AGGIE BRIEFS

By Finley R. White

Now that the "Horse Race" is over and the "Dark Horse" is leading the field by a safe margin, it is time for us poor folks to take notice of a few things of importance right here at home. Your attention is called to the following items: 1st. We still have plenty of grasshopper poison on hand and you let the hoppers eat up your crop it's your fault and not ours. Now is the time to do your part toward getting your map and measurements in line for payment. You should assist the supervisor who measures your farm in locating crop and farm boundaries. A little attention now to this important matter will save you and me plenty of cussing later on. 3rd. Regardless of what the candidates promised you last week, if you have any harvest this fall you'll have to make it for yourself. The weeds and grass will sap your moisture in a hurry.—They won't be harvested this fall. So why clean them? Clean those crops out and give them a chance—maybe you can make a good crop and a good price for it you won't get that $30.00 a month that has been promised.

Trench Silo Tim:

Some of us have found by waiting that it's too late to patch a hole in the roof after the rain. The principle involved here is the same when applied to trench silos. When you need one it's too late to dig it. With a good feed crop right, none of us should hesitate about digging a trench to put in. Experience has proven that it will keep for a long time if put into a silo. Experience has also taught us that rats, sand and wind will keep feed from lasting very long when stored above ground. With these experiences to guide we should be smart enough to have plenty of silos right now so we'd be ready to store this feed crop this fall.

Wheat Insurance

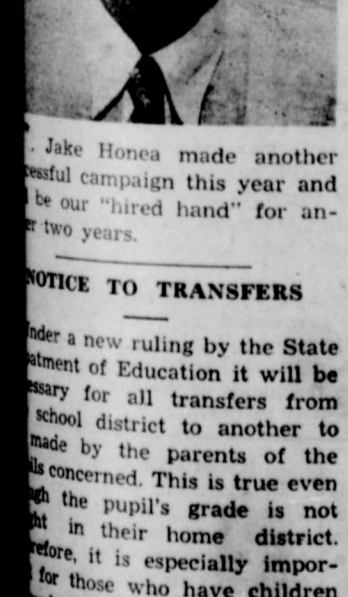

The U. S. Government is trying to help wheat farmers to hedge against drought, hail, green bugs, and what not, by offering an insurance program on wheat. It seems that this assistance by the government has not met with too much favor. The fellow who does not insure may be missing an awfully good bet. Have you talked the matter over with any one who knows? If you haven't, it might be worth your time and effort to go by and discuss his question with Clyde Hutsell who is Briscoe County's Supervisor.

Sheriff

... Silver tongued W. Lee O'Daniel, our next Governor, who broke all precedents by being elected to a first term without a run-off.

County Clerk

... R. E. Douglas, who has served the county for many years, overcame his younger opponent Saturday by 285 votes.

THANKS

To the voters of Precinct 1: I appreciate their vote and support in Saturday's election.

T. L. ANDERSON

THESE GO INTO SECOND PRIMARY

... Paul Hamilton, (left) and L. E. Graham (right) who will stage the only run-off of this year's election, for the office of Commissioner of Precinct 2. The race will be a close one.

SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT AT FLOYDADA STARTS AUG. 15th

Word from Floydada tells of a big Softball Tournament to be held there starting August 15, which will determine the district Softball champions, and who will enter the Regional Tourney at Sweetwater. The Floydada Committee is planning a visit to Silverton and other nearby cities within the next few days to invite entries. Among cities to be visited are Silverton, Quitaque, Turkey, Estelline, and Memphis. Several towns have already entered in the hopes of winning the $75, $60, and $45 for the first three prizes. The first, second, and third place winners will enter the Regional Tournament at Sweetwater the following week.

Dark Horse Winner

A. J. Baskin of Lockney, was struck by a bolt of lightning last Thursday. He and several other WPA workers were returning from their job in a truck when struck. Two other men were slightly shocked. The bolt tore Baskin's hat in pieces, and at the time the Lockney Beacon went to press last Friday, he had not regained consciousness.

County Judge

... W. Coffee, Jr., in a fairly close race, defeated J. W. Lyon, Jr., of Quitaque. He will be serving his second term by election.

Mr. and Mrs. Ware Fogerson, Victor, and Mrs. Florence Fogerson returned Tuesday from a trip to Colorado.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Middleton and son of Quitaque visited friends in Silverton Sunday.

Misses Veda Duck and Vivian Ingram have gone to Clarendon for two weeks on a federal school project.

Mr. Tom Moore was in Silverton on business Tuesday. Mrs. Warner Reid and Mike are visiting Mrs. Reid's mother in Alpine.

Mrs. Maurice Foust returned the latter part of last week from a visit with her mother in Childress. Thomas Earl Daniel of Tulia visited his father and mother Sunday.

Saturday Is Final Dollar Day

TIBBETS IN CLOSE RACE

Ernest Tibbets, former Silverton attorney, was candidate for County Attorney of Hale County in Saturday's Primary. Mr. Tibbets who has lived in Plainview less than two years was nosed out in the race for attorney by the present incumbent, Tudor, by only 40 votes, 2177 to 2137.

NEWMAN VISITORS

Those visiting with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Newman Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Woods and boys, Mrs. Emma Frieze, Mr. and Mrs. I. F. Shaffer and son Jack, Mrs. Beavers, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Merrill, Mrs. Stone, and Mr. and Mrs. Smith of Plainview.

All Delinquents Will Be Dropped From List

The Briscoe County News is closing its "dollar offer" Saturday of this week, six weeks having elapsed since the start of the reduced price. Many have renewed, and many new subscribers have been added BUT — There are several who are still in the red as far as being paid in advance. Saturday is absolutely the last day to subscribe for the low price of a dollar a year. Every person in arrears after that date will be dropped from the list and $1.50 will be the reinstatement fee. The management of the Briscoe County News is anxious to have every subscriber possible. But not by having a "free list". We have the largest list we have had since coming to Silverton—and the beautiful part of it is that every one is paid in advance—because that is the only fair and logical way to do subscription business. Either you want the paper or you do not—if you do not, that's OK—but if you do, and unless you want it bad enough to pay $1.50 for it, then you better bring or mail your dollar by Saturday night, July 30. Since we published the last issue, these persons have paid up, and we want to say "thank you" to every one:

Grady Wimberly As Commissioner Only Chase In County Officers

Graham and Hamilton in Run-Off For Commissioner

Notwithstanding the fact that over 1500 votes were cast here Saturday in the first Democratic Primary, the election day was quiet and uneventful. The largest upset of the whole election was the victory of W. Lee O'Daniel over a field of twelve candidates for Governor. O'Daniel is the first man in history who won his first term as Governor, without a run-off.

County races were all fairly close. Grady Wimberly is the only new officer elected, having nosed out P. D. Jasper for the office of Commissioner of Precinct 3. The closest race in which the entire county participated was for County Treasurer. Agnes Turner laced only 67 votes of defeating Miss Lizzie Gregg, the present incumbent.

In Commissioner's Precinct No. 2, Paul Hamilton forced L. E. Graham, present commissioner, into a run-off, the only one in the county. W. E. Helms ran third man in this race.

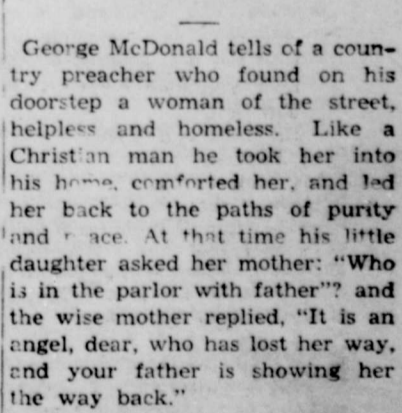

For District offices, John Hamilton was re-elected District Attorney and Alton B. Chapman, District Judge over Winfred Newsome and Kenneth Bain respectively.

You will find elsewhere on this page, an accurate, although unofficial report of the election returns, precinct by precinct; also showing the total votes received by each candidate for all state, district, and county offices. You will find it interesting to find how the people in all parts of the county voted.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ash and children spent Saturday evening and Sunday in Memphis with relatives. Mrs. Clay Fowler has been ill several days this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Coffee, Jr. and Evelyn have gone to Colorado for a vacation.

Treasurer

... Miss Lizzie Gregg, was chosen to be the custodian of the county's money for another term, in a very close race.

The world is full of those who have lost their way. They have lost their way in the midst of philosophical speculation, in the materialism and worldliness of everyday life, in the rush and roar of our complex civilization, in the dark by-paths of unmoral and immoral living. Man is not a machine. He is not the last accidental result of atomic forces. He is a living soul. In him is the passion of immortality. This will be the theme in the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning.

Mrs. A. M. Martin of New York City left Thursday, after having spent several days here at the Boots Bryant home.

house. From inside it came the crash of revolvers. Jeff Gray's heart died within him. He knew that Ransom had been killed. The old soldier had come to his death after he had apparently deserted him.

"Gimme a hand, pardner!" he drawled.

Jeff Gray was a light sleeper. Wakened by the furious barking of the blacksmith's dog, almost instantly he was out of the bunk and in the window.

He took aim at a dodging figure and fired. "Get him!" asked Ransom, scraping the dirt out of the hole he had dug.

The match went out. "Who in hades are you?" a heavy voice rasped. "Bud Taylor," Jeff said evenly. "Sherm sent me with a message."

Jeff did not dare to leave him to recover in a minute or two. He pistol-whipped the fallen man across the temple. His gun he kept for immediate use.

There were too many people about. As he made a circle around the Presnal boarding-house, three men carrying rifles walked toward him. He did the only thing possible, dodged into the same door he had entered some hours earlier when he had been looking for Curly.

Jeff stepped behind a boulder. He could see three men grouped together against the skyline. With Duke's gun he fired three times rapidly above their heads.

"Any chance for me to slip out of the back door down to the rocks in the creek?" Jeff inquired. "Not a chance," Ransom said grimly.

"I've got to stop that, Hank," the younger man said. "The firing down here is a bluff to keep our minds busy. They won't charge the cabin till those above have smashed it. I'm going up to stop their game if you don't mind sticking it out here alone."

A drouth producing the same results as the modern dust bowl of the Middle West may have driven a cultured race of Indians from the region of northern Arizona more than 700 years ago, according to Dr. Ralph L. Beals, instructor of anthropology at the University of California at Los Angeles, says the Los Angeles Times.

Author of "God Save the King" The origin of "God Save the King" has been wrapped in mystery for centuries. It was first sung by Harry Carey at a dinner to celebrate the capture of Portobello by Admiral Vernon in 1740, according to Pearson's London Weekly. Carey admitted authorship of the words, but refused to commit himself about the music.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears [IT WAS a great day on an upstate New York farm more than a half century ago. The biggest pumpkins, the finest apples and the sleekest live stock were being loaded to take to the Fair. Grandmother announced that she was taking her sick crazy patchwork quilt. The family disappeared. The quilt glowed with the richest taffetas and satins of "best" dresses of those they knew and loved.

ONE is for young figures, one for mature. Both of these dresses are smart and new in fashion, and both are pretty enough to wear when company comes, as well as for working round the house. Each has a convenient pocket. These designs are delightfully easy to make, even for beginners. Each includes a complete and detailed sew chart.

Then you'll want the slenderizing dress, built on classic shirt-waist lines, with a plain, slim-hipped skirt. Fullness beneath smooth shoulder pieces gives it correct fit over the bust. Notice there is a slight blouse at the waistline, for freedom of action. That narrow roll collar, finishing the V-neck, is becoming to full faces. This, too, will be pretty in any tubfast cotton that you like, trimmed with ricrac.

Entered as second-class mail matter at the post office at Silvertown, Texas in accordance with an act of Congress on March 3, 1879.

Who with a little cannot be content endures an everlasting punishment.

I HEREBY RESOLVE—that this line shall remain in the Briscoe County News until our city managers start a little constructive work toward surfacing our streets, or at least until the death of Yours True'ly. Dated this 9th day of June, 1938. (I've been wanting to know for a long time, how long a linotype slug will last.)

THE CITY IS still working on the paving project. This week they are advertising in the want-ads for a "caliche pit, within 3 or 4 miles of Silvertown. The caliche must be usable.

AND BY USABLE, I think they mean within two inches of the surface, and of the springy type—the kind that will just get up and almost load itself.

SEVERAL OLD TIMERS have told me that most of these lakes are caliche under the surface. The ones mentioned in particular are—the one at the corner of the town section on the northeast, another a mile northwest of town, C. B. Goodwin says that there is caliche galore on the old Tom Nichols place four miles east.

OH, YES, AND I saw a chunk of it in front of the post office the other day too. I don't know whether Bailey is looking for caliche or whether he goes fishing—anyway, no caliche reported yet.

OVER FIVE HUNDRED folks were guests of the Silvertown Bakery here last Saturday. That's a lot of folks for one afternoon. I kinda think it would be right for us all to show our appreciation of the bakery here and patronize them just as much as we can.

LAST WEEK I RAN an ad in the Quitaque Post about the dollar subscription offer. Mr. Scott commented that even with good results from the ad, the Briscoe County News would still be second in circulation in the county. Well, the answer to that is a very large and robust "HEH, HEH, HEH, with a look of smug complacency as I say it.

THE ABOVE LITTLE study in typesetting ability was concocted by the one and only Saxy Crow. I'm offering a diamond studded spittoon to anyone who can figure out what he was trying to do. And I'll give another similar reward to anyone who will persuade John Henry to come in and throw it in where he found it.

AND WE HAVE a new Governor, or will have. And did he run, or did he run. Bill Dunn says that there's only one thing known to science that can run faster than W. Lee ran in the election—and that is a billy goat passing Doc Brinkley's hospital.

AND THINKING OF election, I asked Chick Northcutt Saturday if he was a little nervous watching that board. Chick said, "No", that he'd been to Kansas City with a carload of cattle too many times, and looked at a board just like that, and saw them go down $2.00 a hundred.

NOW THEN, ABOUT that dollar again. The offer is over Saturday night. There's very little Jew blood in the Hahn family, so if you want to save that fifty cents, do it now. Monday morning won't do.

AS A LITTLE ADDED inducement on the last afternoon of my dollar offer, I'll do this:—To the first FIVE people subscribing after dinner Saturday, I'll send the paper FREE to anyone they wish, just so it does not go to someone who is already taking it. Remember, the first five, after one o'clock.

FEWER CASUALTIES ON HIGHWAYS

Texas streets and highways are definitely safer for the motoring public as shown by a steady decrease in fatal traffic collisions, the police reported today.

Final tabulations of casualties for June revealed that 115 persons were killed in 1,026 accidents, a decrease of 44 lives if compared with June, 1937, a total saving of 10 lives during the first half of the year compared with the same period of last year. There was a sharp drop in the number of crashes reported in June compared with 117 reported in that month last year, when Texas' final death toll reached the unprecedented high mark of 2,043 fatalities.

A selective enforcement program—the placing of state patrolmen at strategic points where surveys show the largest number of collisions taking place—which was put into effect recently, is the reason for the diminishing death toll, safety officials believe. With mounted officers patrolling stretches of highways there authoritative predictions that Texas will rank as a safe state of nation by the end of the year.

Encouraging to the recorders is the continued decrease in the number of pedestrians who met with under the wheels of vehicles, in most instances when pedestrians crossed streets at places other than intersections. The pedestrian death toll has steadily decreased from 40 in January to 21 in June.

The fatal smash-ups involving cycle riders brought a sharp warning from Captain Homer Garrison, Jr., assistant state police director, who pointed to the four crashes of this type last month as examples of carelessness.

He urged that riders of cycles carry lights and abide by traffic regulations that guide motorists. In addition to the four deaths there were 27 bicycle riders severely injured in collisions.

An analysis to determine the primary causes of 1,026 of the fatal and more serious crashes in June revealed that 99 involved drivers and pedestrians who had been drinking, 94 drivers ignored governing right-of-way, and 87 were driving too near the center of highways or on the wrong side. Speed ranked as the principal contributing cause in 72 of 1,026 collisions.

Regarding the 1938 traffic situation, Col. H. H. Carmichael, director of the safety department, commented:

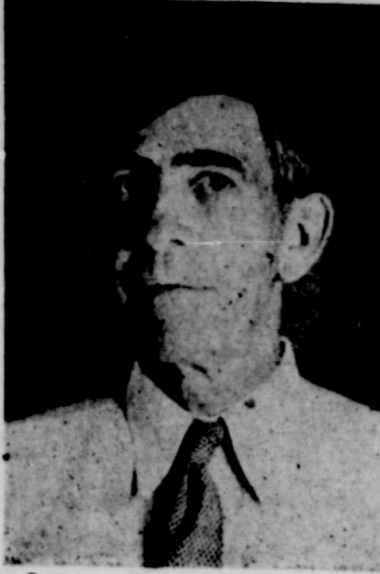

"In urging Texans to bring to the state a national record for traffic safety, we would like for every driver to take personal responsibility of his driving faults, and prevent them. None of us are perfect drivers, so there is an urgent need for individual responsibility."

"We can prevent many collisions too often they have to assist requests over dead traffic victims—all unnecessarily killed."

Mr. and Mrs. Lea and son and Mrs. Mae Lanham of Roswell, N.M. brought their mother, Mrs. B. Lanham, home. Mrs. Lanham has been visiting with them the past two months.

Mr. Whitley spent the week in Dallas.

LIBRARY NOTES

"Cloud by Day"
By Pauline Stiles

When Stephen's father died, the mother, who had no longer an impediment to her leading the life of a wealthy expatriate American, took her son and established her self in Rome. In the beautiful old Italian Villa, Stephen grew up, instructed by tutors in whom his mother happened to be interested. He learned charming manners, an Oxford accent, perfect French and Italian, and through his interest in primitive Italian art became an authority on antiquities.

His mother about whom his whole life revolved intended for him a wealthy marriage. In fact, pert and sparkling Sally, who was at the moment divorcing an unappreciated husband, seemed the most likely candidate. That was before Jeanne arrived in Rome, chaperoned by her fiancé, a wealthy New York antique dealer, who had educated Jeanne, the penniless daughter of an old friend and offered her his heart and fortune.

And when Jeanne and Stephen met, love stepped in to upset all plans and calculations to lead to a gay, lovely, adventurous romance about some of the most delightful people you ever read about.

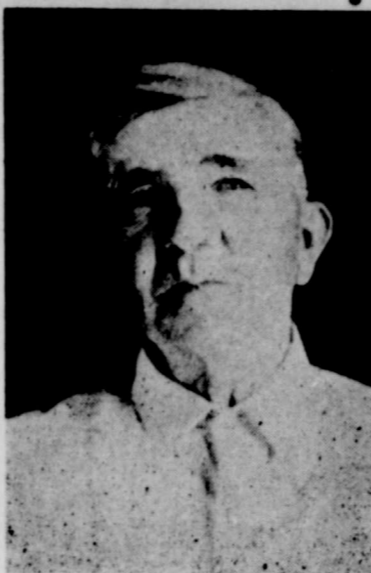

The Library was the recipient of another gift book last week. Betty Nan Burson was the donor. "Choo-Me-Choo" is an interesting adventure story about two little Eskimo children.

The Lowdown On Fishing

By Finley R. White

Most fish stories are so badly distorted that the reader seldom gets close enough to the truth to know whether there is any truth in the story or not. This is one tho' that's different. The naked truth on angling will be given in this story so that when you read these "whopper fish tales" you'll know how many grains of salt to take with it.

The writer together with two stalwart sons and a brother with a "German Gotier" set out from Beaumont week before last to show the fishing friends how to catch the big ones. We missed a nights sleep getting all set for the catch the next day. We started out so early in the morning that I thought maybe the fish were wild and had to be slipped up on in the dark. We hadn't driven much over 80 miles tho' before I realized why we got going so early.

These town fishermen are funny birds when you analyze them. All the fellows living in Beaumont who have a "fishing lodge" have it just as close to Galveston and Port Aransas as possible while all the boys from Galveston and Port Aransas who own fishing lodges have theirs located as near Beaumont and Lake Charles as they can get them. I did a lot of figuring as to why this should be like it is and had just about concluded that it was because the home boys had such a bad reputation that the fish wouldn't bite for them—strangers had to come in to fool them. All my figuring was for nothing tho' for it was wrong—when we finally pulled in at my brother's camp down near Galveston I could see for myself that the reason the boys got so far from home to "fish" was so the wife couldn't check up on who all was in the party.

We landed down at Galveston just as those big swamp mosquitos came out looking for their breakfast—and if you think they don't go after what they want then you're mistaken. I surely did wish for Bob Burns while those mosquitos were romping around—He'd have hung his head in shame for talking about those Arkansas mosquitos. I don't know how long it takes those mosquitos to get their fill—only stayed down there 2 days and they were still hungry.

I found out what a "Sport" is. He's a guy that owns a fishing (or hunting) lodge and is chump enough to pay a boatman $15 to haul him out and set him down where there's a million gallons of water and not a drop to drink and where the fish bit good yesterday and the mosquitos are biting like fury today. The boatman then drives off and leaves him stranded for the day—no water, no food, plenty of cigars, cigarettes and chewing tobacco—all soaked in salt water. The nice boatman finally comes back and gets the "Sport" just before he starves or is eaten up by the mosquitos—and to add insult to misery the boatman looks at the "Spots" lean hungry face and asks, "Well did you have any luck?" Boatmen are like that you know.

We were lucky in getting a good boatman—if there is such an animal. We got Hans Olson, one of those nice Swedish chaps just in the prime of life—about 65. Olson came to this country on a barge in 1900 and he swore then he'd not shave or bathe til he returned to Sweden. He was cautious to see that we had plenty of hooks, lines, poles, shrimp and a wet seat to sit on. We shoved off from shore in what my brother called "perfect fishing weather". We hadn't gone far tho' when Olson squinted his eyes and shook his head and says, "She's a bit too still today, they might not bite good today but Godt they bit like H yesterday." I felt that we were in for a day of fisherman's luck—and right then all I lacked of having fisherman's luck was being hungry for I was already wet.

About 50 minutes of steady chug chug chugging along just about put us out of sight of everything but

District Attorney

John A. Hamilton, a Matador product, chosen to his first elective term over Winfred Newsome of Floydada.

The breeze began blowing nicely now, and my face fairly beamed for I knew the fish were the same as mine—my brother had told me that the fish bite better when the water is rather rough. To be sure my brother was a fisherman and not just a plain sport, I ask Olson if the sea wasn't about right now to really catch the big ones. The old gent took a puff or two on his old cob pipe and remarked that the sea was right but that the blasted breeze was from the wrong direction. Crestfallen, I sank back down on my wet seat and started looking out for another omen that might prove to be good.

Suddenly I noticed ripples in the water and shouted to Olson that to our left there were plenty of fish. I began hauling my fishing tackle out getting ready for the big catch. I was just getting ready to put a shrimp on my hook when Olson informed me that the fish I saw were spoon bill gars and that fish never stayed in the neighborhood of the gars. Again I sat down to do some more thinking.

We had ridden some 15 minutes from where the gars were when Olson cut off his engine and started giving orders as to what and how were were to do. We had finally reached the shell beds and as we were getting off of Olson's boat into smaller row boats Olson told us that he'd leave us here for a few hours and if we didn't catch any fish, he'd come back and move us to a place where he knew there were plenty of fish. I ask the old boy if it would suit him just as well to take us to that second place first. You see I really wanted to catch some fish since I seldom ever get to wet a hook. Olson's reply to my request was "Hum".

We sat right where Olson cut loose from us from morning till almost night. We fed the mosquitos the best we had and one time when the sea got rough we almost fed the fish too. We used dead shrimp, live shrimp, artificial bait and almost everything but witchcraft trying to get the big fish to bite, but it was just like Olson said—the "vind" was out of the wrong direction—or else the boys caught all of the fish yesterday.

Just before sundown Olson came back for us and to prove to him that we had not been loafing on the job we held up our catch to show him. The catch consisted of 10 or 12 six inch trout, one nice croaker about 8 inches long and several small fish. Olson insisted that we throw back our fish and come out tomorrow and he'd show us where the fish were—I've decided that there are lots of fish in the Gulf waters, but I am convinced the cash is the best bait to catch them with.

The young trees are planted in the fertile lowlands along a creek on the farm, where the soil was found to be exceptionally well suited to the purpose. Many types of trees are grown, among them being salt cedar, honey locust, desert willow, and the Chinese elm. Part of the area is devoted to growing of seedlings.

Several transplantings are made to develop the root systems of the trees to combat long dry periods. Trees are watered from a dam by gravity flow. Once each week 100,000 gallons of water is turned into

WASHINGTON — The U. S. it was disclosed last will ask Congress to remove federal, state and municip- from the tax exempt extend the income tax to employees and to permit tax federal bonds and incomes of federal employees within their borders. Most businessmen consider this a worthy aim.

Taxation of government bonds should help businessmen to raise capital. Suppose a retired business- man has $10,000,000 to invest. If he puts it in government bonds at 3 per cent his annual return would be $300,000 upon which no tax would be levied under present laws. In order to give him this much net return, private business would have to offer him at least 10 per cent on his money, or $1,- 000,000 a year. Because after he'd finished paying the approximately $675,000 federal and state income tax on the $1,000,000 his actual income would be whittled to $325,- 000. Obviously men of wealth at present are not anxious to risk their money in private business when in many instances they can get the same net return by invest- ing in relatively safe government bonds.

RETAIL SURVEY—businessmen large and small read with interest this week a survey published by Standard Statistics, Inc., which discusses the current status of federal and state legislation as it affects multiple retail outlets. Particular interest centers around the conclusion of the survey that time is running against the propo- nents of punitive taxation calcu- lated to run the chain stores out of existence.

"Farmers have no sympathy with those who would cripple the chains," the survey says, "because they are important customers of large rural chain organizations and are against anything that would tend to raise prices in these outlets. More important, the farmer knows that the chains per- form highly useful functions in taking surpluses of farm products off the market. Consumers and organized labor are also opposed to anything that tends to raise re- tail prices."

MEN'S CLOTHING—Clothing merchants, looking for higher wool prices, are losing no time now stocking up on men's suits, over- coats and winter underwear, mak- ing due allowance of course for the possibility of a somewhat lower sales volume this fall and winter than last year. In the last month alone raw wool tops have risen from 75 cents to 82 1/2 cents. Sup- plying Mr. John Doe with his new fall suit is a complicated business. Companies that make the cloth started designing patterns a year ago. The cloth was woven in their mills last fall, sold to manufactu- rers mostly located in eastern sea- board cities. They in turn began cutting and sewing the suits last winter. Right now salesmen for these manufacturers are on the road in all parts of the country selling 10 suits here, a hundred suits there, depending on the needs of retail merchants.

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses Cheese--Prince of Proteins

Noted Food Authority Tells Why You Should Eat More of the Food That Is So Rich in Protective Elements.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York City.

FOR many years, men with an inventive turn of mind have dreamed of creating a product that would concentrate all the important food elements in a small tablet or capsule. They have been inspired by a desire to simplify meal preparation without sacrificing nutritive values.

No one has ever succeeded in making a synthetic food that would both satisfy hunger and properly nourish the body. But all the while, the researchers have overlooked the magnificent possibilities of cheese, one of the most concentrated, nourishing, satisfying and versatile of foods.

Cheese--The Body Builder
Cheese is the most concentrated source of protein known. Moreover, the protein is of such high type that if it were the only body-building food in the diet, given in sufficient quantities, it would be adequate not only to maintain life, but to support normal growth.

Cheese--The Energy Food
In addition to its rich store of protein, cheese is also a fine source of energy.

A cube of Cheddar cheese one-and-one-eighth inches square provides 100 calories or the equivalent in energy value of the lean meat of one lamb chop or one medium-sized potato. One-half pound of Cheddar cheese furnishes 1,000 calories, about half the daily requirement of an adult leading a sedentary life.

Cheese for Mineral Salts
Because milk is rich in minerals, it follows that cheese, which is made from milk, contains these precious substances in highly concentrated form. It is an excellent source of calcium, the mineral which is responsible for building strong bones and sound teeth, and for keeping the heart beating normally. A one-and-one-fourth inch cube of American Cheddar cheese contains as much calcium as an 8-ounce glass of milk.

The individual who does not care for milk as a beverage can easily obtain the necessary calcium from cheese. But it is practically impossible to get adequate amounts of this mineral without either milk or cheese.

Rennet cheese, phosphorus, as well as calcium, is present in the same proportions as in milk, but is much more highly concentrated. As in milk, these minerals are in a form that is most nearly perfect for easy assimilation. Rennet-curd cheese is always high in sulphur and fairly high in iron. Furthermore, the iron is in the most readily assimilated form.

Cheese and Vitamins
Cheese is a splendid source of vitamin A, which promotes growth and increases resistance to disease. It is especially important for eye health and is necessary to prevent the affliction known as night blindness. The amount of vitamin A varies with the type of cheese, but both American Cheddar and Parmesan cheese are extremely rich in this substance, and cream cheese is an outstanding source. are also found in whole milk cheese.

With this wealth of food values, one would expect to find cheese appearing on the menu in some form every day. But though the annual production of cheese in the United States exceeds 700,000,000 pounds, it should be much greater. The annual per capita consumption is only 5½ pounds—a woefully small figure when we consider the wide benefits that would result from its greater use.

The failure of American homemakers to use cheese in the amounts that they should is, I believe, due to three factors: first, a lack of knowledge concerning its splendid food values; second, a belief in the old superstition that cheese is not easy to digest; and third, failure to take advantage of the many ways in which it can be served.

Digestibility of Cheese
The foregoing outline of its many food values should give a new conception of its place in the diet. As to its digestibility, studies by the United States Department of Agriculture have entirely disproved the fallacy that it is not completely digestible.

It was found that on an average about 95 per cent of the protein and over 95 per cent of the fat of cheese were digested and absorbed. The various kinds of cheese tested were found to compare favorably in digestibility with the food of an average mixed diet. It was also demonstrated experimentally "that there was practically no difference between cheese and meat with respect to ease of digestion, at least in such quantities as are commonly eaten."

There was also a notion that because it is so high in food value, cheese should only be eaten in small quantities. But scientific tests have proven that cheese may be eaten by normal individuals in large quantities, with entirely beneficial effects upon health.

Place of Cheese in the Diet

There is a case on record of a young man who lived for two years on a daily diet consisting of one-half pound of cheese, a one-pound loaf of whole wheat bread and two pounds of fruit. While this limited diet might prove monotonous to some people, it is possible to utilize cheese as the easiest method of providing important food value, varying the diet, and simplifying meal preparation. For there are more than 200 distinctive varieties of cheese listed by the department of agriculture, ranging from the smooth, delicately flavored cream cheese, which may be given to very young children, to the sharp tangy cheese which is especially popular with men. Fortunately, almost every type can be purchased in packaged form, in sizes that are convenient for large and small families, making it possible to enjoy a wide variety.

Cheese can be used as a main dish; in salads or sandwiches; as a sauce for vegetables; as a dessert. It is desirable at the same time to serve bulky foods, such as fruits and vegetables. Cheese may also be combined advantageously with carbohydrate foods. This is because the balanced diet requires more carbohydrates than protein. And cheese is essentially a protein food, interchangeable with meats and fish.
