CAPT. TILSON FOR REPRESENTATIVE

This week we are authorized to announce the name of Capt. T. J. Tilson, of Hale County, as candidate for Representative of the 120th District, subject to the Democratic Primary.

This is the first time we will have voted in the 120th District, as it was formed out of Briscoe and neighboring counties at the last redistricting of the state.

Capt. Tilson has had plenty of experience as a legislator and has much influence with his co-workers at Austin.

Being known as one of the "watch-dogs of the Treasury" he stands for strict economy at all times and against extravagance at any time.

Because he is an experienced stock-farmer, he is peculiarly fitted to be the representative of this stock-farming country.

He stands for woman suffrage, for prohibition, for education, and all moral laws. Don't forget the Captain on July 22nd.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

In honor of his ninth birthday Master Ronald Anderson entertained a number of his small friends with a lovely party at his home last Thursday afternoon.

The children assembled at 3 o'clock, where they played and frolicked the long, sunny afternoon away.

Later they were invited into the dining room where the large, beautiful cake, topped with nine bright candles, was out and served with punch to the small guests. Here reproductions of "Maggie", "Slim Jim" and other people of the "funny papers" were distributed as favors.

The young celebrant received many lovely gifts from a host of little friends.

NOTICE

In order to have room to print the questionnaire, page 5, we are forced to leave out quite an amount of news which we were anxious to print. We have some news from Quitaque, Goodnight, Haylake, and just "lots" of town news which we'll have to ask you to wait for until next week. We also have an interesting article pertaining to our school which you will find well worth reading.

Sunday, June 18th, has been selected as Memorial Day. All members are requested to meet at the lodge hall at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

WHAT IS LAX-PIRIN?

It is the improved tablets of Aspirin with a gentle laxative effect. Physicians are now using Lax-Pirin (Laxative Aspirin) in preference to the ordinary Aspirin, for Headache, Colds, Neuralgia, Asthma, etc., and like it much better as it relieves the pain and removes the cause.

Peoples Pharmacy sell and recommend Lax-Pirin.

FILL OUT THE QUESTIONNAIRE NOW

Our dreams of a railroad are nearer and nearer to the actuality as the people and promoters complete the tasks assigned to each of them.

It is our duty to furnish Colonel Powell with the necessary information of our county in order for him to go before the Interstate Commerce Commission to get the Certificate of Necessity, which must be had before we can do anything else.

If you have not filled out one of the questionnaires, turn to page five and fill that one out. Bring or send to the Star office. It is imperative that you do this at once.

There are strong forces now at work to keep us from getting this road, people, and it is going to take the combine efforts of us all to pull it through.

NOTE—Since writing the above we have received a letter from Colonel Powell stating that everything possible is being done to rush things up there, and requesting that we rush the work of getting the questionnaires filled out.

So do not delay any longer on this, but fill out the questionnaire found on page five and send to Star office at once. This obligates you in no way or form.

HARVEST TIME IS DRAWING NEAR

Farmers are now beginning to prepare for harvest which is not far off. Although our crop is short this year, it is by no means a failure like is found in our sister counties, and the yield is going to surprise a great many.

Here is hoping the price will make up much for the shortage.

Rev. G. S. Hardy of Plainview, Presiding Elder of the Plainview District, will occupy the pulpit at the Methodist church Sunday, June 18th., at both the morning and the evening hour. You are invited to be present.

Mrs. J. Lee Gilmore and little daughter of Turkey came in Monday and will spend several weeks with her parents. Her husband is attending the summer Normal at Canyon.

Mrs. W. H. Newman had a turkey with four perfectly formed legs, to hatch out Monday. The turkey seemed to be in a healthy condition despite his deformity.

Mrs. Miner Crawford and Mrs. E. C. Dickerson assisted with the work at the Sheriff's office three or four days during the past week.

We have heard it hinted that Miss Iree Hancock would appreciate the return of the souvenirs which she lost Sunday week.

Mrs. W. W. Fogerson is enjoying a visit from her sister, Mrs. Maud Long, and two daughters, from Austin, this week.

Miss Vergie Givens spent a part of last week and week out with Mrs. W. H. Newman.

Rev. C. W. McNeely is back home from Jerico, near Clarendon, where he and his brother, Rev. J. J. McNeely, have been holding a revival meeting.

JOHN B. RENTFRO, JR.

John B. Rentfro, Jr., youngest son of Hon. Jno. B. and Mrs. Jennie Rentfro, was born in Palo Pinto County, Texas, May 10th, 1892, and died June 5th, 1922, — age 30 years and 25 days.

When he was quite a youth his parents moved from Palo Pinto County and located near their present home in Briscoe County, where Johnnie has grown into manhood.

From a very young boy he seemed to have a vision of a special preparation for his life-work and entered the Silverton School where he spent several years, and graduated with the High School Class, 1911-12.

After graduating from the High school at Silverton, he spent one year in Wayland College at Plainview, and the next year entered the N. W. Texas State Normal at Canyon, and graduated from that school. Leaving the Normal he was elected to teach the school in his home community, Milo, where he had a very successful term.

The war coming on, and while placed in class 3, was not called into service, but did a noble part during this period, helping his parents at home, while his brother, Dennis, was in the service, and was in the thickest of the fight.

Johnnie had for a number of years had an ambition to become a lawyer and in 1921 entered the law Department of Cumberland University of Lebanon, Tenn., and from this school was graduated only a short time ago. At the time of his death he was candidate for County Attorney.

While in school at Silverton he attended S. S. regular at the Presbyterian Church, and while in school at Canyon he united with the Presbyterian Church.

He was buried at Milo Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, June 7th. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Wilson, Methodist Pastor at Vigo Park, and a very impressive talk was made by attorney Griffin of Plainview. The speaker said that he was a Christian gentleman and one did not have to judge such by his attendance at Sunday School and Church, but he show it by his daily life and in his business dealings with his fellowmen.

On the evening of his sudden death which was caused by lightning, he was making some friendly calls as he expected to leave the following morning for Austin to be gone for a few days. He seemed so optimistic and jolly—not realizing that his life-work was so near ended, but God Who sees things as we cannot always see them seemed to say, "It is enough, come up higher"

All who knew him had great hopes for his future as he had always made good at anything he undertook. He was a very obedient son, never having given a cross word to his parent, and was tender and affectionate with his brothers and sister.

His parents, Judge and Mrs. Jno. B. Rentfro, four brothers, Ross and Dennis of Brownfield, Texas, and Will and Bob of Stead, New Mexico, and one sister, Mrs.

PICNIC PLANS PROGRESSING

Work that is being done, and plans that are being laid, point to July 11th and 12th as two big gala days in the history of Briscoe county.

The Committees are trying to make this an all county affair and all parts of the county are invited and urged to join in with us, your county capital, in making Briscoe county shine on those two days.

Already concession men are sending in bids asking for information. It is ~~now~~ to take the combine efforts of the people to put this over, and all indications point to the fact that the people are behind this move.

Bear in mind that we are to have a good old fashion picnic basket dinner the first day, and that there are going to be a lot of people here to feed that day and we must take care of them.

The barbecue day will be taken care of by the executive committee.

Everybody get ready to come.

LOCKNEY MAYOR IN SILVERTON

One day last week a very peculiar thing happened here in Silverton. The Mayor of Lockney came over and deliberately attempted to drive off one of our cars.

And the reason he didn't get away with it is that the owner happen to be standing nearby, and the reason he wasn't thrown in jail was that the owner had known the Mayor before and he thought he ought to have another chance.

We hate to tell this on the Mayor of our neighboring city, and would not if it wasn't for the fact that investigations reveal that the Mayor and the Editor of the Beacon have been pulling off just about such stunts as this at several neighboring towns and we feel that it has gone as far as it should.

E. L. Cowart and A. E. Wise and their families, Mesdames P. E. C. Cowart and P. L. Hancock and Misses Bertha May Stevenson, Iree Hancock and Mary Cowart enjoyed a pleasant day at the P. A. Jones place Sunday. —And Miss Iree got through the day without falling in the water.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Douglas and baby and Miss Agnes Nelson took Miss Katherine Douglas to Roaring Springs Sunday on her way to Paducah.

Will Malone, survive him, and all reached their parents home in time to be present when he was laid to rest. Will and Bob, who were the farthest away, would probably not have reached as early as they did but for the kindness of their friends who aided in a time of need, one offering the use of his car, and another his services to drive it.

To his devoted parents, brothers, sister, friends, we would say, Look upward, put your trust in God and when the summons come, Johnnie will be waiting to welcome you "in the Glory Land." —His Friends

MORE FULLBLOODS NEEDED IN COUNTY

There was never a county in the whole nation better adapted to the raising of thoroughbred stock of all kinds than Briscoe. There are practically no contagious disease and no pests that ravage the flocks and herds. Then for thirty years, or ever since this county was organized, there has not been a total failure and we have helped feed our sister counties through their drouthy period.

We have as fine herds of cattle and of hogs as found in Texas, and we have flocks of poultry that any fancier would really be proud to own.

Especially do we today need more of these thoroughbreds and more interest displayed.

Looking back to a few years ago when nothing but the long horn could be found here then to today when all of them have entered the door of oblivion and are no more, and the graded herds followed by registered bulls high priced and fine in quality, are found on all the ranges we see what has actually been done, and then can imagine what we really can do if we make up our minds.

And we need the small farmer those who have but a small herd from ten to fifty head, for they can give each individual plenty of attention.

We find the same advancement is found in the swine industry. The jump from the east Texas razorback to the product of the Plains of today is a long one, as we would naturally be expected as the razorback would not thrive here and our products cannot live in that country. And today we need more registered stock scattered over the county.

More grocery bills are paid and more backs clothed from the product of the farm flock than from any other source of the farm, yet it is the most neglected of anything on the farm. There are some farmers who point to their flock and tell us that they run fullbloods, but most farmers have just chickens.

It makes very little difference what breed you choose, Durham, Hereford, Helstein or Jersey; Duroc, Poland China, or Hampshire; Rhode Island Red, Wyandottes, Plymouth Rock or Leghorn—the main point is to have full blood stock, and forget the fallacy that it takes mixed blood to produce stamina and strength.

E. C. Dickerson, J. E. Malcolm and Emmett Daniel and their families, Mrs. C. L. Dickerson and daughter, Wilma, and Miss Ida Ruby spent Wednesday night on the canyons. They report a delightful time.

Mrs. Gordon Alexander and children came in last week from Branson, Colo., to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Donnell, and other relatives. Mr. Alexander is expected in this week.

W. C. Smithee has been at Crosbyton for several days to visit his niece, Mrs. Vaughan. He thinks that the change may be beneficial in helping to relieve him of the asthma.

DISCOURAGED AND MISERABLE

Virginia Lady So Weak She Could Hardly Get Around—Says Cardui Helped Relieve a Serious Condition.

Ringgold, Va.—Mrs. D. T. Barker, of a well-known Pittsylvania County family, residing on Route 2, here, says that upon reaching a critical period of her life she was "in a very serious condition."

"I was so weakened until I couldn't get around," Mrs. Barker relates, "I couldn't sleep. I was so blue and out of heart. I had no appetite."

"I would . . . try medicines, and grew weaker and weaker, more out of heart every day. I would get up and try to drag around, and feel so miserable, and creep back to bed."

"My husband bought me Cardui. I thought the first bottle helped me, and when I began the second, I knew it did. I kept it up—each day growing a little stronger, a little more like my former self, and I began to eat and sleep."

"It sure wasn't long until I was up and around like another woman. No more dragging; no more weak and blue feeling. It cured me. I used seven bottles in all."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Barker describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui. If troubled with womanly ailments, take Cardui, the woman's tonic. For sale by all good druggists.

Decentralizing Internal Revenue Work

WASHINGTON.—The experiment of decentralizing the work of internal revenue headquarters is to be made in the four Pacific coast cities of Portland, Los Angeles, Tacoma and San Francisco. It will probably be inaugurated within a month, according to the Treasury department.

Secretary Mellon, in discussing the matter, said the treasury never has contemplated that "95 per cent or anything like that amount of taxpayers' returns could be audited and closed in the district offices."

In the district offices due study and consideration, said Mr. Mellon, has been and is being given to the matter of whether rapid progress could be made, and the convenience of taxpayers better accommodated by having more matters threshed out with taxpayers in the local districts than has heretofore been had.

"The matter is now under consideration by the tax simplification board and a recommendation is expected from it very soon.

"To whatever extent improvements can be made in this respect the department is just as desirous as the public that they be made, and if so, then as quickly as possible. However, there must always be some central point to which all of the work ultimately comes in order that the interpretation of the law and its application may be uniform in all parts of the country, and as applied to all taxpayers.

"Assistant Secretary Dover's trip to the Pacific coast and other points is not in connection with any question of decentralization, but relates wholly to a general inspection of the customs service."

Newberry Case Still Excites Congress

THE Newberry case continues to raise ructions in congress. The other day the senate was thrown into confusion as a result of an angry wrangle in the course of which Senator McKellar of Tennessee and Senator Townsend of Michigan indulged in personalities that in the end became so bitter that Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who was presiding, called McKellar to order and directed him to take his seat.

Senator McKellar had characterized certain utterances of Senator Townsend as "vile, untrue and absolutely false." Senator Townsend had called McKellar "a politician so intent on trying to strengthen his own political fortunes" that he was willing to indict the electorate of a great state, in this instance the state of Michigan.

The Newberry case was at the bottom of all the trouble. The senate had been discussing a senate rule, of which McKellar is the author, the purpose of which was the regulation of campaign expenditures of candidates for the senate.

Senator King of Utah, one of the Democratic leaders, had suggested that it might be well for the senate to let the people of the state control their own affairs. To this Senator McKellar retorted that he wondered "if the senators trust the people of Michigan to be honest and fair in this matter of the election of United States senators?"

Representative Frear (Rep., Wis.) introduced a bill in the house to require congressmen and senators to file statements of their election expenses.

Senator Pomerene (Dem., O.) introduced a new corrupt practices act to take the place of the one declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court.

Airplanes for Navy's Fighting Fleet

PLANS for complete equipment of the fighting fleet with aircraft during the coming fiscal year, have been laid before the senate naval committee by Rear Admiral Moffatt, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics.

The project contemplates placing 213 airplanes of various essential types on battleships, cruisers, scouts and other vessels, and is designed to furnish the fleet with "its own aerial defense against enemy aircraft attacks.

Under the plan, 86 small, swift-fighting planes will be included in the aircraft to become a permanent part of the fleet aircraft defense. The machines to be used for this purpose are believed by navy officials to be the best yet developed for fighting in air, having been completely developed under navy control since the close of the war. They are designed to meet in air and repel raids against the ships of the fleet by enemy bombers.

In addition, the active ships will carry 46 observation and spotting planes, 27 small spotters, 36 torpedo or bombing planes, 18 scouts and four kite balloons for observation purposes. Each battleship of the 18 comprising the fleet under the naval limitation treaty will carry four planes, two V.F. or single fighters; one big spotter and one torpedo or bombing plane.

The torpedo plane will permit attack on enemy surface craft with 1,500-pound torpedoes, or with an equal weight in bombs.

Catapult launching devices recently developed and tried out successfully are to be installed on all ships, enabling them to send away their aerial defense squadrons, even in a heavy seaway. Then ten new scout cruisers will carry two catapults each and fighting and scouting planes to add to the range of observation of enemy movements.

Prosecution of War Contract Frauds

AN APPROPRIATION of $500,000 will enable Attorney General Daugherty to conduct a vigorous campaign of prosecution of war contract frauds. The money is to be used by Mr. Daugherty in the employment of lawyers and expert accountants to bring to justice contractors who plundered the government. The committee recommended a provision in the appropriation limiting salaries of lawyers employed to $10,000 a year, except one, who will be chief director of the prosecution. Mr. Daugherty has announced that Henry L. Stimson of New York, former secretary of war, will take the position of chief prosecutor.

The attorney general promised that the return to the government would be many times $500,000. The possible amount of recoveries involved in 275 civil cases where overpayments by the government are alleged will run as high as $192,000,000.

Mr. Daugherty explained that the point had been reached where the Department of Justice was unable to cope with the tremendous task of clearing up the war contract frauds. In addition to the numerous cases already before the Department of Justice, the War department is still engaged in auditing 135,000 cases. It is estimated that the task will require five years to complete.

"I want to say this," he added, "investigation by the department of wartime transactions has been going on as rapidly as possible with the funds congress has provided and the use of other funds where that could legitimately be used for the purpose."

A very deaf old lady, walking along the street, saw an Italian turning a peanut roaster. She stood looking at it awhile, shook her head and said: "No, I shan't give you any money for such music as that. I can't hear any of the tunes, and besides it smells as if there were something burning inside!" —The Congregationalist.

YOU CAN'T TRUST CALOMEL AT ALL

It's Quicksilver, Salivates, Causes Rheumatism and Bone Decay.

The next dose of calomel you take may salivate you. It may shock your liver or start bone necrosis. Calomel is dangerous. It is mercury, quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel billions, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tonic which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Always remember that Baby is just a baby. And remembering this you will remember that Fletcher's Castoria is made especially for Infants and Children.

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market; have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria; modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splurge, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little ones.

To them: to these, true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

$60,000,000 CUT OFF R. R. SHOPMEN'S PAY

400,000 WORKERS AFFECTED BY LABOR BOARD WAGE REDUCTION MONDAY.

RAILROADS ARE PREPARING

Miles of Cars Fully Repaired, While Unions Face Greatest Open Shop Move Ever.

Chicago, Ill.—With the announcement by the United States Railroad Labor Board of a wage cut approximating $60,000,000 for 400,000 railroad shop employees and car men, strike ballots, held in readiness by union leaders, were put into the mails Tuesday night.

The strike ballots, to be returned June 30, ask the men to vote—on three questions, as follows:

Whether the wage cuts shall be accepted.

Whether working rule revisions shall be accepted.

Whether it is the opinion of the men that the railroads have any intention of obeying the contract labor decisions of the Labor Board.

Negative answers to these questions, which are expected by an overwhelming majority, will authorize President B. M. Jewell, president of the American Federation of Labor railway department, and his executive council, composed of the presidents of the six big shop crafts unions, and heads of other A. F. of L. railroad unions affected, to call a strike, probably July 15, the first pay day after the wage cuts go into effect.

Railroad executives here fully expect that the A. F. of L. railroad department will strike. It was learned that for the last six weeks railroads throughout the country have been preparing for this eventuality. Thousands of freight and passenger cars have been rushed into shops for repairs not necessitated by present traffic conditions. Miles of freight cars stand on the tracks, fully repaired, while lead in the Journal boxes and all set for cessation of work in railroad shops.

CONTESTED SALARY BILL PASSES HOUSE

Independent Offices Appropriation Measure Is Finally Adopted By House.

Washington.—The House finally adopted the conference report on the independent offices appropriation bill with its contested provision for payment of salaries to officers of the Shipping Board. Rejected four times, it came back in slightly modified form and was adopted by a vote of 140 to 121.

The salary section over which the long fight was made provided that no officer of the board shall be paid more than $11,600 a year except six permitted to receive not to exceed $25,000 each and two not to exceed $20,000 annually.

The French Premier planned medals on the twelve soldiers who wrecked the fulfillment of the Kaiser.

Radio Plants to Link Continents

Those in Colombia, Cuba and Buenos Aires Expected to Be Ready This Year.

PLAN TO AVOID INTERFERENCE

All Great Systems Will Use Different Wave Lengths, World Conference Has Decided—Will Not Replace Cable.

New York.—High-power wireless stations of the Radio Corporation of America will be completed this year at Bogota Bay, Colombia, and in Cuba, and the great Buenos Aires station will be in operation in mid-1923, says E. J. Nally, president of the company, who returned a few days ago from conferences in Europe at which a working agreement was reached among the great wireless companies of England, France, Germany and America.

From any part of the United States wireless messages may be relayed speedily to Buenos Aires, South Africa, Java, Calcutta or Melbourne, when the radio building programs of the great American and European countries are completed. At present France has the most powerful station in the world in the American-built Lafayette towers near Bordeaux, but this will be superseded by the end of this year by the Port Jefferson station of the Radio corporation, which will be the most powerful station in the world. The station under construction at Ste. Assise, near Paris, will be second.

The British wireless chain connecting England with the empire will have one station comparatively close to Argentina, and that will be the station at Bathurst, in Gambia, on the extreme western point of Africa, where the continents of Africa and South America make their closest approach.

"The stations of the Radio corporation in Cuba and Colombia are practically completed," said Mr. Nally, "and are waiting on the completion of all the towers at Port Jefferson before going into service. That will take place in December. Receiving from New York to Cuba, to Bogota and then to Buenos Aires will be possible, but will be used only as an auxiliary system. When the Buenos Aires plant is completed next summer it will send to and receive from the Port Jefferson station direct."

All of the great systems will use different wave lengths and avoid interference, according to the agreement reached at the conference abroad, for the use of similar wave lengths would reduce to confusion high-power wireless communication all over the world. The British colonial chain of wireless stations is described as follows by L. W. Austin, head of the United States Radio Research Laboratory, in a communication to The Journal of the Franklin Institute:

"Unlike the plans for communicating over vast distances by means of huge stations, the imperial committee, headed by Sir Henry Norman, has recommended that stations of only moderate power be used, spaced at distances of not more than 2,000 nautical miles, the intermediate stations acting as relays for the more distant."

There have been heated discussions in England regarding the relative merits of the high-power, long-distance transmission systems in comparison with the moderate power, intermediate relay systems. There can be no doubt that the system of intermediate stations will give by far the most reliable communication, largely on account of the small variability of signal intensity at shorter distances. And probably for government purposes, where reliability is of more importance than volume of traffic carried, the system is superior.

"The plans of France for extremely long distance communication are centered around the huge transmitting station now being completed at Ste. Assise, between Fontainebleau and Paris. This station is expected by its promoters to communicate with Saigon, Indo-China, 5,500 nautical miles; Buenos Aires, 5,950 miles, and, of course, many nearer points."

Holland is building one station at home and one in Java for communicating a distance of 6,100 miles, almost entirely overland. On the question whether radio is likely to replace the cable in transoceanic communication in the near future, Mr. Austin said:

"Frankly, I do not believe it will, and if it should it will be because the atmospheric disturbances have been practically eliminated. But even now there are certain classes of traffic which can be sent by radio much more economically and quite as satisfactorily where delays of a few hours are not objectionable. Continuous twenty-four hour service is, of course, already possible where distances are moderate. Here automatic high-speed reception is making radio a formidable rival of the wire and cable lines."

Army of Men Scrap Warships

New Industry Supplants Building of Fighting Vessels Along the Delaware River.

MANY AWAITING DISMANTLING

Philadelphia, Birthplace of Many Vessels, Also to Be "Graveyard" of Navy's Fighting Ships That Have Become Obsolete.

Philadelphia.—A new industry—scrapping of old warships—has sprung up along the Delaware river, where not so long ago more than 100,000 men were working feverishly to help build a "bridge of ships" across the Atlantic to check the progress of Germany in the World war.

Philadelphia, the birthplace of many of the vessels, also is to be the "graveyard" of a number of the navy's fighting craft, discarded because they have become obsolete. Later, when the scrapping program of the arms conference becomes effective, many more ships will be added to the list. Hundreds of men are engaged in turning the steel from the discarded ships into materials for the construction of buildings, tools, locomotives, automobiles and other peace-time uses.

In one Delaware river shipyard alone there are awaiting dismantling the battleships Maine, Missouri and Wisconsin, the once proud first-class cruiser Columbia, the monitors Ozark, Monterey and Tonoah and countless destroyers, Eagle boats and smaller craft.

Powerful oxyacetylene torches wielded by masked workmen are being used to cut through the 11-inch steel turret armor of the Maine, while a 125-ton crane was used to take out its 12-inch guns.

Further along the yard little obsolete submarines with paper thickness shells are being ripped apart with prosaic chisels to the accompaniment of the galling gunlike staccato of

Revive Plan to Build World City at Brussels

Brussels.—The striking idea of building an "international city" at the gates of Brussels, which was first proposed to King Albert of the Belgians in 1913, has been revived and it is now proposed to erect the city and inaugurate it at the same time as the Brussels international exposition in 1930.

It is intended that the international city shall be a permanent institution, where every country will have a building in which it will display not only its manufactures and products but examples of its art and records of its social progress.

These plans were first submitted to King Albert in 1913 by Hendrick C. Anderson, an American sculptor, formerly of Newport, R. I., who then was living in Rome. Mr. Anderson was aided in preparing his plans for the ideal city by Senator Henri La Fontaine and Paul Otlet.

compressed air hammers. The monitor Monterey, an improved edition of Ericsson's gallant Monitor of Civil war fame, with its surface flush deck, rapidly is being converted into billets. Its 10 and 12-inch rifles, however, still appear menacingly through the turrets of its squatly superstructure as they did in the early '90s when the vessel was one of the most powerful battle craft afloat.

"Grandfather" of Submarines.

A little submarine, A-1 Plunger, "grandfather" of the modern submarine cruiser S-41, is awaiting scrapping. Creature of the brain of J. P. Holland, the early trials of the A-1 were the subject of almost as much ridicule and scoffing as marked the first efforts of Robert Fulton and his steamboat on the Hudson river.

The most precious "junk" obtained from the ships is the copper, gun metal, navy brass, manganese bronze, lead and zinc. Complete destruction is not necessary in the case of all the craft. The hulls of some of the torpedo boats will undergo a transformation to adapt them to peaceful pursuits. This already has been done with the destroyers Truxton, Worden and Whipple, which will be sent to the United States and Central America carrying cargoes of fruit.

Engined with kerosene oil burners, they will be large cargo carriers and of such light draft that they can navigate shallow rivers on high tide and lay off plantations for loading, thereby eliminating dig-terrage cost. Their clean lines give them great speed, which makes unnecessary the expensive refrigerating system used in slower fruit boats.

Hospital Mixup in Montreal Deceives Two Mothers; Infants Are Redistributed.

Montreal.—A couple of two-year-old babies who were mixed up in a hospital four months ago and have since been living in the wrong households without either mother realizing it were properly redistributed.

The babes, Pansy Dyke and Myrtle Bartlett, both web-footed, were given to the wrong mothers upon their recovery from diphtheria. Pansy is fair and Myrtle is dark, and while the parents now say they had their doubts all along, it was not until a third mother investigated at the hospital that the mistake was revealed.

Tiniest Baby Weighs 2 Pounds.

MARY MARIE

FATHER

SYNOPSIS.—In a preface Mary Marie explains her apparent "double personality" and just why is a "cross-current and a contradiction"; she also tells her reasons for writing the diary—later to be a novel. The diary is commenced at Andersonville. Mary begins with Nurse Sarah's account of her (Mary's) birth, which seemingly interested her father, who is a famous astronomer, less than a new star which was discovered the same night. Her name is a compromise, her mother wanted to call her Viola and her father insisted on Abigail Jane. The child quickly learned that her home was in some way different from those of her small friends, and was puzzled thereat. Nurse Sarah tells her of her mother's arrival at Andersonville as a bride and how astonished they all were at the sight of the dainty eighteen-year-old girl whom the sedate professor had chosen for a wife. Nurse Sarah makes it plain why the household seemed a strange one to the child and how her father and mother drifted apart through misunderstanding, each too proud to in any way attempt to smooth over the situation. "Mary tells of the time spent 'out West' where the 'perfectly all right and genteel and respectable' divorce was being arranged for, and her mother's (to her) unaccountable behavior. By the court's decree the child is to spend six months of the year with her mother and six months with her father. Boston is 'Mother's home. Mary describes her life as Marie with her mother in Boston and about her mother's 'prospective suitors.' Then Mary goes to her other home, to visit her father. Aunt Jane's questions.

ONE WEEK LATER.

Father came. He came yesterday. But I didn't know it, and I came running downstairs, ending with a little bounce for the last step. And there, right in front of me in the hall was Father.

I guess he was as much surprised as I was. Anyhow, he acted so. He just stood stock-still and stared, his face turning all kinds of colors.

"You're here, aren't you? How do you do, Mary?"

He came up then and held out his hand, and I thought that was all he was going to do. But, after a funny little hesitation, he stooped and kissed my forehead. Then he turned and went into the library with very quick steps, and I didn't see him again till at the supper-table.

At the supper-table he said again, "How do you do, Mary?" Then he seemed to forget all about me. At least he didn't say anything more to me; for three, or four, times, when I glanced up, I found him looking at me. But just as soon as I looked back at him he turned his eyes away and cleared his throat, and began to eat or to talk to Aunt Jane.

After dinner—I mean supper—he went out to the observatory, just as he always used to. Aunt Jane said her head ached and she was going to bed. I said I guessed I would step over to Carrie Heywood's; but Aunt Jane said, certainly not; that I was much too young to be running around nights in the dark. Nights! And it was only seven o'clock, and not dark at all! But of course I couldn't go.

Aunt Jane went upstairs, and I was left alone. I didn't feel a bit like reading; besides, there wasn't a book or a magazine anywhere asking you to read. They just shrieked, "Touch me not!" behind the glass doors in the library. I hate sewing. I mean Marie hates it. Aunt Jane says Mary's got to learn.

After a while I opened the parlor door and peeped in. They used to keep it open when Mother was here; but Aunt Jane doesn't use it. I knew where the electric push button was, though, and I turned on the light.

I was just tingling to play something, and I remembered that Father was in the observatory, and Aunt Jane upstairs in the other part of the house where she couldn't possibly hear. So I began to play. I played the very slowest piece I had, and I played softly at first; but I know I forgot, and I know I hadn't played two pieces before I was having the best time ever, and making all the noise I wanted.

Then all of a sudden I had a funny feeling as if somebody somewhere was watching me; but I just couldn't turn around. I stopped playing, though, at the end of that piece, and then I looked; but there wasn't anybody in sight. But the wax cross was there, and the coffin plate, and that awful half wreath; and suddenly I felt as if the room was just full of folks with great staring eyes. I fairly shook with shivers, but I managed to shut the piano and get over to the door where the light was. Then, a minute later, out in the big silent hall, I crept on tiptoe toward the stairs. I knew then, all of a sudden, why I'd felt somebody was listening. There was. Across the hall in the library in the big chair before the fire sat—Father! And for most a whole half-hour I had been banging away at that piano on marches and dance music! My! But I held my breath and stopped short, I can tell you. But he didn't move nor turn, and a minute later I was safely by the door and halfway up the stairs.

I stayed in my room the rest of that evening; and for the second time since I've been here I cried myself to sleep.

ANOTHER WEEK LATER

Well, I've got them—those brown and blue serge dresses and the calf-skin boots. My, but I hope they're stiff and homely enough—all of them! And hot, too. Aunt Jane did say today that she didn't know but what she'd made a mistake not to get gingham dresses. But, then, she'd have to get the gingham later, anyway, she said; then I'd have both.

Well, they can't be worse than the serge. That's sure. I hate the serge. They're awfully homely. Still, I don't know but it's just as well. Certainly it's lots easier to be Mary in a brown serge and clumpy boots than it is in the soft, fluffy things Marie used to wear. You couldn't be Marie in these things. Honestly, I'm feeling real Maryish these days.

I wonder if that's why the girls seem so queer at school. They are queer. Three times lately I've come up to a crowd of girls and heard them stop talking right off short. They colored up, too; and pretty quick they began to slip away, one by one, till there wasn't anybody left but just me, just as they used to do in Boston. But of course it can't be for the same reason here, for they've known all along about the divorce and haven't minded it at all.

I Was Having the Best Time Ever, and Making All the Noise I Wanted To.

Aunt Jane doesn't care for music. Besides, it's noisy, she says, and would be likely to disturb Father. So I'm not to keep on with my music lessons here.

Sensible and useful! I wonder how many times I've heard those words since I've been here. And durable, too. And nourishing. That's another word. Honestly, Marie is getting awfully tired of Mary's sensible sewing and dusting, and her durable clumpy shoes and stuffy dresses, and her nourishing oatmeal and whole-wheat bread. But there, what can you do? I'm trying to remember that it's different, anyway, and that I said I liked something different.

I don't see much of Father. Still, there's something kind of queer about it, after all. He only speaks to me about twice a day—just "Good-morning, Mary," and "Good-night." And so far as most of his actions are concerned you wouldn't think by them that he knew I was in the house. Yet, over and over again at the table, and at times when I didn't even know he was "round," I've found him watching me, and with such a queer, funny look in his eyes. Then, very quickly always, he looks right away.

But last night he didn't. And that's especially what I wanted to write about today. And this is the way it happened:

It was after supper, and I had gone into the library. Father had gone out to the observatory as usual, and Aunt Jane had gone upstairs to her room as usual, and as usual I was wandering round looking for something to do. I wanted to play on the piano, but I didn't dare to—not with all those dead-hair and wax-flower folks in the parlor watching me, and the chance of Father's coming in as he did before.

I was standing in the window staring out at nothing—it wasn't quite dark yet—when again I had that queer feeling that somebody was looking at me. I turned—and there was Father. He had come in and was sitting in the big chair by the table. But this time he didn't look right away as usual and give me a chance to slip quietly out of the room, as I always had before. Instead he said:

"What are you doing there, Mary?"

"Just looking out the window."

"Come here. I want to talk to you."

"Yes, Father."

I went, of course, at once, and sat down in the chair near him. He hitched again in his seat.

"Why don't you do something—read, sew, knit?" he demanded. "Why do I always find you moping around, doing nothing?"

Just like that he said it; and when he had just told me—

"Why, Father?" I cried; and I knew that I showed how surprised I was. "I thought you just said I couldn't do nothing—that nobody could!"

"Eh? What! That, that!" He seemed very angry at first; then suddenly he looked sharply into my face. Next, if you'll believe it, he laughed—the queer little chuckle under his breath that I've heard him give two or three times when there was something he thought was funny. "Humph!" he grunted. Then he gave me another sharp look out of his eyes, and said: "I don't think you meant that to be quite so impertinent as it sounded, Mary, so we'll let it pass—this time. I'll put my question this way: Don't you ever knit or read or sew?"

"I do sew every day in Aunt Jane's room, ten minutes hemming, ten minutes sewing, and ten minutes basting patchwork squares together. I don't know how to knit."

"How about reading? Don't you care for reading?"

"Why, of course I do. I love it!" I cried. "And I do read lots—at home."

"At—home?"

I knew, then, of course, that I'd made another awful break. There wasn't any smile around Father's eyes now, and his lips came together hard and thin over that last word.

"At—at my home," I stammered. "I mean, my other home."

"Humph!" grunted Father. Then, after a minute: "But why, pray, can't you read here? I'm sure there are books enough." He flourished his hands toward the bookcases all around the room.

"Oh, I do—a little; but, you see, I'm so afraid I'll leave some of them out when I'm through," I explained.

"Well, what of it? What if you do?" he demanded.

"Why, Father?" I tried to show by the way I said it that he knew—of course he knew. But he made me tell him right out that Aunt Jane wouldn't like it, and that the books always had to be kept exactly where they belonged.

"Well, why not? Why shouldn't they? Aren't books down there—in Boston—kept where they belong, pray?"

It was the first time since I'd come that he'd ever mentioned Boston; and I almost jumped out of my chair when I heard him. But I soon saw it wasn't going to be the last, for right then and there he began to question me, even worse than Aunt Jane had.

He'd been up on his feet, tramping up and down the room all the time I'd been talking; and now, all of a sudden, he wheels around and stops short.

"How is—your mother, Mary?" he asks. And it was just as if he'd opened the door to another room, he had such a whole lot of questions to ask after that. And when he'd finished he knew everything; what time we got up and went to bed, and what we did all day, and the parties and dinners and auto rides, and the folks that came such a lot to see Mother.

Then all of a sudden he stopped—asking questions, I mean. He stopped just as suddenly as he'd begun. Why, I was right in the middle of telling about a concert for charity we got up just before I came away, and how Mother had practiced for days and days with the young man who played the violin, when all of a sudden Father jerked his watch from his pocket and said:

"There, there, Mary, it's getting late. You've talked enough—too much. Now go to bed. Good night."

Talked too much, indeed! And who'd been making me do all the talking, I should like to know? But, of course, I couldn't say anything. That's the unfair part of it. Old folks can say anything, anything they want to you, but you can't say a thing back to them—not a thing.

"And there—she told me. And it was the divorce."

COULD HARDLY STAND AT TIMES

Hips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington. — "For several years I have had trouble with the lowest part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with that tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."—Mrs. J. M. SHIBERT, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women: why not give it a fair trial—now.
