes a long way in exploring and expanding new avenues of foreign commerce," Perry said.

Language in the federal appropriations package also urges USDA to focus on value-added products for exports, emphasizing U.S.-grown or -processed commodities. In addition, the report states that small- or medium-size companies, which have not previously received financial help from this program, should have access to the funding.

Texas is a member of the Southern United States Trade Association; last year, this regional trade group helped 14 Texas companies obtain matching funds from the Market Promotion Program to assist in developing foreign markets for products that ranged from salsa to ice cream. In addition, the Texas sweet onion, pecan and potato industries are direct beneficiaries of SUSTA-assisted initiatives.

Texas agricultural exports totaled $2.6 billion in 1991, an increase of 3 percent from the previous year. Every $1 billion in exports creates approximately 27,000 new jobs and about $1.6 billion in economic activity across the state.

"The federal funding will go a long way to benefit all Texans by creating new jobs and stimulating economic activity across the state," Perry said.

Congress also allocated almost $3.7 million for the USDA Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service's fire ant program. A portion of this amount will go to TDA for its fire ant quarantine and inspection program for fire ants.

In addition, APHIS also received $67 million in appropriations for the brucellosis eradication program, $13.1 million for boll weevil eradication efforts and $531,000 for the honey bee pest program, which can be used for efforts to monitor the Africanized honey bee.

"This funding will help on issues vital not only to the economic well being of Texas farmers and ranchers but to the entire state's economy as well," Perry said.

Appropriations to APHIS also included $3 million for the sweet potato whitefly and $34.6 million for the screwworm programs.

"Screwworms have been found in Mexico just 150 miles from the Texas border, Perry said. "This is a very sensitive issue in a state that is the nation's leading producer of cattle, sheep, and goats.

"While APHIS and the Mexican government seem to have the outbreak under control, additional funding is necessary so APHIS can continue to monitor the situation," Perry said.

Boys Ranch Rodeo

Boys and girls will once again brave speeding hooves and clouds of dust to participate in wild and woolly rodeo action at the 48th Annual Boys Ranch Rodeo. The rodeo is set for Labor Day weekend, September 6-7, at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, 36 miles northwest of Amarillo.

Approximately 100 boys will do their best to stay on the backs of bucking broncs, bulls, steers and calves. The boys compete for buckles before crowds that traditionally number up to 5,000 daily.

Girls from Girlstown, U.S.A. will join the boys for each day's Grand Entry, along with area riding clubs. The young ladies will compete for belt buckles in pole bending events, as well as barrel and flag racing. The Girlstown campus, near Whiteface, is a Boys Ranch affiliate. Boys and girls from the newly implemented Cal Farley Family Program at Borger will also participate.

Boys Ranchers who do not compete will serve barbecue beef plates, sell soft drinks and snow cones to the crowd in the bleachers, play in the band and otherwise help out to make the rodeo successful and fun for all. Specialty events will include clown skits, a calf scramble, an FFA project parade, and stick horse rides featuring the youngest boys and girls.

The yearly rodeo is a time of homecoming for Ranch alumni. Many of the more than 4,000 boys who have lived at the Ranch since 1939 return to visit each Labor Day weekend, participating in annual Alumni Association Reunion activities.

Rodeo tickets are available at $3.50 for covered, reserved bleacher seats; $2.50 for general admission; and $1 for children from six to twelve years old. Boys Ranchers will sell barbecue beef plates at noon each day for $3.50.

The annual rodeo is the only one of its kind in the nation featuring boys and girls of all ages as contestants. Much of their reward is the thrill of hearing the crowd cheer as they perform.

For reservations or further information, call (806) 372-2341 or write Cal Farley's Boys Ranch and Girlstown, U.S.A., P.O. Box 1890, Amarillo, Texas 79174.

Craft Show To Benefit Food Bank

The third annual South Plains Arts and Crafts Festival, scheduled for August 22-23 in the Lubbock Civic Center, will offer residents another way to own handmade items by helping those less fortunate. The arts and crafts show, which will be open to the public Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and Sunday from 12:00 noon to 5:00 p.m., will feature a drawing to benefit the South Plains Food Bank.

Mel Prather, organizer for the festival, said there would be no admission charge for the South Plains Arts and Crafts Festival and that the donations to the food bank would be optional. "A number of exhibitors will be donating valuable handmade items. Persons can enter their name in the drawing for those prizes by bringing cans of food or donating cash to the food bank. Volunteers and board members of the local food bank will run the booth, which will be located at the main entrance."

The arts and crafts festival itself will feature the works of more than 200 exhibitors from throughout the Southwest. Items to be highlighted include original paintings and limited edition prints. There will also be hand-sculptured pewter, pottery, wall hangings, and original rubber stamps.

Some of the more unusual items include Christmas gourds, tree spirits, punched tin, painted glass, and fishing rod holders. Other participants will offer original clay sculptures, dough art, jug canisters, kaleidoscopes, and suncatchers.

The more standard items will include potpourri, quilts, jewelry, clothing, woodwork, lawn chairs, finished and unfinished furniture, soft sculpture, purses, and dolls. Also on hand will be jackets, cedar chests, ceramics, baskets, floral arrangements, wind chimes, bird houses, music boxes, clocks, carousel horses, and wreaths. Others will offer original steak sauces, jellies, and candy.

Hours for the two day event are Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 12 noon to 5 p.m. Donations of can food and money to the food bank are optional and there is no admission charge to the arts and crafts show.

THE WARMTH OF THE EARTH

The heat pump captures it to heat and cool your home naturally.

The Dual Fuel Heat Pump uses existing heat to keep your home comfortable...naturally. Because it doesn't have to create heat, it's very efficient. For each unit of energy it uses, the Dual Fuel Heat Pump creates two or three units of heat.

Dual Fuel Heat Pump owners say it costs them less to operate than other systems. And, because it's electric, the Dual Fuel Heat Pump is cleaner.

There is heat in the air on the coldest days. The heat pump captures it to warm your home.

In summer, it becomes a high efficiency air conditioner. During hot weather, the heat pump captures the heat inside the home and takes it outside.

Contact your heat pump dealer or Southwestern Public Service Company for more information.

TWC To Delay Used Motor Oil Filter Regulation

Texas Water Commission (TWC) officials announced the delay of implementation of a law that bans the disposal of used motor oil filters in Texas landfills by commercial generators. A commercial generator is a business that generates used motor oil filters in their daily business operations. Enforcement of the ban, which would have become effective August 1, 1992 will be delayed until September 1, 1992.

Bexar, Tarrant, Dallas and Harris are the first counties in the state to be affected by the law. The law, which was to go into effect August 1, 1992, will be implemented in phases throughout the state until April 1, 1994. On that date, it will also become illegal for do-it-yourself oil changers to dispose of the filters in Texas' landfills.

"The Texas Water Commission is granting the 31-day delay to ensure that industries who have expressed an interest in recycling used oil filters, in addition to used motor oil, have enough time to prepare to be in business when the final land ban goes into effect," said TWC Chairman John Hall.

In addition, during the 31-day interim the TWC will develop and adopt a set of rules, which will set management standards for the recycling industry. The TWC will create a fund to reimburse commercial recyclers and handlers who inadvertently collect used motor oil that may be contaminated with a hazardous waste, such as antifreeze. This will result in the creation of approximately 1,000 additional community waste oil collection centers at no cost to the state of Texas.

Motor oil that is contaminated can not be recycled and must be disposed of at a permitted hazardous waste management facility, which can be costly. The fund will reimburse recyclers for payment of those disposal costs. The reimbursement fund will be financed by a two cent fee that is collected by the state on the first sale of all automotive oil in Texas.

To learn the location of the nearest collection center in your community, call the TWC's Environmental and Recycling Information Center at 1-800-458-9796.

Prison Pen Pals-- Handle With Caution

Pen Pals have been with us for years. Perhaps you had one when you were in school. Adults have pen pals too. Often they are jail inmates who place pen pal ads in magazines, which caters to seniors living alone, or others who are looking for relationships. Prisoner ads have proliferated in recent years, and some prisoners may be looking for genuine contact with life outside their prison walls. However, many prisoner ads are merely a part of a sophisticated mail fraud scheme (using postal or other money orders) which has bilked consumers of their hard-earned savings.

Be aware of the tell-tale signs of this unusual scheme. If you begin to write letters to a prisoner who is attempting to cultivate you for his mail fraud scheme, he will slowly attempt to gain your trust and confidence. If you are a single woman, he may even promise to marry you upon his release. Eventually, the prisoner will ask you to deposit some money orders in your checking or savings account because he has no one else he can trust. After sending you several money orders, usually in the amount of $700.00 each for you to deposit in your account, the prisoner will wait long enough for the money orders to be deposited, then he will call you (usually collect) by telephone and urgently request most of the money be withdrawn. He will want the money to be sent by Express Mail or wired by Western Union to another friend in order to pay an attorney to help gain the prisoner's immediate release from prison.

When the U.S. Postal Service routinely compares the cashed money orders with the original money order receipts, these money orders are found to be altered. All altered money orders will ultimately be discovered. Under current law, the person who cashes an altered money order is responsible for its total (altered) value. If you have a bank account, the U.S. Postal Service will contact your bank, and you will be made to pay the difference. For example, if you cash a one-dollar money order, which has been altered to $700.00, you will end up being charged $699.00 of your own money. Remember this, if you see a pen pal ad from a prison inmate and are thinking of writing.

If you think you've been taken in by a prison pen pal scheme, report your experience to your local postmaster or the nearest Postal Inspector. The Fort Worth Division Headquarters telephone No. is 817/625-3411. Complaints also may be sent to the Regional Chief Inspector, 1407 Union Avenue, 10th Floor, Attention: MOSC, Memphis, TN 38161-0001.

Rev. Gerald Moore Funeral Services Held Tuesday

Services for the Rev. Gerald Moore, 71, of Las Vegas, New Mexico, were held at 2:00 p.m. Tuesday in the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Bill Ware, pastor of First Baptist Church in Las Vegas, officiating. Burial will be in Sudan Cemetery under direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

The Rev. Mr. Moore died Thursday in St. Joseph's Medical Center in Albuquerque, N.M., after a lengthy illness.

He was born in Gorman. He married Opal Snitker on June 28, 1943, in Muleshoe. Rev. Moore attended Wayland Baptist College and Eastern New Mexico University and graduated from Corpus Christi State University. He completed graduate work at Texas Tech University and New Mexico Highlands University. He was ordained into the Baptist Ministry in 1943.

He was a pastor at churches in West Texas, Storrie Baptist Church near Las Vegas, N.M., and First Baptist Church in Wagon Mound, N.M. He was moderator for the Northeastern New Mexico Baptist Association and was on the board of the Baptist Convention of New Mexico. He was a member of First Baptist Church in Las Vegas.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, the Rev. Marsha Ann Moore of Albuquerque; a brother, Curtis of Portales N.M.; and a sister, Ruth Kent of Los Alamos, Ca.

The family suggests memorials to the First Baptist Church building fund, 700 University Ave., Las Vegas 87701.

NRA Launches Major Anti-Crime Initiative

Lori Bible's anguish over the abduction of her sister, Colleen Reed, from an Austin car wash is exceeded only by her bewilderment that the prime suspect--Kenneth Allen McDuff--once sentenced to death for a triple murder--was paroled in the first place.

Susan Bromberg of Dallas lives every day with the physical and emotional scars from her former husband, Charles Edward Bruton: physical assaults on Susan and sexual abuse of her daughter. The two fear for their lives because, in a few weeks, their attacker could be paroled and has pledged to kill them.

These women provide the tragic impetus for the launch of a major anti-crime initiative in Texas by CrimeStrike, a division of the National Rifle Association of America.

Services For Manuel A. Contreras Held Today

Funeral services for Manuel A. Contreras, 96, of Plainview are scheduled for 2:00 Thursday at the First Assembly of God Church, with the Rev. Israel Sosa and Rev. Steve Martinez officiating. Burial will be in the Muleshoe Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Contreras died August 17, 1992 at Heritage Home. He was born February 27, 1896 in Sanlazar, Mexico. He married Delfina Morales on August 24, 1924 in Knox City, Texas. Mrs. Contreras died Dec. 4, 1984.

Mr. Contreras had lived in Muleshoe from 1973 to 1988 and lived in Plainview since 1990, moving from Munday, Texas. He was a farmer and rancher.

Mr. Contreras is survived by three sons: Victor Contreras Sr. of Muleshoe, Tx., David Contreras of Palmetto, FL., and Ralph Contreras of Tucumcari, N.M.; five daughters: Mary Ramos of Munday, Tx., Vera Lopez of Albuquerque, N.M., Elena Gomez of Plainview, Tx., Janie Lopez of Plainview, Tx., and Delores Zapata of Hale Center, Tx.

are not only victims of individual offenders, but also victims of a failed criminal justice system," said Steven J. Twist, special counsel to CrimeStrike. "At a press conference August 13, Thursday, at 10:00 am, at the Hyatt Regency (Reunion Towers) in Dallas, I outlined NRA's multi-part plan for breaking the back of violent crime in Texas." Twist added that Ms. Bromberg and Ms. Bible related their personal accounts of victimization at the press conference.

Twist said he had "grave concerns" over a Texas Punishment Standards Commission memo provided by a confidential source which tacitly suggests a "managing-to-existing-resources" orientation on the part of some TPSC participants.

"NRA believes to its core that punishment for violent crime must be swift and severe. Some may argue that punishment should fit the criminal," Twist said, "while others argue that punishment should fit the crime. But no one with credibility would argue that punishment should fit the facilities--particularly when such an orientation results in the early release of 150 criminals a day from Texas prisons."

The multi-faceted CrimeStrike plan for Texas which Twist will announce Thursday morning will center on tough, honest sentencing with drastic reductions in good-time credit, including mandatory prison for repeat, violent offenders and a victims' rights proposal.

In addition to statutory remedies, Twist will recommend the need for citizen involvement to keep the system honest. "For example, NRA has completed preliminary training for two NRA members who will serve as Volunteer Coordinators for CrimeStrike in Houston and Lubbock," Twist said. "We will soon recruit volunteers among NRA members and CrimeStrike volunteers in those locales to monitor district courts for leniency regarding violent offenders."

Vaccinate Horses Against Virus Recommends TAHC

The Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) is recommending that owners of horses in South Texas and along the coast have their animals vaccinated against the mosquito-borne virus, encephalitis, also known as "sleeping sickness." Dr. Terry Beals, executive director of the state regulatory agency for livestock health, said the animals should receive vaccine for both Western Equine Encephalitis (WEE) and Eastern Equine Encephalitis (EEE).

"Six horses died near Harlingen and San Benito in early July, and the National Veterinary Services Laboratory (NVSL) in Ames, Iowa, determined at least two of them had EEE," he said.

Last year, 411 cases of EEE occurred in the United States, with 151 of them in Florida and none in Texas. In 1991, 11 cases of the western version of the virus, WEE, were detected nationally. One was in Texas. "Texas' wet weather this year has resulted in a larger mosquito population, so seeing a few cases of 'sleeping sickness' available. I would encourage horse owners to contact their veterinarians and have their animals protected."

"We also recommend that owners of ostriches and emus consult their veterinarian for recommendations on the vaccine made to protect these animals. Florida, Georgia and Louisiana have had instances of sleeping sickness in these animals, too," he said.

Measles Epidemic Is High Risk In Rural Areas

Poor people in rural areas run a high risk of being hit hard by the measles epidemic according to a pediatrician at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

While many poor families in large cities can be immunized at community health centers, Tristan says it may be more difficult for the poor in rural areas to find a clinic or center offering low cost or free immunizations.

"It comes down to a lack of adequate immunization," said Dr. Michael Tristan, an associate professor of community medicine at Baylor. "If we could get more people, especially young children, immunized we would see the number of cases drop dramatically."

"It is important for people in rural areas to call a county or state health department office to find out where they can receive the immunizations," said Tristan.

According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) in Atlanta, there have been more than 55,000 cases of measles and 166 deaths attributable to measles in the past three years.

Among Hispanics, the rate of measles per 100,000 population has been more than double that of blacks and as much as five times greater than that of whites according to CDC figures.

The first symptoms of measles include fever, a cough, cold-like symptoms and conjunctivitis (pinkeye). The rash that gives measles its name will appear on the face after two to three days and be accompanied by a continued high temperature. The temperature can go as high as 105 degrees, but will usually decrease after two or three days as the rash spreads down the body.

"Measles can cause other problems without proper medical attention," said Tristan. "The chief complications are pneumonia and encephalitis (swelling of the brain), both of which can be deadly."

Treatment for measles includes bed rest, plenty of fluids like fruit juices and water, and medication to help control fever.

A non-aspirin pain reliever should be given to children, since aspirin has been linked to a condition known as Reye's Syndrome when given to reduce fever.

College Loans Soon To Be Available

Here's some good news for families who need to borrow money for college: starting this year, students from families of all income levels will be eligible for low-interest, government-sponsored student loans.

The new student financial aid bill, just signed into law, makes Stafford loans--the most commonly-awarded student loans--available to everyone. Those students who prove financial need may still receive the basic, subsidized Stafford loan, for which payments are postponed and the government pays the interest while they are in school. Now, students whose family income precludes them from the fully-subsidized loan will be eligible for a new, unsubsidized Stafford loan. The new loan offers all the benefits of the basic Stafford, except that students must either pay the interest while they are in school or have it added to their loan amount after they leave school.

"In the past, students from middle-income families often could not get student loans because their family income was too high, and yet, with rising college costs, they still were not able to come up with the money to pay for their education," says Larry Hough, president and chief executive officer of Sallie Mae, a corporation that funds education loans. "The new, unsubsidized Stafford should make it easier for a wide range of students to continue their education or attend the school of their choice."

The new loans will be available as of October 1, 1992--after most schools have begun their first semester. For most students, that means they can expect to apply for the unsubsidized Stafford loans for the second semester of the 1992-93 school year.

For students who have never taken out a student loan, the interest rate on Stafford loans will be set once a year, based on the rate of the 91-day U.S. Treasury bill. The current interest rate of 6.9 percent to new student borrowers will hold through June 30, 1993. Students who have previously borrowed under the Stafford program will benefit from several new loan features although the stated interest rate will remain equivalent to the rate on their previous loans. As of July 1, 1993, the amount undergraduates can borrow will increase substantially, to $3,500 a year for sophomores and $5,500 for juniors and seniors, while freshman limits will remain at $2,625. Effective October 1, 1993, graduate students will be able to borrow up to $8,500 a year. All students will continue to have up to 10 years to repay their loans once they have left school.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing--county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.
