"SOUTHWEST DAYS" AT BILLO AUGUST 15-16-17

Men pals of the late Will will be principal actors in "Old Southwest" a pageant to be staged August 15-16-17.

The advisory committee of the pageant is Mrs. L. A. Knight reviewed, widow of the Texas man who first employed Rogers as a cowboy.

With others who will Rogers when, will be Walker of Higgins, latter ended in Hollywood by the artist and humanitarian. Walked the philosopher's advice before the cowboy on a rode trail from the Texas Panhandle to Montana with 2,000 head of steers.

"Southwest Days", depicting highlights from Cortez to Comanches to the cowboys of Rogers, will be the theme of a celebration to mark the opening of U. S. Highway 66, generally now as the Will route.

Readers from Los Angeles Chicago are coming to the opening of the first all-highway between the Panhandle and the Great Lakes.

POLICE RELEASE

Police traffic experts have a questionnaire from drivers may determine individual qualifications for driving vehicles in a safe manner.

Questions relating to basic for most accidents on highways were listed for research officers so that they may correct their errors. Question counts 10 points if answered in the affirmative, with a discount for negative answers. If your grade is between 90 and 100 you may consider yourself an excellent driver. A grade below 80 classes you as a "good" driver, but if your grade is below 80 you are a menace to traffic safety and should correct your faults, state police officers say.

Questions are: Do you use proper arm signals when turning or stopping? Do you always drive within speed limits? Do you always refrain from other vehicles on hills or curves?

Do you bring your vehicle to a complete halt at traffic STOP signs?

Do you observe right-of-way at intersections? Do you always park your vehicle so that it does not obstruct traffic?

Do you dim your lights at night when approaching vehicles? Do you always drive on the right side of the road, not to near the center of the road?

Do you regularly inspect your vehicle and other mechanical parts? Do you drive in the same lane under supervision of an officer as you do when he is not present?

Do you and Mrs. Bud McMinn and wife are spending this week in Wells, Texas.

CONTRACTOR BUSY ON HIGHWAY NO. 86

Contractors who were successful bidders on placing asphalt topping on highway 86 from Tullia west to the Castro county line started preliminary work the first of the week. Because the roadbed has been used so long, considerable work is necessary to place the surface in shape for topping.

Work now consists of blading, wetting and rolling the roadbed. This will probably consume nearly 30 days, according to statement of men on the job.

"When the bed is ready for the topping, it will take only about ten days to complete the job, it is reported. About the middle of September the job should be completed and opened for traffic.

No definite word has been received from Austin as to who was given the contract to build two bridges east of Tullia on Highway 86, but advertisements for bids for last Saturday have been published, and it is believed that contracts were let last Saturday.

BIG REUNION AT THE JOHN VAUGHAN HOME

One hundred and twenty seven relatives are gathered together at the John Vaughan home today for a three-day reunion. They include members of the Vaughan family and children, which makes eight families; members of Mrs. V's family, the Kitchens folks, in which there are nine children and their mother, Mrs. Alice Kitchens, 79 years old. Three of Mrs. Kitchens' brothers are in attendance.

These relatives, together with their children, make up the 127, which is one of the largest family reunions ever held in Briscoe County. The celebration is held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan's 40th wedding anniversary, August 10th.

Mr. Vaughan runs a herd of fine white faced cattle and told of how much better meat they made. Then, at a great deal of trouble, he bought and butchered a jersey calf, never telling the guests the difference. Mr. Vaughan says that they are still bragging on that fine meat from the white faces.

If possible a complete guest list will be published in next week's paper.

MISS AURELIA SANDERS' ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED AT COFFEE

Miss Aurelia Sanders was honored from 9:30 to 11:00 A. M. on last Thursday at a Coffee given at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sanders. The occasion was the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sanders and Mr. Lauren Tenney Conger.

The bride-elect attended Texas State College for Women and W. T. S. T. C., and is a popular member of the younger set here.

Mr. Conger, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gary Park Conger of River Falls, Ill., is a graduate of Denison College of Granville, and is a member of the Delta Theta fraternity.

At the coffee, the hostess received the guests and in turn presented them to Miss Evelyn Coffee, who impersonated 'Miss Town Gossip'. As she greeted each of the guests, she whispered in her ear, "Did you know that Lauren and Aurelia are to be married in the late fall?"

Mrs. W. D. Sanders, grandmother of the bride-to-be, assisted by Miss Ray Nelle Ezzell, served coffee and cheese toast to Messdames W. Coffee, Jr., B. R. Ezzell, Fred Lemons, Troy Burson and Wayne Crawford; Misses Gwen-dolyn Cloyd, Josephine Daniel, Carolyn Schott, and Joni Bundy; Mrs. Virgil Ballard of Dallas; Mrs. Biffie Fort of Hale Center; Mrs. E. W. Scheid and Mrs. Leon Middleton of Quitaque; and Misses Marie Davis and Winnie Mae Jolly of Fletcher, Oklahoma.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to extend our thanks to everyone who helped us any way during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother. Your kindness and expressions of sympathy have made our sorrow much easier to bear. Silverton has a real bunch of neighbors and we shall not forget your kindness.

FREY MOVES TO SILVERTON

Dr. and Mrs. Conrad Frey and son John Austin have moved to Silverton to make their permanent home. They have purchased the home formerly occupied by Finley White. They expect to remodel the place completely within a short time. Mrs. Frey's mother, Mrs. F. W. Peck will make her home with the Freys.

Dr. Frey announces that his office hours are now from 9:00 till 6:00.

Silverton Girl Writes From the Philippines

We have for you this week an interesting letter from Odessa Smith, who is a United States Registered Nurse, stationed in the Philippine Islands. The letter needs no explanation, and was written to Mrs. W. L. Jewett. Dear Sis:

Received your letter today, surely was glad to hear from you, am so sorry that it is so dry there, wish that you could have some of the rain we have been getting, it rained for three days and nights without stopping. It was rather a relief to have some rain after the hot, dry season, but that is just a bit too much for one time, although I have known it to rain for a week.

I did manage to get in two or three very nice trips before the rains set in. A few weeks ago I made a trip to Baguio and the Bontoc region, up in the Mountain Province. It was an awfully hard trip. If I had known what an awful trip it was I would never have undertaken it, that is I would not have tried to have driven it. After it was all over I decided that I was mighty smart or an awful fool, I couldn't decide which. It is a beautiful mountain road, but very dangerous, however, it is a one way road and you do not have to worry about meeting any one.

We left Manila about noon time and drove to Baguio that afternoon, the road is good to Baguio, very pretty after you get to the foot hills, and the zig-zag trail is very beautiful. Baguio is a very beautiful little city. Since 1933 it has been much in the public eye due to a "Gold Rush", being the scene of three successful mines, one of them is the richest mine in the world in point of high grade ore. As the Chamber of Commerce says "Baguio is really a huge pine covered mountain park", with many miles of winding asphalted boulevards and very little straight or level roadway. It is so different to Manila that you can hardly believe that they are only one hundred and fifty kilometers apart.

The climate is delightfully cool the year around in fact during the rainy season it is quite cold. It seems so funny to leave Manila and be so hot you can hardly live and drive to Baguio, five hours away, and sit by a fire place, that is what you do. They have a fire every evening up there.

The tribes inhabiting the Mountain Province present a most interesting study. These people are cheerful, friendly and romantic, with their unique ceremonies and tribal customs, their colorful dress and primitive life. We spent all of a Sunday morning at the Market, and I enjoyed every minute of it, to see the people coming in from the mountains with their baskets of produce on their heads. They grow perfectly lovely vegetables up there, some things that I never heard of before. I wish that I could describe these people so that you could see them as I saw them. The men wear only a gee string, and when it is real cold a coat or short jacket. The women wear a straight piece of material wrapped around them for a skirt, and a little jacket. The gee strings and the dresses are all hand woven, on little hand looms, they are in the most brilliant colors and intricate designs. The gee strings are very beautiful being in different colors and designs, each meaning something, that is the married men have one type, the bachelors have another, the engaged fellow another, etc. I was fortunate enough to get in on one of the ceremonial dances, for which I was very grateful, it was most interesting.

We left Baguio about eight o'clock in the morning and started to Bontoc and the Ifugao Rice Terraces. We got to Bontoc about five o'clock that afternoon, it is about the distance of one hundred miles, roughly, I have forgotten exactly, over the same narrow mountain road. These people live in little villages on the side of the mountains. The houses consist principally of a roof, in the peak of which is a storeroom and the eaves of which turns both the chilling rain and the blistering sun. Around the roof shade on the ground is a fence about two feet high which marks the living room and above which the light enters. Within are the cooking place and sleeping box, a large oblong lidded bed into which the parents crawl when night comes. The children go to a dormitory or a Ato, for boys and girls, respectively. They also have a marriage custom which has not been changed. When a couple become engaged they go to one of these Atos and live together for about ten days, and if at the end of that time they are happy and find that the parents are pleased they get married. These Atos accommodate about ten couples. The villages and the huts are very dirty and unsanitary, you do not care to stay very long but it is surely worth being there for a while. They dress very much like the people around Baguio.

From Bontoc you continue on the same mountain road to the (See "Interesting Letter" page 8)

Absentee Voting Started

Ballots have been printed and delivered to the Democratic Chairman, H. S. Sanders. Absentee voting started Monday, and several have cast their vote, according to R. E. Douglas, County Clerk. Very little interest is being shown in the election, and here are only two local candidates concerned in the run-off. They are L. E. Graham and Paul Hamilton for Commissioner of Precinct

2. Other races whose outcome will be determined August 27 are: Lieutenant Governor, Commissioner of General Land Office, Attorney General, Railroad Commissioner, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, and Judge of Court of Criminal Appeals (unexpired term).

Following is the election ballot as it will be given the voters on August 27:

EXTENSIVE REPAIRS BEING MADE IN SILVERTON GIN

Boots Bryant, manager of the Silverton Gin, and a crew of men are at work repairing the cotton gin here in preparation for the '38 crop.

The place is being gone over from top to bottom. The furnace is being rebuilt and engine repairs made. An entire new set of cleaner-feeders will be installed. They are of the latest type, with four rollers, instead of one, as in the past. New gin saws are to replace the old ones.

Mr. Bryant estimates that it will take perhaps five weeks to complete the needed repairs and put the gin in tip-top shape. Cotton in this vicinity is needing rain badly. None of it is hurt much as yet, but rain must come within a few days.

FARMERS FOOD STORE TO OPEN CREAM STATION

The Farmers Food Store next week will open a new branch—a produce house and cream station—in connection with their grocery store here.

"It is our aim," says Mr. Bogy, manager, "to make this store the best one on the Plains—a place of service for our farmer customers."

Saturday, the Farmers Store is having another "White Swan Tea" and they invited you in to enjoy a glass of iced tea and cookies in the store.

THISTLES AND FENCES

A man was once walking with a farmer though a beautiful field when the farmer happened to see a tall thistle on the other side of the fence. In a second over the fence he jumped, and cut it off close to the ground. "Is that your field," asked his companion. "Oh, no," said the farmer, "bad weeds do not care much for fences, and if I should leave that thistle to blossom in my neighbor's field. I should soon have plenty in my own". In some of our Western States the law requires the farmer and roadmasters to destroy all weeds on their farms and in the highways. Bad men are like thistles. They pay no regard to fences. This will be our thought at the Presbyterian Church next Sunday morning. You are cordially invited to attend this Church.

TOUGH COMPETION TO BE AT FLOYDADA SOFTBALL TOURNAMENT AUG. 15

An "all star" softball team from Silverton has been picked to enter the Floydada Softball Tournament August 15 to 19. Prizes for the first place winners of the tournament amount to $75 and the right to enter the regional tournament at Sweetwater the following week, according to the Floydada Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the four days of ball playing. Winners will be determined by elimination.

Silverton will play the winner of Spur-Dickens game, Tuesday night, at 9:30 p. m.

Besides Silverton there are entered in the tournament, Dickens, Cone, Plainview (two teams), Ralls, Floydada (two teams), Girard, Childress, Spur, Petersburg, and Estelline. Other entries are expected this week.

Silverton players who will make the trip to the tournament are as follows: Fred Mercer, Harley Redin, Al Wilhelm, Bill Wilhelm, Dick Reid, Buster Allard, Aulton Durham, Herman Roberson, Howard Hunt, Glen, Ray and Dee McWilliams, Shorty Bingham, Mart Self, Lem Weaver, Virgil Crow, Jake Spencer, Allen Dickerson, Coy Chappell and Roy Morris.

The Silverton all-stars defeated the Quitaque boys 10-9 in a fast game Wednesday night, and the same Silverton team will go to Floydada to night (Thursday) for a game. This game is only a practice game and will have nothing to do with the tournament.

JACKSON REPORTS GOOD REVIVAL AT BAPTIST

The revival meeting at the First Baptist Church is starting off in a great way. Our evangelist, Rev. F. G. Rogers of the N. Fort Worth Baptist Church, is certainly bringing us the Gospel truth with conviction and power. Interest is increasing and everyone seems to be enjoying these services. There is plenty of good singing and Mr. Diviney is leading that work in a great way.

If you have been with us, we are glad to have had you. If you have not, we invite you to attend any or all of the meetings.

Christian people, you who love the Lord and lost souls, who believe that the Lord will hear you when you pray, come and pray with us for the success of the meeting. "Let's all speak a good word for Jesus." —W. H. Jackson.

CONTROLLED GRAZING IS AIDING TEXAS GRASS

Controlled grazing is doing much to improve the grass stand on Texas Panhandle range land which has been subject to damage from drought within recent years, Soil Conservation Service range examiners report.

Ranchers have observed that where the range is overgrazed and trampled by livestock, the pastures are unproductive and the grass stand remains poor. On the other hand, many ranchers are finding that their pastures are improving rapidly where grazing is rotated and the grass is allowed to seed.

Where the grass is permitted to go to seed every two or three years, ranchers are observing that the plants are being strengthened and become more dense.

Dense grass growth is being found effective in preventing loss of water by run off, checking gullies, and stopping loss of soil. Tests on Soil Conservation Service erosion control demonstration areas in the Texas Panhandle show that water from the spring rains penetrated to greater depths on pasture land where grass growth was maintained after being allowed to seed during the 1937 growing season than on areas where the grass was grazed off.

Every effort should be made to maintain a good grass stand at all times, the Service range examiners say. It is pointed out that early spring grazing often damages grass that is short and thin and prevents production of sufficient forage for the number livestock being carried on the pasture.

By practicing rotated grazing, ranchers are finding that they not only can maintain a good stand of grass, but increase the actual grazing capacity of their pasture.

ROAD MEETING ATTRACTS LEADERS OF FIVE COUNTIES

An enthusiastic meeting of county judges, commissioners, business men and farmers of five counties met Wednesday afternoon in the County Court room at Dimmitt in the interest of securing highway improvement for this section of the plains.

Judge W. Coffee of Silverton presided, Postmaster Willis Walker of Turkey read the minutes of the last meeting which was held at Tullia. Reports of street and road improvement at different points was heard and talks were made by men who are acquainted with the road needs of this section by their close touch with the agricultural and business development.

A motion was made and carried the Judge B. C. McCasland of Swisher County draft resolutions to be sent to Congressman Marvin Jones, commending him for his efforts in behalf of the farmers of this section and asking him to use his influence to use the farmers in road construction, that they might earn the relief they are sure to need.

Definite assurance that highway 86 will be hard surfaced was heard with applause.

The next meeting of this body will be held in Farwell at 2:30, Tuesday afternoon after the 2nd Monday.

Those present were served ice cold watermelon at the City Park.

THOMAS - PAVLICEK

Miss Bertha Thomas and Mr. Mandy (Pat) Pavlicek were united in marriage at Plainview, Saturday, August 6, at the Methodist parsonage by the Rev. Wooten, pastor.

Mrs. Pavlicek is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Thomas, of Silverton. She graduated from Silverton high school, and for the past year has been employed as bookkeeper of the Silverton Clay Products Company.

Mr. Pat Pavlicek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Pavlicek of Bomarton, Texas, and one of the oldest families in that region. Pat has been living in Silverton for about three years, having been engaged for a time at the City Tailors and for several months has been working at the Fowler Motor Company here.

The young couple will be at home to their many friends at the Potter home where they have an apartment. The Briscoe County News joins dozens of other friends in wishing them a long, happy, married life together.

Visitors at Smiths

Sarah Francis Smith of Plemons; Joe Smith, Jr., of Skellytown; Bob Smith and wife of Floydada; Mary Gilmore of Ringgold, Texas; and Allie Collins and daughter Mary of Canyon, spent Saturday night and Sunday with the Joe H. Smith and family southwest of Silverton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Bomar went to Weatherford, Oklahoma to get their daughter, Wynona, who has been attending Southwestern this summer. They spent Saturday night in McLean, Texas with Mrs. Bomar's Uncle, then came home Sunday.

Mr. R. F. Stevenson was transacting business in Plainview Tuesday.

AGGIE BRIEFS

By Finley R. White

Compliance time is always a time of work, sweat and plenty of cussing. 1938 compliance is just like the rest—the cussings maybe somewhat more emphatic, but the work and sweat remains about normal.

The supervisors in the field are fast approaching the "wind up" of map and field checking. The boys in the office are somewhat behind with the little machines that do the figuring the acres. The reason the boys in the office are behind with their figuring is because they have had to take so much time out to cuss and discuss why first one guy and then another has figured out one or two acres long on feed or cotton. The main reason for these fellows figuring out long is because they planted long.

The very nature of the work the boys do with the plainimeters are doing requires that they be let alone. They cannot talk and argue and still figure a field with any degree of accuracy. It will be greatly appreciated is every one concerned will kindly refrain from disturbing these fellows. If you just get too full to contain yourself and have to take it out on some one—drop by and see the county agent—or county committeeman. We can take it—maybe.

Subsidy Applications
We are just about thru typing our applications for subsidy payments. When they are complete we want you boys to get in and sign up. The applications for every one on the hill will be in the office and when you read this we'll be ready for you to sign. Tell your neighbors about it too—or get him to subscribe for this paper so he'll have the good news each week by the time you get it.

District 4-H Club Encampment
The 4-H club boys from the 19 counties comprising Extension District No. 2 met at Silver Falls Lake in Crosby county on Monday of this week.

There were 200 boys, 19 from Briscoe county. These boys enjoyed 3 days of swimming, skating, base ball and educational lectures, together with plenty of free picture shows on soil, moisture and wild life conservation.

Everything worked on schedule time and the boys who attended this encampment say they actually caught up on their swimming and skating. The boys who made the trip were the leaders among the seventy odd 4-H boys in the county. The Briscoe County boys left Crosby county headed for Carlisbad, El Paso, and other points west. They expect to return Sunday.

HEALTH NOTES

The mean dog that suddenly becomes friendly may transmit hydrophobia or rabies, states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer in refuting the timeworn belief that rabies must be spread by a frothing "mad dog".

"In the first stage of rabies," Dr. Cox states, "the disposition of the dog changes entirely. A happy, playful dog becomes dejected, creeps away and hides. An ordinarily vicious dog may become friendly. If he licks his master's hand, he may spread rabies through cuts and abrasions on the skin. The dog may be mean at times, and at other times apparently normal."

According to Dr. Cox the phrase "mad dog" is associated with the second stage of rabies. This is the irritable period in which the dog becomes restless, sometimes running away and returning hours later, worn out from fighting other dogs. Rabies may be suspected, especially if the dog was not formerly in the habit of leaving home. Because of irritation the dog may snap at everything it approaches and will run amuck in crowds, often biting people. The dog's bark changes to a throaty howl in this the most dangerous stage.

Rabies, according to many authorities, has a 100 percent mortality in man unless Pasteur treatment is instituted. Pasteur treatment, however, is nearly 100 percent effective in saving lives when properly administered. Rabies must be considered with every dog bite and the history of the dog should be studied to determine the possibility of rabies infection. The dog which bites a person must be caught and confined for ten days observation. If the dog develops hydrophobia it should be killed and its head sent by express, packed in ice, for a laboratory examination. See your family doctor immediately after any dog bite.

Jane White had the misfortune of breaking her arm Thursday morning while skating.

Blue Denim Stylish for Sportswear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

with an outfit that is made of denim.

HERE'S big news! It's all about denim, just plain ordinary, sturdy blue denim. Believe it or not, after all these years that blue denim has been associated in our minds as a mundane material devoted to the most part to the making of men's workaday overalls, we are awake to the astonishing realization that this sturdy fabric has, in this summer season, gone style-high for women's wear. Just how Dame Fashion could have been so blind these decades past as to fail to recognize the style possibilities of denim as a medium for ladies' apparel will forever remain a mystery.

However, the fact remains denim has unmistakably come into its own in the feminine realm, not only for the making of play clothes, but designers are turning out the smartest-est suits meticulously tailored of this never-wear-out attractive weave. In consequence of which we now see clever little classic jacket-and-skirt tailors of blue denim worn by women who register among the best dressed. These suits are stunning worn with a white pique blouse or a dainty, frilly white lingerie type, with accessories in white. Equally attractive are these suits with accents of bright color such as a Roman striped blouse with striped sandals and hand-bag to match. Scarlet or bright yellow buttons, belt and gloves are another way of doing it. The tailored linen blouse in vivid color also goes well

A two-piece dress (shirt and skirt) of denim, as illustrated to the left in the group, will not only give untold service but it stands for style personified in the sports clothes realm. Every line and detail of this outfit reflects exquisite standards of tailoring plus perfection of fit and finishing touches.

Ship ahoy! See the lovely recruit for the sailor's life centered in the picture. All topped out in this mid-summer siren in sturdy denim that never lose an item of perfection no matter how many the big waves that wash over them—Old Demon Shrinkage doesn't have a chance. And what a wealth of style these sturdy denim togs do pack!

Even if the girl pictured to the right took an unexpected dive into the sea she need not be concerned about her outfit, for neither salt spray nor suds will make the sturdy fabric shrink. Note the nautical symbols, the pipings, braidings, all smart details of this grand garment that promises to remain true "for better or worse" wear.

By way of offering a few extra suggestions for the styling of denim we don't mind telling you that a bolero dress of denim will prove a positive treasure in your outing or vacation wardrobe. You vary the blouse to suit the occasion and it's "on again, off again" to suit the changing temperature, so far as the cunning bolero is concerned.

The idea of denim for children's play suits, dresses and other apparel should prove most inspirational to mothers.

CROCHET COLLARS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A spic-and-span collar to give new life to your favorite dress is always a welcome addition in a collection of off-the-peg accessories. If hand-crocheted so much the better for a bit of handiwork always adds an exclusive touch to a costume. The collar pictured at the top is crocheted of lightweight mercerized cotton and embroidered in contrast color. The other collar is also hand-crocheted of light mercerized cotton. It is trimmed with a border of contrasting color to match the drawing of twisted cotton strands cleverly brought through open spaces in the crocheted.

Pockets Go Down

Pockets on beach togs have been lowered and lowered until now they have reached the knee.

SUMMER FURS TAKE STYLE SPOTLIGHT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fur in summertime is just one of the charming incongruities that makes fashion an ever-abiding source of interest and enthusiasm. If you would keep pace with the mode you must acquire a white ermine bolero or a cape of pointed fox for this summer. When fall comes you will be wanting one of the new hip-length jackets in brown fur, advance models of which have already arrived. White marabou or ostrich neckpieces, boleros and capes are also proving of immediate interest.

Bed Capes Used as Evening Wraps Over Summer Frocks

Recently some very cunning breakfast-in-bed capes have been brought out that are crocheted with tiers of little ruffles from neck to hemline. They are too lovely to be secluded in the boudoir, at least that is evidently the thought of young and daring daughters of the household who conceived the idea of appropriating these delectable capes for wear as evening wraps over their summer frocks, and from all reports the idea is working out to perfection.

'Forest Green' New Color For Girl Scout Uniforms

Forest green is the shade chosen for the new costume to be adopted by the 450,000 Girl Scouts throughout America. The dresses are in one piece, made on princess lines with a flared skirt, and short, slightly puffed sleeves. They are belted at the waist and zipped up the front to a close, rolled collar.

Boleros Popular

Boleros become increasingly important for summer fashions. They are worn equally often with evening clothes and informal daytime dresses, and they are made of everything from velvet to organdie.

Fall Tweeds Stress Color

High style tweeds which will appear soon for the fall market have wine, purple, green, pink blended together in stripe or in the patterns. Blues are especially stressed.

Lesson for August 14

THE RELATION OF TEMPERANCE TO CHARACTER

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 4:10-23; 1 Thessalonians 5:6-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.—Proverbs 20:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What a Wise Man Said.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Wise Man's Way.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Use of Liquor Affects Character.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How the Use of Liquor Affects Character.

Childhood remembrances are commonly sweet and precious—but some of them are vivid on the pages of memory because they relate to dangerous and distressing things. Among the things decent people avoided like the pestilence when the writer was a boy was the saloon. To be seen entering such places was to mark one's character, and to be a frequenter of them was to be lost to all that was good and holy.

High sounding and very pious were the assurances that when prohibition was repealed we would never see the return of the saloon, but we have them in multiplied number, and with a shameless appeal to women as well as men, to our growing girls and boys as well as to adults. Clever advertising has sought to make it "smart" to drink, and "manly" to be able to "carry" liquor. It is for that reason that it is of the utmost importance that we develop strong and intelligent character in our boys and girls—so that they may not only appraise the vicious "booze business" for what it really is, but also have the strength of character to fight it, not only for themselves, but for their weaker brother. They should know and proclaim that the saloon, whether it be called an "inn" or a "tavern," is always a "bar"—"A bar to Heaven, a door to Hell; Whoever named it named it well."

I. Developing Strength of Character (Prov. 4:10-23).
Solomon, the writer of many of the Proverbs, constantly stressed the importance of gaining wisdom. A man may be a perfect encyclopedia of information and yet may lack the wisdom to apply that knowledge to life. Dr. Hight C. Moore, in Points for Emphasis, provides a most helpful outline of this portion of Proverbs 4, which will assist the reader and teacher. He suggests that we must (1) "accept the challenge of a worthy goal, v. 10," by listening as a son to a father to the words which shall give us a long and happy life. Then we must (2) "follow the way of wisdom, vv. 11-13." It is a way that has been tested by those who have preceded us, and they have found it to be the right way. This will enable us to (3) "avoid the way of the wicked, vv. 14-17." Note the dreadful picture of those who not only do wickedness but delight in leading others into their evil paths, in fact they cannot sleep unless they have misled some poor soul. Shun that path, and (4) "irradiate the path to the larger life, vv. 18, 19." The way to life is a light path "that shineth more and more." The way of the wicked is stumbling and darkness. The devil and his followers are trying to make young people believe just the opposite. Let us teach them the truth that they may (5) "heed every syllable of all the words of God, vv. 20-23." Give attention to God's Word, listen to it, read it, keep it hidden in your heart. The heart in Scripture stands for the very center of man's spiritual being, out of which are all the issues of life. Evil thoughts, unholy desires and ambitions hidden there will ultimately be revealed in overt acts of ungodliness. Even so the Word of God hidden there will bring forth life.

The young man or woman who is thus taught God's Word in the home and the church will have an impregnable defense against the wiles and temptations of the world, the flesh, and the devil.

II. Exhibiting Strength of Character (1 Thess. 5:6-8).

The Lord is coming again! Paul was constantly looking forward to the day of His coming. It was not his lot to live until the Lord came, but he was not mistaken in looking for Him. The Lord has tarried, why only He knows, but it is the judgment of many excellent Bible expositors that the next great event to take place in divine history is His return. What a glorious hope! But while we await His coming we are not to sleep as those round about us. Watchfulness, sobriety of life, these become the Christian. Certainly nothing of the drunkenness of our day is to enter into the life of the Christian. He who belongs to Christ does not drink of the devil's "fire-water." But far more than that is in mind here, for the Christian is to go on in faith, love, and hope until he becomes "on fire" for God, burning with the passion of the Holy Spirit, not only for the salvation of the world, but for the development of true Christian character in those who have taken upon themselves the beautiful name of "Christian."

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Analyzes The Cereal Grains

Well Known Food Authority Describes Their Place in the Diet

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

6 East 39th Street, New York City.

TO ME, there is no more inspiring sight in the world than a field of nodding golden grain. It not only pleases the eye with its grace and profound beauty, but it attests to Nature's bounty. For down through the ages, grains have sustained and comforted man.

In every quarter of the globe, foods made from grain constitute the largest single item in the food supply. This is as it should be, for no other foodstuff affords such a rich store of fuel value at such little cost. It has been estimated that during one day's labor, an American farmer, growing wheat by up-to-date American methods, can produce enough protein and calories to sustain a man for a year.

A Source of Power and Pep

Every nation depends upon some form of cereal to furnish motive power for the body machinery—to provide necessary energy to keep body and brain functioning efficiently. In the Western world, wheat is supreme. But in Oriental countries, rice takes the lead and it is the chief article of food for half of the world's people. Rye, oats, barley, maize and buckwheat are likewise important crops.

Energy Values Compared

All uncooked cereal foods show great similarity in their chemical composition and therefore have very nearly the same energy value—that is about 1,650 calories per pound. The weight of a 100-calorie portion is about an ounce. But there is a wide variation in bulk, depending upon the degree to which the cereal has been refined. For example, three tablespoons of patent wheat flour weigh one ounce; one and one-fourth cups of a puffed wheat cereal likewise weigh one ounce. After cooking, there is a big variation in weight, as well as measure, owing to the varying amounts of water absorbed. Thus a cup of cooked oatmeal mush supplies the same number of calories as three tablespoons of a pebbly dry cereal with a nut-like taste.

From 8 to 12 per cent of the calories in cereal foods are obtained from protein and two noted invesfined, but as they contain larger amounts of protein, it is estimated that the amount of protein digested and absorbed from an equal weight of entire wheat or patent flours is practically the same. Thus when the two types of flours are considered as sources of protein and energy alone, they are regarded by nutritionists as substantially equivalent and interchangeable.

Many Forms of Cereal Foods

From infancy to old age, the cereal foods should, and usually do constitute the mainstay of the diet. Fortunately, there is such a wide variety from which to choose that there is little likelihood of monotony. Furthermore, because of their bland flavor, one does not readily tire of cereal foods.

In addition to the wide variety of breads, rolls, muffins, biscuits and griddle cakes that can be made from refined and whole grain flours, there are an astonishing number of cooked and uncooked cereals from which to choose. When served with milk, bread or cereals make an ideal and economical food combination.

Macaroni for a Main Dish

Besides serving as the main feature at breakfast and for the child's supper, cereal foods are useful as the chief attraction at dinner or supper when served in the form of macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles. They are a fine source of energy and also furnish about 12 per cent protein. When combined with cheese, which adds protein, minerals and vitamins, they constitute a balanced main dish.

Cereal products of all kinds deserve a ranking place among FOODS THAT KEEP US FIT.

Entered as second-class mail matter at the post office at Silvertown, Texas in accordance with an act of Congress on March 3, 1879.

Intellectually the difficulties of unbelief are as great as those of belief, while morally the argument is wholly on the side of belief.

I HEREBY RESOLVE—that this line shall remain in the Briscoe County News until our city managers start a little constructive work toward surfacing our streets, or at least until the death of Yours Truly. Dated this 9th day of June, 1938. (I've been wanting to know for a long time, how long a linotype slug will last.)

I TRY TO LIST in this column, all developments of the street paving. This week, we will consider the project in ten different ways, showing plainly just what is being done:

- (1)—Have spent over $100 in search for caliche pit.
- (2)—
- (3)—
- (4)—
- (5)—
- (6)—
- (7)—
- (8)—Sold several one-way plows.
- (9)—
- (10)—

AS YOU SEE, the boys are really making good progress. It sure is gratifying that such concerted action is being obtained by the men in charge, and it is my suggestion that the citizens of the city, join together and give a pink tea in honor of those who are responsible for the rapid development.

FINE PRINTING... NO JOB TOO SMALL

ROY TEETER JUST returned from a fishing trip in Colorado and while there ran across Judge Chapman and Judge Folley. He says that they fished all day and never got a one. And Teeter very modestly tells of his fine catch that he got with just plain old worms. He says: "They might be good judges in the court room but they are darn poor judges of what a trout wants to eat."

THERE'S AN EMPTY chair in each of two Silvertown homes—two lovely ladies who are sorrowing their hearts away, hoping and praying for the return of their loving husbands. Time stretches into eternal distances, meals go untouched, and daily tasks become mountainous enterprises, as they watch and pray for the safe return of the wanderers. Be brave and strong and true, fair hearts. Surely love shall be strengthened and faith shall grow brighter with each passing hour. And when the joyous hour of reunion shall come at last, all past trials and tribulations shall be as nothing—ahem!

DOWN WITH THE railroad! From the bottom of my heart, I cry. Any darn railroad that will have a wreck within an hour after I have printed my paper, is no friend of mine. I'll bet if the train had been on time, it would have happened soon enough for last week's paper.

OF COURSE, THERE'S no use telling about it, but the engine did jump the track here last Thursday. Nine hundred and sixty-one people were on hand to see it put back on the track. Nine hundred and sixty people told the boys how to get the job done. I didn't say a word.

HERE'S BAD NEWS for the kids who have to walk on the sidewalks. The Councilmen in an ad in this week's paper are warning the kids to stay off the sidewalks with bikes and skates. Parents are warned too—no more riding the sidewalks—and this time, I think they mean it.

PUSH THE PULLETS AND CULL THE DRONES

By T. C. Richardson, Secretary Breeder-Feeder Association

"A hen does not stop laying because she is molting, but molts because she has already stopped laying," says a poultry authority. Hens which begin molting in June, July or August brand themselves as short-season layers and if they have not already been culled out, and best be disposed of before the fall laying season. The feed they would eat can be better used by the pullets and hens which will molt later.

If these hens drones are not already fat it will take only a few days in the coop on a rich fattening ration to put them in condition to can for family use, or for market. It is mistaken poor economy to take a poor hen to market, or to put in a can one to thin to kill for Sunday dinner. City dealers know better than to offer their trade hens that are not fat. If they must buy them poor, they them up before offering them for sale, and they therefore buy thin hens with this extra expense in view. The farmer loses the sale of the few pounds of grain it would take to fatten them and pays the market man to do the job.

Fall and winter egg production, when the price is highest, comes from well developed pullets and late-molting hens. Most people prefer eggs from mature hens for early spring hatching, and those which have kept laying throughout the summer go into a late, but quick molt, and are likely to furnish the earliest hatching eggs. The same habit indicates a high annual egg production, which makes them the most desirable for producing next year's pullets.

Chickens, like people, must have a variety of food to keep healthy and vigorous. No one kind of grain will give them what they need, and while the ration should be built around the grains raised on the farm, as a matter of economical production, it is also poor economy to deprive either growing pullets or laying hens of other grains and mixed mash to supplement the corn or grain sorghums which nearly every Southwestern farmer grows. Wheat is the best single grain for poultry, but it too, must be supplemented by animal or vegetable proteins, which are best supplied by skim milk or scientifically compounded mash feeds. The label on mixed feed tells its composition.

However well the skilled poultryman gets along with a flock under close confinement, his intensive methods are not adapted to farm poultry production. Sunshine and green feed are the natural vitamin-carrying elements, and if the farm flock is given free access to them, while observing the same sanitary precautions of the poultry specialist, there is little doubt that the farm flock will be more resistant to disease, more productive in proportion to feed used, and therefore more profitable per hen than the "egg factory" type of operation.

The Southwest is fortunate in that green feed may be grown for use in every month in the year, thus avoiding much of the winter expense for sprouted grains; and its many sunny days throughout the cold season preparations for winter greens are in order, if alfalfa or sweet clover is not already growing it can be seeded as late as the first of September; mustard or turnips sown now will give quick greens and fill in the gap until wheat, oats, or barley are ready. Italian rye grass is making a good showing in most of the Southwest for winter pasture, and may be useful in the poultry run as in the field.

The land for fall and winter greens must be ready for the seed when the time comes. If it is not ready now it is not too soon to begin preparing the kind of seed bed suited to the crop which is to be sown. A good seed bed is half the job.

Rev. B. P. Harrison is leaving Friday to conduct a revival meeting in Collingsworth County. Rev. Harrison will be gone the rest of the month of August.

Mrs. Irene Aires of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Sark of Quiaque spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Diviney and Mr. and Mrs. Watson Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carter are the proud parents of a seven and one-half pound baby girl born early Monday morning. She has been named Gwendolyn Rose.

Rev. and Mrs. B. P. Harrison, Rev. Charles R. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. West and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Brown had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Springer at Kress last Wednesday.

Little Martha Jo Griffith is seriously ill. She was brought home from Lockney Saturday with 104 degree temperature. At last report the doctor didn't know what the trouble was.

Those attending the Floyd county Workers Meeting which was held at Flomot Tuesday were: Mrs. J. B. Garrison, Mrs. Keltz Garrison, Mrs. Clyde Hutsell, Mrs. Mattie Perry, Mrs. London, Helen Marie Blackwell, Mother Bomar, Rev. Rogers, Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Jackson, W. H. Jr. and Mary Ella.

3 WAYS SAFER

MANSFIELD
EXTRA MILEAGE Tires

● The Cord-Lock increases your safety 31%, because it puts more strong cord fabric into the sidewall to reinforce the tire for high speed service. That plus the welded steel wire bead, 7 times stronger than needed, and the Speed Grip tread, wide and deep channeled for greater non-skid mileage, are the reasons why Mansfield Tires are actually 3 ways safer. You always get more mileage than you pay for.

Eggs Are Going UP

This fall the price of eggs is bound to raise. Are you going to have any for sale, or will your hens be still getting their meals free? All hens should be paying their way this fall, and the time to make sure of it is NOW, by feeding the correct feeds and freeing them of disease.

The PURINA line of Chicken Feeds is very complete—and we can supply you at any time. Use a feed that has actually been proven to produce results.

Purina Feeds are priced low enough that when you consider the results, you can't afford not to feed it every day.

Shall U. S. Pay Your Doctor? Professional Opinion Divided

by Edward W. Pickard

A. M. A.'s PRESIDENT IRVING ABELL, EDITOR MORRIS FISHBEIN

Domestic

Modern medicine's biggest problem is the middle class, too prosperous for relief, too poor to pay its doctor bills.

In Chicago, A. M. A.'s headquarters, 30 physicians have been expelled since 1920 for operating low-cost clinics and advertising their services.

Last November a self-appointed committee of 430 doctors revolted against A. M. A.'s high ethical standards and took the stump favoring socialized medicine.

For six months an interested public has been forming opinions. Two weeks ago President Roosevelt's national health conference met at Washington under able Josephine Roche, former head of U. S. health activities as assistant secretary of the treasury.

From Mayo clinic's Dr. Hugh Cabot, leader of the revolting group, came a charge that the practice of medicine is "medieval" in parts of the U. S.

Although Jerome Hanna Dean had cost the Chicago Cubs $37,000 each time they used him this year, Owner Phillip K. Wrigley thought last week his investment was at least establishing some sort of record.

Last week A. M. A. found itself in an uncomfortable position. In Washington, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold announced that A. M. A. will be prosecuted as a monopoly under the federal anti-trust laws, accused of violating the law by boycotting low-cost clinics.

Specific grounds for the suit involved the Group Health association of the District of Columbia, organized last year by 2,500 government employees.

Trust Buster Arnold charged A. M. A. and the Medical Society of the District of Columbia had attempted to prevent the Group Health association from operating by cold-shouldering doctors.

As A. M. A. prepared its counter-attack, Thurman Arnold predicted the suit would have "far-reaching consequences on one of our most pressing problems."

Aviation

In Portland, Ore., one day last week, Major Howard C. French of the U. S. air reserve corps posed for his picture being "dragged" into a plane bound for San Francisco.

Next day he headed west over the Pacific in Pan-American's Hawaiian Clipper bound for Manila. Some 2,500 miles later the ship landed in Honolulu and took off for Midway island, 1,360 miles away.

But a few hours later the Clipper's radio went dead. After half a day anxious waiting, Pan-American advised the ship must be down at from Manila went the army transport Meigs and by dawn next day heavy warships were plowing the sea to reach the plane's last reported position.

Finally, in a spot where the water stood 5,000 fathoms deep, the Meigs struck a significant oil slick that indicated the Hawaiian Clipper had plummeted into the sea.

On page one, there was an account of the bitter factional fight within the Democratic ranks in Tennessee. Sen. George Berry was seeking re-election—rather, re-nomination—and Senator McKellar, his colleague, was fighting tooth and nail to prevent it.

Foreign

Already weary of hostilities in China, Japan wondered last week if she had a second war to fight. In isolated Manchukuo where 75-year-old Russo-Chinese boundary markers have long since been lost, Soviet and Jap troops were making much ado over a disputed hill near the village of Changkufeng.

Three clashes were reported in three days. As might be expected, both Moscow and Tokyo claimed victory and Moscow sent a "vigorous protest" which Japan rejected.

Next day Moscow answered with airplanes, bombing railways near Changkufeng. Tokyo claimed five ships were downed and Russia did its best to minimize the incidents.

Sports

Although Jerome Hanna Dean had cost the Chicago Cubs $37,000 each time they used him this year, Owner Phillip K. Wrigley thought last week his investment was at least establishing some sort of record.

Politics

During Pennsylvania's recent fiery primary campaign, charges were made that Gov. George H. Earle's forces had extorted money from state contractors and employees and "solid" legislation.

Two days later the Dauphin county court blocked this ambitious plan by impounding all evidence in the case and prohibiting the grand jury's witnesses from appearing before the legislative committee.

MIXTURE OF RELIEF CASH AND POLITICS DANGEROUS

Candidates' Methods of Influencing Voters Scored by Washington Observer; Suggests Return to Election of Senators by Legislatures

By WILLIAM BRUCKART

WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—I had finished reading my evening paper a few nights ago when I found myself quite down in the dumps.

Among the 27 speeches listed there, I decided to read that by the late Thomas R. Marshall. His address, like all of the others, was intended to preach good government and the obligations of the lawyer as well as the layman.

"I have only one apology that I know of to make for my political life. I apologize to the American people for having been in favor of the election of United States senators by the people."

Marshall's Apology

Thomas R. Marshall, Vice President of the United States in the Wilson administration, once said: "I have only one apology that I know of to make for my political life. I apologize to the American people for having been in favor of the election of United States senators by the people."

There were countless charges of the use of money, federal relief money, state payroll money, other money.

There was, likewise, a fight going on next door. In Kentucky, Gov. "Happy" Chandler was seeking the Democratic nomination to the senate and Sen. "Dear Alben" Barkley wanted to be renominated and re-elected.

Mr. Hopkins' Idea on Relief Votes Backfires

Here in Washington, there was the greatest spender of all time, Mr. Harry Hopkins, head of the Works Progress administration and professional reliever of destitute persons whether they are politicians or the poor.

Too Many Senators Out for Greatest Amount of Seag

I grant that corporations, "vested interests," formerly had too much to say about the election of United States senators by state legislatures.

In another place, I read how Governor Earle of Pennsylvania was calling the state legislature into special session there to enact laws that would prevent a grand jury from investigating some of the governor's acts.

There were other states involved, too. Senator McAdoo, who is seeking renomination as the Democratic senatorial candidate in California, was under fire.

At Dayton, Ohio, seventy-one-year-old Jeanette Reber Taylor sought her birth registration to apply for old age pension.

"Mountain Doom"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Samuel Johnson of Brooklyn, N. Y., has two hobbies and one of them was bound to get him into trouble sooner or later.

Sam's hobbies are skiing and mountain climbing and two more gorgeous sports I don't know of. You know what sort of a game skier anyone who has ever seen a news-reel of a bunch of ski jumpers down to be told it's a good idea to pay up your insurance before you go.

Mountain climbing is a little more than twice as dangerous as skiing. It's a yarn of mountain climbing with which Sam busts into the as a Distinguished Adventurer. For a good many years, Sam has been abroad, chiefly in Italy.

And one day in July, 1931, way up in the Italian Alps, he had a little adventure that almost culminated in his living nowhere—neither in Italy nor anywhere else.

Climbing the Doufoure Peak.

On that July day, four Italians—a doctor, a lawyer and two engineers—along with Sam, himself, set out to climb the Doufoure—the highest and most difficult peak in the Monte Rosa chain of Alps. They started out without professional guides, for all of them thought they were sufficiently expert at climbing to get along without them.

Sam takes time out here to explain that it was absolutely necessary to reach that peak before eleven a. m. For from that hour to the afternoon the sun is at its height, melting the snow and letting great avalanches that come crashing down the mountain-side carry thousands of tons of rock, dirt and ice along with them.

The five men climbed until daybreak. "And all at once," Sam says, "the strenuous work we had done climbing to this point, was rewarded by the magnificent spectacle that unfolded before our eyes. The early sun was shining on Monte Rosa and because of some phenomenon the whole mountain chain became a deep rose color—something that gives those peaks their name. We kept on going. By seven o'clock after trying to make headway in snow two or three feet deep in places we seemed still to be a great distance from the peak. That didn't worry us. From the position we were in it was next to impossible to judge distance—even our direction. But by nine o'clock—"

Lost and Cut Off by Avalanche.

By nine o'clock that peak didn't seem any nearer than it had seven. They knew they were lost then—and they were thoroughly frightened. They were at an altitude of about twelve thousand feet, and night spent in the intense cold at that level was pretty sure to be

A terrific avalanche roared past them.

"To build a fire," says Sam, "is impossible. There is nothing to be seen. They were at an altitude of about twelve thousand feet, and night spent in the intense cold at that level was pretty sure to be

They climbed for two more hours—and by that time they were all but exhausted. They stopped to rest on a ledge of rock, and suddenly a terrific avalanche roared past them not a hundred yards away. It was eleven o'clock—the deadline for mountain climbers—the time when they ran for cover if there was any cover to run to.

"The slide," says Sam, "crossed the path of the trail we had been coming up. If we had been delayed just a few minutes I rather believe our bodies would now be reposing on some glacier under that thousand tons of rock and ice. We didn't dare travel after that. From then on we were carried away by another avalanche. At three we started out again, trying to find the lost trail. We didn't find it—and to make matters worse, the sun was sinking rapidly and it was getting colder by the second."

Took Refuge in a Cave.

The situation was serious. Sam and his companions decided something certainly should be done about it. But what? None of them knew of any cave or hole in the mountain for the night—able chance on being alive in the morning. Three men rose to find a suitable place to dig in, but two of them lay still on the ice—too exhausted to move on.

With difficulty the others got them to their feet. Practically carrying them, they moved on across a glacier, looking for a cave. Although they didn't know it then, it was that move that saved all their lives.

They found a cave and huddled into it. They didn't dare go to sleep. They'd freeze to death. Their food supply had run out by that time, and the gnawing pains of hunger added to their intense misery. The suffering of that night, Sam says, no one could ever describe. But at six the morning they saw five black figures moving across the ice toward them.

The black figures were five professional guides. Down in Macugnana someone with a pair of powerful binoculars had seen them as they pushed across that last stretch of glacier. The guides—men of remarkable endurance—had climbed all night long to reach them before the avalanche. They literally carried the five men down the mountain and rushed them to a hospital, where one member of the party had a leg amputated, another a hand, and a third, all the toes off both feet. Luckily for Sam Johnson, the sawbones didn't have to do any work on him.

The Eternal

Over the triple doors of the Milan cathedral there are three inscriptions spanning the splendid arches. Over one is carved a wreath of roses: "All that which pleases is but for a moment." Over the other there is a sculptured cross, and underneath are the words: "All that which troubles is but for a moment." While underneath the great central entrance to the main aisle is the inscription: "That only is important which is eternal."

Guarding the Inca Capital

Guarding Cuzco, the Inca empire's capital, is the cleverly planned and skillfully constructed gigantic fortress of Sacsahuaman, with immense stones fitted together like pillows, without the use of mortar or cement. Cuzco is a medieval Spanish city built on the ruins of the buildings of the ancient capital. Inca stonework is topped with stucco residences built with balconies and grided windows.

Derivation of Color Names

Some color names have curious derivations. Magenta, for instance, was named after the color of blood worn by soldiers at the battle of Magenta. Carnation, the color, comes from the Latin carnea, meaning flesh color, and was used in England as far back as 1538. Green, says Pearson's London Weekly, is one of nature's most abundant colors. There are about 3,000 different shades of green.

"Yes, yes, was there a rumor I been sick?" Jeff drawled.

"Have you seen Father? He burst ahead of us to help you."

"I've heard him. Listen," three times a revolver barked.

"It was up at the head of the street, somewhere near the Nugget," Bob said.

"I had guessed accurately. The man from that gun had been fired into the body of Sherm."

"I'd better find your father, first," Gray said. "He was fighting the Ransom house half an hour ago. We might take a look at that way."

"My sister is here, too. I want to see her," Gray said.

"I've just left her."

"She is moving through the cotton-wood, Gray riding behind Bob. In the shadow of the moonlight they caught sight of men approaching.

"Who goes there?" Gray shouted.

"The voice of Chiswick answered. It will be near enough, if you're looking for trouble."

"Are L C men, Father," Bob said.

"Bob—and Pat—and the other."

"Someone in Lee's party let out a cry of delight. In another moment two groups had mingled.

"You have a wounded man," Jeff looked down at a form slumped on a door.

"You should know it, boy," a voice answered. "You were there when I got the pill."

"Gray found himself trembling. He swung back of Bob and walked forward. For an instant he had not been sure this was a voice from the dead.

"Is it you, Hank?" he asked. "I thought it was me."

"Chiswick and his partner got to the cabin in time to see the blacksmith being carried to the blacksmith house and put him into the next one occupied by Jeff Connor.

"Hank showed up, white-faced. 'You has been hurt?' she asked.

"Hank Ransom. If you can't stay with Hank and his nurse him," Chiswick told his partner. "Can't afford to leave a man like that."

"We're liable to be mighty busy when day breaks, and that will be soon. Our friends from the Nugget and the Lazy B ought to be here. We'll have from twenty to thirty men."

"Where going to be a fight?" she asked.

"Gray is a low voice."

"An answered gravely. 'Up to you, Hank?'"

"You mean—a battle?"

"Not if I can help it. If we're fighting enough the outlaws will give up."

"But I mean to capture Howard, Norris, Duke, Mile High, and the three others. They are desperate men. I wouldn't expect them to surrender tamely."

"They may run away."

"Then I'll have to run after them. I'm sorry. He smiled at her. "This job is almost done."

From doors and windows up and down the street on both sides they could see men peering at them. Mile High came into the open.

"You can't see Sherm. He's dead."

"Chiswick stared at the lank puncher. "Dead?"

"That's what I said."

"This was stunning news. Jeff had depended upon Howard. Villain though the man was, he was a shrewd and wily schemer who used his brains. Sherm knew that wholesale killing in the open would be fatal to his cause. It would be his policy to avoid it and depend upon trickery to escape later. If it was true that he was dead, his influence against explosive violence would be lost. The marshal felt as does a man who has walked into a den of lions under a safeguard from the trainer, to discover too late that the man with the whip is not at hand to defend him.

In the air there was an electric tension such as that which just precedes a storm. Both the officer and the cattleman knew that neither of them would walk back down Main street again unless they did so as survivors of the gun duel that was imminent. Gray felt there might be one chance, not to escape a —shouts—oaths—hideous faces looming out of the fog. Jeff met Mile High and felt the crash of a gun-barrel on his hat. He closed with the tall puncher and clung fast to him, swaying with dizziness and hanging to the pistol arm that waved wildly trying to get a shot into Gray's body. Another face came out of the mist. An arm swept up and down. Mile High's grip relaxed. He staggered against a wall and slid down.

The noise of the guns had died down. Men came out from open doors cautiously, no weapons in their hands. Only three of the outlaws had taken part. Norris lay still in the dust. Mile High was unconscious, pistol-whipped. Clint Duke had vanished.

"All right with you?" Jeff asked his companion.

"Fine. And you?"

"Gray's head was getting clearer. He stepped across to Norris and examined him. The killer was dead.

"Where is Duke?" the marshal asked harshly, speaking to all within hearing.

"He ran into Sanger's," someone said.

Jeff said to the cattleman, "Hang on to Mile High," and walked into Yell Sanger's store.

Duke was trying frantically to unbar the back door. He turned, crouched and panic-stricken, to meet the man advancing on him.

"Keep back!" he yelled, and fired.

A moment later he dropped, a bullet hole in his forehead.

The marshal steadied himself against the counter, then turned and walked slowly back to the street. He looked round on those in sight.

"Any more of you want to bust me wide open?" he asked grimly.

Nobody accepted the invitation. All men knew that law had arrived at Tail Holt to stay.

Jeff gave curt orders. "Every man of you shuck his guns. I'll put one of my boys in Sanger's store to check them when you turn them over. There will be no more belling around. Inside of two-three hours I'll let you know who I want. The rest of you will be free to go."

He put handcuffs on Mile High. Already the cowboys were arriving on the run. Chiswick held up a restraining hand.

"Hold your horses, boys," he said. "Everything is fine and dandy. A few of the dime-novel bad boys got all het up and we had to knock their ears down. The rest of the lads have decided to be good."

Jeff took over the Golden Nugget and the other saloons. None of the Tail Holt gang made any open opposition.

Before the hour was up, a dozen of the rustlers and outlaws were riding into the brush. It was time to be seeking other pastures.

Ruth met Jeff at the front door of Presnell's and drew him into the sitting-room.

"Are you all right—you and Father both?" she asked anxiously.

"All right," he answered cheerfully. "And our job is done. The boys will eat out of our hands now."

"Frank told me," she cried softly. "It was a crazy thing you and Father did. You promised..."

"So I did. We wouldn't have gone if we had known Sherm Howard was dead. But it turned out fine."

"Yes. Yes." She went on, with a little flare of possessive feminine ferocity. "But I won't have you doing things like that... now."

"Never again," he promised, smiling into her troubled eyes. "I've been talking with yore father. I'm going to quit the service and go into cattle."

"Thank God."

"You won't be afraid to marry me then, will you?"

Courage was in her eyes like a banner. For better or worse he was to be her man, as long as life lasted. She came to him, with a little gesture of surrender that won his heart.

He closed with the tall puncher.

He closed with the tall puncher.

Washington Letter to Blair Lobbied for Traders Over Indian Boundary Line

A letter written 170 years ago by George Washington, lobbying for the Virginia traders over a proposed Indian boundary line, came to light recently in the William L. Clements library, notes an Ann Arbor correspondent in the Detroit Free Press.

The British government was about to draw a boundary line west of which no white settlers would be allowed, leaving the territory entirely to the Indians. Some Virginian friends of Washington were furnishing provisions to the British garrison at Fort Pitt and feared that the proposed line would leave part of their route, in what is now southwestern Pennsylvania, in the closed territory.

The Virginian merchants, urging Washington to use his influence with Blair to reach General Gage, were anxious to keep the Cumberland-Pittsburgh route open because their Pennsylvania competitors would not be affected by the proposed boundary line, and Washington was to ask Gage whether three or four supply stations could be maintained along the Virginians' route.

Blair had seen the Board of Trade report, but sent Washington's letter to Gage anyway, and soon had a reply that the Virginian trade route would remain open. Unfortunately, four years later, Fort Pitt was abandoned, so that Washington's friends kept their trade route but lost their trade.

Washington's letter instead of a copy, was sent to Gage because Blair was pressed for time.

A letter written 170 years ago by George Washington, lobbying for the Virginia traders over a proposed Indian boundary line, came to light recently in the William L. Clements library, notes an Ann Arbor correspondent in the Detroit Free Press.

The British government was about to draw a boundary line west of which no white settlers would be allowed, leaving the territory entirely to the Indians. Some Virginian friends of Washington were furnishing provisions to the British garrison at Fort Pitt and feared that the proposed line would leave part of their route, in what is now southwestern Pennsylvania, in the closed territory.

The Virginian merchants, urging Washington to use his influence with Blair to reach General Gage, were anxious to keep the Cumberland-Pittsburgh route open because their Pennsylvania competitors would not be affected by the proposed boundary line, and Washington was to ask Gage whether three or four supply stations could be maintained along the Virginians' route.

Blair had seen the Board of Trade report, but sent Washington's letter to Gage anyway, and soon had a reply that the Virginian trade route would remain open. Unfortunately, four years later, Fort Pitt was abandoned, so that Washington's friends kept their trade route but lost their trade.

Washington's letter instead of a copy, was sent to Gage because Blair was pressed for time.

NOSE COUNTERS

IN UNCLE SAM'S census bureau at Washington America's official nose counters are already preparing for the 1940 population check, a stupendous job that requires intricate equipment, skilled workers. From all corners of the nation come census reports. These are sorted, checked, edited, and finally translated into figures on the card puncher below.

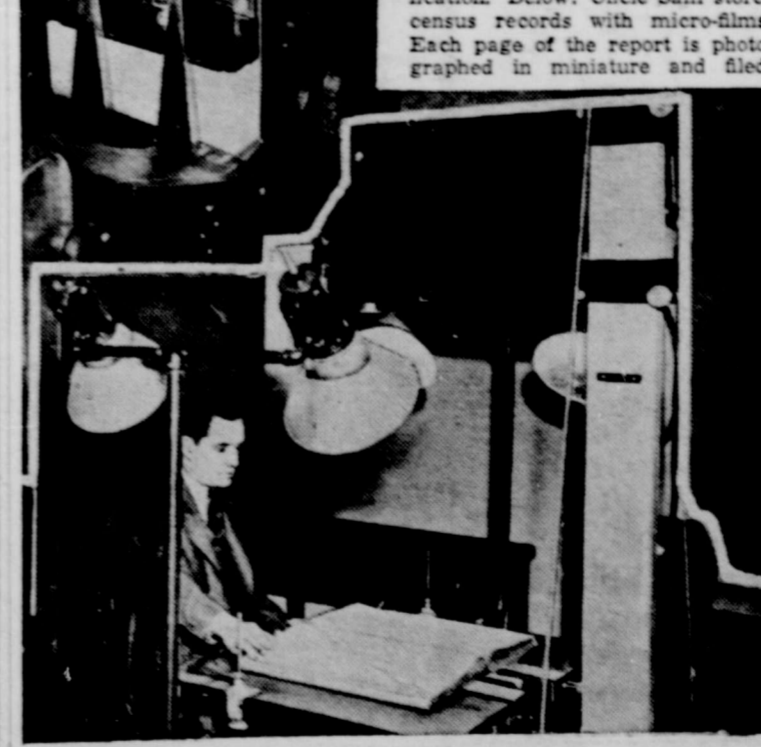

Information compiled each 10 years by the U. S. census bureau finds its way into thousands of hands and is used for thousands of constructive purposes. The bureau provides Uncle Sam's only method of discovering what his people are doing, and of uncovering the popular trends of the times. More frequent "nose counts" have often been proposed.

Picture Parade

Here is a "gang puncher" which records identical information on any given group of punch cards, such as states, cities, kinds of businesses, etc. Later cards are run through an electrical tabulator which adds figures for final publication. Below: Uncle Sam stores census records with micro-film. Each page of the report is photographed in miniature and filed.

Caution and Chance

Some get ahead through caution, and some do it by the opposite.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Wasting

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your druggist!

INTERESTING LETTER FROM PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Rice Terraces. People who have traveled the world over, say that they consider the rice terraces of Infugao land among the wonders of the world. The mountains are cut into a series of flat shelf-like steps, held in position by stone walls which are so well constructed that they have withstood the elements for centuries. The terraces completely encircle the peaks which cover the Infugao Country. It is said that if the supporting embankments were placed end to end they would reach from the Philippines to San Francisco, to New York and to England. They would extend for more than 12,000 miles or about half way around the world. The Rice Terraces were made by the native, half naked Ifugaos centuries ago. The Ifugaos used to be head hunters, however, this favorite "outdoor sport" isn't practiced any more, that is to speak of anyway. The terraces were built by hand and are a beautiful piece of engineering, each shelf is walled in with stone and earth, the wall being in some places a foot or more thick and many feet high. Each shelf is covered with rice plants in beds of water and mud, when I was there the rice was about a foot high making the entire mountain a beautiful green, that is considered the best time to see them. The terraces are so skillfully constructed that not a drop of water is allowed to go to waste. Water is turned in and just the right quantity used and the surplus passed on to the terrace below through a system of canals and ditches, some of the canals are several miles long. The work of planting and raising the rice is all hand work. It is said that no people have made a more heroic effort to raise their own food than these people. Possessing almost no level land they built and irrigated these rice terraces. Twice they gave up the struggle and went to the lowlands but were driven back by disease that almost exterminated them.

These people are mahogany color, black hair, dark eyes, aquiline nose, thin lips. The men dress in a gee string and the women in the straight piece of material for a skirt. Sometimes the women wear a jacket but more often there is nothing above the waist, except a coat of tattooing and a coil of brass around the forearms from the wrist to elbow. The women wear many strands of beads around the neck and woven in the hair, the men wear the funniest kind of a little hat on the back of their head. They live according to established laws and customs. They are rich in traditions folklore. Before the Americans came, they had no form of writing, and the laws were passed down by word of mouth, so that they developed marvelous memories. Of course now, they are building schools and educating them as fast as possible, but they very much resent being interfered with. Gradually they are becoming christianized and educated and I suppose in time they will lose all their romantic pagan color, become "tourist conscious" already the young ones gather around your car crying "money, money, money". I am glad that I have seen them as they are for I have some idea of how they must have been before people went in and tried to "civilize" them.

It was a grand trip and I enjoyed every bit of it, I only wish that you could have been with me, for it sounds dull, but it was very beautiful and interesting, I wouldn't have missed it for anything.

Well I guess I have made this just about long enough, I have seen some very interesting things since I have been out here, but will wait until I get home to tell you about them, they always sound so dull and uninteresting when I try to write about them.

I should be getting my orders soon, I can hardly wait to find out where I am going, I suppose I will be disappointed where ever it is, but I will be glad to get back on the Pacific where ever I go. I am looking forward to making first contact. I hope things quite down in China before we get there, I would hate for one of those Japs to take a shot at me, and me on my way home.

I had a Clipper letter from Ruby today, she said she was looking for you to come down there, so you may be there by the time this reaches you, if not send it on to her and Bess they might like to hear and it will save me having to write another letter, I hate to struggle with it.

Love,
Odessa

QUALITY COTTON

More than 20 regional meetings have been held this season by ginners in the interests of more careful handling of cotton on the farm and at the gin, and 14 additional meetings are scheduled, according to F. E. Lichte, ginning specialist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. The meetings have been attended by 2,800 ginners and other representatives of the industry.

"Texas has been making considerable headway in increased plantings of quality strains of cotton, but this is a slow process," Lichte stated. "Quality cotton the way back, but in the meantime we can improve the quality of our cotton tremendously by proper handling."

"Picking the cotton clean and dry is the responsibility of the grower. Most ginners, by the use of impressed equipment and cleaning machinery, are doing a great deal to maintain quality."

"Sometimes it almost seems that each new advance in ginning equipment results in more careless handling of cotton on the farm."

Modern equipment will provide higher grade lint from damp or moderately trashy cotton, but no machinery has been developed that can dry wet cotton or clean roughly harvested cotton to give lint equal in quality to that ginned from dry, cleaned-picked cotton, Lichte warned.

Already 550 of the 12,700 gins in the Cotton Belt are using the driers developed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Of these, 273 are in use in Texas' 3,564 gins.

The ordinary temperature of the drying air should not be over 160 degrees and over, in the case of very wet cotton, air-temperature should not exceed 200 degrees. Excessive temperatures, Lichte pointed out, injures the cotton fiber.

Rev. B. P. Harrison was called to Channing Thursday to conduct the funeral services of Mr. Blackwell, one of his friends and former members; Mrs. Harrison and Wayland accompanied him.

This ONE Machine Does EVERYTHING
But Harvest the Crop

(Below) With seven 3-in. Furrow Openers, Parker Wheels and Seed Box for seeding operation.

DEMPSTER TILLING DAMMING and DEEP FURROW SEEDING MACHINE

YOU need only this one machine to do every job from one wheat harvest to the next... and to follow the new system of farming that directly decreases the weather gamble. Think of the money you save not having to buy several machines... of the time, labor and fuel saved by doing several jobs in one operation.

HERE'S WHAT IT DOES—With machine shown above you go into the stubble field immediately after harvest—cultivate, forming furrows and damming in one operation so that ground is ready to catch and hold moisture. Later you can level ridges and prepare excellent seed bed with trash on top to prevent soil-blowing. Then with machine as shown below you do an ideal job of seeding, depositing seed in wide, 6-in. moist, seed bed, covering seed uniformly with moist soil.

The DEMPSTER is ideal for summer fallow for seeding row crop for spring wheat planting. The only machine of its kind with independent bottoms making it ideal for contour farming.
