THOMPSON IN WRECK

Homer Thompson, employed here in the County Agent's office, escaped injury in a serious automobile accident Saturday evening near Ft. Worth. Other members of the family, however were badly hurt. His mother is in a very serious condition in a Fort Worth hospital, suffering from a fractured skull and broken bones. His brother received a fracture of the skull and body injuries. Miss Lulu Kate Johnson received a broken ankle and severe lacerations.

The accident was almost unavoidable. Another car started across the road to a filling station, changed its mind at the last minute and swerved back, sideswiping the Thompson car and overturning it several times and almost completely wrecking it. The condition of those injured seemed slightly better at last reports.

RESULTS OF CITY ELECTION

In a very quiet city election Tuesday, 95 votes were cast. Tom Bomar was re-elected as mayor over Homer Sanders with the huge majority of one vote. Tom says that if he had gotten to the polls he would have seen about that. In the race for the one year term of Councilman, H. R. Brown was elected over Dick Cowart; for Councilman, two year term, R. E. Brookshier and Ben O. King were chosen by the voters.

HOMER ROY KENDRICK

Homer Roy Kendrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Kendrick was born April 2, 1930 at Silvertown, Texas. He departed from this life April 1, 1936. Homer Roy liked one day being six years of age.

He leaves his father, mother, four brothers, and two sisters, Grandfathers and Grandmothers and a host of relatives to mourn his going. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. A. Peacock with Rev. Burnam and Rev. Jones of Hart, assisting.

To Father and Mother
Mourn not his going from this world of sorrow and trouble—for your loss is Heaven's gain. God giveth and God taketh away. May we say "Blessed Be His Name."—A. A. P.

ROCK CREEK

The worth while things of any community should be supported, not only by the presence of the patrons, but through calling the public's attention to their accomplishments. Briscoe County citizens should feel proud of their boys and girls and compliment their good sportsmanship. At the county meet of last week the Judges said, "The boys and girls and patrons in this county has been more considerate toward the judges decisions than any where we have been."

Rock Creek patrons have much to be proud of as a result of this county meet. Their children demonstrated their training by taking more first places in literary events than any other rural school. In some of the events Rock Creek had no competition. They entered against the class A schools and won.

The final score for this school was 97 points. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Biggs are teachers in this school are due much credit for this training and the patrons as a whole were splendid in their cooperating.

Nine events was entered and they took six first places, two second and one third.

The person that says he loves the Lord and then will not spend a few hours a week in worship unto Him betrays his own words. Worship is a privilege as well as a duty, and the person that finds no joy in worship is very in appreciative. It is our right as the created to worship the creator, but not all worship is accepted. There is a vain worship, and the master says that vain worship is fashioned after the opinions and precepts of men. Vain worship originates is advocated and promulgated by those that follow the world in preference to the great, "I AM."

BRISCOE COUNTY NEWS ENTERS 28th YEAR

This issue of the Briscoe County News marks the beginning of the twenty-eighth year of publication, under the present name. Early files are incomplete and hard to find. However, in one of the next few issues of the News a brief, and as nearly complete as possible, history of the county paper will be found. Former editors are being contacted and it is possible that they will have a word or two for you.

In this new year we hope to be able to serve you better and give you a better paper than has ever been done. Suggestions, criticism, and comment are welcomed by the present management. It's your paper and we want it to suit you.

CENTENNIAL YEAR EVENTS STIMULATE TRAVEL IN TEXAS

Centennial year travel in Texas is underway in rapidly increasing volume, according to reports received from all parts of the state by the department of information for Texas Centennial celebrations.

More out of state motor cars are reported on Texas highways today than at any time in the past. All travel agencies report greatly increased demands for service. In addition Texans are traveling in increased numbers, stimulated to do so by the many Centennial celebrations being held each month.

Record breaking crowds have attended all Centennial celebrations held to date. As the vacation season arrives thousands of Texas families are expected to take to the highways to "travel Texas" this summer. These travelers, augmented in number by thousands of out-of-state visitors, will make 1936 the greatest travel year in the Lone Star State's history.

Explanation of New Agricultural Program

Plans for the new agricultural program to put into effect the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act have been received by Finley White agricultural agent of Briscoe county. State and district meetings have been held to acquaint all Extension agents with the substance of these plans, and meetings of farmers will be held all over Texas during the next few days White said.

High points in the program are: Crops are all classified. Three classes have been set up. These are soil depleting crops, soil conserving crops, and soil building crops. Two kinds of payments will be made to farmers for land use—soil conserving payments and soil building payments, but the money for both will come in one check. And this money will come only after the farmer has actually put into effect certain practices which conserve the soil on his farm. Bases established on old reduction contracts will be taken as a guide for

DISCOVERY OF X-RAY NOT ACCIDENTAL

The famous folk-tale of how Roentgen accidentally discovered the X-ray by placing a still glowing vacuum tube on top of a book in which a key was used for a book mark was exploded by Howard W. Haggard, Associate Professor of Applied Physiology, Yale University, in a broadcast for the National Tuberculosis Association tonight at 5:35 p. m. (C.S.T.). Professor Haggard, noted writer and speaker, was heard over the complete CBS network in the interest of the Early Diagnosis Campaign, now being conducted throughout the country by the affiliated tuberculosis associations.

According to the popular tale, Roentgen had been experimenting with the vacuum tube invented by the English physicist, Sir William Crookes. He was called out of the laboratory and laid the still glowing tube on top of a book in which a key was used as a bookmark. The book in turn was lying on a photographic plate. When Roentgen developed the plate it showed the picture of the key. Puzzled, he repeated the sequence of events and realized that some unknown property of the tube had resulted in a photograph of the key taken through the solid book. With this clue, according to the story, he discovered the X-ray.

Professor Haggard pointed out that although the story is one which intrigues the popular imagination, Roentgen's discovery of the X-ray was purely the result of long weeks of laboratory research work.

THANKS, FOLKS

I wish to express the appreciation of the Executive Committee of P.T.A. for the cooperation given us last Friday and Saturday at the lunch stands at the county track meet. Mrs. Finley White.

HOME DEMONSTRATION MEETING

The Silvertown Home Demonstration Club met at the Methodist Church Friday afternoon with Miss Lida Cooper of College Station giving a demonstration on rug making. Several out of town club women attended the meeting—from Antelope, Quitaque, Francis, Vigo Park, Lakeview, and Wallace communities. Briscoe women are very much interested in Home Demonstration work and every meeting is enjoyed very much.

Miss Cooper will be in Silvertown again Monday for a meeting with the County Commissioners.

INVESTIGATORS HERE SOON FOR OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

T. E. Darcy and W. A. Little from the State Office of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission, Austin, Texas, recently visited the District office at Plainview, Texas, and in a round table discussion, outlined plans for investigation program, which has just started. The Investigators for this District will cover the District as soon as possible and request that all applicants get out the old Family Bibles and other evidence that will aid the Investigators to determine eligibility as to age and residence. The Investigators are ready now to put in full time checking the applications and will visit applicants over the District at any time.

HISTORICAL CONTEST CLOSURES APRIL 21st

The Texas Centennial Exposition's Historical contest which closes April 21 is bringing out hundreds of documents, letters and recollections that disclose the real pattern of the lives of Texas pioneers and that serve to highlight the greater occasions that concern historians and to explain those occasions.

A copy of the first oil lease issued in San Augustine recalls the discovery of oil there in 1866. Four years correspondence between a Confederate soldier and his bride reveal vividly both the home front and the battle lines of that struggle; the soldier's elation in victory; the girl's first efforts at spinning.

There are letters that reveal bickerings between politicians and there are other letters, written in the allegorical language of the Indians, urging peace among the tribes.

The Centennial Exposition is awarding prizes for descriptions of relics, documents, pictures and other matters of historical interest dating before 1900. R. L. Johnson of the Exposition is directing the contest and issuing entry blanks to applicants.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Hawkins, Alyne McCallon of Lubbock, and Roland DeFee of Ralls spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Ray C. Bomar.

Finley White's Agricultural Briefs

The New Farm Program is getting under way in Briscoe County. The County has been divided into two communities. Every one living "on the hill" is in one community and every one living "under the hill" is in the other community.

Committeemen have been elected to serve in each community. The committeemen on the hill are, Clyde Hutsell, chairman; C. M. Strickland and S. R. Turner with H. P. Howard and M. E. Craven elected as 1st and 2nd alternatives. Under the hill we have H. J. aBiley, chairman, Chas M. Bell and Otis Wilson, with J. E. Cooper and T. G. Wise as 1st and 2nd alternatives.

It will be the duty of the committeemen to take applications and fill out work sheets for every farmer who expects to participate in the new program. There will be no contracts under the new program and there will be no "rented acres." Payments will be made to farmers who "divert" acres from soil depleting crops to soil building or soil holding crops. Every diverted acre will have to be planted in some kind of soil building or soil holding crops. Our best and only bet in this western country is Sudan Grass. Grazing will be permitted on diverted acres, but nothing is to be harvested from diverted acres.

Taking Applications

At present we do not have the application blanks. When they arrive the committeemen will be supplied with them and the committee will establish headquarters at the local school houses to receive applications. In taking the applications the committeemen will have the established wheat and cotton bases for all farms that have been covered by a wheat contract or a cotton contract. The cotton base will also be already established for all farms making application for cotton tags under the Bankhead bill, whether the farm was covered by contract or not. It will be necessary for the committeemen and the farmers to establish a grain sorghum base and any other soil depleting crop base which the individual farm may have.

Wind Erosion Program

This office is in receipt of $3000.00 to be used in the emergency wind erosion program. This sum represents 1/2 of the amount allotted to Briscoe County. The remaining 1/2 will be sent as soon as we show to the state office that we have properly distributed this first half. We expect to pay out and account for all this $3000.00 this week. The committeemen are reporting a good many of the applicants for this fund as "completed in a satisfactory manner."

Good News to Wheat Farmers

We have "guessed" all along that all wheat farmers who signed an application for wheat contracts last fall would get paid for their '36 crop. We now have definite information (in black & white) that they will be paid. The amount of this payment and the due date of it will not be known 'till June or July. The amount of the payment will be dependent upon the market price of wheat at harvest time. The date of payment will be dependent upon the speed with which Washington can handle our papers.

How About Your Church Letter

Many move to a new community and leave their church letter. Their excuse for not moving it I cannot understand.

You move your Lodge membership. You join ever club to which you are elected, attend the parties when invited.

Some say I don't know how long I will be here. Others say I am attached to the old church. Then some say my father and mother was a member of that church.

Now your letter some where else does not do that church any good. It does you none. It only takes one or two words from you for the pastor to secure your letter. You need your letter where you live. We need you.

Easter Sunday next Lord's day. Several are coming into the church, why not come and place your membership here with us.

Revival services every evening of this week.

Flandin Calls on Germany for a Showdown

PIERRE-ETIENNE FLANDIN, French foreign minister, speaking at Vezelay, demanded in the name of his government that Adolf Hitler lay his cards on the table, and intimated that unless Germany gives concrete proof of no aggressive intentions in central or western Europe, France will decline to negotiate further with the reich and will prepare for war. Flandin made it clear that France will stand firmly with her allies, the little entente and Russia. Said he:

M. Flandin

"The Fuehrer says Germany does not want to take anything from anybody, but he already had said that after the Saar plebiscite. He then also reaffirmed the Locarno treaty, which since has been repudiated. In the name of the integral sovereignty of the German people, does the Fuehrer intend, when he thinks the moment favorable, to bring up the Danzig question?"

"When he proposes a nonaggression pact with Lithuania does he accept definitely the status of Memel or is he just stalling for time to prepare new deeds of force in violation of treaties?"

"If Germany intends to assert her right to possess and exploit colonies, what colonies is she going to claim?"

"Is it not significant that at the moment Hitler launches his peace appeal, Nazi propaganda is redoubling in Austria, Danish Schleswig, Polish Silesia, among the German minority in Czechoslovakia, and even in German Switzerland?"

"Yes or no, does Hitler renounce annexation and even full absorption of the populations of these territories into the reich, or does he proclaim that these are internal affairs of the German people in which he does not intend to let other nations meddle?"

"If the latter case be the truth, then we understand why Germany is rearming at a record pace."

Germany Almost Solidly Supports Hitler

GERMANY'S men and women to the number of 44,380,140 declared by their votes in the reichstag elections that they supported the policies of Hitler. Only 542,898 had the nerve to vote against the reichsfuehrer, and a still smaller fraction refused to go to the polls. Among the latter were the former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and his wife.

Hitler's victory was thus extraordinarily complete, and the Nazis celebrated it with wild rejoicings in Berlin and other cities. It was the culmination of a three years' campaign in which the leaders sought to persuade the population of the reich that only Hitler could save the country from great danger. According to Berlin correspondents, there was a difference of opinion there as to the influence the triumph would have on the Fuehrer. Some said it would stiffen his back and induce him to ride roughshod over the powers which objected to his scrapping of the Locarno pact. Others said the election would make him feel so strong he would be willing to make a concession to his neighbors in an effort to help establish "the new order in Europe" to which he referred so frequently in his election speeches.

The new reichstag will be the largest in history, having about 740 members. Most of them will be officials of the Nazi party.

For the first time in the history of aviation a polling booth was established in the air. It was aboard the new dirigible Von Hindenburg, whose 104 passengers and crew voted solidly for Hitler. The Hindenburg and the Graf Zeppelin cruised over the Saar and the Rhineland all day long.

Japan Expects Trouble With Soviet Russia

THOUGH Koki Hirota, the new Japanese premier, said a few days ago that while he was in office there would be no war, it is evident his government really is looking for serious trouble with Russia. This feeling is expressed by Eiji Aman, spokesman for the Tokyo foreign office, who said: "Japan must prepare for Soviet aggression."

Recent activities indicate the Reds are availing themselves of the critical situation which developed after the recent military revolt in Tokyo and are increasing the strength of their troops along the Manchukuan border. Aman said the "recent Soviet policy has been to fire on any persons near the border." He said he regards this as a "friendly neighbor." He said Premier Hirota had protested the alleged action to K. K. Yarenev, Russian ambassador to Japan.

Almost every day there are reports of clashes on the Mongolian border, each side blaming the other as aggressors. The Outer Mongolian government, reinforced by conclusion of its mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia, dispatched a note to the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchukuo, declaring its readiness to resist any invasion.

Italian Bombers Wreck Second Ethiopian City

MUSSOLINI'S air bombers were busy again in Ethiopia, virtually ruining Harar, second city of that country, with a downpour of explosives. Most of the populace had fled when scouting planes gave a warning of what was to come, so the casualties were few. An official telephone message from Harar to Addis Ababa said fifteen incendiary bombs struck the Egyptian Red Cross hospital and others hit the Ethiopian Red Cross hospital.

A French mission, the French consulate, the Ethiopian radio station and prison all were reported officially to have been ruined.

The attack on Harar, coupled with a heavy bombardment of Jijiga, fifty miles east of Harar and a center of Ethiopia's southern defenses, raised native fears in Addis Ababa that the capital itself might be the next target.

Government in Business Decried by Committee

ACCORDING to the committee on government competition with private enterprise, whose report has been made to the President, that practice is wholly destructive except in situations where the public welfare can only thus be served. "The government's function," the report said, "is to protect economic activities of its citizens and not to supplant them."

The committee unanimously agreed that only under the following conditions is the government justified in entering into competition with private enterprise:

1. When required to assure adequate preparation for, and creation of, the facilities for national defense.

2. For the conservation of natural resources.

3. When private enterprise fails to conduct needed scientific research and exploratory activities to advance industrial development, or in the interest of public health and safety.

4. When private enterprise fails to render a service necessary for the general welfare.

Alien Deportation Bill Reported to Senate

DESPITE vigorous opposition, which will reappear on the floor of the senate, the senate committee on immigration and naturalization reported favorably the Kerr-Coolidge alien deportation bill, which Secretary Perkins has been trying to get through congress for three years. It will give her and two other members of an interdepartmental board discretionary power to harbor radical and even criminal aliens, otherwise deportable, in this country. The same bill recently was reported favorably by the house committee.

Pending action by congress on the measure, Secretary Perkins has been holding up the deportation of some 2,800 aliens mandatorily deportable under existing law, contending that they are "hardship cases." Some are radicals, some have criminal records, and others entered the country illegally. By "hardship cases" Secretary Perkins means that they would be separated from family ties or put to some other inconvenience.

Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina, Democrat, not long ago attacked the action of Secretary Perkins in holding up the deportations and denounced the pending bill as a "sham and a mockery" and a subterfuge to shield all kinds of radicals, criminals, and dependents unlawfully in this country.

Secretary Perkins refused to produce information respecting the 2,800 "hardship" cases until Reynolds introduced a senate resolution, whereupon she permitted him to examine the records.

Third Party Is Favored by Farmer-Laborites

FORMATION of a third national party was suggested in a resolution adopted by the Farmer-Labor party convention at St. Paul, Minn., and the delegates noisily welcomed the hint that Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota might be its Presidential candidate in 1940. Just now Mr. Olson is after a seat in the senate. The resolution was adopted by a vote of 508 1/2 to 250 1/2 although several leaders pleaded that the move be put off for four years.

Governor Olson said privately that in his opinion the resolution could do no harm since it does not commit the liberals to putting a national ticket in the field this year. Neither does it authorize formation of such a ticket unless a second convention convenes and ratifies any action a proposed "exploratory conference" may take.

News From the Cosmos
Statesmen and Politicians
Sloan's Fine Figures

Lloyd George, who ran the big war for England and won with the help of old Clemenceau, not sympathetic with France this time, says England is dangerously involved and "we shall send our young men to die, this time on German soil, to punish these arrogant and aggressive Teutons for daring to make preparations for the defense of their own soil against a foreign invader."

Arthur Brisbane

Lloyd George is bitter in his denunciation of the suggestion that England be dragged into another war. "France," says he, "can spend $500,000,000 on the erection of huge fortifications. We can vote plans which involve expenditure of an extra fifteen hundred million dollars for protection. But if the Germans propose to throw up even a pillbox to guard their famous cities and their greatest industrial area... then 'measures must be concerted' between the general army staffs of Britain and France."

The "fastest" double star is found, and that is the big news. "Twin suns" close together, in the constellation of Ophiuchus, revolve completely around each other in twenty months. The shortest period of revolution for any other "binary" star is five years. Some revolve only once in a hundred years.

Nature is both fast and slow; the electron in the atom revolves around the proton thousands of millions of times in a second. The lens-shaped Milky Way above your head, in which our sun is one of thirty thousand million specks of light, revolves once in 225,000,000 years. No limit to bigness, no limit to smallness, apparently.

That naval conference in London ends, quite to the satisfaction of England, with the situation about as it was when Hiram Johnson of California put the situation in these few words: "Great Britain builds as she prefers; the United States builds as Great Britain permits."

England actually says to the United States, "You must build no more cruisers with eight-inch guns; we do not like them." And the United States humbly says, "All right, then we shall not build any."

It is the old story: England has statesmen, we have politicians—and some of them are Anglomaniac snobs.

Big business, like little business, has had its trouble, but here and there it is still big business. In his annual report for General Motors, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., reports net sales last year amounting to $1,155,941,511, against $862,672,670 the year before; a gain of more than two hundred and ninety-two million dollars. That means many new cars, and families made happier. The company paid out in wages more than three hundred and twenty-three million dollars, not including wages paid indirectly to thousands of workers producing materials of which automobiles are made.

Sixty of Mussolini's planes have wiped out Harar, Ethiopia's second biggest city, one of 40,000 inhabitants, "civilized" Europe, England leading, bemoans the fact that a Mohammedan mosque, the Coptic cathedral and a Catholic church were blasted.

They forget what happened in the big war, at Rheims, Louvain and elsewhere, and the German cannon "Big Bertha" throwing at Paris shells that might well have wrecked Notre Dame, the Madeleine or the Sainte Chapelle.

War is as ruthless as was nature in the earthquake that destroyed the great cathedral of Lisbon, killing thousands that had gathered there seeking divine protection.

When Pittsburgh is through with the disaster that has almost overwhelmed the city, a monument should be erected in a park, or on the mountainside, in honor of the courage and recuperative energy of the great industrial city. With lights turned off, water flooding the streets, many men and women calmly continued their work, wearing coal miners' light-bearing caps, like so many gigantic glow worms. Americans still possess resourcefulness and can do what they must do.

"To him that hath shall be given," even in Wall street speculation.

Beginning May 1, if you buy $100 worth of stocks, you must put $55 of your own into the deal. This will compel small fish to operate on a small scale and get rich slowly, if at all.

It has been suggested here often that airplanes might fight forest fires, possibly by laying down from overhead a soapy layer to shut out oxygen. Utah's officials have planned a new parachute, instantaneously opening, that would land from one to six firefighters and apparatus from planes, wherever desired.

Floyd Gibbons ADVENTURERS' CLUB

Hello, Everybody!

"The Iron Tomb"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter.

FILL up those lemonade glasses and drink a toast to Alex Mackail of Port Chester, N. Y. Fill up the longest, tallest glasses you can find—fill up one for each of the thirty thousand members of the Adventurers' club—and still you won't be drinking as big a toast as the one Alex himself almost drank.

Alex started working on a tall, cool one that was 20 feet long and 12 feet high. And no lemon juice or sugar in it, either. It was only by the sheerest luck that he managed to get out of finishing that cocktail, too. Boys and girls, it's a lulu of a story.

It happened in school. Alex wasn't going to that school to get a cranium of knowledge, though. He was there for the good hard cash there was in it. Maybe the fact that the school was in Scotland had something to do with that. It was in the year 1922, and Alex, who was just a kid then, had nailed himself a job as apprentice with a boiler repairing firm in the Scottish town of Glasgow.

Trapped Inside a Rapidly Filling Boiler.

They were working on a huge boiler in the basement of the Clydebank public school. There were three of them on that job—Alex, his boss and an inspector. The inspector had climbed out of the boiler room and gone home. Alex's boss had decided that they'd done enough work for the day and had climbed out after him to telephone the shop. Alex was going to wait until the boss came back from telephoning so they could both go home together. While he waited, he pulled a copy of a Diamond Dick novel out of his pocket and sat down beside a guttering candle to read.

In a few minutes he had forgotten that he was sitting inside a stuffy old boiler. He was out on the open prairie, following Diamond Dick through a series of adventures that would curl the quills of a porcupine. He didn't realize that in another minute or two he'd be going through a real, honest-to-goodness adventure of his own—an adventure that would make all of Diamond Dick's exploits look like so many pink tea parties.

The next thing Alex knew, there was a tremendous rush of water at the far end of the boiler. He jumped, and the candle beside him rolled to the floor and went out. Alex looked up then, for the daylight that should be streaming through the manhole in the top of the boiler—but the big tank was black as night. His boss had come back and, thinking Alex had gone home, had replaced the manhole cover and started to fill the boiler up.

Alex lost his head then. He rushed to the front of the boiler and began hammering on it with his bare fists. That didn't do any good. The noise of the pump outside drowned any sound he might make that way.

In a frenzy of fear he ran to the pipe through which the water was coming and made a futile attempt to stop the flow with his hands. That didn't get him anywhere either, but the cold water that dashed in his face sort of brought him to his senses, and he started telling himself to keep a level head.

The Deadly Water Kept Pouring In.

"My breath," he says, "was coming in sobs. I remembered that I had left a hammer and chisel at the other end of the boiler, and I started back to get them. That boiler was just twenty feet long, but it seemed like twenty miles. The water was getting higher every minute, but I finally made it, found the hammer and started pounding on the sides. I pounded hard enough to loosen the rivets, but still the water came pouring in."

"Nevertheless, I kept on pounding. I knew there must be someone outside to shut the water off when it reached the gauge level. That wasn't much comfort, though, because by the time the water reached the gauge level, it would be a foot over my head."

Another few minutes, and Alex began to get dizzy. The pressure caused by the rush of water was going to his head. Still, he pounded away—not because he thought it would do any good, but because, in his terror, he didn't think to stop.

The Grim Reaper's Scythe Nearly Fell.

Fearsome thoughts were going through his mind. What would his mother say when he didn't come home that night? Would anybody ever find him? What would happen when they lit the fire in the morning? "It was then," says Alex, "that I went insane. I started screaming and tearing with my bare hands at the rusty iron wall of the boiler. I seemed to hear voices outside saying, 'Hold on, Alex—I'll get you!' But I was too far gone to realize what it meant. I hadn't even noticed that the water had stopped coming in. I seemed to lose my senses somewhere in there, and the next thing I knew, I was lying on my back, out in the school yard."

Yes—Alex's boss had dragged him out of that boiler—unconscious. He had fallen in a faint and had taken so much water into his lungs that the boss had to give him artificial respiration before he came to. Alex is a grown man now, but he still has nightmares about that horrible fifteen minutes when he was trapped in a filling boiler.

Friday, 13th, Not Jonah to Many Old-Timers

One of the most widely known of the "13" superstitions is that it is unlucky to sit at a table where there are 13 persons. Tradition has it that some one of the 13 will die within the year. Some authorities say this dates back to the time of Christ when 13 gathered at the table for the Last Supper. Judas Iscariot was the first to leave and all are familiar with his fate. However, it is known that this superstition was rife among the Asiatics long before that.

Others trace it back to Scandinavian mythology when the 12 major gods were seated about a table in Valhalla and the evil spirit, Loki, arrived to make the 13th. Friday bears special significance in this connection because it was the festival of certain gods. Their wrath was sure to fall on the unwary heads of all who did not give up their own pursuits on that day to indulge in the festival.

In Paris, there are persons known as "fourteeners" because it is their business to be available to all who wish a 14th guest at parties and dinners when only 13 appear.

However, there are those persons who have no fear of the dreaded number but take it as their good luck symbol. In the national capital the auto tag numbered 13 has gone to the same person for a number of years while a great demand exists for the tags numbered 1313 and 131313.

Louis XIII of France chose a title with 13 letters and always made his most important decisions and moves on the 13th. Nansen, the explorer, started on an Arctic expedition on the 13th with 13 men and returned home on the 13th, later attending a dinner party on Friday, the 13th, at the 13th guest. Richard Wagner, the composer, was born on the 13th in 1813. Ancients observed a 13-month calendar and the old custom of giving a bride 13 pieces of gold exists in Latin countries that have any gold.

Appearance of Halley's Comet

Halley's comet, the most famous of all such visitors, has a period of something more than 76 years. It was visible in April, 1910, for the twenty-ninth time since its first recorded appearance in 240 B. C. It will appear again in 1986.

JESUS TRIUMPHS OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—Because I live, ye shall live also.—John 14:19.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Glad Surprise.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Conqueror.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus is Alive.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Living Lord.

The supreme test of Christianity is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true. Fortunately, there is no better authenticated fact in all history than that of the resurrection of the body of Jesus Christ.

I. The Empty Sepulchre (vv. 1-3).
1. The coming of the women (v. 1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body. This was a beautiful expression of sentiment but showed their lack of faith. If they had believed his words, they would have known that his body could not be found in the sepulchre.

2. What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre, they found the stone had been removed. How the stone was to be removed greatly perplexed them on their way, but on their arrival they discovered that their difficulty had already been met. They found the stone rolled away, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke most eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

II. The Message of the Men in Shining Garments (vv. 4-8).

1. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). This question has been reverberating through the centuries since it was uttered by the angels.

2. "He is not here, but is risen." Jesus had made all these matters quite plain. He had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would arise again. If they had given heed to his words, they would have been relieved of their perplexities.

III. The Women Witnessing to the Eleven (vv. 9-11).

Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the disciples as idle tales and they refused to believe:

IV. Peter Investigating (v. 12).

While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to dismiss the matter from his mind. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

V. The Convinced Disciples (vv. 13-35).

1. The walk of two discouraged disciples (vv. 13-15). Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked

Why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. If they had believed what Jesus said about his coming forth from the grave, they would have expected to hear such reports.

2. The unrecognized companion (vv. 16-24).

a. Who he was (v. 16). While they reasoned together on the wonderful events of the past few days, Jesus joined them on the journey.

b. His question (v. 17). Perceiving their sadness and perplexity, he sought to help them by calling forth a statement of their grief. This question surprised them and caused them to jump at the conclusion that he was a stranger in Jerusalem, for the condemnation and crucifixion of the great Prophet of Nazareth were so recent and notorious that no one who had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

3. The Scriptures opened (vv. 25-31).

a. His rebuke (vv. 25-30). He rebuked them not for their unbelief of the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance and lack of confidence in the Old Testament.

b. Jesus recognized (v. 31). While sitting at meat with the disciples their eyes were opened as they saw him bless the bread and distribute to them.

4. The effect upon the disciples (vv. 32-35). They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Saviour that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

God's Love

God's love gives in such a way that it flows from a father's heart, the well-spring of all good. The heart of the giver makes the gift dear and precious; as among ourselves we say of even a trifling gift, "It comes from a hand we love," and look not so much at the gift as at the heart.—Luther.

Laugh From the Heart

A laugh to be joyous must flow from a joyous heart, for without kindness there can be no true joy.—Clarke.

He was about to go on when a small movement on the ground attracted him; he stooped and gently put down one hand, palm cupped, and rising showed Nan a bee crawling over his fingers.

"Pig!" he chided. "He's loaded up so heavily that he can't fly! Go on! Try it from here!" He waved his hand and the bee took wing, going slowly and doggly, but with that aid finally making a successful attempt at flight.

He stooped over again, watching another busy worker.

"Pretty fair Italians," he said. "Not pure; hybrids, but they look like right good honey-makers."

"Are you, among other things, a bee expert?" Nan laughed.

"No, but once I had to live for a while with an old codger who kept 'em. That was about the best time I had when I was a kid. I got real clubby with bees . . . liked 'em. When I get so old I can't ramble any more maybe I'll settle down and keep 'em and let 'em keep me!"

"Is that the only plan you have?"

He straightened and looked at her so intently that she flushed.

"Maybe not," he said gravely. "I'll know before long."

Later they stood shoulder to shoulder, waiting for the compass to come to rest that they might be certain of precise directions, eyes of each on the swinging dial. Nan's breath was a caress for Kerry's cheek and his hands began to tremble.

A few days earlier he would have laughed at this reaction but now he simply moved without explanation and placed the compass on a boulder where it would have stability.

"That hemlock stub is due north—" "Sh!"

Young cut off her words with the low warning, making no movement.

"Wait!" he whispered. "Something coming. Hear it?"

The girl did not, at first, but after a moment of strained listening nodded her head silently.

Something was coming their way, slowly, perhaps hesitatingly. Then, as a breath of breeze stirred the foliage, blowing from them to the direction from which the sounds came, that approach became more rapid.

Hoof beats and scrapings of brush and finally a queer, inquiring grunt or two.

"Oh!" Nan whispered as it came into view. "Moose calf! . . . Why . . . he's coming up to us!"

Indeed, it seemed as if the creature would run them down. It came on, head up, ears stiff, emitting a series of low sounds, picking up its feet awkwardly with the long, gangling legs; great, dark eyes fast on those two humans.

"Why! He'll . . ." Nan caught at Kerry's elbow as the calf kept on, never slackening its pace and so close that in another stride or two they might have touched it.

But on the movement the animal swerved, half turned away, swung off to the right and stopped facing them, standing there all rigid attention and wonder.

The short tail twitched, the nostrils quirked. Young's elbow pressed Nan's hand warningly to his side. They stood motionless as the moose continued to stare at them, making those plaintive, inquiring sounds.

Kerry could feel the girl tremble and that sent a tremor through his own body.

He began to imitate the sound the calf made and on that the creature backed off a few steps, seeming frightened. But when the man did not move it resumed its own grunts, as if doing its best to bridge the barrier between species and talk.

"What the dickens are you?" he seemed to be trying to say. "Where do you come from? Why are you here? I never smelled or saw anything like you two in all my born days! I'm kind of afraid of you, but I want to give you a good once-over before I hit for yonder! There's so much for a young feller like me to run across for the first time!"

For over a minute the calf stood there, using all its senses to size up that man and that woman. And then, probably as an instinctive mistrust of anything so widely at variance with all its other young experience asserted itself, began to back. The retreat at first was orderly, a slow, backward stepping. Then it turned sideways and broke into a trot, went faster. Once it stopped and cast an apprehensive glance over its shoulder and after that, dropped its ears and disappeared at a lumbering but flowing trot.

"Why! Why, of all things!" breathed Nan, withdrawing her hand from Young's arm.

"Never saw it before!" he said. "But in the woods, if you use your eyes, you see plenty for the first time." He laughed lowly.

"His first encounter with man scent, you see. He wined us from wherever he was and curiosity made him come our way. Likely, he's never been molested in all his couple of months on earth and so he doesn't know much about fear.

"Tough, isn't it, that every species has its predator enemies and has to start learning how to defend itself by the law of claw and fang before it has a good chance to enjoy such a swell world?"

"Yes. It's tough," she replied and looked with a peculiar intimacy into his face. "There's so much to enjoy if only all of us would!"

They started on and after a time Kerry spoke bluntly the thing that her last words had left in his mind.

"The moose did me a favor. He frightened you a little and made you touch me. . . . That was a downright enjoyable experience."

"Please!"

"But you understand, don't you, that I mean that? It's not just a string of words?"

"Yes. And, because of that . . . Please!"

"Right! . . . This is the best stand of maple I've seen in this country. Look at the bird's-eye tree, there. Two good veneer logs in it."

It was late afternoon when they reached the canoe on their return.

"We've time to look at the cabin now," Nan told him, nodding toward the log structure on the high bank; and she led the way.

Beside the door was a rack of implements for use in fighting fires.

The door itself was unlocked. "My father didn't like locks, in the bush," she explained. "Our men use this camp some but they always leave it open so anyone in need of shelter can get in."

The place was amply furnished, blankets on the bunks, insect nets hanging above them; cooking utensils and a goodly supply of unperishable staples on shelves above the stove.

"It's a snug camp," Nan said. "You'll be comfortable here, Kerry."

He scratched a temple thoughtfully. "Do you mind if I use my own outfit?"

"Why, no! Don't you fancy this camp?"

"Oh, it's got bangles and glass in it, I'd rather set up myself on one of those islands."

"Certainly, if you want it that way. I used to come here with my father, but now the place has been a little spoiled for me. . . . You see, Holt stayed here alone the night Father was killed and if it hadn't been for wise old Ezra he'd have been carted in to jail and held a while."

"You think a lot of Holt, don't you?"

"Of course! Why shouldn't I? He's the most loyal boy in the world. He's worked his head off for me."

"Anybody would," he said . . . and wondered why she colored quickly and looked at him almost defensively when she spoke of Holt Stuart.

Other cars were there when they drove up to headquarters. One was Ezra Adams' battered roadster and the old doctor looked up from tinkering with the motor in a way which commanded Kerry's interest.

But Nan, with a wave to Ezra, was more intent on the group about the other.

"Oh, there's Mr. Dexter, up from Chicago!" she said excitedly. "That means he's ready to close!" Her face clouded. "And day before yesterday I mailed Tod West a formal request for permission to deed that section. It's our first chance at a real sale. Oh, I hope it won't be blocked!"

"Who's sick, Ezra?" Young asked, as Nan walked rapidly on to greet the others.

"Nobody much, except this 'arnal motor!" he said loudly. Then, with caution: "Come close, Kerry! Stick your head down here with me, like you were trying to help me tinker at something."

"The bullet that killed Cash," he whispered, "was fired from Tod West's pistol!"

For a moment Young did not reply; a savage triumph swept him, followed by a sinking sensation. Tod West, the slayer of Nan's father and, perhaps, the slayer of her hopes as well! He knew that even despite her misgivings, the girl was hoping that West would be generous enough to permit her to close the deal which this evening seemed to be in prospect. And it was such a forlorn hope.

"Well," he said, "that gives us a course to steer, Ezra!"

"What's the first move?"

"To watch him. What else can we do? If he's started using that money, he'll keep on; anyhow, that's a good bet. We've got to locate it before we tip our hand."

"But suppose he suspects and lights out?"

Kerry twisted his head doubtfully.

"He won't light out so long as there's a hope left. All he has worked and schemed and killed for is in this country. A man of his age doesn't run away from it so long as there's a chance of hanging on."

"Now, I can get Jim Hinkle to trail him. He won't suspect Jim. That can be fixed up. With me out of the picture for a few days, maybe he'll feel more free to act. I'll see to it that plenty of folks know I'm to be gone for a while."

"I swear it's going to be up to you, son!" the old man said. "I get all flutery inside, now, thinking about what might happen . . . and about what you and I've got to make happen!"

Nan Downer sat disconsolately at her desk that evening. The man Dexter and his companions had gone from the dinner-table down to the river. Soon they would return and want to talk business . . . and as yet she was not able to talk in conclusive terms.

She had an opportunity to bring to realization some of the dreams she had shared with her father, but not yet the legal right!

She had been conscious for a moment of another's presence, but did not look up at once. When she did, it was into the flushed face of Tod West.

"Oh!" she cried, and rose quickly from her chair.

"Surprised, eh?" he asked and stepped closer. "Why surprised? I got a letter from you yesterday."

Now, she caught the reek of whisky on his breath.

"Well, you want my answer now?" he taunted.

"Yes, Tod. I . . . you see, I've a chance to sell two sections at a very fine figure. Under our agreement—"

"You can't sell a damn foot of land!" he cut in. "No, Miss Nan Downer, you can't sell one damn foot of ground!" He drove a fist into the other palm vindictively. "You had your chance once. I give you your chance a week ago. . . . But what'd you do? Tried to wham me with an oak, that's what you did!"

"You know, well's I do, where we stand. You're right up ag'in' foreclosure this minute. You can't sell an acre until you've come across with the principal payment, 'most a year overdue."

She retreated around the corner of her desk as he advanced.

"And you don't like it, eh? Don't like doin' business that way! You can be high and mighty to me one day, and then expect favors the next! Well, I'll show you my heart's in the right place! I'll show you a contract's a contract! I'll show you that I'll see you busted and smashed and on the road without a roof, before we—"

"Tod! Don't! Tod! Please—"

He had crowded her against the wall. Rigidity went from him and a strange sound, half-laugh, half-sob, came from deep in his throat.

"Hurt you? Hurt you, little Nan? . . . God, I'm sorry for the things that've happened!" He stepped back a pace or two unsteadily. Confusion lay in his eyes. He had come to gloat, but now . . .

"I meant that, up the river the other day," he said huskily. "I meant all I within as Nan, taking Holt by the hand, drew him close to her and shut the door.

Ezra Adams, returning to Nan's after an hour in Jim Hinkle's home, came first into the excited group in the big room, was told what had happened, asked Nan's whereabouts and went, without knocking, into the office.

They stood close together, the girl holding both Holt's hands in hers, looking up into his face intently. The old physician, struck by the apparent significance of their postures, hesitated as if to withdraw.

"Come in, Ezra!" Nan said and then, to Holt, with a little shake of his hands: "And so you will be careful, Holt dear?"

Stuart withdrew his hands from hers and turned, going abruptly, not looking at Adams.

When he was gone and Nan had closed the door, she swung toward the old man with tears in her eyes. He opened his arms at her choking sob and gathered her close.

"Oh, Ezra!" she moaned. "Oh, if anything should happen to Holt!"

"I heard about what went on. Don't fear. We'll watch to see nothin' does happen."

"Tod's so savage, so brutal! And I feel such a responsibility for Holt. He's such . . . such an emotional boy! If Tod harms him, I'll feel I'm to blame and . . . Don't you see?"—beseechingly. "Oh, why must things like this come up to be faced just when . . . just when love comes, Ezra?"

Though her words had given him a sort of shock the old man downed his curiosity and the questions that she provoked, and devoted all his resources to comforting her. He stroked her hair and patted her shoulders until her emotions were under control. Then she asked him to go.

"It's my problem," she said. "I can think better alone. I'm so glad you were here to let me be female and weak for a moment!"—wiping her eyes and smiling bravely.

He left her then, with a deal to think about. He carried his news to Kerry later the same evening.

"Looks like Stuart's finally got what he seems to want most," he said, and did not notice that his companion appeared to stop even his breathing to listen. "Ezra's awful upset because she's afraid something'll happen to him. And she's in love, too, which doesn't make for calm thinking. . . ."

"To be sure, I promised we'd look after Stuart, but,"—with a shrug.—"I wouldn't bet that that can be done."

"Tod'll have him on his list now, and Tod's got a long memory when he's been angered. Course, he was drunk."

Young did not hear this last. He was concerned at the moment only with one thing which Ezra had had to tell. Dismay filled him as he realized the emotion that had been fermenting in his heart for days, which had almost crystallized into recognizable thought this afternoon: that finally his heart had taken root! He was in love to his ears with Nan Downer and yet here was old Ezra, bringing word of her love for another. His heart had discovered a home, only to find it already occupied.

He shut his teeth and stirred himself to follow the doctor's grave talk.

"He was drunk," Ezra repeated. "And he may forget when he sobers up; may forget enough of it to keep his vengeance away from Holt; then again, his belt's drunk when it happened may make his grudge only that much worse."

West was sober enough when an hour later he stood in the shadow of Bluejay's rattletrap flivver not far from Mel Knight's store at the Landing and talked rapidly, jabbing a finger now and again against the 'breed's chest.

Bluejay was in from the blueberry camp he had established to the north ward a few days before, where his wife and progeny gathered the ripening fruit which a buyer came to truck out to the railroad each evening. Frank did not pick much himself and he cursed his family for not being more adept at the harvest. And so the proposal which Tod West made fell on ground doubly fertile.

" . . . And he's made you a joke, here, knockin' you into the river that way, Frank! He'll drive you out of the country if he stays and . . . and I want him gone because he tried to frame me!"

The 'breed's eyes were fixed on the white man's face.

"How much?" he asked.

"Well, not much. It's your fight. I can get along; I'd rather have him gone, but I can get along. You, though. . . . And there'd be no chance, you see, out there on Townline if—"

"How much?"

Under his insistence West paused.

"Ten dollars."

"Huh! You do your own job, Tod West!"

He turned to his car.

"Hold on!"—grasping a sleeve "Money's scarce."

"Well, I ain't goin' to take no chances for no ten dollars. For a hunderd, no—"

"A hundred! You're crazy!"

They battered longer, but without heat, and finally Bluejay nodded.

"All right. But when?"

"When the job's done."

"I'll see, eh? And this other . . . you tell me when you want me to say I seen Stuart there, Tod. In the corner, eh? And burying a . . ."

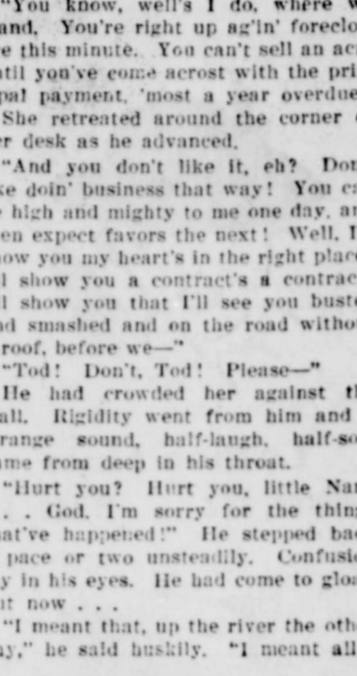

His voice dropped to a cautious whisper.

Bluejay cranked his car and clattered away and Tod West stroled toward the store.

He did not enter, however; stood there staring within and felt his bruised lips carefully.

He had become a changed man by this span of a few short days.

Man's Friends Glad He Told Them About Black-Draught

Writing from Texarkana, Texas, Mr. W. T. Bentley, of that city, says: "I have been using Black-Draught for fully forty years. I would have a bad taste in my mouth and headache. I knew I needed a laxative—something to cleanse the system. I would hunt up the Black-Draught and take a dose. I would be relieved in a few hours. In Black-Draught I have found a simple remedy—one that does not have any after-effects. I do not know of anything better to take for a dull, tired, listless feeling. I have recommended Black-Draught to many friends and neighbors. I know they have been glad that I did, for they have said so."

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Lard used in deep fat frying should be strained through cheesecloth after use to remove the food particles which accumulate in the kettle.

Oysters have a better flavor if not overcooked. They may be rolled in fine cracker crumbs, dipped in egg, rolled again in crumbs and fried in deep fat at 350 Fahrenheit.

Tie a little bow of bright colored ribbon on the handles of the scissors and they can be quickly found in the sewing basket.

Dressing tables, like little girls' dresses, are now founced from top to bottom. For a young girl's room five crisp, sheer founces of white organdie make a most attractive table.

If the paint on the outside of your house has blistered it may be necessary to take off all old paint. No paint will bond well with poor old paint.

When scouring with wire wool use a snap clothcap to hold wool, thus saving your hands.

Peroxide will remove perfume stains from linen bureau scarfs. Keep a blotting pad under scarf to protect dressing table or bureau top when perfume is spilled on it.

A tablespoon of borax placed in the water in the tea kettle will remove the coating that forms on inside of kettle.

To bring out the brilliancy of cut glass, add ammonia to the water in which it is to be rinsed.

Cut flowers will keep fresh much longer if removed from the table after each meal and placed in the refrigerator. Cover stems with water.

No Depression at United States Mints Last Year

The Philadelphia and the Denver mints have reported a prosperous year. In fact the federal mint and depository at Denver had its most prosperous year since 1928. During the year it handled more than $15,000,000 worth of gold and silver. More money was manufactured at the Philadelphia mint than in the previous two years. It produced more than 20,000,000 coins valued at some $68,000,000 and nearly 10,000,000 coins for foreign countries.

Man's Friends Glad He Told Them About Black-Draught

Writing from Texarkana, Texas, Mr. W. T. Bentley, of that city, says: "I have been using Black-Draught for fully forty years. I would have a bad taste in my mouth and headache. I knew I needed a laxative—something to cleanse the system. I would hunt up the Black-Draught and take a dose. I would be relieved in a few hours. In Black-Draught I have found a simple remedy—one that does not have any after-effects. I do not know of anything better to take for a dull, tired, listless feeling. I have recommended Black-Draught to many friends and neighbors. I know they have been glad that I did, for they have said so."

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Entered as second-class mail matter at the post office at Silverton, Texas in accordance with an act of Congress March 3, 1879.

Last Friday night Bruno Hauptmann died. After eighteen months of worse than death, since his arrest for the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, he was electrocuted, still proclaiming his innocence.

In the trial over a million dollars have been spent. Unknown suffering has been undergone by his wife and family, as well as by the Lindberghs, who unable to stand the drawn-out trial and publicity any longer, have moved to England. But the law is satisfied. The suspect has paid his debt to society, and the crime is cleared up. The New Jersey police can rest upon their laurels. The shyster lawyers and witnesses can enjoy their profits and the jury can thank themselves that justice has been done. The world is better off.

Bosh! And Baloney!
If we are going to execute them, let's do it and stop handing out huge profits to a bunch of crooks that don't have nerve enough to commit the crime themselves, but who would, if necessary, send an innocent man to his death for a wad of money. And that doesn't mean that Bruno Hauptmann was innocent. But he MAY have been. The whole drawn-out affair was a farce and a black mark against American justice.

Hope, faith, and a longing for better times—the formula which makes West Texans smile at the dust. The thing that makes them say, "Well, my wheat isn't hurting much," and as they anxiously scan the dust laden sky, "I'll bet they're really having dust over there, we could be worse."

And one of these days some little old fool cloud that looks like it wouldn't cover your hand is going to get friendly with another little cloud. And for amusement only, they are going to find another cloud or two and will they have fun. And they'll find another little group of clouds, also out for fun. And with a few more members in their party they'll change their giddy ways, and they will mean business. In other words it's going to rain. And soon. The forecast is rain.

I saw a duck the other day. He still had webbed feet, which proves that he hadn't given up hope of rain. On the other hand I saw a catfish the same day that was growing legs. He had given up hope of existing as a fish any longer. But what happened to him? He was pickled in alcohol and placed in Bob Stephenson's collection—punishment for having given up hope.

The older a newspaper man becomes, the more humiliated he is by the things he wrote some years ago—Atchinson Globe. My humiliation is going to be really something.

A weighty question was pondered the other day in the school room. It was: "What is it that has four legs, a mane, a tail, two eyes, hoofs, and can see as well from one end as from the other?" And the answer is a blind horse.

In 1890 before the invention of the linotype 123,000 people were employed by the printing industry. Now the trade furnishes work for 541,000 people. One man running a linotype can easily set as much type as four hand compositors. Figure that one out.

NEW TEXAS ALMANAC

The book of 100,000 facts—the 1936 edition of the Texas Almanac—is just off the press. It is the largest volume in the history of this publication—a total of 512 pages, on better grade of paper and more profusely illustrated. The 1936 book, although designated as the "Centennial Edition" and compiled in tribute to the grand celebration in Texas this year, misses only twenty-one years of reaching its own Centennial year, having first been issued in 1857 by the Galveston News, the parent organization of The Dallas News, its present publishers.

While much new material of historical nature is included in the new issue, none of the chapters that has made The Texas Almanac the standard reference book of Texas in the past has been omitted. The names of several thousand individuals appear in its pages.

Features of the current issue include an extensive description of the Texas Centennial including celebrations at Dallas and other points in the State, an outline of the history of Texas from its beginnings to the present, an illustrated chapter on the wild flowers of Texas, lists of the different kinds of trees and wild animals found in Texas, extensive lists of historic old towns and origins of names of Texas towns, a text of the State Constitution with all its amendments and brief account of submission of all adopted amendments since adoption of the Constitution, and the new farm census figures of 1935. There is much of interest for the coming political campaign, including the current poll tax payments by counties. All figures on State, county and city bonded debt are brought up to date. There are several chapters devoted to points of interest for the Centennial tourist in Texas, and a new map made in four colors especially for this edition of the Texas Almanac, entitled "Texas for Tourists," is folded between the leaves of each volume.

There are more than 100,000 facts about the history, natural resources, crops, livestock, industries, commerce, transportation, finance, government, politics, educational system, cultural institutions and other phases of Texas economic, political and social development.

The Texas Almanac, always in demand by business and professional men and women and students in the Lone Star State, will be more in demand this year than ever before. Texas history is more glamorous and richly appealing on the State's 100th birthday. Thousands of out-of-state visitors and newcomers will find this birthday edition particularly acceptable. No individual or organization is so thoroughly equipped to present in book form a compendium of Texas data. Facts and figures come from all parts of the State to find, in well edited form, their niche in this widely demanded handbook on Texas—its past, present and future.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Edwards were in Plainview Friday to see Mrs. F. A. Fisch who has been operated on and is reported better now.

Willie Muriel Field of South Plains spent last Wednesday night with Nettie Edwards.

General Has Considered Wedlock; Therefore Single

People who dislike "petticoat government" will be hard put to it to explain the way the Salvation Army is forging ahead under General Evangeline Booth.

Missionary work has been extended, and the Army is now operating in 88 different countries, and teaching and preaching in 86 different languages. In India alone it treats about 200,000 people a year in its own hospitals.

Asked the other day by an interviewer if she had ever considered matrimony, General Evangeline replied: "Yes, I have considered it very carefully. That is why I remain single."—London Answers.

Our Old Clothes Find a Market in Africa and Asia

In an enlightening article on the Goodwill shops of the United States J. Frazier Vance tells us that many of the "hopelessly outworn and outmoded clothes that arrive in Goodwill bags are sold to the "Old Clothes King" of Europe, M. Thilcin. Each year he sells $7,000,000 worth of discarded things no one here will wear to subjects of Africa and Asia potentates.—Los Angeles Tribune.

FERRY'S SEEDS are at home in ANY climate

Claims that special seeds are necessary for certain climates are misleading. The successful cultivation of gorgeous flowers and tender vegetables depends primarily on the quality of the seeds, and the care you give them.

Ferry-Morse Seed Co. has devoted 80 years to developing and improving the quality of vegetable and flower seeds. At the great Ferry-Morse Seed Breeding Institute farms, over 52,000 permination tests are conducted annually to assure you that Ferry seeds will grow . . . over 9000 purity trials are conducted to insure uniformly superb quality.

That's why you can plant Ferry's seeds in any part of the country—and reap quality harvests. Look for the Ferry display at your local stores. Write for your free copy of our Home Garden Catalog. Check the radio programs for our helpful garden talks over Station WFAA. Ferry-Morse Seed Co., Detroit and San Francisco.

An Easy Aid For Sluggishness

When sluggish and listless from improper elimination, you don't want to upset your entire system with a harsh laxative. You want relief that is pleasant and easy—the sort of relief you get with Feen-a-mint, the delightful chewing gum laxative. Feen-a-mint begins its pleasant effect as soon as you start chewing it, for its stomach-settling mint brings a clean, fresh taste to the mouth. Feen-a-mint doesn't gripe, nauseate or upset you and it is non-habit-forming. It passes through the stomach and into the bowels scientifically. Thoroughly cleanse out waste. EASTER BUNNIES

Coloring Easter Eggs

The First EASTER Lily

IN HOMES where there are small children, it usually is the task of the mother to prepare colored eggs for an Easter egg hunt. This is an important occasion, and the eggs should be cooked and colored so they may be eaten afterward, observes Edith Shuck in the Chicago Daily News.

It doesn't detract from the occasion or beauty of the eggs to prepare them according to the correct cooking rules. Put them on to cook in plenty of cold water. Place the pan over a low flame and bring the water to the simmering temperature slowly. This keeps the shells from cracking. Cook the eggs at simmering temperature 20 to 25 minutes. Cool the eggs gradually so the shock of putting cold water on them will not break the shells.

THE original Easter lily was developed in Philadelphia only a half century ago, according to G. B. Stechter, field inspector of the bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania department of agriculture.

In 1879, a woman returning from Bermuda brought with her two bulbs of a lily which she found growing wild. These bulbs were given to Mary, a florist who had greenhouses in Gray's lane, below Woodland avenue, Philadelphia. The florist planted the bulbs, and for some time they attracted no attention.

A Dutch lily had been used at Easter time, but this was unsatisfactory because it was impossible to control accurately its time of blooming.

Florist Was Successful in "Forcing" the Easter Lily.

Since Easter comes at varying times, it was impossible to "force" this lily in order to have it bloom at a specified time. Therefore, the Dutch lilies were not popular as Easter flowers.

The florist propagated the lily from Bermuda until in three years she had about 100 bulbs. It was then that a Philadelphia florist purchased the bulbs and experimented with "forcing" the lily, in order to have it bloom when wanted. This florist was successful in his experiments, and the lily harrisi resulted. Since it was possible to cultivate this lily so that it would be in flower exactly at Easter time, it became the Easter flower.

The growing of Easter lilies is today a giant industry, but strangely enough the lily used now—the lily gigantum—was propagated and improved in Japan from the lily first developed in Philadelphia. It was taken to Japan, where conditions for its cultivation were ideal, developed, and brought back to America. The present-day lily has a larger flower, with more sturdy foliage than the original Easter lily.

Bacon, Eggs, Easter Dish

According to Brand's Popular Antiquities, the custom of eating a gammon of bacon at Easter, still kept up in many parts of England, was designed to show their abhorrence to Judaism at that solemn commemoration of the resurrection. There is also mention, in the same authority, of eggs and bacon composing a usual dish on that day in the Sixteenth century.

Well Proved Fact

Taking all the evidence together, it is not too much to say that there is no single historic incident better or more variously supported than the resurrection of Christ.—Westcott.

Two Lovely Blouses That Will Give Your Suit That Feminine Appearance

Blouses have to go a long way toward giving the tailored and manly suit a sweet and feminine appearance. The model at the top is a new lingerie blouse made of madonna blue crepe de chine and trimmed with tiny crystal buttons. Soft puff sleeves tightly banded and a fluffy bow at the throat contribute the feminine touches.

At the bottom is a most attractive shirt blouse—it has a charming Peter Pan collar and buttoned panel for the waist closing—the model is made of batiste with either short sports or long bishop sleeves.

New Soil Program

In general it will be easy to remember that the soil depleting crops are mostly row crops, while the soil conserving and soil building crops are the legumes, grains and grasses that are used for cover crops and to turn under as green manure. The neutral classification includes idle land, fallow land, woodland, non crop land, pastures, yards, lanes, roadways, vineyards, and so forth.

About 20 percent of the base acreage in soil depleting crops must in 1936, be classified as soil conserving or soil building crops in order to qualify for participation in the program. The actual ratio will be determined by adding 20 percent of the cotton base acreage to 15% of the base acreage of other soil depleting crops. In other words, the required ratio of soil conserving and soil building crops to soil depleting crops on a strictly cotton farm would be 20 percent; on other farms it would probably be less than this figure.

The maximum cotton acreage on any one farm upon which soil conserving payment will be made is 35% of the cotton base.

No payment will be made for acreage taken out of food and feed crops unless the 1936 acreage in such crops is at least equal to the actual needs of the farm family and work stock.

Corn interplanted with peas will be considered as 50% corn and 50% peas in calculating bases and performance.

The soil conserving payments will be based on the productivity of the land; for cotton it will be five cents per pound; for peanuts 1 1/4 cents a pound; for rice it will be 20 cents for each 100 pounds of the producer's domestic consumption quota, subject to certain specified agreements; and for the other soil depleting crops the rate per acre will vary among the states and counties, depending upon the productivity of the land.

The division of payment between landlord and tenant is arrived at in

Easter for Children
Wash Suits, broadcloth & poplin, 59c to $1.19
Sandals white-tan-black . . $1.00

two ways. The division of the soil conserving payment is 37 1/2% to the producer who furnishes the land; 12 1/2% to the producer who furnishes the workstock and equipment; and 50% to be divided among the producers as the crop is divided.

The soil building payment will be made to the producer who has incurred the expense entailed in the soil building crops or practices.

With regard to wheat the situation is rather different, since wheat growers had signed applications for contracts with the Government for a 1936 wheat program. Congress has voted that existing applications are to be considered as obligations and are to be carried out and payments made on them. Wheat farmers may arrange their fall plantings in 1936 to be included in the new program later.

Crop Classification Listed

In Texas the crops which have been listed as soil depleting are: corn, (including broom corn and sweet corn); cotton; tobacco; Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes; rice; sugarcane; commercial truck and canning crops, including melons and strawberries; peanuts, if harvested as nuts; grain sorghums, sweet sorghums, and millet; small grains, harvested for grain or hay, (wheat, oats, barley, rye, and small grain mixtures).

Crops listed as soil conserving are: annual winter legumes, including vetch, winter peas, bur and crimson clover; biennial legumes, including sweet and alsike clover; perennial legumes, including alfalfa, kudze, and sericea, with or without such nurse crops as rye, oats, wheat, barley, or grain mixtures, when such nurse crops are pastured or clipped green; summer legumes, including soybeans, velvet beans, crotalaria; and annual varieties of lespeeza; peanuts; when pastured; perennial grasses; including Dallis, redtop orchard, Bermuda, carpet, or grass mixtures, and Sudan grass, with or without such nurse crops as rye, oats, wheat, barley, or grain mixtures, when such nurse crops are pastured or clipped green; winter pastured or not, and turned as green manure, or if harvested and followed by summer legumes; and crop acreage planted to forest trees since January 1, 1934.

Those crops which are listed as soil building are: annual winter legumes, including vetch, winter peas, bur and crimson clover, turned under as a green manure crop; biennial legumes, including sweet and alsike clover; perennial legumes, including alfalfa, kudzu, sericea; and annual varieties of lespeeza; summer legumes, including soybeans, velvet beans, crotalaria, and cowpeas, if forage is left on the land; winter cover crops, including rye, barley, oats, and small grain mixtures turned under as green manure and followed in the summer by an approved soil conserving crop and forest trees, when planted on crop land in 1936.

The neutral classification includes: vineyards; tree fruits, small fruits, or nut trees; idle crop land; cultivated fallow land, including clean cultivated orchards and vineyards; wasteland; roads, lanes; lots; yards; and woodland, other than that planted at owner's expense since 1933.
