Byrd in Battle Early

ONE of the big fights scheduled for the regular session of congress is to be over the President's reorganization bill, which aims, among other things, at abolishing the office of comptroller general, popularly known as the "watch dog" on federal spending. This officer is the agent of congress in seeing that expenditures are made only in accordance with law.

Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, one of the Democrats who insist on economy, projected himself into the battle over this measure | Wilson's cabinet, Mr. Baker accomearly by issuing a public statement in which he pointed out that the new auditor established in the measure | ting it across the Atlantic in time to would report to congress only after be the decisive factor in winning the money had been spent and accounts settled.

Some inspired philosopher—and not a woman either—declares that within a century women will dominate every imaginable field of human endeavor.

What do you mean, within a century? If the prophet will leave out the ancient science of growing chinwhiskers and the knack of making a sleeping car washroom look like a hurrah's nest I'm saying that women are already away out in front everywhere.

Since Henry the Eighth, the two greatest kings England had were both queens-Elizabeth and Victo-Men thought up war and improved the art of war and now are hoping to perfect it to the point of exterminating the species, but 'twas in the midst of bloody warfares that Florence Nightingale laid the foundations and Clara Barton built the structure of mercy by method APAN has promised that there and life-saving by skill and tendershall be no recurrence of the ness and sanitation.

Take this country at the present moment: for energy, for readiness of speech, for range of interest, for versatility in making publicity and, incidentally, acquiring it, for endurance under strain, what man amongst us is to be compared with the first lady of the language, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt?

Banishing Sectionalism.

ON ONE stretch of road down here-and it is not a main-trayeled highway and this not exactly the tourist season-I saw cars bearing license tags of nine separate states, ranging from New Hampshire and Florida to Utah and Oregon, besides one from Hawaii and one from Puerto Rico. And next summer Texas cars will be boring into every corner of this Union and the folks riding in them will be getting acquainted with their fellowcountrymen and finding out that, when you know the other fellow. he's not so different, after all.

Like most evil things, sectionalism and parochial prejudices and with Vermont neighbor to Virginia and the Dakotas talking it over with the Carolinas, there's seed being sown which inevitably must sprout a finer yield of Americanism than any our land ever produced-if only we keep the tares of communism and the chaff of snobbery out of the crop, only make patriotic service a thing of elbow-grease and not of freedom of education. Otherwise,

Freedom of the Press. DICTATORS invariably cancel freedom of the press and curb

Although he uttered the words over 250 years ago, Governor Berkeley of Virginia spoke for all the breed of political tyrants when he said: "I thank God there are no free schools, nor printing, for learning has brought disobedience and heresy into the world, and printing has divulged them."

Foulness in drama or literature, like a skunk penned under a barrel, eventually destroys itself by just naturally choking to death on its own smell.

Control of the newest medium of publicity, the radio, is easy. But information put in type keeps on traveling. No people ever stayed free once the press-and the schoolteacher- had been muzzled.

SEEN and HEARD NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT Washington.—Most New Decidence of the Control of the Contr are predicting a revival of the has become of all the wages and hours legislation bill struggling collegians, rang- sometime this winter or spring, and in a form in keeping with the Roosevelt objectives. But at the moment it is very difficult to see how this is going to be done.

The difficulties are not technicalactually the new bill would start out with an enormous advantage so far as parliamentary procedure is concerned. But the trouble is to find some formula for government control of wages and hours, or rather government banning of too small wages and too long hours, on which enough members of the house could agree to obtain a majority.

The majority which was apparent for the bill just a few weeks back. and which forced the bill out of the rules committee pigeonhole, was fictitious. It was a simple log-rolling proposition, under which a number of enthusiastic farm relief advocates traded their signatures to the discharge petition, plus the promise of their votes, in order to prevent a bloc movement of the Northern wages and hours advocates against their farm bill.

Just before the coalition was made it appeared that both bills were doomed. The Southern members, through their strength on the rules committee, had been able to pigeonhole the wage-hour bill at the preceding regular session. This was the surprise of the legislative year, but what really fooled every was that this strength persisted. So it looked as though the bill would stay pigeonholed.

Weakness of the farm bill forced the coalition, and then it looked as though both bills were sure of passage, though neither was strong enough to stand alone.

There's the Rub

With that strange episode now history, the new picture is: How can the men who want a wages and hours bill agree on something strong enough to stand alone?

No compromise so far has been reached on any of the important For example, who difficulties. is to administer the law. William Green and his friends in the American Federation of Labor do not trust the idea of a board. They fear that President Roosevelt would appoint another group as friendly to C. I. O. as they think the national labor relations board is. Neither the A. F. of L. nor the C. I. O. is enthusiastic about entrusting administration to the Department of Labor.

But there enters another complication. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins is distinctly unpopular on Capitol Hill. There are quite a few members of the house who would not vote for any bill, on final passage, which gave Secretary Perkins this added power. Particularly bitter in this group are a few Southerners who still resent an unfortunate remark the secretary made in her first year in office, to the broad general effect that a bigger market for shoes could be built up for Northern factories if so many people in the South would stop going barefoot!

But for eleven months, or until the congressional election of 1938. this wage-hour bill will continue to have a tremendous technical advantage. It has passed the senate. That passage holds until the present congress dies. Nothing changes between sessions. So it is not a question ever of beating a filibuster. It is merely a question of writing a bill which 218 members of the house and 49 senators would rather vote for than against.

The Case of "Jimmie"

There has been a lot of joshing about President Roosevelt's training up his elder son to take his place. 'My Little Boy Jimmie," as the President introduced him back in 1932 from the rear platform of his campaign train, has steadily been moving into the public eye ever since. In that campaign Jimmy was used as a mouthpiece for a great many things which "Papa" did not want to say at the time. For example, he predicted the speediness with which beer would return if his father should be elected.

Then it was James who entangled his father with James M. Curley, then mayor of Boston and one of Jimmie's very good customers in the insurance business. It looked for several years as though this alliance of Curley and young Roosevelt were going to march down through the years. It appeared as though Curley would step from the governor's chair, when he got tired of that office, into the senate, and that James would be-

This idea of James Roosevelt's running for governor of Massachusetts still persists. It would be a logical stepping stone. Friends insist that Jimmie would like it very much. Meanwhile the objectionable alliance with Curley has been terminated. The split between the Roosevelts and Curley became, apparently, irreconcilable when the President, during a campaign swing through the Bay state in the closing through the Bay state in the closing days of the 1936 campaign, failed of Republican. to mention Curley's name, though with the President, and was at the time governor of the state.

As to Curley

It is impossible ever to estimate the extent of the effect of any particular thing in polities. There are too many complications. But enthusiastic Roosevelt fans believe Curley would have been elected had the President supported him with anything like the ardor that Curley had shown for F. D. R. in 1932, or since. And naturally, while the Curley following does not go this far, it is extremely bitter over the "ingratitude."

Which is very interesting, because Jimmie brought Curley into his father's campaign in 1932, sat in with Curley on Massachusetts patronage -to the great indignation of the two Democratic senators, David I. Walsh and Marcus A. Coolidge-and then is generally suspected of being the cause, though he had not intended to be, of the split! For there are many who think that the prime reason for bringing Jimmie to Washington was not to train him up for the presidency later on, helpful as this training might be, but to get him out of the trouble his father feared he was getting into in Massachusetts. And part of this trouble was his association with Curley. It was suspected by some of the President's advisers that Curley had made it appear too easy to Jimmie to capitalize political friendships in writing insurance. Especially, as for some reason there is less attempt to camouflage that sort of thing in Massachusetts than in some other states.

But there is little doubt as to what is going on right now. The President is putting more and more power into Jimmie's hands.

Farley vs. LaGuardia

Friends of James A. Farley are telling the big politician that he can easily be elected governor of New York in November even if the Republicans should nominate Fiorello H. LaGuardia. Incidentally their arguments are rather interesting in view of the thumping majority that LaGuardia piled up in the recent New York mayoralty election.

Time is one of the important elements. They insist that when the gubernatorial election is held La-Guardia will still have three more years to serve as mayor under the term to which he was elected last month. Yet the term he may be seeking as governor would be for

So many of the New York City voters who thought he made a good mayor in his last term, and who voted for him to have four more years rather than to turn the city over to the Democratic bosses, will think it would be poor strategy for them to help send him to Albany.

It is also contended that scores of thousands of New Yorkers who thought LaGuardia should be continued as mayor would oppose the idea of the mayor becoming President of the United States. On this point the illustration of Alfred E. Smith is used. Smith was elected governor in 1918, was beaten in the Harding landslide of 1920, came back in 1922, weathered the Coolidge 1924 Republican landslide comfortably, and was re-elected triumphantly in 1926. Yet more than 100,000 New Yorkers who had voted for him for governor at his lowest ebbs. and several times that number who had voted for him in his good years, refused to vote for him for President. It should be borne in mind here that in 1922 Smith was at the flood-tide of his strength.

Other Angles

Which would seem ample proof that plenty of people will vote for a good public servant for some offices, but will not necessarily support the same man for President.

There is another angle, involving Tammany, which is not so well understood in the country as it is in New York City. Tammany, at the recent mayoralty election, was sulking. It had been beaten in the primary. Control of the Democratic party in New York city had been taken over by the outlying bosses, those of Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx. Many Tammany leaders were sore-were not at all displeased with seeing the men who had ousted them from control take a licking from LaGuardia.

Farley is a master compromiser and pacifier. His friends do not doubt that the full strength of all the Democratic organizations in the greater city would be thrown behind him in a gubernatorial race. Also, Farley has never relaxed his grip on the upstate New York Democratic organization. He built that organization in the period from 1928 on. It could be depended on to do its utmost for him.

But there are a good many upstate Republican leaders who would not want to aid LaGuardia in his presidential ambitions. They would not be averse to see Farley polishing him off, and thus clearing the way

ELLO, EVERYBODY:

Well, by goly, today we have with us a guy who h chased old lady Adventure in some of the farthest corne of the globe. His chase ended after he had followed her over South Africa, and finally ran her to earth in Gwelo, Matabeleland, way up in the middle of southern Rhodes This guy's name is John Dunker, and today he lives Brooklyn, N. Y. But along about the turn of the centur he was fighting with the South African Colonial cavalry the Boer War.

John didn't class the Boer war as an adventure, though. The y he crashes into the Aiventurers' club with happened after that m was all over. After John's regiment was paid off and disbanded, went up to Bulawayo-went broke there and, hearing of a job up Gwelo, a hundred and ifteen miles to the north, trekked up there on to

The old timers in that district thought he was crazy to attempt such a thing. They figured it must be at least a ten-million dollar diamond mine that induced him to take such risks. But all John was after was a job-and all he got out of his trip was a good sock from that old adventure lady he'd been chasing.

John says that that adventure was the biggest single thrill of life, and I believe him. He says: "I had nice curly hair back in 1902. every kink of it stood at attention when the thing happened—or rate after it happened. For actually I did not know I was having an actually I ture until some two and a half seconds after it was all over."

the African waters. The place where John worked was on one side of the Gwelo and the corral where the horses were kept was on the other. In the rainy season, when the river was high, you had to go the long way, over the bridge to get to the horses, but in the dry season, John used to save time by going straight across. That was easy, because the river was narrow enough so that you could make it ith a good leap. And John always made his crossing at a certain spot where the bank was steep and there was a dead tree trunk lying on the other side.

He would get up speed by running down the high-sided bank, tak broad jump across the vater, and land on the tree trunk on the oppor side. He did it again and again, and never thought that there migh any danger in such a simple stunt. But that's the thing about dang You never know where it's liable to be lurking.

Well, sir, one day Joha had a job to do that took him to a mine of at Selukwe, and he had to have his horse to make the trip. He started for the river, turning over in his mind the things he had to do that d and was deep in thought when he reached the top of the bank.

It Felt Wrong, and It Was.

He raced down the bank, made his running jump, and landed on dead tree as usual, but there was something about that tree trunk t wasn't as it should be. It felt peculiar when John landed on it. And seemed to him that the loggone thing moved a bit when he lit. It only for a fraction of a second that the feeling went through him-a shorter time than it taxes to tell it-but it was enough to make h move faster than usual, getting off that log.

The bank in front of him was as high and as steep as the one he run down on the other side. Usually, he took his time about climi to the top. But this tme, impelled by his hunch that something wrong, he gave a kap that sent him half-way to the top, and had sert bled the rest of the way before he stopped to look back. What John saw from the top of the bank sort of amazed him, at first. But his anazement soon gave way to another sort of feeling altogether. The first thing he noticed was that he hadn't crossed the river in is usual place at all. The tree trunk he usually stepped on was lying near the bank ten or fifteen yards downstream. In hi preoccupation, he had crossed the river in And what was the thing John had mistaken for the tree true Well, that's what gave im the shock of his life. When he turned to be

Standard Gauge R. t. Track

The standard gauge of railroad track in the United Stees, that is, the distance between te inside of the heads of the rails, ; 4 feet 81/2 inches. This measurement is apparently the same as th prevailing gauge of road wagon vieels when railroads came into exitence. One railroad, the Southern, s laid with a 4 foot 9 inch gaug, but this small variation is unimortant. It is also the general custon to widen the gauge 1/2 inch or moe on sharp curves. The standard o 4 feet, 81/2 inches was not always general in this country. In the earlydays there were various gauges and their change to standard was a gradual development, brought bout principally by the joining ofsmall independent lines into large systems. The original use of the 4 foot 81/2 inch gauge in America was influenced by its use in Ensand. It is the standard gauge, alo, for most of Europe except Russi and Spain.

They played for hours at a time an active outdoor game called "Rabbits"-the favorite game of South Africa.

The field on which the game is played is 120 feet long and 24 feet wide. It is divided by six cross lines, each 24 feet apart.

There are two teams of about 12 each-the hunters and the rabbits. The hunters take their places on the crosslines of the field, two on each line. They can move up and down this line as they please, but lines. a hunter must keep one foot on the line all the time.

some should act as policemen to see that there are no fouls committed and that the rabbits pass through the entire field. Twelve on each side is a good number to play the game, but more or less can play by changing the number of cross

Snow Goose Is Uncommon The snow goose is rare. Once the birds were so abundant that when they migrated to the United States and rested on western plains they resembled huge banks of snow. Its flesh is not particularly appetizing, so hunters are not responsible. But the snow goose signed its own death warrant. It liked grain too well, so incurred the wrath of farm-

NSPIRED by the swarm of locusts in "The Good Earth" and the terrific storm in Goldwyn's "Hurricane," several motion-picture producers have set out to capture high honors for staging spectacles that make your hair stand on end.

Advance reports indicate that Twentieth Century-Fox have topped all in the matter of spectacular destruction. This company in filming "In Old Chicago," staged a fire that destroyed a sixty-acre city. In the midst of stampeding cattle and terror-stricken crowds, gas mains burst and shoot pillars of flame high into the air, oil gushes from tanks and sets the river ablaze.

Before this cycle of horrors catches up with our screens, we should give thanks to Carole Lombard for providing us with another completely loony comedy, "True Confession." No one can play a girl who seems not quite bright with the gusto of the beauteous Lombard and in this she has the perfect role for her, that of a girl who just cannot tell the truth. Radio programs that introduce you to your neighbors, both famous and obscure, and act as community get-togethers are getting more popular every day. Charles Martin's "Front Page News" and "Thrill of the Week" have been renewed for a year. Edgar Guest's "It Can Be Done," Bob Ripley's program and Gabriel Heatter's "We, the People" are slated for a long and successful life. Paul Wing's Sunday morning spelling bee over NBC has a list of applications yards long from people who are eager to test their prowess.

Jean Muir was a very unhappy girl when she left Hollywood a few weeks ago. For the three years or so that she was under contract to Warner Brothers she had been pleading for a good role in one of their big pictures, but they relegated her to dull parts in quicklymade, run-of-the-mill films. Now Jean can rejoice that Hollywood let her go. She opened in a play in London and two talent scouts cabled of the year. She will probably come back with a contract calling for a much bigger salary,

The most important member of Benny Goodman's swing band is a woman, and she doesn't play an instrument. She holds the checkbook. So while you won't see her with the boys in "Hollywood Hotel" you can just figure that she is there in spirit. She is Ethel Goodman, elder sister of Benny, and in the year that she has been with the band she has not only kept all accounts straight, she has mothered the boys, taking care of them when they were ill, bullying them when they wouldn't eat their spinach or get enough sleep, sympathizing with them when they were unhappy.

Europe, Weber is known as "the Toscanini of light music." Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow," said of him, "I cannot wish for a better interpreter of my works than Marek Weber."

ODDS AND ENDS-Jack Benny won't start working on his next pic-ture for a few weeks, so Paramount has assigned his old dressing room to Marlene Dietrich. Jack and his radio script writers are no end upset be-cause that is where they do their best work . . . Myrna Loy encourages the freckles on her face by going about in the sun hatless. > > Dear Kelsay

During the Chritsmas holidays I received a clipping from your local newspaper citing the injustice done the Silverton football team. I thoroughly agree that there was an injustice done your team not having some player selected.

You likely have heard how this selection business went. I did not attend this meeting for I believed it was the coaches business to make this this selection. As you know there really was not an alldistrict team selected. Instead the coaches could not agree and decided to let each man select his own team. At least that is what it resolves itself down to. The only agreement reached was on 18 men, and you know that is no way of selecting a district team for it can have only 11 players on it.

Bumpus, our center, was not selected in this group of 18, and I think he was far ahead of any other center in the district

Kelsay, year before last Spur was not represented at this all-district selection and so did not get a single man on this mythical selection. That's what happens to you when you do not attend. As for as I am concerned I am through with this district selection because it is handled unfairly THE NEW HIRED HAND

Vegetable Fondue a Pleasing Entree

VEGETABLE fondue is a del cate entree and one which ca be easily made and is bound please the family. To make preparation extra simple sta with a can of mixed vegetable It may be one canned especial for salads or soup. Drain the la uid from the vegetables, but d not throw it away as it contain good food value. Chop the veg tables rather fine, or mash, which ever seems easier to do.

A little suspicion of fresh grated onion is good to add to the vegetables if the family likes th flavor, and surely they do.

Vegetable Fondue.

1 cup milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs 1/2 teaspoon salt 2 tablespoons

Few grains cay. 1 No. 2 can mix

Scald milk in double boiler, a bread, butter, cayenne and salt Remove from the fire and add the onion and mixed vegetables. Bea in the egg yolks and fold in the egg whites which have been beater until stiff. Pour the mixture in a greased baking dish and bak in a moderate oven (350 degrees until it is firm in the center, a about 40 minutes. When the for due is done the mixture will a adhere to a silver knife when i serted in the center. Serves 4.

Crisp bacon and spiced peaches would be good to serve with the fondue. The peaches come all spiced in cans, too, so they do not mean extra labor.

> While holding this office in 1930. he led the revolution of that year in which the insurgents seized control of the country, the revolt being due to Mr. Vargas' conviction that his defeat as candidate for the presidency in the spring of that year had been due to ballot frauds. Four years later he became president under the constitution which has now been superseded.

In youth, after a primary education of some soundness, he entered the army, and, at the age of seventeen, won a sergeant's warrant. But, disliking army life, he resigned to continue his education.

He took his degree in law in 1907, aged twenty-four, and thereupon began the political career which seven years ago landed him in the presidential palace, where he seems minded to remain for an indefinite

He told of punching the timeclock in the Pittsburgh football mill and how other big eastern colleges had tried to bid him away. He was a laborer in the oil fields in those days. He took a degree in mechanical engineering in 1895 and drilled so many dry holes they called him "Dusty Joe" all through western Pennsylvania.

In his junior year, he had married Miss Claudine Virginia Willison of Perrysville, and she, and she alone, says Mr. Trees, saved him from failure and set him on the road to fortune.

When his last hole proved to be as dry as the Congressional Record, he went home and told his wife he was through-he was going to pick up his old job as a day laborer. As he now tells it, "The little

Clouds Over the Peace Palace

E UROPEAN war clouds hover over the new palace of the League of Nations, rising in Ariana park at Geneva, on the sloping shores of Switzerland's fairest lake. Architects of five nations collaborated in executing the Palace of Peace. Ten nationalities were represented in the 500 workmen who built it. But even these elaborate gestures cannot insure the League's permanency. England is lukewarm and several other nations are cold in their disregard. C. E. Boesch, the Geneva photographer who took these pictures, nevertheless found the Palace of Peace a thing of beauty that all nationalities must admire from an artistic point of view. For example, the magnificent council chamber at the right accommodates 300 delegates, 200 secretaries, 100 League officials, 800 official guests and 500 journalists.

The League's library can accommodate two million books. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave two million dollars to this cause. Another noteworthy gift is the awe-inspiring painting on the ceiling of the council chamber by Jose-Maria Sert, internationally celebrated artist. The title is "Solidarity of Peoples." What makes League delegates glance at this mural with tongue in cheek is the fact that Sert was a Spanish artist whose painting was the gift of Spain, now in the throes of civil war.

This general view gives an idea of the League's entire home, covering about five acres. All three chief buildings front on the Court of Honor, facing the lake. In the center is the assembly hall, at its left the council chamber, at its right the library.

Lesson for January 9 PREPARING FOR A LIFE OF SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:1-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Prepare ye the way
f the Lord.—Mark 1:3.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Was JUNIOR TOPIC-When Jesus Was INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Getting Ready to Serve.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—Dedicating Our Lives to Service.

"The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ"-what an interesting expression! Did it not begin back before the foundation of the world? Yes, for the death of Christ was no mere afterthought in God's plan. But now we have the coming into the world of the One who was the Lamb slain from before the world's founding. Jesus Christ is about to appear to begin his ministry which was to culminate at Calvary's cross.

Before Jesus comes the one sent to proclaim his appearing, to herald the coming of the Servant of God. Mark begins his account with the ministry of John the Baptist and makes no reference to the birth and genealogy of Jesus. How appropriate that is, for after all the important thing about a servant is not that he came from a certain family or was born in a particular place. The point is that he is here now and able and ready to do his work.

The prophets had pointed forward very soon? to the coming of Christ. John the Baptist, of whom our Lord said that there was not a greater among the prophets, now appears to proclaim his presence and prepare the way for him. Of him Joseph Parker him . . . If he stood aside for a moto Come.'

points to the Saviour. We need the hair. message, "repent," but we need even more to recall to our preaching and our churches the Holy Ghost power of the Son of God.

II. The Baptism of Christ (vv.

The account in Mark is brief but it brings before us the fact that the sinless Son of God thus identified his holy self with sinful humanity which he had come to save. What infinite love and condescension! God the Father gives his approval. "Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (v. 11).

Let us learn the lesson that obedience to the divine will, a willingness to humble ourselves to do the work whereunto God has sent age loses all .- Cervantes. us, are prerequisites to the filling of the Holy Spirit with power and grace for life and service.

III. The Temptation of Christ (vv. 12, 13).

As a final preparation for and an intimation of what would be met in his ministry the Holy Spirit led our Lord into the wilderness to be tempted of Satan. Around him were the wild beasts, before him was Satan, and in it all "the angels ministered unto him."

We recall as we consider the temptation of Jesus, that he was without sin, that there was no fallen nature in him to which Satan could appeal. The temptation or testing of Jesus was therefore along Messianic lines, but the principles both of temptation and victory are similar to those of our own experience. Consider the parallel passages in Matthew 4 and Luke 4.

The Devil has only three real temptations to present, "the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life" (I John 2:16). These he used with Jesus as he tempted him to make food for his hungry body, to look at the kingdoms of this earth and attain them by a wrong method, and to presume on God's grace by throwing himself from the pinnacle of the temple. He uses the same three types of temptation with us, varying the "dress" in which he presents them. Let us be on guard.

Victory came through the use of God's Word. We need to learn that lesson and not attempt to defeat Satan with any man-made weapons of will-power, logic, or culture. Jesus was certain of victory. He is our victory. Learn to know him as Saviour and Lord. Study God's Word and learn how to use it in spir-itual conflict. Yield to the Holy Spirit. Victory lies that way, and

January Is A Month Of Savings

We are carrying a bigger line of ladies' wear all the time. We want you to take advantage of the line of ladies clothing we are carrying. We have a small, but very attractive line of goods. - If you have some extra sewing to do, let us take it for you. Our dressmaking prices are very reasonable.

The Briscoe County News is at your service!!

The 1938 campaign year has started and we know that you'll be wanting a plentiful supply of cards, letters, and other campaign supplies.

We are better able than ever before to give you quick service. There's no need to say that we are painstaking in our work—the work we turn out proves it. Any job we do is fully guaranteed, against mistakes on our part or money cheerfully refunded or the job done over.

Every candidate receives the same fair treatment, and pays the same price. Absolutely no favoritism will be shown, either in printing, or in the columns of this newspaper.
