Locating Vegetables

GARDENERS can grow a fairly good crop of vegetables in almost any kind of soil, as long as there is good sunlight and moisture.

To those, however, who have a choice of soil available, the following information will be of assistance in locating crops.

In heavy or clayey soils grow beans, beets, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, corn, kale, peas, pumpkin, rhubarb, spinach, squash, Swiss chard and rutabaga.

In light or sandy soils: Asparagus, carrot, celery, collards, Chinese cabbage, cucumber, egg plant, endive, kohlrabi, lettuce, cantaloupe, watermelon, mustard, okra, onion, parsley, parsnip, radish, tomato, turnip, and most herbs.

In muck: Onions, celery, spinach, Chinese cabbage, raish, turnip, carrot, kale, lettuce, mustard, parsley, parsnip, rhubarb, spinach, Swiss chard, and herbs. Onions and celery are particularly good muck crops.

Watch Your Kidneys! Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Lesson for March 13

FEEDING THE HUNGRY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:30-44. GOLDEN TEXT—Give ye them to eat. Mark 6:37.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Fed a Hungry Crowd. JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy's Part in a Great Miracle. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Sharing What We Have. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Providing for the Needs of All.

"My God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus" (Phil. 4:19). Such is the assurance of God's Word. Countless Christians have proved it to be true that they may trust God to supply every need—temporal or spiritual.

The lesson for today first presents the disciples as they had come back from their preaching expedition and presented to the Lord Jesus a report of their stewardship in ministering the bread of life to the spiritually needy. He invites them to a place apart from the busy walks of daily life for a time of communion and rest. The multitude would not be denied, however, and follow our Lord to the desert place. Having taught them, Jesus has opportunity to instruct His disciples in the important ministry of supplying for those in need the bread for their bodies.

I. The Ministry of the Bread of Life.

Reports of accomplishments in the field of Christian work, (although sometimes an earnest accounting of stewardship of service and money) are all too often prepared for the purpose of impressing men and seeking their financial assistance. The real report is the one which disciples make to their Lord. It concerns two vital points:

1. "What they had done" (v. 30).

One of the temptations which face the preacher and teacher of Christian truth is to avoid unpleasant and difficult problems by simply proclaiming the truth and doing nothing about the outworking of that truth in daily living. It sounds very pious to say that we will present the Word and let it do its own work, but the Christian worker who evades his duty to deal with close grips with sin and disorder in the church and community has not discharged his responsibility to Christ.

2. "What they had taught" (v. 30).

The second temptation of the preacher is to follow the specious reasoning of the modernist who says that it does not matter what a man believes, it is what he does that counts. The foundation of Christian character is Christian doctrine, therefore the disciple of Christ must know what to teach.

II. The Ministry of Daily Bread.

Jesus found no rest, for the multitudes followed Him to the other side of the lake. Ere long the evening approaches, and the disciples begin to be concerned about how this great multitude is to be fed. They follow the inclinations of the flesh and decide to solve the problem by asking Jesus to

1. "Send them away" (v. 36).

The church has followed their example in dealing with the social problems of the people down through the years. The result is that being denied fellowship, comfort, and help by a church which was too busy building up a vast organization or a beautiful order of worship, the common people have responded to the appeal of political leaders who have provided a substitute for what the church should have given them.

Serious thoughts are these. It will not do for us to "send them away" from the church empty hearted and empty handed. Our Lord says—

2. "Give ye them to eat" (v. 37).

Reckoning hastily on what a small boy had brought for his lunch (trust an alert boy to be ready!), the disciples soon demonstrate that it is impossible to feed this great throng. Logic is such a devastating thing when it operates apart from faith in God. They were absolutely right in their reasoning and in their calculations, but they had forgotten the one factor that really counted. Jesus was there, and Jesus is God, and God is omnipotent.

3. "He commanded . . . and they did all eat" (v. 39, 42).

When God speaks all the limitations of the finite disappear, and the needs of men are fully met—with "twelve baskets full of fragments" left over!

Note the orderly manner in which our Lord met this situation. Five thousand men, with women and children to swell the throng, were seated on the grass. Jesus took the loaves and fishes and blessed them, and divided the fishes. No doubt they were multiplied as the disciples passed them out to the people. God is able to do that very thing even in our day. Not perhaps in just the same manner, but surely those who serve Him have marveled as they have seen that "little is much when God is in it." Let those who labor in difficult places with limited resources take heart—and trust God.

ONLY FOOD MERCHANDISE Be Consistently Advertised BUY ADVERTISED GOODS

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—Hearings on the proposed United Kingdom-United States reciprocal trade agreement are set to begin here March 14.

This is the argument: "Is it better to protect farmers, manufacturers, and labor against competition of low-cost products from foreign countries, or let the low-priced goods in for the benefit of the public? Who is most important: producers or the public?"

Any economist can show that the American public pays annually many billions of dollars more for the goods it buys now than it would pay if prices were lowered by foreign goods brought in free of duty.

These opposing forces are vast and complicated. Every tariff student has a theory. But Secretary of State Cordell Hull happens to be for low tariffs, and he happens to have a reciprocal trade agreement act passed by congress, and the will of President Roosevelt to back him up.

This is the gist of the Hull policy: Nearly all war is caused by economic war. After the World War, the United States helped increase economic war by raising tariff walls around itself.

How the Plan Works Here's how the "most-favored nation" plan works. The United States picks out the country that supplies the most of any given import.

But American farmers and manufacturers and labor leaders howl with pain. While they struggle for volume and prices to keep going, the government opens the flood gate and foreign goods rush in to lower both.

Reciprocal trade treaties are engineered by the State department, but the work of preparing statistics and holding hearings is done by the tariff commission and its reciprocity committee.

Two obligations are now placed squarely on the shoulders of radio broadcasting, which has been anxiously waiting a definite statement of policy by the recently reorganized federal communications commission.

Mr. McNinch is an administration man, loaned to the communications commission by the federal power commission, where his attitude toward public utilities was well known.

That domain composed of ether-space and the natural phenomenon of wave lengths is a public property and resource, as Mr. McNinch sees it.

Railroads and power were mentioned by Mr. McNinch as having gotten into trouble with the public by combining for their own interest instead of for the best public interest.

All Hollywood is talking about the great change in Katharine Hepburn. The roustabout comedy that she indulges in for her new picture, "Bringing Up Baby," has affected her manner in private life.

Lawrence Tibbett will come back to the screen if Warner Brothers have anything to say about it.

While the boycott on Japanese silk still makes news, latest figures from the Department of Commerce show that it has had very little effect.

The State department, of course, is deeply concerned. This country buys about 56 per cent of Nippon's total raw silk production.

American silk manufacturers are being seriously damaged by the boycott. Fear that another incident will intensify feeling so that women will really decide to do without silk has caused store managers to issue hold orders on stockings and other silk goods.

The jobs of more than 200,000 people engaged in the throwing and weaving of silk and in the manufacture and distribution of silk products are jeopardized.

Of course the anti-boycott drive appeared to many suspicious persons, to be in collusion with the Japanese. The textile industry is centered in New York city, and because Japan happens to have a Chamber of Commerce in that city, some critics were inspired to talk treason.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHY

Food Provides the Key to Mental and Physical Power

You Can Be Strong, Beautiful, Wise, Rear Healthy Children Only If You Know How to Combine the Right Food Materials in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS 6 East 39th Street, New York.

SINCE the world began, food has been man's first consideration. For it he has fought and died. To find it he has traveled over great continents and braved unknown dangers.

Today, actual hunger is rare. But hundreds of thousands of people starve in the midst of plenty because they do not realize the tremendous power of food for good or for evil.

They do not realize that as a man eats, so he is, and that his choice of food materials gives or takes away the power to live vigorously—to think clearly—to feel warmly—to be strong, healthy and wise.

It can be truly said that your food is your fate. It has the power to shape your body—to make it strong and beautiful, or weak and ugly. It has the power to influence your language, your gait, your tone of voice, in short—your life.

Food—the Fuel of Life.

The human body is a machine, far more complex than any machine devised by the mind of man. Food is the fuel which runs this amazing machine.

The body machine cannot be run efficiently without proper food fuel any more than a car could be run without gas, or a house could be heated without oil, coal or wood.

Food also has the power to speed up or slow down the workings of the mind. It likewise influences the state of our nerves, the warmth of our affections, the type of characters we possess.

Finally, the power to have strong, healthy children is based on proper food. And nutritional scientists have discovered that the wrong food can even take away from us the greatest blessing that Nature has bestowed—our earthly immortality.

What food substances are necessary to build and maintain top health—to develop the greatest physical and mental power? There are six groups of food substances which must be included in the balanced diet which promises increased health, happiness and longevity:

- 1. PROTEINS which build and repair body tissues. These are found in such foods as milk, eggs, meats, fish, cheese and nuts.
2. FATS which yield heat and energy. The fats are represented by butter, cream, oils and the fat of meats.
3. CARBOHYDRATES—the starches and sugars. These also supply heat and energy, and are found chiefly in such foods as bread, potatoes, cereals and sweets.
4. MINERALS which build, repair, protect and regulate. Among the minerals which are absolutely necessary to health and vigor are calcium, phosphorus, iron, copper, iodine, sulphur, manganese, magnesium, sodium and potassium.
5. VITAMINS which are necessary for body regulation, and as a protection against dread deficiency diseases. Six have been discovered to date—A, B, C, D, E and G.

C. Houston Goudiss, outstanding food authority, author, and radio lecturer, author of "What to Eat and Why." He knows food from soil to serving, from table to tissue. Watch for his articles each week.

The Homemaker's Responsibility.

Every wife and mother is therefore faced with the tremendous responsibility of keeping her family mentally and physically fit. Her husband must have the right kind of food in order to earn a living. Her own diet must be adequate and well-balanced if she is to have the energy, wisdom, and patience required of a mother at all hours of the day.

Danger in Omitting One Essential

To illustrate how important it is that not one of the necessary food substances be omitted, let me tell you how an eminent bio-chemist proved in his experimental laboratory, in one of our leading universities, that the difference between stupidity and genius depended upon the presence or absence of one vitamin.

He placed a pregnant animal upon a diet adequate in every respect, except that it lacked one of the six vitamins. As soon as her young were born and weaned, they were fed a completely adequate diet.

Then the scientist tested the mentality of the young animals. He wanted to find out whether or not their mental power had been injured in any way by the fact that their mother—during pregnancy—had been deprived of one vital food element. So he put them in a runway. To get out of this—other end—they had to make their way through a series of passages.

But what lack of skill was shown by the animals whose mother had been deprived of proper food! The stupidity of these pathetic little creatures was unbelievable. Some of them never learned to thread the maze and reach their goal, even after as many as 250 trials. They were being given—at the time—everything that was necessary to their diet.

Each meal that you eat helps or hinders the efficiency and ease with which these various duties are performed. That is why it is true that as you eat, so you are. And that is why I say that three times a day, at your table, you SIT DOWN TO LIFE.

SILVERTON NEEDS TO clean up this spring. A week will be set by the city dads this week for clean up week, probably the first part of April. Last year our spring clean up was a flop, and as a result the town was lousy all last summer. Tin cans lined every alley. Flies sack of some of the business houses held open house all summer long. Last year the city called a general clean up week and then after the cans and trash were piled in the alleys, forgot to have it picked up. Well, you've heard the story about "Wolf, Wolff", haven't you?

BUT MAYBE SO it won't be wolf, wolf this year after all. Doc says that when the clean-up date is set, that the city will do their part this time—for sure.

THERE'S A CHANCE for some of you Boy Scouts to pick up a little change. Watch for Clean-up week and do a little promoting for yourselves. It is very few places that you can't get an hour's work cleaning the back yard—if you want and ask for the job.

ROY BOMAR IS a pretty good sort but I believe that he fools his wife a little. For instance—I went in there Monday and asked Mrs. Bomar where Roy was. She said he was out killing a cow. The thing of it is that instead of being out killing a cow, he was probably on the street somewhere shooting the bull.

FOUND—TRUCK LOAD of tin cans and junk on the Clarendon Highway about three miles east of Silvertown. The owner hasn't been found, and according to R. M. Hill, the commissioner of that precinct, better not be. There's a pretty stiff penalty you know for dumping on the public highway.

I SUPPOSE THAT you received a circular through the mail from a store at Amarillo. Some mighty attractive prices on that bill. But, did you read between the lines, or rather get down to some of the prices in smaller print? For instance, Garza sheeting was listed at 35c—Whiteside and Co. sells it all the time for 33c, and on special occasions for less. If you trade at home you won't get beat. These merchants live here and are depending upon your regular business. And in return they are behind their goods, and the prices, and guaranteeing their goods. Nothing sensational, usually, but just good common prices. You'll be ahead every time if you'll trade right here in Silvertown.

You can get a line on the best buys in town every week by reading the ads in the Briscoe County News.

AND SPEAKING OF hand bills and circulars—Homer Sanders is up in the air, and with good rea-

The catch to it is that no Wilson & Son yard authorized the bills and so far no trace has been found of where the bills were printed. Homer wants to call attention to the fact that the bills were not issued by Willson & Son Lbr. Co. In this issue you'll find an approximate copy of the bills, and an explanation by Mr. Sanders.

MISTER WARE Fogerson, who neither knows not, sees not, nor cares very much, about anything in particular, comes in with a complaint upon this section of the paper, namely, that "there better be a little more stuff in the 'Idiot' column or you can stop my paper." And Ware just can't figure out why the editor isn't windy too. And everyone knows that the statements in this column are always very conservative.

Questions & Answers On New Farm Bill

any questions dealing with the act, and especially with the marketing quota, were answered by Geo. Slaughter, chairman of the Texas Cultural Conservation Commission, in the course of a radio talk WTAW of the Texas A. and M. College.

Among questions which have bothered producers and which were answered by Slaughter were "If marketing quotas are put on cotton, how will they be put into effect on individual farms?" and "Will farms producing cotton in 1933 for the first time in recent years receive allotments?"

The question, "How do cotton marketing quotas under the new act differ under the Bankhead Act?" Slaughter replied,

"Under the Bankhead Act each cotton producer received a poundage allotment and paid a tax on all cotton ginned in excess of that allotment.

"Under the new farm act, each cotton farm will receive an acreage allotment and all cotton produced on these acres may be sold without penalty. In other words, the marketing quota places a premium on efficient production, while the Bankhead Act, in effect, penalized it."

Q. If two-thirds of the farmers taking part in the cotton referendum vote for quotas, will they apply to states, counties, and communities where they are not approved?

A. The cotton problem is a national one, and not confined to any one state or county. Consequently, the quotas, if approved by two-thirds of the cotton farmers, will apply wherever cotton is produced.

Q. What are the commodities of which direct control is contemplated?

A. Cotton, tobacco, rice, corn, and wheat. Because of minimum production requirements, corn quotas will probably not apply to Texas.

Q. How does the act provide control of these crops?

A. After supplies reach certain levels, marketing of the crops is regulated through the imposition of quotas. While the act puts the quotas into effect, they are subject to rejection by a one-third vote of a producers' referendum.

Q. How will this control surpluses?

A. By providing penalties on sales in excess of farm quotas.

Q. Will the marketing quotas be put into effect each year?

A. They are put into effect when ever the supply of cotton exceeds the normal supply by more than seven percent, unless quotas are opposed by more than one-third of the producers. The normal supply for 1933 is about 18,200,000 bales, and normal supply is defined in the act as a normal year's domestic consumption and exports, plus 40 percent as an allowance for a normal carry-over. The present supply of American cotton is almost 25 million bales, largely because of the record breaking crop of 18,700,000 bales in 1937.

Q. If marketing quotas are approved, how will they be put into effect on individual farms?

A. The national cotton allotment of 26,300,000 acres will be allocated to the cotton growing states on the basis of the production of cotton in each state during the preceding five years, and the acres diverted from cotton under previous programs will be taken into consideration. Each state's allotment will be divided among counties on the same basis, but no county will receive less than 60 percent of the sum of the acreage planted in 1937 and the acreage diverted from cotton under the 1937 program.

The county allotment will be divided among farms on which cotton has been planted in any of the past three years as follows: All farms which have not planted and diverted as much as 5 acres of cotton in any of the 3 years, will receive as their allotments the greatest number of acres planted and diverted in any of the three years.

All farms on which 5 acres or more of cotton were planted and diverted in any of the three years, will receive as their allotment 5 acres and an additional amount which will bring the total allotment up to a percentage of the farm cropland (excluding acreages devoted to tobacco, wheat, and rice, which will be the same for all farms in the county or administrative area.

Provision is made for a small county reserve which may be allotted to farms receiving from 5 to 15 acres under the above provisions.

Q. Will farms producing cotton in 1938, but which did not produce cotton during the past three years, receive the allotments?

A. Yes; a reserve acreage will be available in each state to be divided among these farms.

Q. Is there a limit to the acreage that may be allotted to a farm?

A. No farm will be allotted an acreage greater than the cotton acreage planted and diverted during the past three years except in the case of new cotton producers.

Q. What is the marketing quota of the individual cotton farmer?

A. It is the cotton produced on his allotted acres, or the normal production on his allotted acres, whichever is greater. This means that he can sell without penalty all the cotton he produces if he does not exceed his allotted acres.

Q. Who divides the county allotment among the farmers in a county?

A. Community and county committees who have been elected by the farmers.

Q. When will farmers vote on the 1938 cotton quotas?

A. March 12, when the county committees will select a voting place in each community where cotton is grown and will select three local farmers to hold the referendum.

Q. If the quotas are in effect as the result of the referendum, what happens to a farmer if he knowingly overplants his acreage allotment?

A. He loses all soil conservation payments, his cotton price adjustment payments, and the opportunity to obtain a loan on the marketing quota for the farm. However, he may receive a loan on cotton produced in excess of his marketing quota of 60 percent of the rate available to farmers who stayed within their allotment. In addition, he must pay a penalty of two cents a pound on the excess production sold, which will be collected by the buyer. This penalty does not apply to cotton produced on any farm which has received a cotton acreage allotment and on which the production is 1,000 pounds of lint cotton or less.

Q. Will cotton loans be available under the new act?

A. The new act provides for loans at the rate of between 52 to 75 percent of the parity price for cotton on the basis of 3/8 inch middling cotton. However, the loans will be available only if the market agreement is declared in effect as a result of the referendum.

VIEWS ON PROPOSED COTTON LABORATORY

By Senator Tom Connally

The recently enacted farm bill provides for the establishment of four regional research agricultural laboratories. The function of such laboratories is to conduct research into and to develop new scientific chemical and technical uses and new and extended markets and outlets for farm commodities and products and by-products thereof.

One of these laboratories is to be located in the cotton region. A federal appropriation of one million dollars is authorized for the establishment of each laboratory.

Texas, by all means, should be the site of the cotton research laboratory. However, other cotton states will, no doubt, make a determined fight for its location.

While the act does not require any financial participation by the state in which located, the act does provide that the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to acquire land and interests therein and to accept in the name of the United States donation of any property, real and personal, to any laboratory established pursuant to the act and to utilize voluntary uncompensated services at such laboratories.

There is wide-spread interest throughout Texas in behalf of the location of such a laboratory in our state. Cotton producers and the cotton industry generally have for a considerable period, indicated a vital interest in this project. Texas is the largest cotton producing state. It is more directly interested in cotton exports than any other state since 90 percent of the cotton produced in Texas is normally exported. The establishment of such a laboratory in Texas would be of immeasurable benefit to all of the people and industries of the state. Cooperation with Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas and other institutions devoted to agriculture would insure outstanding service to the people of the entire United States through the agency of such a laboratory.

I desire to urge that organizations in Texas, Chambers of Commerce, the Agricultural and Mechanical College, and farm associations cooperate actively with each other in a movement to bring the location of the cotton research laboratory to Texas. Pertinent data, and all related matters will be of tremendous value in presenting this matter to the Secretary of Agriculture. Steps have already been taken to advise the Secretary of Agriculture that Texas expects and desires the location of the laboratory in our state. The Texas delegation in Congress will actively and aggressively press the matter before the Secretary. It is hoped that their efforts will receive the hearty cooperation and the support of our people.

HEALTH CERTIFICATES

For the protection of the public a law was passed in 1921 making it mandatory for every person who is employed in any public eating place, bakery, meat market, dairy or candy factory to secure a health certificate from a reputable physician. This law is intended to eliminate persons having any communicable disease from handling any foodstuff. These certificates must be renewed every six months.

Typhoid fever, diptheria and amoebic dysentery carriers have been found numbers of times working in dairies, cafes, and other places where food is prepared or offered for sale. It is not too much for the consuming public to demand that those who sell their food shall be free from communicable diseases. If the examinations for food handlers are properly carried out, much good will be accomplished in protecting the health of the buyer as well as giving the applicant for a certificate accurate information as to his physical condition.

The Texas State Department of Health has repeatedly advocated periodic physical examinations for the general public, as it is during these examinations that many incipient diseases may be discovered and treatment begun in time to stop its developing to such a degree that treatment will not be helpful. Many deaths and much suffering would be eliminated if every one would have this periodic check. In the case of food handlers, only the diseases that are communicable will withhold the issuance of a certificate. The cost is money well invested and the consuming public should demand that those they buy from have this evidence of good health.

Walter Bradley of southwest of Silvertown purchased a new F-20 McCormick Deering Farmall on rubber from the Tull Implement Company here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith visited their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Green in Turkey last Sunday.

ARSONISTS "ON THE RUN"

The arsonists is "on the run" in the United States. The toll of life and property destroyed by this despicable crime is on the downgrade. That just didn't happen—it is the result of decades of unremitting work by the stock fire insurance industry.

In 1866 it was estimated that from 60 to 75 percent of the losses paid by many stock fire insurance companies were the result of arson. Today, estimates place arson fires at about 10 percent. This means that tens of millions of dollars of property values are being saved annually that would otherwise be destroyed, and that fire insurance premium rates are at far lower levels than would be possible if the former high arson rate obtained. Most important of all, it means that a tremendous saving in lives has been accomplished—the best authorities state that one death occurs for every $25,000 of fire loss.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters has fought arson by maintaining a special bureau for that purpose. Whenever a suspicious fire occurs, immediate expert assistance is offered to local investigating and prosecuting authorities, and in a very high percentage of cases the criminals are swiftly brought to justice. Even where professional arsonists manage to operate without punishment for many years, arson investigators keep on their trail—and in the long run, justice usually triumphs. The average person little realizes the public service being rendered by the stock fire insurance industry.

The Eyes Will Get It

Although grapefruit eaters in 43 of the 48 states tasted the Texas variety in 1937, more people in more states are due to taste it in the next few years. There are a greater number of young grapefruit trees, ranging from 3 to 12 years, in the lower Rio Grande Valley now than in any other producing area in the United States. This means that the biggest increase in production will probably be in Texas, since few of these trees are yet full-bearing. The bulk of trees in Florida and California are 13 or more years old.

NEW BOOKS FOR SILVERTOWN LIBRARY

Dog lovers will be pleased to learn that a new book, "Your Dog"—His Care and Training", published especially for pet dog owners by Purina Mills, St. Louis, Missouri, has been secured by Briscoe County News for the local library. It contains a wealth of practical information on the care, feeding and training of pet dogs.

Most dog owners have a "yen" to teach their dog a few tricks, and take a great pride in the dog's accomplishments. According to this book, most dogs learn readily. Easy reading instructions are given for teaching dogs to sit up, to speak, to roll over, to carry, to fetch, and to call members of the family.

The book discusses the problem of deciding what breed of dog to buy. Each of the popular breeds is shown in pictures, with a brief description of the characteristics and merits of each.

An entire chapter is devoted to the new puppy, giving helpful hints on his training and care—including a plan for housebreaking.

Health Guardians

A peck of apples a day could not keep all the Texas doctors away, because there are over 6700 of them in the state, according to the 1936 census. At that time there were 296 hospitals, which had a total of 21,470 beds and 10,000 patients, not to mention ambulatory clinics. Since the average number of hospitals per state is 130, Texas is well above the

I know all about you, and you know about me. I'm wild about you. What's the sense in sitting up there like—like the Queen of Sheba?"

Very likely he was right. Ruth had been brought up in a houseful of men without the guidance of a mother. She slipped from the saddle and stood beside him. He took her in his arms and she submitted, withholding herself. Presently she drew back from his embrace. That he was dissatisfied with her lack of response she knew. "Be patient with me—at first," she begged. "I'm worried, Lou. I against a counter. Conversation ceased at the entrance of the new-comer. All three gazed at him. They saw a crook-nosed man of middle size with a leathery brown face in which were set light gray eyes, from the corners of which radiated many tiny wrinkles. He might be thirty years old, perhaps a year or two less. His movements had a kind of rippling ease and he carried himself with an assurance almost insolent. When he took off his dusty hat he showed a thick head of hair burnt sorrel by a thousand untempered suns. He wore shiny leathers and high-heeled boots, an open vest, no coat. A gun hung low on his thigh, well forward. A tough hombre, it could be guessed, able to take care of himself in any emergency.

From a throat caked with alkali dust the traveler said hoarsely, "Tomato airtight." Sanger slashed open a can with a hatchet. "Some hot on the desert," the storekeeper suggested. The crook-nosed man drank the juice from the can, then fished out a tomato. "Some," he assented. "I got to thinkin' if Tail Holt was any farther off it must be near somewhere."

Experimentally, one of the cow-boys murmured, "You come quite a ways?" The crook-nosed man looked at him. Apparently this did not call for an answer. "Yes, sir, hot and dry," he drawled, after shifting his gaze to Sanger.

"That's right," the second cowboy agreed. He was a long-legged man with a lank lower jaw. "Sure is," his companion said. "Well, I'll be moseyin', Mile High." "Yo tambien, Sid," the tall man concurred promptly, unwinding to his full height. "I'll take a plug of Horse-Shoe, Sanger."

He followed Sid from the building. "Town kinda quiet," the stranger said. "Liable to liven up later," Sanger told him. From where he sat on a counter the man with the sorrel-top could see the two cowboys looking at him sorne. Words drifted to him.

"Double cinch—Texas man," Mile High hazarded. "Yep. No tenderfoot." Sid rolled a cigarette. "Not none. Plenty tough." The tall man said something more, in a low voice.

Sid laughed, harshly. "I wouldn't know." They bowlegged across the road to the Golden Nugget. "Tail Holt takes notice of a stranger," the newcomer mentioned dryly.

Sanger did not answer. His small black eyes were taking in with a vast surprise two people who had come into the store. "Evening, Miss Chiswick—Lou," he greeted them. The man he had called Lou drew the storekeeper aside for a whispered conference. He was wearing new corduroys, fancy top-boots, an expensive sombrero, and a purple silk shirt around the neck of which was tied loosely a polka-dot bandanna. On his dark, handsome face there was just now a sulky look. In one keen glance the crook-nosed man sized him up as a showy, raffish fellow with no bottom.

The girl held a greater interest. She had, he guessed, an exciting personality. In her dark, stormy eyes was the threat of passion. A snatch of the low-voiced conversation came to the stranger. "... have Spicer meet us at Ma Presnall's boarding-house and do the job... want to get to Tough Nut before night."

Gretna Green business, of course. Bad medicine for the girl. Probably she was an undisciplined little devil, but she was too fine of grain for the man with whom she was eloping. Sardonically Crook-nose added a stipulation. Very likely he was letting her glamorous, troubled beauty sway his judgment.

"Are you expecting to spend the day here?" she asked her companion, and her voice had in it the ringing sting of a small whiplash. "I'm fixing things up with Sanger, Ruth," the young man answered irritably. "Can't do it any faster."

The girl did not reply. She brushed back impatiently a tendril that had escaped from the soft waves of dark hair disordered by her long ride. A fusillade of shots came from the street. The three men moved swiftly to the door. A rider was galloping down the dusty road, revolver in hand, waving a hat in the air.

"Hi-yi! Whoopee! Git out the way of Wild Jim Pender," he yelled. "Pender on a drunk again," Sanger said. "He's a terror when he has tanglefoot aboard... He's headin' back down the street... Lordee, he's comin' in!"

"Hunt cover, Ruth," her young man shouted, and vaulted over a counter. "Back here, Quick." An arm of the stranger went round the waist of the girl, swept her up the store, and flung her down behind some sacks of potatoes.

The drunken man drove his horse into the store. "Lo, Sanger, you old son-of-a-vinegar, where are you? I want cartridges— pronto." (TO BE CONTINUED)

Window Washer's Job Is Risky; Worker Can Clean Ten to Fifteen in an Hour

All skyscraper windows aren't "architect's nightmares," and not all window washing is done in sub-freezing weather. Usually the cleaner climbs out on a reasonably wide rubber squeegee and a silt with a safety belt hooks into the little steel rings the builders put in the window frames for that purpose, and in a few quick swipes is ready to climb back inside and begin all over on the next one.

To hold his job, says a writer in the Washington Star, a window cleaner must keep moving. A good worker can average 10 windows an hour, or 80 a day; the topnotchers even wash 15 windows every hour! For this rickety life, he may receive from $36 to $45 for a 40-hour week where union wages prevail, and his average age of usefulness in the business runs from about twenty-two to forty.

Dangerous? Yes, though most window cleaners seldom think of that—or they probably wouldn't be window cleaners! Their employers pay as much as a dollar a day to insure each worker's life, and it is the insurance company which does everything humanly possible to make the cleaner's calling a safer one. Inspectors regularly test the metal rings into which the safety belt hooks are fastened. These rust away in old buildings and result in more falls than any other cause.

Sometimes a near-tragedy in a window cleaner's life turns out to be funny. One worker recently got his name in the papers when his safety belt gave way on a third-story window and he fell to the ground without suffering a scratch. He got up, brushed off his clothes, stopped at the office for a new belt and climbed out to finish the window.

A hero? He'd be the last one to think so. To a window cleaner, taking hazardous risks is all in the day's work.

Propaganda Trick Hurt U. S. Trade

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, in South America, this writer was always hearing somebody mutter "Perros!" (dogs), as he passed by. It expressed dislike of all North Americans. Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle," about the Chicago packing houses, had been carefully mistranslated, in a widely circulated version, which made multitudes of South Americans believe all North Americans ate dogs. Even in remote jungle towns, I found European trade scouts and salesmen making diligent use of the book. It was the neatest trade propaganda trick of the century.

The one-sided battle has continued through the decades. Late reports are that South American radio stations are belting Uncle Sam with everything at hand, and to the same degree, apostrophizing Italy, Germany and Japan.

For this reason, there appears to be more than meets the eye in the printed story of our new airway rearmament, and the assignment of a new short-wave channel for broadcasts to South America.

With Secretary Hull, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, pleads for "stronger cultural ties" in the first broadcast. Spanish translations follow the English version.

While all this is in the name of "peace and good-will," and official announcements carry no hint of a defensive propaganda war, it appears to be the answer—perhaps the only possible reply—to the widespread smearing campaign against the U. S. A. in Latin American countries.

The sixty-six-year-old Dr. Rowe is a happy choice to head America's "cultural," if not propaganda, outreach in this direction. He has become widely known and decidedly persona grata in South America in his 32 years of pleading and proselyting for solidarity, friendship and understanding in the Americas.

He has fraternized with South Americans more than any other northerner, lecturing, writing, evangelizing and expounding his doctrines of friendly co-operation—always on the high plane of cultural and intellectual intercourse. He has been head of the Pan-American union since 1920, succeeding John Barrett.

LIFE begins at forty for Gracie Fields, English Music Hall actress, who curtsies to the king and becomes a commander of the Order of the British Empire.

It is another Jane Alger story, this tale of the Lancashire mill girl who became the highest-paid entertainer in the world. Her earnings from her 5,000,000 gramophone records, and from the stage and cinema have reached $750,000 a year. Her film, "Mr. Tower of London," ran seven years.

She lives simply with her mother, who manages her affairs, and never has anything more than pocket money. Every so often she visits Rochdale, the mill town where she sang for pennies at the age of seven, and has a rollicking time, singing for her old friends.

She was a "half-timer" in the cotton mills, half the day in school and half at work. In 1930, she made a brief appearance at the Palace theater in New York. It wasn't much of a success. She explained afterward that she had been warned in England that entire audiences in America chewed gum together and in time, with dreadful facial contortions. This frightened her and spoiled her act, although, she admitted, there was only one observable gum-chewer.

She was glad to land safely in England, where she is widely beloved and known as "Good Old Gracie." Just a few days before her fortieth birthday, she returned home from a party at four o'clock in the morning. The milkman, the policeman on the beat and a street-sweeper ceremoniously handed her a morning paper with her name in the king's honor list. She is tall, blonde and merry.

Smallest Book Claimed. What is claimed to be the smallest book in the world has been written by a war veteran suffering from shell shock at Munich, Germany. It is half the size of an ordinary postage stamp, three-quarters of an inch thick and contains 96 pages. The tiny volume has 10,989 letters, each one-fiftieth of an inch in height.

Fashions Bloom in Spring

EXCEPTIONALLY smart new things for yourself and your daughter, that you'll enjoy making right now, and wearing on into the summer. Yes, even if you've never done much sewing, you'll enjoy working from our simple, easy-to-follow patterns, each accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart. Hundreds of beginners are saving money, and creating really individual clothes, by making their own this season.

The Charming Basque. Here's a perfect design for slim, youthful figures. The snug basque top, above a full, rippling skirt, is dramatized by little puff sleeves. Think how delightful it will look, made up in a plain or printed material, either one, but choose something colorful, because it's such a gay, young little dress.

Little Girl's Dress, With Doll. Yes, this pattern brings you directions for making the little girl's dress, the doll, and a dress for the doll just like her small mama's. Just think how all that newness will make your little daughter dance with joy. The child's dress is a darling, with its full skirt, pockets, puff sleeves and round collar. Make it up in printed percale or gingham. Old-fashioned rickrack braid would be pretty to trim it.

The Classic Shirtwaist. This is distinctly a woman's version of the indispensable shirtwaist dress, gracious, slenderizing and dignified. The shoulders are beautifully smooth and the skirt has exactly the correctly tailored, straight effect. It's so easy to make, and looks so smart, that you'll want it now in sheer wool or light-weight flannel, and later in tub silk or linen.

The Patterns. 1471 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 (32) requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, with 3/8 yard of contrast for collar. Belt not included.

1411 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. Size 3 requires 1 3/4 yards of 39-inch material, with 1/4 yard of contrast for collar, and 1 1/4 yards of edging to trim. Doll's body is included in the pattern. Sixteen-inch doll requires 1/2 yard of 35-inch material, with 3/8 yard for doll's dress, and 3/4 yard of edging.

1207 is designed for sizes 34 to 50. Size 36 requires 4 3/8 yards of 39-inch material, with short sleeves. With long sleeves, 4 3/4 yards.

Spring-Summer Pattern Book. Send 5 cents for the Barbara Bell Spring and Summer Pattern Book which is now ready. It contains 109 attractive, practical and becoming designs. The Barbara Bell patterns are well planned, accurately cut and easy to follow. Each pattern includes a sew-chart which enables even a beginner to cut and make her own clothes. Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.
